No one was reported injured. The fire, fed by wooden cases and packing material, sent out 40-foot tongues of flame that soon reduced the structure to nothing but bare walls.

Hard-Hitting Montreal Line

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

With 62 men pounding out 600 or better scores, last night's trundlers put on the best exhibition of pin busting seen this year. Two of the above number went well into the 800 column, while fifteen others topped the 700 mark.

But Weese of the City League draped hardwood right on the rafters when he smashed 896 pins; his big count sending Tommy Miller's 882 of a week ago to the ash-can for this year. Les Calladine of the 9.30 C.G.E. League was also in fine form—his performance is getting to be a habit—this week he knocked over 833 (303).

The first league of 16 teams from the C.G.E. saw G. A. Low lay over 759 (301); Joe Marsden 729; Lefty Kearns 714; Art Heal 712; A. Ferguson 678; G. Jay 669; A. Thompson 664; G. LaPlante 663; R. Pilling 655; W. A. Masters 654; W. Harris 641; F. Doris 636; B. E. Burgess 624; J. W. Copping 619; B. Ashmore 613; T. McPhate 612 and A. Mackey 604.

Heavy hitting was also shown in 8 teams of bankers. J. Gray of the Nova Scotia and Toronto combines hammered off 751, and Newby of the Montreal (Simcoe street) 654.

In the 9.30 ten team C.G.E. loop with Calladine topping the list of specialists, Frank Woods had 733; Jack Playford 699; H. Darling 696; G. Walton 690 (302); A. Abraham 682; C. O'Donnell 655; J. Grierson 651 (314); E. Johnson 647; C. A. Lister, 643; R. Clyde 642; F. G. Parsons 634; K. Whatley 611; C. Baker 606; C. Kearns 606; A. Mattuci and D. Whatman 602 each.

A usually good score in any other league was no good in the City Loop, as witnessed in the battle between the Examiner and K. of C. Bowling Alley teams. Wyllie, Holyman and Scates all packed in wallopers, but got nowhere against a 3693 total stacked on top of them. The above K. of C. act bettered their last week's performance by 43 pins, when they ganged up on the Barbers for 3650. The Capitol Grill and Pattenick's store teams took their points on a fifty-fifty basis, Chuck Kearns 313 singe in the final chucker offset the steady pressure of the five Grill men. Grafton's, sporting the latest in bowling attire, after losing the first round to Duffus Recreation by a few pins, turned on the pressure and collared the big end of points.

Fowler's Barbers were hounded to the last pin by the new I.A.C. entry, but walked out with four well-earned points.

Famous Cricketer Has Retired

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 4. — (CP Cable.)—William A. Oldfield, for years without a peer as a wicket-keeper, to-day announced his retirement from first-class cricket. The famous New South Wales' International player celebrated his 41st. birthday, Sept. 9.

Oldfield's polished and undemonstrative work behind the wicket kept Australia strong in this department for 16 years.

Oldfield, a sports outfitter in Sydney was a member of the Australian Imperial Forces team that toured England in 1919. During the war he served in Egypt and France, on one occasion narrowly missing death when he was buried during a bombardment at Polygon Wood.

Old Hockey Stars Fade Into Minors

MONTREAL, Nov. 4— (CP). — Veterans all, Dave Trottier, Alan Shields and Gus Marker appear to be headed for the minor hockey leagues.

The trio, all that remains of Montreal Maroons to show the power they once were in the National Hockey League, have been waived from the league. They alone went unsold when Maroon players were placed on the block following the surrender of the team franchise for a couple of years.

Negotiations are underway for their sale to Claveland Barons of the International-American league.

Woman Step-dances On 82nd Birthday

FAIRMOUNT, Nov. 4.—Mrs. William Johnston celebrated her 82nd birthday at the residence of her son, Fred Johnston, on the 13th concession of Cavan on Saturday, October 29, where she has resided since her marriage 61 years ago. A surprise party was sponsored by her daughters-in-law, and a large number of immediate friends were present.

A fowl dinner with a suitable birthday cake was served, after which the evening was spent in songs, speeches and dancing. Mrs. Johnston step-danced to the tune of "Soldier's Joy." Music was supplied by the Johnston orchestra. This farm has been under the name of Johnston for the past 147 years.

Masquerade Held By Springbrook W.I.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Nov. 4—The Springbrook Women's Institute held their annual hollowe'en masquerade party at the Orange Hall on Monda night with an attendance of over a hundred. The judges were Miss Eva Casey, teacher at Sprys school, Mrs. Fred Bateman and Ross Baily. The most unique, costume, was won by Don Brvadmonth; best comic, Russel Reid; W. I. members, Mrs. W. J. Barlow, best dressed couple, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Percy Mumby as aged couple. Teen age girl, Bessie McMullen; teen age boy, Clayton Thompson; girl under ten years of age, Gwen Fleming; boy under ten, Lloyd Barton; lucky spot, Mrs Thomas H. McKeown. The program consisted of song and dance, Mrs. Georgia Rutherford; song and dance Dorothy Spencer; solo, by J. F. Baker.

It's a case of win the batting crown and cop the most valuable player award...or almost. Following the awarding of the National league trophy to Ernie Lombardi, Jimmy Foxx, ABOVE, slugger de luxe who guards first base for Boston Red Sox, was voted winner in the American loop. Jimmy had a great season last summer, taking the batting title and having a wide margin in runs batted in. It is the third time he has won the award.

Equal to Big Canals

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Nov. 4—(CP).—Cargoes transported through the Welland ship canal in October equalled the average monthly records of the Panama and Suez canals, waterway officials said today. The tota ltonnage of cargo was more than 2,000,000.

The October figure was an all-time high for the Welland Canal. Previous record of 1,731,237 tons was set in May, 1938. Tonnage for last years was 1-1,747,950, while until the end of October the 1938 total was 10,782,950 tons.

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)

FIRST THING Joe Louis said when they told him his next opponent would be John Henry Lewis was: "But I don't see how I can fight him. We're too good friends. I always watch his fights and he watches mine."

But Joe thought it over for a minute and told his manager, John Roxborough: "It's all right, I'll fight him. It's just a fight, and that's my business. Man I'd most like to fight, though, is that Tommy Farr."

The big Negro champion has matured in a lot of ways lately, but he still swells up slightly when he thinks about Farr having stayed with him for 15 rounds. Farr has a rasping tongue, and it seems he said some things to Joe in the course of their little airing that Joe hasn't forgiven.

Guilty of Arson

GUELPH, Ont., Nov. 4—(CP).—Richard Ferrier, 17-year-old Maryboro township youth, who according to crown attorney Kearns, K.C., liked to see things "blaze up" pleaded guilty today to three charges of arson. He was remanded to Nov. 10 for sentence.

The lad set fire to the barn of Hugh Reed, to four stacks of hay owned by Thomas A. Buchan and a pile of fence rails owned by Calvert Scarr, all of the Drayton district.

Need New Blood For Orillia Team Says Ivan Dick

ORILLIA, Nov 3—(Special)—"We must get rid of a number of 'old crocks' if we are going to have a winning team," said Ivan Dick, Secretary-Treasurer of the Orillia Terrier Lacrosse Club, in relation to senior players here last night at an open meeting for the election of 1939 officers.

"We'll need to import five or six new players for next year, and then, too, there is the question of a new coach," he said. At which several others present said they did not believe a coach, if he were to get the best out of his team, could also play. In the 1938 season playing coach Bucko MacDonald, Detroit Red Wing hockey star, was mentor for the senior Terriers.

President Dr. C. S. Wainwright, however, stated that it would be up to the new executive to decide whether they got a new coach or not.

At the meeting, last year's executive, with the exception of honorary and vice-presidents, were returned as a whole without designation as to what office each would hold, and with the power to decide this later on, and also to elect new members to their number for the purpose of getting new blood into the organization.

The club ended the year's activities with $6 in the treasury, and all debts paid.

MAPLE LEAFS DROP N.H.L. OPENER IN TORONTO TO THE BRUINS

Bruins Grab Opener 3-2 On Leafs And Do It Minus Shore; Hawks Swamp Amerks By 6-1

It must be a little cold and gloomy for Eddie Shore in Boston today as he watches and waits for word from Manager Art Ross of the Bruins, who was supposed to need old Eddie in the worst sort of way.

Maybe Shore paces the floor a little as he ponders the life of a National Hockey League holdout. A one-man picket line on behalf of a higher wage rate for defencemen, he has just experienced all the joy of a swift kick in the pants.

Slipping young Johnny Crawford into Eddie's place, the Boston club started another season last night with a 3-2 victory over the Maple Leafs in Toronto. And the Bruin defencemen showed they might be able to carry on without the aged war-horse by scoring all their team's goals, Crawford nicking the first in the second period.

The Bruins wanted that one badly after losing three straight to the Leafs in playoffs last spring. They won it the hard way, coming from behind a Toronto lead in the third to win on a goal.

Chicago Black Hawks, the Stanley Cup holders, packed scoring punch both on the defence and up front as they swarmed over New York Americans to a 6-1 win before the largest opening-night crowd in Chicago's history, 15,482 fans. It was a new display of power for the Hawks, who scored on the Americans five times all last season.

Rookie Goalie Goes Well

Boston was given dependable service by a rookie forward line of Mel Hill, Pat McReavy and Roy Conacher, and better than that by Frank Brimsek, rookie goalie who replaced the injured Tiny Thompson and lived up to everything they said about him.

A crowd of 10,000 watched Crawford, a Toronto boy who played with Brimsek at Providence last winter, backhand a relay from Ray Getliffe and Bill Cowley past Turk Broda for the season's first goal. A minute later, with the second period 11 minutes old, Syl Apps tied the score by splitting the defence after taking Bob Davidson's pass.

A game that had been tame took on new life and Dit Clapper and Bingo Kampman came out of one melee with minor penalties, then Clapper left Boston short-handed again with a penalty for charging Red Horner.

Just 17 seconds after the third opened and with Portland off for tripping, Davidson ripped home Murphy Chamberlain's pass on a power play. But a sentence to Gordie Drillon, who served only four minutes in penalties all last term, gave the Bears the opening to tie. Clapper did it through a maze of legs.

Portland was left uncovered when the Bruins bore down again and he netted Bill Cowley's pass from 10 feet out.

Cup Is Presented

Gabby Hartnett, manager of Chicago's National League baseball champions, presented the Stanley Cup to Manager Bill Stewart of the Hawks before the start at Chicago. Then the home team dug in to score twice in the first period through Cully Dahlstrom and Johnny Gottselig of the third forward line.

Art Wiebe charged up from the defence to make it 3-0 in the second and Roger Jenkins finished off that period with a goal aided by Paul Thompson. Mush March increased the lead in the final period before Hooley Smith spanked home the only New York goal. Baldy Northcott completed the rout aided by Earl Robinson and Russ Blinco, a couple of veterans who came with Northcott from the defunct Montreal Maroons this fall.

Revamp Orfuns For Nats Game

A revamped Orfuns' football team will take the gridiron here tomorrow, at 2.30 in the Exhibition Grounds, against the undefeated Montreal Nationals in the last senior O.R.F.U. game to be seen in Peterborough this year. Eddie Murphy and Curly Krug will probably divide the quarter-back duties, with Coach Bill Irwin lending his experience up on the line. Mike Loucks is unlikely to play for the Petes, owing to a knee injury—or if he is on hand, he will be used sparingly. The local backfield will consist of Don Crowe, Mick Magee, Gord McIntyre and Johnny Shields. The strongest possible line will start the game, and alternates are likely to see plenty of action in the heavy going. The Orfuns are determined to go out there and fight hard, using trick plays freely, and they feel they have a chance of copping the nod—if given a few breaks.

Coach Foster of the Nats is bringing his full team here for this fixture. Ed Barnabe is at quarter with Ferraro, Riddell, Atcheson and Mullins the halves. Ryan is snap, flanked by Ferry and Fleming, with Burns and Davies the middles. Outsides are Hutton and Burton, and Hempey is flying wing. This is a starry aggregation of big, experienced gridders. The game rates a record crowd of fans.

Remember When—

Jack McAuliffe, one of the world's greatest lightweight boxers in the bare knuckle era, died at his Forest Hill, N.Y., home one year ago to-day. He retired in 1892 but four years later fought a sixround no-decision bout with Kid Lavigne and left the ring for good with an unblemished record. He was 72 years old.

Bowling Club Holds Bridge

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Nov. 4.—Madoc Ladies' Bowling and Bridge Club held a unique Hallowe'en bridge party at the hospitable home of Mrs. T. E. Burnside. Among those present were the ever reliable witch, while hob goblins, pages, grand dames, negro boys, sailor lassies and old-fashioned maids (without their beaus) and fortune tellers, who were well represented.

Progressive bridge was played, the prize being awarded to Mrs. R. S. Beatty. A delightful lunch was served and a happy social hour spent at the close.

Masquerade Dance.

A masquerade dance was held in auditorium of Madoc High School on Friday, Oct. 28th, with excellent music furnished by Mrs. Vernon Reid, J. Kincaid and Mr. Johnston.

Many excellent costumes were presented, making it difficult to select a winner. Prizes were awarded to Miss Betty McCoy of Madoc and Mr. Presley Nickle, of Eldorado both junior pupils. A good time was enjoyed by all and an excellent lunch served.

McIlmoyle-Amato Fight Held Here

One of the hardest hitters among local fighters in recent years is Dutch McIlmoyle, who fights Bill Amato of Toronto in one of the main bouts of tonight's Riverview A.C. boxing card at the Brock St. rink. The 165-pound slugger from Peterborough is out tonight to wipe out the memory of a couple of unsatisfactory previous fights, when fouls won him questionable decisions — Toronto pugs hitting him low. It should be a clean hard-hitting and exciting five-round scrap. Nick Orlando, local lightweight, meets Scotty McDonald, 135 of Toronto, in the other main melee and it should be a fine battle, too. In the semi-final, two real sluggers, Harry Low, local 147-pounder, and Harry Kiel, 149 of Toronto, tangle and this bout threatens to steal the thunder from the others.

The Riverview A.C. has lined up a card which promises to be a real crowd-pleasing one, and the program, starting at 8.30, at popular prices, should draw a huge crowd. Ken Roy, 147, meets Eddy Curtain in the last prelim; preceded by Joe Hobbins, 136, and Bill Joiner, Buddy Redmond, 80, fights Izzy McIntosh, while the curtain-raiser is between Gord Riel, 105, and Dan McGregor. These prelims ought to be lively fights all the way and fans are sure to see several good fights on the card.

One Of Main Cogs In Orfuns' Machine

Harry Marsh, 195-pound secondary defence star of the Orfuns, will be one of the main cogs in the local machine which meets Montreal Nationals here to-morrow. Marsh has been playing fine football with the surprising Orfuns, and he may be on the throwing end of the locals' forward-passing attack Saturday against the undefeated Nats.

All Eyes On Sarnia Imps Saturday As Smooth Beaches Go After 2nd Playoff Berth

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—The ragtime band Alexander Ponton assembled as the Balmy Beach football club seven years ago has been developed through the seasons until, in 1938, Alexander says they're one of the smoothest in the land.

When the people heard that Ponton, rated a conservative even among football coaches, was high on the 1938 Beaches there was glee around Toronto's east end, where support never has wavered.

But Beaches have shown only occasional flashes in winning two and losing two of their first four games to justify the confidence Ponton expressed so openly. They have a chance in the next two weeks, however, to confirm the coach's opening by beating out Sarnia Imperials for the second playoff berth in the Ontario Union.

Bulk of the East's football interest will centre on Sarnia Saturday for the Beach-Imperial tussle, ranked with the McGill-University of Toronto game as finest on this week's program. A loss would all but eliminate Beaches, for Montreal Nationals should sew up first place against Peterborough Orfuns tomorrow.

All Up To Sarnia?

Imperials and Beaches are tied for second place and the game is just as critical for the seven-time Union champions from Sarnia as for Beaches. If Beaches win tomorrow and go out to victory against Nationals in the schedule's finish next week, it is all up with Imperials.

Sellout crowds are expected at Sarnia and Montreal, where U. of T. makes another last-ditch stand against the only unbeaten, untied team in the section—McGill Redmen. If Toronto loses they cannot make the college playoffs no matter what Western Mustangs, with whom they are tied for second place, do in their remaining games against Queen's this week and McGill, next.

While Toronto struggles against the Red forces, Mustangs invade Kingston for a clash against the improving, though still winless, Queen's tricolor, who lost the college championship last week.

The remainder of the schedule appears to have provided Nationals and the Interprovincial Union's strong teams, Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts, with comparatively soft opposition. Nationals play Orfuns at Peterborough, Argos will test their younger players in Toronto against Montreal Cubs, losers of four straight, and Riders will play hosts to Hamilton Tigers, whom they beat by 36 points a few weeks ago.

Scoring Forwards Keep Soccer Cash Dangling

LONDON, Nov. 4—(CP Cable).—Activities of managers and scouts at the inter-league soccer match at Wolverhampton this week when England's representatives defeated Scotland 3-1 foreshadow big doings in the English transfer market.

Many teams are searching for new material, particularly goal-scoring forwards, and it is predicted $150,000 may change hands in transfer fees in the next few weeks. Sunderland, Leeds United and Plymouth Argyle are particularly anxious to strengthen their teams as the major stages of the English Cup competition approaches.

Sunderland is negotiating with Blackpool for Frank O'Donnell, Scottish international centre-forward, and this week offered $38,400 to try and close the deal, but the bait was not good enough. In the meantime William Agar, a local amateur, has been signed.

Jack Rowe, a farmer, has caught the eye of Plymouth scouts. In district football he has scored 27 goals in eight matches, and he is expected to make his debut in Argyle colors shortly.

The Championship Race.

Derby went to the top last week when Everton had its colors lowered by Leicester City and now has 20 points, two more than Everton and five more than Bolton Wanderers and Liverpool, joint holders of third place.

While Rangers are keeping in step with Celtic at the top of the Scottish League, there is a stirring duel between two Ranger players for goal-scoring honors in the First Division. Tied for weeks, A. Venters carried his total to 15 by performing the hat-trick against Raith Rovers a week ago. He now has two more than N. Thornton, who netted the opening goal in the Light Blues' victory.

Comparatively easy games face the famous Glasgow Clubs at the week-end. Rangers are away to Albion Rovers and the Celts are hosts to Ayr United.

COULDN'T SLEEP
COULDN'T WORK
What a relief to settle down to a real night's rest, and awake fully refreshed, ready for the day's duties. I was tortured by fretful nights—tossing, turning — never comfortable. Half awake days — over-tired, driving body and mind to work when they needed rest. "Try Dodd's Kidney Pills," said a friend — "it may be your kidneys". I'm glad I followed his advice as now I'm sleeping like a top—thanks to !!!

"I'll Take Diamond," Says Lou

With the baseball season a memory, ball players must find some other sort of diversion. Here's Lou Gehrig, slugging Yankee first baseman, batting out a few oratorical base hits while addressing delegates to a public forum on current events in New York. By all appearances a much tougher job than playing first base for a few thousand consecutive games.

Butchers' Cows Ease Off 25 Hogs Jump 50

TORONTO, November 4—(CP).—In a mixed trend on the cattle division of Toronto Livestock Market this week, butcher cows dropped 25 to 50 cents cwt., while steers and heifers gained 15 to 25 cents, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported. Calves were steady as were lambs and sheep. Hogs advanced 50 cents on a short run.

Three loads of choice weighty steers sold at $6.25 cwt. with other steers from $5 to $6. Good butcher steers and heifers brought $5.25 to $5.50, and a load of Western heifers made $5.75. Common butchers sold downward to $4 cwt.

Cows closed at $2.60 to $3.75 for butchers, with some good cows unsold. Canners and cutters were little changed at $2 to $2.50 cwt. Good butcher bulls sold steady at $3.75 to $4.25, and bolognas mostly at $3.50. Choice fed calves brought $8.50 to $9.50, with mediums downward to $6.

Anything good in the store cattle line sold at slightly higher prices, but some plainer stockers were unsold. Stockers ranged from $4 to $5.25, with feeders up to $5.50. A few Western stocker calves sold up to $5.75. Goor forward springers to $5.75. Good forward springers plain milkers and backward springers were sold at beef prices.

Calves Steady.

Calves were $9.50 to $10 for choice vealers with occasional tops at $10.50. Heavy Western calves brought $5 to $6.25. Grassers were mostly $4.50 to $4.75, with some as low as $4.

Hogs closed at 18.15 to $8.25 off trucks for bacons. Sows ranged from $5.50 to $6.25 off trucks. Several hundred feeder pigs were sold at $3.50 to $3.85.

Lambs were priced at $7.75 for good ewes and wethers delivered by rail and at $7.50 by trucks. A few picked lots of rail lambs sold up to $8 cwt. Bucks and heavies sold at $1 cwt. Discount and culls were mostly $6 cwt. Sheep were $1.50 to $4 cwt., with a few good, light ewes up to $4.50.

They were showered with steel particles, suffer minor cuts and bruises, and barely managed to escape up an emergency hatch before mud and water flooded the engine room, they said.

The captain, chief engineer and other crew members agreed that water spouted as high as the mast when the blast occurred.

A diver's examination disclosed a hole about five feet square had been torn in the hull plates, and Chief Engineer C. Diederich said they were bent inward.

The Vancouver was enroute from a terminal in the narrow Estuary to San Francisco when the explosion shook the ship. The vessel nosed toward the bank and the captain ordered both anchors lowered to hold her in shallow water.

Receives Father's Name

For the first time in history the Indian name of a white man descended to his son, when Timothy Eaton was adopted into the Cayuga tribe at the Six Nations Reserve, Brantford, and given the name Hon-Non-So-Wa-Nen, meaning in English, "Big House." The same name was conferred on Timothy's father, the late Sir John Eaton, 35 years ago.

East Emily Holds Basket Social

(Examiner Correspondence.)

EAST EMILY, Nov. 4. — The young people of St. James' Anglican Church held their annual Hallowe'en masquerade in the Parish Hall on Friday night with a large attendance. In the absence of Rev. Mr. Johnston, Alton Clark acted as the chairman for the following program:

A group of young people from Peterborough rendered a numebr of Hawaiian selections on their guitars; reading, Miss Thelma Bailey; recitation, Earl Guthrie; recitation, Elzina McConnell; recitations, William Howden; songs by different children of the church.

The parade of those in costume then took place, those winning prizes being: Best dressed couple, Donald and Lillie Franks; ladies' fancy dress, Elzina McConnell; Miss Olive Boate, dressed as a bride; best dressed gentleman, Miss Vera Davis; best dressed boy, John Franks as an Indian. William Howden was auctioneer and sold a large number of baskets. Lunch was served to those not having baskets. The singing of "God Save the King" brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

More Butter in Storage

OTTAWA, Nov. 4—(CP).—Creamery butter held in cold storage in nine principal Canadian cities on November 1 totalled 43,256,515 pounds compared with 34,087,137 on November 1, 1937, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Stocks of cheese totalled 29,860,578 pounds against 34,671,457; cold storage eggs, 3,693,153 dozen against 4,192,743, and frozen eggs 3,064,525 against 3,013,956.

rity upon completion of the present Chinese-Japanese War.

(The United States Department published last night a hitherto-unannounced memorandum saying a result of a nine-power conference in Brussels last year was "the express service of notice that the settlement (of the Chinese-Japanese conflict) ultimately arrived at must be consistent with the principles of the nine-power treaty and satisfactory to the conference Powers.")

The British Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai to-day urged London to attempt to preserve the British commercial stake in China.

In a strongly-worded communication the body charged Prime Minister Chamberlain's "complacency" in Far Eastern matters was "entirely unjustified by the facts," and demanded a stronger British policy" in which there should be more action."

Sailor-Writer Held

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 — (AP). — Ralph Mosher, 31, sailor and amateur writer, was held in $25,000 bail today on charges that he tried to burn to death Orrick Johns, 51-year-old one-legged poet, with whiskey for fuel.

Johns said Mosher, angered because he had refused to give him a job, beat him insensible Oct. 23, 1936, in a Greenwich village apartment. He said Mosher also choked Mrs. Jones until she was unconscious and then poured a quart of whisky over Johns, ignited it and fled. Mrs. Johns revived and beat out the flames.

MOVE MADE TO OVERCOME DANGER AT WATER ST. CROSSING

No Government Aid Given To Build Markets

Neither the federal or provincial government subsidizes local market buildings, letters read at Thursday night's meeting of the Board of Works informed Mayor Hamilton and his associates in regard to their cursory discussions throughout the year and especially the recent suggestion that the ratepayers be asked to vote on the question of undertaking the construction of a covered market.

Grants may be made to co-operative cold storage warehouses, it was said, but otherwise the policies of the respective governments do not extend financial aid to producers' markets.

Mayor Hamilton said the council could not submit the question of a new market to the people at the January elections unless a definite proposal with details of plans and costs could be presented to them.

To Paint Town Clock

That nasty crack by an observant Sarnia reporter, about Peterborough being a place where the town clock has a wooden face may have come to Alderman Bradburn's notice. At any rate when the repainting of the four faces was mentioned last night, Ald. Bradburn asked why glass dials could not be substituted and lighted from the interior. That's one of the little improvements left over for next year, and another is a switchboard for the city hall telephones.

Richard Ruskin's offer of $50 for a lot on Stewart street north was accepted on Ald. Dutton's motion, seconded by Mayor Hamilton. It was thought he was getting exceptionally good value in the property at that price, but the lot had been listed for sale, and the Property Committee went through with the deal. R. H. Currie bought the lot on Armour Road, south of the Nicholls Oval, for $200, agreeing to build next year a house worth not less than $3,000.

Sanitary Inspector Passes Examination

Ronald M. MacPherson, Peterborough's sanitary inspector, who recently tried the examination for the sanitary inspector's certificate has been notified by Dr. J. T. Phair, secretary of the examining committee of the Canadian Public Health Association that he has been successful in passing the tests which are by no means easy.

Candidates are graded as follows: Grade A—70 to 100 per cent, Grade B—60 to 69 per cent, Grade C—50 to 59 per cent, Grade D—40 to 49 per cent, and Grade E below 40 per cent. The pass mark is 50 per cent.

As. Mr. MacPherson was graded A in the food control, communicable diseases and field investigation report departments and B in sanitation and in his oral examination it will be seen that he has made a very excellent showing.

Bride and Groom

One of the youngest marriages to be registered in Ontario is the marriage of Donald Hewitt, 17-year-old mattress maker and Dolly Humphrey, 14, who were wed in Bothwell recently. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Humphrey, parents of the bride, consented to the marriage.

Cook Is Charged With Operating Still In North

Charged as a second offender, Charles English, 31, of Bobcaygeon, cook in a lumber camp at Buckhorn, pleaded not guilty in police court before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning to a charge of having, without a license from the Excise Department, possession of about 80 gallons of mash, suitable for the manufacture of spirits.

English was defended by Alex. Elliott, K.C., while F. D. Kerr, K.C., appeared for the Department of Revenue. The charge was laid by Corp. T. J. Woods of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The prosecution was not ready to go on with the case this morning, Mr. Kerr announced.

"What is the reason?" inquired the Magistrate.

"The absence of a material witness," was the reply. "I am not sure that we can have him here next week."

Mr. Elliott stated that the defence was ready to proceed.

"Have you any witnesses here?" inquired Magistrate Langley.

"We do not need witnesses," Mr. Elliott declared, adding his opinion that when the prosecution wanted time to secure a material witness what they really wanted was to get the real offender.

By consent the case was enlarged until Thursday, November 17, bail being fixed at $500.

Faces Theft Charge

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 4.—(CP).—Alfred Bate of Lindsay faced today charges of breaking and entering and theft after police said he had been found in the washroom of the Olympia tea room two hours after the restaurant had closed for the night. Owner Christopher Tozias said $15 was missing from the till.

Constable E. E. Reeves said he discovered Bate during a search of the premises after he found the glass broken in the front door.

The Rambling REPORTERS

CHERCHEZ LA FEMME

A local man who arrived home from Toronto on the late C.P.R. train the other night discovered just as the taximan had deposited him on his doorstep that he had left his pajamas and toilet accessories on the train, as the result of absentmindedness brought on by an engrossing conversation he had been carrying on with a young lady passenger. The taxi driver made a hurried trip back to the station, only to find the train had gone. A message was sent ahead to Tweed and the missing property was salvaged there.—C.

Crsecent Bank To Be Graded

Grading of the top of the bank around iLttle Lake at Crescent street will be begun shortly by the Board of Works, according to the general plan of improving the water front that has been under consideration for a year or more.

Top soil from the quarry on the Lakefield road will be laid to a depth of eight inches, to settle down during the winter, and the inner row of elm trees may be removed. The grading is to be undertaken at once. Mayor Hamilton reminded the Board that $1500 had been put in the estimates for the Crescent street project which was started with the rip-rapping, and the ultimate design includes the seeding of grass, planting of shrubs, flowers and trees.

On Mayor Hamilton's suggestion it was decided to cut and burn the weeds on the McDonald estate property recently acquired by the city, and to level off a bed or bank of shavings on which ashes will be dumped for the purpose of filling up a section of the water front. About fifteen men on relief will be engaged in three day shifts and at the regular wage.

Legion Poppy Day Be Held Saturday

Saturday is the annual Poppy Day of the Canadian Legion when the symbolic red flowers of Flanders fields will bloom again, even in their artificiality, in the lapels of all those citizens who are not forgetting that November of twenty years ago when victorious democracy held the heights of the world. Recent tremendous events have focussed a stronger and clearer light upon the achievement in which the men of the Canadian legions played such a magnificent part, and the freedom for which they fought and for which so many of them died has taken on a sweeter flavor of appreciation here in Canada by contract with the virtual enslavement of millions of people whose bodies and hearts and minds are today controlled by dictators.

There should be a big sale of Poppies on Saturday. The penny of those who cannot afford a larger offering will be just as expressive of a lively and enduring faith as will be the dollar of those who won't miss it as a gift for the aid of men the Legion is still helping.

Mystery Day Is Held By Kiwanis Club

Kiwanians went into the dining room of the Empress Hotel today with apprehension in their hearts, for they had learned that their weekly luncheon meeting had been turned over to Cliff Hall and his "Mystery Music Makers."

Apprehension turned to active fear when they found themselves forced to don "screwball" hats that looked as though they had been left over from a Shriner's Convention, had to eat a main course that was labelled "Mystery Pie." "You'd be surprised," was the only answer they could draw from Kiwanian Hall when they asked what he had in store for them. "Herbie, are you going to sing today?" queried J. A. McKone in tones like those that Orson Welles used Sunday night when he scared a nation by radio.

Relations began to get a bit strained when a hat was passed around and each member was forced to draw a "lucky" ticket. The tickets turned out to be names of schools which members must sponsor in the club's spelling bee: fee for sponsorship, $5.

"I think this must be part of the mystery program," cracked one member following the involved reading of a resolution calling for incorpation of the club. Read by Jacob Low, the resolution abounded with expressions such as "Kiwanis International and Kiwanis International Subsidiaries," but was unintelligible otherwise.

"Will you read the second resolution now?" asked President L. J. Pettit at the conclusion of the reading.

Passed Unanimously

"I just finished reading it," answered Mr. Low, to the general laughter of the club. The resolution was passed unanimously and will be forwarded to Kiwanis International for ratification.

Members began to squirm in their seats when President Pettit turned the meeting over to Carl Brown, then forgot all about it when a quartet of Members Hall, Lillow, Redyard and Nicholls, sang in magnificent voice. They were enthusiastically applauded and an encore demanded.

Three lucky members won shirt, cake, and socks in a lucky draw that was the next item on the program. Then came the "blow" that all had been dreading. Chairman Brown called on Charles Saunders, Harold Scott, Cliff Hall and Neil Warrander for a quartet on toy trumpets. They blatted out "Loch Lomand," first in slow, then in swing time, then with variations, and then launched into rendition of half a dozen other indistinguishable melodies.

Last item on the program, and one that involved nearly a dozen dismayed Kiwanians, came when Chairman Brown caled for thirty-second addresses on "Why I Love Kiwanis." He said he had heard too many complaints about sepakers that committee heads had provided, told the members now was their opportunity to show what a good speech should be like. The less said about today's speeches the better, a reporter told his editor afterwards and they both hoped Kiwanians will continue to invite guest speakers.

Girl Suffers Fall 30 Stitches Needed

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Nov. 4.—Mary McCarthy, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCarthy of Keene had the misfortune to fall in Gall's store, suffering severe facial cuts. She was on an errand for her mother when she tripped on a register, it is alleged, and fell on her face into a glas cookie case. Dr. Wright of Keene attended and 30 stitches were required to close the wounds.

Spirit Of Remembrance Day Has Paled To Dim Light, City Aldermen Declare

The spirit of Remembrance Day has paled to a dim light compared with the glowing flame of November 11th, 1918, members of the Board of Works commented last night in granting a holiday for the city's garbage collection employees.

"We locked our stores and let orders and business go to blazes," Alderman Juby recalled. "I don't think we'd lose anything if everybody celebrated Remembrance Day as a holiday."

The celebration should be held in the churches, Alderman Dutton stated. "It is a statutory holiday that is observed largely in the breach. In some places there is only two minutes silence, in others the morning is a public holiday, and here and there the whole day is made a holiday. One could not help but notice at the observance when it was held in the armouries that children played about without any sign that they were being taught what it was all about. They are not getting the significance of Remembrance Day."

Mayor Hamilton said he would like to see Remembrance Day a general holiday, but in the largest cities of the country there was a general practice of maintaining business on its usual day by day level.

120 Prizes Are Offered Midnite Frolic

Add mild weather and moonlight to the program of vaudeville, pictures and some 120 prizes to be distributed among ticket holders for the Midnite Frolic at the Capitol Theatre beginning at 11.15 p.m., and it looks like a bumper house.

The merchants who are arranging the frolic to build up funds for the second annual Santa Claus parade, to be announced later, decided today that no more tickets will be sold than there are seats in the Capitol. To win any of the 120 prizes you have to be present at the Frolic. If you wish to avoid lining up on the right from the entrance to get your tickets at the last minute, you can buy them beforehand.

The present weather is all in favor of the Frolic, and with your chance of winning a prize—and there is lots of value to be handed out in the manner of Santa Claus reminders for adults, is far ahead of any draw that has been held around here in a long time. Of course you can't win a house or car on your admission ticket, you can win various home furnishings, groceries and a lot of valuable things that are too numerous to detail.

By way of summary, Morley Plunket is going to be Master of Ceremonies, and his personality will add a lot of pleasantness to the Frolic. The vaudeville program includes Eula Mould and Sylvia Bagby, song and dance team. Lenore Gordon, Victor Cremasco, Wilfred Galvin, and specially selected screen entertainment.

Local folks who know values are going to be on hand early tonight and avoid the rush. You might as well be there when the door opens at 11.15 p.m. and get yourself a seat fairly close to the stage, because the chances are all on the side of your name being called to come up and get those gold and Black pyjamas or that snow suit for winter, fog lights for your car and so on. Certainly if you are not in the house you get nothing and you miss a couple of hours of fun and laughter.

Medical Students Given T.B. Tests

TORONTO, Nov. 4 — (CP). — Tuberculosis tests are being made on all medical students at the University of Toronto, Dr. E. S. Ryerson, assistant dean of the medical school, said today.

"We are making these investigations to find out whether tuberculosis tests should be made on all university students," Dr. Ryerson said. "We haven't come to any conclusions yet, however."

The tests on medical students, he said, are compulsory.

A Braille edition of the Public School Hymn Book has been produced in London for blind students.

Marmora Restaurant Proprietor Sees Europe Ousted If Japan Wins

France will lose French Indo-China and Great Britain will lose Hong Kong if Japan conquers China, Lem Lung, 54-year-old Chinese restaurant owner at Marmora said today.

The Oriental who has spent the last 28 years in Canada is distressed over the fact that Canton has fallen into the hands of the Japs, because his family, three married sons and a daughter, live on farms near the city. He has not had any word from them since the Japs moved in several days ago.

The old fellow has definite ideas on International affairs and in a talk with reporters gave his opinions on the reasons for some of the events now taking place.

"Germany and Japan are both hungry for more land. They can't feed their people from the little bit of land they now occupy," he said, and then went on to tell his listeners that Germany used to be friendly with China, and had sent army officers to China to help fight the Japs for years. These were all recalled when Germany started her program of expansion, he claimed.

Lem was of the opinion also that Germany and Japan had agreed not to interfere with each other's land grabbing. This he said was another reason why the German officers were withdrawn from China.

He shares the belief with Chinese in Peterborough that the Japs will never conquer China although they may for a time dominate the greater part of it. When the Japs have most of the country under their control they will take Hong Kong and French Indo China, and may possibly add the Phillipines to their list, he declared.

Lem came to Victoria, B.C. in 1910. Up to 1914 it was possible for a Chinese who had the means to bring his wife and family to this country. Unfortunately for him he had not sufficient money accumulated to do this until 1917, and at that time the doors had been closed.

He returned to his native land three times since 1917 and about ten years ago his wife died. His family consisted of three sons and a daughter. He operated restaurants at Tweed, Victoria, B.C., Oshawa and for the past nine years at Marmora.

Like many others of his race, he has been contributing regularly to the war chest for his homeland, and is firm in the belief that Chiang Kai-Shek will have an army trained and ready to drive the Japs from China when the latter have reached the end of their resources.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

EMERGENCY KITS

First aid kits for the city's quarry and the municipal yard on Townsend street are to be bought by City Engineer Parsons, authorized by the Board of Works, Thursday night.

A MUSICAL PROGRAM

Peterborough Rotarians will enjoy a musical program at their regular luncheon on Monday, provided by Miss M. R. Rannie and Maurice H. Park of the Peterborough Normal School. Folk songs will be featured.

SHEEP KILLED

Two sheep belonging to W. H. Moore on Highway 28 were killed by dogs several nights ago and a number of others savagely worried. Provicial Constable David Silvester is endeavoring to trace the ownership of the dogs concerned in the attack.

SCOUTER CONFERENCE

Peterborough will be the host city for a two-days conference of the Scouters of Eastern Ontario on Friday and Saturday, November 18 and 19. A busy program is being planned for the event.

CARS DAMAGED

Cars belonging to J. Garnet Patten, R.R. 3, Peterborough and Charles Anderson, 253 Park street, were damaged Thursday night in a collison at the junction of Reid and Park streets. None of the passengers in the machines were hurt.

OFF FOR THE HUNT

Among the hunters off for the north tonight will be Sergt. William Wigg of the local police department who will do his hunting in Burleigh township which the sergeant knows as well as he does George street. Sergt. Wigg invariably gets his quota of venison with the same regularity as the Mounties get their man.

VERY MUCH ON JOB

A typographical error in an account of a new aviation ground school for which registration opens tonight at the Chamber of Commerce, might lead to the belief that the Peterborough Air Service is no longer in operation. Such is not the case, for Instructor Frank Armitage is very much on the job, reports students are still joining up for instruction. He intends to keep open all winter.

PLENTY OF MEN AVAILABLE

Publicity is bearing fruit, according to Dan Douglas of the Employment Service of Canada. A few days ago the Examiner reported that Mr. Douglas has many men available who would like odd jobs cleaning up leaves, or doing any kind of work. The account has resulted in many householders telephoning the Service to offer such employment, Mr. Douglas reported, but added somewhat ruefully that it had also resulted in more men than ever calling at the office in search of work. He would now like more householders to call to absorb the surplus.

FIREMEN REQUIRE TOYS

Toys are as yet moving slowly into the Fire Department for repair and distribution at Christmas, according to Assistant Fire Chief George Smith. He asks that citizens round up all their old toys as soon as possible and bring them to the headquarters on Aylmer street so that fire fighters may not be rushed at the last minute. "If we could only get in a great many toys right now, we would be able to distribute far more at Christmas," he said. "When they all come in at the last minute we haven't an opportunity to do as good a job on them as we would like to."

Canada-Wide Plans Laid To Greet King

OTTAWA, Nov. 4—(CP).—The Canada-wide committee to be appointed to take charge of organizing programs of welcome and receptions for the King and Queen during their tour of Canada early next summer probably will be but one of several special committees set up by the government in connection with the visit.

A letter from state secretary Rinfret to Mayor Lucien Borne of Quebec City disclosed that a Canada-wide committee was planned.

A committee of officials from various government departments concerned with the royal visit is expected to be formed and various other committees to look after specific details of the trip also will be established.

Opinion Expressed Trainmen Sound The Whistles Just When They Feel Like It

"The anti-noise bylaw is bad business if a train can't blow a whistle at a crossing," Alderman Bradburn said at last night's meeting of the Board of Works, in calling attention to several recent accidents, one of them fatal, at the C.N.R. crossing, Water street north.

"That bylaw was passed for a certain thing, but the 7.15 C.N.R. still blows every morning," Alderman Dutton remarked. He expressed the opinion that trainmen sounded the whistles if they felt like it."

It transpired that within the last few days Ald. Dutton narrowly escaped being struck by a north bound train at Water street north.

"Only the fact that I have good brakes saved me. I was driving along not thinking of the crossing ahead of me. I think that thoughtlessness of that kind is to blame for many a traffic accident."

Alderman Bradburn suggested that wig-wags should be placed at the C.N.R. crossing, and Mayor Hamilton mentioned the expense that would be incurred to the city.

"Seven or eight hundred dollars won't bring a man back to life if he is killed there," Ald. Bradburn said, and moved, seconded by Alderman Stocker, that Alderman Wilson and City Engineer Parsons report to the Board recommending some means of overcoming the danger on Water Street.

Snow Plowing Contracts.

Contracts for snow plowing were let last night. W. J. Stinson's bid of $198 for No. 2 district in the north end was accepted; the cost is $30 more than last year. Gordon Frise's bid of $200 was $10 more than George Meharry's, but it was accepted for the north end.

Robert Manley was the only bidder for the west ward, and his $275 is $25 more than last year. James Sutherland gets the southwest end at $300, an increase of $10 over last year. Chas. Collins' bid of $275 for the southeast division was the only one for that area. And Robert Mitchell was awarded both sections of Ashburnham, north of Hunter at $120, which is $8 less than last winter, and the south half at $130.

R. B. Matson of the International Harvester Company explained to the Board the capabilities of a special tractor plow for removing snow from sidewalks. Its average speed is close to 10 miles an hour and it costs $1400. Alderman Wilson's committee has no money for new plows in its appropriations, but Mayor Hamilton said the Board would be interested in a demonstration some time during the winter.

Unable to afford the factory-made product, most of the people in the Philippines are now buying hand-made shoes and slippers.

Cow Moose Is Seen Seven Miles West Of Town Of Lindsay

A full-grown cow moose was the unusual spectacle encountered on Thursday by Major H. K. Clifton, inspector for the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission as he was driving between Janetville and Lindsay. Seven miles west of the latter town he came upon the moose which was standing placidly beside the road in the long swamp. Major Clifton had a good look at the animal before it leisurely turned away and disappeared into the bush, and says that it was in prime condition. A farmer nearby reported that some strange animal had been feeding on his mangels the day before.

Woman Passenger Slightly Injured

Mrs. J. Cooper of Toronto was slightly injured and two automobiles were damaged considerably in an intersection clash at McDonnel and Aylmer streets Thursday afternoon when cars driven by Emmanuel Restivo, Fenelon Falls and James M. Young of Omemee collided. The Omemee car was driving east on McDonnel street and the Restivo machine north on Aylmer when the crash occurred.

Mrs. Cooper, a passenger in the Young car was thrown against a window when the cars met and her shoulder broke the glass. She sustained cuts on her forehead and bruises on her legs. None of the other three persons in Young's car were injured and Restivo also escaped unhurt.

AFRAID TO MARRY

By HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 39

THE EVENING at the Myers residence was a comfortable, happy one. Here, where love encircled the walls, and fame and prestige were callers that were not expected, life moved simply.

Oddly relaxed Judy sat in a large chair near a small fire, kindled in her honor when the meal was done.

When a knock sounded at the door, she did not move. Coralee let a man into the small room which was used as a parlor but Judy, half asleep in her lounging place, paid small heed.

Coralee called to her father and he excused himself and entered the other room, hobbling along on his crutches.

Suddenly Judy sat erect. The timber of that low voice, now speaking, was familiar. Where had she heard it? Why was it associated with something sinuous, threatening?

She strained her ears to listen but Mrs. Myers began to tell her about the tomatoes that would not keep because she had canned them by a new cold process, and the conversation was lost.

Judy changed chairs. She was too near the fire, she said. She had a quick view of the man.

He wore a green fedora. If he had removed it at all, he had replaced it on his head as he stood up to leave. He had an overcoat of gaudy plaid material. It was the man whom Judy had seen on the steps of her apartment house the night before.

When Mr. Myers rejoined the group in the living room, he was chuckling.

"That man is mighty easy money. He comes all the time and buys letters, the printed ones, done on squares of papers. Must play games with them. Orders 30 e's and 15 t's—but he pays well. Usually in cash."

He opened his hand and made a little pile of the silver on the table.

Judy quick mind was drinking in the words that Mr. Myers spoke. She must proceed cautiously. He must not know that his client was under suspicion in her mind. So she spoke:

"May I see some of your work, Mr. Myers? Coralee says it's btautiful."

"I always wrote a good hand and when I got laid up, why, this job with the company came along. Now I free lance, too. People have heard about me and come." He spoke with pride. He had made a niche for himself. He was needed.

Judy exclaimed over the letters. Pretty soon she asked:

"These. He seems to like 'em getter. Funny, isn'tit? So simple and all? I like a flourish or two."

"No, I think I agree. You make them so strong and rugged. My printing is atrocious and I should know a little something about it Would you let me have a few letters— some you don't need?"

"I'll be proud to give you a whole alphabet!"

He made her a new one, and Judy sat quietly, not giving way to the impatience that was singing through her blood. Whether the letters would be of any value she did not know. They might be an aid in tracing the unknown man.

"Who is the man who likes to play with the alphabet?" she asked idly after a while.

"I don't know his name. Fact is I don't know a thing about him. He drops in when he wants something, leaves an order or takes it along. Not often. Just now and then."

Judy carried the letters to work with her the next day. They were in a small envelope in her pocketbook and she did not let the bag out of her sight.

It was that next day that the story about Ronald carried headlines in an afternoon newspaper. The article said that he had been accused of bribing jurors. Three men who sat in the box when he had pleaded cases were involved. Two of them had served on the same panel. One had been alone. This precluded any thought that an outsider might have tried to fix a certain case. It looked to the world as though Ronald won favorable decisions through this method.

The jurors admitted the bribes. They were panic stricken. No one knew where the leak had occurred. Suspicion naturally pointed to more jurors as yet uncaught. Fearing detection, they were remaining in hiding apparently.

Judy, reading the article, said to herself: "Doesn't anyone have sense to know that the others may be silent because they have nothing to say? They were not bribed! It's a 'frame-up. I know it!"

Not once did she doubt the honesty of the young lawyer. She did not wonder at her conviction. She knew, with the tenacity of a woman who fights for the man she loves, that he must be innocent.

Just the same, she was white-faced and heartsick when she saw the public shame to which he was subjected. With the newspaper in her hand she turned to leave her studio, to seek refuge in the dressing room.

In the corridor a gray velet sort of place adorned with mirrors, rose cushions and lamps, she met Abbey Boland.

Abbey's golden beauty was intensified by something royal blue in color, silken in sheen. It changed her eyes from a queenly purple to the serenity of a deep country sky at twilight.

To Judy's amazement the girl spoke with quick friendliness.

"It's nice to see you, Miss Rogers. I owe you an apology." she laughed, and little bells rang in the sound. Not bells that chimed, Judy noted. Rather, they tinkled.

Judy waited. She would not help Abbey.

The heiress went on. "If I hadn't been so wrought up about the engagement to Count Phillippe I never would have accused you of dog. Wasn't it foolish? Like something so ridiculous no one could give any credence to the tale."

"It wasn't pleasant," Judy said, "but its ended. Let's forget it happened. Is someone in the salon taking care of you?"

"I have to wait a few minutes. I've been fitted and the car is picking me up presently. Is this your studio?" She glanced beyond Judy into the severely simple room with a north light and a drawing board, a desk, a lamp, and two straight chairs. "May I wait in here? I won't bother you, really. There are so many people outside and they look at me curiously, since—since...." She broke off with a weary gesture.

"Since Ronald has been attacked," Judy finished steadily. Then her anxiety for Ronald conquered her dislike of this girl. "Miss Boland, is there anything any of us can do to help? Who is the man who framed Ronald?"

"What makes you think a man framed him?" Abbey asked curiously.

"Ronald wouldn't bribe jurors. He would lose every case on the docket, he would dig ditches and shovel coal first." Her brown eyes were blazing and her face was flushed.

"He has a loyal champion in you." Abbey observed amusedly. "What makes you so sure he—didn't do the things of which he is accused?"

Judy did not answer because she could not. Ronald had offered his name, his life, to this girl. Yet she could ask such a crule question. No, she couldn't mean it. She couldn't fail him when he needed the love of the one women he had chosen, as he never would ask it again.

"You can't mean that," Judy said at last.

"Perhaps not. But what does it matter? I've broken off the engagement anyway!"

"Then you don't love him enough to fight for him, with him?" Judy asked slowly.

Judy did not say the words that were pressing into her throat, aren't good enough for him, Abbey Boland! I'm glad he's rid of you! Only he wanted you and he's had so little! He's dreamed of you and he needs to believe in dreams just now! Why couldn't you be just this one time?

There is much to recommend this smart two-piece woolen dress with cunning lumber-jacket blouse. If you make the collar of white pique, shew a bias band along edge, so as to make it detachable. It's easily removed for laundering. It's a splendid dress for variety . . . The skirt may be worn with sweaters or with "tuck-in" blouses.

The little lumber-jacket blouse may be worn with a contrasting skirt. Note the pattern provides for two different type blouses, the one buttons up to a skirt neck; the other to a collarless vee neck. The skirt is gored to give you a slim appearance and has two important kick plaits. Another popular scheme for this easy to sew two-piece dress is velveteen for the blouse and clan plaid for the skirt. There's no reason why you can't use the pattern ogain and again for separate blouses and skirts.

Style No. 2841 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 39-inch material for blouse; and 2⅛ yards of 39-inch material for skirt.

WEALTHY YOUTH IS FOUND

RICHMOND.—Detective Captain A. S. Wright said today that Sydney Martin, Jr., missing 20-year-old scion of a wealthy Philadelphia family, had been found in Richmond working for an electrical contractor.

Martin, son of a prominent Philadelphia architect and clubman, apparently "vanished" from the Quaker City after a visit to a night club on Sept. 15.

Preponderous Ratio of Girls to Boys Taking Marriage Courses in Colleges Shows Who Takes Wedded Life the More Seriously

THE University of Washington's marriage course has attracted twenty girls to the class, but only one boy. This is significant, as it indicates the difference in the way men and women look upon marriage and the relative importance that they put upon preparing themselves for it.

The ratio of twenty women who work and study to prepare themselves to be good wives to one man who even takes a kindergarten lesson to fit himself to be a good husband need astonish no one. It has ever been that way. Wives have always had to be on their jobs and put on a star performance to give satisfaction and make their husbands glad they married them; whereas men have felt that just being married to them automatically raised their wives to the seventh heaven and was all the bliss that any woman could ask.

Probably not even one young man in twenty ever gives any serious thought before marriage to being a good husband. He thinks a knowledge of how to treat a wife, sidestep her peculiarities and get along with her in peace and comfort comes by nature, as Dogberry thought a knowledge of reading and writing did. So he blithely leads his Angelina to the altar, secure in the belief that he is the answer to her maiden's prayer, and that if he feeds and clothes her, and doesn't beat her, he has done all that could be expected of him domestically.

It is because men have given so little study to the art and science of being desirable life companions that we have the curious paradox of good men who are mean husbands; men who think they are being kind to their wives when they are inflicting the tortures of the Inquisition upon them; men who feed their wives on caviar and starve their souls for tenderness.

Men who never stir from their own fires'des, but who make their homes so disagreeable their wives wish they would step out and never come back; men who are harder taskmasters on their wives than any slave driver would be; men whose wives never see a penny of the money they earn for cooking, washing, sewing and baby-tending; men whose wives never know they were beloved until it is engraved on their tombstones. And that these men sin oftener through ignorance than intent there is no doubt. They just don't know how to be good husbands.

Of course, it may be said that the reason that women try twenty times as hard to be good wives as men do to be good husbands is because it is twenty times more necessary. This is true. Marriage is not only a woman's vocation, but her avocation. Her prosperity as well as her happiness is involved in her holding her husband, as the phrase goes, and keeping him from wandering off after strange goddesses.

Theoretically it is just as much the obligation of a man to be a good husband as it is to a woman to be a good wife, but in real life it doesn't work out that way. The man who is bored by his wife can spend his evenings at his club. The man who is married to a nagger or a shrew can have business that takes hi maway from his home for weeks at a time. The man whose marriage is a bitter failure can forget his unhappiness in his career.

But the woman is put. She is nailed to her doorstep. She must listen to a stupid husband's long-drawn-out stories she has heard a thousand times. She must endure his nagging. She must stand for his tempers and his grouches and his silences and his tyranny or else get a divorce, which is generally jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

And it is because women know this and how disastrous an unhappy marriage is to them that they try harder than men do to make a success of their marriages. It is women who study their husbands until they know all of their peculiarities and ways tastes and habits until they can say them backward in their sleep. A man can be married to a woman for forty years without ever guessing which way the cat will jump, or finding out why she does the way she does. Every wife knows how to handle her husband, but not even one husband in twenty has the slightest idea of how to put things to his Maria so she will urge him to take a fishing trip instead of spending the money on the parlor curtains.

It is wives who starve themselves to keep a willowy figure so as to be pleasing to their husbands' eyes, but you never heard of a man doing without what he liked to eat in order to keep his wife in love with him. It is women who must make the running in marriage, and so it is no wonder that twenty girls are studying to be good wives, while only one boy considers it necessary to learn how to be a good husband.

Win Friends, Don't Lose Them

May listens at the door, convinced Charlie and Grace are laughing at her.

What a shame she's let an inferiority complex get such a hold on her! Everyone has some inferiority feelings to overcome, but they're easy to cure once you understand them.

Does a physical defect make you self-conscious? Remember that a thousand freckles plus intelligence and sympathy are more appealing than a rose-leaf complexion coupled with a frosty disposition.

Were you bullied or made fun of as a child? You can still build up confidence in your own ability. Your past experiences needn't determine your future.

Do you feel stupid because your mind works slowly? The slow, steady person has just as good a chance in life as the brilliant, erratic one. Recognize your strong points.

Our 3½-page booklet tells how to substitute confidence and charm for self-consciousness, jealousy, stubbornness and other inferiority feelings.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

"YES," SAID Hanid to Mrs. Cuckoo, "I think Knarf's idea is very good. I think he really knows that he's saying this time."

"Of course I do!" Knarf said in a boastful tone. "It's very simple. The cuckoo-clock has lost a minute All we have to do is go to someone who has a minute to spare. Then we put the minute back in the clock. That's al there is to it."

Mr. ouckoo smiled faintly. "But where do we find someone with a minute to spare?"

It was rather late at night. Everyone in the house was already asleep, except the playroom toys.

"There's Mr. Punch over there,

"I need every minute I've got."

sitting on the teps of his show-house," Hanid said. "Let's ask him if he has a minute to spare."

So they went over to Mr. Punch. He didn't seem at all busy. He was just twiddling his thumbs.

"Hello, Mr. Punch," said Knarf. "Have you a minute to spare?"

"Well!—h'mm . . ."

"You see, Mr. Punch," Hanid put in, "Mrs. Cuckoo's clock has lost a minute somewhere, and Mrs. Cuckoo can't find it again."

Mr. Punch was silent for a moment or two. Then he shook his head. 'I'm sorry. I can't give you one of my minutes."

"But why not?"

"You aren't doing anything but twiddling your thumbs," said Knarf. Needs His Minutes

"Yes, but if I gave away a minute I wouldn't have that minute to twiddle my thumbs in. I really need every minute I've got. Why don't you ask someone else? There's Miss China Doll over there, in her dollhouse. I'm sure she has lots of minute to spare."

So they went over to Miss China Doll.

"Oh, no!" she answered when they asked her if she had a minute to spare. "I was saying to Mary-Jane, the rag doll, only this morning that the days seem to be getting shorter and shorter. There are hardly enough minutes to go around any more. I really can't do it."

"You see," Mrs. Cuckoo sighed as they walked away from the dollhouse, "no one wants to give away even a minute. No. I don't think I'll ever be able to get another minute to replace the one that disappeared from the clock."

Poison Murder Case

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4—(AP)—Three persons were in custody today as police investigated what Detective Samuel Riccardi termed "poison murder insurance plots."

A woman booked as Mrs. Catarino Pavato, 45, was apprehended last night. Riccardi said, after chemists reported traces of poison were found in the body of her 18-year-old stepson, Philip Ingrao. He died four months ago.

Herman Patrillo, 49, and Mrs. Stelle Alfonsi, 29, are held without bail in the death of Mrs. Alfonsi's husband, Ferdinand. Alfonsi's body was exhumed in the investigation, but police chemists said it showed no traces of poison.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, November 5

Rather difficult and provoking conditions are noted in this day's auguries, with rash, impulsive and quarrelsome behavior precipitating very disagreeable reactions and inciting spite, malice and bitter enmities. To wrest and constructive results and satisfaction from this tumultous and distressing state of affairs, calmness, discretion and forced good nature are required.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves precipitated into a year of inharmony, friction, disaster and general futility and turmoil, unless a definite resolve be put in execution to use self-restraint, good judgment and even an enforced amiability in the most provoking and challenging situations. Otherwise, there will be powerful enmity, spite, scandal and regret to block accomplishment.

A child born on this day may be studious, deep, talented and practical, ut its tendency to impetuosity, strife, violence and recklessness may prove a defeating factor in its success, causing enmity and hostility.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

New Women's Wear In England Is Causing Worry

LONDON, Nov. 4—(CP)—Tempestuous discussions as to whether women are to be allowed to wear trousers on the more exclusive golf courses in Britain has reached an impasse. Men officials of the Timperley Golf Club have decided women members must not wear 'slacks' on the links. Pros and cons have appeared by the dozens in print and Constant Readers. Colonels (retired) with the Pro Bono Publico and brethren have waxed eloquent.

Stymied by the fact that not even the secretary of the Timperley Club knew how his prudish confreres could enforce the new ruling if the 20 women who play there in trousers refuse to return to skirts, the antis' tirades dwindled. The pros settled dwon after having called on opinions from Miss Gloria D. Minoprio, who caused a sensation in 1933 by competing in the English championship at Westward Ho! dressed in black close-fitting trousers and using only one club.

Scandalized officials spoke of taking action but good sense prevailed and Miss Minoprio's costume became a golfing fashion. At the recent championship matches on wet days most of the women competitors wore masculine-like waterproof outfits.

The present British champion, Mrs. Andrew Holm of Troon, Scotland, mother of two children, wears well-cut trousers when she plays.

The last word on the subject is Miss Minoprio's diplomatic remark: "Trousers are becoming to a woman only if she knows how to wear them."

Women in the new air units will wear mechanics overalls while in training but women with the air records and positions of authority long ago decided that any swank in dress was "bad form."

Mrs. F. G. Miles, daughter of Forbes Robertson, designer of airplanes and woman member of the new Civil Air Guard Committee, has definite ideas on the subject. "I would rather be seen dead than wearing a helmet," is her opinion. Her usual costume for work in the airplane factory at Reading in which she is a partner with her flier husband, is a grey flannel suit, beautifully cut, and a grey cashmere pullover or grey silk skirt.

Mrs. G. Patterson who instructs a class of 20 aviation girls out at Romford is equally squeamish about flying kit. "When I worked flying and selling planes for one of the big oil companies in England a year or so ago," she confessed, "I dressed so that when any plane arrived at the various airports I was ready for the tea or party which usually greeted me. My white gloves and gardenia were a standing joke, but they served their purpose and they sold planes."

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

RUMOUR. "Rumour is a pipe
Blown by surmises, jealousies, Conjectures;
And of so easy and so plain a stop,
That the blunt monster with uncounted heads,
The still-discordant wavering multitude,
Can play upon it."
—Shakespeare. Henry iv.

Dear Friends:

Every so often someone says to me "did you hear the rumour about so-and-so?" And it makes me so mad. For what are these rumours that people circulate about others?

Just a something to pull the other down and discredit the things they have done, or the job they hold, or the position in life which they occupy.

But the thing those people who spread humours never seem to understand is, that one day if they don't watch their tongue, rumour with its many heads, will spread something about themselves, and how will they like it then.

Not so long ago, I heard a scurrilous rumour about a woman, who was supposed to have been in such a place, at such a time, with so and so, and precisely at this same time this woman lay sick in bed.

I said so in no uncertain terms, and further said if this lady did not do all in her power to clear it up I would tell the woman concerned and let her take the consequences.

We all like to hear news about our neighbors that is natural. A little friendly talk hurts no one. But when ugly rumours begin to go the rounds about someone you know, just stop long enough to think how you would feel if the same thing were being said about you.

Because, rumours are never said to a person's face. If it were they could fight it. And there is not one of us who does not get in the wrong place at the wrong time some part of our lives.

Neither is there one of us so blameless that rumour cannot cannot touch us. We might be as innocent as the babe unborn, but if the circumstances point to a chance for someone to talk about us, we get talked about.

Generally the ones who are so busy telling things about someone else, has so much to cover in their own lives that they try to drag others down to their own level.

Men have fought and killed each other through rumour, there have been slander actions because of it, friends have been estranged through it, homes broken up, lovers parted, and all for what?

Just that someone gratified their lower instincts to blacken another human being. And what they give out they will get back, what they sow in discrediting another, they will reap in being discredited bitterly themselves.

So, if someone whispers a lurid story to you about someone else just tell them you don't believe it. Ask if they saw the thing done, and you will generally find that somebody else told them and they did not see it either.

Just think too, if you would like every little mistake you have made, magnified and rumoured about you. That will seal your lips if nothing else will.

And, if everybody minded their own business, rumour would die a natural death, never to come alive again. Do your good deed by helping to kill it. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

IN THE FASHION STAKES

By ALICE ALDEN

Visit the race tracks and you'll surely discover some new entries in the fashion stakes. Society women and designers use important racing events as the occasions to launch new country fashions and smart casual clothes. At recent meets we have noted that several women have sponsored something new in the coat world — a Chesterfield coat in fingertip length. Priscilla Lane wears a spectator sports costume showing the new length jacket at left. It is of brown and white tweed in a diagonal weave. The model has a double-breasted closing, and a collar and ascot of brown velveteen. The other photo is of a Jaeger suit, with a plaid cape of rust and brown, worn over a brown and beige-checked jacket and a brown skirt.

OA. S. Marden tells us this: "He who is habitually suspicious of others is himself untrustworthy; and he who judges another is guilty of those very faults he condemns." Think that over.

Home Service Schools Are Success

LONDON, Nov. 4—(CP) — More than 600 Ontario households have opened their doors to blue-uniformed trainees from the Home Service Training Schools in the two years the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Scheme has been in operation. Seventy per cent of the girls leaving the centres have earned their blue pins signifying three-months continuous service in a home after completing the three-months course at the centre. Many more still in service are hoping to gain their final certificates soon.

Formal graduation exercises have been happy affairs through at the province, Miss Dortha M. Jackson of Toronto, supervisor in charge of Ontario training centres, reports. In Ottawa, past, present and future trainees mingled with employers, friends and relatives when the presentation of pins to those attaining their three-months service was made at the first "at home" of the training centre.

Interim certificates were distributed at the same function to the second class who qualified to start household duties in private homes while the third class, now in training served tea, sandwiches and little cakes of their own making to the "old girs" who completed their course.

A happier relationship between employer and employee has developed through these training centres Miss Edith L. Appleton, director of employment service in Ottawa, achieved by graduates of the centre stated. Such success has been that the employment bureau is besieged with calls for home service trainees by employers who are anxious to co-operate and continue the training begun in the centre by making the girls "household helpers" rather than "scullery maids."

Major Bennett Chapter I. O. D. E.

Miss Anna McKenzie, Regent, presided at the November meeting of the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., which was held Wednesday evening at the home of the Misses Lawrence, Park street.

A report of the Tea and Fashion Show held last week was read, and a donation was made to the Red Cross Association. Plans were also discussed for the Christmas dance to be held on December 26. Several committees were appointed.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water, and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing, or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—(Advt.)

We Noticed

. . . Someone on George street wearing a stunning ensemble. A suit of Dubonnet shade sheer wool, two piece style, was topped with a pill-box hat in a matching shade of felt. A curling ostrich feather perched in the middle of her hat was the shade of deep red roses, and her furs were of Kolinsky.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . .That a recent bride wore as her travelling costume a black coat trimmed with mink over an angora woollen dress the shade of violets. Her hat was a smart-looking tricorne of black antelope, and matching accessories were of suede.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . .One of the stores is showing an adorable evening frock of taffeta in a lovely shade of blue. A real hoop skirt, just like grandma's and garlands of delicate pink flowers from the neck to hem combine in the delightfully quaint effect.

Mrs. W. Hamilton W. M. S. Hostess

Mrs. W. J. Hamilton of 599 Homewood avenue was hostess to Group E of the George street W. M. S. on Thursday afternoon, when the monthly meeting was held with the president, Mrs. E. Wand, presiding.

The topic for the roll call was Thanksgiving. Interesting facts concerning Trinidad were given by Mrs. E. Wand, Mrs. F. Wildman reported on Temperance, Mrs. W. H Cunningham read the Bible lesson, and prayer was led by Mrs Morrow.

A delightful solo was given by Mrs. F. Wildman, and a thought-provoking and inspiring little address on "Thanksgiving" by Mrs. W. H. Morton.

"Through Europe Today" Lecture Subject

France, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Switzerland, England, Holland and Italy were beautifully depicted in an illustrated lecture "Through Europe Today," which was given by Miss Hilda Hesson of Winnipeg, hostess for the Canadian Pacific Railways, in the Y. W. C. A. Green Room at three o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Included in Miss Hesson's busy itinerary for Thursday also was an address before the Kinsmen's Club at its noon luncheon, and in the Parish Hall at 8.15 in the evening, when her lecture was sponsored by St. John's Church Women's association and A. Y. P. A. The beauty, charm, and fascination of the islands of Honolulu was the subject of both of these fine addresses.

Fashion Facts For Every Woman

Color is used to add new life to black and sober shades or in intriguing combinations of hues. The violet and cioline tones—purple, plum, cyclamen and fuchsia—rank first. Then comes a range of reds including American beauty and wine; and a variety of rusts, titians, greens and blues. Grays and browns compel the day picture and pastels are important for evenings.

Day skirts are generally short, but the silhouette shows variation. Wider flared skirts and slender fitted bodices are the newest notes, but there are a number of straight skirts, soft draped bodices and wide-armed "angel" sleeves.

Furs are used lavishly. They make hats, muffs, jackets and a number of straight box coats (longer than last year). They likewise trim cloth coats and band costume suits.

Weyrich-Robertson

Trinity United church, Cobourg, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Friday evening, when Dorothy Fleming Robertson of Cobourg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Robertson, Oshawa, was married to Andrew John Cyril Weyrich, son of Mr. Andrew Weyrich and the late Mrs. Weyrich of Oshawa. Rev. W. P. Woodger officiated, and Mr. John Rogertson, Oshawa, brother of the bride, played the wedding music. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Stewart Alger, Oshawa, sang "My World."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in rose white velvet. She wore a short veil and carried pink chrysanthemums. She was attended by her three sisters, Miss Helen Robertson, as maid of honor, wore red velvet with velvet cap to match, and Miss Martha Robertson and Miss Florence Robertson wore a harmonizing shade of red velvet with matching caps. The attendants all carried bronze 'mums. The ushers were Mr. Donald McDougall, Cobourg, and Mr. Gordon Garnett, Toronto.

For travelling the bride wore a costume of brown trimmed with fur, and matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Weyrich will live in Oshawa.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Oshawa, Toronto and other points.

Short Jackets Gain In Favor

NEW YORK.—Short capes and jackets are the definite preference in evening wraps that are being worn now, largely in the long-haired furs. It is interesting to note how this fashion of short jackets, little more than bolero length, has gained favor this season, not only in evening fashions, but in a great many of the new separate daytime fur jackets and ensembles that have come out during the past week. Sable dyes and white fox are prominent in the evening types, with ermine for some of the little jackets. Silver fox, though now sharing attention with other furs, is still being worn. Capes, too, also subscribe to this the silhouette of brevity, as a phase of fashion particularly suited to this early fall or "little season."

Shirtwaist Style Is Always Good

The classic shirtwaist frock is a favorite once more, a little softer and more detailed, but retaining a trim and tailored air. Shirring yokes, softness over the bust and across the back, skirts gored or pleated, nearly always slim about the waist and hiplines, are features. Dirndl themes are shown in a number of lines, often considerably removed from the original. Windbreaker jackets and boleros over one-piece frocks are very popular, also over skirts with halter or camisole tops.

Snapped in Picture Costs Teacher Job

MEDFIELD, Mass., Nov. 4 (CP)—Standing around when a photographer takes pictures appears to be dangerous practice in some cases.

Miss Christina Alach, 23-year-old former teacher in the Medfield Grammar School, has denied that she is a Communist and has engaged a lawyer after an unfortunate photograph taken during a semi-political demonstration in Postoffice Square Oct. 1, had cost her her job.

Miss Alach was discharged by the Medfield school committee after she had admitted taking part in the demonstration in front of the British consulate in protest against the four-power agreement partitioning Czechoslovakia.

"She has terminated her usefulness as a teacher in the public schools of Medfield," declared the official committee.

Miss Alach said she had no idea that Communists were taking part in the demonstration, which was broken up by police. "I am not a Communist, either by belief or affiliation."

Miss Alach is a graduate of Farmingham high school and the State Teachers' College at Farmingham. Her parents came from the Russian Ukraine.

Legion Bazaar Is Proving Successful Event

Its success foreshadowed by a week of delightful weather, the annual Bazaar which the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion are sponsoring Thursday and Friday afternoon got under way with a flourish yesterday.

Long tables attractively displaying the wares of each department lines the walls of the Legion Hall, where the affair is being held, and among the attractions is a busy fish pond, and a fortune telling booth.

The tea table is arranged with a white cut-work cloth, and a silver basket of bittersweet, and smaller tables are centred with silver holders filled with bronze and yellow 'mums. Mrs. J. Mills and Mrs. E. Paterson are pouring, and assistants include the convener, Mrs. Walter Hughes, Mrs. E. Graham, Mrs. E. McKinstry, and Mrs. J. Mackness.

The candy table, always of outstanding popularity, features baskets and boxes dressed in colorful jackets of bright green and red crepe paper, and is under the direction of Mrs. A. Parrington, assisted by Mrs. J. Gynane. In charge of bedroom accessories, which include a wide range and interesting assortment of towels, pillow cases, nightgowns, etc., is Mrs. E. Wagstaff, with Mrs. C. H. Porter and Mrs. E. J. Waterman as helpers.

Beautifully finished fancy work of all kinds, as well as a collection of warm, hand-knitted mitts, is being sold by Mrs. J. Hawthorne, who is convener, and Mrs. E. McKinstry. Delicious home-made cooking, and jars of appetizing looking jams, jellies and pickles, are sold by Mrs. E. Dormer, convenor, and Mrs. G. Chambers. A table of novelties, ranging from pot holders, table mats, etc., to nigger dolls dressed in paddy green knitted wool suits, is in charge of Mrs. T. Sarginson, assisted by Mrs. E Cooke, Mrs. N. House, and Mrs. E. Mitchel.

Aprons in all sizes and styles, and in particularly interesting and colormul patterns of gingham and print, are sold by Mrs. J. Bradley, assisted by Mrs. P. Golds. Mrs. A. Fairey and Mrs. E. Millard are in charge of the fish pond, Mrs. R. Lynch and Mrs. R. Bugg direct the fortune telling and the treasurer is Mrs. A. E. Patterson.

If you are buying a new broom, here are some hints for making it last longer than any broom you've had before. Fix the handle firmly into the head, then plunge the broom into a bucket of cold water to which you have added a big handful of common salt. Leave the broom to soak for twenty-four hours, and loose handles and moulding bristles will be things of the past. The broom should always be stored with the bristles upwards, and if you give it a wash once in a while in warm water and a tablespoonful of soda, the broom will last and last.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Housewives Found Most Often Heading Contest Lists

Approximately 80 of the 94 fall film productions listed in the Motion Pictures' Greatest Year $250,000 Movie Quiz have no been released and answers are beginning to pour in to contest headquarters from all around the United States and Canada. In addition to replying to a choice of any 30 of the 94 questions in the booklets, contestants are required to write not over 50 words regarding the picture they liked best.

Because a number of entrants have expressed a fear that their personal expressions of the reasons for preferring some particular production might not receive the same consideration as the efforts of professional authors, Jack Todd, representing the contest managers, has gathered some statistics that should immediately dispel any such qualms on the part of the general public. Mr. Todd, vice-president of Radio and Publications Contests, Inc., New York City, has originated, handled and judged more big national contests than any other expert in this line in the entire world, and therefore speaks with great authority.

"A careful tabulation of the winners in all the most outstanding contests of the past 15 years, according to Todd, "have been persons engaged in ordinary, everyday walks of life—many of them housewives.

"In the first place, professional writers rarely have the time or inclination to tax their tired minds with slogans, puzzles, or other forms of brain-teasers in their all too few leisure hours. By the very nature of their livelihood, they are too busy lending their energies on orders for definite assignments for articles, stories, or books to risk uncertainties.

"Furthermore, the all important points in these little essays—whether the contest has to do with toothpaste, breakfast foods, cigarettes, motion pictures or what not—is that the opinion, criticism, or sentiment proffered, comes not from a gifted pen but from the heart. The quality of sincerity is vastly more vital to the sponsors than any literary style. The man who writes indifferent English, but has an original or helpful idea, stands every bit as good a chance as the most educated college professor. Just as in threshing wheat, the kernel is separated from the chaff, it is only the essence of a contest reply that is grist to the judges' mill—the phraseology is of far less consequence."

McBride; solo, George Seymour; reading, Bo-Peep and Her Lamb, Merle Blogett; piano solo, Eileen Rogers, Gerald Rogers; reading, Ona Stewart, Phyllis Bull; solo, Mabel McKenzie.

The W.M.S. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. F. Etcher on Wednesday afternoon. The program committee for December is Mrs. S. McBride, Mrs. F. Birney and Mrs. Rogers. Mrs. Birney took up the first of the new study book, "The World in Canada." Mrs. James McKenzie and Mrs. Walton contributed readings. Mrs. A. Nichol offered her home for the next meeting. The devotional reading was taken by Mrs. R. Curtis. The thank offering was taken and the lunch committee, Mrs. Prettie and Mrs. MacGregor served lunch of sandwiches and cake.

Gets Best Ideas Washing Dishes

CLEVELAND, Nov. 4.—(UP).—Pots, pans and poetry all are mingled together in the life of Mrs. Elencre Pfaller, 23, verse writing housewife, who gets her best ideas "while washing the dishes."

Leafy dells and babbling brooks are not needed to inspire the young woman, who has been writing verse between meals and mopping for 12 years.

"I don't have to make it up," she said, emptying a dustpan. "I just write it down as the words come to me."

Her subjects range from a trip to the hospital to the recent European crisis, with prize fights, air disasters and odes on love sandwiched between.

While mopping the kitchen floor, Mrs. Pfaller began thinking about all the troubles in Europe, and wrote:

"White crosses of the great war
Are trampled by marching men.
Soldiers of yesterday rest no more;
Drums are beating above them again."

CORK CARPET

The surface of cork carpet is rather soft, and it may easily be damaged by heavy furniture or by defective castors on the legs of beds, settees, and large armchairs. Castors should be kept oiled so that they run smoothly. Damaged places in the carpet should be repaired at once with a mixture of finely chopped cork and glue. This should be pressed into holes or scratches while it is soft. When it has dried and hardened it should be rubbed over with sandpaper to give it a smooth finish.

KEENE

The junior bridge club opened its meetings Tuesday night at the home of Miss Betty Brown. Bridge was enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served at close of play.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads simply dissolve and disappear by this one simple, safe and sure method. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store, sprinkle it on a hot, wet cloth, rub the face gently—every blackhead will be gone. Have a Hollywood complexion.

"Democracy" Theme Of Fine Address

Dr. Lorna Cotton was special speaker at a well attended meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I. O. D. E., held in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room on Wednesday afternoon

Speaking on "Democracy," this brilliant speaker held the close attention of her listeners, giving a lucid and eloquent analysis of democratic government, its history, its meaning, and its aims. Dr. Cotton made a powerful appeal to citizens to protect democracy by recognizing its responsibilities, and by devoting their best intelligence to the solution of its problems.

The regent, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, presided at the meeting, at which donations were voted to the Red Cross Relief for Northern fire sufferers; towards an indigent under the aegis of Mrs. W. R. Morris; and toward other Chapter objectives.

Following their usual custom, the Chapter will place a wreath on the Cenotaph on Armistice Day, and in compliance with a request by Fire Chief Gimblett, president of the Legion, four ladies offered their services as taggers on Poppy Day. Plans were made for a community bridge in November, Mrs. Edmonds graciously offering her home for the occasion.

As the desirable object for future effort, it was suggested by the regent that the Chapter assist a project of the Y. M. C. A. aiming toward making available to a larger number of the youth of the town the swimming pool and other privileges of the 'Y'. Much vision and understanding has been shown in the planning of the work, the boys of different sections being grouned together, and provided with healthful and wholesome interests, and in many cases offered opportunity for useful and gainful employment. This plan was enthusiastically received by the meeting, and twenty-five dollars voted to be sent to the Boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Welcome Woman As Diet Chief

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—(CP)—Giving vent to a long distrust of the dainty and unsatisfying dishes foisted on the American male by the dietetic experts, the Herald Tribune editorially rejoiced in the recent election of Mrs. Beulah Backer Marble of Boston as president of the American Dietetic Association.

Mrs. Marble in her maiden presidential dietetic pronouncement recommended steak and mushrooms as a "food combination that can hardly be improved upon."

"The experts on diet in the past have been guilty of recommending dishes that, while they might be 'good for you' were highly unpalatable," said the article. The paper complained of the poor treatment most steaks get at the hands of poor chefs, commenting that some chefs "turn out something indistinguishable from a slice of an old boot, with gravy."

"The best cuts of beef are precious," said the editorial, licking its chops. "Now that Mrs. Marble has put her imprimatur upon steak as a sound item of diet, let the cooks pull themselves together and stop spoiling a magnificent dish."

Lakevale Enjoys Hallowe'en Party

FOWLER'S CORNERS, Nov. 4.—There were a large number in costume for the Hallowe'en masquerade held at the home of Mrs. Joe Hunter and sponsored by the Mission Band of Lakevale Presbyterian church.

Judges were: Lillian McGregor, Irene Irwin, W. T. Howden and Gordon McGregor.

Games were played and the evening concluded with the service of refreshments.

SLEEK BLACK SATIN

By ALICE ALDEN

Fabrics and colors may come and go, but the popularity of rich, sleek, black satin remains unabated through the years. This season some of the smartest women on both sides of the Atlantic have ordered black satin as a dramatic background for alabaster shoulders and colorful gems. Carole Lombard is one actress who believes in the drama of a black satin evening frock. This model is of black slipped satin, eight yards of the fabric making the flaring skirt. A wide, satin-covered cord forms the decolletage in seven-eighths effect. It loops over the shoulder marks the top of the waistline and twists across the deep back in one unbroken line.

Nurse Plans to Spend Retirement In Village Where She Worked

RED BAY, Labrador, Nov. 4—(CP)—When they turned the key in the little Grenfell Mission House in this Strait of Belle Isle settlement it meant the end of 20 years of service for Miss Minnie Pike.

But the "Florence Nightingale of Labrador," who has been pensioned, will remain in the northland because the Grenfell Foundation has new plans for the Red Bay station. She will stand by while she is needed.

Her association with the work of Sir Wilfred Grenfell began in 1892 when the "Labrador Doctor" first began his work along the rugged coastline. Minnie Pike was his first helper.

Later she went to St. Anthony at Newfoundland's northern tip, there to become nurse to Dr. Grenfell's children. A visit to England with the Grenfell family followed. She then spent a year in the hills of Kentucky learning the art of weaving which she taught to her people when she returned.

It was two decades ago that Sir Wilfred took over the old Methodist Parsonage at Red Bay, there to start the nucleus of his mission. Miss Pike was placed in charge of the station.

Until her retirement she taught weaving, dispensed clothing to the needy and gave first aid to the ill and wounded. Now well past middle age she will remain with her sister-in-law in the little community where she has served for so many years.

Old French Sword

CUTLER, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.). — Cutler residents are busy discussing the origin of an old sword found on the beach here by Dave Meawassije. Believed by some to be of French origin, the weapon was partially buried in the sand.

Didn't Want To Go

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 4 (C.P.)—When hit by a truck a month ago, Hercule Meloche, 53, refused at first to listen to pleas of witnesses that he should go to hospital, but then consented finally. To-day he still is in hospital with two broken legs and two cracked ribs.

Mrs. Brown Hostess To Norwood W.M.S.

NORWOOD, Nov. 4.—Mrs. E. Hogg's group was in charge of the November meeting of the United Church Women's Missionary Society held at the home of Mrs. James Brown on Wednesday with an attendance of 64.

Mrs. H. Robb, president, was in the chair for the opening exercises and the business which included arrangements for a bale to be sent to the Emergency Relief Fund for use in the West and Northern Ontario, articles to be left with Mrs. H. Robb this week.

Mrs. B. Scott, on behalf of Christian Stewardship and Finance, read a short essay on "Our Allocation." Mrs. E. Hogg, Temperance secretary, gavea short talk on "The Liquor Traffic as an Economic Evil."

A nominating committee consisting of Mesdames M. I. Robinson, H. Robb, B. Tucker, A. Brethen and J. Marks was appointed.

Mrs. Alfred Metcalfe, president of Hastings Auxiliary, was present and spoke a few words of greeting from the Hastings group.

Mrs. Hogg's group then took charge of the program which opened with prayer led by Mrs. Hogg, followed by a hymn. The Scripture lesson from Romans 8, was read by Mrs. W. McMillan. The new study book "The World in Canada" was ably introduced by Mrs. C. McConnell who reviewed the first chapter "Weaving a New Web." Mrs. John Gallagher then favored with a vocal solo.

The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn and prayer led by Mrs. J. Gardner after which lunch was served.

Test Operations Carried Out And Now New Dairy Is Ready For Its First Milk

The Clancy Dairy at the junction of Park Street South and Stewart Street was completed this week, will be open to the public for inspection on Saturday from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m., and will begin production next week. Test operations have been carried on during the last few days, and the new business in the south-end is ready for its day to day operations.

In the design and plans of the building, Leonard J. Clancy took advantage of the broad experience of executives of the DeLaval Company and also of officials of the Ontario Departments of Health, Agriculture and Labor. The result of their advice and of the constructional ability of H. T. Hickey is readily observable in the exterior attractiveness of the Clancy Dairy and its economy of space, arrangement of the special machinery, and other conveniences to facilitate movement and work.

The Dairy is thirty feet by forty feet, with one storey and basement, finished in plain white color and black trim, a decorative simplicity that harmonizes with the business of pasteurizing, clarifying, cooling and bottling milk for the consuming public, and incidentally carrying on a retail business in milk, cream, cheese, ice-cream and dairy products in general.

Like the average factory the new Dairy has been arranged to receive its raw material at one end and deliver the finished product at the other. The essential machinery is all arranged on the main floor, and allotted to rooms which are actually separate departments.

Milk cans are unloaded at platform on the east side of the building, pass immediately into the receiving room, and are emptied into the weighing vat. The first step is simply the recording of quantities as they come from the dairy farm. An electric pump is put into operation and the milk is pumped from the weighing vat, through what is called a line filter chiefly because it is the direct route to the pasteurizer. This filter takes the place of the old clarifiers, is easily taken apart to be cleaned. The filtering agent can be removed as often as desired, at least once daily.

Shining Stainless Steel.

The pasteurizer in the main and central room is entirely of stainless steel, with a capacity of 160 gallons, and by the way, merits commendation as a modern, streamlined machine of which the DeLaval Company can be just proud. It has a sanitary look about it as if it will be comparatively easy to be kept clean and wholesome. Steam in its outer enclosing jacket raises the temperature of the milk to 143 degrees. That heat is maintained for at least thirty minutes, and in the meantime the milk has been activated by an instrument or just plain part that looks like the propeller of a Johnson outboard motor.

Two thermometers record the heat of the milk during the process of pasteurization. One thermometer is of the indicating type and the other is for recording. This instrument traces on a chart the pasteurizer's heat while it has been in operation during the day. These charts are dated and filled for scrutiny by Government inspectors.

Cooling and Bottling.

Another small motor pumps the milk from the pasteurizer to the cooling and aerating apparatus, and it is worth noticing that the pump is of stainless steel, designed for the dairy trade, and easily taken apart for cleaning. The first of the refrigerating units reduced the heat of the milk from 143 degrees to from 34 to 38 degrees in thirty or forty seconds. The milk flows over the exterior of this piece of equipment, and reaches the bottling machine, in the same room, at the lowered temperature of around 34 to 38 degrees.

In the next step bottles are filled and capped, and placed on low trucks on which they are rolled into the cooling room where the temperature is maintained at 34 to 40 degrees. There are two outlets for the bottles from this room, one to a platform on the south side of the building from which they can be transferred to delivery trucks or wagons, and the other opens off the retail room in front at counter level.

On the other side of the building there is another room for washing and sterilizing milk cans, and nearby is one somewhat similar for washing and sterilizing bottles. Plenty of water and steam is provided in these machines, and an alkaline solution is used in the sterilizing process.

All this equipment is of DeLaval make and also the new boiler in the basement. The walls of the rear rooms, the main part of the building have been finished with medusa cement and silica sand. They are waterproof and can be washed and flushed as frequently as may be desired. Water outlets in the concrete floors are ordinary conveniences for the work of keeping the premises scrupulously clean.

The piping that connects the several machines is nickel-plated copper, and so are the valves, and it is obvious that the DeLaval Company has been highly successful in designing apparatus that is easily accessible to hot water and steam. It looks like a fine job all the way from the weighing vat to the cooling room at one end and the washing room for the cans and bottles at the other.

In front of the building there is office accommodation, and also what may be called the store, ample room for a long counter at which dairy products will be sold. Wash rooms are provided for men and women.

Michael J. Clancy, son of the proprietor, will be in charge of the pasteurizing operations. Some additional details are yet to be worked out, but they are only incidentals. The main plant was all tuned up and ready for what might be called trial runs, testing of the equipment in preparation for ordinary work that begins next week.

Pre-nuptial Shower

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 4. — A number of friends of Miss Lulu Gay were guests at a pre-nuptial shower given in her honor on Wednesday evening. The affair was held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Ferris, Saskatoon avenue and Misses Eleanor Ferris and Florence Thomas were the hostesses of the evening. The living room was delightfully decorated with talisman roses and bronze mums, and the evening was spent in playing cards. Miss Gay will become the bride of Mr. William Hogle at an early date.

JOURNEY'S END

GRENOBLE, France — (CP). — Flambeau, a postmaster's dog who for eight years carried mail to soldiers in Fort Saulieres, 7,000 feet up in the Alps but had been retired, was found dead at the Fort—the end of his old beat.

Best-Seller Author at Eleven

David Statler, 11-year-old Memphis, Tenn., boy whose "Roaring Guns" was published recently and almost at once jumped into the best-seller class, is shown here autographing copies of the book for "his public." "Roaring Guns" is regarded by critics as the most hilarious story in a long, long time. Not that David intended it to be funny. In one chapter, called laconically "trouble," eight hundred men get shot, stabbed and tomahawked. In another chapter, Bill Johnson, "The badest robber in the west," gets killed twice in three pages.

Two Peterborough Factories Supplied Virtually All Machinery For Dairy

Two Peterborough factories have supplied virtually all the machinery that has been installed in Clancey's Dairy. The pasteurizing equipment was manufactured by the DeLaval Company, and the refrigeration units were produced by the Canadian General Electric Company.

The refrigerating machinery is of the latest type and is especially adapted for dairies. One of the machines, both of them set up in the basement, is connected with the cooling room for the milk after it has been clarified, pasteurized, cooled and bottled. The other furnished the refrigeration for the cooling machine through which the milk passes from the pasteurizer to the bottling plant.

It is sufficient to say about the mechanical equipment that it is the last word in specialized machinery for the dairy business, part of it from the C.G.E. Company and the major equipment from the DeLaval. Men associated with both these industries have stated that the Clancey Dairy plant is one of the most compact and complete in this country.

H. T. Hickey of Peterborough was the contractor, and local materials and labor were used as far as possible.

Editors Turn Barrage On FitzRoy For Branding Press "Cheap"

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(CP).—Sharply contrasting views of two distinguished Britons on the value of modern newspapers are being widely published here with editorial writers generally criticizing remarks of Captain Edward Algernon FitzRoy, Speaker of the House of Commons, while praising the views of Lord Hewart, Lord Chief Justice.

The Speaker of the House told a school opening ceremony at Brackley, Northamptonshire, that in these days "of the cheap press, I think one of the great dangers to the modern state is for the population to take their ideas from what they read in the newspapers."

"This is a cheap and nasty way of forming a judgment on anything," he continued. "The great danger is that people should be turned out by mass production without soul and without mind, like sausages from a machine."

Editorial writers, responding to the challenge to their profession, called attention to these remarks by Lord Hewart to the Newsvendors' Benevolent and Provident Institution:

"A good many persons are very ready to find fault with newspapers, both individual and as a whole. These persons seem to me, at the very least, profoundly ungrateful. Do they every stop to consider how grievously they would find the interest of their lives diminished if, by some sinister miracle, the press could be destroyed?

Behind a Good Paper

"Do we think as gratefully, or even as fairly as we should of the superlative ability, vigor, care and learning, the wit, dexterity, vivacity and the versatility, the dutifulness, courage, conscientiousness and the ceaseless hard work which creates and recreates a good newspaper?

"Whatever you may think of the virtue and the beauty of the press or of particular portions of it, you will probably agree that at any rate in a country which is, or is supposed to be, governed by representative institutions, the press is nothing less than a necessity."

Captain Fitzroy's reflections "seem to have been those of a blimp not quite in his usual form," was the caustic observation of the Liberal News Chronicle.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, recalling that Captain Fitzroy had been educated at Eton and Sandhurst declared "those who have had less money spent on their schooling than the speaker are just as competent to form sound judgments as he is. And in the press of Britain, honestly recording the happenings of the world, the public finds a sound basis for its opinions and a sure safeguard for its liberties of thought."

"The public may choose between Captain Fitzroy's attack and Lord Hewart's defence," says the London Standard. "Every day they are presented with a wide range of newspapers of every political color . . . They are not spoonfed with an undiluted syrup of propaganda—the daily diet to which people are condemned in those countries where the rights and functions of the press have been treated with Captain Fitzroy's fine contempt."

HIAWATHA

Ducks have been fairly plentiful on Rice Lake this fall and the guides are busy.

A Hallowe'en party and social was held in the school on Monday afternoon.

The Hiawatha Sunday School decided to send a number of delegates to the Bay of Quinte Winter school, to be held in Belleville the first week in January.

1939 Nash Is Completely Re-styled

Completely re-styled from stem to stern and replete with advanced new features, the new Nash car for 1939 is now on display here. In design, the new car is pure, modern streamlining. It has a very narrow, sparkling radiator grille, wide "catwalks" which are broken by cooling grilles and massive, rounded fenders. Adjustable headlights are set flush into the fenders, their lenses forming continuation of the fender lines. The flowing, aerodynamic lines of the car converge on a streamlined back which has just the trace of a fin down the centre. This type of back, known as the "fast back," or the more conventional trunk back, is optional at no difference in cost.

CLANCEY'S HERD OF FORTY HOLSTEINS SUPPLY MILK FOR DAIRY

Leonard J. Clancey Provided His Customers With Best Possible Quality Of Milk

When Leonard J. Clancey acquired his farm of four hundred acres in Otonabee township, situated on the Crowley line about a mile or two south of Downer's Corner, his intentions were directed toward the developing of the dairy branch of farming. That goal became his ambition, partly because he felt that the returns from the land might not be sufficient to meet his enlarging needs as his family increased.

Fifteen years slipped by before he was able to launch into the milk business. He bought an established route in 1921 and set about cultivating the trade that came to him, by providing his customers with the best possible quality of whole milk. His aim was to comply with the instructions of the city's Department of Health. Prior to the Ontario government's decision to enforce pasteurization, Mr. Clancey had built up a herd of nearly forty Holsteins, thirty-eight at present, and eighteen or more of them milking. His cattle have all passed three tests for bovine tuberculosis, the blood test for Bang's disease and the test for mastitis. He had his own sanitary bottling equipment in his dairy on the farm, and in every practical detail he could guarantee the quality of the Clancey milk to his many customers.

Built Up Confidence

As a milk producer and vendor Mr. Cancey had established a reputation in Peterborough that was actually an asset which only he could retain. Then with the coming of compulsory pasteurization, the accumulated result of his labor and investment seemed about to pass from his hands, as it did with vendors who were not prepared to make the change required by the government. In that emergency he decided to swing with the times, and in building the Clancey Dairy on Park street south he had followed his ideal of setting up the most modern equipment that will ensure the quality of milk desired by consumers and required by the provincial and municipal authorities.

Practically all the Clancey milk is supplied from the Clancey herd of Holsteins, thoroughly tested as they have been over a comparatively long period.

Next week the Clancey Dairy will be in full operation, and those who visit it Saturday afternoon and evening cannot fail but be impressed by its brightness and by the mechanical aids to produce a high class product for the consuming public.

HALL'S BRIDGE

Hallowe'en passed off very quietly with all the youngsters and several of the oldsters visiting their friends in costume. The boys were up to their usual pranks, but all was in fun and no damage done.

The Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly, B.D., and Mrs. Dwelly of Penetanguishene, were recent visitors with Dr. and Mrs. Willis.

A cabbage weighing 16¾ lbs. and measuring about 14 inches in diameter is on show at Shearer's store in Buckhorn. It was grown by George Ireland of the Oregon Trail.

Mr. Wallace Shearer's mill has been working and in a short time will start off for a good winter's run. This with the lumber camps means good times in the district.

MADOC

The second annual parents' night at Madoc High School was held in the school auditorium on Friday evening. The guest speaker of the evening was Mr. P. C. McLaurin, principal of Belleville Collegiate. Mr. Thain of Madoc was chairman and a good program was presented with short addresses by parents present. A piano solo was given by Miss Edna Salisbury; reading by Doris Broad; solo by Mrs. W. J. Hulin; and a violin solo by Mr. Johnston with Miss Eleanor Aylesworth as accompanist. The staff and senior pupils served lunch and the National Anthem closed the meeting.

Belmont's Tax Rate Jumps Over 8 Mills

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Nov. 4.—The Belmont and Methune tax rate took a sharp increase this year, the rate being struck at 56.3 mills, as compared with 46.6 mills last year. A reduction of one mill by reason of the provincail subsidy, leaves the total increase 8.7 mills.

The increase is due not to the township rate which is the same as last year, but to the other rates and the addition of a new rate for three mills for indigents and abatements.

The rate was struck as follows:

	Mills
County rate	8.5
County schools rates	3.1
County roads rate	4.8
Provincial road rate	2.7
County pupils rate	3.1
General school rate	7.1
Direct relief	4.0
Township rate	20.0
Indigents and abatements	3.0
Total rate	56.3
Less provincial subsidy	55.3

Jap Battles Cost Army High Toll

SHANGHAI, Nov. 4—(AP)—Chinese forces reported today they had inflicted 1,500 Japanese casualties in desperate battles in the Tung Shan mountains south of Hankow.

Severe fighting also was in progress at the south end of the Canton railway near Samshui. In Canton Japanese soldiers were forcing the circulation of "military scrip", admittedly a form of inflation, to replace native currency and to buy supplies. Foodstuffs were being requisitioned by Japanese in the countryside around Canton.

A dispatch from Hong Kong said Kwangsi province divisions, totalling nearly 200,000 fully-equipped troops, were reported by Chinese to be advancing toward Samshui, 25 miles westof Canton, in a general counter-offensive against the Japanese along the West river.

The official Chinese government news agency at Hong Kong reported a small Japanese force was driven back to the walls of Samshui where, it said, the Chinese were launching a vigorous attack on the orders of General Chiang Kai-Shek to stiffen the resistance in Kwangtung province.

Domei (Japanese news agency) said three Chinese divisions were concentrated near Pakong on the Canton-Hankow railway.

World's Record Jersey Cow

The world's record Jersey cow, Brampton Basilua, as she was about to enter the Coliseum at the National Dairy Show, Columbus, Ohio, where sh was greeted by the band playing "God Save The King." In six lactation periods Brampton Basilua has produced 100,341 lbs. of milk and 6,367 lbs. of fat, with an average test of 6.39 per cent. No other Dairy cow in the world has ever produced as much butter fat in the same length of time as has this sensational Jersey cow. She is shown with her faithful herdsman, Walter Wright.

Conant Defines "Picketing"

TORONTO, Nov. 4 — (CP) — A warning that picketing in labor disputes must not be permitted to interfere with every man's right to work if he wishes was contained in a statement issued today by Ontario Attorney-General Gordon Conant. The statement was sent to law-enforcement officers throughout the province.

The memorandum read:

"Picketing is unlawful, when any person is compelled to abstain from anything which he has a lawful right to do, or is compelled to do anything which he has the dawful right to abstain from doing, if the person picketing uses violence to such other persons, or his wife or children, or injures his property."

In addition to defining lawful picketing, the memorandum defined what might be considered lawful picketing. It is said to be the result of recent incidents which brought up a question as to whether picketing in some forms constitutes a violation of the law.

The memorandum listed the use of violence, intimidation, hindrance by hiding tools or necessary equipment, disorderly though not violent attempts to prevent a man from working and watching and besetting workmen as acts which might be interpreted as unlawful picketing.

The statement also listed some acts of lawful picketing.

It maintained it is quite lawful for pickets to give a man their reasons why he should not go to work, or for them to interrogate workers entering or leaving a plant, or give them any information the pickets wish to impart.

". . . That is as far as this section (section 501 of the Criminal Code) goes," the statement continued. "It does not provide relief from any unlawful acts which may be committed under the previous clauses."

DESIGNED ROYAL SCOT

DERBY, England—(CP). — Sir Henry Fowler, designer of the "Royal Scot" locomotives and retired asociate of the London, Midland and Scottish Railways research department, died here aged 68.

Count Questioned

"Count" Gustaf G. von Frederick Zu Brandenburg, 38, who claims to be a member of the Danish nobility, though of German birth and blood, was questioned by U.S. naval intelligence men in Boston after being released on $40,000 bail on charge of $30,000 larceny from an official of a Boston meat market. The count claims to be an intimate of numerous Hollywood celebrities and a friend of Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, husband of Barbara Hutton.

Hungarian Slice From Slovakia Due On Saturday

BUDAPEST, Nov. 4.—(AP).— The Hungarian Cabinet to-day designated four special committees to execute the task of taking over the nearly 5,000 square miles of terrtiory won from Czechoslovakia.

The committee, which will follow the army of occupation which is to begin taking over the area on Saturday, will deal with these four problems:

Border adjustment, citizenship and the right of option, rights of minorities, and the co-ordination of traffic and economics in the new Hungary with that of old Hungary.

The return of Hungarian territory in Slovakia, lost by Great War treaties, is expected to be highly profitable to Hungary in the provision of raw materials now needed badly and to import which the nation spends millions of dollars annually.

Experts already are occupied with a five year plan to industrialize the new territory.

Hungary acquires timber land in Slovakia which experts say will be sufficient to cover her needs in the future. For the last two decades the lack of timber has cost Hungary $24,000,000 a year in imports from Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

BRISBANE — (CP). — Arthur Coombs went to hospital for an "internal complaint" and a bullet, lodged near his spine, was removed. He said he was "grazed" by a bullet in the Great War and thought nothing of it.

Holder Of 4 World Championships

Regasborne Alice Alcarta, new holder of four world's championship milk and butterfat production records, was toasted in milk by Mrs. Harry Nixon, wife of the secretary of Ontario, when Alice was paraded before 200 farmers and an impressive array of provincial legislators at Troy, Ont. Champion Alice is owned by Osborne Sager, young Troy farmer and graduate of O.A.C.

DOG SEVERED BOY'S NOSE

LIVERPOOL, England — (CP). — Six-year-old Alfred Langley was rushed to hospital after a mastiff pinned him to the ground and bit off his nose. The dog was destroyed.

Does YOUR System Make Excess Acid?

Acid Indigestion, Colds, Headaches, Bilious Attacks, Constipation OFTEN START THIS WAY

Some people are what are known as acid-makers. They can't help it—and often they don't know it. The results of an excess of acid may seem just like ordinary stomach trouble — but they can't be put right by ordinary stomach remedies! Excess acid may be the reason why you wake up flat, sour, bleary-eyed, bilious — and the reason why fierce purgatives only leave you in the grip of a weakening habit and the same old symptoms.

But there's one thing that acid can't face. That's the neutralizing power of Vange Salts, the alkaline remedy with the natural mineral spa action. A teaspoonful in warm water surges through your system just like the medicinal spring water far away in England where Vange Salts come from. Excess acid is neutralized quickly, painlessly. Your blood is purified of poisons. Your sore stomach walls are soothed. And that mass of hard, poisonous waste matter lying in your intestines is softened gently, naturally, and passed out of your body. Then do you feel good! It's marvellous! But the most marvellous thing is that Vange Salts are only 60 cents a tin! At your druggist now—but if you're wise, on your bathroom shelf tonight! (Advt.)

Oil Magnate's Son Gets Cool Million

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (A.P.). — Fourteen-year-old Peter Salm is $1,600,000 richer to-day. The son of the former Millicent Rogers and Count Ludwig Salm-Hoogstraeten gets the money from the estate of his grandfather, Col. Henry Rogers, Standard Oil magnate. Under a compromise agreement, the Surrogate Court yesterday ordered young Salm's guardians to receive $1,100,000 outright, with the remainder to be added to an existing trust fund. The boy is living in the Austrian Tyrol with his mother.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOBODY IS PERFECT

ON SOME DEALS all four players "pull boners." Both members of the strong side may make bids which are not quite the soundest available, thus landing them in the wrong contract. Then the weak side may get busy and botch up the defense, so that the wrong contract proves just as good as the right one.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable)

South bid 1-Spade on this deal and North 2-Diamonds. South then went to 2-No Trump and North to 3-No Trump. Both partners should have bid clubs on their second turns, which would have resulted in a five club contract.

The heart 6 was led by West against the No Trump and East won with the 10. He returned the heart 2 to South's A. Declarer cashed his four high spades and the diamond K. His next play was the finesse of the club Q, which lost to West's K. West made the mistake of leading the heart Q, which East allowed to hold, and followed with a heart to East's K. East returned a club and South claimed the remainder of the tricks.

Both opponents made mistakes. East did not need to cover the 6 with the 10, as the 4 was played from dummy and the 6 was large enough to force the A, but since he did, West argued that the K should have been returned instead of the 2, or, realizing his error, tossed the K when he realized he had blocked the suit for West. East contended West should not have led the Q.

Tomorrow's Problem

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

Jack Greer Wins Contest At Millbrook

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 4—Jack Greer, of Cork School, Miss L. Bougen teacher, was awarded first place in the public speaking contest participated in by the schools of Millbrook and South Cavan, and held in the Town Hall here on Tuesday at 8 p.m., before a capacity audience.

Nine pupils entered the competition, the winner being the only boy entrant, and choosing as his subject, "Our Flag, the Union Jack." With good voice, little need of prompting, and using a small Union Jack to illustrate his story, Jack carried his hearers along with him in interest and a loyal enthusiasm, as he explained how the flag had developed to its present form, ending, with fine effect, by standing at salute and repeating the pledge.

L. W. Winslow was chairman for the occasion, the welcome to the large audience being voiced by Archdeacon William Simpson, B.A., and by Arthur Wood, Reeve of Cavan. The various schools of the district covered by the competition, under their musical supervisor, Leslie Unitt, sang chorues, two and three part songs, between the speeches given by the several contestants, winning warm applause for this fine contribution to the program.

The Contestants

Those taking part in the competition included: Isabel Aiken, of Fallis Line School, Miss Ruth Ball teacher, her subject being "Our Farm"; an interesting item, of historical value, in connection with this sketch, was the visit of the Duke of Connaught, when Governor-General of Canada, to the Aiken homestead in the time of the speaker's grandfather, his train having been, for the reason that it was ahead of schedule stopped at Dranoel station, just ten minutes walk from the farm. The Duke took a walk in that direction unaccompanied, and chatted informally with Mr. Aiken, finally revealing his identity when the latter mentioned the fact that he was going to the station to see the royal visitor's train go through.

Others were: Ruth Thorne, of Carmel, Miss Muriel Ball teacher, her theme being, "The Story of Maisonneuve"; Annie Demezuk, who spoke on "The Telephone", outlining in detail the story of Alexander Graham Bell; Gertrude Forsyth, who told "How I spent my Holidays," this pupil and the next, Leona Charlebois, being from Millbrook school, the latter bringing a tale of "When my brother was lost"; Mary Larmer, of Fairview school, Miss Marian Earle teacher, who held close interest with a vivid outline of "When grandfather was a boy," pioneer days being recalled by the incidents narrated; Hope Douglas, of Whitfield's school, Miss Della Mae Sisco, who, with very clear enunciation and sustained narrative, recounted "How I spent my holidays," Detroit, Toronto, and Niagara Falls being points visited; Marjorie Hubbeard, of Zion school, Miss Gladys Williamson teacher, who had chasen "Edgerton Ryerson" as her theme, and the final entrant, Jack Greer, with his story of the Union Jack.

Presented Prizes

Archdeacon Simpson presented the prize, a case containing a fountain pen and pencil of a well-known make, to Jack Greer, mentioning his peculiar pleasure in the fact that the only boy entering the competition had topped the others in his speech, and Mr. A. Coulter, vice-president of the Durham County Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, gave out the other awards, each entrant being presented with a book by a standard author, in the Collins' edition, and bound in red leather.

The judges were Mrs. Reg. Sutton, Mr. Claremont Morgan, and Miss Ruth Staples, and while they were coming to a decision, Mr. Unitt led the whole gathering in a sing-song, the National Anthem bringing the profitable evening to a close.

Medicinal products and toiletries produced in New Zealand in the last year were valued at $2,100,000.

Seeks Citizenship

Lady Suzanne Wilkins, Australian-born singing wife of Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer, will seek American citizenship, she announced, as she debarked at Los Angeles from Australia.

Centreville Holds 105th Anniversary

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTREVILLE, Nov. 3. — Fine weather, large congregations and inspirational services featured the 105th anniversary of Centreville Presbyterian church last Sunday. The guest speaker was Rev. Harold Reid, M.A., of Oshawa. His text in the morning was Isaiah 6:5th verse, his theme being Isaiah's vision, which led to conviction of sin, consecration and service. In the evening his text was Romans 12:v. 1 and emphasized the duties of Christians.

Special music was rendered by the choir.

There were two anthems at the morning service, "Show Me the Way" and "Praise Waiteth For Thee," Mr. McIntosh Bradshaw taking the solo part in the second anthem.

At the evening service a quartette, Misses Allie Berry, Jessie Deyell and Messrs. Jack Isbister and George Berry sang "Hear My Prayer." The anthem was "King O Glorious," Miss Allie Berry taking the obligato solo. The sermons and music were much enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Davidson of Camborne, visited at the home of Mr. Thomas Donaldson on Sunday.

Mrs. John McKague is visiting her son at Kitchener.

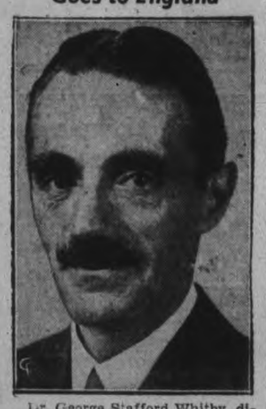
Mr. and Mrs. Roy McLaren of Warkworth, were the guests of Mrs. George Berry on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Finney and son, of Peterborough, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Ken Moncrief.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Savigny and Miss Teasdale of Otonabee were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tate on Sunday.

Rev. D. A. McKenzie spent the week-end visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Gill of Hamilton.

Goes to England



Dr. George Stafford Whitby, director of the chemistry division of the National Research council in Ottawa for the past nine years, has been appointed director of the chemical research laboratory of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research, London, Eng., according to reports from Ottawa.

FIRST BOTTLE CONVINCED HIM SYNTONA WAS GREAT MEDICINE

Continued Treatment Brought Great Benefits. Tells How It Relieved Stomach Disorders, Dizziness and Nervousness.

Was Full Of Aches and Pains

MR. PETER FAIRBAIN

"I can hardly describe how I suffered," said Mr. Peter Fairbain, of 376 Ridout St., London. "My appetite was poor and what little I did eat soured in my stomach, causing gas, acid risings and dyspepsia. I was subject to headaches and dizziness and at times I felt so nervous I couldn't get a good night's sleep. Lately my joints and muscles seemed to be full of aches and pains.

"Right from the first bottle of Syntona, I could tell it was helping me, so I kept on with it and now I am able to eat and sleep well. The aches and pains have left me and I haven't had a dizzy spell since I started to take Syntona. I was surprised at how quickly it acted. After the results I had I am glad to recommend Syntona to anyone who suffers as I did. I feel so much better in every way, I can't imagine why I waited so long before taking it."

The reason such good results are produced by a medicine that is compounded to treat the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels at the same time is simply this: The organs of digestion and elimination are so closely related in their functions that when one becomes ailing, it so often affects one or more of the others. Food that should nourish the body, ferments and poisonous waste matter remains in the system.

If you suffer like this, make up your mind today to give Syntona a good trial. Syntona is now being introduced in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.

Trades Ban In China Stirs Anger

Britain and States Send New Protests To Japan

SHANGHAI, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Great Britain ,the United States and France were reported by reliable foreign circles today to be preparing new protests against being barred from the rich Yangtse Valley while Japanese merchants were laying foundations for economic monopolies.

Japanese spokesmen insisted that military necessity required that the Yangtse be made virtually a Japanese river.

Japanese commercial interests also started establishing trade connections in South China.

Canton dispatches said Japanese merchant ships had begun arriving at Canton, although foreign shipping still was barred from the Pearl River. There was no apparent prospect that the ban would be lifted.

General Chiag Kai-Shek, with a group of Russian advisers, more than 100 new tanks and Russian-strengthened artillery, was said to have chosen South Hunan province as a base for a new stand against the Japanese.

To back up this new phase of resistance the Chinese will have an air base in Yunnan, southwesternmost province of China, where instructors from the United States are training young airmen to expand the small but effective force of Russian-equipped and manned planes.

Severe fighting continued in Kwangtung province with clashes reported 10 miles from Canton. Chinese said the Japanese had been forced to take the defensive in Kwangtung.

Merchant Ship Is Captured

EMDEN, Germany, Nov. 5 (AP)—Authoritative sources said today a Spanish government freighter had been captured in the North Sea by the Spanish insurgent auxiliary cruiser Ciudad De Alicante. The crew of the merchant ship, identified as the Rio Miera, were said to have been imprisoned and the seized ship brought to port here with an insurgent crew.

This was the second attack within a week by a Spanish insurgent man-of-war on a Spanish government merchant vessel in the North Sea. The freighter Cantabria, under charter to British operators, was bombarded and sunk by the insurgent armed auxiliary cruiser Nadir Wednesday within sight of England's east coast.

A reuters report from Berlin said the Rio Miera had been sunk by the Ciudad De Alicante but Lloyd's was investigating another report that the Spanish merchantman had been seized.

Lloyd's listed a Rio Miera, cargo vessel of 746 tons, as having sailed Oct. 30 from Grimsby for Leningrad, Russia.

According to the Spanish government embassy in London, the Ciudad De Alicante, although armed and in service of the insurgents, was a merchant vessel of 2,434 tons, registered in Valencia and owned by the Compania Trasmediterranea, also owners of the sunken Cantabria.

See Flaming Meteor

OTTAWA, Nov. 5—(CP).—What is believed to be a flaming meteor flashed over Ottawa last night heading south. Many persons telephoned local newspaper offices asking if the meteror had plunged to earth in the district. The Dominion observatory had no record of the meteor's flight.

People Who Antedate Eskimo Are Discovered

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Dr. Ales Hdrlicka, Smithsonian Institution anthropologist, reported today the discovery of remains of a race of people who antedated the Eskimo, Aleut, and Indian in the migration from Asia to the American continent thousands of years ago.

The veteran scientist, who has just completed 10 years of exploration during each summer in Alaska and the Aleutian Islands, said that the hitherto unknown race apparently was the stem from which many of the American Indian tribes evolved.

Last summer a large collection of bones, skulls, mummies, stone implements, cooking pots and other utensils were found on a trip through the islands, principally on the island of Umnak, one of the foggy and frozen Aleutians, Dr. Hrdlicka said.

He expressed the opinion they showed unmistakably that long before the Aleut race moved out of Asia the earlier people had been moving eastward to what is now Alaska, Canada, the United States and South America.

They apparently started from Asia at least 2,000 years ago, he said, and succeeding generations eventually reached the southern part of North America.

"They were at least closely related to the ancestors of the tribes found occupying the Pacific coast at the time of the first white explorations," the Smithsonian scientist said.

The pre-Aleuts were a race of fairly high primitive culture, considering the fact that they had only driftwood, bone, poor stone and no metals with which to work, he said. Many of their utensils and tools resemble very closely the implements of the California Indians.

Spreading Fires Are Checked In Many Sections

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 (A.P.).— Forest fires consumed timber on additional thousands of acres in the United States to-day, but rains checked the spread of flames in many sections of the country's 15-state fire area.

Drenching rains in the south broke a prolonged drought and helped control hundreds of blazes.

Damage to timber stands and farm crops was estimated in the hundreds of thousands. The fire area extended from Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Atlantic to the Mississippi Watershed.

H. W. Berckman, district forester, estimated the timber loss in one Kentucky County, Harlan, at $200,000. Fires swept over 8,000 acres in the state and endangered five major coal mining properties. Harlan and Pike Counties in the coal fields still were menaced despite the rains.

3,000 Men on Duty.

There were 300 major fires and uncounted small ones raging in West Virginia where, State Forester D. B. Griffin said, the flames had the fire-fighters' "backs against the wall." A 1,600-mile area—one-fourth of the state—was in the fire zone. Nearly 3,000 men were on duty.

The West Virginia blazes burned a coal tipple at Thurmand, causing a loss of $10,000, threatened four mining towns and isolated woodland homes, and advanced to the edge of Charleston, the capital.

Heavy rains curbed fires in Southern Illinois after Governor Henry Horner had declared a state of emergency existed. Scattered showers came to the aid of 2,500 fighters in Michigan.

Flames crept through an estimated 20,000 acres of timber and brushland in Indiana before light rains checked their advance. The rains also halted the spread of fires which had laid waste to an estimated 10,000 acres of timberland near McMinnville, Tennessee.

Rains checked some of the larger fires in Alabama, North Carolina, and Mississippi. South Carolina, Louisiana, and Arkansas had only minor blazes after the downpour.

Executive Dies

LYONS FALLS, N.Y., Nov. 5. —(AP).—Harry P. Gould, 65, former president and treasurer of the Gould Paper Company, died yesterday. Mr. Gould retired in 1937 as active head of the paper company, one of the largest enterprises in northern New York.

Weather Bad For Flyers On Long Hop

British Airmen Out For New Distance Record

ISMAILIA, Egypt, Nov. 5—(AP)—Nine young British airmen, flying three Royal Air Force bombers in an Egypt-to-Australia distance record attempt, struck threatening weather over Arabia today just two hours after leaving Ismailia.

Squadron leader R. Kellett messaged at 6:50 a.m. (1:50 a.m. EST) that their position was 30 degrees north 37:10 east, with "weather conditions overcast and bumpy, with thunder, speed 180 mile an hour."

The heavily-loaded planes, each with a crew of three, took off at 3:55 a.m. (10:55 p.m. EST Friday).

Soviet Holds Record

Present record of 6,306 miles is held by the Soviet airmen who flew from Moscow to California by way of the North Pole in July, 1937.

The three (Vickers Wellesley) planes are modified versions of regular Royal Air Force equipment, and have larger fuel tanks in the wings.

The maximum speed of the standard type is approximately 210 miles an hour and normal cruising speed is 180 miles an hour, but to economize on fuel the planes were expected to average about 135 miles.

The flight was commanded by 33-The fliers expected to adhere closewhose eight companions were all under 30 years. They wore thermally heated suits with special satin linings. Provisions included chicken, fruit, chocolate, coffee and orange juice.

The flier expected to adhere closely to the great circle route by way of Persia, across the Indian Ocean, Hyderabad, across the Bay of Bengal, Adaman Islands, Island of Borneo, then across the Timor sea to Port Darwin.

Maintain Land Contact

Contact will be maintained with wireless direction stations ordinarily used. Boat stations have been established in the Arabian Sea, the Bay of Bengal and the Timor Sea.

Those making the flight were:

Aircraft No. 1:
Squadron Leader Kellett, pilot.
Flight Lieutenant R. T. Gething, 27, second pilot and navigator.

Aircraft No. 2:
Flight Lieutenant H. A. V. Hogan, 29, first pilot.
Flight Lieutenant R. G. Musson, 25, second pilot and navigator.
Sergeant T. D. Dixon, 26, wireless operator and mechanic.

Aircraft No. 3:
Flight Lieutenant A. N. Combe, 27, first pilot.
Flight Lieutenant B. K. Burnett, 25, second pilot and navigator.
Sergeant H. B. Gray, 26, wireless operator and mechanic.

Tory Policies Attacked By Roosevelt

D. Harold Oliver
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

HYDE PARK, Nov. 5 (A.P.). — President Roosevelt's election appeal to the voters of the United States is a call for support of candidates "known for their experience and their Liberalism."

"We all remember well-known examples of what an ill-advised shift from Liberal to Conservative leadership can do to an incompleted Liberal program," he said in an address broadcast from his home last night.

Any weakening of the power of a Liberal Government in the elections, he said, would "resurrect false hopes on the part of some business men, now beginning to change antiquated ideas, that, if they can hold out a little longer, no adaptation to change will be necessary."

Only Speech of Campaign.

In his only political speech of the 1938 campaign, the President linked "old-line Tory Republicanism" to possible Fascist and Communistic threats to American democracy.

Murphy, Democrat running for re-election against former Republican Governor Frank Fitzgerald, was the only candidate outside of New York State who was mentioned by name.

Mr. Roosevelt paid tributes to the "Liberal" records of Governor Herbert Lehman, seeking a fourth term; Senator Robert Wagner, long term senatorial candidate; and Representative James Mead, nominee for the short senatorial term. These represent the chief offices in New York. All are Democrats.

"Look over the rest of the names on the ballot next Tuesday," the President said. "Pick those who are known for their experience and their Liberalism. Pick them for what they have done, and not just for what they say they will do.

All American Citizens.

"And one last but important word: Pick them without regard to race, color or creed. Some of them may have come of the earliest colonial stock; some of them may have been brought here as children to escape the tyrannies of the old world.

New York, Nov. 5 (AP)

DEPORTATION of Fraulein Leni Riefenstahl—who spent her first day in the United States explaining she was Chancellor Hitler's friend but "No, no, no, not his 'girl friend'" — was demanded today by Representative Andrew Somers, Brooklyn Democrat.

In a telegram to Labor Secretary Frances Perkins, Somers asked that the German film actress be barred from the United States on the grounds she had come here to disseminate propaganda.

"Such a mission is utterly repugnant to all principles of democracy as embodied in the concepts and ideals of our constitution," the congressman said.

On her arrival yesterday, the hazel-eyed, auburn-haired beauty (no propaganda there), explained she was here for a holiday. She said her visit had nothing to do with the American showing of her 1,700,000-foot film of the 1936 Olympics.

"I love my work too much to get married,' 'she said. "It is because I work in the films and in order to do that I have to see Hitler sometimes."

Hungarian Troops Take Over 4,875 Square Miles

BUDAPEST, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Hungarian troops crossed the Danube river on a pontoon bridge exactly on the scheduled second today to start occupying a slice of dismembered Czechoslovakia. While the rest of Hungary, which has awaited this moment since she lost territory after the Great War, called the day her "national resurrection," the soldiers entered the ceded area, totalling some 4,875 square miles, at 10:00 a.m. (4 a.m. E.S.T.) North of Altenberg, Hungary.

The first step was the occupation of the island of little Schuett, near the former Czech community of Doborgas.

Hungarian residents of the region, many dressed in colorful peasant costumes, came to cheer the regiment of infantry which was the first cross the improvised bridge.

The infantrymen were followed closely by cavalry and artillery units, while overhead a dozen Hungarian airplanes circled.

The territory was awarded Hungary by Italian and German mediators at Vienna last Wednesday. The four-power Munich agreement September 29 and subsequent minorities concessions cost Czechoslovakia about 16,165 square miles, of which 10,885 square miles went to Germany, 405 to Poland, and 4,875 to Hungary.

Field Marshal Aamay commanded the Hungarian troops. He and his soldiers in many places strode over flowers tossed by enthusiastic citizens.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Massachusetts went to the front today in the race of four tax-hungry states which claimed Colonel Edward H. R. Green as their own when he died and left a $36,000,000 estate.

A special master recommended to the United States Supreme Court that Massachusetts be decreed as Green's legal domicile—giving it the right to collect a $4,947,0008 levy, if the court concurs.

The master, John Flannery, called the son of fabulously wealthy Hetty Green a nomad, to whom "home was where he happende to be." Flannery rejected claims of Texas, New York and Florida.

Green, who paid rent of from $60 to $27,000 a year on some of his "homes," died in 1936. The United States federal government got $17,520,987 in taxes on a net estate of $36,137,335. So far, no state collected anything.

Litigation was begun by Texas, which sought to impose a levy of $4,685,057. The Texas complaint was directed against Massachusetts, New York, which sought $5,910,301, and Florida, which claimed $4,663,857.

Taxes claimed by the federal and the four state governments totalled $37,727,000, or $1,589,000 more than the value of the net estate, of which Mrs. Hetty Sylvia Ann Howland Green Wilks, a sister, is the sole legatee. Mabel Harlow Green, the widow, receives $18,000 a year under an agreement.

Green's almost fantastic career, from his birth in England to his death at Lake Placid, N.Y., occupied the greater part of the master's 57-page report. Green was educated in Vermont, Massachusetts and New York, lived in Texas for 20 years, married in Illinois, later lived in New York, Massachusetts and Florida and was buried in Vermont.

Controversy Over Munich Pact Hits Real Estate

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 5.

"CHAMBERLAIN CENTRE," "Chamberlain Chase," "Chamberlain Estate," "Chamberlain Park" and "Chamberlainville" are among names suggested in a competition to choose the name of a new suburb of Sydney.

Opponents of Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policy have entered "Eden Gardens," "Edenglow," "Eden Park," "Edentown," "Edenville," and "Eden Village."

A "Baldwin Park" has also been entered and there is a sporting flavor in "Bradman Park," and "Bromwich."

Brush Your Hair, Pull Up Socks Children Advised

Renfrew, Ont., Nov. 5 (CP)

"BRUSH your hair and pull up your socks" — that's Lord Tweedsmuir's advice to children for the visit of the King and Queen early next summer.

Indulging in a little whimsy during a short speech dedicating the $50,000 power dam over the Bonnechere River here, the Governor General turned to a group of children in the crowd and said: "Children I have a word for you. The King is coming, so I hope you will all brush your hair and pull up your socks, for the King is especially interested in children."

Heavy Snow Fall Western Canada

WINNIPEG, Nov. 5—(CP).—Snow lay across many sections of the Western Canada prairies today after the first severe storm of approaching winter.

After 12 hours of snow the fall stopped in north-central Saskatchewan yesterday and temperatures tumbled. Highways were reported blocked in rural districts and automobiles were marooned. The snow was 18 inches deep in places.

Snowbanks were piled, too, in southern Saskatchewan in an area extending from near the international border almost across the province. Some motorists were reported abandoning their cars and travelling to Regina b ytrain. Temperatures dropped to 20 degrees above zero.

Reports from the Pas said snow covered much of northern Manitoba where airplanes were grounded by poor visibility. Airplanes at the Pas were being fitted with skiis for winter flying.

Lawyer Is Killed In Car Crash

THREE RIVERS, Que., Nov. 5 (C. P.). — Rodolphe Bernard, young Montreal lawyer, was killed and another man was injured slightly late last night when a car in which three lawyers wer travelling from Montreal to Three Rivers hit a trailer due to foggy weather. One passenger in the car was unhurt.

Lucien Beauregard of Montreal, said to be the driver of the car, was uninjured in the crash. Bernard Bourdon was taken to hospital here suffering from minor injuries. The accident happened near nearby Yamachiche.

France's population dropped by 35,684 in the first quarter of this year.

Franco-British Relations To Be Strengthened By Trip Of Chamberlain

Future Relations Of Two Great Democracies With Germany and Spanish Question To Be Discussed In Visit To French Capital

LONDON, Nov. 5—(CP-Havas)—Two objectives will guide Prime Minister Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, during their visit to Paris late this month, political circles told Havas today. It was announced last night they will visit Paris Nov. 23. They will stay until Nov. 25.

The statesmen first will emphasize the strength of the ties uniting Great Britain and France. Secondly they will consult French statesmen as to the future lines of policy.

During the European crisis, which developed from March 11 until the end of September, Premied Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister George Bonnet crossed the channel repeatedly to confer in London.

Now the Czechoslovak problem has been resolved, the British Ministers find it possible to repay the visits, and an invitation from the French Government was arranged and accepted.

It was suggested in political circles that Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Halifax expect the meeting to permit them to end doubts which have occasionally been expressed in Paris regarding the tendencies of British foreign policy. It will show, in other words, that the policy of appeasing the totalitarian states in no way affects Franco-British relations.

Although the fact Mrs. Chamberlain and Lady Halifax will accompany the statesmen indicates the visit will not be exclusively political, direct consultations are expected to be held on a number of points more specific than general principles.

Of these the most important will be the future relations of the two democracies with Germany and the Spanish and Mediterranean questions. Special instructions are to be given Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Germany, when he returns to his post, probably within a fortnight, after a leave at home. Mr. Chamberlain himself has indicated in the House of Commons that the Anglo-German peace declaration made at Munich must be followed up.

Although Great Britain has decided to put the Anglo-Italian agreement into effect, the problems created by the Spanish civil war have not been solved. It was agreed that if, as Mr. Chamberlain said, Spain has ceased to be a danger to European peace, political and strategical problems remain.

Move Is Started To Stop Sweep Payments

DUBLIN, Nov. 5.—(CP Cable)—The high court of Eire today granted interim injunctions to two Canadians in connection with prizes in the Irish Hospital sweepstakes on last month's Cesarewitch race.

Gerda Foster, Komoka, Ont., applied for an order to restrain the Hospitals Trust from paying a quarter share of a £30,000 ($150,000) prize to Dora B. Smith of Strathroy, Ont.

Mrs. Mary McCool of Calgary applied to restrain payment of a £530 prize to Mrs. Florence Larking in Calgary.

Both actions will be heard shortly.

Comment Refused.

CALGARY, Nov. 5.—(CP)—Mrs. Florence Larkin of Calgary refused comment when told last night Mrs. Mary McCool also of Calgary, had been granted an interim injunction by the high court of Eire restraining payment of $2,650 on an Irish Hospitals sweepstakes ticket.

Mrs. McCool, wife of a railway carpenter and mother of 12 children, was "not at home."

Mrs. Larkin is secretary of a Calgary syndicate which claims a share of the prize money from a "lucky 1938 derby" ticket.

Claim Is Disputed

The ticket was sent to Dublin under the name of Mrs. McCool. She claims sole ownership. The syndicate headed by Mrs. Larkin, who sold the ticket, disputes the claim.

Mrs. Larkin, it was understood, still retains possession of the prize ticket, refusing to surrender it to Mrs McCool.

Six members of the syndicate who say "it was an agreement among friends to share," are Mrs. Larkin, her husband, J. G. Larkin and her father, William O'Brien of Downsview, Ont.; Mrs. Percy Haltzworth, Mrs. C. C. Connolly and Mrs. A. McDonald, all of Calgary.

"It is the first sweepstake ticket I ever bought," Mrs. McCool said when advised May 28 she had drawn "Tahir," a starter from the Aga Khan stables.

"Tahir," was unplaced when the derby was run June 1. Mrs. McCool had refused a $3,325 offer from a New York syndicate for a half share in the ticket.

Chipped in With 62 Cents

STRATHROY, Ont., Nov. 5 (CP). —Principals in a claim in which the high court of Eire granted as interim injunction today to restrain payment on a sweepstakes ticket would not comment last night on the development.

Miss Guarda Foster of Komoka, who applied for an order to restrain payment of a quarter share of a £30,000 ($150,000) prize to Dora B. Smith of Strathroy declared: "I have nothing to say—anything you get will have to come from my lawyer."

"I don't know anything about it," said Miss Smith, beauty shop operator who held a winning ticket on last month's Cesarewitch handicap.

Miss Foster previously claimed one quarter of the prize, declaring she had "chipped in" 62 cents when the winning ticket was bought. Miss Smith declared Miss Foster's share was in another ticket.

Amery Opposes Colonies Return

OXFORD, England, Nov. 5—(CP-Havas)—L. S. Amery, Conservative member of parliament and former Colonial secretary, voiced sharp opposition last night to any return of former German colonies mandated to Great Britain or the Dominions.

"Restoration of these colonies colonies would only be a stepping stone towards new and greater colonial expansion at our expense," he declared.

"The reasons of strategic security which influenced us before are stronger today than ever . . . Any concessions to the threat of force today will be a direct invitation to other powers to co-operate with Germany to see how much they can get by carving the British Empire.

"Tempted by evidence of our military weakness, Herr Hitler may bring the issue to a head before we can rearm."

Remembers Napoleon

KURSK, U.S.S.R., Nov. 5 (A. P.). — Ivan Krivolapoff, a collective farmer, says he is 145 years old and can remember Napoleon's retreat from Moscow in 1812.

European Dictators Are Not Fooling Hepburn Warns

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Nov. 5 (C P)—Premier Hepburn of Ontario believes municipalities and provinces of Canada will not be able to carry on unless they get federal assistance in adjusting rates of interest on their outstanding obligations.

Municipalities and the federal government are loaded with a burden they never will be able to wipe out, Mr. Hepburn contended last night before a rally of Oxford county Twentieth Century Liberal Clubs. He said he was "most pessimistic" over the condition of Dominion affairs, but optimistic with regard to Ontario.

Matters requiring immediate attention Mr. Hepburn said, are the railway problem, increasing amounts of interest being paid by governing bodies and the national defence problem. No leadership had been given to the financial problems of Dominion Railways and those problems must be solved if Canada were to prosper.

"Australia had the same condition that we have, but they had a government with courage with the result that today Australia has no unemployment and the country is enjoying the full measure of prosperity.

"They have a national bank. We have one here, supposedly. But in truth we have nothing to do with it."

As to defence, Mr. Hepburn said that although he was a great believer in peace, he realized invincibility of the British empire was being challenged. He advocated preparedness in event of war.

The day has passed when the British navy is invincible and despite President Roosevelt's friendly offer, I don't think the United States navy is invincible either. Today there are dictators in Europe who are not fooling. I think they have decided to divide up the world."

The premier was introduced to the rally by Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture. It was Mr. Hepburn's first visit to Oxford county since his re-election last year.

Reds Charging Daladier Behind Attacks

PARIS, Nov. 5.— (AP).— Communists charged officially to-day that Premier Daladier's campaign against them inspired an attack of Nationalist bands on the party's headquarters last night.

The attack, in which about a dozen youths chanting the French National Anthem shattered windows of the Communist building in Central Rue Lafayette, was followed by isolated demonstrations by groups of Nationalists in various sections of Paris. They shouted for dissolution of the Communist party and the formation of a government of "public safety."

Socialists also expressed suspicions there might be complicity in some government circles with the attackers who police indicated were members of Deputy Jacques Doriot's French People's Party.

(At the National convention of his Radical-Socialist party last week, Daladier declared: "The political attitude of the chiefs of the Communist party has resulted not in support but in sabotage of the government's firmness," and a resolution said the Communist Party "has excluded itself from the People's Front of Radical-Socialists, Socialists and Communists.")

Death By Poison Brings Arrest

MARKSTAY, Ont., Nov. 5—(CP).—Police today were investigating this district's first hunting fatality of the season, in which George Muirhead of nearby Coniston lost his life. The accident happened a few miles south of here, when a shotgun accidentally exploded. Markstay is about 10 miles east of Sudbury.

Lawyers Win Race Save Kidnapper

TORONTO, Nov. 5—(CP). — Hon. G. D. Conant, Attorney-General of Ontario, announced to-day he had ordered "complete investigation" of statements made by Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the Attorney-General's Department, before the Magone Commission yesterday.

Dr. Frankish told the Commission, investigating conditions in mental hospitals throughout Ontario ,that death causes were stated incorrectly in certificates issued on the deaths of two patients at the Ontario Hospital, London. Dr. Frankish later submitted a formal report to Mr. Conant, who ordered an inquiry.

The medico-legal expert was examined yesterday concerning examination he made of the bodies of two unnamed patients. The first case was that of a patient who tried to hang himself, but lived 12 hours after the attempt. Dr. Frankish said hanging actually was the cause of death although the death certificate gave the cause as apoplexy.

He said external violence, possibly accidental, was indicated in the death of the second patient. The cause of death officially was given as paralysis and perforation of the bowel.

Road Program Will Aid Unemployed

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 5—(CP).—Enlarged program of work on the Nipigon-Beardmore road will relieve the unemployment situation at the Lakehead to a certain extent, it was learned today.

Earle Smith, district engineer for the lands and forests department, said the work probably would require 200 or 300 men.

Yesterday 400 of the jobless appeared at the city offices and declared they would remain until assistance was granted them. A special council meeting was held last night and meal tickets issued to 296 of the jobless, after which the group dispersed.

"We gave them 30 cents a day each for two days," said Alderman Dr. H. R. Bryan, acting mayor. "We told them that would do until Monday morning and in the meantime the transients could get out. We made that plain too."

Bite From Spider Prove's Boon To Man's Doctor

Emporium, Pa., Nov. 5 (AP)

A SPIDER BITE sent McClellan Shadman, 20, to a hospital, but that was just the beginning of his troubles. Before he got out he accepted his physician's advice and underwent an appendix operation, had his tonsils removed and was treated for three hernias.

Col. Drew Urges Early End To Gun Probe

OTTAWA, Nov. 5—(CP).—After six weeks engaged in taking evidence ,the Bren Gun inquiry seems destined to continue indefinitely in view of the array of additional witnesses promised by Hon. J. L. Ralston, chief commission counsel.

At the close of yesterday's hearing, which ended rather abruptly after argument over the calling of more witnesses, the commissioner, Mr. Justice H. H. Davis of the Supreme Court of Canada, said "We will just have to sit here week after week."

Lt.-Col. George Drew, Toronto lawyer whose article in Maclean's magazine criticizing the circumstances under which the government awarded, without tender, a contract for 7,000 machine guns from John Inglis Company Limited, Toronto, precipitated the inquiry, urged that a late sitting yesterday and one this morning might wind up the evidence.

J. C. McRuer, associate counsel for the Inglis Company, was about to make some contribution to the argument when Justice Davis suddenly left the bench, announcing the next session would be Monday morning.

Lined Up Program.

When L. A. Forsyth, associated commission counsel, completed his examination yesterday of J. D. Cameron of the Toronto brokerage firm of Cameron, Pointon and Merritt, it was close to adjournment time, and Col. Ralston lined up the program for next week.

Cameron, Pointon and Merritt were associated with Major J. E. Hahn and the Toronto law firm of Plaxton and Company, in acquiring

8 Men Buried Under Timbers

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 5 (CP) — Buried beneath falling timbers and scaffolds, eight men were hurt when a house being built on Deleware Avenue collapsed today.

Two were believed seriously injured. eX-ray examinations will be made to see if their backs are broken. Most seriously injured was Ivory Mardlin, whose back, legs and head were hurt. He is in St. Joseph's Hospital. Walter Leeson was taken to Victoria Hospital with an injured back.

The men were working on a house being built in a new subdivision just south of London when the accident occurred. The framework for the house had been built when it collapsed.

A strong wind was blowing from the south. It caught the house and sent it tumbling forward. Workmen were pinned beneath falling framework.

Planning Bazzar For December

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, Nov. 5.—The monthly meeting of the Women's Guild of Christ Church was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Thorne on Thursday afternoon, November 3, with a large attendance.

Final arrangements were made for Mrs. Aitkens' cooking school demonstration, which is to be held in the basement of the church Tuesday, November 29, at 3 o'clock.

Plans were made for the annual bazaar and tea, which is to be held in the basement of the church, Friday, December 9.

The next meeting will be held in the church basement, December 1.

The afternoon was spent in sewing quilt blocks.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. William Robinson and Miss Meta Thorne.

Quartette Confesses Slaying

This is a view of the room in the Ukrainian hall in New York city where abductors hid Norman Miller, 19-year-old Brooklyn youth who was kidnapped last Judy 24. According to confessions of four men, made public by the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation, young Miller was "snatched" by the gang and released upon payment of $13,000 ransom by his family. The same quartet which is alleged to have kidnapped Miller is also said to have confessed to the kidnap-slaying of Arthur Fried (Inset), wealthy contractor, who disappeared last December. According to the confessions, Fried's was shot and his body burned in a furnace of the Ukrainian hall, after negotiations for ransom fell through.

Was Successful Mayor Hints

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 5. — "A very successful outcome" of their meeting with the members of the Ontario Hydro Commission was reported by Mayor F. F. Long who with Reeve C. H. Calver and Councillor N. A. McColl met the commission on Thursday morning. Although he refused to make public details of the meeting until they had been revealed before the council Mayor Long told the Examiner that they had met the Commission to discuss the assessment on the Quinte power house at the south end of the town and which was taken over by the hydro a year ago. Mr. H. N. Carr, M.L.A. for Northumberland, introduced the delegation to the Commission.

MORE ABOUT—

Tory Policy

All of them are American citizens now."

Elaborating on his argument against a change in political leadership, Mr. Roosevelt said a "social or economic gain made by one administration may, and often does, evaporate into thin air under the next one." He said "little was left" of Theodore Roosevelt's progressive record after four years of President Taft, while the "great Liberal achievements" of President Wilson "were liquidated" under President Harding.

"The whole United States concedes that we in New York State have carried out a magnificent Liberal program through our State government during the past 16 years," he said.

"If the continuity of that Liberal government had been broken in this State during that time, we would be nowhere near the point we have reached to-day."

Contrasting the American system of voting with foreign dictatorships, he said next Tuesday a "free people will have a free choice to pick free leaders for free men."

"In other lands across the water the flares of militarism and conquest, terrorism and intolerance, have vividly revealed to Americans for the first time since the revolution how precious and extraordinary it is to be allowed this free choice of free leaders for free men."

Charged With Robbery

HAMILTON, Nov. 5 (C.P.).—Fred Moreau, 23, James B. Ryan, 22, and Boyd Englehart, 17, all of Niagara Falls, appeared in court to-day and were remanded eight days for trial. They are charged with the armed robbery of Carl Dopkin, Peter's Corners service station operator on October 23.

The trio were brought back from Belleville yesterday where they had been held in custody.

Ask For Survey Of Forest Plot

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COTTESLOE, Nov. 5. — At the November meeting of the Dummer township council on Thursday all members were present.

Mr. W. A. Anderson was present in connection with the county's reforestation project in the eleventh and twelfth concessions of Dummer.

On his request a resolution was passed asking the surveyor for a municipal survey of the property.

A request to the provincial treasurer for the one mill subsidy to relieve the municipality was duly signed.

Meeting Between Chamberlain And Mussolini Is Forecast

LONDON, Nov. 5 (C.P.-Havas).—The Daily Mail and Financial Times (Independent) predicted to-day that Prime Minister Chamberlain probably will meet with Premier Mussolini after his trip to Paris, which the entire press welcomed.

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) said: This visit to Paris with Lord Halifax for a conference with the French Government is generally and heartily approved."

The Daily Mail's political correspondent wrote: "After his visit to Paris, Mr. Chamberlain's next move will probably be a meeting with Premier Mussolini somewhere in the Mediterranean or in Rome. It is clear that Mr. Chamberlain is intent on hurrying forward discussions which may lead to another four-power conference. His experts and advisers are now examining the colonial problem and other important aspects of a general European understanding."

The Financial Times observed: "Ample opportunity will be provided at the Paris conference between the statesmen in which the future of Europe may be fully reviewed. Mr. Chamberlain is likely to have further personal contact with Herr Hitler. It is vitally important, therefore, that he should know fully the mind of M. Daladier and his colleagues before the interview is arranged.

"This is all the more necessary because economic questions are likely to arise in any new discussions between the Prime Minister and the Fuehrer. This also applies to discussions which Mr. Chamberlain may soon have with Signor Mussolini."

Guns Polished, Hunters Leave From Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 5. — Lakefield boasts more than her share of deer hunters this year. Gordon Kidd, Ted Gill, Harry Gill, and Charles Heard were the first party to leave for the bush. They are hunting about six miles north of Parry Sound, near Point-au-Baril.

Messrs. Wesley Leonard and Hank Wannamaker left on Thursday to join the Toronto Hunt Club at Paxley, and the Lakefield Hunt Club, which hunts at Paxley also, and which got away on Thursday, included Messrs. J. H. Payne, E. H. Northey, and P. H. Spence of Lakefield, Ed. Hamblin, Gordon Hamblin and Stuart Miller of North Dummer, Charles Gow of British Columbia, Walter Nugent of Peterborough, Wilbert Rosborough of Smith, Mart and Hazel Thurston of Dunsford.

Other parties were away on Saturday for hunting grounds nearer home, undaunted by the unusually warm weather and the lack of snow which will not make the hunting conditions any better than usual.

Elect Officers At Omemee

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, Nov. 5.—The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Trinity United church was held at the parsonage Thursday afternoon with 20 members and a visitor present. Mrs. MacTavish, leader of Group Four, was in charge.

The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn followed by responsive reading Psalm 710 in the Hymnary. Mrs. MacTavish then led in prayer. Scripture was read by Mrs. B. Pogue. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Emerson in the absence of Mrs. Bradley.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. S. Connell, Mrs. Moyer, vice-president, took the chair for the election of officers. Results were as follows:

WEEKLY GRAIN REVIEW.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 5 (C.P.). — Winnipeg wheat futures slipped to five-year lows this week in reflecting a demoralized export trade. Prospects of a large Southern Hemisphere wheat flow into an already bulged world wheat granary muzzled investors and forced recessions to levels untouched in more than three years at Liverpool and seasonal lows at Buenos Aires.

Inability of export countries to dispose of large stocks arriving at Liverpool unsold aggravated apparent cut-throat competition. Interest in most world wheat pits was at a low ebb.

Winnipeg futures closed their sixth listless session on Friday with values 1¼-1¾ cents lower than a weeks ago. November at 57½, half its price a year ago, December at 57⅞-½, May 60⅞-61, and July 61⅝ cents. Only scattered sales brought the setbacks.

Canadian export sales were reported as small lots, though flurries of export interest in the cash wheat market gave futures a firm tone, especially in the week's closing session yesterday. Cables that day indicated a better interest for Canadian wheat at Liverpool.

SERVICES IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES TO-MORROW

Biblical Thoughts For the Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James, Toronto

THE CALL TO ADVENTURE FOR GOD

"Simon answering said unto Jesus: "Nevertheless at Thy Word I will let down the net."—St. Luke 5:5.

If we only had this Gospel we would find it difficult in this age of psychology, which is the science of the mind, to understand why St. Peter obeyed the order to let down his nets for a draft and later to forsake all and follow Him.

A devout student of the Gospel suggests that the very expression: Nevertheless, at Thy Word I will let down the net," contains a hint of that previous interview described by St. John (1:42) when Simon heard the Master pronounce that great prophecy: "Thau art Simon; thou shall be called Peter, the rock man."

Apparently those four men left Him and returned to their fishing. Behold the wisdom of the Lord. He spent forty days in the wilderness deciding on the principles of His ministry. He demands that these men go back to their work and think over the interview. In the night watches the two brothers must have often talked of that extraordinary interview with the Carpenter of Nazareth. What did He mean when He said: "Thou shalt be called Peter?" The Lord was choosing His apostles, which means, men who went sent, sent on the greatest adventure that men were ever called to face. Therefore they must be men who have thoroughly weighed in their minds what it means to follow Him and to be with Him. They were not to follow Him through emotion or mere enthusiasm, but through definite conviction.

"Thurst out a little from the land." When He first touches you this may be His desire that you should thrust out a little from the land, separate yourself somewhat from your business and work; put a little distance between you and it. One of the advantages of a holiday is to recreate your mind and soul as well as your body.

Then comes the further call: "Launch out into the deep." Into the deep waters of the love of God. You are not to stay in the shallows. They are dangerous, but also they are not buoyant enough for He wants you to do great things for Him. For this you must give yourself into His keeping. So you obey and make the adventure of faith. From the earliest days of the church those who have done great things for the Christ, men and women who have removed mountains and overcome lions in the way have obeyed the command: "Launch out into the deep."

The Lord does not create new waters for the fishermen. It is the same lake. Perhaps this is a lesson hard to learn that in the very place where you have been unsuccessful in your own strength that He calls you to launch out into the deep and let down your nets for a draft. "My grace is sufficient for thee; my strength is made perfect in weakness; is His constant reminder.

"At Thy Word." This is the inspiration that enables men to try again. Countless saints have made the great adventure and obeyed and discovered that nothing is impossible with God. It is obedience that matters and, above all, the confidence and assurance you are doing His will, even though to the world you may seem to be a failure. In a few years these men, plain and ordinary, were to launch out into the deep of the world and to do wonderful things in His strength and "at His Word," so that even their enemies claimed that "they had turned the world upside down."

What a tonic for the discouraged soul to know that the Master understands your discouragements and asks you to trust Him for your success, so that with renewed courage you will cry with a full heart:

Nevertheless, at Thy word I will let down the net."

Oklahoma Dedicates Memorial To Rogers

CLAREMORE, Okla., Nov. 5.—(AP)—The homefolk who knew Will Rogers when he was a kid cowpoke and celebrities who knew him as an internationally famous humorist joined in common tribute here today at the dedication of Oklahoma's memorial to her most famous son on the 59th anniversary of his birth.

Thousands of admirers of the humorist pressed upon Claremore to attend the services at the $200,000 Will Rogers Memorial Museum atop a knoll overlooking Claremore, on which he had dreamed of building a permanent home.

The Rogers family had come home, the widow, Mrs. Betty Rogers; the two sons, Bill and Jimmy, and the daughter, Mary. Mrs. Rogers gave the memorial's 17-acre hilltop site to the state.

The Golden Text

Exodus 20:12—"Honor thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

Honoring Our Parents

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 6 is Exodus 20:12; Luke 2: 46-52; John 19: 26, 27; Ephesians 6:1-4, the Golden Text being Exodus 20:12, "Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.")

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

TO-DAY'S LESSON is very interesting. It starts with one of the old Jewish laws which God gave to Moses on tablets of stone. It is the fifth commandment: "Honor thy father and thy mother." It tells of Jesus' adventure when He was 12 years old and was lost for three days and finally found in the temple. And last it takes us to that sad time when Jesus was crucified and in the agony of that dreadful death remembered His mother and put her in the care of His best-loved disciple.

Most people love their parents, but parents are not always honored and obeyed. Children in the United States are usually referred to as having more freedom and being less obedient than in any other land. Of course this is the parents' fault. They should teach obedience to the rules of the home as well as obedience to the laws of the country. Children who must keep the home rules are much more likely to obey the laws of the land and be good citizens.

The Bible story does not say if Jesus disobeyed His parents in remaining in Jerusalem when they started for home after attending the Feast of the Passover. Probably not, for He did not seem to feel guilty when, after three days of searching, they found Him. He was so deeply interested in the elders of the temple and what they told Him, that He had hardly missed His parents. And when His mother scolded Him, He seemed surprised to think she thought He had done wrong. It was His business, He thought, to learn all He could from these men in the temple, and so He answered His mother, not disrespectfully, but as if she should know that He was only doing His duty. "Wist you not that I must be about my father's business?" He said.

And His mother must have understood, for she "kept all these sayings in her heart," just as all mothers do with the unusual things their children say.

And then time went on and Jesus grew to manhood and was very well known in all the land. He preached to all manner of people and performed miracles and "the common people heard him gladly." But the priests and those who were in authority did not like Him and His doctrine of loving one another and doing good to those who used them badly, and they schemed to have Him crucified. They thought that would be an end of the queer new religion and the man who was so loved and revered.

And so they crucified Him. And as He was hanging from the cross suffering untold agony He looked down and there was His mother. Near her was His best-loved disciple. Jesus called to both and said to His mother, "Woman, behold your son!" meaning the disciple. And to His friend He said, "Behold your mother," and the disciple took Jesus' mother to his own home to live and to be cared for.

The Bible has another commandment, and this time it is to parents. After telling children to obey and honor their parents, it tells parents not to provoke their children. In the happy home the children honor the parents, and the parents understand and respect the children, bringing "them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

A National Message

"And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever."

The outstanding need in our nation to-day is a national conversion experience. It is necessary that the understand most definitely that the conversion experience for the nation has more than once taken place, and has been recorded as historic fact.

Take, for instance, the conversion experience which came to the Israel nation at Carmel, what time Elijah challenger Baal and the Priesthood of Baal to a demonstration of vital religion before King Ahab and all Israel assembled. The King, the Priesthood and Israel came to that assembly confirmed in the faith and worship of Baal. Before the manifestation of impotence on the part of the Priesthood of Baal, and the manifestation of the living presence and power of Jehovah, the nation was converted, and unitedly cried, "Jehovah, He is the God: Jehovah, He is the God."

The conversion of early Britain out of Druidism into the Christian faith—the conversion of the Saxons to the Christian faith—the lapse of a portion of the nation into Papacy and their conversion to the Protestant faith at the Reformation—the conversion of the nation at the period of the revival called the Wesleyan Revival, but extending much beyond Wesley's work and influence—each of these and other conversions, marking the turning of separate generations to God, is sufficient to illustrate what we mean by national conversion.

The enemies of our Anglo-Saxon civilization know right well that such national conversions are quite possible, either to the faith of our Lord, or, on the contarry, to anti-Christ. While the Churches have been laboring, with not the greatest measure of success, to bring about the conversion of the individual, various influences from outside, each in its own field, and at times in combination, have been laboring to bring about the conversion of the Anglo-Saxon world from the principles of the Reformation and ideals of our civilization. They have not neglected to aim at individual conversion, but also they have labored with a great deal of ominous success towards the conversion of the nation to the faith and institutions they represent.

Nothing will meet the progress which institutions such as these are making towards their end, but constructive laboring to bring about the conversion experience towards God and His truth of the present generation which constitutes he nation.

Napanee Will Have Second Inspector

TORONTO, November 5—(CP).—P. W. Hodgetts, Director of the Ontario Department of Agriculture Fruit Branch, said to-day a second inspector had been added to the department's inspection station for fruits and vegetables on the highway near Napanee because of increased business.

The Napanee district station has been open four weeks, during which time 293 trucks carrying fruits and vegetables had been examined. Of these, 27 trucks had their loads held for reconditioning due to faulty grading and other causes. Hodgetts said improving roads accounted for the increased truck shipments.

At the Gravenhurst station, Northern Ontario inspection point, 3,343 truckloads of fruit and vegetables have been inspected this year. The inspection assures buyers of properly-graded products under the Provincial Government's Farm Products Grade and Sales Act.

Ancient Custom Heralds Organist

When the world-famed organist, Gatty Sellars, who plays at George street United church on November 11th visited Marlborough, England, prior to his sailing for the U.S.A. his recital was heralded throughout the historic town, by the town crier, in his regalia, accompanied by his bell, from the principal street corners. For such an old custom to be still in vogue, when a great artist visits their town, is most unusual in this present age. In contrast to this, immediately Mr. Sellars arrived in New York, he was interviewed by the Associated Press, controlling over two thousand U.S.A. papers, the same day being approached for broadcasting. Needless to add the same is done in England, in addition to the old custom just mentioned in this particular instance.

Mr. Sellars was surprised on arriving at one old Cathedral City, in England, to meet a horse-drawn van carrying large placards, on either side, with the announcement of his recital, the style more resembling in advertising, that of a circus, with all the embroidery around the same employed. He was asked not to smile, when seeing the same approach, as one of the church members had supplied this rather garish mode for publicity.

The Netherlands now obtains most of its parrafin from the United States.

Cathedral Musings

A great source of distress to the earnest seeker is the struggle that he finds arising within himself. For at the first real lifting of his inner being towards the Light, his lower self resists what it instinctively feels to be the first step towards the ending of its dominancy of the individual and its own ultimate destruction. For, as it is written, he that loveth his life shall lose it and he that layeth down his life (his lower self-will) shall find it. The mortal selfish "I" must be utterly set aside before one can do more than faintly realize even the bare existence of the true Self, the child of God. Hence it is also written that one cannot serve the self-spirit (mammon) and serve God. In other words we must attain the single vision, we must either polarize our whole beings God-wards, or live in the idolaltry of this world and the things of this world. So it is that the wisdom of God is despised by the worldy, for it is in direct opposition to the things that men value most, self and self-interest. But when this interior strife arises, between the self and the SELF, our only hope is to rest in the Christ of God within us, for what says the Ancient wisdom: "When the battle rages, stand aside. Be not thou the warrior but let the warrior who is within thee fight. There is, yet again, another consideration, for the spirit of self is most subtle in deceit, that is, we should not turn to God, or even do what is right, for the sake of any reward, either here or hereafter, for being children of God we should love Him as our Father, for Love's own sake, purely and disinterestedly. So also, should we love our brethren. Otherwise we are no better than those who sell pretended love in the market-place. For love is not to be bought, or sold, for it is of God. Neither should we be afraid of God, for if we are afraid, then it is that we had no love for Him in our hearts, for there can be no fear where Love abounds. Love is waht we lack, for we do out utmost to slay His Love, when we do not love one another as our true brothers and sisters. We have not yet learned to hate our false selves and to lay them aside so that we may dwell in Peace.

Remembrance Day In City Churches

Remembrance Day services will be held in Peterborough churches on Sunday. The evening topic in St. Andrew's will be "Despised and Rejected Of Men". This is the title of a great picture which was exhibited in the British Isles some years ago and was viewed by many thousands of people.

The artist got his inspiration whilst attending a religious service in St. Paul's Cathedral in London, in fact the scene of the picture is the steps of that great cathedral.

In this picture all classes and conditions of men are shown just as the artist conceived of them in real life. There was nothing subtle in the conception of this magnificent work of art, it was essential a picture for the masses. It raised many questions, however, in the minds of thoughtful people, questions which the preacher of today must answer.

The title of the picture suggests its ruling idea. Was the artist an extreme pessimist? Has Jesus Christ been despised and rejected by this present world? Some will say yes, others answer no, at the same time it is a question which is worthy of consideration.

Honoring Our Parents — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher.

Scripture—Exodus 20:12; Luke 2:46-52; John 19:26, 27; Ephesians 6:1-4

After attending the feast of the passover in Jerusalem, Jesus' parents started for home but missed their son. They found him in the temple with the elders.

Jesus' mother chided him. But Jesus answered her, "Wist ye not that I must be about my father's business?" All her life his mother remembered his answer.

Jesus looked down from the cross and saw his mother and his beloved disciple. Calling to them he put his mother in the disciple's care.

The happy family is one in which children obey and honor their parents, and the parents try not to needlessly anger their children.

An Open Confession

When the British have a matter of vital concern to clean up they persist in doing it on the floor of the House of Commons. They do not go into a room where they can close the door and pull down the shutters. They seem to prefer having their period of self-examination and confession in public where all who care to may listen and all who do not listen can read about it in the papers regardless of where they live.

It is due to that policy that the world knows now what much of it suspected before—that London was hopelessly unprepared if war had broken during the recent crisis. There can be no doubt about it because the Secretary of War, Leslie Hore-Belisha, made a complete statement and a complete admission of the bungling which had been going on.

Some of the anti-aircraft guns were without dials because the firms which make the dials had gone bankrupt. Guns which were sent up from practice camps got separated from their equipment, and all such equipment would have been of no more value than a pea shooter. Electric storage batteries were found on examination to have become run down. There were guns for which there were no shells.

There were nine mental hospitals in London where no gas masks had been provided; not an additional stretcher could be secured by the hospitals; sirens were not available for warnings of air raids; there had been no policy for evacuating women and children from London in case the air raiders arrived.

All that must have provided interesting reading for Hitler or Mussolini, or for any other power. The British method really makes it stupid or unnecessary for foreign powers to keep spies in the land trying to find out the weak spots because they are all recited on the floor of the British House of Commons.

And that was the condition which prevailed when Premier Chamberlain was so insistent to continue his negotiations with Hitler and with Mussolini. Whether he was aware of the muddled condition at home is something on which we have no information, nor is any likely to be forthcoming. But it is a bald and stubborn fact that had he not been successful in his negotiations, and had London been a target for enemy air raiders there would have been a lamentable sort of defence offered. Things were plainly muddled.

We know had such conditions existed in Germany there never would have been an open admission made of it, but the people in Britain come right out to the front with it all and admit their whole system of anti-aircraft gunnery was virtually useless, and that their plans for dealing with air-raids were confused and good for nothing. Looked at from that angle it appears certain that Chamberlain had more grounds for negotiating than were ever credited to him.

An Old Problem Again

Sir William Mulock owns a piece of downtown property in Toronto, and he asks that the assessment be much reduced. It is marked up at $58,500 and Sir William says he would like to have it marked down to $40,000. He explains a little more, and says if a purchaser with $25,000 hove in sight the property would change hands and gladly.

Probably every community has property of this sort which is not readily saleable because it is not in demand, and yet the problem comes in trying to keep that and other property at such a rate that the yield will be sufficient to pay the municipal bills for the year.

The value of property fluctuates, but the amount of money which the city needs does not. This way—if a pavement is laid on a ten-year debenture plan that is a fixed charge against the property and it remains the same even if the property itself depreciates in value.

If a fair amount of Toronto's assessment were marked down on the ratio of 58 to 40 there would be a slump in tax levy which would call for higher assessments being placed elsewhere. As long as real estate is the basis of municipal taxation these inequalities will continue, and many of them are hard to defend and also hard to change.

The Story of Blairton

Today we believe there would be few people who could tell where Blairton is situated. It is five miles east of Marmora on No. 7 Highway but the trouble is so little remains to show that Blairton ever did exist. Today such a place is referred to as a ghost town and that may tell the story. The history of the community was well told by a staff writer of the Examiner in a recent issue. Seventy years ago there were about 700 people living in Blairton and iron was being mined at Crowe Lake, after which it was shipped by what now seems to be a laborious process to Erie, Pa.

A directory of 1869 gives the names of people who were then in business. There was a postmaster and a railway agent, several carpenters, shoemakers, general merchants, grocers, keepers of livery barns, butchers, hotel keepers, clothiers and so forth. Also one minister of the Wesleyan Methodist church. There is sufficient to show that Blairton was an average growing community where people were carrying on business and working much the same as in any community of today.

In short but none the less adequate words one can trace the days of the decline. In 1882 the population was but 350 as there was little ore being sold or moved; in 1892 the population was 200, and in 1906 it is on record that the people living there could muster a numerical strength of but 50.

In its day the community played its part; there was work to be done and there were wages paid for the doing of it. Today the name survives in the postal directory but there is a notation with the somewhat contradictory explanation that the little mark before the name indicates it is actually not a postoffice. It is well at times to consider the history of these places which we now refer to as ghost towns. In their day they were strong and filled with life and behind them was the spirit of industrial and commercial adventure — the one sure process by which a new land is actually developed.

At Too Great Length

The inquiry into the Bren contract is running at too great length. There is only one point to be settled, and that is if there were a fair arrangement made by which the Inglis Company of Toronto was to produce these guns. The people want to know if there was any method used in organizing the company or in securing the contract which were not right. Also if those interested in the company were likely to make an undue profit.

We make no comment on any of the evidence being offered, and we say nothing by way of opinion because the inquiry is still in progress.

But this we do contend—that it is being drawn out to a length which seems to be unnecessary, and if all the exhibits placed before the learned judge conducting the case have to be considered again and examined before a report is made then the report is likely to be long delayed.

A Guardian Needed

Probably it is a fact that there have always been slick fellows living in cities; particularly the large cities. We can recall hearing about them years ago, and now and then we read about them. They exist even now. A farmer from Creemore went to the police in Toronto to complain that he had been victimized by the city slickers to the extent of $335 in cash. The farmer was 50 years of age by which time he should have reached the full age of adult understanding.

He went into an auction sale room and there was a crowd present; the Creemore man joined in the bidding and spent $40, and when he paid it he exhibited a large roll of good money. Then what? He got in conversation with a couple of friendly men and it was suggested they all go and visit a beverage room. Fine! A man coming to a city likes to find friendly people. They went to the room where the visitor was staying and he tucked $200 under the mattress of the bed and put $135 in his pocket. They were going out to see life at its best.

Just where they went is not clear, but the visitor found when he was ready to look for his room he had no money; his pocket had been picked, and he also discovered when he returned to his room that his mattress had also been picked.

There is not any danger of such a thing happening many times because there are few farmers who go about with several hundreds of dollars in their pockets, and also the great majority of farmers know well enough how to look after themselves. But if possible there should be a guardian appointed for such men as the chap from Creemore who would hand him out a little spending money and when he had exhausted that send him back home.

This Time He's Wrong

Sir Malcolm Campbell, former holder of the speed record in driving a car was in our country a short time when on his way to Detroit. Reporters spotted him of course and then asked about affairs in Europe, in England and the world in general. Sir Malcolm was apparently looked upon as knowing something about everything.

One of his suggestions was that the capital of the British Empire should be moved from London to Toronto; he said also that there should be closer co-operation among the democracies of the world, and there should be some alterations made in the British government.

Sir Malcolm could never have made the front page by saying that democracies should co-operate. Such a thing has even been mentioned in these columns and no results have been forthcoming. Neither were we much interested in the manner in which we would adjust certain gadgets in the British government. But when he mentioned lifting the capital of the Empire out of London and setting the thing down smack in Toronto—well then it was different. He was really saying something then.

But somehow we do not believe the thing will come to pass. We doubt very much if ten people in old England would ever vote for such a thing being done. London is such an interesting and historic centre that it seems to possess everything out of which the Empire has been made. We do not believe the average person there even regards a Canadian very seriously, being for the most part inclined to pay heed to those whom they refer to as "American cousins." If Sir Malcolm were to go ahead with such a suggestion in England or in London we fear some person might be moved to pitch something at him. One guess may be as good as another and ours would be if they moved the capital of the Empire from London to Toronto it would be the end of the British Empire.

Building permits in Peterborough for ten months in 1938 amounted to $375,629. For the same period in 1937 they were $219,618. And that seems to prove that if people can get money at a reasonable price and be assured that taxation will not hit them too hard for a while they will go ahead and build.

OTHERWISE O. K.

(By A. R. K.)

¶ The handy man who lives near me, said he had something I should see, new strippings for a door; some stuff he nailed on here and there, so it would check a draft of air, when winds began to roar.

¶ The handy man explained the way, he put it on so it would stay, he showed me too his tools; he was so careful with the stuff, and wanted me to know enough, I got his book of rules.

¶ I'd have some comfort now I thought, great yards of this new thing I bought, did all that I was told; I drove in nails till I was weak, and every little crack I'd seek, by battle with the cold.

¶ And neighbors passing by would pause, and for my efforts seek a cause, they praised me rather high; there was some brains within my dome, I'd have myself a pleasant home, I was a goodly guy.

¶ I wondered as I fixed that door, I'd never thought of it before, and worked out such a plan; I was indebted to the jay, who pointed out to me the way, that very handy man.

¶ I looked with pleasure at the thing, I'd leave it there till came the spring, have warmth inside my hut; there's only one thing wrong just now, no matter if I push nor how — that stubborn door won't shut.

LT.-COL. J. W. MILLER, veteran of the U.S. Civil War, who died in Peterborough at the age of 93, was buried on Monday with military honors. Civic and fraternal bodies were represented, two clergymen officiated, and the honorary bearers included 20 militia officers, nearly all of field rank. Peterborough Examiner published a cemetery scene and a column report—exceptionally well written, by the way. Civil War survivors are few now, and in this case the officer had commanded the local regiment of militia for some years. One can only speculate as to whether the rites would have been as elaborate had he died a few years after the Civil War, and as to whether corresponding honors may be expected upon the demise of Great War veterans who manage to survive until 1992.

• Using Trailers As Houses Now

STATICTICS ON THE production and sale of trailers inspire the glamorous picture of a hundred thousand well-to-do families roaming in care-free, nomadic fashion up and down the land, summering in Michigan, wintering in Florida, and with leisurely appreciation taking in all the sights between.

The picture is true says the Detroit News, to some extent, but its truth is exceeded by its falsity. One's suspicion is aroused when on a day's drive along any main highway he meets or passes hardly a one of these vehicles. It is raised to skepticism and disbelief when he enters the tourist camp of some popular resort like a national park, where he expects to count scores of wheeled homes, and can count not half a dozen.

We may be told that the lack of parking facilities for the trailers on main highways, and the hostility to them of hotel keepers and cabin owners has forced them to take to the back roads. On the latter also, however, they by no means appear in numbers comparable to the statistics of sales.

The fact of the matter is that by far the greater portion of trailers are sold not to the well-to-do for care-free touring, but to the comparatively poor for decidedly care-ridden, emergency dwelling. On a visit to any of a dozen trailer communities in and near Detroit one may see more trailers being lived in than he will see being toured in if he journeys half way across the continent.

This is a disheartening revelation. For while trailers furnish comfortable and even luxurious accommodations for a camping vacation, they are by no decent standard fit to reside in as homes, winter and summer, over extended periods. Viewed as homes, they are simply one-room houses, which despite their smart, shiny exteriors, are like all other one-room houses unhealthily congested within. And an assembly of them, in the long run, creates a new type of slum.

The trailer, once regarded as a part of the tourist problem, has become a part of the housing problem. As such it will have to be seriously studied and its solution found.

• Strange Things Might Happen

(Letter in Ottawa Journal)

SIR:—Last week a citizen appeared in Police Court here, charged by an agent of the Ontario Government with breaking the law by employing two carpenters to work on his house on a Saturday afternoon.

Evidence showed that two brothers-in-law of the citizen had put some clapboards on his house; they were not carpenters and they received no pay.

The magistrate dismissed the charge on the grounds that the agent had not produced in evidence the required authorization of the Fair Wage Board to enter this specific suit.

Both the agent and his attorney urgently requested the magistrate to accept evidence along this line after statutory time had elapsed—thus, in the opinion of an onlooker, suggesting contravention of the law on evidence.

The writer has no political bias and has an entirely open mind on the question of Capital vs. Labor, also on trade unionism.

My apprehension is as to where a citizen stands today and what he may expect tomorrow from such legislation as is on the statute books and the mis-use that may be made of it in the circumstances described herein. A. H.

• Fire On Liner "Mah-velous!"

THE FIRE ABOARD the Deutschland was "Mah-velous, just Mah-velous" to Stanley Pratt, English antique dealer who turned in his personal report in a shore-to-ship telephone conversation.

Mr. Pratt was in the ship's dining saloon when suddenly everything went black: "Then," he said, "we noticed the ship had stopped. A steward said he thought it must be because of the fog."

Immediately thereafter the first class passengers noticed third class passengers scooting around the cabin decks and the dining room, en masse, rose and went above to see what was going on.

"We were told at once that it was a small fire," Mr. Pratt said, "and it was really just mah-velous."

The freighter Europe came within fifty feet of the Deutschland and stood by ready to transfer passengers if necessary.

"As the fire got under control the Europe cheered the crew of the Deutschland and the Deutschland cheered the Europe," Mr. Pratt reported.

Fire at sea may be a very terrifying thing to some people but Mr. Pratt just files it under the head of "don't give-it-another-thought."

When things calmed down Mr. Pratt, who was never ruffled for a moment, went to the "Cinemah," he said; then played a few rubbers of bridge before he called it a night. "It was just mah-velous," he reiterated, "and the ship's band played dance music until 3 a.m."

The fire on the Deutschland, a Hapag-Lloyd liner, brought up the question. "What does Hapag mean?" I thought it was a concentration somehow or other for the Hamburg American consolidation. But it's a lot more than that. It stands Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt Actien-Gesellschaft.

It is a joke among seamen to say it stands for: "Hug All Pretty American Girls."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND the Lord God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make an help meet for him....And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof; and the rib, which the Lord God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man.

And Adam said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man. Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh. And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed....

And Adam called his wife's name Eve; because she was the mother of all living.—Gen. ii, 18, 21-25; iii, 20

ONE ANCIENT CANON.

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

AS AN OBSERVER points out, Washington, in spite of the intensified rearmament program of the United States, will remain one of the least fortified of the major capitals of the world. Within a 25-mile radius of the city, there are few pieces of artillery, with only a few fortifications dating from the Civil War period and less than 6,000 soldiers. The real defence line of Washington is 200 miles away, at the mouth of Chesapeake Bay.

Our own capital city, the site of which was largely fixed because of its remoteness at that period from the international border, does not fare any better in the way of defences. It is true that there is an air station on its outskirts and that detachments of various units of the Canadian Permanent Force have their headquarters there. It is also true that there are at least two infanry militia battalions in the city and branches of the artillery, signals, engineers, medical and other arms of the service.

But about the only armament in service is the ancient cannon which is still discharged at noon from Parliament Hill.

THEY WENT SHOPPING.

(Brantford Expositor)

CANADIAN CHOIR members feel that break-downs and fire in their bus trip to New York, the consequent nervousness, and the lengthy trip back home were all part of the cost of their concert triumph, but they are by no means enthusiastic over the unnecessary red tape treatment by Canadian officials on crossing the border. Since each was qualified to bring back $100 in goods duty free, the methods used to search them were decidedly crude, unnecessary and out of place. Surely facilities for examination provided at the Peace Bridge should have been used in place of forcing a lineup in the open air at an early hour of the morning.

IF MR. KING is engaged in building up a North American axis as opposed to the British Commonwealth of nations, it appears high time that he should confide to Parliament just how far his "isolationist policy" goes. For Conservatives there is also the question how far their new leader is in agreement with Mr. King. Something is overdue by way of enlightenment. When Mr. King made "Whither?" the slogan of his last election broadcast, just what did he mean?

Injured At Wedding Celebration Man Dies In Western Hospital

STURGIS, Sask., Nov. 5 (C.P.).—John Balbiuk, 45, of Lady Lake died in hospital last night from injuries allegedly suffered on Sunday at a party celebrating the wedding of John Noroski, who brought a bride from Windsor, Ont., to his farm home in this district 175 miles east of Saskatoon. Twenty-five were injured in a fight at the celebration.

Balbiuk suffered a possible fractured skull, a 10-inch gash in his stomach, believed caused either by a knife or a broken bottle, 25 minor wounds and abrasions. An inquest will open to-day.

The Noroski home, where the wedding celebration was held, is a shambles, furniture, cooking utensils, and windows were smashed. Royal Canadian Mounted Police were called to end the fight. Noraski and his bride left on Wednesday by automobile for Fort William.

Canadian Legion Notes

In consequence of the many activities of the Legion and the call upon the time of the members the Dixie Minstrels find it impossible to make their debut into the show world at the end of November as they intended and have postponed their opening until the early New Year. Morley Plunkett of "Dumbell" fame has taken over the management of the troupe and with Walter Farr as his assistant the members and our many friends may rest assured of an entertainment treat.

By the kind invitation of our Padre, Rev. G. Easton, we will attend Trinity church on Sunday morning. The parade will fall in before the Legion Cenotaph at 10.15 a.m. and march to the church at 10.30. We wish to extend an invitation to all ex-service men in the district to join the Legion in the parade and give thanks to Almighty God for the end of the great war and for the mercy given to the world during the last few weeks. The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet the parade in front of the church and march into the church with the men and would be pleased to have the wives and mothers of ex-service men join with them.

By the time the Examiner is on the streets today Poppy Day will be well on its way and it bids fair to be one of the most successful in the annals of the organization.

All the members are reminded that we are having a dinner on Remembrance Day evening at 6.30 p.m. The speeches will be very limited indeed and we hope to have a very pleasant evening. As Friday is a fast day those members will be taken care of.

Attendance Down At Annual Supper

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Nov. 5. — The annual supper of the Havelock United Church was held on Wednesday evening in the church basement with a very good attendance, although not as large as former years. The supper was prepared by the members of the Women's Association, of which Mrs. Charles H. Roberts is the president, and was served at 6.15 p.m.

Anniversary services were held at the United Church last Sunday, when Rev. F. W. Newell, B.A., B.D., of Hastings preached to large congregations at both services. Rev. Andrew McLauchlin exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Newell for the day.

Rev. Mr. Newell's subject at the morning service was "The Unchanging Christ," and in the evening "The Church Worth While." Music was under the direction of Mrs. R. Campney, with the choir singing "Give Thanks to the Lord" (Gabriel), and "Praise Ye the Lord" (Gounod) in the morning and evening respectively.

In the morning the soloist was Mrs. F. Clarke, who sang "Thou Mighty to Save" and in the evening Miss Edith Roberts sang "Teach Me to Do Thy Will." Grey Kemp rendered a trumpet solo "The Holy City" (Adams).

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Hanid sighed, "Dear, dear."

Knarf sighed, "It's no use."

Mrs. Cuckoo sighed loudest and longest of all. "I'll never, never be able to get my clock to run right again. It's lost a minute and no one will give me a minute of their own to put back in the clock. No one has a minute to spare."

They sat about sadly in the dark playroom, for it was late at night, and everyone else in the house was asleep.

Hears Tick-Tock.

All at once Knarf, who was sitting near the door, heard a very loud tick-tock, tick-tock. It came from the end of the hall near the stairs and seemed to say:

Tick-tock,
I stand in the hall,
I'm an old clock
With minutes for all.

"Do you hear that?" Knarf exclaimed excitedly. "It has minutes for all! Mrs. Cuckoo—do you hear!"

Mrs. Cuckoo's face brightened. She stood up straight at once. "Yes, I hear it. It's the grandfather's clock!"

"Oh! Let's hurry! It's almost twelve o'clock. If you can get that minute before twelve o'clock, your clock will be able to start the new day on time!" Hanid said.

The door was open, and Mrs. Cuckoo slipped through it and flew swiftly down the hall. The two shadow-children glided after her. There at the end of the hall stood the old clock.

"Good evening, good evening," it greeted them.

"Have you a minute to spare, Grandfather?" Knarf asked. "Mrs. Cuckoo needs it for her clock."

"Of course, of course. I've got minutes and minutes to spare. Just look! I'm more than a minute fast right now. I'm ahead of time. I'll be glad to give you a minute. Glad to, glad to."

"Do you hear that?"

It's Wonderful.

"How wonderful!" cried Hanid. "Here—I'll give it to you now. Are you ready? Here it comes!"

And the next instant the two shadows heard a great whirling of wheels inside the old clock. Then out came the ticks and the tocks, all in a great jumble, like little balls tumbling down a flight of steps. Mrs. Cuckoo spread out her wings. She caught them all. Then she flew like a shot straight for her clock in the playroom and lit on the steps in front of her little door and called out: "Twelve o'clock! Twelve o'clock! All's well with the cuckoo clock!"

And Knarf and Hanid smiled at each other, and the old grandfather's clock ticked and tocked as happily as ever.

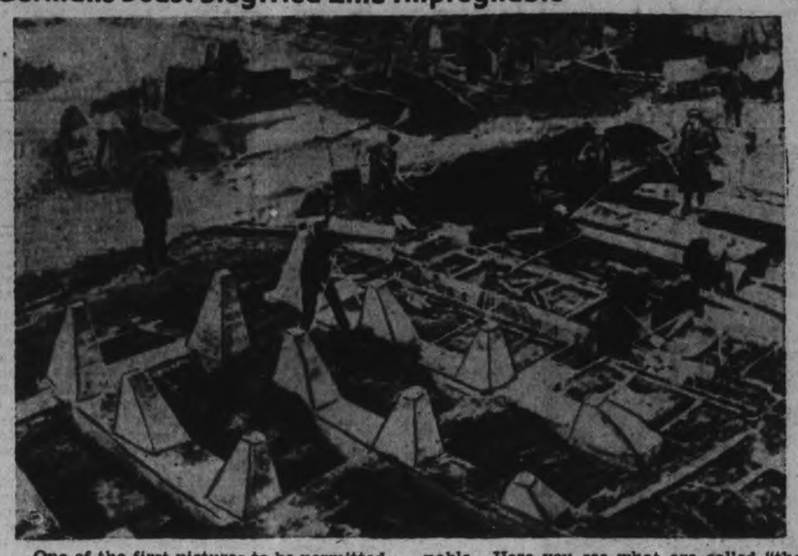
For Sale—Cheap

LONDON, Nov. 5 (A.P.). — Anyone who wants to live in Britain's own "Maginot Line" may buy one of the original fortresses—cheap. A Martello tower is for sale in Seaford, Sussex. It was part of England's coastal defences during the Napoleonic Wars. The walls are 14 feet thick.

Children in Redcar, England, have been warned not to fill their gas masks with blackberries gathered in country lanes.

Germans Boast Siegfried Line Impregnable



One of the first pictures to be permitted out of Germany of the famed line of fortifications that guard the German border where it faces France's Maginot Line. The German line is known as the Siegfried Line and Reichsfuhrer boasts that it is impregnable. Here you see what are called "the gravestones of tanks," the implication being that no tank could negotiate a path through the huge blocks of concrete that are placed in front of the line's series of forts.

TEARS MADE dark screens for her eyes as Judy ran from the studio to the rest room. She would not cry. Crying was weak. You had to fight on, fight up! It was the only way that you scaled any wall, low or tall.

She still clutched the newspaper that she had been reading. She had not finished the story accusing Ronald of jury bribing.

She wondered why the knowledge that Abbey and Ronald had severed their engagement did not cheer her. Was it because she wished so much for Ronald to have the girl he desired? Or was it because this change could mean nothing to her so long as Ronald cared for the other girl?

She perused the story further.

Now the tears were banished and quick spots of color dotted her cheeks. Life could be so cruel, could deal so many blows at one turn of the wheel. She knew that. In just such a way she had lost Craig, her father and mother and love and security.

The story stated that Ronald Birrel probably would be suspended from the law firm of Heaton and Heaton, and probably disbarred from practice. If that happened, he would go away Away—

Out of her life forever. Broken, hurt, lost! But he wouldn't give up. Some place he still would fight....

All the time she thought, she was powdering her nose, putting on her hat and coat, picking up her pocketbook and gloves. She left word at the receptionist's desk that she had been called away suddenly.

She must see Mr. Heaton, convince him that Ronald was innocent.

The senior attorney of the famous old firm greeted her with outstretched hand. "So you did come, Judy."

Of course he thought she had come to talk about her father, to make amends and be accepted in the family again.

She sat down and shook her head. "I came, Mr. Heaton, but about another matter." She opened the newspaper that she had brought along. "Surely you of all people know how absurd this implication is. You couldn't fire Ronald!"

"You trust the lad, don't you?" the lawyer asked curiously.

"I thought you did too." Her eyes met the man's and he looked away.

"I wouldn't have asked him to join our firm if I hadn't, Judy. We bear a proud name. We are an old association with a fine record. We want to be fair, we are going to be loyal, but the evidence ....". He stopped as though there were nothing more to be said.

Judy jumped up. "The evidence is false. Someone might have bribed the jurors and pretended it was Ronald. Don't you realize that?"

She was saying to him just what she had said to Ronald not long before.

"But who would do such a thing and why He has no enemies of whom we know. He can't locate any—not any who would stoop to such dastardly tricks."

"Then you are—releasing him?" She spoke so slowly that it took a long time for the words to come.

"Let's phrase it differently. We are accepting his resignation."

"When?" That was just a whisper. She was too tired to say more.

"I shall see him in the morning."

Judy snapped out of her lethargy. She could rest later. Rest when Ronald was cleared—or gone. Now she must fight.

"Will you promise to say nothing to him about this for a couple of more days? I think perphaps I have some evidence that may clear him."

"You're being perverse, Judy. You're young and hot-headed and seeking a slim chance that the lad's not guilty. The Lord knows I hope he isn't. I'm fond of him. He's one of the most brilliant courtroom lawyers I've heard for many a day. He has a big future with us. But if he hasn't the stamina to fight his way, instead of buy it, we have no need for him."

"Do you think a boy who struggled through school and college, who rowed and played football and made an athletic name for himself would throw away the rules of fair play? Oh, Mr. Heaton, stop being a stuffed shirt, and grow up!"

Judy had no intention of hurling such an admonition at the dignified lawyer. Now she heard the words and didn't regret them. That's what he was. Let him take it!

He laughed and she joined the sound, mournfully.

Then the lawyer said: "Your father is coming in in a few moments. He may be in the outer office now. Wouldn't you like to see him?"

"I could speak to him. I suppose it wouldn't injure my cause," she said, and tried to smile. "I was an encumbrance for a while. It's a little difficult to be a daughter again."

She wondered if Ronald was around. She wanted to see him. She must tell him about those numbers in her pocketbook and their connection with the man in the green fedora and plaid coat.

"Has Mr. Birrell been in today?" she asked as Mr. Heaton rang for his secretary.

"Not since this morning. He had a case at court—"

"He still tries cases?"

"He's a good lawyer, my dear, and he has not been disbarred. There is a long way to go until he is. Besides this case was before a judge."

"How soon will he be back?"

The courthouse was nearby. If she took a cab, she might waylay Ronald. That would be better than meeting him here. She stood up.

"Your father," the attorney reminded her.

"Oh, yes!" So quickly she had forgotten him.

He had been waiting and now he came into the room smiling at her. He held out a hand and kissed her lightly on the cheek. He made a humorous remark about her independence. She saw that he took it as a whim. He did not understand that she wanted to build solidly, that she wanted roots that went too deep for any economic upheaval, that money was not important so long as one had food and clothes, firelight and books.

The conversation was casual. Mr. Heaton left them. Judy explained that she would like to keep her apartment. In an impulsive moment she invited her father and Sarita down for dinner.

"You have a cook?" her father asked.

"No, a women who comes in to clean three times a week, and gets dinners when I ask her to. But I can cook."

"Where did you learn, my dear "

"At one of those expensive schools to which you sent me—the one in Switzerland. I remember that I liked it because we had such rich cream and chocolate for pastries and puddings."

And during those same years Ronald had been rising early to make white gravy in the kitchen of a southern school, so the other students could have it on their biscuits; he had been seeding lawns; mowing, working an honorable way to the place that he held today.

She knew that her father would not understand any more than Mr. Heaton had. The lawyer came back. The conversation turned to Ronald.

"Two bad about that young protege of yours getting involved," Mr. Rogers said as though Ronald were any young man with his name in the paper. "I liked him the few times I saw him."

To Judy an idea had come. She drew a deep breath, leaned forward. Maybe she really could help Ronald!

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, November 6.

Sunday's horoscope holds fair promise of advancement, profit and satisfaction, with possible tokens of preferment from superiors or those in authority. At the same time there are auguries of loss, dissatisfaction, or menace to the status or possessions, and there also are omens of a minor inharmony or disappointment in the social or emotional contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of fair progress and profitable developments, with some increase of prestige and popularity, although there are also possibilities of a loss of some nature. Personal relations likewise have signs of minor inharmonies.

A child born on this day may be rather talented, efficient and ambitious, but it may incline to personal popularity and social associations with the influential, rather than hard work of a practical nature, to bolster its standing and success. It should be generous, indulgent, and "a good mixer."

For Monday, November 7.

Monday's astrological forecast is for rapid progress and adventure along probably exciting and disrupting lines. With care these could be turned to one's advantage as there are safe, solid and stabilizing forces at work in spite of singular circumstances, subtle and menacing elements which might prove dangerous unless shrewdly and decisively managed. Elders and superiors may be counted upon for wise counsel and advancement.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of conflicting conditions, with some promise of solid progress and advancement through the co-operation of employers, elders and others in high places. At the same time, there is a subtle menace, with undercurrents of trickery, intrigue, confusion or eccentricity, to be decisively handled.

A child born on this day may be sturdy, energetic, ambitious and adventurous, with probably some original ideas of progress and social development, although these may have some peculiar or radical slants.

Empire Treaties Most Stable

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., Nov. 5 (CP). —A plea for a closer allegiance with England and for a Canadian-wide spirit of unification was made here last night by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson in an address to the annual banquet of cheesemakers of Grenville-Dundas county.

The former Canadian high commissioner in London lauded Prime Minister Chamberlain for his stand in the recent European crisis. "I think you will agree that we are much happier at what Mr. Chamberlain did than reading a list of war casualties in the papers," he said. "England is not in the position she was to maintain supremacy as she did a few years ago."

Speaking on trade treaties, Mr. Ferguson said: "Make your trade treaties with any country you like, but you will agree with me that in a trade treaty developed with a foreign nation there is not the same stability as dealing with the mother country. I think we should be prepared to trade and to stick more closely to the Old Country. We pay allegiance to the Old Country and in return for that we get protection for our trade routes."

Get Moving Deer, Those Men Are Here Again

Hastings, Nov. 5.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

DAN ARMSTRONG and party of deer hunters left here today for Crooked Lake in preparation for opening of the hunt Saturday. Town Constable William Wellman and his party will leave for the same vicinity on Saturday. Four parties leave here annually. Although the present weather is too mild, hunters are optimistic that cooler weather may favor them.

Three Men And Dope Fall In Police Net

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 5—(CP). —Three men were arersted here last night by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and seizures, believed to be of substantial proportions, effected. Gilbert Haggerty was arrested on the stret by operatives and Luigi Gasparini, and his son, Daniel, later were arrested in a house. The three men are charged with possession under the Narcotics Act.

The trio appeared in police court to-day when R.C.M.P. officers who made the raid charged they found 200 capsules of heroin. The drug was said to have been secreted in cigarette packages found on the accused.

Bail of $25,000 each was asked for the Gasparinis and $10,000 for Haggerty. Magistrate H. A. Burbridge later reduced the Gasparinis' bail to $8,000 each and set trial for Nov. 15.

Rubbish Learning

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 5 (A.P.). — Five thousand years hence, the story of New York may be reconstructed from—its garbage. "Garbage tells the story," said Dr. Alfred Kidder of the Carnegie Institution. He opined students of the future would learn more about New York "from its rubbish than from the ruins of Rockefeller Centre."

Unknown Hungarian Lad Makes Name In 25-Minute Violin Debut

New York, Nov. 5 (AP). A 17-year-old Hungarian boy named Robert Virovai made a career for himself with 25 minutes of violin playing last night in Carnegie Hall as soloist with the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra.

He came on the stage unknown to the audience except for a short note on the program saying he was born in 1921 and that this was his first debut in the United States.

When he finished the audience shouted bravos and refused to budge until he had returned a half dozen or more times. Then Robert went bac kto his dressing room to try to tell Conductor John Barbirolli what a beautiful accompaniment he had given the Vieuxtemps D Minor Concerto.

Robert had difficulty saying what he wanted to say to the conductor, because Barbirolli speaks almost no German, and Robert speaks almost no English.

A youngster, looking a little odd in his first tail-coat, simply walked out of the wings and did a job.

The bride wore her travelling costume, a teal blue crepe dress with corsage of deep red roses, a black doll's hat, sable cape, and black antelope accessories.

She was attended by Mrs. Thomas McKenzie of Colborne, Ont., who wore black and white sheer with red rose corsage, and cape of silver fox. The groomsman was Mr. Thomas McKenzie, Colborne.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Cobourg, and later Mr. and Mrs. Naylor left by motor to Ottawa and points East. They will reside in Colborne.

We Noticed

...That if you want to be clever and smart at the one moment this season, you must have at least one dress, cut on striking lines, with a plain neckline. With it you can wear one of those new, bright jewelled collars that scintillate so flatteringly. Add a jewelled bracelet to match—and no other adornment . . . unless it be a jewelled pin in your hair for evening.

◇ ◇ ◇

...A nice choice for general daytime wear is a dress of soft green woollen with a matching short jacket. The jacket is bordered around the front and the hem with baum marten, the fur borders continuing from the narrow collar.

◇ ◇ ◇

DOROTHY DIX

The Lure of a Legacy Needs Careful Consideration Before You Break Up Your Home and Go to Live With Some One Who Promises You Their Estate Upon Death

DEAR MISS DIX—My mother lives on the West Coast of the United States and wants us to come out there and look after her. She has about $20,000 and promises to leave it to us if we will come, but my husband hesitates about going because he has a good job where we are and there is not much of his kind of work out there. He says he will go if Mother will put her money in our name irrevocably, but she refuses to do that. We have been married twenty-five years and have both worked and done well. Have a nice home. We do not want to sacrifice what we have unless we are sure of something out there. Yet if we don't go Mother will think I don't care for her and leave her money to some one else. We have asked her to come and live with us but she refuses. I can't decide what to do. What is your idea in the matter?

PUZZLED.

Answer:

My advice to you is to stay where you are. You are settled in your own home, your husband is prospering, you have your circle of friends and acquaintances and, above all, you are free and independent. I think you would be very foolish to throw all of this away on the chance of some day possibly inheriting some money from a woman who may, after all, change her find about leaving it to you.

It isn't even a good financial proposition because your husband's salary gives you a much better income than you will have if the three of you try to live on the interest of your mother's $20,000. That's a scant support for three people. Now your husband's job brings enough to support you comfortably and you can also save money.

You are standing on your own feet. You have your own pride and self-respect and the knowledge that you are respected by others, but it will be a far different story if your husband cannot find work and you have to be dependent on your mother.

Anyway, it is ill-waiting for dead men's shoes, as the proverb says. There is nothing that is more degrading and humiliating and that does worse things to people's souls than to spend their lives flunking and flattering old people, waiting and praying and hoping for them to die.

We have all seen that done dozens of times and we have all been cynically amused to see how often they were disappointed and failed to get the money they had counted on, and for which they had done such lickspittle work. For cantankerous old people frequently find making and changing their wills the chief sport of their declining days.

As you put so much stress on your mother's will, be comforted by the knowledge that you are not in much danger of being left out of it even if you do not go to the West Coast. Money nearly always follows blood, and people with children rarely disinherit them. I have known people to leave fortunes to relatives whom they hated and to whom they had not spoken for years just because it is a human impulse to keep money in the family.

I think you mother is exactly right not to turn over all her property to you or anybody else as long as she lives. Her pocketbook is every old woman's best friend and she should hang on to it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Here goes about a husband who helps his wife about the housework and likes it. I haven't a very easy job to begin with as I work six days a week, eight hours a day, but besides that I do all of our family laundry for my wife, a young daughter going to school and myself. I wash the supper dishes most every night. I cook six or eight meals a week, most of them breakfast. I scrub the floors, wash the windows, do all the heavy and dirty work around the house. As we have no washing machine I wash the clothes by hand. Many mornings I get up before my wife and get the breakfast and get my daughter ready for school. I have been doing all of this for ten years and no family could be happier. If you don't believe this, come our way and I'll bake you a cake right before your eyes and a darn good one, too.

HARRY.

ST. LUKE'S BRANCH

One of the most successful Hallowe'en parties ever held by St. Luke's branch took place on Thursday evening when the branch had as its guests 30 members from Lakefield branch, who along with St. Luke's members swelled the crowd to well over 60. Most of them were in costume which ranged all the way from beautiful to ridiculous. The judges, V. Sedgwick, Rev. Mr. Bousfield, Mrs. Forbes and Mr. Staples, had a rather hard time picking the prize-winners, as follows:

Ladies' fancy costume, Miss Mary Kingsbury as a Colonial Lady; ladies' comic, Mrs. Purdy as an Indian Squaw; Amos and Andy, Misses C. Long and Q. Hope; gents' fancy, Milt Hampton as a coachman; gents' comic, John Hampton as a clown. Others worthy of mention: Florence Tice as a Honolul Girl; Miss Flowers as Mary Queen of Scots; Mrs. Wilson as Grandma; Eileen Biddle as a Spanish girl; Floyd Curtis as a clown; Miss Earnshaw as a little girl; W. Hepburn as a Gypsy, and Daisy Bell as a Chinese girl. Space does not permit of mentioning them all but they sure were good. The evening was spent in Hallowe'en games in charge of Art Sayers and Ralph Mason. After refreshments were served, all enjoyed an hour or so of dancing to music by Ted Naish. Miss aPt Earnshaw, president of the Lakefield branch, extended a hearty vote of thanks on behalf of her branch to St. Luke's for an enjoyable evening and all went home happy.

Miss Jessie Bell and her group will have charge of the program next week. It was regretted that Westwood branch was unable to be present but it's hoped at some future date to have them visit St. Luke's.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH

St. John's had as their guests the Normal students on Wednesday night at a Hallowe'en party. About 50 students forsook homework and study for a full evening of fun. Games, singing, dancing and refreshments provided the program of the evening. Prizes for fancy and comic costumes were awarded to Vivian Alkins and Christina Watkins, Wally Muir and George Nichols respectively. A treasure hunt in search of peanuts gave prizes to Don Howell and Reta Leeson who discovered the most peanuts. The evening was arranged by Alice Pruner's team. Refreshments were in the care of Eva Clark. Although Hallowe'en had gone the costumes certainly did their share to revive it.

On Thursday night the A.Y.P.A. along with the C.W.A. presented Miss Hessen of the Canadian Pacific Railway who showed lantern slides on Hawaii.

Next Wednesday is a "treasure hunt". Everyone come prepared for a hike as we understand that a lot of walking will be on the menu.

ST. JOHN'S, LAKEFIELD

A business meeting of the A.Y.P.A. of St John's was held in the parish hall on Tuesday evening. The attendance was very gratifying and included a number of visitors from Peterborough. The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Miss P. Earnshaw, after which a hearty welcome was extended to several new members.

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough District Council was held with Miss Clemina Long in the chair. Rev. R. Howden opened the meeting with prayer after which Miss Long introduced the speaker of the evening, W. Howell of St. John's, Peterborough, who gave a very interesting account of the A.Y.P.A. conference. Rev. R. Howden moved a hearty vote of thanks to Miss Long and her committee for their splendid work during the conference. Miss Long expressed her thanks to the members of the local branch for their co-operation also. Miss Queenie Hope of St. Luke's, Peterborough and G. Loosemore of the Lakefield branch thanked Mr. Howell for his most interesting report on the conference. The meeting was brought to a close with prayers led by Rev. R. Ho[illegible]n, after which a social hour was [illegible]nt and the Lakefield branch served refreshments.

Do You Know?

The leaves of a head of lettuce may be easily separated by cutting the stem or core with a sharp knife, leaving a conical hole in place of the stem? Run water from the cold water faucet into this hole, and the leaves will separate easily without tearing apart.

◇ ◇ ◇

You can judge the age of fowl by the skin of the feet? Young chickens have tender skin, whereas the feet of older chickens are scaly and the skin is much harder. Also, young chickens have pin feathers, which in the older chickens have turned into long hairs. These are two good tests for buyers.

◇ ◇ ◇

Broiling in a gas oven is both easier and better done in a pie tin under the flame? The pie tin saves the juice, and it is much easier to clean than the broiling grid and pan.

W.A. Bazaar Successful Event

A successful Bazaar, arranged by the Women's Association of St. Andrew's Church, and held Friday afternoon in the Sunday School Hall, was one of the week's outstanding events.

Guests were received by Mrs. H. P. Rowell, president, and Mrs. J. R. Marshall.

Tea was served in the Ladies' Parlors, where white Tea Roses in a clear glass bowl, and lighted green tapers in glass holders were effective decorations for the lace-covered table. Tea was poured in the early afternoon by Mrs. J. Wharry and Mrs. R. N. Waddell, and later by Mrs. Ivan Lillico and Mrs. D. A. MacTavish. Tea assistants included: Mrs. Hugh Waddell, Mrs. Gentles, Miss Evelyn Tudhope, Mrs. V. S. Foster, Mrs. R. L. Beal, Mrs. Connor and Mrs. J. D. Cameron.

An attractive display of fancy quilts, afghans, and crotchet spreads was arranged in the Sunday School Hall, and three tables decorated with green paper featured an interesting array of fancy and useful articles, home cooking, and novelties which ranged from splendid afghans to tiny satchets.

Mrs. E. R. Shirley, group leader, was in charge of one table, and assisting her were: Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge, Mrs. I. H. Keefer, Mrs. A. H. Radford, Mrs. Hawley, Mrs. F. E. Johnston, Mrs. J. Johnson and Mrs. H. Tremaine.

Mrs. D. V. Ketchison was in charge of the second table, assisted by Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Mrs. W. Henry, Mrs. E. W. Young, Mrs. H. Tudhope.

Table number three was under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Gray, assisted by Mrs. R. H. Roper, Mrs. R. S. Cotton, Mrs. C. Lang, Mrs. J. Heffernan, Mrs. L. M. Brooks, Mrs. V. Hamilton.

Splendid Results. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll never know how quickly and easily you can overcome a bad winter cough, until you try this well known recipe. It gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money and you'll find it very pleasant and dependable, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle. Add your syrup and you have 16 ounces of medicine that will surprise you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a severe cough. For real results, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you perfectly.

Women Over Forty
Need have no fear

The much talked of change which occurs at about this time of life is too greatly emphasized as a danger period. True there is for a time a strain on the nervous system. There may be high nervous tension and a disposition to be irritable and moody.

It is a time to avoid excesses and too much excitement and over fatigue. It is essential that the blood be kept rich and the nervous system fully nourished. For this reason Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of almost priceless value at this time. You need have no fear for the future, for to the great majority of women the later years are the happiest of their lives.

It is surprising the number of women who attribute the safe passing of this period and the good health and happiness of succeeding years to the use of this nerve food.

Death Due to Negligence

CHETICAMP.—A coroner's jury returned a verdict last night attributing the death of Alice Aucoin to "criminal negligence." The 18-year-old Point Cross girl was impaled on a picket when the car in which she was driving crashed into a fence near here Wednesday.

Note of Thanksgiving

OTTAWA.—The 20th anniversary of the armistice will this year carry a note of thanksgiving a well as of remembrance, and instructions to this effect have been issued to all commands and branches of the Canadian Legion. Thanks will be rendered that the world has been spared another devastating war.

League Godless So It Fails Speaker Asserts

That the League of Nations had failed because it was a Godless league, Thomas Foster, British-Israel Commissioner for Australia told an audience that packed the Paragon Hall Friday night in the course of the first of two lectures. The second will be given in All Saints' Parish Hall tonight on "Mussolini, Egypt and the Sueze Canal."

Mr. Foster pointed out that the regulations of the League forbade the name of God to be brought into the deliberations of the organization.

The speaker who was introduced by Alan McNab, chairman for the evening, began by referring to the remarkable changes that had taken place in Europe during the last ten years. He had visited that continent a decade ago and on his recent return visit had found such gigantic changes that it was almost impossible to believe they had taken place. The age of dictatorships, he said had arrived.

Mr. Foster stated that Herr Hitler in his book "My Struggle" had laid down six points in the principles he announced as his own. They were (1) To re-arm Germany, (2) to recover the Rhineland, (3) to denounce decisively the Versailles treaty, (4) to gather all the Germanic people under the Third Reich, (5) to settle permanently Germany's quarrel with France and (6) to get back Germany's colonies. The first four of these aims, the speaker said, had already been attained and now Germany would move toward the fulfillment of the remaining two, and there were signs that the fifth was already in hand for the taking over of Sudetenland from Czechoslovakia meant that Germany had obtained possession of the secrets of France's famous Maginot line.

"In the face of these developments," said Mr. Foster, "what are we going to do?"

League, Pact Fail

He went on to point out that the League of Nations had failed, the Locarno Pact and the Kellogg pact had been powerless and it was necessary to build up again on new lines and on a new foundation and Mr. Foster declared that there was a solution to the whole problem within the Bible.

The present conditions, he said, were a challenge to young people to learn their identity as Britishers so that the national policy might be steered as the Bible taught.

"There could be no better start than to unite with God's league of nations," remarked the speaker. "I believe we ceased to be God's battle-axe on the 11th of November, 1918, and that we will win the next conflict on our knees."

Rev. R. Bamforth Dies At His Home

Rev. Richard Bamforth, B.A., a distinguished clergyman of the Bay of Quinte Conference and minister at Mark Street United church from 1923 to 1925 died Friday afternoon at his home 33 Dennistoun Avenue.

The late Mr. Bamforth was 77 years of age and was born in England. He was forced into early retirement in 1925 by deafness, Mark Street church being his last charge, and since that time he has lived quietly in retirement at home with his family. He spent the last fifteen years of his life in this city, moving to Peterborough from Deseronto.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Annie E. Lake, two sons, Frederick of Columbus, Ohio, and Harvard L. Bamforth of the teaching staff of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and well known as a rugby coach. One daughter, Mrs. A. J. Hill, Toronto, also survives.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 2.30 from George Street United Church with the Rev. M. C. Parr, officiating. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Condemned Man Is Asked For Eyes

CANON CITY, Colo., Nov. 5—(CP)—A move was begun today to get Joseph Arridy to give his corneas to a blind Denver attorney before Arridy dies in the gas chamber at state prison next week.

Warden Roy Best, of whom the request was made by William Perry and Emmett Thurman, Denver attorneys, on behalf of William Lewis, young attorney blinded by tear gas, said he would consult the attorney general before talking with Arridy about the proposal.

Parents' Night Enjoyable Scout Function

"If you are going to make a success of scouting, it wil be found not in numbers; not in uniforms, nor in annual camps alone, but in learning the lessons of reliance, self-dependence and service", asserted Rev. Canon J. Douglas Paterson in responding to one of the toasts at a "Parent's Night" banquet in All Saints' Parish Hall last night.

Held under auspices of the Scouts and Wolf Cubs and staged by the Ladies' Auxillary of which Mrs. R. J. Kearns is president, the banquet was one of the most successful of its kind ever held in the parish. Two-hundred and thirty boys and their parents attended, a number far in excess of that anticipated by organizers.

Reviews Progress.

Canon Paterson reviewed the progress of scouting in connection with the church and pointing to the ideals and principles of the movement, believed there was need of them being put into general practice in the present-day world.

Urging parents to take a keen interest in what their boys were doing outside the family circle, he declared it would be well if the Scout idea could be more generally observed. "It is so different from the prevailing idea of the times that says get what you can and never mind how you get it", he said.

Newly-elected president of Peterborough Boy Scouts Association, W. J. English proposed a toast to Scouting, and Assistant Commissioner Lew Grant responded.

Present Gifts.

William Lyburn, also an officer of the Association presented equipment, which was accepted on behalf of the cubs by Cubmaster George Brooks. The gift of books was made by Assistant Commissioner E. J. Wolfe and of flags by Albert Hope. These latter gifts were accepted on behalf of Scouts by Scoutmaster Art Rose. Representatives of all Scout groups in the city were represented at the banquet, along with several officers of the Association, while a distinguished Scout visitor was J. Edgar Jones, field secretary of the Boy Scout Association (Eastern Ontario District).

T. Wrighton Brooks Wins High Honor

From a Plattsburgh paper it is learned that T. Wrighton Brooks, gifted Plattsburgh artist; has been notified that two of his water colors have been accepted for the 36th annual Philadelphia Water-Color Exhibition, held in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. The exhibition is sponsored by the Philadelphia Water-Color Club whose membership is composed of the finest water color artists in the United States and the privilege of having one's work selected for this exhibition is one of the highest and most coveted honors in the field. Mr. Brooks' two pictures are "Freight Yards, Plattsburgh," and "Boats on the Bar." His success will be of interest to many Peterborough citizens inasmuch as his mother, Mrs. B. H. Brooks, was formerly Ethel Wrighton, daughter of the late W. H. Wrighton, who was for many years in business here next to the old Examiner office, and who took a prominent part in local affairs.

Amateurs Show Photograph In Roy's Studio

Amateur photography enhanced by expert enlargements and finishing is being shown at Roy's Studio today and all next week until Saturday November 12, the hours of display being from 10 to 12 a.m.; 3 to 5 p.m. and Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. This exhibit of 50 pictures represents the work of 25 local amateur photographers. Exceptional prints in the merit of subject and approach, lighting and what might be called subtle effects were selected by the Studio in the ordinary course of development. The quality of the enlarging is a surprising accomplishment in disclosing detail the small prints obscured, in injecting more life and glow to many scenes, and in the final result demonstrating what amateurs can do especially in their preferences of subject.

The pictures included 14 prints of photographs taken by Rev. Frank Grant, D.D., during his stay in Rome. The general public is invited to see the exhibit on the walls of the Tudor room upstairs. The contributors and their subjects are as follows:

Jack Doran—"Sunset".
Marlow Bank—"Niagara Falls at Night".
A. B. Rhodes—"Lake Louise".
R. B. Pitchford — "Quaker Oats Company at Night".
Mr. Jensen—"Sunset".
Harold Shields—"Elk Deer".
John Fawcett—"Fire Tower".
George Green—"Trees and Water".
A. E. Robertson—"Autumn Sunlight".
Hugh Kenner—"Interior Union Station Toronto".
Wilfrid Gynane — "Baby With Apples".
N. Pearce—"Niagara Falls".
A. Noftall—"Pine Tree".
Ken Gadd—"Freighter Taken from Ambassador Bridge".
George Green—"Sunrise".
George Green—"Dinghy".
M. W. Shearer—"Washington".
Hugh Kenner—"Play Cast."
Russel Rowan—"Waterfall".
C. H. Rhodes—"Silhouette".
A. Noftall—"Sunset".
Paul Rose—"Golfer".
George Green—"Trees".
Mrs. J. Grisdale—"Contentment".
Hugh Kenner—"The Stream".
Mr. Jenson—"Swans".
Hugh Kenner—"Creek".
Miss Wilda Saunders—"Marine".
Mr. Brown—"Model Boat".
A. B. Rhodes—"Reflections".
Miss E. Fisher—"Trees and Wa-".
Miss Sanderson — "View from Father Andre's Shrine—Montreal".
A. M. Thompson—"Running the Rapids".
Mrs. D. G. Carlisle—"Windy Weather".
A. B. Rhodes—"Glacier".
Miss E. Fisher—"Landscape".

Fourteen prints by Rev. Father Grant as follows: "Italian Tanks via Nazionale Rome", "Mosque and Minaret at Rhodes", "Vesuvius in Eruption", "Genoa Cemetery", "Bronze Doors Cologne Cathedral", "Chapel of the Canadian College Rome", "Cologne Cathedrals 500 ft. Gothic Towers", "The Duomo Milan", "Black Bedouin Arab at Nazareth", "Genoa Cemetery", "Koln from the Bridge", "Rome," "Munich", "St. Pietro in Vinculis".

Mr. John Grisdale should be particularly interested in one of the enlarged snapshots inwhich he is the only figure. Doubtless he was unaware when that picture was taken that a fine quality of humanness and naturalness about it would appeal to the discerning taste of Mr. Roy.

C.G.E. Veterans Re-elect Officers

Officers of the C.G.E. Ex-Servicemen's Club were returned to office en bloc at the annual meeting held Friday night in the Canadian Legion Hall.

The officers are E. G. Hardie, president; W. C. Bennett, vice; and a committee composed of Chris Jay, Max Metheral, Dan Dick, Fred Batterson, Walter Hughes, James Dunslow, Dave Miller and G. Church. The members decided to hold the annual church parade on November 13th at St. Paul's Presbyterian church, attending the evening service. The parade will form up at the Legion Hall. Plans were also completed to take part in the Remembrance Day service. A vote of thanks was extended the Legion for the use of the Club Room and the balance of the evening was spent playing euchre and billiards.

GOOD RESPONSE

Poppy girls stood on every downtown corner today as the War Veterans made their annual appeal for funds to assist ex soldiers who cannot work because of war injuries. Men appeared to be supporting the fund almost one hundred per cent, but many women were noticed without the familiar red poppy.

Kiwanis Club Will Name Pupil Best Speller In City, County

Peterborough city and county public and separate school pupils are poring over their spelling books today in preparation for a spelling bee sponsored by the Peterborough Kiwanis club. Open to all pupils in the seventh and eighth grades, the bee will seek to determine the best speller in those two classes in the entire county.

Prizes include a Spelling Bee cup, which goes to the school winning the Grand Championship, to be held by them for one year. A pennant will be awarded to the school winning the group championship. Prizes of $5, $3, $2, will go to contestants winning first, second and third titles in each group on Friday evening, December 9. The Grand Champion will collect a prize of $15, to be decided on Saturday, December 10.

Organization

The first step in the contest will be to determine the champion in each rural school in Peterborough district. Then the school districts meet to decide the champion for the district. These preliminaries are already run off and three separate sections in the Spelling Bee have been formed.

(1) The rural schools, making up 10 school fair district. The champion of each school fair district has been declared.

(2) The village schools or rural-urban districts, of which nine are in the contest, the champions of which have not all been declared.

(3) The public and the separate schools in the city of Peterborough comprising 10 schools, the champions of which have not all been declared.

NOTE—The champion of each school entering the contest must be declared not later than November 12, in order to give the sponsors time to publicize their school. On Friday, December 9, at 8.00 p.m., the preliminary contests will be run off in the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School Auditorium. Three prizes will be given. One to the champion of the Rural Schools; one to the champion of the Rural Urban Schools or Village Schools and one to the champion of the City of Peterborough Schools. On Saturday, December 10th, at 8.00 p.m., the Final Contest will be run off to decide the Grand Champion of the Peterborough District. The Grand Champions to receive a prize valued at $10.00, $5.00, $3.00 for first, second and third in Final Contest.

Special Rules

Authority—In all contests, absolute authority within these rules and in all matters not covered by these rules shall rest with the official or officials designated to conduct the contest. This authority shall run from the moment the first word is pronounced and the decisions of the officials in charge shall be final.

Alternates—Should a champion be prevented, for any reason, from entering the final contests, the individual ranking second in the contest last won by the champion shall take his or her place.

Pronouncing—All words should be crisply, clearly and correctly ennunciated. Contestants may pronounce words before or after spelling them, or not at all. Contestants may request that words be repronounced, defined or used in a sentence. Each contestant will first write the word and then spell it in front of the microphone.

Spelling—Any contestant failing to spell a word correctly will be given another chance before he shall drop out of the contest, and a word once misspelled must not be given to any other contestant during the first night of the contest. Having started to spell a word, the contestant shall be given no opportunity to change letters once pronounced or written. But for a speller to pause and retrace his steps in spelling a word, without change, does not eliminate him. Hesitancy on the part of the speller for an unreasonable length of time will count a miss. Pupils once leaving the line cannot re-enter, the Bee at any stage unless a protest, immediately made, is sustained, or unless the breaking of a tie becomes necessary.

Teachers should coach pupils in self-possession, so that they will not plunge into errors they might, by caution, avoid. Recesses in prolonged contests will be permitted.

No Ties—There can be no ties for any championship. When the contestants have been reduced to two, words missed by both consecutively, will permit both to re-enter the contest.

Optional Spellings—The spelling used in the Canadian Speller Book II and 7th Grade Reader Life and Literature—Book I, shall be considered the correct spelling.

Extra Word List—Should the word lists employed from the Canadian Speller Book II and 7th Grade Reader Book I be exhausted, Webster's Standard Dictionary will be resorted to for additional words to be selected by the superintendent or his representative. These words will be used only to terminate an unduly protracted contest.

Note—Each school in the contest will be sponsored by some organization or person in the city of Peterborough, the names of whom will be published later. When the contestants are notified who their sponsor will be they may communicate with their sponsor with regard to publicity and further information.

Conduct of Contest

The nights of the contest, the sponsor or his representative will be on the stage with his contestants. The sponsor will draw from a container a slip of paper bearing a number, which he will announce and then hand to the pronouncer who in turn will look up the word corresponding to the number in the lists of words. The pronouncer will announce the word and the contestant will walk to the front of the stage, sit down at a table and write the word opposite the number on the slip of paper and then spell orally in front of a microphone as clearly as possible, so that the audience and officials may clearly understand what letters were used. If the contestant misses the word a record will be kept and after two errors occur he or she is out of the contest.

For any further information, write or telephone the Kiwanis Spelling Bee Chairman, 232 McDonnel St., Peterborough. Tel. 2858-F.

These are the official rules of the contest. Keep them. They will not be published again.

Workman's Arm Badly Mangled

Thomas Laffey, 843 Water street, an employee of the Quaker Oats Company is in St. Joseph's Hospital with a badly broken and mangled arm as the result of an accident in the plant of the company Friday. Laffey was working at a baling machine and his arm became caught in a belt, with the result that it was broken in three places before he could be released. His condition is described today as fairly good.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

ROSES IN WINTER.

John A. Smith will be the speaker at the Horticultural Society's meeting Tuesday night in Frank C. Paterson's office. He will discuss methods of covering roses for winter.

I.O.O.F. INSTALLATION.

CAR STOLEN

A car belonging to William Towns of Douro was stolen Friday night from where it had been parked in front of the Community hall at Norwood. Provincial Constable David Silvester was notified of the theft and is investigating the case.

TO START RINKS

Ald. Walter Stocker is under no illusion about Indian summer weather conditions continuing all winter. Nicholls Oval is being closed to vehicular traffic today and the parks chairman announces that next week work will commence on building the city's open air rinks.

DEER HUNTERS OFF.

A party of deer hunters from this city, including Jim Geraghty, Steve Elliott, Tom Ashby, D. Freeman and Joe McGillen left Friday night for the Parry Sound district, where they had excellent shooting last year. They will be joined by three Americans at Orillia who will complete the party.

WILLOWS BUDDING

An indication of the unusual weather conditions has been furnished the Examiner by Lawrence Oliver, rural mail carrier who brought into the office a number of pussy willow branches in bud, as well as a quantity of other willows also showing signs of new life. Mr. Olver picked them in a swamp on the 5th line of Smith.

HOUSE BURNS

Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the farm home of Reg. Madill at Hall's Bridge last night. The blaze started shortly after five o'clock and spread quickly. When Madill arrived home, then entire upper part of the house was in flames. A few pieces of furniture were saved. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

HAY FEVER CONTINUES.

Many hay fever victims in the city are complaining that the ailment is hanging on rather longer than usual. This is believed to be due to the mild weather and a very severe frost is needed before the ragweed pollen quiets down for the year. There is also an epidemic of throat and chest colds in the city, and those suffering should take every precaution against chills.

TORIES ORGANIZE

The Conservatives of Smith township and Lakefield will elect officers at a meeting called for Lakefield on the evening of Friday November 23 with dancing and cards following the business section. There will be a dance at Apsley on the night of November 23 to introduce the new Conservative candidate in Hastings-Peterborough, George S. White.

S.A. BOYS' BAND CONCERT

The Salvation Army Boys' Band of twenty members will give a pleasant Sunday afternoon concert beginning at 3.15 o'clock in the citadel. Ernest Victor is the bandmaster. The program will include a specialty number in which Kenneth Henwood will play three drums at once, two snare drums and one bass. Arthur Shadgett will play a euphonium solo with variations, and generally an entertaining hour or more is promised those who attend.

Britain To Pay Terrible Price For Blind Generosity Canadian Club Of Lindsay Told

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 5—(CP)—Captain H. G. Scott, of Calgary, told the Canadian Club here last night that Britain would "pay a terrible price for her blind generosity" in permitting the cession of the Sudeten territories to Germany. Part in the settlement of the Czechoslovakian crisis played by Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain was "a shameful surrender to the bloodiness of war," he said.

Catpain Scott, who served with the Canadian Corps during the World War and later with the British Intelligence Service in Greece, noted he had gained knowledge of the European situtaion by travels through Czechoslovakia at the time of the recent crisis.

He described history of the Central European nations which led to the Sudeten problem and condemned the League of Nations which he described as "a miserable, contemptible failure."

"While we should not say lightly that Mr. Chamberdain was wrong, nevertheless there is not one vestige of excuse for his making the statement he did at Munich and coming back as though the settlement was a triumph for peace," Captain Scott said. "In reality it was a shameful surrender to the bloodiness of war."

He described the Sudeten situation as a "potential weapon waiting for Germany to use," and he predicted that Germany would not rest until she had regained all territories lost in the Great War.

"Now our great task must be to prepare to defend the freedom which has been bequeathed to us."

Tommy Miller Manages Petes

Tommy Miller, former O. H. A. goalie with the Petes, was last night named 1938-39 manager of the senior "B" team of the Peterborough Hockey Club. At a meeting of the club held in the Chamber of Commerce, Miller's name was passed on as a choice of the players—four names having been submitted to the prospective players, and three of these parties being unable to take it. The team's coach will be appointed later by the executive, possibly at the meeting of officers and players in Duffus' next Thursday night, when other business comes up. There will also be one change on the executive, owing to an officer being transferred from here.

It was decided last night to have an agreement drawn up between the Hockey Club and the new junior "C"' squad whereby the latter would give the former first choice on local players and would be guaranteed no raiding by the junior "B" team. A raffle will be run by the club this season in order to raise finances for early expenses in connection with equipment. Other matters of business were dealt with, before the session adjourned.

Aircraft Gun Explodes

LONDON, Nov. 5—(AP).—One territorial soldier was killed and five injured today when one of Britain's famed "12 shots a minute" anti-aircraft guns exploded.

The crew manning the gun, reputed to be a deadly menace to aircraft, was "cleaning up" after a mock air attack when a bank shell left in the breech was fired accidentally, hurling a ramrod into the crew.

Bethany Banker Heads Pontypool Lodge

A. H. Padgham, manager of the Bank of Toronto at Bethany, was installed as Noble Grand of Pontypool Lodge No. 296, I.O.O.F. at the annual installation ceremony held in the Oddfellows' Hall of the village last night.

Alex N. Sage, D.D.G.M. of Peterborough, headed the installing team and was assisted by H. Frost, W. Boorman, Fred Mowry, W. Easson, Joe Lancashire, D. A. Forde, C. Rusaw and C. Wiley.

Following the installation of officers an enjoyable evening was spent in games and dancing with lunch being served later. Jack Hodson supplied the music. J. W. Anderson and E. Benson, both of this city, attended the meeting, both being members and veterans of the Pontypool Lodge.

Officers installed were as follows: J.P.G. Wm. Foster; N.G., A. H. Padgham; V.G., W. Gainor; R.S., Ed. Youngman; F.S., Geo. Wilder; Treas., Robt Halloran; War., S. H. Brow; Con., Wm. Scott; Chap., W. J. McRoberts; O.G., Wm. Foster; I.G., C. Beaman; R.S.N.G., W. H. Hooper; L.S.N.G., Robt. Scott; R.S.V.G., S. Webb; L.S.V.G., A. W. Fallis; R.S.S., E. Benson; L.S.S., Jas. Anderson.

Midnite Frolic Is Big Success

Peterborough Merchants' Midnite Frolic at the Capitol Theatre Friday night packed the house and turned about six hundred people away. And of those who got in, around three-fourths of them stayed until the finish shortly after three o'clock, made a night of it, enjoyed themselves, and filled up a fund that will be spent in the near future in providing an evening for the children of the city and country in welcoming Santa Claus to Peterborough and helping him make his stay an interesting one for his loyal youngsters.

The distribution of prizes given by the merchants moved along smoothly and rapidly. Vern Selkirk and Don Scott were in charge of that detail, with assistants in each aisle, and as Morley Plunkett, Master of Ceremonies, drew the winning stubs of tickets, the prizes passed out to the audience with only the delay of waiting for claimants of the tickets. Al Sharpe was general chairman of the program. The entertainers were Mr. Plunkett himself, Lenore Gordon, Wilfred Galvin, Victor Cremasco, Buelah and Sylvia, the Rhythm Boys and comedy on the screen in the feature picture "Wake Up and Live" and the supplements. Mose Yokom was accompanist for the vaudeville acts.

Orlando Kayoes Macdonald In Brief Final Bout Of Fine Local Fight Card

Riverview A. C. fighters cleaned up on Toronto opposition here last night in the amateur boxing show staged before nearly 600 fans in the Brock St. rink. Nick Orlando tucked Scotty McDonald of Toronto among the daisies in the first round of the main bout; Dutch McIlmoyle won on points over Billy Amato of Toronto; and Harry Low knocked out Harry Kiel of Toronto in the four heat of the semi-final. The lively card was studded with knock-outs and technical kayoes.

Norm Bowler promoted this Riverview Athletic Club card, featuring local and Toronto mitt-slingers. Art Hunter was referee, with John Smith and Archie Menzies the judges. Jack Withers was time-keeper, and Freddie Scates the announcer.

The curtain-raiser, between Dan McGregor, 105, and Gord Riel, 103, was a fairly tame session, with some neat boxing shown and a few hard exchanges. Little damage was done, and McGregor got the judges' decision on points in three rounds. Buddy Redmond, 80, and Izzy McIntosh, same weight, were staging a good scrap when an accident interfered. Izzy was holding his own in smart boxing for youngsters and some hard mixups when he knocked his elbow out of joint in the second round, Buddy winning on a technical knockout.

Just a Waltz

Ken Roy, formerly of Kirkland Lake, weighing 147, and Eddy Curtain, local 148-pounder, put on a poor match. They seemed content in the early rounds to waltz around and jab lightly, and later tired out so they were unable to hit hard. The fans booed this bout and the judges refused to give a decision—after the referee had warned them to fight. Curtain was down several times from powder-puff punches during the affair.

The fourth bout was a good one with Joe Hobbins, 147, and Bill Joiner, 145, mixing it up in a slugging match most of the way—both boys showing fair boxing ability, too. Joiner was down for no count in the second and fourth, and Hobbins had a nose bleed. The latter did more damage with his attack, though Bill covered well, and Hobbins led on his aggressiveness. He was leading on points—according to the judges—when he threw his arm out in the fourth and his second tossed in a towel, Joiner winning on a tecnical knockout.

Harry Low, local 147-pounder, won the Billiards Trophy for the best local winning performance when he knocked out Harry Kiel of Toronto, going 149, in the fourth round of their semi-final match. The Toronto boy was fast and a good boxer, shading Low in the first two rounds with nifty footwork and left jabs, Low going down for a four-count in the second. But Harry came back to crowd Riel hard in the third with a hot attack, throwing stinging lefts and rights to the face and stepping back from counter-thrusts. He had Kiel on the floor for a five-count in the fourth and then knocked him stiff with a wicked right uppercut to the whiskers to get the decision.

Dutch McIlmoyle earned the nod over Billy Amato of Toronto in a 165-pound battle. Amato was clever but seemed fat and Dutch was the aggressor. The latter won the first round with some punishing slams upstairs and in the pantry as Amato covered up. They were even in the next two, considerable clinching taking place with both landing a few fast ones. The infighting was well divided. In the fifth, McIlmoyle forced the pace and had his rival covering and clinching as he slammed him in the face. He got a hand when the judges gave him the win on points.

The main event of the evening was a short affair, Nick Orlando, classy Peterborough 135 - pound fighter, put Scotty McDonald, 138, of Toronto, to sleep halfway through the first round. They sparred for a few seconds and Scotty jabbed Nick a few light ones. Then Orlando weaved in and dropped his opponent for a short count with a terrific right hand chop on the jaw. They squared off again and Orlando shuffled in to pounce once more with that deadly overhand right to the button and McDonald was counted out. He was rising at the nine count but was not clear of the floor when the referee said: "Ten!" and it was over.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Three mixed leagues of Examiner, Johnson Motors and Brinton bowlers were on deck for last night's bowling. L. H. Gould of the Outboard league topped the high scorers with 747 (300); Geo. Kenney 706; S. Gibbs 642 (318); C. Clark 641; W. Milliken 628 and W. Dinesen 609; Miss G. Payne scored 465 (202); Miss B. Castle 472; Miss D. Moxcrop 425 and Miss M. Whaley 403.

In the Examiner group, Mrs. Hamilton's 511 (201) was high for ladies; Miss Scott had 481; Miss Donaghue 443; Mrs. Ashton 440 and Mrs. Cowan 433, while R. Hamilton, H. Dormer and R. Baker rolled off 632, 621 and 617.

Gord Anderson's 675 was the best for sixty Brinton trundlers. J. Basciano 667; A. Bishop 649; G. Caird 616; and F. Hill 605. Fifteen Brinton girls rolled big scores. Miss E. Jones 504 (222) and Miss L. Glaum 503. Good singles included Miss Pringle's 204; Mrs. Parks' 213 and Miss Sommonds' 202.

A 5-man team from the Atlas Steel Company of Toronto will be on hand to-night to try their luck with a local team. This outfit is reputed to be one of the strongest teams bowling in one of Toronto's major leagues.

Sphere Of Sports Influences World

TORONTO, Nov. 5—That the "world of sport," by giving the lead in discipline and sacrifice, must awaken individuals and nations to their responsibility of national service, not only when war seems imminent, but at all times, was urged today by thirty-four of Britain's leading sports figures, many of whom are known around the world for their athletic achievements, in one of the most unusual statements ever issued by a group of sportsmen to the press.

Among the signatories are: Captain George Eyston, holder of the world's land speed record of 357.5 miles per hour; H. W. (Bunny) Austin, Britain's top ranking tennis player; S. C. Wooderson, holder of the world's record for the mile run; Len Hutton, who made the world's record cricket test match score of 364 runs against Australia; Jimmy Wilde, former champion flyweight boxer; George Allison, manager of the Arsenal Football Club; J. B. Hobbs, the great English cricketer; R. A. Whitcomb, British open golf champion; Gordon Richards, seven times champion jockey; the Duke of Beaufort, Master of the famous Beaufort Hunt; and 4 others.

Morally Fit

Referring to Lord Stanley Baldwin's recent call for moral and spiritual rearmament, the 34 sportsmen said: "Moral rearmament, the true basis of national fitness, is an individual responsibility. The individual sportsmen who are morally fit themselves can influence the whole sporting world. The sporting world can in turn influence the life of the whole country. This would mean that fear, vindictiveness, jealousy, self-indulgence and the forces making for national unfitness will spring to life."

The Representatives of sport in all its various forms went on to state that this new spirit created by sportsmen would have an influence reaching far beyond the nation's boundaries, on the natural meeting ground that sport provides. "They can create between all people irrespective of class, creed and nationality, bonds of unbreakable spiritual quality. Britain's true greatness lies in the creation of a new chivalry and a spirit of unselfishness among the people of the world."

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, about the only thing there is for discussion in this learned——or is it—colume this week is a couple defeats in football and that aint hardly a nice dish. In the 1st place our Orfuns got a walloping in Toronto at the hands of the Bam Bammy Beaches and while I ain't going to claim that was much in the nature of a surprise, yet the 30 to 3 score what was hung up on the board when it was all over, was a little higher than I for 1 was looking for.

The Beaches however has been the toughest—and that goes every way—team the Orfuns has run across this season. They got speed, a star kicker and forward passer in Mister Ab Box, a varied attack and a lotta umph in every position. On top of that they aint none too clean in the tacticks they emply and 1 way and another they are mighty awkward babies to handle.

Injuries Hurt

The Orfuns made a fairly good job of it for ½ the distance Sat., but when Mister Loucks was jolted outa the game with a ferocious clip from Mister Box and Mister Hendrie discovered they was several ribs shook loose from their moorings and other members of the squad was limping around out there the Beaches come on and win by a big margin, thanks mainly to their forward passes what clicked and ours what didn't. It was tough going for the Petes, outweighed and short of reserve strength but with all that they had to be unlucky to get beat by such a margin.

As the Crowe Flies

And right here and now I wanta pay a little tribute to a game guy what has been carrying a big share of the load, our Mister Don Crowe, who started the season with a pair of bad ankles, the gift of lacrosse and in addition has had injured knees but in spite of all that he has been in there every minute of the game, cracking the line, running back kicks, doing the kicking, some of the forward passing and a lotta the tackling. 1 of the Toronto papers sez the other day Mister Crowe could play on any man's team and I'm voting the same ticket.

The Collegiate Capers

I was among the folks what seen Mister Bamforth's Collegiate team, group winners, lose a interesting battle, last Sat. to Lindsay 9 to 6, although they almost pulled it outa the fire by the widest open brand of dipsy-doodle football dished out here in many a moon. Most of the time they was so busy trying to stop the plunging and end-runs of the Lindsay crew to do much thinking about razzle-dazzle stuff but when they finally got hold of that pigskin in the last 5 minutes they certainly went to town.

I couldn't help thinking as I watched them kids cutting loose with forward passes all over the place, trick extends and other fast-moving plays that the same kinda stuff woulda been very useful to the Orfuns this season. Sometimes, when you aint got the power to beat the other fellow with straight football you kin surprise him with the fancy stuff. And how the fans eat it up, that open football, with a surprise or 2 wrapped up in every other play.

Well, Mac, the pro hockey season is open. We only got to wait 4 or 5 months now to see which team of the 7 aint going to be in the play-offs. The first nite's play don't mean a thing of course, but Mister Bill Stewart's Black Hawks what was the surprise Stanley Cup winners last season opened out like champs, scoring half dozen goals against the Amerks. Mister Art Ross also uncovered some promising rookies in beating the Maple Leafs 3 to 2 in Toronto and incidentally Mister Bill Cowley got away to a nice start in the scoring honors race by figgering in 3 goals.

That is enough for the nonce, Mac, so let's call the whole thing off.

Sportfully Yours,
A. WISE CRACKER

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

NOT MUCH DOUBT in our mind but Tubby will see the football game here today, and he won't pay for it, either. Tubby is a chunky little gaffer of about 11 summers, and he told us confidentially a week ago that he had seen Orfuns play Beaches and also the Sarnia-Orfuns' tilt. Said he and a few other lads scaled the fence on the south side of the Exhibition Grounds just after the kickoff. It was a secret and that's why we didn't mention it till too late to catch 'em going over the wall today. 'Cause we can recall not too many summers back ankling into Riverside Park by the back door—out by the scoreboard—when the Chief and Heck were slated to twirl and we were maybe 24 cents shy of a ducat. Quite a few kids see a lot of ball, lacrosse, rugby and hockey here without seeing the ticket seller at the box office. And we don't blame them.

• • • • • • •

OF COURSE, when boys can afford to pay their way in, they should do so. It's only right. But a lot of young lads haven't the dough and they want to see sports, so they'll hop a fence. Some executives and ticket takers in sports give the busted boys a break, but too many don't. They should remember these young punks are the future paying customers—and if they're not interested in clean sports these boys will be giving the police a bit of trouble. It'll be too bad for local athletics if the time ever comes when kids, who haven't the price of a ticket, quit trying to sneak into games. If that time ever comes, it's goodbye sports in this man's town.

He Has Three Chins!

FRED COLLINS, Petes' ball manager in 1937, paid us a brief visit the other day. He's living in Trenton and doesn't look a day over 260 pounds! Said he saw several of the Petes' playoff games and can't yet understand how they lost to Stratford. Nor can we. Baseball is about dead in Belleville, he believes, the fans failing to support even intermediate ball there the past summer. The Ripper—as the boys used to call him affectionately here—takes The Examiner and follows keenly local sports. Still claims Peterborough the best town in Ontario, but business keeps him toiling—like a slave, eh, Fred?—in Trenton.

• • • • • • •

ASKED ABOUT puck prospects at the Air Camp, Fred pointed out that a number of last year's team had departed from the Fliers. Partridge is out on the prairies somewhere, Legris has left, Ernie McNeeley moved to Ottawa, Eric McNeeley may follow him, Lalonde is in Montreal and is liable to wind up by playing in Ottawa, while Lecompte is just out of a Belleville hospital after parting with his appendix. The two hockey leaders of the Fliers, Godfrey and Lawrence, have been transferred, too. So the Airmen will have to do considerable building to ice a strong squad for this winter. Incidentally, Fred stated that Gibson, who stars in ball, rugby and hockey—he played goal for the Fliers—is but 22 years old.

Can You Imagine This

OUR SENIOR P.C.I. GRIDDERS got quite a shock in Bowmanville yesterday when they droped a 24-5 decision to a classy and husky squad in the first of the two-game Lakeshore group finals. Next one is here next Saturday and the Garnet and Gray have only 19 points to make up to be on even terms! The Rubbertown huskies played fine football and the P.C.I.-ers were just so so, but even at that—and forgetting rough play and a few tough breaks on offside calls the Bamforth boys can't complain; they were beaten by a good grid squad. Dope on the tilt is in elsewhere. P.C.I. may surmount this and come on to win, as they've done before, but it'll take as much hustle as a well-oiled cyclone to do it.

A NEAT MITT SHOW at the Brock yester gloaming before a fair crowd of ring fans. Local talent mopped up on the Toronto opposition, and there were no arguments this time. Main bout saw Nick Orlando—who never seems extended—club out a quick kayo over Scotty McDonald in the first round. Nick uses a fast paralyzing right chop to the chin and he just used it twice last eve, Scotty going down both times—second time for the count, though he was climbing to his feet as ye ref said: "Ten." Dutch McIlmoyle proved to the cash customers that he can really fight when he earned a five-round decision over Bill Amato of Toronto, aggressiveness and some hard punches to the bread-basket and pan doing the trick. Both were tired and their punches had no sting the last few frames. Amato was a bit too fat.

And Low Ended On Top

SEMI-FINAL stole the show in our book, Harry Low lambasting Harry Kiel into oblivion in the fourth round. The local scrapper was awarded the Louis Billiards Trophy for the best local winning performance, and he rated it. Outboxed and outspeeded by a shifty opponent for two rounds, Low kept ripping in and finally caught up with Kiel. Two cracks on the whiskers and the Toronto pug was rocked to sleep. Sort of "keeled low," as it were! It was a fine fistic performance and the fans liked it. The Riverview A.C. lined up a pretty fair card again and it was all good but the Roy-Curtain waltz, which the judges refused to bother giving a decision, as the boys were too gentle with each other. It wasn't waltz night at the Summer Gardens.

JOE HOBBINS and Bill Joiner staged a neat duel, with Bill getting the duke on a technical knockout in the fifth. Joe led on points till he threw his arm out of commission with hardly a minute to go, and a towel was tossed in. Both boxers looked oke, and it was a tough break for Joseph. And young Izzy McIntosh was at least holding his own with Buddy Redmond in a nice joust when he (Izzy) had his elbow knocked out of place—Buddy thus winning on a technical K.O. in the second. The little gamester, on the floor as his father jumped in to get him, said: "Now don't get nervous, dad; just get a doctor." Dan McGregor got the nod on points over Gord Riel in a fair curtain-raiser. Refereeing and judging was okey-doke this show.

Bowlers Whistle 'June In January' Set Precedent For Late Sport

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 5. — If bowling is a summer sport then its still summer. At least that's the way members of the Campbellford Bowling Club who visited Sterling for a men's doubles tournament on Thursday of this week, feel about it. November lawn bowling establishes all time precedent so far as members of the Campbellford Club are concerned. When the cooler weather arrived a couple of weeks ago members rather reluctantly put their bowls in a corner of the cupboard but the warm days of the past week proved too much for the enthusiasts and when they found the local greens were being re-sodded they immediately got in touch with Sterling to arrange a tournament there. The winners of the tourney were W. Whitty and Chas. Linn of Sterling. J. P. Archer and J. A. Linton of the local team came second and F. Mallory and John O'Donnell third. Three twelve-end games were played in what was generally regarded the finest bowling weather of the season. Other members of the Campbellford team were Messrs. F. N. Brown, C. W. Palliser, P. M. Locke, A. D. Bennett, W. S. Wiggins and Jos. Poulton.

Officers Planning Dinner On Nov. 11

The commemoration of Armistice Day on November 11 will be observed by the officers residing in Peterborough and neighboring towns.

In the evening there will be a dinner at which Major M. F. Gregg, V. C., M. C., will be guest speaker. Dinner will be served in the Officers' Mess at the Armouries at 7 p. m.

As formal invitations are not being issued, the committee in charge of arrangements wish to make it clear that all officers either active or retired are invited. It will be greatly appreciated if those who are planing to be present would contact a member of the committee so that definite plans may be completed as early as possible.

The members of the committee are G. S. Matthews, D. J. Lawrie, R. M. Glover, George R. Melton, H. K. Clifton, Dr. G. Murray Fraser, and Claire Collins.

His only tooth, a gold one, has been given by a Chinese coolie to the Give-Your-Gold-to-the-Government movement in China.

Bombers To Meet Calgary Bronks

CALGARY, Nov. 5.—(CP)—The eyes of Western Canada's football public turned toward the foothills today as Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Calgary Bronks open the 1938 Western Interprovincial Football Union final here.

Bombers, victors over Regina Roughriders last Saturday 13-0 in a sudden death semi-final, moved into Bronks' corral this morning nearer full strength than at any time since Sept. 12, and determined to open a sizeable margin in the two-game, total points series. Second game is billed for Winnipeg Nov. 12. The weather forecast indicates snow, sleet and possibly rain. The series winner will not necessarily represent the west in the Canadian final.

A post-season game between the two clubs is scheduled for Nov. 19 to decide western representation in the national final. Players not resident in Canada continuously since Oct. 1, 1937, will be ineligible for the Nov. 19 game under Canadian Rugby Union residence rules while will prevail in the Grey Cup final.

Carpetball Notes

The teams are now slowly getting into the controls and shaping up the porcelains.

The Fire Hall Scabs still maintain their lead in the standings, whilst several of the lower berth places have been changed.

Up to date only 10 per cent. of the fees have been turned in, and all skips should note that the 30 days after commencement of play is now up for most teams. Your co-operation in this matter would be appreciated.

It was reported that another war was on, and not in Europe. Some claim a dictator did place his throne upon the coca mat, while another claimed it was just a skirmish of what is to come.

No doubt we may have to call in Premier Chamberlain to bring about settlement. We hear that the South-end Orphans put it over the Toronto Transport squad after that squad was some eleven leagues ahead. Must have been a blowout or lack of gas.

From now on the Trinity squad No. 6 will be known as the Easy Aces, so look out for some trumping.

Schedule:

Monday, Nov. 7.—B.E.S.L. No. 11 v. P.F.D. No. 13.

Tuesday, Nov. 8.—St. John's No. 2 v. St. Luke's No. 3. St. Luke's No. 4 v. L.O.L. No. 17.

The following is schedule to be played on week of November 14.—3—1; 4—12; 5—12; 6—7; 8—6; 9—7; 10—15; 13—2; 14—11; 16—15; 17—5.

Any skip desiring to name dates of play please phone 3067 on or before Thursday, November 10, to catch publication.

It has been proposed by several teams that entries be accepted into the President's Cup play-offs, and I would appeal to the skips to let me have their entries as early as possible, so that games can be arranged during the early season. It will be as usual 25c per member—straight elimination.

So let's all get in the fun.

Soldiers Prefer Milk

SIMLA, India, Nov. 5—(AP).—Rudyard Kipling, notwithstanding, the modern British soldier in India prefers milk and lemonade to sterner stuff.

Authorities attribute a sharp decrease in sunstroke and heat exhaustion cases to this preference, but the number of hospital admissions is still high.

Of the 50,000 British soldiers in India 30,000 annually are admitted to hospital, twice the ration for troops serving at home. For the 150,000 native soldiers the ratio is 390 per 1,000.

Harness Racing Fans Want To See Big Race

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP).— It turns out that the horse racing championship of the United States was not entirely settled when Seabiscuit ran the hide off War Admiral the other day at Pimlico.

There are 1,000,000 or so harness racing fans between the two shores who won't get in the least excited until there is a squaring off between Greyhound (1.55¼), the champion trotter, and Billy Direct (1.55), king of the pacers.

Each horse holds the world record for his class, which is more than can be said for either the Biscuit or the Admiral. There's an awful lot of scrapping about which is the greater horse. It will be one of the chief topics of debate at the national harness racing convention next week-end at Indianapolis.

There is no telling whether the pair will ever race, despite the fact both owners are understood to be willing and anxious to have it out. Vic Fleming of Dundas, Ont., the driver of Billy Direct, has declared that his pacer is capable of beating Greyhound any time, anywhere.

Chicago Hawks Strong Team In First Game

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—If Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens have any deep, dark ideas about immediate, crushing revenge in this new National hockey league season for what Chicago Black Hawks did to them last spring, they had better size up the task.

In the mad Stanley cup series of 1937-38, the Black Hawks in turn spilled the Canadiens, New York Americans and Toronto. They emerged in one piece with the cup—and they weren't supposed to get past the first round.

But already the Americans have realized it won't be easy to make the dice start rolling the other way. They took on the strengthened Hawks at Chicago Thursday and were crushed 6-1 as Bill Stewart threw at them a lineup packing new power all over. Additions of Russ Blinco, Baldy Northcott, Earl Robinson and Joffre Desilets have taken the creaks out of the forward line.

Now come the Leafs' and Canadiens' turns, on successive nights, to meet this hard-to-figure collection of experienced players. Leafs meet the Hawks tonight at Toronto and Canadiens open their schedule against them at Montreal tomorrow.

Detroit Red Wings' 1938-39 baptism, at home against Boston Bruins tomorrow, completes the weekend schedule. The Montreal and Detroit clubs have dived deep into their financial resources to pick up established stars and these first games will give some idea of whether dividends are to be paid.

Canadiens will exhibit five players they bought from the defunct Montreal Maroons. That defence of Babe Siebert and Marvin Wentworth, who was everybody's idea of a hockey player even when he was with a loser, should be worth going miles to see.

Detroit features Charlie Conacher, the erstwhile sick man of Toronto west, a right winger whose magnificent career with the Maple Leafs took punishment from injuries and illness.

To meet the Chicago invasion, and many more, Toronto has bought Gus Marker from the old Maroon club. The Leafs got a conscientious right winger who can skate both ways. He didn't deserve to be left on the market so long.

BOWMANVILLE DEFEATS THE P.C.I. SENIORS BY A 24 TO 5 SCORE

Local Gridders Drop First Of Lakeshore Playoffs To Classy Rubbertown Crew

A 35-yard touchdown gallop by Depew in the opening quarter and some beautiful passes from the good right arm of the B.H.S. smart quarterback, Mason, set the stage for Bowmanville's smashing defeat of P.C.I. on Friday in the Rubbertown, 24-5, in the first game of the two-game points-to-count play-off for the Lakeshore senior grid championship.

Bowmanville, with the best squad they have had for years, completely outplayed the Garnet and Grey at all times, with the exception of the third quarter along the forward wall, and their classy backfield time and again got away for 30 to 40 yard romps.

P.C.I. seemingly could do nothing to stop the tricky Red and Black backfield and their own attack was smashed whenever they come close to the last white line.

One of their best offensive weapons, the fine passing of big Neis Foster was stopped cold by a foolproof Bowmanville pass-defence. Only once in the entire course of the game did the defending champions dominate play and that in the third quarter when they led the scoring 2-0. Bowmanville took the lead early and held it throughout and there was no doubt in anyone's mind that they earned their victory.

Just as the game finished, a free-for-all broke out between several of the players of both teams, and for a few moments it looked as though the spectators might enter it.

Sleeper Play.

Bowmanville kicked off and on the first play Foster passed twenty yards to Bob Ferguson on a sleeper play. But on the next play P.C.I. fumbled and McIlveen recovered for Bowmanville. Mason ran for 40 yards on a spectacular end run that had the whole P.C.I. team sucked in. Crombie's attempted drop kick was wide but went to the deadline for a single. P.C.I. kicked on their first down and Depew's return kick went out of bounds on the Peterborough 5. P.C.I. was stopped and Scriver kicked to the Bowmanville 45. On their first play Bowmanville made the score 6-0 when Depew skirted end and ran thirty yards beautifully through a broken field for a touchdown. Crombie attempted a drop kick for conversion but it went wide. After the kick-off Wiseman for B.H.S. and Moldaver for P.C.V.S. were banished for the remainder of the quarter for fighting. P.C.I. took the ball on downs and Ab Leether kicked 55 yards to the deadline for a point making the score: Bowmanville 6, P.C.I. 2. Harle and Diplock combined for what looked like a P.C.I. touchdown, but it was called back for an offside.

Leether was kicking 45 to 50 yards consistently as the quarter ended. The ball changed hands rapidly and Diplock took a Bowmanville kick and raced 55 yards to the 10-yard line of B.H.S. as the Garnet and Grey threatened for the first time. Bowmanville tightened there and three cracks at the line netted P. C.I. a yard. Depew kicked out of danger. Bowmanville was pouring through the visitors' line and stopping the back kicks cold and McIlveen intercepted a P.C.I. pass and ran 60 yards before Turner and Scriver dropped him on the P.C.I. 22 yard stripe. Mason passed to Wiseman, who scored untouched on the first play and Depew drop-kicked the point. Depew ran the kick-off back 60 yards to the P.C.I. 30-yard line. A touchdown pass went wild and Depew was hurt on the play and forced to retire. It was later learned that his collarbone had been broken. McIlveen kicked to the deadline making the score: Bowmanville 13, Peterborough 2, and it stayed that way till the end of the half.

Runs Out Kick.

Diplock just managed to run out McIlveen's kickoff. Leether kicked out of danger and Hamilton dropped the B.H.S. ball carrier on the midfield stripe. Rose made a first down for Peterborough after Diplock had gone for 7. Brown fumbled Scriver's kick and P.C.I. recovered on the Bowmanville 30.

Foster's pass was complete to Moldaver over the line, but it was called back for an offside. Scriver's kick was short, but McIlveen fumbled and Hamilton recovered on B. H.S. 10. Harle and Rose made 6 and Scriver kicked to the deadline for a point. Parnell, who was bucking nicely for P.C.I. made 7 and Harle made it first down after they had stopped Bowmanville.

Mason fumbled Scriver's kick and Johnston recovered for the Garnet and Grey. McIlveen intercepted Foster's pass. Bowmanville were forced to kick and P.C.I. had the ball on the Red and Black 15. Parnell was almost over, but fumbled, and Bowmanville recovered. Neither team could do much in a quick exchange until Scriver kicked to the deadline for a point. Bowmanville were stopped and Foster passed nicely to Hamilton to midfield. Casbourn blocked Scriver's kick as B. H.S. broke through. Mason passed to Wiseman beautifully to the visitors' 20, and Brown went wide around end for 30 yards and a major score. McIlveen's attempted drop kick went astray. McIlveen ran the kick-off back to his 35 and Mason passed to McIlveen to the P.C.I. 12. Mason ran through a broken field from a pass formation for a touchdown and then passed to Wiseman for the point. As the game ended, Parnell's long kick-off went for a single when McIlveen was rouged by Johnston and several other P. C.I. players.

A free-for-all broke out between several players, and the officials had trouble breaking it up.

Earn the Win.

The Bowmanville team as a whole outplayed P.C.I. as a team, with Mason, McIlveen, and Brown the best offensively. Depew was also good until he had to leave, injured. The whole front wall was solid all afternoon, affording their kickers and passers plenty of time. For P.C.I. Bill Harle was ace-high on defence and Diplock, Moldaver, and Hamilton all stood out. Parnell was starting to roll near the end, and Leether was kicking nicely till he was injured in the third quarter.

The teams:

Peterborough C. I.—Flying wing, Foster; halves, Harle, Diplock, and Scriver; quarter, Ward; snap, Johnston; insides, Gillespie and Rose; middles, Parnell and Ainslie; ends, Moldaver and R. Ferguson; subs., Campbell, McNeill, Gibson, Ackford, McPherson, Moorhead, B. Ferguson, Hamilton, Freeman, Leether, and Turner.

Bowmanville H. S. — Flying wing, McIlveen; halves, Brown, Depew, Crombie; quarter, Mason; snap, James; insides, Casbourn and Kimbell; middles, Morden, Rickard; ends, Wiseman and McIlveen; subs., Rice, Bird, Crawford, Jackman, Graham, and Fagan.

Gates Returns To College

Something of a dither was created in U. S. Grid circles when Harrington Gates, ABOVE, backfield ace with Dartmouth University, deserted the pigskin game for a religious cult known as the "Legion of God." This cult is against "physical aggressiveness" and the husky Gates, whom someone aptly enough named "Heavenly" Gates reluctantly quit football. But he did not stay away long and, after a five-day sojourn at the cult's farm headquarters, he has returned to Dartmouth and expects to continue his gridiron career.

Ball Takes Hold In South Africa

MONTREAL, Nov. 5. — (CP) — South Africa is becoming baseball-conscious and such centres as Johannesburg, Cape Town and Durham have from 10 to 15 organized teams, according to J. Lindsay Mutter, Canadian trade commissioner at Johannesburg.

Mutter, here on a business trip, said inter-city games are played each year by the strongest teams from these three cities and sell-outs are frequent for the games. The trade commissioner estimated the main grandstand in the Cape Town park seats about 3,000 fans.

Major league baseball clubs in the United States have nothing on South African teams in the distance they travel to play games. When inter-city games are played between Johannesburg and Cape Town teams travel approximately 1,000 miles each way.

The "Babe Ruth" in South African baseball is "Bubs" Britton, an assistant to Mutter. Britton, who plays for the Johannesburg Crown Mines Giants, graduated from Queen's University of Kingston, Ont. At college, Britton was an outstanding football player. He also was considered one of the best amateur ball players in Ontario.

"Every time 'Bubs' comes to bat, the fans expect to see the ball go for a ride," Mutter said.

Mutter, a native of Hamilton, Ont., and also a Queen's graduate, said sporting goods stores now stock baseball equipment — bats, balls, gloves, spiked shoes and regulation uniforms. The leagues have official scorekeepers.

Speedy Golfer Cops The Bets

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 5.—(CP) —Nobody is quite sure Fithian Shaw could fire a mashie shot from the No. 1 tee at Cherokee Club, bound down to the ninth green and putt the ball in on the short bounce. Shaw hasn't tried this yet—but, if he should decide to, he probably would not get many wagers that he couldn't do it. He hasn't lost a wager yet,

They didn't believe that the fleet-footed Fithian could cover the nine-hole, 2,837-yard course in 25 minutes and score 40 or better. Their doubt was pocket money for Fithian. He got around in 19 minutes and scored a 37.

That nettled the gang and they thought they had the rabbit-footed youngster when he bet them he could run the course without clubs in nine minutes, touching every tee and every cup. If he is a golfer, he can't be a track man, they reasoned. They were wrong again. Shaw got around in exactly seven minutes, 52 seconds. His hecklers' bank rolls took another trimming.

Shaw was born in Los Angeles, but his parents moved to Kentucky when he was an infant. He spent 10 years on a Bullitt county farm and became interested in golf four years ago. Local experts say he has the temperament and ability to make a good golfer.

Toronto Teams Must Win To Stay In Game

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—(CP)—It will be all over for Toronto and Balmy Beach and University of Toronto, who were held in high regard at the opening of the eastern football season, unless they rise to the heights today and slap down opposition of the toughest variety.

Beaches and U. of T. will participate in the section's feature matches this afternoon with Balmy being called on to meet Sarnia Imperials on the home grounds of the Ontario Union champions and U. of T. invading Montreal's Molson stadium, home of the undefeated, untied McGill Redmen.

Beaches have not won a game in Sarnia for seven years and despite Sarnia's spotty play this season, the Imperials are rated as least even choice to eliminate their traditional rivals. Both teams will be close to top strength, Imperials lacking only Halfback Barnie Moroz while Beaches will be without Outside Charley Box.

Crippled since the season's start, Toronto's collegians face an even sterner task than Beaches. McGill are at full strength and in Herbie Westman, they have a punter whose work has overshadowed any kicking seen from the other clubs.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs, tied for second place in the College Union, also are in a tough spot, although they could lose to Queen's today and still make a play-off if McGill beat Toronto and Mustangs defeat the leaders in the final game next Saturday. Queen's losers of four straight, have been improving and Mustangs will have no set-up.

In other games, Montreal Nationals, Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts all have, on paper, easy opposition. Nationals, leaders of the O.R.F.U., face Peterborough Orfuns at Peteroborough while the winless Montreal Cubs invade Toronto against Argos and Ottawa entertain Hamilton Tigers, who retain a mathematical chance for a Big Four playoff position.

Fights Last Night

(By the Associated Press.)

Chicago—Ken Overlin, 163, Decatur, Ill., outpointed Nate Bolden, 154, Chicago (10).

Hollywood, Calif.—Glenn Lee, 159, Nebraska, and Eric Seelig, 158, Germany, drew (4). (Stopped by Referee after Seelig suffered cut over the eye in second round).

HEAVY FOR RESCUERS

DUDLEY, England — (CP). — A 1,600-pound bay mare fell into mine workings here, and it took 20 men more than a day to rescue him. The animal's only injury was an inch-long cut on the back.

Western U Casualty

With the stretch drive of the eastern intercollegiate race ahead of them, University of Western Ontario may have to go the rest of the way without the services of Clem Faust, ABOVE, classy American and passing halfback. Faust broke a small bone in his left foot in the game against Toronto, and will probably be out the rest of the season.

Wrestling Last Night

(By the Associated Press.)

"Heavenly" Gates Returns To Team

HANOVER, N.H., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Harrington Gates, 24-year-old erstwhile sparkplug of Dartmouth College's football team, returned to school today after a five-day sojourn with the religious cult known as the "Holy Ghost And Us" society.

"I've come back for good," said the star blocking back, who has played but one game this year.

Clad in a football sweater, Gates was driven directly to his college lodging house by Joseph Holland, a member of the cult and his host during the past week at the New Boston, N.H. turkey farm, headquarters of the religious group.

France has now lost in the aggregate all the population she gained by the restoration of Alsace-Lorrain and its 2,000,000 people.

MARRIED

NAYLOR—JOHNSTON.—On Saturday, October 22, 1938, in St. George Anglican Church, Grafton Ont., by the Rev. T. A. Nind, Aldyne Nesbitt, Reg.N., younger daughter of Dr. J. N. and Mrs. Johnston, Port Hope, Ont., to Albert Roscoe, only son of Mr. A. E. and Mrs. Naylor, Cobourg, Ont.

DIED

BAMFORTH, Rev. Richard.—At his home, 33 Dennistoun Avenue, on Friday afternoon, November 4, the Rev. Richard Bamforth. Funeral will take place on Monday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, from George Street United Church; Rev. M. C. Parr officiating.

SCHWARDT, Mrs. Anna—On Wednesday, November 3, 1938, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Anna Wickert, widow of Conrad Schwardt, 718 Water street, in her 69th year. Funeral on Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock from the Nesbitt Funeral Home; Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United Church officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

WALTON. — In loving memory of Percy Walton, who passed away November 5, 1935.

Though thou are gone thy memory lives
Engraven deep in every heart,
While hope this consolation gives
We meet again no more to part.
—Remembered by his Wife and four Sons.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Thomas Twomey wish to thank most sincerely all those who so kindly assisted in various ways during their recent sad bereavement.

Miss Marcella Sullivan formerly employed by H. M. Fowlds company here, has obtained a position in Toronto. Miss Eileen Fitzpatrick of Norwood will fill the vacancy.

Mr. James Cavanagh returned to Port Dover with Mr. and Mrs. Kelley with whom he is employed. Mr. Cavanagh spent several days with friends in Percy and Mr. and Mrs. Kelley with Mr. and Mrs. M. A. O'Shea.

Dr. J. Berry of Toronto visited this week with his sister, Mrs. C. C. Huycke and Mr. Huycke.

Mr. James Wood, Mr. Gordon Wood, Miss Jessie Millar and Mrs. J. Cameron of Westwood were Wednesday guests of Mrs. James Dickey and son Gordon.

Miss Kathaleen Crossen of Campbellford was a guest on Wednesday evening with Misses Jessie and Alice Whitred.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Oliver of Godolphin were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Oliver.

Mrs. Howard Fife of Asphodel entertained a number of ladies from the village at her home on Wednesday afternoon and evening, in honor of Mrs. J. B. Scriver who leaves on Monday for Kitchener. Progressive euchre proved an enjoyable pastime and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Bert Preston for ladies first and to Mrs. James Colberry for lone hands. Mrs. A. B. Smith was the lucky winner for the freeze-out which created lots of excitement. The hostess served a most bountiful supper and the social hours spent with the hostess and guest of honor were greatly enjoyed.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

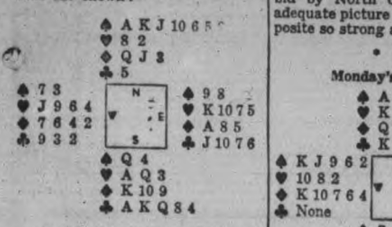
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

A SLAM INVITATION

BIDDING TWO NO TRUMP, when the last call by your partner was one of a suit, is now a force to game in the language of practically all fine players. Such being the case, what is the natural logical meaning of three no trump in the same spot? Doesn't it reasonably signify that the bidder is at least a trick or two stronger than necessary to call two no trump? And isn't it therefore an invitation to you to reach out for slam if your hand is any better than you had thus far shown?



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable)

The bidding on this deal began with South calling 1-Club. North responded with 1-Spade. South jumped to 3-No Trump and North bid 4-Spades.

East decided on a trump lead as doing the least harm, so led the 9.

North won the trick and led one more round to clear the outstanding trumps. The clubs A, K and Q were taken, discarding two diamonds from the North hand. Next came a club ruff and a heart to the A. On the fifth club the heart loser was tossed, so that the declarer had to relinquish only one trick to the diamond A.

North was the one at fault for not arriving at the slam contract. South had opened the bidding and given a very powerful response on the second round. The four spade bid by North certainly gave no adequate picture of his holdings opposite so strong a partner.

427 Lumberjacks Demand Aid In Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 5.—(CP).—Representatives of 400 single unemployed men who were granted meal tickets last night after they stood about corridors of the public utilities building five hours demanding relief, will confer with Mayor C. W. Cox Sunday.

Meal tickets for to-day and Sunday were granted the jobless demonstrators after city council met in emergency session to deal with the situation. Alderman R. H. Bryan, Acting Mayor in the absence of Mayor Cox at Toronto, told the men the municipality could give no further relief after this week-end.

Demanded To See Mayor.

The men marched through main streets of this lakehead city before going to the civic offices where they swarmed through corridors and demanded to see the Mayor. Reigstration of the men was taken with 427 giving their names. Most of them were lumberjacks from Northern Ontario and their representatives appeared before the special council session asking for work.

After conferring by telephone with Mayor Cox, council passed a resolution that the unemployed persons who assembled in the building "be granted meals at the rate of 30 cents a day for Saturday and Sunday, and that such grant be without prejudice to the future policy of the city of Port Arthur."

Government Problem.

Bryan told the men before the council met that the city regarded relief for single men as a problem of the Provincial and Federal governments. Spokesmen agreed but said the men had reached the end of their patience and were hungry.

The men balked at acceptance of the two-day aid until Bryan said council had come to its final decision. He said the city was under no obligation to feed them and urged as many as possible to move from the city during the week-end.

Mayoralty Candidate Tries Shakespeare

EDMONTON, Nov. 5 — (CP). — Quotations from the works of William Shakespeare were recited last night by Frederick James Speed as the perennial mayoralty candidate spoke here.

. . . "But man, proud man,
Drest in a little brief authority,
Most ignorant of what he's most assured,
His glassy essence, like an angry ape,
Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven,
As make the angels weep."

"If that doesn't fit the present condition of Edmonton," thundered Mr. Speed, "I don't know what does."

He told the meeting he would not base his whole campaign on Shakespearean quotations, but was going to advocate Bible reading in Edmonton.

Resenting Car on Lawn Sets Chicagoan Beaten, Shot Dead

Chicago, Nov. 5 (AP)

The slayer and his three companion, all unidentified, fled after the shooting.

A quarrel developed when Warden told the men to move their car, one wheel of which was parked on the lawn. Three of the men engaged Warden in a fist fight. The fourth opened fire with a pistol. Warden was a railroad electrician and former amateur boxer.

Collegiate Notes

FOOTBALL

Well, this week we have a new and rather strange tale to relate. It is the story of Linday's startling 9-6 win over P.C.I. last Saturday. And if you don't think that particularly new or strange let us go on to relate that that defeat marks the first time in the last four autumns that the old alma mater has been beaten in a game within its own group or district. But wait! Before you get out the crying towels, think this over. Is it not a lot better that P.C.I. should suffer this set back now rather than either the previous week or this week? Had we been defeated last week we would now be playing off with Oshawa instead of winning the group. If we lose this week the team will face a deficit in the second game of their two points-to-count battles with Bowmanville. And still again it may not weaken the playing of our lads to have one defeat under their belts as well as a string of victories. One thing about that fray last week, P.C.I. showed just about the nicest passer since Doug McPherson in big Nels Foster, who incidently is playing his first year of football. Just what will happen in Bowmanville we don't know although you probably will when you see this. However with the help of McPherson and Hamilton from the juniors and with a slight possibility of Capt. Ab Leether being in the line-up P. C. I.'s chance look a slight bit brighter. The juniors closed the year in a blaze of glory when they completely upset the dope-bucket and ran all over Lindsay to the tune of 22-3. The game showed the potentiality of several of the juniors for the 1939 edition of the Seniors. The running of Hamilton and MacPherson and the pass receiving of Eric Taylor were certainly worthy of comment. It's too bad that Coach David's squad couldn't have got going earlier and they might have won a second Lakeshore title for the Garnet and Grey. Just before dropping this all too interesting subject we'd like to wish Coach Bamforth and the boys all the luck in the world in their coming playoffs.

COMING MOVIES

On Thursday morning, in the Assembly Hall President Alex Young of the Students Council announced the coming of an event that had all the earmark of a hit. On November 24, a Thursday, Mr. Hamilton Jones of Toronto is bringing a few reels of film on the subject of Jasper Park. They are colored and are being widely sought after all over the province. P. C. I. is scoring another victory over Oshawa C. I in getting the pictures one day ahead of the Motor Town School The Student's council is running a poster contest, open to everyone, advertising the big show. Anyone interested in entering may get paper and instructions from Miss Montgomery.

GLEE CLUB

This year the Glee Club is being limited entirely to girls and Miss Weddell called the first meeting for after school on Tuesday. They had a fine turn-out at the first meeting and should be ready for morning entertainment and for the school operetta in the spring as well as various other functions. Last year they were of tremendous help in introducing new songs to the assembly. Last year we had a good glee club and this year with the advent of a music teacher it should be bigger and better than ever.

BUGLE BAND

The Bugle Band is practicing every night still and it is certainly to be hoped that they will be ready for the coming classic with Bowmanville. Wednesday night last year's leader, Hugh Davidson, was over to give the boys a hand. Judging by the way a couple of the boys were swinging or attempting to swing "Beatin' Around the Mulberry Bush" we don't know. Indeed we don't.

CAMERA CLUB.

Doesn't seem to much doing in this line of late but no doubt this worthy organization will be going at it again very soon. There have been some changes in the pictures in the Camera Club show cases this past week. A good showing of some fine snaps by Doug. Quirt and some more by Hugh Kenner. Doug had a dandy of Mr. Bamforth and some fine action shots of last week's P.C.I.-Lindsay battle. And Hugh had a good group picture of our high-stepping seniors. It is about time for another Collegiate News Reel and probably Monday or some other day next week we will have some more of Mr. Henry's movies. We sure hope so. We really do.

DANCE DOINGS.

The old school had one of the best-attended rugby dances in many a day last Saturday, despite the defeat of the Bamforth Bombers. Mr. Stan Northrup played the piano very ably and there must have been at least a couple of hundred jitter bugs on hand. How does the idea strike you and you, and you and you: to install a Wurlitzer at the next dance and maybe charge a small sum like a nickel or dime per? Anyway, it's a thought. Once again the school gave the visiting teams a good banquet with the Lindsay and local mentors giving short speeches. As announced previously, the At Home is scheduled for Wednesday, December 28. And, remember, there are only 42 shopping days left until Christmas.

RAH! RAH!

Not that the old school is lacking in school spirit, for it isn't, but did it ever strike you that a new school song—say a victory song—would help a lot to put the old pep in our teams? "We'll Never eLt the Old Flag Fall" has done for a good many days, but that's just it, it's had its day. One can't help thinking when he hears "On Wisconsin" or "Cheer Notre Dame," that something along that line would be a lot better. For instance, that semi-opera piece that was introduced to the school on Wednesday. If that were set to appropriate words wouldn't that be a little more fight inspiring. It has a good swing and after all most of the U.S. College songs are written to the tune of old well-known melodies like "We Been Workin' on the Railroad," which is the school song of Texas State. That is, with different words of course. Surely there is someone in the school who could do it.

BASKETBALL.

Now that the Juniors are out of any further rugby competition, Mr. Craig will probably continue his pre-season work-outs. The practices are really for juniors, but anyone interested in either team may turn out. The chances for two really good teams seem very bright at present, and with a good grouping the school should see a lot of the hoop sport within the coming months.

ODDS 'N' ENDS

The Junior rugby squad was introduced to the school by the captain, Don McPherson, from the Assembly Hall stage on Monday. . . . Nobody was any happier over the Juniors' 22-3 setback of Lindsay than Coaches David and Jim Hall. . . . and rightly so. . . The first Lit meetings are due within a week or two. . . . A lot of P.C.I. hopes are riding in the passing arm of Nels Foster in the series with Bowmanville. . . The team had their picture taken by two papers last week prior to the game. . . And Friday night Ab Leether went through a number of contortions to catch him in kicking pose by the camera man. . . . Those were very funny Garnet and Grey ribbons that Nels Foster was wearing at the dance last week. . . . She was all right, too, Nelson . . . And that will have to be that.

and reorganizing the Inglish plant and assets.

Col. Ralston said E. T. Pointon would be called also representatives of a rifle plant in Cobourg, Ont., and an official of the Winchester Repeating Rifle Company in the United States. He would also call representatives of five manufacturing companies in Canada who have been mentioned as having been in a position to tender for the Bren contract if tenders had been called.

General L. R. LaFleche, deputy minister of national defence, Major Hahn and others might be recalled and it is proposed to call Dr. W. C. Clark, deputy minister of finance, and Col. R. F. Orde, judge advocate general of the defence department.

Little Excuse for Prolonging Probe

Col. Drew objected on the ground that after six week's of evidence taking all relevant information must have been made available to the commission and that there was little excuse for prolonging the inquiry at this stage.

"I cannot stop the calling of witnesses," the commissioner said. "I suppose we will just have to sit here week after week." Earlier in the day he had refused permission to Col. Drew to put on the stand "for just five minutes" his law partner, Major Gordon Balfour.

Col. Drew wanted to call his partner because of a statement made from the witness stand yesterday by Herbert Plaxton, while under cross-examination by Col. Drew, that Mr. Balfour had tried to induce charwomen and others in the Plaxton office quarters in Toronto to testify as to the destruction of documents about the time the Drew article appeared in Maclean's.

Major Balfour issued a statement to the press in which he denied the charge and said "at no time have I brought any pressure to bear on any witness interviewed in this manner."

with rumors current in Paris for several days the Nationalists were preparing an Armistice Day coup.

The paper said the manoeuvre could take either of two directions both of which would result in an effort to establish a virtual distatorship.

The first, the paper said, was a plan to mass hundreds of thousands of demonstrators about the tomb of the unknown soldier and when Daladier was placing a wreath during Armistice Day celebrations to have the delegation make a "spontaneous" demand for him to form a public safety government.

The next day, the paper added, the plan called for a march on the presidential palace with a demand that President Lebrun act at the same time mass street demonstrations would be organized.

Should this fail, according to the paper, the Nationalists would be able to say the government had failed and use its demonstrations as an excuse for a coup d'etat to retsore order.

HALIFAX ACCEPTS

YORK, England—(CP).—Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax has accepted the presidency of the York City Football Club in the English League. He will attend home matches when his duties permit.

"You have given us quite a problem," said John A. Harstone, chairman, as the Court of Revision Friday afternoon heard an appeal by James Dutton and Graham Gassels, Toronto, for a reduction of the business assessment on Stock's Bread Ltd., based on the proposition that part of the bakery plant on Stewart street was used solely for selling or distribution purposes, and that section should not be classed and assessed as a place of manufacture.

The Court, composed of Sheriff Harstone, Thos. Ephgrave and Fred Finnie, reserved judgment, and expressed an intention of examining the company's premises.

The assessment of the Stock's Bread Limited land is $2,600, the buildings $35,000; total $37,600; and the business assessment is $22,500.

In 1936 the assessment of the property was $30,000 and for business $9,000; and in 1937 the property assessment had increased to $37,600, and business assessment to $22,500, as the basis of the 1938 taxation, and continuing in effect for 1939.

Mr. Cassel said the company was not complaining about the assessment of the property. The business assessment was increased from $9,000 which was 30% of the real estate assessment, the reason given being that the status of Stock's Bread Limited had been changed from that of a retailer to the position of manufacturer.

In similar circumstances in Toronto 55% of the real estate assessment was classified as manufacturer and assessed at 60% for business tax purposes, and 45% of the real estate assessment is classed as retail merchant, and assessed at 25% for business tax purposes.

On the basis of proportional property valuation, Mr. Dutton said that 60 per cent of the Stock's plant should be regarded as manufacturing and 38% for selling; and on the basis of area, one-third was used for manufacturing and two-thirds for distribution or selling.

It was contended for the appellants that at present all their Stewart Street property was now being regarded as that of a manufacturer. That classification was correct in regard to ovens, bake shop, and other production sections, but it should not include the garage, wagon shed, loading room and other parts of the building which are used solely for distribution.

Mr. Cassel said the statute provided for an adjustment of assessment of these two distinct sections of the business. "We should be assessed at 30% and not 60% as to the part used for retail purposes."

Mr. Dutton said the bulk of the distributing phase of the business was done by delivery to private homes today, although some years ago quite large quantities were expressed to towns in this part of the province and also sold to grocers in much larger supplies than are taken today. He contended that this selling and delivery of bread was retailing, was not manufacturing, and therefore the business assessment on Stock's Bread Limited should be proportionately reduced. "To be fair we consider our slicing and wrapping department as part of the manufacturing end."

The price of one loaf of bread to the storekeeper is the same as of one hundred loaves. Over a period of 25 weeks the retail business amounted to 64% of the total and the wholesale 36%, Mr. Dutton said.

House Reduced $300.

G. S. Browne, 629 Homewood avenue, west of Monaghan Road, appealed against the assessment of his house $3,900, built in 1937, and $600 on land. He said his house was the smallest on that part of the street but was assessed $200 more than any other of them. The Thomas Lancefield house is assessed at $3,500, land $500 and was bigger than his, Mr. Browne said. Te Steggles house is assessed at $3400. Mr. Browne said his house cost $4,300 and the lot $250. The court reduced the assessment on the building $300 to $3,600.

The house at 52 Olive avenue purchased by Cornelius Killingbeck from M. J. Duffus was transferred from the Separate to the Public School credit list, and the assessment of $2,100 was reduced by $100 to $2,000. Mr. Killingbeck and Gordon Adams, real estate agent, testified the house was bought this year for $1,750. Mr. Duffus had listed it at $2,000 but finally sold it to Mr. Killingbeck for $1,750. Mr. Huycke, representing the city, the assessment on the property was reduced $150 in 1934. John R. Corkery was present for the appellant.

Judgment Reserved.

The Court withheld judgment on the appeal of James Heffernan, Reid and Edinburgh streets. His property was assessed last year at $2,500, of which $2,000 was on the building. He converted the attic into sleeping quarters and his assessment was increased $700 on the house; the total moving up from $2,500 to $3,200. Mr. Hefferan admitted to Mr. Huycke that his building permit was for $1,200. T. J. Carley was solicitor for Mr. Heffernan.

Appealing for exemption of St. Alphonsus Lyceum which is assessed at $16,500 on land and building, Rev. Dr. P. J. Kelly, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, explained to the Court that the Lyceum is used virtually as a parish hall, attached to St. Peter's parish. He said it was solely for religious purposes a place of assembly for the Catholic Women's League, the Catholic Young People's Club, for a Study Club and lectures, for amateur entertainments whose proceeds are devoted entirely to charity and other social work of the Church. There is no basement at the Cathedral nor any other hall that could serve the purposes of the Lyceum. Its religious aspects are ancillary to the main Catholic worship of the Mass. Dr. Kelly also said that the Simcoe street auditorium is not rented for any purposes, such as dances, and he had declined to permit such amusements as bingo to be started there. John R. Corkery assisted Dr. Kelly in presenting his appeal. W. F. Huycke on behalf of the city said that the assessor W. J. Henry had in effect asked for a ruling as to assessing the Lyceum. Judgment was reserved.

The Brewer Estate

Assessment of two houses of the late Margaret Brewer estate were reduced. The Chartered Trusts Corporation of Toronto are the executor, and were represented by Mr. Carley. Assessment of the property at 112 Monaghan Road was reduced on land $150, bringing the total to $1,000. The valuation of the house is $850. It rents for $10 a month. The other property is at 50 Alfred street, $400 on land and $1300 on the house, total $1700. Assessment reduced $250 on the building to a total of $1450. This house has no plumbing or wiring and has been earning only relief rent for seven years.

Sisters Skip Off In Double Elopement But Father Objects To Girl 13, Marrying

Souderton, Pa., Nov. 5 (AP)

THE FATHER of buxom, blue-eyed Frances Erb, 13-year-old high school freshman, retained a lawyer today to seek annulment of her marriage to Robert Souder, 21-year-old relief worker with whom she eloped to Elkton, Md.

Ignoring protests of rosy-cheeked Frances that she loves her six foot, three-inch tall husband and intends to stick with him, the father, Raymond, a brickyard laborer, said he would ask that the marriage be set aside because of his daughter's age.

Frances said she planned to continue school. Souder, unsuccessful so far in his attempt "to straighten things out," lamented that "it looks now as if the marriage will be annulled." He added, however, that he would fight any such move.

The couple participated in a double elopment Wednesday with Frances' 17-year-old sister, Mariam, and Martin Nace, 25, a clothing worker. Frances said she and Souder went along to Elkton "for the ride" but on the way "we got to saying how nice it would be if we got married, too."

Hull Warns Totalitarian States

Speaking at the national foreign trade convention in New York, U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, issued a warning to totalitarian governments that there would be "no compromise" in American trade policies to accommodate their economic theories. Hull's speech was seen as a direct notice of "no compromise" to Germany, whose economic minister Walther Funk, recently suggested negotiation of a bi-lateral treaty with the United States.

Collingwood Caveman's Third Bride To Convert Him To Town Life

Toronto, Nov. 5 (AP)

ALFRED STAPLES, 65-year-old Collingwood Blue Mountain caveman, is getting married tomorrow for the third time and his bride-to-be, Mrs. Anne Travis, 64, says "I'm not going to be a cavewoman and Alfie is going to give up that cave business too."

"He's going to wear store clothes and settle down in town," said Mrs. Travis, in town on a shopping tour today with Staples. The only thing the man of the cave will be allowed to retain of his back-to-nature theory is the privilege not to wear underwear.

A cavewoman? Mrs. Travis sniffed. "Certainly not, we are going to live right in Collingwood. It was all decided after Staples asked her to marry him and "It's a lot better to have a house and everything."

The couple have known each other 12 years. But Mrs. Travis didn't know how the idea of marriage came up.

"He just asked me," she smiled.

Priestly Suspects New York Hostile

LONDON, Nov. 5—(AP). — J. B. Priestly, the writer, whose latest play was unsuccessful on Broadway, feels there is "something hostile, even menacing, in the atmosphere of New York."

Writing in the current issue of "Time and Tide," Mr. Priestly acknowledged that previous successes from his pen "were dismissed as dreary trifles over there." But he said he was bewildered about the recent failure of his play "I Have Been There Before," because all his friends who saw it in London predicted it would be a New York hit.

Of New York Mr. Priestly said: "I have always felt there was an inexplicable sense of menace, a faint foreboding of tragedy as if something above those great towers were plotting against the soul of man."

The author also observed, "I never sleep properly there."

Weak Defences Shock House; Cure Assured

LONDON, Nov. 5 — (CP). — Th. British government, frankly admitting serious deficiencies in its rearmament and civilian defence programs, embarked today on a determined effort to repair the faults.

Admissions of weakness, coupled with a review of the vast amount of work accomplished, were made in the House of Commons last night before the house approved the government's decision to entrust responsibility for civilian defence to Sir John Anderson, Lord Privy Seal.

A labor motion of censure for failure to protect the civilian population was rejected on a vote of 355 to 130, after which the government's amendment embodying the reference to the new cabinet minister was approved by a show of hands.

Stating candor was better than concealment, Leslie Hore-Belisha told of shortcomings in anti-aircraft gun equipment, which comes under his department as secretary for war.

Useless Guns Mounted

There were guns without sights mounted for the defence of London, he said. Others were without ammunition. There were shortages of equipment, stores and transport.

He would correct this situation in the shortest possible time, he said. He was determined to get these deficiencies built up to the highest peak of efficiency.

Sir John Anderson predicted an increase in the estimates to meet the needs of the passive anti-aircraft defence.

Although he could not give details, he said, "We should create something now which will form a backbone of wartime regional organization and will at the same time assist in peacetime planning.

"The ultimate aim of organization is to meet the emergency, and we shall plan badly indeed if and when the emergency comes we find ourselves in a position of having to face it with a staff already exhausted and almost on the point of collapse from the labors of preparation."

The problem of using the country's manpower to the full must be swiftly settled, and no delay must be brooked on the question of evacuating civilian populations in an emergency, he said.

Sir Samuel Hoare, the home secretary who relinquishes control of air raid precautions to Sir John Anderson, outlined the government's plans in this regard more fully.

Shelter For All.

He said the trench system, hastily started during the September crisis, would be expanded so that it would shelter 1,000,000 persons in London from bomb fragments and splinters. Shelters under parks would be reinforced, covered and sodded, becoming permanent.

Blastproof shelters for every man, woman and child in the country would be surveyed. A vast evacuation scheme, particularly for London, would be worked out whereby women and children would stream in orderly fashion to the comparative safety of the countryside should an emergency occur.

Sir Samuel said that despite the deficiencies which the government fully recognized, Britain's methods of protecting her civilian population would stand comparison with those of any other country with the exception of Germany.

He outlined a triple effort to "regain the insular security of this country," through effective passive defence, a substantial increase in the Royal Air Force and a greatly increased system of anti-aircraft guns.

NEVER SLEEP ON AN UPSET STOMACH

Often neutralizing excess stomach acids can make the whole world smile in the morning

To relieve the effects of over-indulgence—escape "acid indigestion" that can ruin the whole next day—simply do this:

Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water—AT BEDTIME.

While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel like a million.

Then—when you wake—take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.

That is the quickest, simplest, easiest way to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

But—when you buy, make sure you get the Real Article. Never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone—always ask for "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia"—the kind many doctors endorse.

Polish Youth Wounds Nazi Leader

Legation Secretary In Paris Is Hit By Two Pistol Shots

PARIS, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The secretary of the German legation, Ernst Von Rath, was wounded today by two pistol shots fired in the German Embassy by a youth whom the embassy spokesman described as a Polish Jew.

The embassy spokesman said the youth who fired the shot said he "wanted to avenge his Polish brethern." (Germany last week sent back to Poland several thousand resident Polish Jews, fearing new Polish passport regulations might deprive them of citizenship and leave them as German charges.)

The youth entered the embassy at 9:35. He was taken to the office of Von Rath, attached to German legation service as well as to the embassy.

Two pistol shots rang out and other attaches came on the run. Both shots struck Von Rath. He was taken to a nearby hospital.

Former German Resident

Embassy authorities held the youth until French police arrived. The spokesman identified the assailant as Herschel Grynszpan, 17, a former resident of Hanover, Germany.

The embassy spokesman charged that the youth was "excited by Jews in France" and indicated his belief the shooting was inspired by the recent mass expulsion of Polish Jews from Germany.

The embassy said the youth first made a short speech to the secretary telling him he had come to avenge his countrymen.

The youth carried a Polish passport, although born in Hanover, the embassy said.

Arrest Two Men In Wild Chase

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Thomas, William and Edmund Slatcher, Toronto ,were under arrest today, a sequel to a chase through York township as a police automobile and motorcycle pursued the Slatcher automobile at speeds sometimes exceeding 75 miles an hour.

Constable Whitehead of the Toronto force first started after the Slatchers last night as he noticed them passing an intersection "going very fast," he said. He chased them for several miles at high speeds.

As his motorcycle reached 75 miles an hour and he prepared to fire on the pursued machine, a police cruiser passed him and a few minutes later the chased car stopped. William, said to be the driver, was charged with drunken driving, reckless driving, and having liquor in an illegal place, while his brothers were arrested on the latter charge.

Bail of $1,000 wa sallowed for William and $500 each for the other two.

Massing More Troops To Check Arabs

JERUSALEM, No. 7 (CP-Havas)—The Second Battalion of the Highland Light Infantry Regiment landed at Haifa from the transport Vasna today to bolster the British forces in Palestine.

Observers here said the long-awaited report of the Wood-Head commission, expected to be published Wednesday, would grant certain demands of the Arabs, including restriction of Jewish immigration and creation of a national assembly with Arab and Jewish representation on the basis of population.

It was predicted the new immigration regulations would limit Jewish immigrants to purely Jewish districts.

Montreal, Nov. 7.

TANNED by a southern sun and greatly improved in health, Prime Minister Mackenzie King returned to Canada today after a holiday in the United States.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King

"I feel ever so much better," he said as he stepped from the train from New York. "The trip has done me a world of good and I'm all ready for a hard winter's work."

The reference to hard work was the nearest approach to a comment on political questions the prime minister would make. He preferred not to comment on the approaching visit of the King and Queen to Canada. The Canada-United States trade agreement, the re-convening of parliament or rumored changes in the cabinet.

"I want to wait until I get back to Ottawa and find out about all these things for myself," he said with a broad smile. "Right now, you know more about them than I do, I've been out of touch with things for several weeks."

He showed no such reticence in talking about the benefits of his holiday that came after an attack of sciatica had troubled him through the closing days of the last parliamentary session in June.

"I had a wonderful time," with fine weather and lots of sunshine. My health has improved enormously and I feel like a new man."

Sectional Antagonism Is Canada Being Brought On By Loose Talk Dr. Manion Finds

Tendency To Bicker Is Found General All Parts of Canada

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 7 (C.P.). —Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, National Conservative Leader, speaking today to the Western Ontario Women's Conservative Association, said that one of the things that frighten him is the tendency in various parts of Canada to criticize other parts.

Two speaking tours that have taken him from the Atlantic to the Pacific showed him tendencies in various parts to stir up sectional antagonisms, "to endanger Confederation" with loose talk. Dr. Manion said he blamed no individuals. The tendency to bicker was general in all parts.

Dr. Manion is here for the official nominations for the London Federal by-election on November 14 in which he will be the official Conservative candidate and for the annual meeting of Western Ontario Conservative Associations.

To Make Four Speeches.

Four speeches were on the program for him, one to the women, one to a luncheon club, one to the general association, and one to a public meeting. Dr. Manion told the ladies he found it difficult to make four speeches a day as was expected of a political leader.

The ability of the Right Hon. R. B. Bennett to start from scratch and enlarge a theme as he went along was an ability Dr. Manion did not possess. He recalled a conversation with Mr. Bennett in which he told the then Conservative Leader he believed he could develop a speech as he went along in an empty room.

"I believe I could, was Mr. Bennett's answer," said Dr. Manion. "I haven't got that gift."

Party workers from all parts of Western Ontario are here for the meetings and to hear Dr. Manion. To-morrow the Leader will speak at Galt in support of Karl Homuth, Conservative candidate in the Waterloo South by-election.

Too Enter Contest

Nominating papers for Dr. Manion and for E. O. Hall, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation Candidate, were in the hands of returning officer Charles Ross as the official nomination period for the London federal by-election Nov. 14 opened at noon today.

There was no prospect of a third candidate though any person desiring to run has until two o'clock to file papers. It is likely the battle will be a straight one between Dr. Manion and Mr. Hall.

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP)—A safe in the office of the Ideal Bread Company in suburban Mimico was blown open during last night and $1,500 taken. Police said the safe-cracking was the work of experts who "did a fast job."

Hunter Speeds Home To Mother's Bed From Northern Bush

Gogama, Ont., Nov. 7 (CP)

JOE BRINKMAN of Fremont, Mich., was at home with his sick mother today after a two-day journey from Northern Ontario woods on foot through heavy bush, by airplane and finally by train.

Brinkman and a guide hunting moose when a telegram stating his mother was ill was received here. It was flown into him at Holly Lake, north of Gogama, and he immediately started out. Early Saturday he and Pilot James Bell of Austin Airways took off from here for Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and made the 125-mile flight despite poor visibility and rough weather.

Case Is Freed On Liquor Count

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP)—An appeal by Clifford Case, Toronto lawyer and former member of the Ontario Legislature, against a sentence of seven days in jail upon conviction of a charge of being intoxicated while driving an automobile was allowed in county criminal court by Judge James Parker here today.

In a written judgment, Judge Parker quashed the conviction and released Case's car which had been impounded for three months under the sentence imposed by Magistrate William Keith.

He held Case's condition when arrested north of Toronto last May 13 was not due to two ounces of whisky the lawyer had drunk in his office earlier in the day but to medicine administered by a doctor to combat a condition of nervousness and insomnia.

Jews To Palestine

GALATI, Rumania, Nov. 7 (A.P.). —Five hundred Jewish refugees, Czechoslovak and Austrian, arrived here to-day by a Danube river boat from Vienna and departed aboard the steamship Praga for Palestine.

Jobless Plan To Picket Toronto Hall

Single Unemployed Are Annoyed At Council's Order

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP)—A mass meeting of single unemployed, called to protest Toronto City Council's plan to have them work one day a week without wages on waterfront improvements, decided to meet later today to discuss plans for picketing the Central Welfare Bureau, the waterfront and the City Hall.

It also was suggested that Mayor Ralph Day's home be picketed.

Close to 500 of the registered 900 single unemployed who live in hostels attended the meeting and heard George Harris, leader of the group, suggest that the picketing be undertaken. He said such action would demonstrate their opposition to the "Day's work" proposal.

"We will put the picket lines there and keep them there," Harris said.

Work For Wages

Last week a deputation of unemployed waiting on city council and announced they would work for wages, but would not work in return for food and shelter provided in the hostels. Seven of them found the hostel doors shut against them, when they refused to report for work last week.

At the same time Acting Mayor William Wadsworth said that of 70 single unemployed notified to work on grading harbor lands, only 35 showed up today. He said that unless those who failed to report has reasonable explanations they would be cut off relief.

The men are expected to do seven hours' work per week. Another group has been ordered to report tomorrow, the Acting Mayor said, and those who fail to answer will be questioned by officials.

Tory Demands Resignation Of Mackenzie

RENFREW, Ont., Nov. 7—(CP). —W. A. Walsh, Conservative M.P. for Mount Royal, told the North Renfrew nomination meeting here Saturday that Defence Minister Mackenzie should be relieved of his portfolio due to the Bren Gun inquiry.

Speaking of the inquiry, Mr. Walsh said: "No one should make a cent profit in the manufacture of weapons to be used for defence. Ian Mackenzie has shown himself to be unworthy to hold the position of Minister of National Defence. The Prime Minister should demand his resignation. He has no more right to be Minister of National Defence than I have to be King of England."

Claims Boys Stole Poppy Day Box

KITCHENER, Ont., Nov. 7—(CP). —Two 15-year-old St. Catharines boys have confessed, police say, to stealing a Poppy day box from a young tagger.

The lads had about $2 in silver left when apprehended by the police. They got the money by ostensibly taking the box into the house to have their mother buy a tag when actually they merely went towards the back door and disappeared with it. Meanwhile the tagger waited at the front door.

The accused will be tried in juvenile court this week.

Special Force Of Provincials Are Available For Northern Trouble

Toronto, Nov. 7 (CP)

HON. G. D. CONANT, Attorney-General of Ontario, today announced formation of a special squad of Provincial Police constables to be available in case of any repetition of last Friday's disturbances in Port Arthur where jobless took possession of the city hall.

"We don't tolerate any repetition of such lawlessness as occurred there last Friday," Mr. Conant said. "We will suppress and prosecute such lawlessness no matter what force of police is necessary."

Six special men were sent to Port Arthur Saturday and another squad is being held here in readiness in the event further trouble develops, the attorney-general said. The constables will travel by airplane if necessary.

All but two of a force of Provincial Police sent to Port Colborne, Ont., two weeks ago during a shoe-factory strike have been recalled, the minister added. "We are leaving two officers there only because Humberstone (Port Colborne suburb) has no municipal police," he said.

Goodwill Of Yugoslavia Is Of Great Importance To Hitler's Economic Fight

People Much Prefer To Team Up With Italy If Possible

By Dewitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.)

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 7.—The trend of Chancellor Hitler's economic and political conquest of the Balkans bids fair to be influenced to no small degree by the attitude of Yugoslavia.

The goodwill of this nation of doughty fighters is of great importance to the fuehrer. This is so partly because of Yugoslavia's strong influence among her neighbors and partly because her geographical position makes her a most likely participant in the event of any clash between Germany and Italy.

From this vantage point one can see indications of what may prove to be flaws in the Rome-Berlin axis —possibilitiesof future difficulties.

Pretty Strong Mustard.

Various situations already exist which might lead to controversy of one sort or another between Mussolini and Hitler. Mussolini finds some of Hitler's moves are pretty strong mustard. For instance, there is Germany's perhaps natural desire for an Adriatic port which could come only from Italy, and the fact that Hitler is seeking control of the Balkans is trespassing in what has been regarded as Il Duce's sphere of influence.

At the moment the Belgrade government has elected to accept Berlin's economic overlordship because forsooth Yugoslavia couldn't help herself if she wished. She is dependent on the German market to absorb the great bulk of her products, which are mainly agricultural. It remains to be seen what Belgrade's attitude will be if Hitler attempts to employ economic pressure for political ends.

I understand Yugoslavia would much prefer to team up with Italy if that were possible. As a matter of fact, while the Belgrade government is friendly with Berlin, the general public is hostile to the Reich because of its treatment to Czechoslovakia.

Nazi aspirations in connection with the Adriatic and with the vast granary of the Danubian basin have drawn Italy and Yugoslavia closer, at least in sentiment.

Strangling Port of Trieste.

Germany has been strangling the port of Trieste—which, incidentally, she is said to covet — by diverting German goods through Hamburg and other northern ports. Italy resents this bitterly.

Yugoslavia, among other things, dislikes what is characterized as German aggression. A typical example of the type of push that irks Belgrade no end was seen last May at the time of the International Aeronautical exposition here. Germany caused consternation by sending 38 military planes and 160 men in uniform, including a military band. It is said she had not been invited to make any martial display.

This demonstration of Germany's might was made while the Czechoslovak crisis was boiling up. Prince Paul, the regent, had planned to open the exposition but remained absent. Other officials expressed annoyance.

Start Works Plan For 300 Jobless

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 7 (CP)—Mayor Charles Cox of Port Arthur today considered plans for caring for 300 jobless. The unemployed appeared at city offices Friday, determined to remain until help was extended so city council in special session issued meal tickets.

The mayor expects to put a large number of men to work clearing brush near the city outskirts. It is believed with the advent of cold weather men will be required in the lumber camps which will help cut down the jobless figure.

Called "A Ruffian Spy"

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP).—Vyacheslaff Molotoff, chairman of the Council of People's Commissars, last night called Colonel Charles Lindbergh a "ruffian spy."

He made the reference to the American flier casually at a celebration of the 21st anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution, charging capitalist countries at present were sending spies to the U.S.S.R.

Workmen Dig 15 Days To Recover Dog Only To Find It Dead

Spelter, W. Va., Nov. 7.

WEARY DIGGERS, who for fifteen days hacked and blasted a passage into a mine sink hole in an effort to release Sport, a trapped Beagle hound, today recovered the little animal's emaciated body. Sport apparently died about a week ago—the last time any one heard him whine was Oct. 29. He fell into the sink hole eighteen days ago.

Father Rescues His Family As Home Burns

TIMMINS, Ont., Nov. 7.—(CP)—Roused from sleep early today as fire of unknown origin swept through his store below, Angus Coulis raced from the building, raised a ladder to a window and rescued his wife and two small children before firemen arrived on the scene. The fire caused more than $2,000 damage before firemen could quell the flames.

The store was covered by insurance. Firemen managed to limit the flames to the downstairs portion of the house.

Four other fires were reported on Saturday. Flames started in the rear part of a house owned by Mrs. Hoffman.

Flames consumed the back shed and huge columns of smoke brought citizens from the downtown district rushing to the scene of the fire. Damage of several hundred dollars is covered by insurance.

When an ash tray on a studio couch spilled embers on the couch, firemen were called out to quell the fire in a house on Balsam street north which caused $35 damage before firemen could stop the flames. The other blazes were minor chimney fires.

Ivan Lillico's Car Overturns In Ditch

LINDSAY, Nov. 7 (CP).—Ralph Boke, of Pickering, and Ivan Lillico, of Peterborough, escaped possible serious injuries in an accident on No. 35 Highway, Sunday, as the two along with another car load of hunters were travelling north of Minden.

When rounding a short curve, north of Cameron, a tire on the Lillico car blew out and the auto swerved to the ditch. After turning over twice the car slid into an embankment with such force that it bounced out to the middle of the highway where it came to rest, wheels in the air.

Lillico escaped with facial injuries and bruises, but Boke was rushed to the Lindsay Hospital, suffering from a concussion of the brain as well as the fracture of several ribs.

179 Seats Are Held By Liberal Party

OTTAWA. Nov. 7.—(CP)—Election of Peter Bercovitch by acclamation in Montreal-Cartier raised the Liberal representation in the House of Commons to 179.

There are three vacancies in London, Waterloo South and Brandon where by-elections are scheduled for Nov. 14.

The standing: Liberals 179, Conservatives 36, Social Credit 17, C.C.F. 6; Independent, 1; Reconstruction, 1; U.F.O., 1; vacant, 3. Total, 245.

DR. SNYDER REMANDED.

TORONTO.—Dr. Warren Snyder, former coroner of suburban Mimico, was remanded to Nov. 21 when he appeared in police court here today on a charge of manslaughter, laid after an accident several weeks ago in which Reginald Clements, riding a bicycle home from work, was killed.

Britons Set New Record Covering 7,160 Miles In Forty-eight Hours

Nine Young British Airmen Captured World's Non-Stop Distance Record From Ismailia, Egypt, To Australia

PORT DARWIN, Australia, Nov. 7 (AP). — Nine young British airmen captured the world's non-stop distance record for the Royal Air Force today after a flight across Indian jungles and southern seas from Ismailia, Egypt.

Two of the three Vickers Wellesley bombing planes in which they flew roared into Port Darwin shortly after noon, having covered approximately 7,160 miles in a few minutes over 48 hours for an average speed of 149 miles an hour. The third landed at Kupang, Timor Island, Dutch East Indies, about 6,600 miles from Ismailia, due to a fuel shortage. It refuelled and took off immediately for Port Darwin.

All three eclipsed the previous record set by Soviet fliers who flew 6,306 miles from Moscow to San Jacinto, Calif., by way to the North Pole in July, 1937. And the Soviet flight took longer—62 hours and 17 minutes.

The nine-ton bombers equalled the record when they flashed across the southern tip of the Celebes Islands at 6 a.m. Port Darwin time (3.30 E.S.T., Sunday).

Seven hours and 32 minutes later Squadron Leader R. Kellett, pilot of the No. 1 plane, and commander of the flight, and his two companions, Flight Lieutenant R. T. Gething and Pilot Officer M. L. Gaine, landed at Port Darwin.

The scond plane manned by Flight Lieutenants A. N. Combe and B. K. Burnett and Sergeant H. B. Gray, landed three minutes later. The third arrived at 5:10 p.m. (2:40 a.m. EST).

Reported a Good Trip

The airmen were sunburned and their eyes bloodshot, but they were little affected otherwise by their two days and two nights in the air over deserts, mountains and seas.

"It was a good trip," Kellett said. "We never felt better."

The men immediately began working on the planes, overhauling them before going on to Brisbane and Sydney.

It was estimated the flight cost more than $1,000,000.

The fliers took turns piloting and sleeping, while an automatic pilot aided in guiding the single-engined planes. They encountered all sorts of weather, the worst being over the Island of Borneo when they rode out a tropical storm.

Their route lay over Arabian wastes to the Persian Gulf, along the Baluchiastan coast to Karachi, across the Decan to the east coast of India, over the Andaman Islands to the Malay Peninsula, then across the mountainous Dutch East Indies and the treacherous Timor Sea.

Below Zero Mark Is Touched In West

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7—(CP).—Temperatures tumbled over the Prairies to below zero at some points today while snow fell in Northern Saskatchewan and in Central Manitoba.

Winnipeg resident awoke to find a thick blanket of snow over the countryside with the mercury hovering around 19 above. Snow, heaviest fall in November in years, appeared at Prince Albert in Northern Saskatchewan.

Heavy fog and frost was experienced in Regina and Moose Jaw districts. It was clear and cold with the mercury four under the zero at Saskatoon.

FRENCH ART FOR JAVA

Million Persons Take Part Red Anniversary

MOSCOW, Nov. 7— (AP)— One million persons marched past Joseph Stalin today in a huge parade through Moscow's Red Square celebrating the 21st anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution, Soviet Russia's "coming of age."

The Soviet Union's armed might was displayed. Tens of thousands of picked troops and hundreds of light and heavy tanks—some of which raced across the square at 40 mfles and hour—and hundreds of aircraft took part.

The scond speech was that of Klementi Voroshiloff, war commissar who emphasized Russia was prepared to meet force with force.

Canada To Admit A Few Refugees

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Of the scores of professional men in Central Europe seeking to enter Canada a few specialists in the medical profession and some particularly qualified chemists will likely be admitted, it was learned today. Immigration officials take the view Canada has a surplus of physicians already and therefore they are generally recommending against admitting medical men from Germany, Austria, Italy, Poland and other countries of Central Europe.

Most of the applications are from Jewish doctors and include those from territories now in the Reich and adjacent countries where their positions are felt to be insecure. Each application is considered on its merits but with the assumption that the Dominion is already well supplied with medical men from its own universities who have first claim on the right to practice in this country.

Install Rolling Mill In Lindsay Arsenal

OTTAWA, Nov. 7—(CP).—A rolling mill to process brass for cartridge cases has been installed in the Dominion Arsenal at Lindsay, Ont., it was learned last night from a Defence Department source.

For some months the Government has been making repairs and refitting the Lindsay Arsenal. It was not known when production will begin, but will vary "according to needs."

Charged With Murder

KENORA, Ont., Nov. 7 (CP). — Thure Fors, 34, will face a murder charge at the Spring Assizes in connection with the death of Victor Berglund, 39, at Sioux Lookout last Wednesday. Fors was committed for trial here Saturday by Magistrate T. H. Wolfe.

Inquest into Berglund's death has been postponed until Thursday to allow preparation of medical evidence. Organs from Berglund's body will be sent to Toronto for analysis.

Ontario, Milch Cow Of Canada, Fattened By Maritimes Premier Campbell Says

AMHERST, N.S., Nov. 7 (CP) —Possibility of the formation of a Maritime Council that could discuss problems common to the three seaside provinces was the suggestion left today by Premier Thane A. Campbell of Prince Edward Island with the hundreds who attended the opening of the Maritime Winter Fair.

The island premier, who made a twin plea for Canadian unity and greater co-operation among the Maritime provinces at a citizens' banquet which preceded the opening of the fair Saturday, said he was not suggesting Maritime union "but I believe it ought to be possible to set up some sort of advisory council, in which all three provinces would have representation, to consider matters of common interest to all."

"Our friends in Western Canada and Ontario contend that many of our problems in the east could be solved by maritime union. There might be some difference of opinion on this point but I do feel that the three Maritime provinces have a continuity of interest that could well be served by closer co-operation."

Premier Hepburn of Ontario had termed that province the "milch cow of Canada." Such an observation brought a Maritime retort that the milch cow had been fattened by these three eastern provinces or an observation that the Maritimes lacked the benefits derived by the West from stabilized wheat prices. He deplored such evidences of sectionalism.

Travellers Are Stranded In Their Cars In Near-Zero Temperature On Prairies

DENVER, Nov. 7 (AP)—A wintry arsenal of low temperatures, snow, sleet and cold was turned today on a region of the United States extending from Missouri and Kansas southwest to New Mexico and the Oklahoma Panhandle, with the brunt of the attack thrust at the Rockey Mountain region.

A heavy blanket of snow crippled transportation in northern New Mexico and marooned 35 motorists and bus passengers for several hours last night near Capulin.

The stranded travellers were brought to safety from near zero temperatures when snowplows broke through piled drifts to open a road for a rescue bus.

Colorado was covered with its first general snowfall of the season. The lowest reported temperature last night — eight below zero—was at Craig, in the mountainous northwestern part of the state, where eight inches of snow fell. Denver had a six-degree-above-zero reading early today.

Mounted searchers hunted in the hilly Peterson canyon area of southeastern Colorado for Harold L. Mercer, 38, missing Pueblo cafe proprietor, who became separated from hunting companions Saturday.

Snow, sleet and cold rain fell in Kansas, with the heaviest snowfall up to three inches between Syracuse and the Colorado line. The snow in the eastern section of the state melted rapidly.

Northwestern Missouri had a 1½ inch fall of snow, with heavy, cold rains in the southwestern part of the state. The eastern section, however, was spared.

Trophies Are Presented Cheesemen

240 In Attendance At Annual Dinner Campbellford Board

(By Staff Reporter.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 7.—Success in numbers embarrassed the executive of the Campbellford Cheese Board as they oversold the accommodation for their annual banquet here on Saturday night in the Masonic Temple. About 240 men and women of Northumberland and Peterborough Counties were seated, and the overflow of sixty-five others were refunded their money.

The cheese industry of the district represented by the factories selling on the local board has regained already a great deal of its old-fashioned unity of spirit and community of interest reflected by the highly inspirational affair of Saturday night. These intangible factors are regarded as an invaluable atmosphere in which the problems of cheesemaking can be approached for deliberation, and also as a healthy sign among the cheese factory patrons, now one of the strongest organizations in the dairy branch of Ontario agriculture.

The featured speaker of the long evening from 8 o'clock until nearly midnight was R. H. Mayberry of Ingersoll, vice-president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, who was a delegate to the Empire Trade and Marketing Conference at Sydney last spring. His address was an informal travelogue, focussing his recollections on the dairy industry in Australia and New Zea-

Japanese Aim Drive At Yochow

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7 (A.P.).—Japanese forces were reported attacking Chinese positions along the border of Hunan Province to-day preparatory to a drive into the hitherto untouched territory where General Chiang Kai-Shek has concentrated the backbone of his defences.

The invaders were advancing up the Yangtse River from Hankow, as well as overland, aiming at Yochow, 122 miles from the former provisional capital.

Yochow is on the Canton-Hankow Railway and the Yangtse at the entrance of the 3,000 square mile Lake Tungting.

One Japanese column was reported to have captured Tsungyang, 55 miles north-east of Yochow, while another was said by the Japanese to have taken Wulipao, 25 miles to the north-east, killing 400 Chinese.

The Chinese admitted they had lost an entire battalion in an attempt to halt Japanese bayonet assaults on Lachu Mountain, near the Hunan border.

Hong Kong despatches, meanwhile, said the Chinese were preparing for a major counter-offensive in South China in an effort to retake Canton, which fell to the Japanese on October 21.

Speech Made By Hitler Is Used By Cardinal To Champion Rights

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 7.—(AP).—Michael Cardinal Faulhaber used a speech by Chancellor Hitler to support a Sunday sermon championing "The God-given rights of personality," the freedom of the indiv. tual."

"Your personal rights must be defended at all costs," the Cardinal told 5,000 persons.

Touching upon one of the Nazis' main theories, that the community is first before the individual, the Cardinal explained this should not be interpreted as an anti-State attitude, and remarked upon the satisfaction with which he greeted a speech by Hitler at the Nuremberg party rally Sept. 12.

Hitler said Germany's greatest assets were her creative personalities, and the Cardinal interpreted this to mean recognition of the rights of personality.

Four Are Killed In Auto Crashes

(By The Canadian Press)

TORONTO, November 7—(CP).—Six accidental deaths were recorded in Ontario at the week-end. Three persons were killed in automobile mishaps and a boy fatally injured when knocked from his bicycle. One man was crushed under a pile of steel ingots and one man was run over by a freight train.

Cranes had to be used to lift 55 tons of steel ingots from the body of Mike Halata, killed Sunday when a pile of metal fell on him in a Hamilton steel plant. He was the father of four children.

Coroner Dr. Charles Powell will open an inquest into the death of John Walter Evans, 69, who was killed at Beardmore when run over by a freight train that started to move as he crawled beneath it. Police said Evans and his wife had been waiting for the train to move before the man tried to crawl under it.

Carrier Boy Fatally Hurt.

James Weidendrof, 14-year-old newspaper carrier boy, died nine hours after he suffered head injuries when knocked from his bicycle by an automobile allegedly driven by Harold McInnes at Hanover.

Struck by an automobile as they stood on a road near the outskirts of Windsor repairing a flat tire, John Reeves of Detroit was killed and Winnifred Webster, 17-year-old Windsor girl, was seriously injured. Alphonse Bassett of Windsor was held by police on a reckless driving charge.

Returning from a dance, Harold E. Potton, 27, of McGillivray Township, was killed when his automobile crashed into a guard railing on a bridge near Ailsa Craig. George Craig, 40-year-old farmhand, was killed when struck by an automobile as he walked on Highway No. 81 near Springbank village, 10 miles north of Strathroy.

Boy Pulls Fire Alarm So That Police Would Put Him Away

Toronto, Nov. 7.

A 15-YEAR-OLD BOY rang in a false alarm last night because he wanted to be "put away." He told Sergeant Oswald Brown at Dundas Street West police Station he had been reprimanded by his mother for going out with girls.

The boy pulled a box at Dundas and Sumach streets and stood in front of it until the fire trucks arrived. "I pulled the box," he told District Chief William Henderson.

Police warned the boy a repetition of his misdeed would land him in juvenile court. He was allowed to go home.

Port Hope Native Dies In Croydon

Mrs. Preston, a native of Port Hope, Ont., had lived with her husband in Croydon, London suburb, since 1931.

Mrs. Preston was 95 and a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harris, members of a United Empire Loyalist family who settled at Port Hope. Mr. and Mrs. Preston celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary this year.

Survivors also include two daughters, Mrs. G. J. Allen and Mrs. Ernest Alexander, London, England, and a son, H. J. Preston of Toronto.

The seat was vacated by the death of Fred Betts, Conservative.

Dr. Manion seeks entry to the House of Commons to direct the national Conservative party there. He was elected to the party's leadership last July. From 1917 to 1935 he was a member of the Commons but was defeated in Fort William in the last general election. In the next general election he will return to his old constituency to seek a seat, he has said.

His Second Attempt

It is Mr. Hall's second bid. In 1935 he ran fourth in a field of seven in London. He had 3,041 votes to Mr. Bett's 10,911. Acceding to the expressed wish of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, London Liberals decided not to enter the contest.

J. S. Woodsworth, national C.C.F. leader, is aiding Mr. Hall in a vigorous campaign. Meetings are being held nightly. Dr. Manion has no public meetings scheduled in London, although he will spend the time between now and Nov. 14 in London and Waterloo South ridings.

Soviet Russia Comes Of Age; Fear War In '41

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP)—Soviet Russia came "of age" today, the 21st anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution, with one high party official predicting conflict with Germany in late 1941 unless workers of the world unite against Fascism.

Georgi Dimitroff, secretary general of the Communist International, made the prediction in an article in the anniversary edition of the Communist newspaper Pravda.

Addressing a celebrating audience of Bolshevists at Bolshoi opera house, Vyacheslaff Molotoff, chairman of the people's commissars, in similar vein declared the "second Great War" already had begun, undeclared, and was being fought from Gibraltar to Shanghai.

The two declarations gave the theme toward preparedness exemplied by the troop, tank, and artillery parade for today. The armed forces will parade past the national leader, Joseph Stalin, stationed atop the tomb of Nikolai Lenin, leader and venerated hero of the revolution. (Leon Trotsky, a key figure in the revolution, now lives in exile in Mexico.)

Answer To Munich

Foreign circles here considered the Dimitroff article an answer to the Munich conference of the premiers of Italy, Germany, Great Britain and France who agreed to the partition of Czechoslovakia, Russian ally.

Dimitroff referred to the "policy of war-like agreement between the Fascist aggressors and the imperialist cliques of England and France."

"The reactionary English and French bourgeoisie," he said, had given Chancellor Hitler of Germany an extraordinary, strategic position.

Unless world workers got busy, he said, Germany was in position to attack Hungary next spring, then Poland, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria, France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Switzerland to prepare for a final smash toward the Soviet Union "in the autumn of 1941."

"Nothing can be accomplished with mere pacific declarations," Dimitroff said. "Active opposition against armed Fascism is necessary to show the mailed fist of the people."

Commissar Molotoff, in his opera house address, said the Soviet was strong and ready "to answer every blow of the aggressor in the east or west with a double or triple blow."

U.S. To Elect 32 Governors

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP).—The oratory and the blaring bands of an exciting election campaign faded into the background to-day while party workers took over the vital but unspectacular task of getting out the vote.

They wanted to obtain a record "off-year" turnout to-morrow of 40,000,000 men and women in the United States. Good weather was expected to aid them, for although a cool snap was moving east, a clear day was forecast for much of the country.

Amid the valedictories which ended months of political turbulence, the belief prevailed in both major parties that Republicans would make congressional gains for the first time since 1928.

Not even the most optimistic Republicans, however, hoped to overrun the huge Democratic majorities in Senate and House of Representatives. Their avowed goal was to cut them down as much as possible. They forecast Democratic losses of a half dozen or more Senate seats and of 75 or 80 in the House.

Turnover Of 25 to 50 Seats.

Democratic Chairman James Farley called such a prediction absurd, although he said it "would be idle to deny" some Democratic House members would lose. Most prominent Democrats figure the House turnover at 25 to 50 and concede two or three Senators and as many Governors to the Opposition.

Although the voters in 47 States will choose 35 Senators, 432 representatives, 32 governors and a host of state and county officials, Maine voted in September, re-electing its Republican governor and three Republican representatives.

In the noisy and colorful national campaign, both sides alike acknowledged the new deal to be the principal issue—an issue on which the Democratic party rolled up ever-increasing victories in the last three elections.

Falls Off Cannon Suffers Bruises

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Nov. 7.—An unfrotunate accident happened to little Teddie Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norma Wilson, while playing near the small guns near the war memorial. One of them fell on the little boy. Dr. Carr Harris was called and the child was taken to Peterborough, but it was ascertained there that he was not badly hurt, but shaken and bruised.

I.O.D.E. Head Buried

TORONTO, Nov. 7—(CP)—Funeral services were held Friday for Mrs. Sarah Williams Greene, formerly an active worker in the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire and native of Goderich, who died here Tuesday. Mrs. Greene was a past member of the Dominion board of the I.O.D.E.

Business Taken Turn For Better In U.S

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (C.P.).—Business has taken a decided turn for the better in the United States and indications point to a continued upswing, Miss Frances Perkins, Labor Secretary in the Roosevelt Administration, said in an address before the Women's Canadian Club of Toronto to-day.

Emphasizing "the great recovery strides which have been made since 1933," the lone woman member of the United States Cabinet cited employment gains of more than 640,000 in private industry from June to September of this year as evidence of the up-trend.

"Taking in all non-agricultural occupations, some 35,000,000 men and women were at work last June, a gain of 9,000,000 since the spring of 1933 and only slightly over 1,000,000 less than in the peak prosperity year of 1929," Miss Perkins said. "The weekly payrolls of factory workers alone totalled $134,300,000, a gain of $61,600,000 since the spring of 1935, and within $75,000,000 of the average of 1929.

Public construction also was beginning to increase in step with the new Public Works Administration program.

Miss Perkins enumerated social legislation passed since President Roosevelt took office, listing the Social Security, National Labor Relations, and Fair Labor Standards Acts.

The real benefits of this legislation "are not confined to one group of our economic order," she added, "but are and will be shared in by management, farmers, and investors throughout an increase in the purchasing power of so many of our people and the increased stability of our social and economic life."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, November 7—(CP).—Calves, sheep and lambs traded at steady prices on Toronto Livestock Market to-day. Trade was dull on killing steers and heifers with sales too few to establish prices. Butcher cows and stockers were fairly active at about steady prices. No hog price was set by early afternoon. Cattle holdover from Thursday was 300 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 3,970; calves, 1,420; hogs, 1,630; sheep and lambs, 3,420.

Cattle receipts included 1,370 from the West. Good cows brought $3.50 to $3.75, with canners and cutters from $2 to $2.50. A few good bulls made $4 to $4.10, bolognas, $3.25 to $3.50. Common store cattle moved at $4, with good up to $5.25. Stocker calves were $5.50.

Choice veal calves were priced at $9.50 to $10, with some tops at $10.50. Heavy Westerns went at $5 to $5.75. Grass calves were $4.50 to $4.75.

Previous close on off truck bacon hogs was $8.15 to $8.25.

Good ewe and wether lambs delivered by rail made $7.75 with one load at $7.90. Off-truck lambs were $7.50. Heavies and bucks were discounted $1 cwt. Sheep ranged from $2 to $4 cwt.

Following a slow start and an uncertain price action, the tone improved in the early afternoon and quotations were advanced moderately in spots. Mining shares posted narrow index gains at noon.

Hudson Bay advanced to 34¼ and Nickel and Noranda added minor fractions and in the gold list Chesterville, Hollinger, Powell-Rouyn and East Malartic were heavy traders at price gains.

The shares of Lamaque Gold Mines were listed to-day and were quoted at $7 bid and $7.75 asked.

Steel, food and beverage shares were the first of the industrial groups and the western oils showed no changes greater than a cent or two. Okalta was off 2 to 1.16.

BACON-HOG MARKETS

TORONTO, November 7—(CP).—Bacon-hog prices held steady at reporting markets to-day, with the exception of Brantford, where liveweights dropped 25 cents.

Liveweights. — Brantford, $7.75; Hull, $7.75; Peterborough, $7.90.

Dressedweights. — Hull, $10.60; London, $10.20; Kitchener, $10; Peterborough, $10.55; Stratford, $10.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7—(CP).—General lack of interest and lower overseas markets were chief factors in causing Winnipeg wheat futures to ease fractionally to-day. At the end of the drab session, prices were ⅛ to ¼ cent lower, November 56⅞, December 65⅝b, May 60 to 60⅛ and July 60¾a.

Continued poor Canadian wheat export sales proved a weighty influence. Routine operations accounted for most of the small business, though minor covering was reported on late Chicago firmness.

Liverpool sagged ⅝ to ½d with light sales prompted by favorable United States winter wheat moisture reports. Traders, believing the United Kingdom would make further wheat purchases to increase food storages, appeared to have no confidence in the market.

We Noticed

....Sunshine that bathed in beauty the gleaming, coin-shaped leaves of Lombardy poplars . . . the still brilliant fronds of occasional sumach bows, and softly lit the mellow and misty plumage of graceful willows that stood, in splendid silhouette, against the startling blue of Bay of Quinte water . . . or caught for a ruby-red instant the forgotten apple that still clings to fruit trees that once hung heavy with lusciousness.

✧ ✧ ✧

....And as golden sunlight began to wane, leaving in its wake an ever-changing, pearly radiance in delicate tints one sees in the lining of sea shells, we turned homeward into the light of the moon which, until now unnoticed, was rivaling the Western beauty of the skies, flooding with silver the valleys and pine-topped hills of our own Peterborough County that even in its solemn and melancholy drabness of late Autumn, has an appeal which Picton County, with all its glory of later foliage, has somehow missed.

Fine Address Given By Mrs. W. G. Davis

The Fall thank-offering meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Paul's Presbyterian church was held on Friday evening, November 4. The president, Mrs. Carley, presided, and opened the meeting with the call to worship, using the 24th Psalm. After the singing of a hymn, Mrs. Steinkrauss, president of the Ladies' Aid, read the 54th Chapter of St. Matthew, and Dr. A. T. Barr led in the prayer of devotion.

Members of the Mission Band, under the leadership of Mrs. Hagerman, sang a delightful number, "Pray, Give, and Go," delivering its own message, "O Pray, Speed the Message on its way," and the South End Mission Band, under the leadership of Mrs. Chapin, sang a hymn during the thank offering, taken by members of the Girls' Guild. The offertory prayer was given by Miss Mary Grier, president of the Young Women's Auxiliary.

Mrs. H. Morgan introduced the speaker, Mrs. W. G. Davis, who, with Mr. Davis, was dedicated several years ago in St. Paul's Church, and have carried in a wonderful work since that time in Manchuria.

Mrs. Davis prefaced her delightful illustrated address by acknowledging very graciously personal remembrances from members of St. Paul's, country, and pictures of nurses. She showed beautiful pictures of the teachers, and Bible women, all very bright and intelligent looking native people. She emphasized that fact that these people of Manchuria were not at all happy in their own religion, but become very happy after becoming Christians. She described the Christian Manchurian as being possessed with Christian courage against bitter discouragements. Mrs. Rowan ably expressed the thanks of the gathering to Mrs. Davis. Miss Elizabeth Walker very kindly operated the lantern for the lecture.

Miss Ivy James sang very sweetly "My Task," accompanied by Mrs. Adam Sands, who also accompanied the Mission Band numbers. Mrs. Barrie presided at the piano for the hymns. Mrs. Carley thanked all who had assisted in making the meeting a success, and invited everyone to remain for a social hour at the close. After the closing hymn Mrs. James Dutton pronounced the benediction. Refreshments were served by the social committee, Mrs. Burrell and Mrs. Marsh, assisted by members of the Muriel Davis Auxiliary.

Marjorie Hall Given Surprise Party

In honor of her birthday, Miss Marjorie Hall was given a surprise party on Saturday night at her home on Park street, when a delightful evening of dancing and games were enjoyed.

Guests included: The Misses S. Timm, H. Russell, E. Laws, D. Simmonds, M. Whatman, Maye Lambert, P. Bassett, A. Pilling, N. Hall, and Mrs. A. Hall; Messrs E. Hall, T. Maudsley, G. Powell, Leo Bosely, Jim Post, Steve Benz, Frank Revere, H. Morris, J. Foskett and Mr. A. Hall.

L.O.L. Supper Is Decided Success

The annual fifth of November supper of L.O.L. No. 321, held Friday evening at Downer's Corners, was a decided success, and about three hundred sat down to the banquet tables, which were under the able convenorship of Mrs. A. Pilling and Mrs. E. Richardson, assisted by their committee.

Following the supper a splendid variety concert, arranged by Mrs. L. R. Groombridge, was held in the concert hall. Under the chairmanship of Mr. A. Pilling, the program included: An opening address by Rev. C. C. Boyter on Guy Fawkes night; a selection by the Philharmonic Choir; tap numbers and singing by Lenore Gordon, who was enthusiastically applauded; an amusing description of "Albert and the Lion" by Jim Sharpe; several solos by choir members; a solo by Tommy Parker, who was another favorite with the audience.

Frost—Graham

In a quiet ceremony performed at ten o'clock on Saturday morning in the Baptist Church parsonage, Fenelon Falls, Catherine Ann, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Graham, Fenelon Falls, was united in marriage to Harold Austin Frost, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frost, 550 Sherbrooke Street, Peterborough. Rev. W. W. Fleischer officiated.

The bride, who was unattended, was frocked in midnight blue velvet with matching hat, navy shoes and gloves, and wore a corsage of Sweetheart roses and lily of the valley.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Frost left on a wedding trip to North Bay and other points, the bride travelling in a grey coat over a wine wool suit, and wearing navy accessories. On their return they will reside at 210 London Street.

McDonald—Whitmore

COTTESLOE, Nov. 7. — A very quiet wedding took place in Norwood United Church parsonage on Saturday afternoon at 4.30, when Mary Alberta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Whitmore, Apsley, became the bride of Ronald Johnson McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. McDonald. Rev. Mr. Robinson officiated

The bride was attired in navy pile velve with matching accessories. She was attended by the groom's sister, Margaret McDonald, who wore brown alpaca with green accessories. The groom was attended by Clifford Irwin of Keene.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to Peterborough, where a wedding supper was served at the Empress Hotel.

Bulbs Are Easy to Plant

Of all garden subjects, the bulbs are probably the easiest to plant and the most certain to bloom. It is almost impossible to plant the modern bulbs without some kind of success when spring rolls around.

Because they are so obliging, however, does not mean that they should be planted without regard to their likes and dislikes. The tiny scilla bulbs should manifestly not be planted so deep as the huge narcissus bulb. When beginning operations, consult a shart of planting depths, or read carefully the directions on the package, making sure that bulbs of each type are planted about the same depth, so that they will appear simultaneously in the spring.

A good rule to follow when in doubt, is to plant on the deep side. In other words less harm will be done from planting too deep, than to shallow. In the case of the imperial and candidum lilies, the converse is true, and these giant bulbs, which appear to want at least 6 inches, need but a scant 3 inches.

Tulips will burrow through 18 inches, but 5 to 6 inches is the proper planting depth. The crocus, snowdrop and scilla should be planted 2 to 3 inches below the soil. The lilies need the deepest planting. The candidums can go a full foot deep with good results. The distance apart is a matter of preference, although 5 inches should be the minimum.

Drainage is an important part of any bulb planting, and every precaution should be taken to avoid standing water, or over-soaked beds, which will cause rotting of the bulbs. In cases where doubt arises as to what will occur during the wet days of early spring, or where the soil is particularly heavy, raise the bed about 6 inches from the level of the garden.

Bulbs do not need a very rich soil, as they have considerable food stored up in themselves. An application of plant food will, however, help them to produce bigger flowers. Do not apply a barnyard manure, as they have a particular aversion to it.

To Be Popular And Succeed In Life, If You Are a Woman You Must Be a Woman's Woman, For Then Only Will You Appeal To Men

THE other day a foolish young girl boasted that she was "a man's woman." "I hate women," she declared, "and they don't like me. A woman's best friend is always a man."

"Ah," I replied, "that's where you are mistaken. A woman's best friend is always a woman. Never a man. The only unselfish friendship a woman ever gets she receives from another woman. A man's friendship always has a price-tag on it.

"Men are fair-weather friends to women. As long as you are young and pretty, gay and amusing, you will have plenty of men friends. Let trouble come your way and your men friends will just fade out of the picture. They will send you a bunch of flowers from the florist and leave a card with 'Sincerest sympathy' written on it at your door. Or maybe one or two more generous than the rest will lend you a little money once or twice, and that will be the end of your masculine friendships.

"Men have a morbid horror of sorrow and tears and they shun them whenever they can. So the very lads who used to spend hours in your jolly room listening to funny stories will not come near you when you have a tale of woe to tell. It is only women who go and sit by their sick friends' bedsides, or let those who have known a great grief weep out their hearts on their breasts. Long after a man's office door is shut tight and fast against poor old Mrs. Murphy with her bundle of troubles, his wife's is wide open to her.

"It is women who help other women. Not men. It is Sadie or Mamie who tips you off that they want a model just your size at the Specialty Shop, or hears that the stenographer at Blank's is getting married and that they are looking for some one to take her place. But you will wait a thousand years for the boy friend to tip you off to a good job.

"It is your women friends who are first aids to matrimony and help you to a good husband. No sooner is Ethel married and established in a cozy little apartment or a vine-wreathed bungalow than she begins a campaign to marry off all of her girl friends. She tows in all of her husband's eligible friends and relatives to little dinners at which Sadie and Mamie are also present. She sings the paeans of Sadie's and Mamie's charms and virtues so convincingly that before they know it she has sold the unsuspecting lads the idea of matrimony with the said young ladies. If you don't believe that women help other women get married, just notice how often the women-hating women are old maids!

"Another reason why a woman makes a mistake in disparaging her own sex is because she is thereby cutting her own throat, socially speaking. For in America at least, women give most of the parties, and when they turn thumbs down on a girl she is out. A girl may think that because she is popular with men she can afford to be snippy and rude to women, but that is where she guesses wrong.

"It is some woman who makes out all the invitation lists and decides who is to be asked to the balls and the teas and the luncheons and the gay house parties. When she writes down the name of that adorable little Smith girl, who is always so sweet and courteous to the older women and who is such a favorite with the other girls, and leaves out the woman-hater, there is nothing that the woman-hater can do about it.

"But perhaps the greatest mistake of all that the girl makes who dislikes her sex and says that they dislike her is in thinking that it makes a hit with men. It doesn't. Quite the contrary. Men know that they don't understand women, but they also know that women can size up other women to the last hair on their heads. So, when they find that a girl is not popular with her sex, they are afraid of her. No matter how attractive she seems, they suspect that there is something wrong about her, and, while they may play about with her, they seldom marry her.

"And so," I said to the girl who boasted that she disliked women, "if you want to be popular with men, make yourself popular with women. They are not only your best standbys, but they also are your guarantors, because men have as little respect for a woman who is not liked by her sex as they have for a man who has no standing with other men."

Fashions

Match or contrast your jacket or skirt. It helps stretch your budget marvelously. Then mix the skirt with your favorite sweaters. You've endless variety. Nothing is smarter for school, college, office or suburban wear. Cardigan jacket and skirt gives the effect of a two-piece costume. You'll find it the most useful thing in your wardrobe. The tailored jacket and skirt is so casual for either town or country. Another attractive scheme is the skirt of Scoth plaid woolen with the cardigan neck jacket of black velveteen. Tie a scarf about your neck, knotted at front. You'll want the pattern for "keeps" to use again and again.

Style No. 2821 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material for skirt and short sleeved jacket; and 1½ yards of 54-inch material for long sleeved jacket.

Do You Know?

Permanent chipping and marring of fine enameled surfaces often comes from careless usage? Don't chip ice in the sink, and by all means avoid knocking the surface with heavy cooking utensils.

✧ ✧ ✧

That a washboard should always be washed and dried after using? This is particularly important to the life of one not rustproof. All, however, remain in better condition if thoroughly cleaned of soapy, soiled water each time used.

✧ ✧ ✧

Washable silk fabrics should be ironed while quite damp for best results? Instead of wringing or squeezing after rinsing, try absorbing as much excess water as possible between Turkish towels to avoid unnecessary creasing.

National Secretary Of Y.W.C.A. Passes

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Nov. 7.—(CP).—Miss Hadwig Dora Hobrecker, 56, Toronto, national executive secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, died in hospital here Sunday.

Miss Hobrecker, on her way home from a World Conference meeting at Spokane, Wash., had been visiting branches of the "Y" across the West. She was stricken while journeying here from Flin Flon, Man. An emergency operation was performed.

Born in Halifax, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hobrecker, she attended Dalhousie University.

Eight years ago Miss Hobrecker became the national executive secretary for Canada and made her home in Toronto.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Robert Schaurman of Westmont, Que., Mrs. G. F. Johnson of New York City and Mrs. Alexander Laird of Kingston, Ont., and two brothers, A. R. and O. H. Hobrecker, both of Halifax.

A funeral service will be conducted by Ven. Archdeacon G. H. Holmes here this afternoon and the body taken by train to Halifax for interment.

SERVICE DELUXE

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Nov. 7.—(AP).—An automobile running out of control literally delivered its injured occupants into the hands of a doctor. The machine smashed over a curb yesterday and struck the front porch of Dr. Edward M. Mograt's home in such a manner that it pinned the doorbell so that it rang continuously. Dr. Mograt treated two men in the car for cuts and bruises.

Only One Answer

Hundreds of people in London, Ont., addressed petitions to Judge Wearing asking that leniency be shown two young men who had been brought to trial for armed robbery. They had gone into a gas station and with the use of weapons had forced the attendant to hand over $51.

The number of people who made appeals for leniency was impressive, and they all urged that the young men had previous good records and had never been in trouble before. They were actually first offenders.

When the sentence of three years in the penitentiary together with lashes was announced the mothers of the boys and other relatives had trouble enough. Some of them collapsed under the strain and had to be helped from the room.

Often enough first offenders do receive consideration at the hands of the court, but in this case the first offenders had stepped at once into what is major crime—the use of weapons for the purpose of robbery.

If the attendant at the gas station had resisted, the weapons might have been brought into use. That is why they were carried. That is the way it works often enough. If the threat of the gun does not produce the expected results then the next step is taken and the gun comes into action.

One can understand the feelings of friends and associates who had known these young men for years, and yet before the court was the stubborn fact that they had carried weapons when committing a robbery. They had threatened a man's life. That is what the judge had to keep in mind and that is why he added the lash to the sentence. He would find no personal pleasure in it but he was keeping the law pointing in such a way that it was unalterably opposed to the use of weapons. And we do not see how the law can take any other position.

Selling On Sunday

The Legal Committee of the City Council of which Ald. G. N. Gordon is chairman, considered amendments to the existing bylaw governing eating places. Ald. Gordon believed there were some places which should be "crimped" as they were enjoying privileges of Sunday selling which they did not deserve. We believe there is something to be said for the word and the idea behind it.

There is a good deal which passes under the protecting word "food" which actually has no place there, and it has a direct bearing on Sunday selling. There must be a number of citizens who have wondered why it is that certain places in the city are allowed to sell a variety of things on Sunday when they do nothing in the way of preparing a meal or offering some such similar service which might be considered necessary.

A blue-law interpretation of Sunday selling would serve no good purpose, but the Legal Committee is working on something which needs clarifying. There is always the insistence of those to be dealt with who wish to take advantage so they may have an added day's business in the week, and the revamped bylaw should point its finger at them.

A Miserable Act

There is not much to be said at any time for people who steal cars and abandon them. Far less to be said for those who stole a car belonging to George Kaufmann of Aylmer and then wrecked it by shoving it over the cliff at Port Burwell.

Tracks show they had stopped at the edge of the cliff and turned off the ignition. Possibly they stopped there because there was no more gas in the car. Then the thieves shoved the car to the edge of the cliff and toppled it over for the plunge down to the bottom.

We don't know anything about Mr. Kaufmann of Aylmer; never heard of him before. But if he is just an average citizen then the wrecking of his car will be a nasty enough thing for him to face. Most men have only one car and in nearly all cases they have found it hard enough to finance. It might take half a year's work to replace the car.

It would be interesting but not particularly delightful to have an explanation as to why thieves wanted to wreck that car. People who would do that would willingly go ahead with something worse, so we're hoping the officers get the crooks who shoved a car over a cliff. It would be much better if they were out of circulation.

No Other Place

Dr. Donald Fletcher, superintendent of the Whitby Ontario Mental Hospital, appeared at an inquest where inquiry was being made into the cause of death of an elderly patient who had passed away 26 hours after being admitted to the institution. Dr. Fletcher is reported as having said that most of the elderly patients should never have been sent to the institution.

Probably the superintendent has good enough reasons for making that claim, but it does not seem to cover the situation. There are certain formalities which must be met before one can be admitted to an Ontario mental hospital. There must be agreement on the part of medical men in the first place regarding the need for treatment, and there must be arrangements made with the institution itself before admission is granted.

If a person advanced in years and suffering from mental illness is to be properly cared for then we know of no other institutions at our disposal for the treatment of such cases.

Belgium's Two-Quart Law

Apparently there is no country which has hit upon the ideal system of handling its drink problem. Ontario went as near dry as possible a few years ago, and then we turned to a course which makes us well over in the wet column. United States amended its constitution to enter the dry column—theoretically. Its Volstead plan did not work and since then the republic is wet.

Belgium turned its attention to the matter, and the plan of Emile Vandervelde was centered around the "two-quart law." His idea was that by such a plan people would take their beer or other drink home and do away with bootlegging.

Apparently it has not worked that way and now Belgium faces a movement to repeal its two-quart law. Instead of doing away with bootlegging it is claimed there are 200,000 bootleggers in the country now. In one village of 1,000 persons there are reported to be 47 speakeasies. The reason is that there were and are many people who did not wish to buy as much as two quarts to take home. The bootlegger flourishes by selling a pint. The claim is also made that a person complying with the two-quart law was often purchasing more than he desired.

Back of all this there is undoubtedly the desire for more revenue on the part of the government which sees too much of the profit going to the bootleggers. So Belgium will be added to the rather long list of places which have experimented with control only to find it was not getting the results expected.

As It Was On The Tenth

When it came to the first of November it used to be considered on the Tenth Concession that a person was a little shiftless if he had not banked up the house. Banking up was a simple process by which sod or earth was piled and packed around the outside at the foundation to keep the draft out in the winter time. That first of November date was a fixture just about the same as the tradition that there would be no frost after the tenth of June and on that account the 24th of May was regarded as the right time to plant potatoes.

When there was a late fall the folk used to talk a good deal about the prospects of an open winter, and if there was no cold weather coming along in November then they used to recite and rehearse the rigors and hardships of other winters. It seemed they had to have their fill of cold weather even if they did go back and fetch it from the days of their grandfathers.

This time of year seemed to lend itself to conversation of that sort. In the evenings the women would often enough be attending to fixing the apples for drying or often enough they would be weaving the corn husks into floor mats. Grandfather generally sat beside the kitchen range although he would be in the way when it came time to put another lot of sliced apples in the drying racks which were suspended over the range from the ceiling.

But it was when the senior member of the Farquhars or Patons would drop in that the weather received most attention. They had been living longest on the Tenth and the fact that grandfather had settled there in 1852 did not make him the last word when it came to local history. Others had been there before and there had been winters in those prior years the like of which had never been seen since. There had been the winter of '49 and that was a tough one. There were two days when it was not possible to reach the barn and then when the way was finally opened most of the few animals there were part frozen. The details of how they got the cow thawed out were never exactly the same; they varied a good deal according to the times and conditions under which they were told.

The trouble was to try and dig a path from the house in any direction as the snow was away higher than the door, and when one started to dig there was no place to put the stuff unless it were to be thrown back in the house. Getting the ears and nose frozen was so common that the pioneers used to think it was just as well to leave them in that condition until the spring thaw actually came as the continued freezing and thawing was found injurious. It was not easy to find a hard winter story which would succeed in getting a prize when the competition was on as the neighbors sat and spun tales of those fearful winters of away back.

When it was mentioned that last winter the lane was blocked and that in order to get as far as the Broken Front road it had been necessary to take down the rail fence and go through Bremner's field of winter wheat that was ruled out as ordinary. In former winters the roads were blocked and they stayed blocked. If one were sick he'd have to wait until the spring before the doctor could come out to see him. Eggs were frozen in those winters between the time a hen cackled and some person ran out to gather up the egg. When the neighbors gathered about the kitchen range of an evening to discuss the prospects for winter weather it always ended up the same, and the grand old winters of '49 or '52 were parded in all their glory and undiminished fury.

Japan's Daring Policy

One would hardly need to be a student of foreign affairs to see that Japan has one immediate objective in view in the conquest of China. There have been frequent references to it in the despatches and they all tell the story of Japan's expansion of trade following close upon the heels of its invading army. Other nations which formerly carried on business there find that rivers are closed and ports are not to be entered.

United States is feeling the change, and so is Britain and also France. As soon as Japan comes into possession of a new city or district then Japanese goods are placed on sale and the people have to buy them because in many cases it is reported no others are offered. When the great city of Canton fell to the Japanese the same thing happened. Ships bearing Japanese goods entered almost at once and they had been loaded and despatched from home ports some time before and were waiting for the fall of the city. Foreign vessels are not allowed to enter. Japan wants a monopoly.

The result is that factories and workers in Japan are going to be kept busy, and that in turn will make the military party in Japan stronger than ever. It also means that other nations which have previously sold goods there are not going to get orders and their workers will suffer.

Another effect of this policy is plain enough. If Japan had one thing to fear it was the falling off of her exports. Nations were not buying much; there was no open boycott but it would not take much to advance the feeling to that point. A loss of export trade would have struck Japan in the place where that nation is weak. But her new policy of taking over for her own benefit the buying power of millions of Chinese is going to remove the fear that other nations would cease buying from Japan.

United States, Britain and France may protest if they desire to do so, but Japan knows they will take no further action. Meanwhile Japan is working out a daring but apparently successful system to include millions of people in a group which will buy from her because they are forced to do so.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A woman who died in England at the age of 108 years had never seen the sea. Strange, but there are plenty of people in Ontario who have never seen Niagara Falls.

A Russian woman, a locomotive engineer, has been named a director of the railway. Just what she will do is not stated, but in the olden days she would probably have had charge of the switches.

We continue to live in a world of big figures. The crisis in Czechoslovakia cost Britain $27,500,000 and not a shot was fired, and the announcement comes from Washington that U.S. farmers since the depression of 1929 have lost $19,700,000,000 in income.

United States railways at the suggestion of Washington, will not press for a 15 per cent. decrease in the wages of nearly a million employees. The railways in turn expect financial assistance to the extent of about a billion dollars from the government. Then the government in turn will have to take that amount of money from the people. It's a great system as long as it can be made to work.

CONFESSION

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I'm glad all folks are not like me, a sorry place this would would be, I find that out each day; so many things that should be done, I pass them over one by one, I leave them and delay.

¶ When grass grows in the merry spring, it puts on height like everything, the mower will not go; it's dull as any hoe could be, a thing that was long known to me, but I just left it so.

¶ And when the fall comes on in turn, I know the furnace will not burn, the grates have fallen through; I did not go when days were fine, when furnace men had lots of time, and little else to do.

¶ I left it off until the last, when cheerful days were well nigh past, I knew that I was late; and then I rush to tell the man, he'll have to move as fast he can, and find I have to wait.

¶ Red underwear I know I'll need, last winter's kind has gone to seed, I'll 'tend to that some time; I'll wait until the north winds blow, until there comes some ice and snow, and cold beats on my spine.

¶ And when I go to catch a train, I do my business much the same, and get the hour all wrong; I think perhaps I better run, and then I find when I have come—the train has up and gone.

Racing Pigeons Keen to Be Home

DR. WILLIAM WELTMAN, who races pigeons from his rooftop at 45 St. Marks Place, New York, has confided the tricks that bring pigeons home flying.

Dr. Weltman, who has been raising and racing pigeons for ten years, says the birds hurry home for three reasons: 1, it's in their blood, the blood of generations of homing birds selected and bred by fanciers since before Julius Caesar; 2, they like home; and 3, they have a special reason for hurrying back.

That reason, we regret to say, results from downright trickery by their owners.

Here's one instance: Anton Heuvelmans, friend of Dr. Weltman, won a thousand-mile race in 1918 with a cock named 81694 which flew from Tampa, Florida, to New York in three days. Of course, he didn't have to stop for traffic lights or keep a weather eye out for cops. Still, he would never have flown five hundred miles a day if he had not thought his young were starving. He got that idea from Mr. Heuvelmans.

Several days before the race, he had craftily set up the pigeon in housekeeping. Two days before the race, he kidnapped the hen bird and let the father struggle to feed the young alone. All the way on the train to Tampa, that bird worried about his young and, as soon as he was released, he rushed back, fast enough to win for his owner. The poor bird never learned from experience either. He raced home from Tampa five times in the next few years, placing first three times and second twice.

If you think the hen would have come home faster than the cock, you are mistaken. She hurries faster to reach her eggs than her young. So owners try to plan so that their racing hens have eggs to bring them back quickly.

If these wiles fail, they may resort to jealousy. To make a racing cock jealous, Dr. Weltman has often put a strange cock in with the racer's hen. The doctor usually lets the two cocks fight the night he plans to ship the racer to the flight headquarters. At the end of the battle, he grabs the victorious racer and ships him, still green with jealousy. He comes home fast, too.

Pigeons begin racing when four months old. Around August 1, this spring's squabs will find their way home from Wilmington, Delaware—a hundred miles. After a week's rest, they will race a hundred and fifty miles. By October 1, the seven-month-old youngsters will fly here from Salisbury, North Carolina—five hundred miles.

Dr. Weltman says his birds fly on schedule like trains. If they are released from Wilmington at 9 o'clock, they will pull into their home loft at 11 a.m. on the dot—a straggling group with the leader perhaps only a few yards ahead of the van. That means they average fifty miles an hour. Some racers, of course, make hay of such records. Bird No. 301 flew a hundred miles in an hour and a half, flying faster than a mile a minute.

Usually more than ninety out of a hundred birds return home safely. The others are shot by hunters or captured by hawks.

Pigeons see colors clearly. In the Army, they are kept in red, blue, or other brightly painted lofts which travel with the battalions. The pigeons find their own loft by its color even though it has been moved miles in their absence.

Although most birds fly only from dawn to dusk, some are being specially trained by the U.S. Army in its Panama Canal headquarters to fly at night. "Heavy weather" birds, with stronger wings and more oil on their feathers, can fly through teeming rain and gales that down other racers.

Though immune to man's bugs, pigeons cannot stand his drugs. So mild a drink as coffee kills them. Other drugs exhilarate them for several hours, then prostrate them. Because of this, it is useless to drug pigeons in the hope of speeding them up as they lose the exhilaration of the drug during the shipping.

To The Editor

TOWN HALL CORNER STONE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In reading the Examiner I have much enjoyed the interest you have shown in the history of Peterborough's olden days. I have often wondered what became of the corner stone of the old "Town Hall" as it was first named.

The building stood where the weighing scales are now on the market. It was built during the term of the first municipally elected mayor, Mr. Charles Hudson, when the town of Peterborough was incorporated in 1849. It was used, as we now use a community hall.

The civic office was in the upper flat and the larger part rented for public concerts, meetings and lectures etc. I remember, so well, attending a singing school held there by one Professor French.

Before the Salvation Army came to Peterborough the "Saved Army" held services there and on the street. Mr. Tanner occupied a store down stairs, he afterward moved to Hunter street and then to Lakefield.

I do not know in what year this building was burned, as my father moved out of Peterborough. The corner stone would likely have an inscription cut on it and not likely destroyed by the fire. If enquiries were made, the whereabouts of it might be found. It may possibly have been placed in some other civic building. Hoping you may find out about it.

—London Opinion

• Germans Admire Chamberlain

(Sir Hubert Gough in the London Times)

MAY I SEND YOU two extracts from letters written by Germans on the recent crisis? The first is written by a very distinguished German gentleman, who is much in the public eye.

"The terrible danger has now passed over, as far as we can see, and the whole world is relieved. Are there victors and vanquished at the now achieved solution? The fact is certain, that the moral victor is your admirable Prime Minister Chamberlain, and I must congratulate you and your country on possessing a statesman of such high qualities in these days, and such an admirable feeling of responsibility....The way seems now to be open for a friendly understanding between the two great nations, and I hope with you that we soon shall come to real peace and to a real friendship with the closely related England, which has always been the wish of all good and far-seeing Germans.

The second letter is translated as follows:

"What a week we have gone through. It is impossible to describe our mental suffering. One cannot express how despondent we felt, in view of what would inevitably ensue. One had no energy left for anything, one ate one's food mechanically, and devoted the whole time to listening to the radio. Never will I forget how in this despondent mood I got London on the radio on that Tuesday evening (September 27) just as Chamberlain's speech was being announced. We could hear his voice, clear and distinct, and the quiet way in which he spoke of all the sufferings which war would bring, and said that he would do his utmost up to the last to preserve peace. What we have to thank this man for, no one will ever forget who has gone through those weeks here."

PLAYING BOTH CAMPS.

(Windsor Daily Star)

MAYOR R. K. SERVISS of Galt has entered the South Waterloo by-election campaign as the official Mackenzie King Liberal candidate. He is praising Premier Hepburn of Ontario as the man who is needed at Ottawa.

That brings about one of the sweetest complexes imaginable in Canadian politics. The warfare between Prime Minister King and Premier Hepburn is open and intense. The Ontario premier has hurled many bitter charges against Mr. King, who has been more dignified in his replies, but quite emphatic.

Mr. Serviss says, and says correctly, that the railway problem should be tackled and solved. He does not think Mr. King has worked very hard towards a solution, but he adds that Mr. Hepburn is the kind of man who will solve the trouble.

That means that Mr. Serviss is looking for support from the Hepburn Liberals, and no doubt he expects to be suported by the King Liberals, too.

SPITE IN 1838.

(New York Sun)

THE LONDON TIMES daily turns back to its own files and those of other newspapers of a hundred years ago and there discovers evidence that times change, but that some patterns of human conduct are extraordinarily enduring. An extract from the Fife Herald of a century ago gives a teasing glimpse of an unidentified trouble-maker. John Law, a temperance advocate, delivered a lecture on total abstinence at Auchtermuchty and to lend emphasis to his remarks exhibited a small still in operation. On the morning after the lecture a supervisor and an excise officer called on Mr. Law, showed "the most perfect civility," told him that they were obliged to act because information had been lodged, and seized the still.

So far as can be told from the Herald's account the lecturer on total abstinence had no serious difficulty with the law, but he must have been annoyed. It was this that the unknown troublemaker hoped for, no doubt; it was a brief annoyance that he set as his utmost goal. Probably he took uncounted pains to make sure that a disliked lecturer would lose Exhibit A.

DESTROYING ORANGES.

(Los Angeles Times)

THE DESTRUCTION of some thousands of tons of edible oranges in Orange County because there is no market for them and no way for the growers to give them to needy persons points out another serious deficiency in our costly relief system.

It is true that these are not first or even second grade oranges. They classify officially as U.S. No. 3 grade, which is about the quality often sold from itinerant hucksters' wagons at 15 cents a bucketful. But there is a mighty lot of good food going to waste in the riverbed dumps near Santa Ana and Anaheim, and a good many undernourished children within trucking distance of this "river of oranges," now being soaked with oil preparatory to burning.

The growers and packers have no choice but to get rid of the unsalable fruit as best they can. But why it should go completely to waste when tax money is being spent in such quantities to relieve the hungry poor is a question for the relief administrators to answer.

NOT BOTTOMLESS.

(Farmer's Advocate)

THE OPINION is apparently entertained in the Overseas Dominions that the British market is a bottomless pit into which agricultural products can be dumped. That idea is getting farther and farther from the truth every year since the British Government is increasing production at home as a war-time safety measure and at the same time to create more buying power for the manufactured goods of the Home Land. It is a rather surprising fact that during last year industry in Great Britain sold goods worth £230,000,000 to people at home and exported goods to the value of only £180,000,000. Britain will buy where she can sell, and that is why non-Empire countries must have a place on the British market. Sooner or later the Dominions will have to get together and organize their export marketing.

A MILD WINTER?

(Winnipeg Tribune)

WHAT IS WRONG with the old-timers here? Why are they not trotting out their long-range forecasts, telling us whether it is going to be a long, hard Winter or a mild one?

While they are falling down on the job, hardy pioneers east and west have been watching the weather signs and rushing into print. In Regina recently eagle-eyed veterans saw geese flying South and then fly back North again. Their conclusion: The Winter will be a short and open one.

Out in old Ontario the chief of the Cayuga tribe observes that the hickory-nut crop this year has been light. His conclusion: The Winter is sure to be mild.

Let's hope they're right. But there is suspicion and more than suspicion that such long-range forecasting, based on scanty data, is unscientific. And even scientific weather prophecy is not always right.

A NEAR RECORD.

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

THE MOVEMENT in the six-day period, ended last Friday, of fifty million bushels of grain down-bound through the Welland ship canal constitutes a near record.

Of the total shipments, 46,356,000 bushels were consigned to the ports of Montreal and Quebec for transshipment to Great Britain and European countries. This tonnage was carried through the St. Lawrence canals by canal-sized boats, while upper lake ships transported grain to the elevators at Kingston and Oswego to be transferred to smaller ships.

Four American-owned vessels last week carried 1,422,340 bushels through this canal bound for Oswego while six Canadian-owned ships transported 1,789,800 bushels of grain through on their way in Kingston elevators.

SERVES THEM RIGHT.

(Minneapolis Journal)

PLAYING CARD manufacturers dropped fifty thousand dollars on five suit bridge cards, the New York Post says. Serves them jolly well right. Bridge was complicated enough for the 99, if not for the experts and the pros. Generations that made the jump from old fashioned whist to auction, and then to bridge, played all through with the same old deck. The conventions and the systems of modern bridge give an average mentality all that it wishes to wrestle with in the name of relaxation and social fun.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND OUT of the ground made the Lord God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil....And the Lord God commanded the man saying, of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die....Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made....And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her; and he did eat. And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked....And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day; and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God amongst the trees of the garden.—Gen. ii, 9, 16, 17; iii, 1, 4-7, 8.

VALUE OF RESEARCH

(Vancouver Province)

TO those who are sceptical of the value of research it is only necessary to repeat the story of Gladstone and Tyndall. Gladstone found time from his many administrative duties to attend a scientific lecture at which Tyndall illustrated a point by producing some electrical gadget. After the lecture, the rGand Olid Man stopped to examine the gadget more closely.

"Very interesting," was his comment, "but of what use is it?"

"If we can develop it a little further, sir," was the reply, "one of these days you may be able to tax it."

A Bit of Nonsense

HM-M!

The negro preacher happened to mention the Scriptural selection he intended to read the following Sunday. Some boys looked up the passage, and in a spirit of mischief, glued two of his pages together.

Accordingly, the following was read to the startled congregation:

"When Noah was 120 years old he took unto himself a wife who was" (then turning the page) "140 cubits long, 40 cubits wide, built of gopherwood and covered with pitch inside and out."

The preacher was very much puzzled and read the passage a second time, concluding with the remark: "Brethren, this is the first time I ever realized the truth of that verse where it says we are fearfully and wonderfully made."

AFRAID TO MARRY

By HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 41

IN THE BANK, in Judy's name, there still reposed the money, untouched, which her father had deposited to her credit. She had refused to accept the bankbook which belonged to the account. She had written no checks against it.

But now the man she loved was in danger, and pride was a foolish barrier to any help that she could give him. With money he could trace the mysterious man in the green fedora and plaid coat. With money—with a better shadow across the smooth oval of her face because money that should be so unimportant had such power to save, protect, or destroy, she said:

"If you want me to take the money still, I think it might buy lots of things I'd like."

Lots of things—Ronald's good name. His belief in humanity. His vision recaptured. The reward for which he had sacrificed in the lean, hungry years. Lots of things! Things of which her father and Mr. Heaton had no knowledge—for they had not come up through tribulation.

With the bankbook and a checkbook in her handbag, Judy hailed a taxicab and went to the courthouse. It took a little while to discover in which room Ronald's case was being tried. He was speaking as she looked through a crack in the door. An attendant motioned to her to come in, sit quietly, not interfere with the normal procedure of justice in the courts of the land. Justice! It was a misused word. She wanted to laugh and she was going to cry. But all she did, finally, was shake her head, give the bailiff a watery smile, and stand by the green brass-studded door as the case droned on.

How would she present the money? Would she be able to persuade Ronald that it was a friendly loan such as she would make to any friend in a crucial moment? He would reject a gift, but a loan was so different! It was purely a business proposition. A business proposition, prompted by love, but he must never know that. If he did, then he would push it from him firmly and go alone to seek his enemy. She must be gay, nonchalant, pretending that the trouble would be rooted soon and they would laugh together.

But what if he said: "Suppose I lose, Judy? What then? I can't pay you back for years!"

Then she would say: "But that's all right. Can't friends make gifts? What is friendship worth?"

And all of the time she would be repeating over and over in her heart, like you said silly rhymes that stuck and wouldn't go away: "Ronald, I love you. I love you! Don't pay me back! eLt me do this for you, just this! Because never again in the world will there be a time when I can help you."

Court adjourned. Ronald spoke to the judge a moment, picked up his case and hat from a nearby chair, and started through an inner door. She had thought he would use the main entrance. She did not know where the small door, through which he was passing, led, but she ran after him.

Someone called to her as she opened the gate that led to the small enclosure where witnesses waited to be summoned. She pretended that she did not hear. She followed Ronald. He was swinging down a dim corridor ahead of her. She called him.

He turned, waited, saw who it was that trailed him, and spoke in surprise: "Judy! Where did you come from?"

Now that she was here it seemed ridiculous, just as her errand of mercy had appeared a few nights ago when she had brought him news of the slight, short man in the rakish fedora.

"I've turned detective and I've unearthed some more news," she said in a voice whose calmness amazed her.

His grin was boyish and young. "I was thinking about you, Judy. I thought I'd call you up. In fact I was cutting through here to get to a pay telephone."

She must not use these words as balm for her heart. Her status had not changed. Deserted by the girl he loved, Ronald had sought a friend, that was all.

"Where shall we go?" he asked as simply as a trusting child.

Judy choked on the lump of compassion that welled up in her throat, so it was a moment before she could answer. In the interim he signaled a taxicab, helped her in, sank down in a corner.

"It's great to be alone," he said. "Mind not talking for a minute? I want to enjoy this—you, the cab, the peace."

The brakes screeched dangerously as he spoke, the car began to skid, and stopped with such a jolt that it threw Judy against him.

"The peace...." she echoed, laughing tremulously. Then the laughter died for Ronald's hand had seized hers and was holding it tightly. She felt a tremor pass down his arm, the fingers loosened.

But as he put her hand back, he said: "Don't go away, Judy."

Away? Oh, that was the silent prayer with which she had been beseeching him.

"Where would I go?" she asked aloud.

"Back to your old world—to parties and balls and the Court of St. James, to Cannes and Monte Carlo and Newport."

"Can't do it. The gates are all locked and I've dumped the keys in the river. I like my new address better.

"That's what I hoped you would say."

"But what about you, Ronald? Can you prove your story soon?"

His face was not worried as he smiled at her. "I may not be able to prove it at all."

"But you're not frightened!"

He laughed. "What is there to fear? If I've been thrown a foul ball, well, the next time the batter may do better. Cheer up, Judy. I'm not licked yet."

"You may be asked to leave the firm," she said slowly.

"No, Judy, they won't have a chance to ask me. I sent my resignation by special delivery, registered mail, just before I went into court so Mr. Heaton won't have that embarrassment. He's really a good old scout—"

"But you shouldn't, Ronald! Don't you see, they'll take it as an evidence of guilt!" She shook her head swiftly.

"Honey, quiet down. Mr. Heaton's been kind to me. I'm not going to share the legal embarrassment over this scrap with him. won't ask my friends to make faint applause when the joust looks fearful."

His chin was stubborn again. His long, hard body was tense. He spoke with added vigor, tossing away the moment of surrender to fatigue.

She heard the patter of snow on the top of the cab, saw the play of red and green where the traffic lights swung their guady signals, smelled fish and salt air and noted for the first time that the cab was speeding along the wharves.

The window which divided the cab driver's seat from the passenger compartment was not quite closed. So she said:

"Ronald, will you ask the driver to pull up the partition, please?"

"Cold?" he asked, as he presented her reguest.

"No, but I want to talk confidentially." She opened her handbag. If she had the tangible evidence of that bankbook to which to cling, it would be easier to talk. Her fingers closed over something that crackled—the envelope with the letters of the alphabet which Coralee's father had made for her.

Oh, what a detective she was! What a perfectly glorious flop as a helper and an aid. She had forgotten her most important news for the moment. Forgotten it because Ronald had held her hand as though he never, never wanted to let it go.

He was looking at her with interest, waiting for her to speak.

C.N.R. Veterans Banquet

TORONTO, Nov. 7 (CP)—Veterans from Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, Lindsay, London, Peterborough, North Bay and other Ontario centres attended the second annual Armistice banquet sponsored Saturday night by the Canadian National Railways War Veterans Association of Toronto. More than 400 veterans were addressed by Archdeacon F. G. Scott of Quebec, wartime chaplain of the First Canadian Division.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, November 8

A PARTICULARLY exciting and eventful day is forecast by the very significant planetary movements. A force is at work, drastic and decisive, to break up old static conditions, uproot obstacles and with devastating power inaugurate change, progress, adventure and romance. Many plans will be made with secrecy. Old friends may be depended upon, but use discrimination with strangers.

Those whose brithday it is probably will find themselves swept off their feet during the year with new environs, fresh interests and objectives. All will be a deliverance from old stagnations and boredom, and will bring new scenes, great adventures, much progress and possibly surprising if not spectacular romance. Depend upon old friends but be wary with strangers.

A child born on this day, while being original, independent, audacious and probably revolutionary, may also be studious, responsible, constructive and progressive to an outstanding degree. It may figure in public positions.

Bishop Of Ontario At Madoc Church

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Nov. 7.—The annual visit of the Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, Rt. Rev. Dr. Lyons, M.A., D.D., was made to the Church of St. John the Baptist, Madoc, on Sunday, at morning service. The candidates for confirmation were presented by the rector, Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne.

The Bishop's address was a most inspiring and solemn challenge to take earnest part in "the great task of the church" which to be Christian must be missionary. His great charge was that if more zealous missionary effort had been made throughout the centuries the present crisis in world affairs could not possibly have occurred.

The hymns and the charge to the candidates were most earnest and thoughtful. The candidates in making this most important forward step were urged to make regular use of the church's means of worship and assistance and to guard well their lives that the name of Christian suffers no hurt at their hands and that they may "witness" for all that be good.

The flowers on the Altar were presented for the greater glory of God and in memory of those who gave their all in the Great War, and will be placed on the cenotaph on Armistice day. A large congregation was present to take part in this special service and to hear the message of the Bishop.

Mark Anniversary At Madoc Church

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Nov. 7. — Anniversary services were held in Trinity United Church on October 30, Rev. H. B. Neal of Campbellford being the guest speaker at both services. His theme was "The Realization of the Presence of God." Two anthems were "Sing Unto the Lord a New Song" and "Great Is the Lord," with Mrs. W. J. Hulin taking the solo and Mrs. L. Ashley as organist and choir leader.

St. Peter's Presbyterian congregation withdrew their evening service to join in this anniversary service. The choir rendered "The Day Thou Gavest, Lord, is Ended," Mrs. Hulin and Miss Salisbury taking the solos. A ladies' quartette composed of Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Hulin, Mrs. Whytock, and Miss Salisbury sang "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me."

DANCES MUST END AT 11 P.M.

As Flames Ravaged Marseilles

A General view of Canebiere Avenue in Marseilles during the disastrous fire that ravaged the business district of the city, taking 75 lives and causing property damage estimated at $1,500,000. The fire originated in the Nouvelles Galeries, largest department store in Marseilles, and quickly spread to adjoining buildings. An ironic feature of the fire was the fact that the Nouvelles Galeries had just been equipped with an elaborate fire sprinkler system which was to have been put into operation the following day.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

ALL THE vegetables in the garden behind the house were very happy—all except the pumpkin. It was very sad. But how do we know? Knarf, the shdow-boy with the turned-about name, heard it talking.

"Just look at me, lying on the ground! How big and ugly I am!"

"Oh! you're not so ugly, Pumpkin."

"But of course I am. See how rough my shell is! And why did I have to grow so big?"

"All pumpkins grow big."

Ugly But Small

"There's my cousin, Cucumber. He's quite ugly, but he's small. I wish I were small. But I suppose it's too late to wish that now. I can't make myself any smaller."

"No," said Knarf, "you can't."

"I never thought I'd grow so big," said the pumpkin. "I was sure I wouldn't get any bigger than any of the other vegetables in this garden. How I envy the peas and the beans! When the lady comes into the garden with her basket, she fills it up with dozens and dozens of them." The pumpkin sighed. "But I—I fill it up all by myself. No, nobody likes me at all."

"I'm sure they do. The lady or the children will pick you soon. You just wait and see."

"But what can they use me for?"

"Well," said Knarf, "they could use you for pumpkin pie."

"H'mm . . . I suppose they could. Is pumpkin pie good?"

"It's delicious. But I don't think the children are going to use you only for that."

"You don't?" the pumpkin said delightedly. "Do you think they'll be able to use me for something else?"

"Oh, yes."

"But for what?"

"The children are going to have a party. They couldn't have one at Hallowe'en, so they're going to have one tonight, and you're going to be invited."

"I am?"

Give Him Nose

"Yes," said Knarf. "They'll give you eyes and a mouth and a nose. They'll put a candle inside of you."

"Me! They'll do all that for me?"

"Yes. You'll be the most important part of the party. It won't be any good without you. You'll see."

"Just think! I'm going to go to a party! And I thought that no one liked me at all."

And you can't imagine how happy the pumpkin felt after that.

Orange Members Hold House Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 7. — Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Darling of Douro were hosts on Friday evening, October 28, to the members of the Lakefield Orange Benevolent Association and their friends when a jolly party was held at their home. Between 45 and 50 persons were present. Euchre prizes were won as follows: Ladies' first, Mrs. Arthur Duggan; ladies' consolation, Herbert Brown (who played as a lady); gentlemen's first, Herbert Kemp; gentlemen's consolation, Grattan Bullock.

At the conclusion of the card game refreshments were served by members of the L.O.B.A., after which music for dancing was provided by Windover's Orchestra from Hall's Bridge.

At the conclusion of the party a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. R. Darling for their kind hospitality.

ACE RADIO ANNOUNCERS LIKE Herb May MUST GUARD THEIR THROATS

Herbert May, who was picked in a recent magazine poll as the most popular announcer in Canadian radio, and who was recently invited to join the staff of the Columbia Broadcasting System in Hollywood, has this to say: "I've smoked Buckinghams for years. If a cigarette irritated my throat, I'd have to give them up. But Buckinghams don't. In fact that's why I stay with Buckinghams. They are so easy on my throat."

WHEN an ace radio announcer like Herb May publicly expresses his preference for Buckinghams, that means a lot. Singers and speakers everywhere are just as loyal to Buckingham. They like the distinctive Buckingham taste—the extra mildness. 62 varieties and classifications of the finest leaf, scientifically blended for taste, make a Buckingham. That's why Buckinghams are supreme for taste—really Throat Easy!

WHAT IS Mildness IN A CIGARETTE?

Many smokers confuse taste with strength. Actually, taste depends on the ripeness of the tobacco—and a fully-ripened tobacco must be milder. Natural ripening removes harshness that causes irritation. That's why Buckinghams, blended from 62 varieties and classifications of riper tobaccos, taste so much better—are definitely milder.

Doctor Retires Who Attended 7,000 Births

RUSSELL, Nov. 7—Wars came and went, depressions, crises, political upheavals . . . leaving their scars. Diphtheria raged, and babies died because mothers feared the new anti-toxin . . . The sharp needle in the young flesh. "Flu" plagued the land, and country doctors abandoned horseless buggies in the mud.

The year 1888. A big-boned Scot, Dugald S. MacDougall, with sandy hair and laughing blue eyes and firm, sure fingers was the country doctor in Russell county. Just 25 and the world to beat. In the years to come he would bring 7,000 babies into the world, risk his life for patients scattered through the bush and farm country, and fight down prejudice against the steady progress of medical science.

But he was young then, without much experience, and he needed desperately to win the confidence of his people.

Diphtheria came almost every year . . . it was the middle 90's.

"No, doctor," the young mother pleaded, "Not that—that needle."

The young man coaxed and urged. The baby would die. But toxoid was a strange new thing, slow and hard to prove.

"No," she said.

A few years had given the doctor confidence and command. "Listen, woman," he said angrily. "I'm a Scotsman and I swear by it."

The mother looked up at the stern face before her and down at her sickly baby. The fear went out of her. "Very well," she said quietly. The baby lived.

One story plucked from the memory of fifty years of being the country doctor in this small bit of countryside. For today Dr. Dugald S. MacDougall is 75, and retiring from practice.

Memories of those long years..... Seven thousand babies ("There were good and bad among them") brought into the world by one man. The long uphill fight to introduce new medical discoveries. The terrible "flu" of 1918, and working twenty-one days and nights without rest, and working his drivers and horses in twelve-hour shifts to reach his patients. The early years were the worst. Swollen streams in the spring floods. Makeshift bridges. Mud to the axle of the buggy.

Fifty crowded years, and now the placid evening, the weight of caring for his people laid on the shoulders of a younger man, also a Scotsman—Dr. R. A. Kinnaird, descendant of Lord Kinnaird of Kinnaird Head, Scotland.

Life Full and Rich

Amazingly enough Dr. MacDougall looks upon those years as commonplace in the life of one man. He has gone into a thousand homes and has been very close to sickness and death and suffering. He has watched the troubled world struggle through wars and panics and panaceas.

But he has lived very close to the earth and its good people and he has found life full and rich. The changing world has left him unmoved, unworried.

"Seven thousand babies, doctor?" we hazarded, thinking of that other famous country doctor, Allan Roy Dafoe, and the five thousand new lives credited to his name.

"Bless my soul, it would be seven thousand anyway." The blue eyes twinkled in the strong rugged face. He puffed the curved-stem pipe he favors, and smiled across at us, sitting in the parlor of his home in the village of Russell. "They come pretty fast, when you get two or three confinements in a day. In twenty-four hours, that is."

The thought of seven thousand new lives staggered us. But Dr. MacDougall looks upon them as routine occurrences in the life of a doctor, and hasn't much to say about them. "There were good and bad among them," he says. "Some of them have grown to middle-age and look older than I do now."

"Did you ever lose any—any of the babies?"

"A few perhaps." He told us of the difficulty of establishing prenatal care and examinations. He once offered free examination to prospective mothers, and some of them accepted for a while. But the figure seven thousand doesn't mean anything to him. The mothers were there, and he attended to them.

Four Dollars Enough

Five dollars was the usual fee for confinement, and he chuckled deep in his throat as he recalled travelling, most of one story night, his horses plunging through the mud and streams. "When I sent in the bill, the mother thought four dollars was enough. I forget now whether I let her get away with it or not.

"Diphtheria is banished from the land now . . ." The mind went roving back through the early years, when parents refused to let the young doctor innoculate the children. Once he wanted to use toxoid on all the children in the area when an epidemic threatened. There was opposition from all sides, even from the members of the local council. Finally he won, and innoculated five hundred children. The epidemic was checked.

Before antitoxin, back in the '90's, and before that, were the black days, when 33 per cent of those who contracted diphtheria died. And there were older doctors then who scorned the new methods. And Dr. MacDougall had to plead to save young lives. Sometimes six children in a family would be sick, and the prejudice against the needle would be hard to overcome. He would give it to two children, perhaps, with the consent of the suspicious parents. They became well; the others more sickly. And the parents' eyes were opened.

Four Held As Kidnap Gang

U.S. G-men hoped for a "break" in the long unsolved kidnap-murder of 12-year-old Peter Levine, as they questioned four men in New York who are said to have confessed to the kidnap-slaying of Arthur Fried, wealthy contractor, and also to the kidnapping of Benjamin Farber and Norman Miller, both of whom were returned to their families. Police are digging in a Ukrainian hall in New York city, which was used as a headquarters for the kidnapping gang, in the hope of unearthing further clues. The four men named in the gang are pictured here; TOP LEFT is John Virga; TOP RIGHT, Demetrius Gula. At BOTTOM, LEFT, is Joseph Sacoda, who is now in Sing Sing for another crime, and BOTTOM, RIGHT, William Jacknis.

Girl In Iron Lung Confirmed At Simple Bedside Ceremony

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—In a simple, impressive ceremony Mary Hamblin, 16-year-old Toronto girl, who was presented with "Badge of Fortitude" for bravery as an example to other sick children, was confirmed on Saturday afternoon by Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen, between trips to her "iron lung" at the Toronto General Hospital.

With her pretty head draped in a white veil, Mary answered the Archbishop's questions in a steady voice as she was accepted into complete membership of the Church of England. "I am especially glad to welcome you into the church, Mary, for I know that you realize the full significance of confirmation," said Archbishop Owen.

Present at the ceremony were Mary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Haydn Hamblin; her 10-year-old brother, Hadyn Jr.; her Sunday school teacher, Miss Ada Harding, and her Sunday school superintendent, F. Burton, Assisting Archbishop Owen were Rev. R. P. Walker, who prepared Mary for confirmation; Rev. R. L. Seaborn, Rev. Walter Creswick, chaplain of the Toronto General Hospital, and Rev. J. R. S. Boyd, chaplain of the Western Hospital. Sister Dorcas of the Sister of St. John the Divine also gave her blessing to the sick girl.

The hospital room was decorated with a profusion of flowers and an altar with two burning candles and vases of roses was supplied by the Sistersof St. John the Divine.

A hush fell as Archbishop Owen said: "I feel sure the blessing of God will fall on you, Mary, as I lay my hands on your head."

Later in the afternoon, once more back in her "Drinker," Mary spoke of the ceremony.

"Do you feel any differently, uplifted in any way?" she was asked.

"I feel less excited about it all," she answered, "I feel very calm and happy."

"Something else nice happened today. Look at the gifts I received," said Mary, as she pointed out a Bible and badge of attendance given her by the troop of Girl Guides to which she formerly belonged. "And to make the day complete," she said, "I received my Communion Bible from the Men's Service Club of my church, the Church of the Good Shepherd."

Then with a cheery nod she said goodbye as the nurse warned her that it was time for rest after such a full afternoon.

TORONTO TOURISTS, here for the week-end, apparently did not know that the bell mounted on the bridge was used for sounding fire alarms.

They stopped their car on the bridge Sunday morning and gave the rope half a dozen healthy tugs and drove hurriedly off. The bell pealed out again in the evening for about the same length of time but still nothing happened. Possibly they did not ring the bell long enough.

land and comparing them with those of Ontario.

H. B. Wood was chairman of the dinner, and among the guests were W. A. Fraser, M.P., H. N. Carr, M.L.A., Rork Ferguson, M.P., Alex. Sollitt, representing A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., Peterborough, C. E. Lackner, Toronto, director of dairying for Ontario, suceeding George Barr; S. L. Joss, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association; W. J. Moore, dairy instructr, Peterborough, Ian McLeod, Brighton, representative of the Department of Agriculture in Northumberland, and others.

Trophies Presented.

Early in the evening tributes of honor were paid to high scoring cheesemakers of the two counties. Leslie Shillinglaw of Empire Factory, south and east of Campbellford on the Stirling Road, was presented with a silver tray by W. A. Fraser, for the highest score by the cheesemakers of Northumberland. The directors of Empire Factory and their wives were present as guests of Mr. Carr, including Fred Peake, Ernest Mitchell, Frank Lee, Ross Stevens, William Haig.

The corresponding highest scorer in West Peterborough was Rex Wilson of Selwyn Factory, who received a silver cup given by J. J. Duffus, M.P. The presentation was made by George Elliott of Norwood on behalf of Mr. Duffus.

A rose bowl given by the Robert Simpson Company for the highest percentage of first-grade cheese was won by Wesley Remington of Beaver Factory, near Hoard's Station.

George Brooks of Trent Bridge Factory received a silver cup given by Rork Ferguson, M.P., Norwood, to the cheesemaker in the East Peterborough section of his Hastings-Peterborough riding who made the highest score during the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Brooks were guests of A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., who found it impossible to be present. He sent as his deputy Alex. Sollitt, who made a neat speech in congratulating the Peterborough factories and cheesemakers on their work this year, and also the Campbellford Board.

DeLaval cheese triers were presented to Howard Andrews of Pine Grove Factory and to Sam Hobbs of Brae Factory near Burnbrae, who made the second highest scores in Peterborough and Northumberland respectively. The presentations were made by the dairy instructors. Mr. Moore said that Mr. Andrews had done remarkably well as a maker in his first year, and John A. Murray of Campbellford gave the information that the number of undergrade cheese in Peterborough had declined from 761 last year to 459 this season, and in Northumberland the drop had been 1,585 to 907.

New Zealand Dairying.

Mr. Mayberry's address was an amplification, somewhat, of the dairy story H. B. Cowan has already told in Peterborough about the herds and farms and cheese factories of Australia and New Zealand.

The best dairy farm he saw in New Zealand, Mr. Mayberry said, was of 51 acres with 47 milking cows, 15 head of young cattle and 2 horses. All the feed for the cattle is grown on the farm, and their production is 402 pounds of butter fat per cow or 370 pounds of butter fat per acre. Our best farms produce about 70 pounds of butter fat to the acre, and on those figures their production per acre is about five times greater than on an Ontario farm. The farm of the Minister of Agriculture was 105 acres with 90 milking cows. The farm was divided into 12 or 14 fields by hedges. The herd browses in two fields, one by day and the other by night, and after two or three days' grazing they are shifted to two other fields. It takes two weeks for the herd to make the round of the fields on that farm, and in the meantime the first two are gone over lightly with a harrow, the others in successive order, and the feeding routine is begun all over again.

The cattle are fed only grass, no concentrated food, but there is some supplementary food during the winter months of June and July. Some of the better farms extend that additional period two more months.

Mr. Mayberry said he saw only two silos in New Zealand, and they were built in banks so the farmer could drive up, throw in the grass and then tramp it down. Most of them gather grass in a pile and cover it with earth. That is their form of silo. For fertilizer they use potash and lime, 300 to 900 pounds a year in two dressings. Ninety per cent of the cattle are of the Jersey breed, but are larger than the island Jerseys. They sell at from $40 to $60, and its costs from $11.25 to $21.50 to raise a calf to milking age, so the maintenance cost of a herd is not heavy.

New Zealand farmers find that a farm of 150 acres is as large as one man can manage profitably. Practically all the cows are milked by machinery, and some udder trouble was reported. They succeeded in increasing production of butter fat on the average from 179 pounds to 238 in ten years.

Mr. Mayberry told of one herd of Holsteins, 94 head on a farm of 120 acres, "as fine a herd of Holsteins as you would want to see," producing four to five hundred pounds of butter fat per cow.

In regard to the distribution of cheese factories, he said that in an area of four miles by four miles there would be a cheese factory situated at each corner. One of them produced 1,065 tons of cheese, another 900 tons, a third 1,137 tons, and there were also some dairy products manufactured in quite a number of factories. The longest delivery trip for a patron was about 2½ miles. Their idea and plan was to concentrate production in a small area. Mr. Mayberry said New Zealand cheese excel Ontario in their uniformity of size and finish, and any one of 10,000 cheese would be almost exactly the same as any other.

Some of the disadvantages he mentioned were high cost of farm land, $200 to $300 an acre, and taxation of $3.50 an acre. Wages of labor are fixed by law, $17 a week for a helper who boards himself, $11 a week if he boards with the farmer, and he gets one month's holidays a year with pay. In one of the factories fifteen men were employed, and the size of the building was suggested by a row of nineteen large vats. The head man in the factory gets $22 a week and laborers $17. The working week was recently reduced from 40 to 36 hours. The employees get time or pay and one-half for overtime.

Ontario cheese is of higher quality than New Zealand, "but they have us beat on quantity production." Mr. Mayberry said all their cheese is pasteurized on account of weather conditions, warm nights and a lack of cool water. Canada is the only country producing pasteurized cheese in quantity for the United Kingdom market. He briefly discussed the New Zealand government's experiment in selling cheese. They assumed ownership of all dairy products, paying a fixed price announced one year in advance. If the revenue falls below the fixed price, the deficit is taken out of the consolidated fund of the country.

Labor costs have been increased by the government, with the result that the dairy farmers are so well off as they were. In one year they received £558,000 pounds more than the goods were worth in the British market, but the increased cost to the New Zealand farmers was £6,000,000. That disparity demanded a revision, and some adjustment had been made recently with producers getting a representative on the price fixing board.

During the evening an interesting program of music was much esjoyed. The Wooler orchestra played during the dinner, and the addresses were interspersed with vocal solos by George W. Lucy, readings by Mrs. P. M. Locke, Miss Laura Metcalfe and Mrs. Lorne Evans.

Off To Other End Of Axis

French Ambassador Francois-Poncet is shown, RIGHT, as he shook hands with General Heitel, German army head, during the farewell party given at the French embassy in Berlin as a bon voyage gesture to the ambassador on his departure for Rome to take over the embassy at the other end of the Rome-Berlin axis. The ambassador's credentials were reported to be addressed to the "Emperor of Ethiopia," indicating French recognition of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia.

Does Your Food Cause You Distress?

The impairment of the stomach is often of serious consequences, for only by properly digested food is the system nourished and sustained.

It helps to stimulate the secretion of saliva and gastric juice, the main factor in digestion, neutralizes acidity, tones up the lining membranes of the stomach, and restores the natural, healthy process of digestion.

Put your stomach right by taking B.B.B. and see how quickly you will start to enjoy your meals free from digestive troubles.

Cecil G. Frost May Yet Enter Leader Race Drew's Opponents Putting Pressure On

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—Cecil G. Frost, President of the Ontario Conservative Association, who a week ago publicly intimated that he would continue to administer his presidential office and would not be a contender for the party leadership at the December convention, has now backtracked on this declaration to the extent of admitting he is "seriously considering" running against Col. George A. Drew, K.C.

Mr. Frost said yesterday that such pressure was being brought to bear on him to contest the convention that as a duty to the party he simply had to abandon his attitude of a week ago and give the fullest consideration to it.

"I have nothing definite to say at the moment, but I certainly shall have a decision to announce within a few days," he added.

Today a number of Conservatives—most of them men who backed the Rowe leadership campaign of the last convention—will, it is reported, meet in Toronto, survey the province-wide situation, and decide whether, in their opinion, Mr. Frost, the man they are hastily grooming, has a chance of defeating Colonel Drew. Some of them are reported as ready to nominate Mr. Frost in any event. Oppose Drew at all costs, is said to be their present slogan. If the will of this influential minority triumphs today, Mr. Frost will publicly announce his leadership candidature before the end of the week.

Up to the time of Hon. Leopold Macaulay's retirement as a contender, Mr. Frost is believed to have had no eyes on the leadership. But with Mr. Macaulay stepping down, the former Rowe machine is said to have immediately concentrated on Mr. Frost.

The situation which today's secret conclave will endeavor to settle is said to have been further complicated during the past week by the tendency of the Conservative M.L.A.'s—now that Mr. Macaulay is not in the running—to go over almost 100 per cent to the Drew banner. Only three House members, is is said, are now definitely opposed to Colonel Drew.

Turns Back Refugees

METZ, France, Nov. 7—(AP). — France reinforced her frontier guard today to turn back a flood of refugees, among them many Austrian Catholics authorities said were encouraged by Nazis to "escape" across the border.

It was asserted political prisoners kept in a new Nazi camp outside Merzig, Germany, opposite Metz, were escorted to the frontier by German authorities and told to flee into France.

DOCTORS' WIVES USE SOAP THAT REMOVES GERMS AS WELL AS DIRT

Helps keep children healthy, they tell investigator

Doctors' wives are alert to the danger of germs on hands. A recent investigation among doctors' wives shows that many use Lifebuoy Health Soap for themselves and for their children. It is a well-known fact that Lifebuoy removes germs as well as dirt, and thus helps keep children healthy.

No doubt most of these women learned from their doctor-husbands that the germs of 27 or more diseases may be spread by busy, grimy little hands. What more natural, therefore, than their choice of Lifebuoy—a very sensible precaution! Every time youngsters wash with Lifebuoy they wash away many dangerous germs that may be clinging to their hands. Mothers who understand the great menance of germs insist that their children wash their hands regularly with Lifebuoy, especially before meals.

Though popular as a health soap, Lifebuoy is famous for bath and complexion, too. More men, women and children bathe with Lifebuoy than any other bath or toilet soap. Lifebuoy contains a special purifying ingredient not present in any other popular toilet soap—that's why daily baths with Lifebuoy stop "B.O." as no ordinary soap can. Yet Lifebuoy is mild—over 20% milder by test than many leading "beauty" and "baby" soaps.

WHERE DOES ALL THE MONEY COME FROM?

MORE than four and one-half million depositors in Canada have "money in the bank."

They are satisfied to leave their money on deposit because Canada's chartered banks are ready and able to pay back promptly every cent when the depositor calls for it.

These deposits in the chartered banks total roughly $2,262,000,000—approximately 10 per cent. of which they carry in cash—in other words Bank of Canada money or "legal tender."

Some people do not fully understand banking operations and might ask:

1. What have the banks got to represent our deposits if they do not have it all in cash?

2. How can the banks repay our deposits, over $2,262,000,000, with the amount of cash they hold?

The answer to No. 1 is: Look at any bank balance sheet and you will see for yourself that a bank owns more than it owes. That is to say—if all of its depositors were paid off and all of its other debts paid, a balance would be left belonging to the shareholders.

That should answer your first question satisfactorily. And now for No. 2:

Look again at a bank balance sheet and you will see that in addition to the cash it holds, the bank owns assets quickly convertible into cash, or which can be used to borrow from the Bank of Canada.

Experience has taught banks the amount of cash it is necessary to carry to meet ordinary day to day demands, and also the proportion it is necessary to carry in gilt-edged quick assets which can be liquidated to meet even any extraordinary demand. Banks know that it is absurd to expect all depositors to call for their money at the same time.

That would be like saying that if everybody got sick at the same time there would not be room in the hospitals to take care of them.

Or that if everybody who travels by street car decided to travel at exactly the same hour, there would not be enough cars to carry them.

Or that if every person who carries life insurance died on the same day all the claims could not be met.

Or that if every sea were drained dry there would be no ocean liners.

Where, then, does all the money come from? That question can best be answered by asking this one: Who owns it—and how do they get it?

Addressing ourselves to 4,740,000 depositors we answer: "This money is yours. You own it. When you call for it, you get it. When you ask any existing Canadian bank for it, do you ever fail to get it promptly?"

We ask you, too: "Do you regard your deposit as figures in a book?"

If you are a wage-earner, paying your way and depositing a little week by week in a savings account in the bank, can anybody convince you that your deposit came into being by writing figures in a book? Or is it not a fact that you can call at your bank and take it away with you—in cash!

Suppose you are a farmer—let us use one acre and some round figures for illustration. You use 1½ bushels at a dollar a bushel, of wheat, to seed one acre. You reap, say 20 bushels, worth a dollar a bushel. Leaving out your costs to simplify matters, your gain is 18½ bushels equivalent to 18½ dollars, which you deposit in your bank.

Do you regard this as just figures in a book?

It would be hard to convince any wage-earner or any producer of new wealth, that his deposit which arose from his labour and production, is anything but real money.

He knows better, for he can buy things with it.

That wealth comes from the marketing of your labour for wages; from the application of labour to the soil of the farm, or to the standing timber in the forest; from the catching of fish in the sea; from the wresting of minerals from the ground; from the fabricating of raw materials into manufactured goods; and from marketing at home or abroad this continuous production.

When somebody wants to change all your business and economic methods and by some mysterious magic to bring about overnight a promised millenium of prosperity, ask what success such a theorist has made of handling his own affairs, before you back his theory.

Bank deposits reflect tangible wealth produced. Every dollar we owe to you—our depositors—is backed by many dollars in real assets.

Canada's chartered banks not only serve the individual well, they are a great factor in the building of the nation.

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA

Your local branch bank manager will be glad to talk banking with you. He will be glad to answer your questions, from the standpoint of his own experience.

As Years Pass Less Attention Given To Remembrance Day Canadian Legion Members Told

Deploring the fact that business is crowding out proper observance of Remembrance Day in our national life, Capt. the Rev. George S. Easton, pastor of Trinity United church preached an inspiring sermon Sunday morning when the war veterans held their annual church parade. The men formed ranks outside the Canadian Legion Hall on Murray street and marched to the church, preceded by the Prince of Wales Rangers band, and the Legion standard bearer, Robert Gracie.

In his preliminary remarks, Captain Easton drew attention to the fact that as the years pass, less attention is given to the proper observance of Remembrance Day and he expressed regret that business was slowly pushing this day of national remembrance into the background. He expressed the thought, however, that the large congregation, including the 150 ex-servicemen, had attended the church in an entirely different spirit.

Nation Pays Homage.

He spoke about the "Unknown Warrior," that soldier who was buried with the nation's great in beautiful Westminster Abbey where the empire's dead kings also lay. Captain Easton pointed to the fact that the warrior is unknown in name and rank, and this fact made his grave a spot where the nation could pay homage, and made him loved by every mother, wife or sweetheart who had lost a loved one during the Great War. "Nameless, he belongs to all homes, all cities and all towns who gave their sons in the war. He represents the wounds of the wounded and the agony of the millions. He is a symbol of manhood's generaus offering."

He attempted to voice for his audience the message which the Unknown Warrior would bring if he could speak to-day. "I believe he would have many pointed things to say. He would say there is no glory in war, there is no victor, there is no vanquished. War is futile. War is hell." Captain Easton explained that our ideas about the glories of war had come from childhood days, from poets, authors, orators and writers of martial music who had never experienced war. "Glory was never given to war by the men were were in the trenches," he said.

World Still Bewildered.

"War is a hateful thing that lays cruel hands on the most beautiful and noble things of life. It creates a hell on earth, and has so bedevilled the world that here we are twenty years after the worst war in the world's history not knowing whether we won it or not."

He discussed briefly the recent events in Europe and said the Munich conference would go down in history as the turning point on the nations attitude towards war, because the nations of Europe had been held in the grip of fear, and in that fear he saw the release of an influence that will help toward future peace.

"The Unknown Warrior calls to us to have faith in God, and urges us to preserve the principles of justice and democracy for which he fought and died."

He tells us that there is only One who can point the way to-day. He is the One who spoke with authority and whose light shall outshine the stars.

BETTER THAN AUTOGRAPH.

After the football game here Saturday, a small bedraggled urchin wriggled his way into the Montreal Nationals' dressing-room. He obtained an autograph of Tommy Burns, star middle wing, and then asked one of Johnny Ferraro. The big halfback, former All-American star with Cornell University, said: "Sorry, kid, but I haven't a pencil, here's a kiss for you instead"—and he picked up the surprised boy and kissed him.—P.

Warden In 1911, Chas. Coben, Dies In West

Charles Coben, one of the members of Peterborough County Council during the war years when comparatively large sums were appropriated for the financing of Canada's expeditionary force, died on October 16 at Tessier, Saskatchewan.

Mr. Coben was 83 years old. He was born at Port Hope in 1855, and in 1882 moved to this county, farming in Galway township until 1918 when he went west, buying land seven miles north of Tessier in Saskatchewan. He was engaged in municipal affairs 45 years, an exceptional record. For 30 years he was a member of the council of Galway-Cavendish, 26 of them as reeve, and member of the county council until 1917 when he retired. In 1911 he was elected Warden, and in the west served in the council of his municipality for 15 years continuously.

Some of his surviving contemporaries in the Peterborough county council of 1916 are John Darling of Dummer, John McIntosh of North Monaghan, W. A. Anderson and Fred Eason of Otonabee, Bert Squire of Norwood, Ed. Fennell of Havelock, Norman Lein of Burleigh, Fred Bullied of Chandos, Michael Walsh of Douro. Mr. Coben celebrated his golden wedding in 1923. He was a member of Knox United Church at Tessier, and is survived by his widow, four sons, Roy, Alex, Will and Gordon in the vicinity of their parents' home, and one daughter, Miss May Doherty of Kinmount. For quite a number of years Mr. Coben was superintendent of Lyle Hall Sabbath School and the Young People's Bible Class.

Oldest Resident Of Lindsay Dies

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 7.—(CP). — Mrs. Edward McConnell, oldest Lindsay resident, died yesterday after a brief illness. Relatives said her age was "something over 100."

A lifelong Lindsay resident, she recalled to friends shortly before death the fire that swept the greater part of the town in 1861, six years before Confederation.

Young Girl, Connelly's School, Wins Seymour Township Title

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 7.—Kathleen Craighead, Connley's School, was winner of the Seymour Township oratorical contest held here Friday night. Winner of the Fraser trophy, presented by A. A. Martin, Miss Craighead, a pupil of Mr. E. Maycock, will represent Seymour Township in the county finals held in Warkworth on November 14. Her subject was, "The Life of Edith Cavell." Fifteen other speakers entered the contest staged in the High School auditorium, and each spoke on an average of five minutes. Jeryne Brown, pupil of R. Umphrey, S.S. No. 10, at Trent River, stood second and was awarded the Seymour Township cup by Robert Bateson. Third prize, the Women's Institute cup, was presented by Mrs. Fred. McCulloch to Jack Lisle, S.S. No. 7, Stanwood, Miss C. Johnston, teacher. His subject was David Livingstone.

Chairman Harold B. Wood, Seymour representative on the Northumberland County executive of the Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, who acted chairman, expressed regret that only eight of the eleven school sections in the township had sent representatives to take part in the contest. Speaking at the conclusion of the program, he urged that every boy and girl who would succeed should strive to do two things: First, to do something well, and second, to do that thing when they were asked to do it. Referring to the good order kept during the evening, a fact which he thought was a tribute to their teachers, School Inspector A. A. Martin congratulated also those who had taken part in the "splendid musical program." "I hope that as a result of our annual musical festival both teachers and pupils as well may be inspired to play at least one musical instrument. A fund might well be started, perhaps through the Women's Institute, to provide two or three stringed instruments for the pupils of each school." Commenting also on the fact that there were several schools not represented in the contest, Mr. Martin claimed that in ninety-nine per cent. of the cases it was the inspiration of the teachers which made children come forward to take part in these contests.

The musical portion of the program was arranged by Mr. Albert Hazel, musical supervisor of Seymour Township, and included a chorus by Masson School, "Old Folks at Home"; vocal solo, Marjorie Wallace; piano solo, Barbara Stephens; chorus, Flemming School, "School Days"; violin solo, Bruce Elmhirst; recitation, Roy Glenn.

Following are the names of speakers and the subject presented by each: Dorothy Peake, "The Story of Rayon; Stewart Remington, "Good Health Is a Blessing"; Irene wood, "A Trip Across Canada"; Jack Long, "Life Of Will Rogers"; Wilson Jones, "Diving and Divers"; Irene McGrayne, "The Story Of Gray Owl"; Kathleen Craighead, "Life Of Edith Cavell"; Clifford Beamish, "David Livingstone"; Jack Lisle, "David Livingstone;" Georgie Rutherford, "A Trip To Montreal"; Marjorie Wallace, "Helen Keller"; Jeryne Brown, "Mother"; Betty Lisle, "When Canada Was Young"; Bruce Elmhirst, "Story Of Canadian Mining"; Phyllis Cain, "David Livingstone"; Roy Macmillan, "A Very Short Tale." The judges were: Messrs. C. S. Haig, Harold Dunk, Cecil Stephens, of Campbellford; Morley Smith, Mrs. Morley Smith, Miss Clara Gregory, Miss Dora Wilson, and Miss Opal Shaw of Warkworth.

CARS COLLIDE

When a car driven by Joe Locano, 616 Aylmer street, was backing out of a laneway at 241 Dublin street it collided with a car driven by Jim Beatty, 881 Water street, and both machines were damaged.

BICYCLE MISSING.

Bob Pirie reported to police Saturday that his bicycle had been stolen from beside the back verandah of his home. The machine is needed by the owner for his work and would appreciate very much having it back.

MALE CHORUS PRACTICE.

The regular practice of the Peterborough Male Chorus will be held on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. All members are asked to be on hand promptly so that the most may be made out of the time allotted to the practice session.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN

A car belonging to W. E. Noftall, Dalhousie street, was stolen from in front of the National Grocers' building on Saturday morning and was apparently taken out of town as a police search failed to reveal any trace of the missing machine.

AN AFTERNOON SESSION.

Owing to the fact that defence counsel H. R. Rose was delayed in reaching Peterborough from Toronto this morning a liquor charge against Mrs. Max Vincent and a judgment in another case involving Arnold Nussey were put over until an afternoon session of the police court.

SIGNS OF WINTER

Motorists from Peterborough passing through Oshawa on Saturday evening remarked that many young people passed on the street carrying skates. Artificial ice at the arena in the Motor City permits enjoyment of the Winter sport long before the natural ice is ready in this district.

FIRST MEETING

Friendly Hour Song Service members held their opening program at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday night with a good attendance on hand. Doug Grant acted as song leader and George Nicholls as pianist. Meetings will continue each Sunday night at 8.30 o'clock throughout the winter months. The annual Christmas Carol Service will be held in the Collegiate auditorium on December 18, under auspices of the organization.

ARMISTICE CELEBRATION

At Armistice Day services in George Street United church yesterday a detail from the Praince of Wales Rangers stood throughout the services on reversed arms flanking an illuminated cross of sacrifice. Last Post and Reveille were both sounded by a bugler near the close of the service which was conducted by the Rev. M. C. Parr, pastor of George Street United church.

"ADAM AND FALLEN MAN"

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "He that is of the earth is earthly and speaketh of the earth, and watered the whole face is above all." (John 3:31). Selections from the Bible included the following from Genesis 1:27, 2:6, 7, "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. And the Lord formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following, "With a single command, Mind had made man, both male and female. How then could a material organization become the basis of man? How could the non-intelligent become the medium of Mind, and error be the enunciator of Truth? Matter is not the reflection of Spirit, yet God is reflected in all His creation. In this addition to His creation real or unreal? Is it the truth, or is it a lie concerning man and God? It must be a lie, for God presently curses the ground."

MAMMOTH CABBAGE

Ned Minnicola of North Monaghan showed The Examiner on Saturday a cabbage weighing 13¼ pounds. It was stripped of its outer leaves, is of the golden acre variety and was grown in the Minnicola gardens near Crawford's Grove.

THE THIRD BLOOM

Thomas A. Burke, Parkhill Road and Elcombe Crescent showed the Examiner today some perfect specimens of pink roses of the Mrs. John Laing variety. He has a bush covered with the beautiful flowers, the third bloom of the season.

CASES ADJOURNED

A non-support charge was adjourned for a month by mutual consent in police court this morning, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., being informed that there were some chances of a settlement. There was also a week's adjournment in a similar charge against another man.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN SERIOUS

A number of boys will be charged in juvenile court here Thursday with putting an obstruction on the rails of the C.P.R. railway. The charge is the aftermath of an incident which occurred early last month and which might have resulted in the de-railing of a train. It is alleged the youngsters placed a heavy piece of steel on the tracks.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

A charge against a local man of a breach of the Transient Traders' bylaw occupied the attention of Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., for a considerable time this morning and after the evidence and arguments had been heard His Worship reserved judgment for a week. W. F. Huycke, K.C., city solicitor, prosecuted the case and the counsel for the defendant was W. J. Arthur Fair.

REFORESTATION PROGRAM

The engagement of J. W. Pierce, O.L.S., to survey the property in Dummer and Methuen townships acquired by the county council for reforestation, is an indication that quiet progress has been made since the June sessions by Reeve W. A. Anderson's committee. Mr. Pierce left this morning for the eastern section of the county with several assistants and will be located there for the next three weeks. Mr. Anderson has made a number of trips to the property this fall.

AT CAMPBELLFORD DINNER

Among those who attended the Campbellford cheese board dinner Saturday night were H. B. Cowan, who was one of the delegates to the Empire trade and marketing conference at Sydney, Australia, last Spring, companion of the guest speaker, R. H. Mayberry, and Vivian Milburn, recently returned from the annual meeting of the Canadian chamber of Agriculture in Winnipeg. They modestly selected seats in the background, and in fact in the last row, farthest from the head table. Dummer township was well represented, Warden E. N. McDonald being one of the group. Several others failed to get setts in the dining hall, were refunded their 60 cents, went down town to a restaurant, and returned for the program, with a saving on the deal of thirty cents.

AGED ARMY MAN MARRIES

Major Robert Jackson, aged 76, and Miss Catharine Goodhall, 26, were married in Coventry Cathedral in England.

Locking Doors Of Churches Is Condemned

"Canada should apologize for not having made better use of her cathedrals and churches by throwing them open as sanctuaries where people might draw closer to God at any hour of the day," the Rev. M. C. Parr, pastor of George Street United Church, asserted on Sunday.

He made his remarks at the initial meeting of the Men's Open Forum, where, following an introduction by President Charles Elliott, he gave an informal talk on church life in Britain as he observed it during a visit there during the past summer.

The reverend speaker said he had been greatly impressed on a tour of some of the stately cathedrals of the British Isles and continental Europe to observe that at no time were they either empty or closed. On all hands he witnessed evidence of devout reverence in the attitude of the people towards the cathedrals and churches which stand as mighty monuments of history and mark the milestones of civilized progress.

Rev. Mr. Parr wondered if the time would ever come when Canada would throw open the doors of her cathedrals and churches. He said the idea was being followed up by Peterborough Ministerial Association who plan to throw open the churches in this city during "week of prayer" services in the New Year.

The talk which Mr. Parr gave to the members of the Forum was entitled "Sails and Anchors." He pointed out that on the sea of life hazards and dangers were often to be encountered, and he stressed the need of safe anchorage at such times.

In a brilliant analogy he compared the cathedrals of the Old Land and their place in the national life to the mighty anchors of an ocean liner.

Thomas Collard Called By Death

Thomas Collard, mechanical dentist and a cripple from infantile paralysis since a child died in St. Joseph's Hospital at five o'clock Sunday morning a few minutes after being admitted. He was 65 years of age and was a familiar figure on the city streets over which he travelled on a specially built three wheeled tricycle.

He had an arrangement with a Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson who lived in the apartment across the hall at 372½ Water street that told his neighbors when he was ill and needed assistance. He kept his cane beside his bed and whenever he felt an attack coming on he would pound heavily on the floor and Mrs. Thompson would hurry to his side. Saturday he pounded early before midnight but his condition grew steadily worse, and an ambulance took him to the hospital shortly before five this morning.

His remains were taken to his brother's home at Stouffville from where the funeral will be held. He was a regular attendant at St. Paul's Church.

The tricycle, so well known to downtown business men, is setting outside his door on Water street, locked and in the same place where he left it on Saturday evening.

To Place Wreaths Remembrance Day

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COE HILL, Nov. 7. — A special community service will be held in the Town Hall, Coe Hill, on Remembrance Day, November 11, at 2 p.m. Following this service, conducted by Rev. A. Redding and Rev A. C. McCallum, the returned men from the village will parade to the memorial on the corner of Station and Main Streets, placing a wreath, following which they will march to the Anglican Cemetery where another wreath will be placed. Following the placing of the wreaths in memory of those who fell, a special service will be held in the Town Hall. All are cordially invited to attend.

League Holds Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Nov. 7.—The Catholic Women's League held a very successful card party and dance on Friday evening, November 4. Cards began at 8.30 and dancing began after the service of lunch soon after eleven to two a.m. Good music was furnished and all enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

Faces Attempted Murder Charge After Man Injured By Heavy Axe

(Examiner Correspondence.)

The 59-year-old man is alleged to have swung a heavy chopping axe at William McCormack, 23, of Coe Hill, for passing through a road allowance on Stevens' place that has been open for more than 45 years. McCormack is said to have been drawing wood for a neighbor with his harnessed oxen, when Stevens swung his axe. McCormack raised his hand to protect his head and was injured in the fingers, requiring five stitches to close the wound. It is feared the finger may have to be amputated.

Constable John King of Coe Hill summoned Provincial Constable Palamateer of Bancroft and Stevens was taken to Bancroft where he is being held in custody.

Man Dives In River Gives Shivers To Hastings Folk

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Hastings, Nov. 7.

THE ATMOSPHERE of summer time was in evidence at the waterfront here Sunday morning when a young Toronto man took a refreshing dip in the river. He did not just jump in and out again but proceeded to swim around for over half an hour. He admitted the water was a "little cool" but added it did not bother him after a couple of minutes.

Hattie Williams Takes Leave House Of Refuge

Hattie Williams, housekeeper for John Deremo, who was in the limelight some months ago because of Deremo's unsuccessful attempt to marry her, left the county House of Refuge near Lakefield Sunday and again there are rumors of marriage bells while county authorities, chagrined at the escape of the woman from the institution are endeavoring to have her returned.

A car containing several friends of Miss Williams, arrived at the House of Refuge and one of the party asked if they could see the woman. Permission was granted and the next thing the officials knew she was in the automobile and it was heading out for the open road.

Stealing Turkeys Draws 4 Months

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 7 (CP). — Stanley Aldred and Alvin Graham, Toronto, today were sentenced to four months definite and three months indeterminate when found guilty of stealing 23 turkeys. The police, Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson said, do not know where the turkeys were stolen from.

Aldred pleaded guilty but Graham pleaded not guilty to the charge, laid by Provincial Police of Lindsay.

Both men, according to evidence, went to market in Toronto to sell the fowl, but were informed by a prospective buyer that they were too "hot" for him to purchase. They finally sold the birds in another part of the city.

Aldred said the birds were stolen from his brother-in-law, named Johnston, north of Lindsay. The Crown Attorney, however, said there was no complaint from Johnston.

OBITUARY

JAMES LUFFMAN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Nov. 7.—Old friends in this district of James Luffman will regret to learn of his death, which occurred at his residence near Kisby, Sask., on Thursday, Nov. 3rd. He was apparently in good health when stricken and he passed away suddenly.

The late Mr. Luffman was born 72 years ago, in the Township of Huntingdon, near Moira, and was well and favorably known in the district. About twenty years ago, he went to Western Canada, and for some years and at the time of his death was engaged in farming on an extensive scale and occupied a prominent place in the life of the community. In religion he was a member of the United church and fraternally, he was a member of the Orange Order and the I.O.O.F. In politics he was a staunch Conservative.

The funeral took place at Kisby on Saturday afternoon.

Have Narrow Escape

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 7.— Ray Stover, Inkerman street, had a narrow escape when the truck which he was riding on Friday evening overturned on the Sterling road seven miles from town. The vehicle is said to have left the road when the driver descended a hill and turned over in the ditch. Although the front part of the car was considerably damaged neither of its occupants was injured.

The Philippines Government will operate a shipping service.

Ottawa Athlete Dies In Crash That Kills Four

POTSDAM, N.Y., Nov. 7.—(CP). —Toll of a Sunday morning highway accident mounted to four today with the death of Paul J. Pilon, Ottawa, Ont., athlete.

Pilon, one of six Clarkson College students returning from a hockey practice of Cornwall, Ont., suffered a fractured skull when the car in which he was riding collided with another carrying eight persons.

Three passengers in the second machine were killed. They were Vernon Trimm, 35, of Parishville, N.Y., driver, Doris May Trimm, his nine-year-old daughter, and Shirley Jean Russell, four, of Norwood, N.Y.

Ten others were injured including Pilon's brother Maurice, 2, a senior at Clarkson; John L. Aubin, 20, of Ottawa, a sophomore at Clarkson and Oscar Dufor, 20, of Ottawa. Condition of the four Canadians, who were members of the Clarkson hockey team, was not serious. Others in the car were Robert C. Ward, 21, of East Syracuse the driver, and Charles Rumsey, 21, of St. Petersburg, Fla., who suffered minor hurts.

Marmora Sportsman Leaves For North

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Nov. 7.—Stan Lowe has returned to the happy hunting grounds in the Chalk River district visited by him last fall. Other members of his party are Dr. A. L. Poisson and Dr. Paul Poisson, Tecumseh; William Poisson, Belle River; Frank Diesbourg, Windsor; Art Diesbourg, Harry Hunter, W. P. Renaud, S. Ewell. P. Braniff and T. Foster, Kitchener, and W. Stobisk, Hespeler.

Altar Boys Given Tickets To Show

Many people in the city are regretting that they failed to see Boys' Town,a picture featuring Spencer Tracy which finished a four-day run at the Capital theatre on Saturday night. It was one of the most touching pictures to be shown locally in many months.

Rev. Dr. Kelly, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral remarked today that it was too bad there were not more pictures of this type shown. It was a story with a great moral, he said. It was learned also that Dr. Kelly purchased tickets for all the altar boys at St. Peter's and other clergymen in the city also purchased several tickets and distributed them among boys. Discussion on the streets today indicate a request would be made to have the picture shown again at a later date.

Hosts To Choir

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 7.—Members of the choir of St. John's United church were on Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Rannie, Seymour township. Thirty members of the choir and their friends were present following choir practice and the evening was spent playing games and with quizz contests. Prize winners during the evening were Misses G. Stephen, Effie Dickie, Edna Stillman and Messrs. Earl Godden and Alex. Milne. Later a delightful lunch was served by the hosts.

Deer Hunters Get Quota On First Day

Splendid first day result reported from hunting parties in this district and by Saturday night, cars with deer tied to them were seen in Peterborough, conclusive proof that hunters were making a noteworthy start.

Among the quickest successes was that recorded by Police Sergt. Bill Wigg and Gus Yeotes. The two, hunting in the Apsley district, had each brought down a splendid buck before 8.30 o'clock Saturday morning. The deer were on view in town to-day and were pronounced admirable specimens.

First Of Season.

The first deer to be seen in Lakefield district this season, passed through the village on Saturday evening. It was a beautiful buck weighing between two hundred and two hundred and fifty lbs., which had been shot in the Katchecoma district by members of a party composed of Hon. G. N. Gordon and Mrs. Gordon and Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Moore, all of Peterborough.

The buck, which boasted an unusually large pair of antlers, was lashed to the side of the car and when the party stopped for a minute or two on the main street of the village there was an admiring crowd round the deer which all but stopped Lakefield's Saturday night traffic.

John E. Hayes Dies In 75th Year

John E. Hayes, for many years one of the city's leading builders and contractors died Saturday afternoon in his 75th year after a lingering illness. He was born in this city and obtained his early education in local schools.

Among the larger building projects which he completed were the Douro Church, many of the buildings at the Canadian General Electric Company, the Denne warehouse, and in more recent years the Red Arrow Tire building and J. K. Hughes garage. Besides these he built many houses.

He is a son of the late John Hayes and Ann Mulligan and is survived by his wife, formerly Ellen Hickey, one daughter, Mrs. William Hattrick, River Head, Long Island, and three sons, Dr. William Hayes, dentist and Carl of Peterborough and Cecil of North Monaghan.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning from the family residence, 219 Park Street at 8.45 o'clock for Requiem Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral at nine o'clock and interment will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Two Drivers Have Narrow Escape

Two drivers had a narrow escape from injury this morning in a collision on the Warsaw-Norwood Road, 14½ miles north of Peterborough.

A truck belonging to the Weston's Bread Company and driven by W. Donaghue, 479 Rogers street, travelling east, collided on a turn with a car driven by Ben Isaac of Havelock.

Although Isaac's car was turned over and damaged neither he nor the truck driver was injured.

The accident was investigated by Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon E. Broughton.

Deer Hunters Leave

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 7. — Joel McArthur left here to-day with one of the largest parties of deer hunters to leave this season. Mr. McArthur and his party are noted for always returning with their full quota and this year set out for a destination north of Marmora. With him were Messrs. J. Cochrane, Harry Peake, Earl Dunham, D. J. McArthur, Bennet Morton, D. Montgomery, and D. Heath.

Wicks On Car For Flying Tackle Lands In Ditch Much Wiser Bunny

For courage and speed the jackrabbits of this district are evidently in a class by themselves. Last Saturday evening one weighing twelve pounds disputed the right of way with a speeding car on the Chemong Road, crashing the car head on while travelling a terrific clip.

This is a feat which a bull moose might execute with success but the rabbit lost the battle. The driver of the car Cyril Scott of Smith township who was driving home, did not slow down as he figured the rabbit which was approaching him rapidly would veer off the pavement, and he realized too late the big jack had other ideas. The rabbit crashed head on into the front bumper and bounced into the ditch. Scott climbed out of the car and dispatched the dazed fighter with a clout on the back of the head. When dressed the rabbit weighed exactly twelve pounds.

COBOURG GHOSTS RUN WILD TO DEFEAT BELLEVILLE, 54 TO 6

Quinte Outfit Only Had One Substitute

COBOURG, Ont., Nov. 7.—(CP).—Cobourg Ghosts ran wild in their Ontario Rugby Football Union Intermediate encounter with Belleville here Saturday and wound up with a 45-6 victory.

It was a weakened Belleville outfit which came here for the scheduled game, the youthful visitors having only one substitute. This lack of reserve strength hit Belleville hard and in the fourth quarter the Ghosts did their best scoring of the game against the fast-tiring opposition.

17 In Final Quarter.

The winners scored 11 points in the first quarter, 10 in the second, seven in the third and 17 in the final. Ghosts' attack was led by John Lucas, Meikle, Begley and Newton: Gordon Meikle's running, passing and kicking were particularly effective.

Belleville's points came in the first and third quarters. Blaker kicked a single in the opening session and Skelcher, the visitors' good middle wing, scored a touchdown in the third quarter when he ran 15 yards after recovering a Cobourg fumble. The touch was not converted.

Line-ups:

Cobourg — Flying wing, Cooper; halves, Henderson, Meikle, J. Lucas; quarter, R. Lucas; snap, Colville; insides, Schrum, Brown; middles, Begley, Pratt; outsides, Jacobs, Jones; subs. Cortice, Newton, Bagnelle, Thresher, Arbour, Haynes, Johnson, Barton.

Belleville. — Flying wing, Jackson; halves, Pepper, J. Hoffey, Guay; quarter, C. Haffey; snap, Blaker; insides, Knott, Walt; middles, Whelan, Skelcher; outsides, Cooper, Watson; subs, Kiniski.

Officials—T. McClelland and G. Dufton, Cobourg.

Eight Team Circuit Planned For 1939

OGDENSBURG, N.Y., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Owners of six clubs in the Canadian-American Baseball League indicated yesterday an eight-team circuit will be retained next year.

Although definite action was postponed until Nov. 27 when league plans will be officially adopted at Utica, representatives of the teams at a meeting here said that a proposed increase to 10 or 12 clubs would undermine the circuit's strength.

The league directors were told Kingston, Ont., Schnectady and Watertown, N.Y., are "interested" in joining the loop but have yet made no definite offers.

Rev. Harold J. Martin, president of the league, said attendance this year was 80,000 above that reported in 1937 All the clubs, with the exception of Oswego, N.Y., and Ottawa, were represented at the meeting.

Seeking Third Term

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for governor, suggested last night that President Roosevelt was paving the way for a third term by appealing for support of Governor Lehman and the new deal.

In a broadcast address replying to the president's broadcast from Hyde Park, Thomas said:

"The president, perhaps subconsciously, was laying the groundwork for his own third term in stressing the need for continuity in the administration's Liberal policies."

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AND WHEN the shadows had lengthened, it was noted that the score had, too! The scoreboard said 23-1 for Montreal, and ya can't take a thing like that into court. The bruising Nats showed the Orfuns and 3,000 fans here Saturday why they are undefeated to date this year. They showed it with a good all-around display of senior grid tactics. About the only weakness they flashed in this scrap was when a lineman, who took a local knee on the third button of the vest, grunted in a tenor tone! Best backfield work seen here this year was dished up by the Mo'real huskies, their running, plunging, passing and kicking being slightly beautiful, to say the least. Yet it was a good game and now fans here know how come we said before that the score seldom indicates the Orfuns' play. They had two touchdowns called back on 'em, handed the Nats another and saw a kickout on the one-yard line called a deadline point.

* * * * * *

NO USE SQUAWKING at the officials, as the Orfuns aren't going anywhere this year, and anyway the Nationals deserved the win. By about 12 points—not 22. The local dribbled touchdown in the second shouldn't have been called back as Ferraro, while interferred with, was out of the play. The touchdown in the third, which wasn't, saw Orfuns pull a lovely play to earn it, but the officials claimed a lateral—which might have been slightly ahead—was a forward heave. It is possible, but a tough one to chew on. Orfuns gave them a good fight, with Loucks laid up, Hendrie still nursing cracked ribs, and Don Crowe limping on sore limbs. They have not quit fighting yet this season, despite big scores several times, and they haven't been blanked yet, either. Which at least is something.

* * * * * *

Curly Krug Cuts Up

CURLY KRUG came to life Saturday and showed how he used to star for Queen's. He was harder to stop than a scandal, hitting vanishing holes in the line like a thunderclap and flashing some of the shiftiest running we've seen in this year of grace and grid debacles. Curly got off to a poor start this season and saw little service the last while, but he outshone any player on the field this tussle, and his quarterbacking was okay. Johnny Shields ranked next to Krug in effectiveness for the Orfuns, while the rest of the rear guard and the gallant shock troops up front toiled like Trojans against heavy opposition.

* * * * * *

TOOK the Black-and-Whites till the third quarter before they showed much superiority but they kept a-rollin' then. Orfuns' besetting weakness of light reserves. This young 160-pounder, Moon Mullins, was bumping the ball like a Stirling or Box all afternoon, cashing in nicely on a stiff breeze at his back half the struggle. Big Johnny Ferraro played with an All-America accent, and the way he speared a local forward with one big mitt, jogged 40 yards in the clear and then handed the touchdown ball to a buddy was first cousin to the spectacular. If the Nats were trying to build up a leading loop scorer, they could have seen Ferraro net some 15 points Saturday. Hempey is a sweet team player, too, and this gee, Atcheson, runs like a startled stag. On kick runbacks, he appeared downed several times but played billiards off would-be tacklers. Yeah, they have a good club, though Ferraro said they'd sooner playoff 'gainst Beaches.

* * * * * *

Porter Is Comforting

COACH BILL IRWIN'S GANG used some tricky plays and clicked on a neat percentage of forward heaves. Though they always have one or two costly ones intercepted. Still it was a good game with Orfuns pulling two spectacular plays, and Prexy Porter of the Nats said afterward they should have been ruled touchdowns. Which will be something comforting to think about on cold winter nights at home. Mike Loucks was missed like dinner on a rough voyage. The Nats' touchdowns were tallied by Burns, Riddell and Brocklehurst, with Mullins getting most of the other points. Crowe booted the Petes' single. Incidentally, Lou Brooks had his four-float parade organized in fine style with boys' band and cheer-leaders. But all this didn't seem to slow up the C.N.R. fast freight any. Montreal has to play Beaches in Toronto, while Orfuns go to Sarnia next Saturday.

* * * * * *

SEEMS LIKE the Sarnia Imps, after indifferent playing for three weeks, have hit their true stride again — and they practically erased a tough Balmy Beach band from O.R.F.U. playoffs in the Tunnel Town over the week-end with a 10-2 rubber. Bummer Stirling blasted out eight of the 10 points to send 3,500 fans away verging on the hysterical. Can these be the Imps who were tied twice by Nationals and lost to Orfuns in recent weeks? We would have sworn on a stack of dictionaries that Beaches would break their losing jinx in Sarnia this time, after the trimming they handed the Irwin outfit, but Stirling is still Stirling—may his tribe decrease! Beaches must now beat Montreal while Orfuns are licking Sarnia for the Bam-Bam-Balmies to have a playoff chance. So we see the odd picture of Beaches—who nearly chewed the Orfuns' ears off in a savage attack a week ago—now praying for the Peterborough players to upset the Imps!

* * * * * *

It Is All a Mystery

AN O.R.F.U. "court of inquiry" met in Toronto Sunday to settle the Sarnia protest against Tommy Burns of Montreal, alleged to have hit Jim Butler of the Imps a punch a week ago which loosened three teeth. They claimed Burns teed off and sent a beauty down the fairway to take the tough Butler course in par. Burns, wearing a shiner as a local souvenir, said it must have been two other guys, and the ossifers tossed out the protest on the grounds of insufficient evidence. It is barely possible that Butler stabbed himself in the face with his own elbow while pushing the C.N.R. smoke out of his eyes, or does that sound silly? Rugby is not a gentle sport.

* * * * * *

TOMMY MILLER has accepted the managership of the senior "B" team of the Peterborough Hockey Club for this winter, and a coach will be named in the near future. Tommy played a lot of good hockey in goal here, starring for St. John's juniors four seasons, the Hockey Club juniors for another, and being goalie for the intermediate Petes a couple of more winters. Also some independent hockey. He has been mixed up in an official capacity in sports in recent years, including two terms as secretary of the big C.G.E. Bowling League—he is an ace trundler—and secretary of the Handicap Committee of the Kawartha Golf Club. Popular with the players, we have no doubt but Miller will be a fine puck officer.

DESE, DEM AND DOSE: The P.C.I. gridders play Bowmanville here next Sat'day in a return group playoff fray....Executive and players of the Petes' ball club will hold a business meeting tonight at 7.30 in the Chamber of Commerce....And officers and prospective puck players meet in Duffus at eight Thursday eve....Ben Simpson, former star kicker here and for Hamilton Tigers—now living in Hamilton—saw the Orfuns play on Sat-day; he remarked they needed a kicker badly....The Nats would like to get Mike Loucks for next year, but there is little chance....Cage sport is slow starting in this town these weeks....Several times Sat'day the Petes squawked about interference to one of the officials; the guy would say: "That's not my call"—but what are they paid for?....With all in the pink together, the Orfuns would have a pretty classy backfield for running and passing in Loucks, Crowe, Krug and Shields or Gordie McIntyre...."We'll have a few real stars brought in before next season," an Orfuns' officer remarked after the game....A couple of good puckists, new here, will turn out with the locals this winter....Some of those Nats run like Tennyson's brook—on and awn and ohn!

Plows Up Turtle Eggs

GUELPH, Ont., Nov. 7—(CP).—Turtle soup will be Ezra Stickney's main dish for a long time if his hopes are fulfilled. While ploughing on his Pilkington township farm he uncovered a nest of 30 turtle eggs and is keeping them to see if they will hatch.

St. Peter's Girls To Give Showing

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 7.—The regular monthly meeting of Hastings branch of the Catholic Women's League took place Thursday evening in the parish hall, with a good attendance present. Arrangements were made for an "At Home" to be held Friday evening, November 18, in Lynch's Hall, with Jack Grant's 'Aces" in attendance.

St. Peter's unit of Girl Guides from Peterborough will give a demonstration of Guide work in the parish Hall November 11. The object of this demonstration is to interest girls of Mount Carmel parish here, and later on form a local unit. Members of the Women's League will be present to act as hostesses for the visiting girls. An invitation will be extended to all interested to be present at the demonstration.

Eighteen-month-old Jimmy Archer recently flew 5,000 miles from London to Nairobi, Kenya Colony.

Argos Defeat Montreal Cubs 58 To 13

With nothing at stake Toronto Argos beat Montreal Cubs 58-13 in a game that meant nothing to either team except a lot of exercise. Argos are scheduled to meet Ottawa Roughriders in the playoffs. McPherson of Argos went over for a touchdown in the opening quarter of the game and can be seen here (if you have X-ray eyes) somewhere at the bottom of this pile of players.

Leading Harness Racers Are Quartered At Dufferin

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—Not for some years has the class of pacers and trotters to appear at Dufferin been of better quality or quantity. Judging from the early shipments now stabled at the West End oval, those who follow trotters will have plenty to select from.

More American horses have come across the line this year with a goodly number from the Province of Quebec, attracted, no doubt, by the five-mile events to be featured later on in the season. The French men are great supporters of distance races.

The headliners for the opening meen will be the outstanding free-for-all pace, and the lady drivers' events, which will have two entries from the American side and one lady driver from Calgary, to try their skill with the Ontario girls.

Fred Orpen has announced the opening of the ladies' parlors and rest rooms as used at the running events, and there will be many new improvements that will meet instant approval with the fans.

CORNWALL, Ont., Nov. 7.—(CP)—Kingston Collegiate and Vocational School football squad advanced to the semi-final round of the Eastern Ontario Secondary Schools Association senior playdowns by scoring a 17-8 victory over Cornwall Collegiate on a muddy gridiron.

A touchdown by Frank Hunter and a field goal from placement by Art Kinnear in the last quarter clinched the win for the Kingston students. Cornwall trailed 8-2 at halftime.

Parade Of Floats At Game Saturday

A colorful item on the football program in the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday, when Montreal Nationals met Peterborough Orfuns in the last scheduled home senior O.R.F.U. game here this season, was the four-float parade, band and cheer-leaders organized by Lou Brooks. With the P.C.I. bugle band knocking off lively tunes, the floats, representing the four clubs in the group, paraded downtown and in front of the crowd in the grandstand. The Montreal float was supplied by J. J. Turner and Sons Ltd., the Balmy Beach one by Peterborough Lumber Company, Sarnia's float by Imperial Oil Co., and the Orfuns' by the Coca Cola Co.

By-election In Alberta

BOYLE, Alta., Nov. 7.—(CP)—Electors go to the polls in Athabasca provincial riding today in the first rural constituency by-election Alberta's Social Credit government has been called upon to defend since its election in 1935.

C. J. R. Whitley, Liberal, and C. H. Tade, Social Credit, are in a straight fight for the seat made vacant by death of C. C. Ross, former minister of lands and mines who resigned from the Aberhart government in January, 1937.

Tade, who resigned the seat to make way for Mr. Ross, won in the 1935 election, polling 1,764 votes to 950 for F. R. Falconer, Liberal, and 315 for A. McLeod, Conservative. Mr. Ross was elected by acclamation the same year.

Two Champs To Meet For Title

These two serious looking parties will meet next Jan. 27, according to the present order of things at least, for the world's heavyweight boxing championship. Joe Louis, RIGHT, present holder of the title and practically unheard of since his two minutes with Max Schmeling last June, will put his crown on the line when he meets John Henry Lewis, LEFT, a champion in his own right, his sphere of activities being the light-heavyweight ranks, where there doesn't happen to be much good material. The fight will be staged in New York.

Blue Bombers Win Form Calgary 12-7

CALGARY, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Calgary's four-year quest for the Western Interprovincial Football Union championship today appeared doomed again followniç the 12-7 defeat of Bronks by Winnipeg Blue Bombers here Saturday in the first game of the two-game, total-points title series.

Bronks, coached by Carl Cronin, must defeat the Manitobans by six points or more in the second contest at Winnipeg next Saturday and, on the basis of the power Bombers showed in coming from behind in Calgary, such a trick seems improbable.

A Calgary victory by six points would be possible if Bronks could maintain for a full game the tight defence and varied attack they showed in gaining a 7-0 lead in the first half Saturday as they scored a converted touchdown by Paul Rowe and a rouge.

After the interval the Calgary defence was shattered by Coach Reg Threfall's Bombers who recovered a Calgary fumble and blocked two Bronk kicks to set the stage for a pair of field goals by Greg Kabat and a converted touchdown by Andy Bieber.

The series winner will not necessarily represent the West in the Dominion final. Union officials have announced the Western representative will be decided in a game Nov. 19 between the two teams. Players not resident in Canada continuously since Oct. 1, 1937, will be ineligible for the special contest.

Argos Are Having Gridiron Romances

TORONTO. November 7—(CP).—Gridiron romances may be a problem to some football clubs, but not to Toronto Argonauts, Dominion champions. In fact, if romance would inspire all his charges the way it has two of his stars, Coach Lew Hayman probably wouldn't mind if his entire team joined the ranks of benedicts.

Latest of the Scullers to find romance from the gridiron is Art West, starry halfback. At a banquet here Saturday night after the Argo's crushing victory over Montreal Cubs, his engagement to Miss Dianne Perkin, "Miss Toronto" for 1938, was officially announced.

The announcement caused the second celebration in the Argo camp within less than a month. About two weeks ago Quarterback Annis Stukus said that on October 1 he had quietly married Doris Shannon of Ottawa.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—(AP).—Around and about you hear that the smart football money cleaned up on Carnegie—and at juicy odds, too.... Well all you can say is Doc Sutherland certainly taught Bill Kern not wisely but too well when he was giving the skibo boss his grid lessons years ago . . . Looks like the Giants are going to bid heavy to keep the Yanks from landing Freddy Hutchinson, the Pacific Coast pitching ace, from Seattle . . .

One of our scouts finally got around to reporting on his classy Oklahoma outfit . . . For which young Tom Stidham rates the season's all America coaching call . . . Seems three of Tom's assistants—backfield boss Snorter Luster, line teacher Jap Haskell and frosh pilot Dutch Hill were teammates on the unbeaten Sooner outfit of 20 years back . . . Maybe that's why the 'El lads are thataway too . . .

The boys really got the foot back in football, Saturday—or did they? . . . Fordham, Manhattan, 'Bama, Rice, Southern Methodist, Utah State, Washington and New Hampshire all won on field goals . . . To say nothing of more than a dozen others decided on the extra point.

And while they were about it, the lads mowed down old man jinx for real . . . Rutgers over Princeton, first time in 69 years; Wisconsin walloped Northwestern for the first time in 17 years; Syracuse socked Colgate, first since '24, and Carnegie hadn't knocked off Pitt since 1928. . . . While Sutherland's sons hadn't dropped a decision in 22 straight starts . . .

Madoc Team Wins Rugby Victory

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Nov. 7—A sudden-death playoff rugby match to decide the winner of the local high school league was held on the Fair grounds in Madoc on Friday afternoon between Madoc and Marmora, the teams tied for leadership in the league.

The game was watched with great interest by a large crowd of spectators from both Madoc and Marmora, resulting in a well-won victory for the local boys with a score of 11-7, leaving the Madoc team champions of the league for 1938.

O.R.F.U. Playoffs To Start Nov. 19

TORONTO, Nov. 7 — (CP). — Officials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union decided today that playoffs between Montreal Nationals and Sarnia Imperials will start Saturday, Nov. 19 at Montreal, providing Toronto Balmy Beach does not tie Imperials for second place through an upset.

The Toronto club could draw level with the Imperials by defeating the Nationals here this Saturday, providing the last-place Peterborough Orfuns defeated Sarnia. But if Sarnia retains second place, as expected, a two-game total-point round between the first two teams will be played, with the second contest in Sarnia Nov. 26.

Honor Newlyweds

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Nov. 7.—On Friday evening a large crowd gathered at the I.O.F. Hall, Bannockburn, to honor Mr. and Mrs. John Norman, a recent bride and groom. Dancing to the music furnished by Messrs. Jack Wilson and Findlay Shaw was enjoyed during the evening.

A beautiful array of gifts were tendered the young couple and guests were present from Flinton and Wellington.

First Of Season

HASTINGS, Nov. 7.—Hardly had the deer season opened when a good sized buck roped to the side of a car passed through here Sunday night. The hunter seems to have been unusually lucky considering the fact that the season did not open until Saturday.

Pitt Is Upset By Panthers; Yale Wins 20-14

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—(AP).—Awesome winning streaks, hard-won reputations and tenacious jinxes were rocked by a series of explosions Saturday as the United States college football program turned out to be dynamite for a dozen well-established favorites.

Hit hardest was the mighty Pittsburgh scoring machine that had rumbled through 22 straight games without defeat. Matched with an inspired Carnegie Tech team that hadn't beaten Pitt since 1928, the Panthers scored on the first play of the game, as Curly Stebbins ran back the opening kickoff 97 yard; added three more points on a field goal by Bill Daddio and then were checked completely as the Tartans, combining blazing runs by Merlyn Condi and George Muha with an ability to capitalize on the breaks, roared away to a 20-10 victory.

California, believed headed for a second visit to the Rosebowl, probably lost all chance of that and the Pacific Coast Conference title in a 13-7 upset by Southern California; Northwestern, aspiring to the big ten championship, was knocked out of the unbeaten ranks by Wisconsin, 20-13; resurgent Alabama, Rice and Southern Methodist emphasized the foot in football with field goals that beat favored Tulane, Arkansas and Texas A. and M.

Syracuse toppled Colgate, 7-0; Purdue thwarted Ohio State's big ten title hopes with a 12-0 shellacking; Rutgers got one more break than Princeon to nip the Tigers, 20-18.

Alabama beat Tulane in the last quarter 3-0 on quarterback Vic Bradford's fourth-down place kick from the 17-yard line.

Yale, trailing with only a few minutes remaining, took a poor Brown punt on the Bruins' 31 and scored on two passes to win, 20-14. Michigan, breezing away to a 19-0 lead, had to hold off a last-period drive by Pennsylvania to gain a 19-13 triumph.

Lakefield Poppies Have Good Sale

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 7. — The annual Poppy Day in aid of the Canadian Legion was held in Lakefield on Saturday, Nov. 5, and the proceeds of the sale of poppies were satisfactory. More than $41.00 was realized. Proceeds from the sale of wreaths during the coming week will no doubt swell this sum considerably. Misses Elsie Chapell, Jean Orr, Dorothy Crawford, Gwennie Crawford, Mary Alice Renwick, Pauline Blewett, Theresa McFadden, and Mabel Hopkins were the eight girls who sold poppies.

At the conclusion of the day the women of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion served tea to the girls at the home of Mrs. T. W. B. Marling. An interesting feature was the presentation of a small gift to each girl who gave her services during the day.

Pile Up Count Last Half As Orfuns' Touchdowns Called Back By Referee

Orfuns absorbed a 23-1 defeat here Saturday at the hands of the Montreal Nationals in their last home appearance of the season. A crowd of 3,000 fans saw the burly Nats maintain their undefeated string for the season in an exciting gridiron fray. As in previous losses, the locals' score did not indicate the play, and two Orfuns' touchdowns were called back by the officials.

The score was 6-0 in the first quarter, Mullins' kicking for Montreal being the big feature. Orfuns held their classy rivals off the score sheet in the second frame, but after halftime the C.N.R. crew got rolling and they had a 10-0 edge in the third and a 7-1 margin in the fourth. Touchdowns by Burns, Riddell and Brocklehurst provided the major counts, the latter's being a gift from Ferraro who intercepted a forward, ran 40 yards and then tossed the touchdown ball to his teammate.

The homesters had a touchdown in the second quarter when they dribbled a fumbled Nats' ball over the line, but it was ruled interference and returned. They got another in the third when Krug ran back a kick 40, passed to McNulty who got 10 and then passed to Flack who went over—but it was ruled offside and returned. One of the Nats' points failed by a yard to go over the line but was ruled when it went out of touch. Local players felt the officiating and breaks were much against them, but they put up a stiff fight with Loucks out and Crowe in poor shape after injuries. Barnabe was a Montreal absentee.

Fast Backfield

The visitors presented a speedy backfield, strong line, good blocking and tackling and an ace booter in Mullins. The locals looked weak in kicking, but they presented a good variety of plays and gave a nice account of themselves against powerful opposition. Ferraro, Hemsley, Burns, Atcheson, Mullins and Riddell were outstanding for the winners, the C.N.R. rear division looking the best seen here this season.

Curly Krug sparked the Orfuns' attack with a grand all-round performance. His knifing drives at the line, hard tackling and shifty running was a big feature of the game. Johnny Shields was hard to haul down on plunges, and the whole gang worked their heads off in a losing cause. It was a hard but not exceptionally rough contest, and kills any outside chance the Orfuns have of making the playoffs this year.

First Quarter

With the wind at their backs, Montreal hoofed frequently and for distance in the first quarter. Crowe took Mullins' hefty boot on his 25-yard strip and a lateral to McIntyre netted 20. A buck and end run gained but two and Crowe's kick was partially blocked by Burton, Mullins promptly toeing the pigskin from midfield to the deadline for a point. A Peterborough penalty forced another local hoist and Atcheson grabbed it on Orfuns' 20. A slap at the line by Ferraro gained five and Mullins skated around end for 10. In good position, he then kicked a field goal from the 20 to make it 4-0. Farha dropped Crowe for a loss on an end stab and Krug pocketed three on a quarterback sneak. Mullins received on his 40 after a kick, and Riddell returned it to the home 20. Shields hit centre for five and Crowe waltzed around right end for six, Nats drawing a tripping penalty. Crowe got five more and then booted it. Riddell lifted a long return kick and it went out of touch just over the line for a point. A short kick by Crowe was roped in by Atcheson on Orfuns' 50 and Mullins lifted a lofty punt to deadline, making it 6 to 0. Krug moved the sticks on a fake end run and slithering plunge but kicks were exchanged later. Mullins booted one to deadline but it was an offside play, and next kick resulted in a rouge on Crowe but it went for no count owing to a no-yards penalty as the frame finished.

Second Quarter

Mullins scooped up Crowe's kick and ankled 15 to Orfuns' 45. Ferraro banged the line for 10. On a bad snap, Ferraro missed the ball. He was bumped aside and several Petes dribbled the leather lemon over apparently for a try, but it was called back for interference on Ferraro. Mullins ran back Crowe's kick 20 to Nats' 40 and big Johnny bucked for five. On a lateral, Mullins fumbled and Marsh speared the ball on Nats 50. A local forward was ruled complete on interference and Krug took Marsh's forward for 10. Krug blasted the front wall for six and then got four for yards. He recovered a fumble and a short kick saw Hendren grass Mullins on his own 10-yard chalk. Mullins booted to his 50, Burns nailing Crowe in his tracks. Riddell intercepted Crowe's forward toss on Nats' 40. He skirted end for nine and they got first down next play. On a tricky criss-cross, Ferraro gained 15 and Mullins tore around the short end for five. His kick went out at Orfuns' 10. Two bumps at the line gained eight and Atcheson made a good 10-yard runback on the kick ere Hendrie hauled him down on Orfuns' 45. Two bucks gained little and they kicked to Krug. He split the wind for eight off end and Curtin then kicked to Atcheson at midfield. Interference on the kicked give it back to the homesters but Davies intercepted a forward as the half wound up.

Third Quarter

Following a kicking exchange, with Mullins outdistancing Crowe, the latter was hit hard by three Nats' tacklers and dropped the ball. It was grabbed up and Montreal held possession but a yard out. Burns hurtled the line for a major count, which was not converted. The count was 11-0 for the visitors. Krug reeled off four around end and then took a 20-yard forward from Marsh, going five more before being dunked. Renaud felled Crowe for a loss on the next play. A forward missed fire and Crowe's kick rolled out on the C.N.R. 30. Riddell bumped it back to Orfuns' 35. A couple of jabs at the line were stopped and a short kick was taken by Ferraro on the 55-yard strip. He hurled a 12-yard pass to Farha and another was ruled okay on interference. A buck got five and then Riddell sliced through for a touchdown, the convert failing, as the count stood at 16-0. A 20-yard end run by Mullins later was called back for offside, and Hempey limped off injured. Murphy took the kick on his 25. Plunges hit a stonewall and McNulty booted to Mullins on his 50. Krug intercepted Ferraro's forward. He missed one and another forward was complete on interference. Shields bucked for 12 on a furious sortie and Creighton gained four to Nats' 30. Shields attempted placement missed and Mullins was dropped on his 10 with the ball. Mullins kicked to Creighton on Orfuns' 30, the latter passing to Krug, who raced 40 before passing the ball. It went to McNulty who ran 10 more and then flipped the ball to Flack who went over. But the play was called back to where McNulty got it, being ruled a forward pass there. A fumble drove them back 20 and a kick went bad at the end.

Fourth Quarter

Flack stopped Ferraro's thrust at the line and then Krug was rouged by Brocklehurst on Burns' attempted placement after a booting duel put play in Orfuns' area. Ferraro knocked down a forward attempt in the air and Crowe bumped it to Nats' 25. Murphy yanking Mullins off his feet. A buck netted four for Ferraro and Mullins kicked to Krug who ran back eight to his 40. A forward went screwy but Crowe tossed two more 10-yard heaves, Krug and Shields completing them. Two raps at the line were fruitless and Crowe's attempted placement went to deadline for a point, making it 17-1. Mullins booted out on his 50, on the next play, Ferraro made a one-hand grab of a forward pass to intercept it and roll toward the enemy goal-line. He was in the clear and could have scored easily but passed to Brocklehurst near the line and the latter got the try. It was a 40-yard run. Mullins kicked the convert to end the scoring. Ferraro later broke through on a plunge to get 35 yards, but a fumble after gave Shields the ball on his 30. Orfuns moved the sticks on bangs at the line for five by Krug and Shields, and a booting exchange had play near the centre at the last whistle. The teams:

In the first all-colored championship bout staged in any boxing division in 34 years, John Henry Lewis, king of the light-heavyweights, turned back the challenge of Al Gainer, New Haven bricklayer, by gaining a 15 round decision in their title match at New Haven, Connecticut. The champ gained the decision by finishing strong. The picture shows Lewis landing a wicked left to the challenger's head, with the latter seemingly falling in to meet the blow. Getting the shot from another angle is the photographer seen in the centre.

Bummer Stirling Kicks Sarnia Into O.R.F.U. Playoffs As Imperials Defeat Beaches

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—If ever there was a single player who could break the collective hearts of an opposing team, it is Hugh (Bummer) Stirling, the 220-pound back who toils so brilliantly for Sarnia Imperials.

The Bummer stood out before the home folks Saturday and kicked Toronto Balmy Beach into virtual elimination from the Ontario Football Union playoffs. At the end of the day, with Imperials victors by 10-2, there was no one to dispute Stirling's right to the hero role.

His performance was the outstanding one in an afternoon of great individual feats on the eastern program, featured also by a 23-2 thumping McGill handed University of Toronto and University of Western Ontario's 10-1 shellacking of Queen's. These results left only Western with a chance to force an intercollegiate union playoff.

All Leaders Win.

As expected, Montreal Nationals, Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders won easily. Nationals, assured of at least a tie for the O.R.F.U. lead no matter what happens next Saturday retained their undefeated record by whipping Peterborough Orfuns 23-1; Argos routed Montreal Cubs 58-13 at Toronto and Riders eased by Hamilton Tigers 23-9 at Ottawa.

Imperials were closer to elimination before the Beach game than in any of the past seven years they have ruled the Union. A defeat would have left them with only a slim chance of a playoff berth and they were up against what observers called the strongest Balmy Club in 10 years.

Took No Chances.

Tied twice and beaten once in their last three starts, Imperials took no chances. They let Stirling, a bear for work, take over from the start and the Bummer responded by punting magnificently throughout. He rolled punts of 65 and 70 yards off his big right foot with clocklike regularity and occasionally he drove the ball 80 and 90 yards.

Beaches were broken slowly. They held the Imperial machine scoreless in the first quarter and conceded only two singles to Stirling in the second. Once in the half they had advanced to Imperials 10, but the fates were unkind and Imperials recovered a Beach fumble to relieve the pressure.

As the wind blew more strongly, Stirling became greater in the final quarter. Arnie McWatters had kicked a third-quarter field goal to offset the two singles Ab Box got for Beaches, and it was just a question of holding Beaches at bay. Stirling did just that, booming five singles over the Beach line, and Imperials halted a final passing flurry with ease.

All that remains for Imperials to enter the playoffs with Nationals, who held a distinct edge on the ground and through the air against Peterborough, is for them to gain a tie against Orfuns next Saturday. And though Imperials were upset by the tailenders two weeks ago, no one figures Orfuns can beat Sarnia again.

3 Touches in Last Half.

Led by burly Andy Anton, McGill battered down Toronto's defence to run over three touchdowns in the last half and eliminate the Blues from titular contention for the first time since Warren Stevens took over at U. of T. in 1932. Toronto held their own while the field was dry, and though they were behind by four points at the half they had carried most of the play.

But the rain came down in torrents to halt Toronto's open game in the last two quarters and McGill's tanks got marching. Anton, who scored McGill's first quarter touchdown, got another, and Herb. Westman and Presty Robb scored one each as well. Anton and Westman, for his consistent kicking, were the McGill stars.

Fifth Straight Victory.

Fifteen thousand Montreal fans watched the Redmen score their fifth straight victory. They can win the college championship without a playoff by tying or beating Western Mustangs at London next Saturday. College Union rules call for a playoff only if the second-place team has beaten the leaders during the season.

Jim Farmer led Mustangs to victory over Queen's at Kingston. In command throughout, Western were held scoreless only for the first quarter, then they began to roll. Farmer smashed through for a touchdown from Queen's 20 and that would have been enough to win the way Western's defence was working.

Farmer also converted the touchdown and kicked a field goal from placement in the third quarter, for nine of the 10 points.

Ten Touchdowns.

Argos enjoyed a workout against Cubs, scoring 10 touchdowns. Red Storey showed the way with three and, with Bill Stukus, was outstanding in the easy victory. Murray Griffin relieved the injured Orville Burke at quarterback for the Rough Riders and sparked the team's attack. His passing accounted directly for two touchdowns, by Bunny Wadsworth and Eddie Rocano. Dave Sprague and Andy Tommy got one each before the fourth quarter, when Tigers scored all their points.

Ray Mullins, Johnny Riddell, and Tommy Burns each accounted for six points as Nationals breezed past Peterborough on Orfuns' home grounds.

BOXER WEDS.

Black Hawks Win Two Games Over Weekend

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Nov. 7. — Chicago Black Hawks not only have taken to winning a lot of hockey games in a hurry, but they're winning them in a way that stands your hair on end.

Last season the Hawks needed a month to score their first three National League victories and provided few tingling moments at any time until they squeezed into playoffs, when they went berserk and won the Stanley Cup. But this is a different season, and Bill Stewart's experienced charges, apparently, are a different sort of team.

Won First Three Starts.

Hawks have won their first three starts, to sprint into a lead over the rest of the seven-team pack. In succession they have whipped their three victims of last spring's playoffs, New York Americans 6-1 at Chicago on Thursday, the Maple Leafs 2-0 at Toronto on Saturday, and the Canadiens 3-2 at Montreal.

Those results left Chicago with six points, two more than Boston Bruins who defeated the Red Wings 4-1 at Detroit last night and who are the only other club to have won a game.

Chicago's win over Americans was merely a demonstration of scoring power for the home folks. In contrast, Hawks whipped the Leafs and Canadiens on Bristling, last-minute assaults after determined dog-fights.

Fire-eating Band.

Mingled with the Toronto victory were a couple of scraps that left an impression Hawks may turn from being one of the game's drabbest teams to a fire-eating band of showmen. Earl Seibert of Chicago and Bob Davidson collided in the second period and staged a brief flurry of fists. Referee Clarence Campbell interpreted a technical ruling against the Hawks in the third and the argument didn't end until the visitors had done a fair share of shouting and punching.

The 10,000 fans saw Leafs pelt Goalie Mike Karakas all the way until Murph Chamberlain of Toronto drew a tripping penalty with just more than two minutes to play. Then Mush March combined on a power play with Doc Romnes and Johnny Gottselig, to skid a goal past Turk Broda from near the blue line. With Chamberlain's return, Toronto took up the attack again; but Earl Robinson broke away with Russ Blinco and finished the scoring with a neat shot to the corner.

Whirlwind Finish.

Joffre Desilets, whom Canadians traded to Hawks at the start of the training campaign, turned on his old mates to supply a whirlwind finish at Montreal. With but a minute and a half to play, the blind took Cully Dahlstrom's pass and dated in to beat Wilf Cude.

Twice Canadiens had taken a lead. Paul Haynes got the first goal when Hawks were shorthanded in the first period, but Desilets tied it. With a minute to play in the second, Toe Blake gave the Flying Frenchmen a 2-1 advantage, and this time Robinson pinch-hit again, sinking a relay from Baldy Northcott and Blinco after three minutes of the third.

Shore Still Holdout.

Again Bruins were without Eddie Shore, long the kingpin of their defence. Manager Art Ross said yesterday that big Eddie might be through with hockey for good, but moderated last night with the statement that League President Frank Calder might be able to deal with Shore's case.

The Boston attack didn't miss the charging defence greatly, though. Bill Cowley gave Bruins a first-period lead and handed Bill Sands a pass to raise the lead to 2-0 in the second.

Mud Bruneteau introduced Detroit's goal then, but again Cowley laid down a successful pass, this time to Ray Getliffe, who made it 3-1. Porky Dumart completed the triumph with the aid of Bobby Bauer in the third.

Good Plunger

JOHNNY SHIELDS

Shields did some fine plunging for the local Orfuns here Saturday when the Nationals rolled up a 23-1 victory before 3,000 fans. Injuries and lack of reserve strength—and some bad breaks—hurt Orfuns' chances.

$7,200 FOR AN EYE

BELFAST—(CP).—Alleging negligence on the part of a player and the Cliftonville Golf Club, Albert Potter was awarded $7,200 damages against the club for loss of an eye. He was hit with a ball while playing on the course.

Kingston Beats Trenton 3-2 In Close Game

TRENTON, Ont., Nov. 7.—(CP).—A smashing closing drive gave Kingston Garrison's Intermediate O.R.F.U. gridders a sparkling 3-2 victory over Trenton Flyers here Saturday with Garrison actually kicking the winning placement as the final whistle blew. Gibson, kicking start of the R.C.A.F. team, had booted two singles early in the second, and the Flyers seemed headed for certain victory over their heavier rivals. A last-minute forward-passing foray brought Garrison to Trenton's 10-yard line where Gray drop-kicked just as the game ended.

Play was close for much of the game and few outstanding gains were made. Wilkie, smart R.C.A.F. quarterback, made the best advance of the game when he took one of Gray's punts in full stride in the second quarter and ran it back 35 yards to midfield. Both teams were careful of forward passes and each completed several for neat gains. Garrison had a golden opportunity for a major score in the last period when a high snap forced Gibson to fall on the ball on his own eight-yard line, with Kingston taking possession there. However, Flyers held excellently, smothering two line plays and batting down an attempted forward over the touchline to avert the disaster.

The loss leaves the R.C.A.F. definitely in third place in the loop, while Kingston, in second place, have little chance of taking Cobourg's snappy team. Saturday's loss was the second the Airmen have suffered at the hands of the Kingston team.

HODGSON, Alice Rose.—Suddenly, at her late residence, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on Saturday, October 29, 1938, Alice Rose, beloved wife of Alfred E. Hodgson, and daughter of the late Alexander and Mary Jane McCartney of Kingston, Ontario. Interment Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto, November 3, 1938.

IN MEMORIAM

SPROAT. — In loving memory of Margaret Jane Sproat, who pased away November 6, 1934.

What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In Heaven, that happy life.
—Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

THOMAS. — In loving memory of Arthur Thomas, who passed away November 6, 1936.
—Fondly remembered by Wife and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Darius Hall and family wish to express their sincere thanks to their many friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness during their recent sad bereavement in the loss of their husband and father; also for the many beautiful floral tributes and also the ministers, Mr. Steward and Mr. Moore.

Two Are Injured In Tweed Mishaps

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Nov. 7. — While riding down the school hill on Friday afternoon, Don Meraw was badly bruised and cut, necessitating medical attention. It appears that Meraw was riding on the handle bars of the bicycle being ridden by Grant Baker, and the machine collapsed under the weight of the two boys. Young Baker was also badly shaken up. The bicycle was completely destroyed.

Jude Meraw, aged 4 years, received very severe injuries on Saturday, and was rushed to Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston. The youngster unnoticed by the driver, Mr. Barrow, climbed on to a load of wood, and when the wagon moved, the youngster was thrown off between the wheel and the body of the waggon, and received severe lacerations. First aid was rendered by a local physician who ordered the boy removed hospital.

That peanuts can be successfully grown in Tweed has been demonstrated by Miss Ana Thompson, a Fourth Form pupil of Tweed High School, who planted a number of peanuts in a plot in the school garden last spring. When harvested, the peanuts were well matured, though slightly smaller in size than they grow under usual conditions.

Minister Kept Waiting

BLUCHER, Sask., Nov. 7.—(CP). —In this case the minister, not the bride, was kept waiting at the church and it was a long wait. William Martyn and Miss Alice Hampton planned to marry here Friday but while the bridal party was enroute from Elstow, 6 miles distant, they were trapped in a severe snowstorm. They completed the journey on foot 15 hours late and Rev. J. C. Cinnamon who waited, performed the ceremony.

Aberhart Is Backing Hon. W. D. Herridge

EDMONTON, Nov. 7—(CP). — Premier Aberhart of Alberta expressed hope last night Hon. W. D. Herridge would lead "a monetary reform movement which would sincerely determine to remedy the present financial system.

Orvis A. Kennedy, Social Credit M.P. for Edmonton, questioned Mr. Aberhart at the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference regarding a Chicago newspaper report Mr. Herridge and the Alberta Premier were joining forces to contest the next Dominion general election.

"No such union has been broached nor even formed," Mr. Aberhart replied, "I am fully occupied with affairs in Alberta but I would be delighted to give as much support as I have at my disposal to a monetary reform movement led by Mr. Herridge."

Hungary Fired With Conquest

BUDAPEST, Nov. 7 (A.P.).— Sentiment for further territorial revision rode at high crest in Hungary to-day.

Enthusiasm whipped up by military occupation of a sizeable slice of Czechoslovakia inspired Hungarian leaders to tell the people this victory was "only partial justice."

Hungary, they said, rejoiced that Italian-German arbitration brought the return of 4,875 square miles of territory, about one-fifth of the total lost to Czechoslovakia at the end of the Great War. But, speakers added, the country would not be satisfied with that.

The Hapsburg Archduke Joseph, a field-marshal in the Great War, was one who called for a drive to gain full revision of the Great War Treaty at Trianon.

"Now, without distinction of class or rank, we will only be Hungarians working for restoration of Saint Stephen's Hungary (pre-war Hungary), the 72-year-old Archduke said in a trembling voice as he watched the Hungarian army of occupation move up yesterday at Esztergom.

The army started its progressive arbitration of the regained territory on Saturday, and is to complete the job by Thursday.

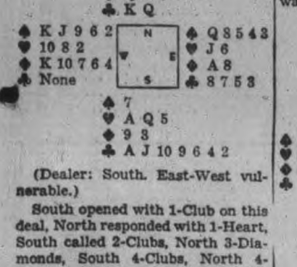
USING GHOST CARDS

THERE ARE PLAYERS who are almost clairvoyant in their ability to foresee what an opponent will think if they make a certain bid or play. They sometimes make him think they hold a particular card, while all they really have is a sort of ghost card in the form of an illusion which they create, thus scaring him away from the line of action otherwise clearly marked.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South opened with 1-Club on this deal, North responded with 1-Heart, South called 2-Clubs, North 3-Diamonds, South 4-Clubs, North 4-Hearts, South 5-Hearts and North 6-Clubs.

When the diamond 6 was led, South realized that he was one trick too high, due to West's selection of an opening lead. He studied the hand carefully before playing and decided to play the diamond 2 from dummy. It was evident that West did not hold the A and K of diamonds and if East held the A and read South for the K, he might switch to some other suit.

Figuring that declarer would have played the diamond J from dummy unless he held the K, and as the lead of the 6 indicated that South held one card higher than those exposed, East decided against the return of the suit and switched to a club. South breathed a sigh of relief, as the making of his contract was then secure.

Sturgeon Point Residents Out For Bears

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Nov. 7. — At Friday's police court session Magistrate Gee delivered judgment in the charge against a Bobcaygeon druggist named Douglas of failing to procure a transient trader's license. In spite of protests from T. J. Carley, K.C., of Peterborough, counsel for the accused, a penalty of $25.00 and costs was imposed. Mr. Carley's contention was that the penalty clause in the by-law was invalid as it did not conform with the statute. Therefore, he held, no penalty could be imposed. The fine was paid under protest, and an appeal will be entered against the decision.

His Excellency Bishop Nelligan, of Pembroke, opened the new Catholic church in the village of Haliburton—the first Catholic church to be erected in that county. The church will be known as St. Anthony's church and will be in charge of Rev. Father Kennedy, of Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Dunlop, of Omemee district, had a narrow escape from serious injury east of the village last night. A car driven by R. E. McLennan, of Peterborough the police state, crashed into the rear of the buggy, slightly injuring Mr. anod Mrs. Dunlop. The driver of the auto, it is understood, claims that the buggy carried no light, while Dunlop claims he had a light.

An accident occurred in the village of Argyle last night when a car driven by W. J. Chambers, of Fenelon Falls, crashed into another car driven by Chester Currie of Woodville. Chalmers was proceeding east, and police claim he apparently failed to notice the stop sign. Both cars were badly damaged.

Lorne Fry, of Eagle Lake, employed by the International Cooperage Company, met with a serious accident this week while at work in the mill. His hand came in contact with a gear in the planer and three fingers were taken off. He was taken to the Red Cross Outpost Hospital at Haliburton.

Residents of Sturgeon Point are out on the warpath for bears. During the past few days three bears have been prowling around the resort, but no one has been able to bag them. One young bear was seen a few days ago munching away at crab apples in a tree. Bruin disappeared, however, when one of the residents went to his home to get a rifle.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

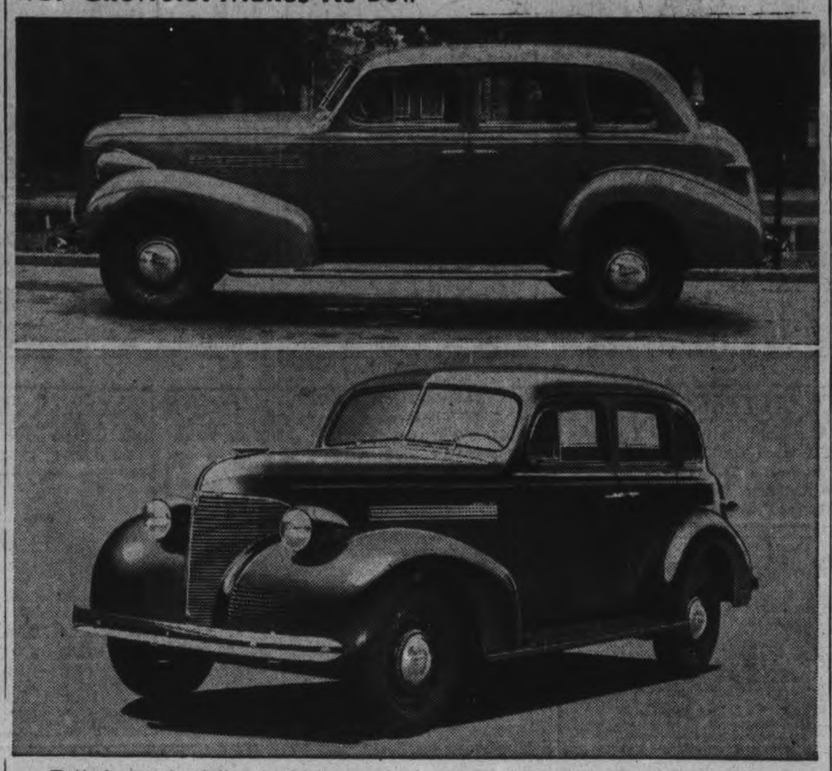
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c

1939 Chevrolet Makes Its Bow



Entirely new in styling, and incorporating the major mechanical advances of the automotive year, the 1939 Chevrolet comes to the Canadian motoring public in two series—the Master DeLuxe (upper picture) and the Master 85 (lower picture). The many new features include advanced knee-action on the DeLuxe Series and the "pull-man ride" on the Master 85; "vacuum-assist" gear-shift control operated from the steering column, available on all models; relocation of instruments and controls on the dashboard; new headlamps; new style of wheels; and reforms to the oiling system, carburetor, thermostatic control, and the cooling system.

Roseneath W.I. Hears Peace Talk

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Nov. 7. — Mrs. Eldred Lean of Camborne was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Lean's subject was "Peace."

Mrs. James L. Timlin was the hostess, Mrs. B. Thackeray, president, presided. The roll call answers were, "What I am Thankful for."

During the busines session it was decided to hold a euchre party during the latter part of the month, when tickets will be drawn on the hope chest. The following ladies were named a committee to arrange details for the party, Mrs. L. Tucker, Mrs. George Mouncey, Mrs. C. Sandercock, Mrs. Earl Thackeray and Mrs. James L. Timlin.

An invitation was received by the Branch to attend the "Milky Way" project in Warkworth on November 7 and 8, and Miss Mary Braithwaite was appointed convenor to arrange for a number to attend.

Miss Mary Braithwaite and Mrs. Leslie Sherwin are a committee to arrange a program for the December meeting, and Mrs. J. W. Pacey will arrange the Christmas gift exchange.

A short program arranged by Mrs. A. Halstead and Mrs. Earl Thackeray was presented. Miss Ruby Blodgett gave a reading. A piano solo was played by Mrs. B. Thackeray and a reading by Mrs. A. Nill. A short history of Women's Institutes was given by Miss Dorcas Atkinson.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem, and the hotess served refreshments.

Claim Key To Shakespeare's Works Buried In Chepstow Castle

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7—(AP).—Antiquarians are on the wrong track when they attempt to dig up graves to prove the authorship of William Shakespeare's works, John Howell, noted book collector and Baconian authority said here to-day.

The secret, said Howell, lies deep in the ground of Chepstow Castle, 150 miles southwest of London, where Sir Francis Bacon and his friends burned their manuscripts 313 years ago.

Students investigated the tomb of Edmund Spenser in Westminster Abbey to see whether any hand-written elegies could be found to provide a clue in the Shakespearean controversy.

This was referred to, he said, in a volume known as the Arcadia, published in 1638. Howell declared many of the objects referred to in the book have been located, but not the chests.

Admit Failure

LONDON, Nov. 7—(CP).—Antiquarians today admitted they failed to find the 339-year-old grave of Edmund Spenser, Elizabethan poet, in Westminster Abbey in which they had hoped to find parchments by which scholars might determine the authorship of Shakespeare's works.

A careful sifting of the earth of one grave excavated by workmen failed to indicate yesterday whose remains were enclosed in a decayed lead coffin.

"No further search is contemplated," an official statement said.

Tradition has it that when Spenser, author of the longest English poem, "The Faerie Queene," died in 1599, fellow poets cast into his coffin elegies and the pens with which they were written.

Searchers looking for the grave of Spenser had hoped that comparison of hand writing on such elegies might settle the age-old controversy over whether dramas attributed to Shakespeare were written by Francis Bacon.

A manuscript by Bacon, Elizabethan philosopher, exists, making comparison possible. No Shakespeare manuscript has been preserved.

Search for the grave was carried on for several days. The Dean of Westminster, Rev. Paul De Labilliere, issued a statement outlining what was done under the direction of himself, Sir Charles Peers, famed antiquarian, A. Lawrence Tanner, keeper of muniments and Professor H. J. Plenderleith of the British Museum.

Spenser died at a London inn, and it is recorded he was buried in the Abbey in the Poets' Corner near the grave of Geoffrey Chaucer.

The Old Arguments

News an attempt to find the grave was to be made stirred up the well-worn arguments for and against the Baconian authorship of Shakespeare's works.

Here are some of the arguments advanced by Baconians in support of their contention he wrote the wrote the plays attributed to Shakespeare.

1. Francis Bacon, Viscount St. Albans, is generally considered the greatest mind of the Elizabethan era, Shakespeare excepted. If the Stratford playwright was not the author, only Bacon could have written such brilliant work.

2. Passages in the plays bear striking parallels to the writings of Bacon.

3. Shakespeare, with his narrow education at a Stratford grammar school, could not possible have written plays with such mastery of words and such a wealth of classical allusion.

4. Bacon did not openly admit authorship of the plays for two main reasons. Sentiments expressed about royalty in some of them were supposedly incompatible with his own high position at court. Furthermore it was not considered fitting at that time for noblemen to be associated with the drama.

5. Shakespeare, an illiterate merchant, was given £1,000 and a house at Stratford-On-Avon in exchange for allowing his name to be used as author of the plays.

Shakesperians simply point to the generally accepted accounts of the playwright's life as the most convincing reply to the Baconians. They assert, too, that no one genius could possibly have written so diversely and yet so brilliantly as did Bacon and Shakespeare.

Four Cows Are Killed

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 7 (CP).—Jonathan Steckley, farmer living just east of Shakespeare, suffered a heavy loss yesterday when a C.N.R. passenger train, en route to Toronto, struck and killed four cows.

The cows had been pasturing in the field back of the Steckley farm. Mr. Steckley's daughters had gone to bring the cows to the barn. In order to reach the building it is necessary to cross the railway tracks. Mr. Steckley was out in the field plowing at the time and saw the girls approach the crossing with the cows.

Man Buries Wife Dies Same Day

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 7—Robert Boyes, former teacher and Public School inspector for Northumberland county died at his home here today four hours after his wife had been burried this afternoon. His death was attributed to a heart condition aggravated by the strain of the last few days in which Mrs. Boyes died.

He was born near Guelph and spent a few years in the west later coming to Campbellford where he was employedas mathematics teacher in the High School. He taught school for nearly 40 years and from 1911 to 1929 was Public School Inspector for Northumberland County.

The funeral of the late Margaret Davidson was held on Sunday afternoon from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Born in Seymour township nearly 72 years ago she spent the most of her life in Campbellford where for many years before her marriage she resided. Although her death came on Friday morning following an illness of nearly two years' duration it was only during the past seven weeks that her condition became more serious. Thirty-six years ago she became the bride of Robert Boyes who was at that time a school teacher and later became widely known as public school inspector for Northumberland.

One brother James, and one sister, Effie, also survive and live in the Boyes' homestead in Seymour Township. A life member of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Mr. Boyes was an active worker in practically every field of religious endeavour. The funeral service was conducted from the Church by Rev. B. Simpson Black and interment was later made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs H. Dunk, C.S. Haig, A. A. Martin, A. K. Loucks, J. J. Lewis Hay and H. Langdon.

Death By Poison Brings Arrest

PEMBROKE, Ont., Nov. 5—(CP).—A manslaughter charge was laid to-day against Richard Tennant, Pembroke railway sectionman, in connection with the death on August 9 of Mrs. Ida Leder. A coroner's jury yesterday found she died from arsenic poisoning and that it was used in a plaster supplied her by Tennant for treatment of a supposed cancer.

A warrant was issued by H. B. Johnston, K.C., Crown Attorney, charging Tennant with manslaughter, and police said he would be arrested during the day.

It was brought out in evidence before the coroner's jury that Mrs. Leder went to Tennant for treatment, and that he applied plasters. Expert witnesses told the jury the plasters contained arsenic and that it caused the woman's death. Dr. E. R. Frankish, Ontario Government medico-legal expert, testified he could find no trace of cancer.

Price Of Eggs Undergoes Spread 15 Cents

Eggs ranged in price from 30 to 45 cents Saturday in a market that was steady and firm but featureless. Absentees were noted on both sides of the counters in the upstairs market, although they were not markedly numerous. Eggs were flying kites Saturday, seeking to soar up to higher levels, but most of the sales seemed to be going on around 35 to 40 cents.

Butter was in the background at 22 and 23 cents up to 25 cents. Farmers offered quite a large quantity of poultry. Some of the prices were: Chickens 16 to 20 cents; geese 20 cents; turkeys 25 to 30 cents.

Potatoes were quoted at 90 cents and $1 a bag. Several producers told the Examiner that they are expecting the price to reach $2 a bag before the approaching season is over. Effect of blight, they say, have developed recently after a lot of potatoes were sold, and then began to show signs of rot.

"I bring in a few every Saturday for appearances, and because you've got to have some for your steady customers, but I'm not worrying about how few I sell. I feel certain from all accounts that the price will go to $2 so I let the other fellow sell at 90 cents if he wants to."

This is not propaganda for higher prices. It is simply an opinion and attitude in regard to the trend of the market, and it may be realized if the factors are actually are potentially as strong as the trade believes. In another sense, producers are gambling on the turn with the prospect of profit seemingly in their favor.

Apples Plentiful

On the outdoor market every detail of it was almost identical with that of the preceding week-end. Prices were unchanged, and apples and late vegetables were dominant. The Baltimore man was in again with a load of cauliflower and broccoli, the same orchard men were in the line, and even the Bowmanville cider was back with about 25 gallons.

Incidentally, gardeners should not mention cabbages weighing around 13 pounds. Some of them telling the Examiner about the big Savoy and Dutch heads, making something of a Derby of it, but the "speed" of the field moved up sharply Saturday to the 20 pound mark. At the H. F. Doing bench, it was said they have quite a lot of cabbages going into the root house at 20 pounds, and stripped of the outer leaves. Their prices Saturday was still five cents, and the same for the red variety.

Here are some apple prices: W. L. Snowden's russets $1.40 the bushel; Pippins $1.25 a hamper; Snows 35c a peck; Wolf Rivers 30 cents; Talmans $1.40 the hamper; Kings $1.40; Spies $3.00 a barrel; McIntosh Reds 45c.

C. Paterno, Park street gardener always has an attractive stand. Some of his prices were Chinese lettuce 5 and 10 cents; cabbage 5c; celery 5c; broccoli 5c.

Sulphur beans 5 cents a pound; cauliflower 5c and up. Fresh pork 14 and 16 cents; lamb, making its first appearance, 15 and 21 cents. A. Stenson prices included, parsnips, onions and beets, 20 cents the six-quart basket; carrots 15c for six quarts; peppers 25 cents a dozen.

Earle Tully mentioned the Plowmen's Ball, Tuesday, November 15, in the Canadian Legion Hall. This is one of the few sources of income the Plowmen have, with which to carry on their annual match.

Married In Jail Before Sentenced

Cecil Cournyea, 20, left Brant county jail to serve an 18-months jail sentence at Guelph reformatory, after marrying 16-year-old Joan Evans in the washroom of the jail the day before he received his sentence. Cournyea was convicted of reckless driving following an accident in which Dorothea Jones, 21, was killed while crossing an intersection in Brantford.

King And Queen Are Planning Visit To United States Following Their Tour Of Canada Next Summer

Visit To The U.S.A. Is Announced In Throne Speech

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Nov. 8—The King and Queen will visit the United States as part of their Canadian tour next summer, His Majesty announced in the Speech from the Throne at the state opening of parliament today.

"The Queen and I have been anticipating with the keenest pleasure the visit which we are hoping to pay to my Dominion of Canada next summer," the speech said.

"I have been happy," the speech, read by the King continued, "to accept the invitation extended to the Queen and myself by the president to visit the United States of America before the conclusion of my Canadian tour. I warmly welcome this practical expression of the good feeling that prevails between our countries."

The King read the speech extremely slowly before a brilliant gathering in the House of Lords. Facing him were the Peers in their bright red robes; His Majesty's Judges in Periwigs; diplomats in gold-faced uniforms, which looked sombre in contrast, and Peeresses in formal gowns, each wearing a diamond coronet or tiara.

Second State Opening.

The King and Queen arrived at Westminster after a state drive from Buckingham Palace through streets lined with cheering crowds. It was King George's second state opening and for hours before the procession was due to leave the palace thousands waited in the chill November wind. Guardsmen in bearskins and greatcoats stood at intervals with fixed bayonets. Their Majesties rode in a gold state coach drawn by Windsor grays.

As the state coach turned from The Mall into the Horse Guards' parade, the Guards band played the National Anthem. Officials of the German Embassy standing on a terrace at the rear of the Embassy stood rigidly at attention with arms outstretched in the Nazi salute until the anthem was finished.

Inside the House of Lords the most exclusive stage in the world was set for the most colorful pageant of modern days.

Before the King and Queen entered all lights were dimmed except for a few high in the ceiling and in the canopy of the throne. At Their Majestys entrance there was a sudden burst of light, the whole vivid scene was brought into an old-world pageant of brilliance and splendor. The pageant of crowns, coronets, and scarlet and ermine was a living flask back through the centuries.

Canadian Trade With Japan Has Been Badly Crippled During The Sino-Japanese War

VANCOUVER, Nov. 8—(CP).—Hopes that Canada's trade with the Orient eventually will be restored to normal proportions by reconstruction in war-torn China were held today in Vancouver exporting circles.

Whatever the outcome of the Sino-Japanese conflict, exporters here hope that in spite of Japan's policy of self-sufficiency and her desire for economic domination in eastern Asia, they will share at least temporarily in the work of rebuilding.

Since the hostilities began, Japanese war requirements have absorbed tremendous quantities of Canadian Metals, but the trade gains in this direction are more than offset by shattered markets for wheat, lumber and fish.

China's trade with the Dominion unsupported by the rigid exchange control which Japan employs and crippled by interrupted internal communications, showed losses in every section of the list during the year and more of conflict. In recent months the trade total with Japan, too, has shown a great shrinkage.

Imports Bare Essentials.

Canadian-Japanese trade figures for the first six months of 1938 illustrate Japan's campaign to keep her imports to bare essentials. For the first three months Japanese imports from Canada reached nearly $7,000,000. For the three months ending June 30 they dwindled to $3,234,000.

Canadian exports to China for the entire six-month period totalled $1,308,000, half what they were in the first six months of 1937. The decline of Chinese exports to Canada was almost identical.

The crippling of China's trade is attributed first to the decline in her

Heavy Wire Strung Across Sidewalk On Park Street South

SOME ONE with a misguided sense of humor might have caused a serious accident Monday night when he or she strung two lines of heavy wire across the sidewalk on the east side of Park street near Wolfe and left a trap for unsuspecting pedestrians. The wire had been part of a clothes line on a nearby premises and it was stretched from a telephone pole to a guy pole and left suspended about 10 inches from the ground. The street is dark at that point and the wire was practically invisible. Several persons got nasty falls there before the police were notified. Constable Leo Murphy removed the wire barricade.

More Women Drunk Than Men, Prohibitionist Says

Halifax, Nov. 8 (CP)

SINCE the advent of the beverage room, "more drunken women than drunken men are to be seen in Ontario hotels," a public meeting was told here last night by S. D. Jarvis of Hamilton, Ont., most worthy patriarch of the Sons of Temperance of North America.

Asking Nova Scotians to oppose any move for beverage rooms, Jarvis said "conditions" in Ontario had grown worse because the beverage room provided a "make-your-self-at-home" place where women as well as men could drink.

License To Wed Is Secured By John Deremo

What if he has little more than a pocketfull of dreams, sterling stuff of romance, they are his very own, and they are shared by Hattie Williams, late of the House of Refuge, and with the aid of the official license he took out at the city hall Monday afternoon, John Deremo intends to transmute them into the blissful bonds of matrimony.

The license requires a three days' delay until Thursday, and, as it stands, the document represents a challenge to a lot of meddlers whom John Deremo declares have kept him and Hattie apart too long—far too long. Let the House of Refuge committee of the county council meet this afternoon! What right have they to prevent the Deremo - Williams nuptials proceeding. Is this a free country? Or is it? So a bronx for Deputy-reeve Harry Reed of Otonabee, chairman of the House of Refuge Board of Management, Coughlin of Douro and the Warden, whatever his name is; and the same goes for Jennie Batten, county clerk, Dave Silvester, provincial constable, and any other minions of authority who may persist in trying to toss impediments along the rainbow trail into which John and Hattie are heading.

Hattie decamped from the House of Refuge Sunday when friends with a car called on her. John followed with the license on Monday and the county committee is going into action this afternoon, injecting the element of plot into an otherwise common and uninteresting affair. In county circles the word has gone out that the marriage will not take place, but local police and others are combing their experience and the law books for solid ground on which to base a warrant for the return of Miss Williams to the County Home. So the reel has to be clipped right there, until the actors in the comedy make the next move.

Car Plunges Into Lake; Man Escapes

Ennismore Farm Hand Jumps As Car Goes Over Bridge

George Cameron, 30-year-old Ennismore farm hand, owed his life last evening to his agility in swinging from the car which he was driving, after it had careened and smashed through the railings of the Chemong Floating Bridge.

The car settled to the bottom of Lake Chemong in from 30 to 90 feet of water shortly after five o'clock. Cameron, a young Englishman employed by Daniel K. Crough of Ennismore, succeeded in pushing open the door opposite the driver's seat as the car went down, and swam to the edge of the bridge.

Bill Dale, High street, Peterborough, was driving across the bridge toward Ennismore behind the car driven by Cameron, and owned by his employer. He said he saw the car ahead of his suddenly swerve on the wet board bridge and plunge through the guard rail into the water. By the time he reached the scene Cameron was swimming toward the bridge, he said, and he helped him climb to safety. He drove the drenched man immediately to Mr. Crough's residence, where he was put to bed, suffering from his cold swim, but otherwise uninjured.

Guard rails were torn down for ten or fifteen feet, at about the centre of the bridge. The car plunged to the bottom and it is understood efforts will be made to bring it to the surface in the near future. It was an old model.

No Work, No Aid Premier Warns

TORONTO, Nov. 8—(CP).—The proposal to have Toronto single unemployed work one day a week for their relief found city council today squarely between two fires—from the unemployed and the Ontario government.

Single unemployed were prepared to start picketing the city hall, the Central Welfare Bureau and, possibly, business places of members of the board of control, in protest against the "work without pay" scheme. They demanded the civic wage rate so they could support themselves outside of hostels.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn, in turn, warned the city if it "hasn't the courage to stick to its guns," his government would step in. It would cut off all such aid to the unemployed.

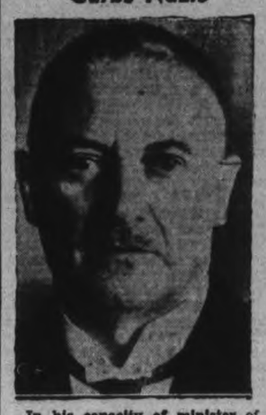
Up to Toronto

"I don't mean to mince words," the premier said. "The city of Toronto knows my stand. It's up to them. If they quit on this business, then the government steps in—and steps in promptly."

Council itself had divided on the question but a majority endorsed the plan under which jobless in Toronto hostels would work one day a week without pay levelling city property on the waterfront. A mass meeting of the unemployed yesterday decided to picket the city hall, hold street corner meetings and conduct a door-to-door canvass to organize support of the citizens.

"Who are these fellows anyway, who refuse to work for their relief?" demanded the premier. "A lot of men who had jobs during the summer, squandered their earnings and are now adopting very unprincipled tactics to get their winter's keep without being willing to labor a single day a week in return for it."

Curbs Nazis



In his capacity of minister of justice and police, which portfolio he holds in the cabinet in addition to the presidency, President Johannes Baumann of Switzerland called an extraordinary meeting of Swiss police chiefs to consider measures of stamping out increasing Nazi activity in Switzerland. The heads of police departments of several cantons were scheduled to confer with the president at Berne.

Japs Planning Big Drive Into Interior

TOKYO, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Japanese armies are planning a drive 1,000 miles further into the interior of China and the government today told foreign powers to keep their airplanes and citizens out of the area lest "unfortunate incidents" occur.

The objective of the new military campaign is to close the Chinese munitions transportations channels from British Burma and possibly French Indo-China.

The Japanese already have taken control of major Chinese ports and railways. The new area of hostilities designated in the note today to foreign embassies and legations extends to a line running from Yunnan, southwestern province bordering French Indo-China and British Burma, northward through Szechwan province to Kansu, northwestern province bordering Tibet and Mongolia. The line roughly follows the 100th parallel.

Travel At Own Risk

The note from the foreign ministry said that for the protection of lives and property of other nations, the Japanese government requested that foreign airplanes not fly over the area, that foreigners be advised they travel at their own risk, that residents withdraw where possible, and that foreign property be marked to be "unmistakably visible from the air."

Japan would not, the note added, assume any responsibility for protection of property transferred by Chinese to foreigners to evade "exercise of the legitimate rights by Japanese forces."

No Protection Offered

The statement today resembled others issued at the beginning of a new campaign, in all of which there have been incidents involving foreign rights.

One point emphasized today was that the Japanese military could not guarantee protection to foreign property used by Chinese forces "or which exist in their proximity."

It emphasized also that "military objectives" would be liable to aerial attack, and gave the reason for the widening of the zones of military activity that General Chiang Kai-Shek now had been driven into western China.

The note said that "military objectives up to the line connecting Suchow. (Kansu province) Batang and Tali (Yunnan) will be liable to attacks by Japanese air forces."

Chile produced over 350,000,000 litres of wine and wine cider last year.

Chamberlain Government Defeated By Labor On Foreign Policy Test

Woman Standard-Bearer Takes Riding From Government By 4,000 Votes Chamberlain's Foreign Policy Only Issue

LONDON, Nov. 8 (CP Cable).—The Chamberlain government received a severe blow on the eve of the new parliamentary session when Dartford constituency returned a Labor candidate, Mrs. Jennie Adamson.

In a traditionally Conservative seat Mrs. Adamson swamped Godfrey Mitchell, the Government candidate, in a by-election fought chiefly on Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policy. In the last election the Conservatives held Dartford by 2,646 but lost it yesterday by 4,238. Mrs. Adamson polled 46,514 votes and Mr. Mitchell 42,276.

The vacancy was caused by the death of Frank Clarke and the contest may have two results—to put more fight into the Labor opposition in parliament or help Mr. Chamberlain make up his mind on the necessity of calling a general election. Reports have been current the last day or two that the government has been flirting with the idea of an early election.

Foreign Policy Rejected.

When the result was announced Mrs. Adamson declared the people of Dartford, a London suburban district, "have shown by their votes that they reject the foreign policy of the government and object to the betrayal of Czechoslovakia and of democracy, and are determined to see to it that there shall be no economic cut at the expense of the poor of the community."

She told the cheering crowd of supporters that "Chamberlain must go!"

Defeated 3 Years Ago.

Her majority of 4,238 offset the 2,646-vote setback she suffered three years ago when the seat went to the late F. Clarke, Conservative. Then the count was 38,242 to 35,596. The seat was regarded as good fighting ground for both sides, having changed hands several times since the Great War.

Political commentators argued the result was a setback for Mr. Chamberlain in his drive to carry the country with him along the path of conciliation with totalitarian states.

Mrs. Adamson, a member of Labor's National Executive, and Mr. Mitchell, a London contractor, battled on foreign policy. Other issues were far in the background as members of parliament from both sides of the House flocked into the predominantly industrial district to support their candidate on the platform.

It was the second of a series of seven by-elections, often referred to as a "little general election."

In the first by-election Quintin Hogg, Conservative, son of Viscount Hailsham who retired from the government last week, retained Oxford for the government, although with a majority approximately halved from that of 1935.

Other By-Elections.

Next tests will be in Fylde, Walsall, Doncaster, West Lewisham and Bridgewater, all previously held by the government except Doncaster which had a Labor representative.

At Dartford Labor wrested its 10th seat from the government since the general election. While the result had little effect on the House of Commons standing where the government has a huge majority—more than 200—its significance was weighed, as will be any future Labor gains in the other by-elections, for possible effect in the next general election.

Some quarters have hinted Mr. Chamberlain may go to the country soon after Christmas to seek a fresh mandate rather than have the House finish its full legal term which could last until 1940.

In the House of Commons Mrs. Adamson will join on the Labor benches her husband, William Murdoch Adamson, a national officer of the transport and General Workers' Union and M.P. for Stafford, Cannock. She will be the 13th woman member of the House.

King And Queen Will Capture Canadian Hearts

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(CP Cable.)—The King and Queen will carry "a warm message of good will" from the British people to Canadians and Americans when they cross the Atlantic next summer, Prime Minister Chamberlain predicted in the House of Commons to-day.

When their Majesties tour Canada "it will be a truly historic occasion on which Canada should be congratulated, because never before has any Dominion been privileged to welcome a reigning monarch on its own soil."

The Prime Minister, who was making a short speech in the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, predicted the King and Queen would capture the hearts of Canadians and Americans as they did those of the French people when they visited Paris in July.

Continue Social Services.

Turning to home affairs, Mr. Chamberlain said it would be impossible to pay for the vast rearmament program at the same time as a broad extension of social services. He promised there would be no curtailment of existing social services during the coming year.

The government could not be accused of hiding deficiencies in defence, the Prime Minister continued, but from this it should not be taken for granted that "our machinery and plans for defence are an entire failure and have broken down." The government was well aware of the shortcomings in national defence, both passive and military, and no time was being lost in remedying them.

Moving adoption of the address, Maurice Hely-Hutchinson, Conservative, urged the House whole-heartedly to support "the new spirit of minding our own business," which, he said, had marked British foreign policy since Mr. Chamberlain

Rebel Cruiser Sinks Vessel

LONDON, Nov. 8—(AP).—Lloyd's agent at Cromer reported to-day a Royal Air Force plane had sighted a cargo ship sinking about five miles west of Wandelaar Lightship, off the Belgian coast, with the Spanish insurgent auxiliary cruiser Nadir standing by.

The plane landed at Norfolk airdrome after a flight over the North Sea, and her pilot reported sighting a ship "resembling the Spanish armed cruiser Nadir standing by a sinking cargo vessel 10 miles off Blankenbergh, Belgium."

This was communicated immediately to British coastal defence authorities.

It was the Nadir which last Wednesday bombarded and sank the Spanish Government merchantman Cantabria, chartered by British operators, within sight of Cromer, on the Norfolk coast.

(Another insurgent auxiliary cruiser, the Ciudad de Alicante, later in the week captured the Government freighter Rio Mira and took her into the German port of Essen.)

Search All Jews For Illegal Guns

BERLIN, Nov. 8 (AP). — Count Wolf von Helldorf, chief of Berlin police, announced today he was "disarming" Berlin's Jews and that he had seized quantities of arms and ammunition in the last few weeks.

The announcement was made while Nazis were taking reprisals against Jews for the shooting of a German Embassy secretary in Paris by a young Polish Jew, but the roundup of arms began some time before the Paris shooting.

It was disclosed that a systematic search had been made and that all weapons for which special permits were lacking were seized. The police chief said 1,702 firearms, 20,000 rounds of ammunition and 2,569 steel knives or knuckles had been found on Jews and that the search was continuing.

Anti-Jewish reprisals were reported from two German towns, while the government banned all Jewish publications until further notice.

TOPEKA, Kas.—Republicans held a lead in incomplete and unofficial returns for 36 scattered urban precincts in six Kansas counties at noon today. The vote—For Senator: Clyde Reed (R.), 993; George McGill (D.), 703. For Governor: Payne Ratner (R.), 920; Walter Huxman (D.) 752.

Barking Dogs Never Bite Premier Says So He Pays No Attention To Threats

TORONTO, Nov. 8 (CP)—Unconfirmed reports that city and provincial police today were investigating a plot against the life of Mitchell F. Hepburn, recalled previous threats to the family of Ontario's premier.

Mr. Hepburn would not confirm the reports from his home near St. Thomas but admitted he receives "dozens of verbal and written threats against my life. Barking dogs never bite. That's why I pay no attention to the threats. If every threat I received were carried out, I'd have more holes in me than a sieve."

During the provincial election campaign in August, 1937, threats to kidnap the premier's two adopted children and to "get him" were investigated by provincial police. Special constables patrolled and guarded Mr. Hepburn's St. Thomas home day and night at that time.

Several months previous to the threat against little Peter and Patsy, unknown persons fired the premier's implement barn, destroying an automobile, a tractor and tractor equipment. It was also reported tires of his car were tampered with, blowouts resulting.

Ald. Dutton Declares Peterboro' Is Worst Lighted City In Ontario

Probably including the main street of Ashburnham in his prompting thought, Alderman Dutton expressed the opinion Monday night that Peterborough is one of the worst lighted cities of its kind in Ontario. Its lighting system, he said, is wretched, and the city does not deserve the title of "The Electric City."

"It costs enough," Mayor Hamilton said, and Alderman McIntyre objected to be a reflection on Alderseemed to be a reflection on Aldermen Wilson and Cotton, recent chairmen of the fire, water and light committee.

Ald. Dutton said no reflection on anyone was intended. He was comparing Peterborough with Orillia, and although he suggested that a committee consider the question of improved street lighting, nothing more was done than to order one light for Geraldine Avenue, the item of business which evoked the broader statement.

Dick Ruskin' Lot

"I don't see how you can deny this man the right to purchase the lot," Alderman Dutton said as chairman of the committee of the whole council in giving second reading to a bylaw to sell Dick Ruskin a lot on Reid street north near the "V" leading into the Chemong road.

Alberta Is Described As Ontario's Most Valuable Colony

Beiseker, Alta., Nov. 8.

ALBERTA was described as "Ontario's most valuable colony" by L. D. Nesbitt, of Calgary, an officer of the Alberta wheat pool, who addressed members of the Board of Trade here last night.

He could not see why Ontario objected so strenuously to minimum wheat prices in the West.

"Alberta is Ontario's most valuable colony," he said. "Alberta is a more valuable colony of Ontario than Canada is of Great Britain because we do not place tariffs against Ontario manufactured goods."

Police Seize Signs

TORONTO, Nov. 8—(CP).—Police seized signs carried by four members of the Toronto single men's unemployed association picketing the city hall and the central relief bureau today. While none of the men was held warnings were issued that arrests would follow if picketing was resumed.

Seek To Upset Impounding Law

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 8 (CP).—An attempt will be made in city court on November 17 to upset Ontario's new law ordering a three-months' seizure of motor vehicles owned by persons convicted of driving while intoxicated. If the attempt succeeds it will block the Provincial Government's move to increase drunk driving penalties.

The point was raised by A. B. Siskind, London lawyer, during the case of Harvey McDonald, 26, who was sentenced to 14 days in jail for driving a truck while intoxicated. When Magistrate Donald Menzies spoke of ordering McDonald's truck impounded for the usual three-month period, Mr. Siskind argued the law was improper.

In view of the importance of the point the Magistrate decided to withhold his decision on the truck until November 17. In the meantime both the defence and the prosecution will search law books and statutes preparing for the battle. Crown Attorney Norman Newton will get in touch with the Attorney-General's Department.

Ham And Eggs Plan Gets Its First Test As California's Electors Go To Polls

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Two lively issues—old age pensions and labor legislation—encountered a direct test of public opinion today in nearly a dozen states.

Millions of voters were asked to pass on state constitutional amendments or laws dealing with those and other vital subjects.

Some political leaders, eager for indications of national trends, were more interested in the results of this balloting than in the voters' choice of congressmen and state officials.

California's "30-every-Thursday" proposal held top national interest in the pension balloting. More than 1,000,000 Californians signed the petition which placed the scheme before the electorate.

It would provide for the weekly issuance of $30 in state warrants to non-working, elderly residents.

A weekly tax of two per cent would be designed to redeem the scrip in a year.

The Townsend pension plan was tested by Oregon voters. They voted on whether to ask a national constitutional convention to adopt the system. They also passed on a proposal to levy a 2 per cent "transactions tax" to finance $100 monthly pensions for Oregonians 65 and over.

New Yorkers decided whether to amend the state constitution by authorizing use of state funds for insurance against hazards of old age and unemployment.

In California, Oregon and Washington, voters also registered their opinion on proposals intended to curb sit-down and sympathy strikes, mass picketing, coercion of workers or patrons, and other spectacular features of labor disputes.

Manion Opposed By C.C.F. For London Seat

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 8—(CP). — Campaign of Hon. R. J. Manion, National Conservative leader, to enter the House of Commons through the London by-election November 14, was away on the final stretch to-day—touched off yesterday by a series of speeches.

In these speeches, Dr. Manion turned his heaviest guns on the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation—whose representative, E. O. Hall, is his by-election opponent—and on third parties in general.

The issue between himself and Mr. Hall was clearly that between reform within the present economic and political order and the destruction of that order and a trust in heaven to bring something else, Mr. Manion said.

Russia Only Active Example.

The C.C.F. stood for Socialism and the world's only active example of Socialism was Russia, he said True it was that Socialists such as those in the C.C.F. believed in reform by ballot and the Communists who brought Socialism to Russia believed in reform by bullets. But there the difference ended. The aims of Socialist and Communist were alike.

J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, in his London speeches was denouncing Fascism but he had nothing to say against Communism that is equally repugnant to a believer in the British democratic system. The whole policy of the C.C.F. was destruction.

"I say let us change the machine by improving it," said Dr. Manion. "My opponent says, smash the machine." Dr. Manion said that the things modern capitalism had brought to the world were worth saving. The things needed now to preserve it could be achieved.

Most Advanced Party.

The Conservative party was the most advanced in Canada. It was not standing pat nor was it chasing

President Roosevelt Is 'Very Happy' Over Royal Visit To U.S.

Hyde Park, N.Y., Nov. 8.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is "very happy over news that the King and Queen of Great Britain will visit the United States next year after their Canadian tour, a statement from the temporary White House said to-day.

The president's office issued the following brief statement:

"The president is very happy to know that the King and Queen of Great Britain hope to be able to accept his invitation to visit the United States next summer.

"While no definite plans have been made, it is expected that Their Majesties will be able to stay in this country for four or five days."

MORE ABOUT—
King, Queen

Nervous At First.

The ceremonial procession in the House of Lords featured officers of state whose counterparts attended British monarchs hundreds of years ago. Some were animated playing cards with quaint titles such as bluemantle, pursuivant and clarenceux king of arms.

The massive gilded state sword in its scabbard, held with the point aloft, was carried by Earl Stanhope. Beside him was Viscount Halifax wearing the cap of maintenance.

The King wore the uniform of a Field Marshal. The Queen wore a gown of white satin spangled with diamante.

After the King had read the speech Their Majesties retired, the Queen's white gloved hand resting lightly in her husband's. They were followed by four pages holding long trains.

A few hours later the House of Commons went into regular session with the first order of business the moving of the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

King's Speech.

The King's speech began with the traditional phrase, "My relations with the foreign powers continue to be friendly." It said the effort for peace begun at Munich would be continued. In this connection it saidthe Anglo-Italian pact, shortly to be brought into force, would further the cause of peace.

The forthcoming visits of King Carol of Rumania and Albert Lebrun, President of the French Republic, were mentioned, followed by the references to the journey their Majesties will make across the Atlantic next year.

The speech deplored the continuance of the Spanish civil war and reiterated the government's readiness to assist in mediation, if such should become feasible. It said the report on the Woodhead Commission on Palestine shortly would be made public.

In the matter of defence, the speech said:

"Although the equipment and expansion of my defence forces are now making rapid progresss, the emergency through which we have passed has shown that certain deficiencies in our military and civil defence preparations remain to be remedied. My ministers have reviewed these matters in the light of experience gained, and will in due course take steps to accelerate and supplement the measures al- in mind."

Referring to the appointment of Sir John Anderson as Lord Privy Seal and Minister for Civilian Defence, it said the problem of "effective utilization of the resources of the nation for national voluntary service" would receive his undivided attention.

Seek Improved Trade.

It said that as a corollary of diplomatic effort the government would seek improved trade conditions as a means to facilitate the maintenance of peace. In domestic affairs, it foreshadowed new housing schemes and a plan for "earlier and more effective treatment of cancer."

In answer to the campaign of farmers for assistance in increasing home production the speech said: "My ministers recognize the important place which home agriculture must occupy in national economy and defence. They will contiue omy and defence. They will continue structive policy the development of the industry and the improvement of the conditions of those engaged in it."

Heavy Fighting In South

CANTON, Nov. 8.—(AP).—Heavy artillery, rifle and machine-gun fire echoed over Canton from the north to-day, indicating large-scale fighting on the Southern China front had been resumed.

Reports circulated widely that organized Chinese troops were approaching the outskirts of the city, endeavouring to fight their way around Japanese outposts and try to re-occupy the city.

C.C.F. Leader Attacks Manion's Record

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 7—(CP).—An attack on the parliamentary record of Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, National Conservative leader, was made by J. S. Woodsworth, National Leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, as the London Federal by-election race started to-day down the home stretch.

Dr. Manion is being opposed in next Monday's voting for the London seat by E. O. Hall, a high school teacher - C.C.F. candidate. Mr. Woodsworth addressed a meeting in Mr. Hall's interests last night and replied to an afternoon speech by Dr. Manion.

Trying to Frighten Electors.

He said that Dr. Manion was trying to fighten the electorate with a "bogey" in his statements that a vote for the C.C.F. meaps a vote for Socialism. New Zealand had a stable Socialist Government, while Norway, Sweden and Denmark were Socialistic in their government.

In analyzing Dr. Manion's record in parliament (for a time as Minister of Railways), Mr. Woodsworth referred to legislation affecting Canadian Pacific Railway employees. He claimed to have moved a resolution to amend the bill so that workers displaced would be compensated for loss of employment, "but Dr. Manion and his party voted it down."

He said Dr. Manion "steadily opposed" repeal of Section 98 of the Criminal Code (dealing with unlawful assembly); that he opposed unemployment insurance; the nationalization of insurance; relief camps; and dropping of directorates by cabinet ministers.

Opposed Old Age Pensions.

"When we introduced the Old Age Pensions Bill in 1925, he opposed it. He said it was difficult to ask those who have made provision for their own future to contribute toward Old Age Pensions for those who did not."

The C.C.F. leader chided Dr. Manion for his alleged failure to state his stand on the Quebec Padlock Law (against Communist literature). He said the Conservative leader should state his position "on a law that gives the government the right to padlock a man's house. I say it is a most unjust and un-British law."

Dr. Lorna Cotton Thomas of Peterborough, said that the C.C.F. is a party pledged to poverty. "It is our greatest handicap but it has proven to be our salvation," she pointed out referring to there being no money in the party treasury and consequently the party has no opportunists or hangers-on. "We refuse donations from the big concerns and for that reason we do not have to cater to them," she said.

exchange and secondly to the loss of such vital ports as Shanghai and Canton.

Prior to July, 1937, the Chinese dollar normally was equivalent to about 50 cents Canadian. Now it is worth approximately 17 cents, which means her purchasing costs are nearly tripled.

Japan, on the other hand, has maintained rigid control of her exchange and her import and export trade. The exchange control law, initiated in December, 1937, and since refined and extended, established a permit system by which the Japanese exporter received payment in yen, while the Japanese government collected in the currency of the foreign importer.

While the war benefited the Canadian mining industry by skyrocketing the Japanese demand for nonferrous metals and products, timber statistics show why lumber exporters hope for a reconstruction program in China requiring vast building.

What Happened Lumber.

Exports to China fell to 19,433,000 feet. They were 23,309,000 feet for the same period in the previous year.

Exports to Japan dropped to 29,765,000 feet. In the 1937 period they were 128,137,000 feet.

One explanation for Japan's decreased imports in this section is her own vast and virtually untouched timber resources. She has the southern half of heavily-timbered Sakhalin island, which was ceded to her by the Treaty of Portsmouth in 1901.

Japan's rich timber stands on the island are only just being exploited, and under rigid government control. She has, in addition, similar resources in Manchoukuo, although they are so far inaccessible.

MILLBROOK

Miss Wilma Fallis, Reg. N., of Woodstock, is at present visiting her aunt, Mrs. H. Ball, Fallis Line, while recuperating after a recent serious operation.

Ken and Phyllis Kidd, Earl and Leitha Edworthy, and Esther and Gordon Might motored to Orono on Sunday, and attended the sessions of the Y.P.U. convention for the Oshawa Presbytery.

Mrs. R. E. Stanton is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stanton at Peterborough.

Mrs. Jos. Lancashire is visiting in London, because of the serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. Allan Gray.

TWO R.A.F. FLIERS KILLED

LONDON.—Two Royal Air Force fliers were killed when their plane crashed yesterday near Holbeach, Lincolnshire. The dead were Corporal J. W. Beverley and Aircraftsman Alfred C. Laurens.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANNIE E. KYLE.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Lyle, widow of the late James Kyle and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Downes Carton, was held on Friady, November 3rd from the Funeral Home of A. Comstock & Sons.

Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Victor Tully of Peterborough, also one granddaughter, Mrs. Harry Tewsley and one grandson, Donald Tully of Peterborough.

Funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Pallbearers were Wm. Buller, John Mayneord, Jcs. Ryan, C. M. Moncur, Roy Hutchinson, Dr. H. J. Long.

MRS. ALICE REID.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Nov. 8.—After a lengthy illness, Mrs. Alice Caldwell Reid passed away at the home of her son, Percy Reid, at Foxboro on Saturday, November 5.

The late Mrs. Reid was in her sixty-ninth year, being born in 1870 at Madoc. In 1891 she married Hartford Reid, who predeceased her seventeen months ago. She lived almost her entire life in the vicinity of Rawdon and Huntingdon, and was a member of the United Church.

JAMES JORDAN.

James Jordan, a citizen of Peterborough for the past 33 years, and an Imperial soldier, died this morning at his home, 629 Union Street, in his 69th year. He was a bricklayer by trade. He has been ill for the past eighteen months and his death was not unexpected.

He was born in Leeds, England, son of the late Patrick Jordan and Mary Tighe. He is survived by seven daughters and five sons: Mrs. Fred Montgomery, Mrs. Edward Alcombrac, Mrs. Mary Dickson, and Kathleen Jordan, all of Toronto; Mrs. Harry Keith, Mrs. Harry Moher and Margaret Jordan of Peterborough; Edward of Toronto, Joseph of Rochester, and John, Patrick and Frank of this city. His widow, formerly Ellen Nicholson, and one sister, Mrs. Ellen Pycock of England, also survive.

The funeral will be held from the family residence on Thursday morning at 8.45 to St. Peter's Cathedral for Requiem Mass at nine o'clock, and interment will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

JOHN BELL.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

FOXBORO, Nov. 7.—As the result of a heart attack, John Bell passed away at his late residence, in Foxboro, early Monday morning, Nov. 7. He was apparently in his usual state of health and attended church service in Foxboro on Sunday evening. His sudden passing was quite unexpected.

The late Mr. Bell, who was in his 75th year, was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bell. For some time he resided at Wooler and for the past twenty-eight years he made his home in Foxboro. At one time he was engaged as a section man with the Grand Trunk and later with the Canadian National Railway, but had been living retired of late years. In religion he was a member of the Presbyterian church, Foxboro and highly esteemed in the community.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. N. D. Patterson, North Sydney, N.S.; Miss Nellie Bell at home; one son, James Bell, Foxboro; four grandchildren, Ralph and Joyce Bell, Foxboro, and Ethel Margaret and Flor Patterson, of North Sydney, N.S.

JOHN E. HAYES.

Many leading figures in the city and district attended the Requiem High Mass in St. Peter's Cathedral at nine o'clock this morning for the late John E. Hayes, prominent contractor and builder of this city, who died on Saturday afternoon at his home.

Rev. Dr. Kelly paid high tribute to the fine character and qualities of the late Mr. Hayes in a brief address, and said he was a lifelong friend. He described the deceased as an upstanding citizen and a man who exemplified in his daily life the teachings of his church.

Rev. Father Walsh celebrated the Requiem Mass and was assisted by Rev. Dr. Masterson and Rev. Father Grant. In the sanctuary were Rev. Father J. J. O'Brien, parish priest of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Rev. Father Paul Costello, P.P. Hastings, and Rev. Father J. V. McAuley, P.P. at Campbellford. Rev. Father Costello conducted the graveside service in St. Peter's Cemetery, along with Rev. Dr. Masterson and Rev. Father McAuley.

Pall-bearers were Roland Denne, J. K. Hughes, Fred Overend, Dr. Richard Sheehy, James Simons, and James Simpson of Toronto.

The late Mr. Hayes built St. Peter's High School, and also part of the House of Providence and part of Mount St. Joseph.

City Clerk Marks 45th Anniversary

Forty-five years ago to-day S. R. Armstrong entered upon his duties as City Clerk. At the conclusion of the Council meeting on Monday night, Mayor Hamilton, on behalf of his associates and himself, congratulated Mr. Armstrong upon his long and efficient service, and wished him continuing years in his connection with the Council and the municipality.

Arsenal Opening Only A Rumor

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Nov. 8.—Considerable excitement prevailed in Lindsay on Saturday night following the double broadcast from Toronto announcing the immediate opening of the local arsenal plant. Citizens scanned their papers closely to-day to obtain further information. It developed that the announcement was only a rumor—one of the many in circulation relative to the opening of the plant. A few men have been employed at the arsenal during the past three weeks, but no information is available relative to its opening.

Plenty of deer and scores of hunters is the report from the northland. The chief worry of the hunters appears to be the mild weather. Roy Bottum, of Bobcaygeon, came into Lindsay this morning with a 255 pound deer, which he bagged at Hall's Lake, Haliburton, on Saturday. Roy lost no time in placing the animal in cold storage. Five local young men left Lindsay early Saturday morning for the northlands for a week-end hunt, and returned to-day with four deer.

A fire started by a resident of Kushog Lake district, Haliburton, on Saturday, nearly caused a serious conflagration. He had been clearing up brush, and while he wasaway to lunch the wind fanned the fire and it was soon beyond control. Settlers battled the blazes all afternoon and they were only subdued after the men had dug trenches. The wind was blowing in the direction of a number of cottages at the time.

Nineteen Holsteins Entered At Ottawa

Peterborough County breeders are making a strong bid for top honors at the Ottawa Winter Fair this week with a herd of nineteen fine animals owned by eight of the leading cattlemen in the district. Judging will be done on Thursday of this week and the results should be known Friday.

Harold Donaldson has entered a Shorthorn Calf in the Boys Calf Club Competition and also in the open purebred class, and Coughlin Brothers of Douro have entered one animal, a senior calf which won fifth prize last month at the National Dairy Show at Columbus, Ohio against competition from the best herds on the North American continent.

Norman McConkey, of Peterborough city has the largest string of animals in the herd, showing nine, most of them being Holsteins which made a great showing during the past summer at the larger exhibitions across the province. Breeders who have one animal entered are Matchett Bros., Otonabee; Ken Easson, Stanley Wood, Douro; Stewart Nelson, Keene; Harold Donaldson, and Coughlin Brothers. Joe Tully has three Holsteins in the group.

The animals will be shown as a county herd and also individually and the breeders are confident that this year will be a banner one in the matter of awards from the Winter Fair.

Auto Sends Crank Flying Through Air

When an automobile crank whirling round and round came hurling down into George street near Hunter street Monday night death might quite easily have dropped with it for the heavy missile had travelled 100 feet through the air and fell from a considerable height.

The unusual accident happened when Jack Cullen, Charlotte street, was cranking a car in front of Fowler's barber shop on Hunter street. Suddenly the engine backfired and the crank was torn out of Cullen's hands with great force and sent whirling through the air. He himself had a close call for the flying gadget knocked his hat off and only missed his head by scant inches. For some seconds he could not figure out what had become of the crank. Then he heard the ring of its fall on George street near Bond's Drug store.

Investigation showed that the unusual projectile had fallen near a moving automobile and had bounced underneath. The driver of this machine thought it had dropped off a passing car.

Alderman Gordon referred to Mr. Ruskin as an avowed Communist. "This fellow is supposed to run Moscow Hall, and before we sell him this lot why not find out whether the citizens around there object or not."

"We have his $50. He sent his cheque with his letter," Alderman McCannan said.

"Since we have offered the lots as required by the Dominion government, I don't think we should hold up a sale of any of them," was Alderman Bradburn's opinion.

"It is at the discretion of the council whether you sell or not," said Ald. Gordon. "Neighbors up there might prefer other people to this gentleman."

"You can't kick him around from pillar to post. He's a citizen," Mayor Hamilton observed.

"We might get into some international complication," was Ald. Glover's jocular remark.

Ald. McCannan suggested that the second reading be held up until December to give the members time to see for themselves the lot Mr. Ruskin wants to buy. That course was adopted.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 8 (C.P.). — Revived overseas demand for Canadian wheat improved market sentiment today as Winnipeg wheat futures jumped up almost a cent to wipe out small losses of the last two sessions. The close was ⅝ to ¾ higher, November 57⅛, December 57⅛ to ¼, May 60⅝, and July 61½.

Canadian export sales, placed at 750,000 bushels, were partly from unsold stock afloat to Europe. Seaboard buying kept prices at higher levels throughout the quiet session despite selling credited to the Canadian government agency.

Both cash prices and coarse grain futures held steady. The market received a good lift at the open due to higher overseas prices.

King And Queen

assumed full direction of it. He hoped the Prime Minister would be given a long life in health and strength to consolidate on a durable basis the peace so greatly desired.

"It might be proper at the same time to say that if the statesmen of foreign nations, when considering foreign policy, find it impossible to mind their own business, it is not our business and we should not mind it," the speaker said.

While considering the huge cost of rearmament, Mr. Hely-Hutchinson declared, it became necessary to ponder if it was possible to maintain the nation's social services. He hoped it would not become necessary to make the invidious distinction as to whether it was to be guns or butter.

S. F. Markham, National Labor, seconding the motion for adoption of the address, referred to the royal visit to Canada and the United States and said that all members of the house would agree that Their Majesties would take with them a message of profound affection and admiration "to these two great countries of North America." The statement was greeted by loud cheers.

Nation Not Decadent

"Whatever this nation is, it certainly is not decadent," Mr. Markham proceeded. "Yet certain foreign countries seem to think we are so and, indeed, our lack of pride in our achievements might permit that impression to continue. We have a great past and, I hope, a great future."

Criticizing the speech from the throne, Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, declared it contained no indication of any real constructive program.

"In foreign affairs one might think Munich had affected a permanent settlement of all outstanding questions," Mr. Attlee said. "There were no indications of any constructive proposals, either politicalo reconomic, for bringing peace to the distracted world. Yet I do not suppose anyone thinks Herr Hitler has made his last demand."

The labor leader charged the government had failed to tackle the unemployment problem. The great cotton industry was still depressed. Nothing was said in the speech about relief for agricultural workers.

"The program in the King's speech is that of a weary, tired, feeble government, a government that keeps shuffling ministers without getting increased strength," he proceeded. "There is nothing whatever in the speech stirring the imagination of the people, nothing to inspire the working classes, and no sense of urgency. It is a kind of mark-time speech and in these dangerous days it is a terrible thing for this country to have a government which has no clear policy either for home or foreign affairs."

Rotarians Given Talk On Folk Songs

Folk songs of many lands were described at the regular noon luncheon of the Rotary Club on Monday by Miss Marion Rannie, of the Normal School Staff and supervisor of music in the rural schools. The speaker entertained the members in a delightful manner for half an hour and during that time Maurice Park, also of the Normal staff, sang four of the most popular folk songs of Scotland, Ireland and England.

Miss Rannie described folk songs as a type which have been handed down through succeeding generations and many of which had never been written until recent years. They describe the country from which they originate, she said.

"Russian and British folk songs are the finest in the world. The Russian songs though have a sort of grimness because the peasants have for the most part been at war with the ruling classes. Many Russian folk songs have been used by the great composers to fill out the fine symphonies and have enriched many fine compositions," said the speaker.

Touching other nations briefly she said Germany had strangely enough contributed little to the world's folk songs, but much to the culture. Italy, a land of song, has never been noted for folk songs because the common people know and sing the great masterpieces with ease. In Brittany, England, Scotland and Ireland folk songs have flourished and today have been assembled into perhaps the greatest collection of folk songs in the world. Miss Rannie described in detail the songs and traced their growth through the centuries.

R. F. Downey, in voicing a vote of thanks, said the program had been truly delightful, and Alderman James Dutton, president of the club, also spoke in tribute of the address and singing.

Interest In Special Services Growing

That interest is growing from year to year in the special church services which are held annually by the Home and School Council was shown Sunday evening, when a congregation of nearly two hundred listened to Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr in St. Paul's Church, where the services were held.

Speaking to the parents, Rev. Dr. Barr urged them to realize the responsibility which they hold in the home, and in the training of their children. Tribute was paid to the fine work which the different study groups of the Home and School Associations are doing through parent education.

Arrangements for the services were made by the Religious and Home education convener of the Council, Mrs. H. H. Graham.

Darling—Deyell

JANETVILLE, Nov. 8. — The parsonage of the United Church at Janetville was the scene of a pretty wedding at 3 p.m. on Saturday, October 29, when Miss Hannah Reta Deyell, daughter of Robert Deyell and the late Mrs. Deyell, was united in marriage to Wallace Herman Darling, son of John Darling and the late Mrs. Darling of Peterborough.

Rev. M. A. Bury officiated. The bride was lovely in a gown of midnight blue triple sheer, with corsage of roses, and was attended by her cousin, Miss Gladys Tompkins of Cambray, wearing royal blue crepe with corsage of sweet peas.

For going away, the bride wore a smart tweed fur-trimmed coat, with navy hat, shoes and accessories.

After a trip to Hamilton and western points, Mr. and Mrs. Darling will reside on the groom's farm near Peterborough.

We Noticed

....Hats are even more important this year than they have been in ages. They complete the new silhouette of the small-coiffured head. They keep the hair tidy if the hair is not yet accustomed to growing up. They give the final elegance to the long-sleeved high-necked theatre dress.

....For instance, a characteristic beret which we glimpsed in one of the George street shops is of black felt, smocked at the edge. It is made to be worn on the back of the head, and long hair will look perfectly unabashed under it. The ribbon is of plum-colored velvet, the veil black, with big dots at the edge.

....Another, a bonnet, and a boon to the stubborn ones who cling to down-brushed hair, is of black felt and trimmed with rose-colored velvet ribbon that is gathered in a flounce at the neck and tied in a bow on top. A rose-hued veil covers the face.

Zimbalist Club Holds Its Initial Meeting

In anticipation of a fine season of study, members of the Zimbalist Violin Club turned out in large numbers at the initial meeting of the season, held on Saturday evening in the Girl Guide Hall on Simcoe Street. The president, Mr. Colin Jack, presided, and a summary of the club expenses and the amount of money on hand was given by the treasurer, Douglas Ferguson.

It was voted generally that the December meeting would be held as an Amateur night, in which each member is to take some part in the entertainment. New members were enrolled, and additions to the club enrollment discussed.

Following the business session, Mr. William Potter spoke on "Musical Influences," giving his impressions of what effect Music has, and the lasting good it does for young people. He urged the club members to keep up their efforts, and to study seriously at all times. Thanks to the speaker for his encouraging remarks was voiced by Mr. Rome.

Plantation Airs by the Zimbalist Violin Ensemble. Piano solos, "La Palomma" and "Harbor Lights," played with a firm, smooth tone by Jean Leach. A fine violin solo, executed with a splendid technique, and entitled "Gypsy Caprice," played by little Nancy Spring. A trio, with parts arranged by Roy Rome, in a dainty little waltz which brought much applause. Mary Jane Wharry, first violin; Kenneth Read, second violin, and Pearl Tretheway, 'cello, were the members. "Fairy Tale March" by Karl Komzak was played by the Ensemble, and "Reverie" as a violin solo was played with light, sweet tone and good interpretation by Douglas Ferguson.

The closing number was a march by the Ensemble, and "God Save the King," played by Miss Marguerite Rome. Games were played after refreshments had been served.

Local Branch Has Fine Standing

At a general meeting of the Hospital Women's Auxiliary, held Monday afternoon in the Sunday School House of Mark Street Church, Mrs. J. K. Hughes, in a report of the Women's Hospital Aids' Convention held recently in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, stated that the local branch stood fourth among all the Aids represented, and that the Peterborough Auxiliary, though in existence only a little over a year, is able to report the largest number of paid-up members.

Mrs. J. G. Wharry, newly-elected president, conducted the meeting, and expressed regret that Dr. Agnes Moffatt, who was to have addressed the members, was unable to be present because of an urgent call to Toronto. Thanks was also expressed for the generous donations to the jam, jelly and pickle shower for the hospital, which was a feature of the meeting. The new board members were introduced, and a moment of silence was observed in tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. F. B. Elliott, who had been a valued member of the Auxiliary.

A brief report on hospital expenses was given by Mrs. E. M. Leeson, and greetings from the Hospital Board, and its appreciation of the fine work being accomplished by the Auxiliary, was expressed by Mr. E. B. Fowler of the Trustee Board.

Reports from the various committee converers were as follows: Mrs. N. Warrander, reporting for the Samaritan cupboard; Mrs. John Comstock, Visiting; Mrs. J. Detcher, Sewing; Mrs. Morphet, who gave a membership report, and urged the members to make a concentrated effort to bring the membership up to the Auxiliary's object of 3,000 members by December of this year; Life Membership report, given by Mrs. Dela Fosse.

DOROTHY DIX

When Young People Learn To Look Upon Marriage as a Binding Contract That Should Be Lived Up To There Will Be Fewer Divorces and More Happiness at the Fireside.

DEAR MISS DIX—Which is the saner point of view regarding marriage: The old-fashioned until-death-do-us-part, or the modern try-it-and-see-how-you-like-it plan? My friend says that if you look on marriage as an inviolable contract that you can't break, you try to make the best of your bargain. You make an effort to get along with your husband or wife, and if you quarrel you patch it up. But if you regard marriage as a temporary arrangement you are always looking for faults and wondering if you wouldn't be better off married to some one else, or not married at all. My point of view is that marriage should endure only so long as a couple get along together. I think it would make the husband and wife try harder to please the other one if he or she knew that the other was likely to walk out on him or her if not satisfied. I think that love would last longer if it were free and not bound. What do you think?

DOUBTFUL.

ANSWER:

I think that easy divorce makes short marriages, and that many a marriage goes on the rocks just because the man and woman entered into it with the thought that if they didn't like it they wouldn't stick it.

Hence, just as soon as the glamor of romance wore off of marriage and they faced the work, worry and sacrifices necessitated by two people living together, they threw up their hands and quit. They didn't even try to adjust themselves to each other or attempt to make a success of the partnership they had entered into because they hadn't gone into it for keeps. It was just an experimental venture.

They are like the foolish and flighty people who are always changing their occupation or their profession, or moving from one part of the country to the other, and who always fall at everything because they never settle down to any job and put their hearts and their backs into it.

It is because people nowadays marry with one eye on the altar and the other on the divorce court that so many marriages are failures. When men and women marry with a determination to stay together, no matter what happens, they make successes of their marriages because they know that harmony with their mates is a life-and-death matter to them.

So they learn how to get along with each other with the least possible friction. They deliberately turn the spotlight on their mates' good points instead of their bad. Knowing that they have to keep what they have, they do not let their fancies wander after other men and women.

The theory that marriage should be sort of an option instead of a binding contract is all wet. It doesn't make for the permanance of marriage for husbands and wives to keep each other guessing and wondering if their marriage will last as long as the lease does on the house. The most blessed thing about marriage is the sense of security, the knowledge that some one loves you well enough to love all your faults and ways just because they are yours. That you look as good to him or her when you are sick and tired or have on your old clothes as you do when you are all dolled up and full of pep and on your tiptoes.

As for love lasting longer when it is free, that is a pipe dream. There is no such thing as free love. All love is bound.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a girl of 16, in love with a man of 26 who is everything that a girl could want in a husband. But my family opposes the match. They say he is too old for me. I think the reason so many marriages are failures is because the husband is not old enough for the responsibility of supporting a family. Am I right? And what should I do?

UNDECIDED.

ANSWER:

Ten years is not too much difference between the ages of a man and wife if the man is older. Indeed, it is recommended by the marriage experts, who point out that if a boy and girl of the same age marry, the girl is so much more mature than the boy that her feeling for him is more maternal than wifely. She unconsciously assumes the attitude of a mother toward him and bosses him.

On the other hand, if the husband is a good deal older than the wife she looks up to him and is guided by him, which pleases the man and makes for conjugal felicity. Also, if the older man has any intelligence whatever he has learned enough about women to know how to stroke their fur the right way and get along with a wife without friction. Which is valuable information that no young boy can possess.

And, still further, the very potent reason for a girl picking out a mature man for a husband is that he is generally better able to provide for her than a boy husband would be. But, my dear girl, in your case the objection is not to the man's age but your age. No girl of 16 should marry, because she doesn't know what she is going to want in a husband when she grows up and because she hasn't had her playtime of life. Wait until you are older before you settle such an important matter.

DEAR MISS DIX—I was sent to an orphans' home when I was 8 and left at 18. While I was there I fell in love with a young girl who was also in the institution. We were 12 years old when our love affair began. When we left the home we became separated, but after four years we have met again and find our love as strong as ever. But the trouble is that I am married to a very charming young lady, and we were very happy together until I met my childhood sweetheart. Now I have lost all interest in my wife. If I tell either about the other I am sure to lose one of them forever. I know both girls very well and I see no difference between them. In fact, I love them both. What shall I do?

PUZZLED JAMES.

ANSWER:

Well, inasmuch as you seem to care as much for one girl as you do the other, why not stick to your wife and save yourself the mess of a divorce? Besides, you have responsibilities toward her that you haven't to the other girl.

Twelve-year-old romances don't amount to a row of pins, anyway. They are sentimental baggage that you had best divest yourself of. You are not really in love with this girl. What pulls at your heartstrings are old memories and old associations. When you had exhausted saying "don't you remember" you probably would find that you had nothing to say to her and nothing in common.

Delightful Tea Held By I.O.D.E. Chapter

The Jeanette Scott Chapter of the I.O.D.E. held a most delightful tea and sale of homemade cooking in the Green Room and library of the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday afternoon.

The guests were received by the honorary regent, Mrs. Fred Hooper, and the regent, Miss Anne Heideman. Mrs. W. Preston was treasurer.

The attractive tea table was centred with a silver comport of fruit set on a round mirror and circled with clusters of grapes. The same idea was carried out in the unusual linen cloth, colorful with gay fruit prints. The silver tea urns at each end of the table were presided over by Mrs. W. Comstock, Mrs. H. Morphet, Mrs. Strong, and Mrs. H. A. Morrow.

The tea room was in charge of Mrs. Ralph Honey and Miss Grace Comstock, assisted by Mrs. R. S. Allen, Mrs. G. B. Bailey, Mrs. R. McWilliams; Mrs. H. Leybourne, Mrs. K. Kingston, Mrs. L. Welch, Mrs. H. Waddell, Mrs. E. Westbye, Mrs. Ross Thompson, Miss Margaret Widdess, and Miss Lahring Parsons.

The Home Cooking table in the library was charmingly arranged. It was covered with a lace cloth, and had as a centrepiece an Angel Cake iced in pink surrounded by green ferns, and flanked by two tall pink candles in silver holders. Mrs. G. Rishor and Miss A. Morgan were the conveners, assisted by Mrs. H. A. Girdwood.

The raffle for the Angel Cake was in charge of Miss Betsy Scott, and was latter won by Miss Mabel Patterson.

Fashions

There's plenty of swing and freedom for playtime for active youngers in this attractive cotton dress. It has matching pantees to make it a complete outfit. Buttons down the front are within easy reach for tiny fingers. It makes little girls feel quite independent to be able to dress themselves unaided by mummy. A miniature Peter Pan collar gives it nice contrast. It has important pockets, that always add a joy for youngsters for "hanky" and odds and ends they "pick-up." Adorable, too, is the tied neckline dress with brief puffed sleeves.....made with the same pattern. Mummy will be delighted with the easy making.... the raglan type sleeves cut in one with the shoulders.

Style No. 2908 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 1¾ yards of 39-inch material with ¼ yard of 35-inch contrasting for dress; ⅞ yard of 35-inch material for pantees.

Do You Know?

Nearly all vegetables can be made more delicate in flavor by blanching? To blanch: Cover the vegetables with cold water, bring them to the boil and boil for five minutes, then drain and rinse in cold water. Drain again and cook in usual way.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

Would ye learn the road to Laughter-town,
O ye who have lost the way?
Would ye have young heart though your hair be gray?
Go learn from a little child each day.
Go serve his wants and play his play,
And catch the lilt of his laughter gay,
And follow his dancing feet as they stray;
For he knows the road to Laughter-town,
O ye who have lost the way!"

—Katherine D. Blake.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever thank God for letting us come into the world as little children, or would you rather have come fully grown and as mature as you are now?

Can you play with a little child or do you just think of them as an annoyance and a bother? If you have forgotten the way to play with them, to enter into their games of make-believe, how much you are missing in life.

Our Lord said: "Unless ye become as little children ye shall not enter the Kingdom of Heaven." Not that He meant us to go back to infancy, for none of us can do that.

But, to rid our minds of all the doubt that reason, and sophistication, and mingling with the world has brought us. Not to mention the things we have done which we ought not to have done, and the ones we left undone.

And I think many people will have a lot to answer for when they remember that our Lord also said, "But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a mill-stone were hanged about his neck, and that he be drowned in the depth of the sea."

Going out on your own pleasures and leaving them alone is offending them, and loud quarrelling in front of them is an offence against them, for how can they feel secure when their parents quarrel?

My heart aches when I think of the little things waking up to find themselves alone in a dark house, crying, scared, lonely, with none to hear their tears or to comfort them.

How any human being can bring children into the world by their own actions, then neglect them, is beyond my comprehension. Yet is it not done every day, while the parents seek "fun"?

But, one day there will be a rude awakening, an accounting of what has been done to these helpless creatures who were put in their charge, and all the remorse, all the tears, will not avert one bit of the punishment deserved.

I love to play with a little child, to laugh with them, to enter into their games, and to kiss the place when they bump into anything.

If a person has had a happy childhood, if they could always depend on their mother and father, life may do what it likes to them, for they have something priceless to look back to.

But, if their parents have let them down, one or the other or both, they will go through life feeling a lack, an insecurity, and a sense of disillusionment which no other success will make up for.

So, if you want to find the way to Laughter-town, if you want your heart to stay young altho' the years have crept up on you, seek the way with a little child.

There is nothing that can compare with it, not the shoddy pleasure, nor the bright lights, nor the loud company with raucous voices and questionable jokes. You are stepping down when you choose these.

Where else will you find such love, such innocence, such utter faith? Only with a child.

Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Business Girls Plan Study Club

At a friendly, pleasantly-arranged banquet held last evening in the Y.W.C.A., a group of about thirty junior business girls met for the purpose of organizing a club which would be educational, recreational, and inspirational.

The girls were welcomed by Miss Helen Wooten and Miss May Wilson, and an invitation to enter into the Friendship Circle which the Y.W.C.A. has been building throughout its forty-six years of existence was extended by the secretary, Miss L. Brownscombe.

Miss C. F. Copus of the Peterborough Collegiate staff, was guest speaker, and outlined the duties of a gracious hostess, suggestion in a delightful manner ideas which would help the girls to improve themselves in the arts of conversation, entertaining and in preparing luncheon and dinner dishes, etc. Her clever cooking hints were made even clearer by the colored illustrations which she showed to the interested girls. Practical suggestions as to club planning were also among her helpful tips to the club members.

A solo by Miss Trucie Pearson was a delightful part of the program. Singing was also enjoyed by the girls at the banquet table, which was attractively arranged with silver baskets of pink snapdragon and baby 'mums.

Holland has placed notices in railway stations giving the address of the local "consul" who can speak Esperanto.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Mrs. J. H. Quirt, president of Central Home and School Association, presided over a splendid attendance at the November meeting which was held Monday evening at the school. The meeting was opened with the Lord's Prayer, followed by reports of the secretary and treasurer. Reports from convenors were heard from as follows: Mrs. G. Metcalfe, for membership, reported fifty-five names on the roll. A splendid report of the latest meeting of the Women's Council was given by Mrs. C. H. McWilliams. Progress of the study group was outlined by Mrs. Poulson. The next meeting will be held at 7.30 on Tuesday, the 15th, and will be addressed by Miss Bennett and Miss Dix.

Mrs. N. Stanger called attention to a training class for leaders on Home and School work which is being conducted at the Y.W.C.A. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday at 2.30. A paper collection is planned for the 24th and 25th of this month, and the association would appreciate the help of the parents in making this a success. The association will give a treat to the room with the largest collection.

Mrs. R. Wilson and Mrs. Burns were appointed convenors of a euchre and crokinole party to be held at the school on Wednesday, November 23.

R. J. Bolton, principal, announced that the children were preparing to give a concert at the school on the 17th, and parents will no doubt patronize this event.

The attendance award was a tie between Mr. Bolton's and Mr. Nicol's rooms.

After the business session a delightful violin solo was played by Mary Jane Wharry and a vocal solo was rendered by Eric Hartshorn.

Three reels of pictures were shown by the Central Finance Corporation which provided a splendid evening's entertainment.

A vote of thanks to the entertainers was proposed by Mrs. Wilfred Boorman. Mrs. A. H. Radford was piano accompanist for the evening.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL

Speaking in an interesting and humorous manner on the subject "You can't buy everything," A. R. Kennedy of the Peterborough Examiner spoke to over eighty parents at a meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association on Monday evening. A number of experiences and stories related by the speaker emphasized the fact that, although a good time may be had without spending money, a good time cannot be bought, and brought out the fact that true happiness comes from within.

In a beneficial and informative talk to the parents, Dr. Murray Fraser spoke on "Immunization," and the prevention of such diseases as small pox, whooping cough, infantile paralysis, scarlet fever, etc. His remarks were based on facts and figures, and of intense interest to the parents present.

A resume of current events for the past month was given by Mrs. T. J. Carley, and a report of the Regional Conference held recently in Belleville was given by Mrs. C. H. Crowe.

Reports from the various committees were given and an announcement made of the training school which is to be held by Mrs. Profit at the Y.W.C.A. on November 9 and 16. A letter of recognition was read by the secretary from the president, Miss Esther Deyell, who is unable to continue in office, and whose work is to be carried on by the first vice-president, Mrs. L. H. Ingram.

Two delightful songs, "Linden Lee" and "Snowflakes" were sung by Orma Lacheur. Thanks to those who had made the program such a splendid one was expressed by Mrs. J. E. Middleton. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. L. H. Ingram.

Canadian Unity

Nice enough at times to hear speeches about Canadian unity, but too frequently it looks as though there was not much of it on our national cupboard shelves. At least the supply seems to be down and there is not much evidence of a new supply being made.

Premier Campbell of Prince Edward Island has been talking about it, and his idea seems to be that the three Maritime provinces ought to have a meeting place where they could get together and discuss their common problems. It was mentioned that Premier Hepburn had referred to Ontario as the "milch cow" of the Dominion, but the Maritimes feel the cow has been fattened at the expense of Nova Scotia New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Then we find in the same address that the Maritimes feel they have not been given the advantage which the West has received in getting a fixed price for their produce. They claim that what is lost by operating wheat sales will have to be paid in by the people of the whole Dominion which will mean the Maritimes will have to pay their share while they have to sell their produce in the open market for what they can get for it.

So in all it seems to be a muddle in which that quality known as Canadian unity is marked by its absence rather than by its presence.

The West says Ontario and Quebec gets the best of it.

The Maritimes feel that Ontario has been better treated than the far east, and the Maritimes also feel the West has received preferred treatment which has been denied them.

And Ontario's premier says openly that this province is being taxed to keep the West going.

So when one begins to talk about Canadian unity it might be well to find a few samples of it to be used for purposes of illustration.

Have Themselves To Blame

H. J. Timperley who has been correspondent in China for the Manchester Guardian, is making a trip across Canada. In one short interview in which he discussed the troubles a war correspondent experienced in getting material past the censors, and the general outlook in the East, Mr. Timperley made this highly important statement:

> Japan would find it very difficult to continue her war with China if the countries whose interests are directly menaced by her success refused to sell her essential war materials.

That same statement has been made before. It was also made at the time Italy invaded Ethiopia, but it comes with greater force at the moment on account of the defiant attitude which Japan is taking toward the world in general in her claim that Japan is going to dominate the Eastern situation and the other nations will have to arrange their affairs in accordance with that determination.

Japan would buy war material where it can be found. She would make purchases directly or indirectly from United States, Britain or France or elsewhere, and such nations by supplying war material would be aiding Japan to conquer China. Then when Japan has achieved that objective she would tell these nations which had been helping her to take their goods and their trade and get out and stay out as Japan wished to have that field for herself.

And Japan is also prepared to say that it will no longer be necessary to recognize China in any international agreements now in existence, as the Japanese will proceed to set up a government there according to their own liking. And the nations which are now menaced by the attitude of Japan are the very ones which by selling war material to Japan have helped put that nation in a position where she can become great and defiant.

Doctors Want To Enter

The Canadian Department of Immigration reports that not in years has there been such pressure placed upon it by professional men from Europe who are seeking opportunity to enter Canada. Particularly mentioned are a number of Jewish doctors whose living has been taken from them by anti-Semitic moves in central Europe. Almost without exception we learn these applications are being refused, and the reason given by the department is that it would be unfair to admit them because we have so many of our own young men and women going through for medicine. Their hope of finding a field to practice would be jeopardized if immigration barriers were let down and a large number of European doctors were admitted. The only way a European doctor can be admitted is by special Order-in-Council, and after being admitted it would be necessary for him to pass the Medical Council examination.

One is ready to admit it would be a hardship if there were a number of European doctors admitted to this country. Our own schools are graduating their full quota each year and these young people do not want to leave their own country. But the principle involved is one of straight protection of a certain class of people against outside competition. If a distinguished man of advanced technique were to apply for admission we believe it would be advisable to admit him.

He Found It Easy

Merchants in Hamilton and Toronto are said to have been defrauded to the extent of $800 or $1,000 by a man who cashed cheques made out to himself by the Canadian General Insurance Agencies. He explained always that they were made out to him from a casualty insurance policy.

The merchants who cashed the cheques in turn sent them along to the banks with their deposits and in several cases it is reported they were accepted by the banks.

It went well until some person a little brighter than the others made some inquiries and found the Canadian General Insurance Agencies had gone out of business about eight years ago.

We wonder if those merchants who were ready to cash cheques for a stranger were as careful as they are when dealing with people in their own communities. If an individual were to ask for goods on credit the merchant would consider it justifiable to make certain the party was entitled to credit and that there would be a fair chance of expecting payment within reasonable time. Apparently the stranger who drifted in with cheques on a company out of business for eight years was not made to answer many questions.

A Significant Vote

A straw vote taken by a newspaper may or may not give an accurate answer to a question, but it will at least show how a section of the community is thinking. When the Saskatchewan section of the United Farmers of Canada was in session in Saskatoon recently a resolution was passed to the effect that Western Canada should be constituted as a separate autonomous state within the British Empire. That is, there should be a cutting off of the West from the East. The contention was that the present set-up of the Dominion tended to benefit the Eastern industrialist to the detriment of the Western farmer.

The Regina Leader-Post then undertook a straw vote to find what its readers thought and the result was:

Against secession	1,617
For secession	1,576
Majority against	41

There were also 389 who sent in replies showing they believed it would be better to think it over for a while before giving an answer. As far as straw votes go this one gave a fairly good response because the majority of readers would not give answers at all. The fact that 3,193 did reply is a good showing, and the size of the majority against secession—only 41—is worth thinking about. It may be that those who are in favor of secession would be keen to take advantage of an opportunity to say so and would register their votes quickly and unanimously, while those who were not much interested would vote with less willingness or not at all.

But allowing for that, there is nothing in the Regina paper's vote to justify the belief that the question of secession has not a following in Saskatchewan. That vote would indicate it is larger than the people of the East generally believe. It is sufficiently impressive to warrant an honest and careful consideration of the reasons for the hostile feeling displayed in that vote. We do not like secession talk—not a bit. We believe the West would be unable to make a go if it and all that. But we would like to have these unhappy folk in the West feel that they are receiving fair treatment from the rest of us.

A Little History

A private bill is being prepared by Toronto City Council, the effect of which will be to grant exception from taxation of a property at 82 Bond street once the home of William Lyon Mackenzie. The place will be a memorial to "The Little Rebel."

It is correct to state he was a rebel. He came from Scotland in 1820 to Upper Canada. At first he opened a store in Toronto, then moved in turn to Dundas and Queenston. In the latter place he started a newspaper, the Colonial Advocate, but shortly afterward considered York (Toronto) the better place for this venture. That was the time when the Family Compact was at its height, and they were not interested in allowing the people in general to have anything much to do with the government of the country. It was that system which Mackenzie attacked in his paper, but he made his attacks so abusive and so personal that he roused people to the point where they were going to do something about it. Which they did. They raided his printing office and tossed some of the equipment into the bay. Which was not as bad as it might seem for Mackenzie who was then desperately hard up. He brought suit against those who had wrecked his plant and was awarded substantial damages. That enabled him to keep on with his paper.

Then Mackenzie tried his hand at politics and was elected to the Legislature in 1828. He began his attack in the Legislature as he had in his paper, and made himself so troublesome that the majority expelled him. He was re-elected and again expelled, and in all that process was repeated five times. He was defeated in 1836 and then it was he became a rebel in earnest. If he could not turn the Compact out with his pen or his voice he was ready to do it by force. He went to the backwoods and organized farmers and in December of 1837 he marched along Yonge street at the head of some 200 rebels who were going to take Toronto. Then came the battle of Montgomery's Tavern. A number of rebels were thrown into prison but Mackenzie escaped.

He set up a government of his own on Navy Island in the Niagara river and appealed to rebels in United States to come to his aid, but instead he was ultimately arrested. Allowed to return to Canada in 1849 he again entered parliament, but found that people were no longer inclined to take him seriously. He died in 1861. Strange to think of—when he escaped from Toronto after the rebellion there was a price on his head, and yet in 1938 Toronto proposes to collect no more taxes on the house where he used to live.

Representative steel makers and auto manufacturers are going to Ottawa to see if they can agree about the tariff. Whether a representative of the car buyers will be allowed to slip in and take a back seat is not stated, but it would seem right that he be allowed to do so.

BRAVE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When I've a tooth that starts to ache, there's several things I start to take, I gulp down tablets then; I know the thing will stop in time, and I'm not going to groan or whine, I walk with bravest men.

¶ But when it doesn't stop I'm stuck, I am completely out of luck, I speak about the ache; I say it shouldn't get that way, instead of feeling bright and gay, I chant my hymn of hate.

¶ Nor do I answer very nice, when folks begin to give advice, why do I stall and wait; call up the dentist right away, and tell him you'll be there today, go on and make a date.

¶ I tremble when I call the man, and speak as easy as I can, but trouble's in my brow; I feel like shouting out in glee, when he calls back and says to me, that he can't take me now.

¶ And when he names an hour next week, 'tis then I scratch my head and seek, for things that must be done; I am a very busy jay, I could not take the time that day, of spare hours I have none.

¶ But when the thing starts aching more, with bull-like speed I crash the door, and grab the dentist's chair; and when he's through I'm on my way, and boastful like at home I say — I never turned a hair.

Rival Reporter Fell for 'Scoop'

WE RECALL A HOAX perpetrated on the old Winnipeg Telegram many years ago, writes A. R. Ford in the London Free Press. There was intense rivalry between The Free Press and The Telegram. It was almost a feud between the reporters. The police reporter of The Telegram, the late Wilson Blue, had succeeded in scooping on a number of occasions the police reporter on The Free Press, "Tank" Stevens—no reason to explain the nick - name "Tank". Stevens decided to get even. Late one night he blew into the bar of one of the Winnipeg hotels — the round-up for newspapermen — and intimated that he had just come in from covering a big story. Blue's ears pricked up and he began buying drinks. Little by little he dragged out of Stevens all the dreadful details of a shocking murder in the municipality of St. Vital, a French Canadian settlement along the Red River. It was after midnight before Wilson got back to The Telegram office. It was too late to verify the story: there were no telephones in the district. So Blue wrote a graphic story with all the names and ghastly details of the horrible St. Vital murder. The Telegram played it up with an eight-column head. Stevens returned to The Free Press to inform the staff. No one went home early. Reporters, printers, stereotypers, everyone waited for the morning edition to see if they had fallen for the great murder hoax. The Telegram had.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE WAS A curious aftermath and The Free Press all but got caught itself. Both The Free Press and Telegram produced evening papers. Stevens and The Free Press night staff forgot to leave word for the day editors that The Telegram's murder story was a hoax. When the day staff came to work there was a great outburst over the scoop of The Telegram. This was in the days before automobiles and one of the best reporters on The Free Press was dispatched post haste with a team of officers to get further details of the terrible St. Vital tragedy. He drove all day trying to find the murder. It came near press time for the afternoon papers and still no word from The Free Press sleuth far in the wilds of St. Vital. It was decided to rewrite and to pick up The Telegram story when largely by chance Stevens blew into the office. He was immediately jumped upon for being scooped by The Telegram. He let out one howl of laughter and The Free Press was saved from the ignominy of republishing the hoax.

To The Editor

PRICE OF WHEAT

Editor Examiner:

Sir: In your editorial columns, recently, reference was made to resolutions approved by Wentworth and Brant county councils to the effect that "the Federal Government should set a minimum price of 80 cents for wheat in Ontario."

If one may be guided by the opinions of representative men on the Prairies, the wheat farmer in this province is receiving about as much for his wheat as his western brother and "half again as much for his oats and barley".

Further along in the editorial ("We Grow Too Much Wheat") I observe the following statement: "If we were to have a fixed price for wheat, what would happen? There would at once be a greater acreage given over to the production of that grain. . ."

As a purely economic principle, I think that is absolutely correct; but I also think, Mr. Editor, that the operator of that result is definitely regulated by the level of said "fixed price;" whether the valuation itself is economic, as a normal revenue-bearing activity for the wheat farmer.

My friends assure me that "80-cent Wheat", as a full 25 cents per bushel below the long-term average for the breadgrain at the Winnipeg market. Moreover, my own memory reminds me that the farm experts at Saskatchewan University, in hunting for the true production costs of a bushel of wheat on the prairies, call for 85 cents "down on the farm," rather than at Fort-William or Vancouver.

As it costs approximately 18 cents to put a bushel of wheat at Lakehead (or tidewater, on the Pacific) and as the 80-cent wheat valuation is for No. 1 Northern, I cannot see a cash inducement for new acreage in 1939, even if what is "pegged" below its true production costs.

SPANKING IN ORDER.

(Detroit Free Press)

THE SUDDEN, realistic broadcasting Sunday evening of a sensational extract from T. G. Wells' story, "The War of the Worlds," was a piece of inexcusable and unforgivable stupidity.

Maybe those who perpetrated the hoax imagined they were being clever. Perhaps they thought it would be funny to "throw a scare" into a few million people at a time when two continents are in a condition of high nervous tension and threats of war are daily occurrences.

But that sort of childish smart aleckism isn't at all humorous, and those responsible for the broadcasts will get what they deserve if they receive some sound spankings as rewards for their efforts. In fact, there's a job right ahead for the Federal Communications Commission.

ALL IN ONE TAXI?

(Ottawa Journal)

CERTAIN PEOPLE in Canada, and certain newspapers, have been making much of attacks on the Chamberlain policy by Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Churchill. But there is no proof at all that these two brilliant but somewhat wayward politicians speak for any considerable body of Englishmen. Mr. Churchhill, although a Conservative and a great parliamentarian, has not been able to make a Conservative Cabinet for several years; while Mr. Lloyd George's parliamentary followers could all be taken to Westminster in a single taxi.

• Where We Have Put Millions

THE 1938 ISSUE of the Canada Year Book, recently published, includes a table showing that Dominion, Provincial and municipal governments have subsidized all Canadian railways with cash, to aid in construction, to a total of $218,977,196.

Railways other than the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific received $11,359,922, of which $7,935,385 was from the Dominion, $2,126,869 was from provinces and $1,297,668 was from municipalities.

The Canadian Pacific received as a part of the consideration for the construction of the first trans-Canada railway, $25,000,000 in cash with respect to its main line. Parts of the railway previously built by the Government and turned over to the company were valued at $36,234,310. Other cash subsidies for branch lines for other acquired or leased lines bring the total of Dominion Government cash payments to the Canadian Pacific system to $99,944,597. The same company received cash assistance from provinces amounting to $14,587,592 and $4,610,157 from municipalities. Thus the total cash assistance to the Canadian Pacific has been $119,142,346.

These subsidies were all by way of assistance in original construction, of lines. Subsequent to construction, the Canadian Pacific never has received assistance from governmental sources. The nearest approach to this was in 1931 when a bank loan of $60,000,000, divided among several banks, was guaranteed by the Dominion. This loan was subsequently paid in full by the railway, so that there is now no liability, direct or indirect, of the Government to the Canadian Pacific.

Construction subsidies granted the various railways which now comprise the Canadian National system were not as high. The Dominion Government provided $64,403,853, including a $15,000,000 loan to the Grand Trunk, or just about two-thirds of the amount received by the Canadian Pacific from the same source. The provinces, on the other hand, were more generous to Canadian National lines, their subsidies being $16,677,208, or $2,000,000 more than had been provided Canadian Pacific lines. Of the total of $13,301,692 municipal subsidies to all railways, $7,393,867 went to railways now included in the National system.

The cash grants to the Canadian National mentioned above do not, of course, include any of the deficits which have had to be provided by the taxpayers. Including simple interest on direct government loans, these cash deficits amounted to $960,666,109 by the end of 1936. This is fifteen times the original cash subsidies to these lines and ten times the Dominion's grant to the Canadian Pacific which enabled that company to begin operations.

The subsidies to the Canadian National also are exclusive of the government-built lines which are included in the Canadian National system from 1923. On the Intercolonial system the government had expended $132,283,622; on the Prince Edward Island Railway, $16,500,277; on the National Transcontinental Railway, $168,350,611; and other railway expenditures bring the total to $388,879,972 to the end of 1937.

1928 BANNER FREIGHT YEAR

Peak of freight tonnage on the two principal Canadian railways was in 1928, when 98,205,000 tons were carried. The low point in the last fifteen years was 1933, when 47,117,000 tons were carried. In 1937, traffic had recovered to 65,964,000 tons.

• Can A Council Regulate Hours?

MEMBERS OF THE City Council will probably move very cautiously on the proposed bylaw to regulate the delivery of milk in St. Thomas, setting the hours at which the delivery men are to start in the morning, says a report in The Times-Journal. Acting on instructions of the City Council, the City Clerk wrote to the Windsor municipal authorities, asking for a copy of that city's bylaw governing milk delivery hours. A reply was received Saturday stating that Windsor passed such a bylaw in 1935, based on the Ontario Milk and Cream Act, but had since rescinded the ordinance on the opinion of a police court magistrate that the Windsor Council had exceeded its powers in attempting such regulations. The police court opinion was rendered after an action was entered against Windsor ordinance. The St. Thomas City Council was advised to move cautiously in the matter and learn definitely if it had such power before passing any bylaw.

Enquiries have also been made of Hamilton and Niagara Falls, Ont., to learn if those cities have bylaws regulating milk delivery hours and whether they are operative.

Fourteen of the milk delivery men of St. Thomas submitted a petition to the City Council last Tuesday evening asking that a bylaw be passed to regulate the starting hours in the morning for milk deliveries. One local dairy was not represented on the petition, neither were farmer-producers who continue to distribute pasteurized milk in the city.

A meeting has been called for seven o'clock next Monday evening to discuss the request and decide whether the City Council has the power to pass such a bylaw and whether its passing is desirable. All the milk delivery men as well as the heads of local dairies have been invited to attend the meeting. The City Council particularly desires the attendance of the 14 delivery men who signed the petition. None of them was in attendance at the Council meeting last Tuesday evening to support their request.

• An Interesting Point Settled

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

THE DECISION HANDED down by Judge H. A. Lavell yesterday morning, in connection with the proposed investigation into all the circumstances surrounding the dispute concerning the city and Dr. Sands, ex-city clerk, was one of vital importance locally and one which was eagerly awaited in the city. Dr. Sands claimed $250 from the City Council, a portion of his retiring honorarium which had been withheld. The city on the other hand claimed $857 from Dr. Sands, civic income tax unpaid for the years 1926 to 1936. Dr. Sands offered a marked cheque for the difference, to settle the matter, without prejudice. The City Council accepted the cheque but asked for an investigation by the county judge, into whether or not Dr. Sands had been recreant in his duty as city clerk in not seeing that he, himself, had been assessed for income tax, in the years in which he was not assessed. The council also asked the judge to decide whether or not their action had been taken with a view to prejudicing the position of Dr. Sands as a candidate for mayor, as they claimed he intimated in a letter sent to them and published in The Whig-Standard on October 22.

✧ ✧ ✧

After reviewing all the circumstances, and studying the arguments submitted by counsel, Judge Lavell felt that the claim had been disposed of by a judgment of the Supreme Court, as indicated by the settlement accepted. In view of the settlement arrived at the judge felt that no good purpose could possibly be served by proceeding further.

✧ ✧ ✧

We believe that the decision handed down by Judge Lavell will be a popular one in the city. There was a division of opinion as to whether or not Dr. Sands was negligent in regard to seeing that he was himself assessed for income tax, and likewise as to whether or not he owed the city money. Having offered settlement of the claim of the city against him, however, and that settlement having been accepted, it appeared to The Whig-Standard that any investigation was bound to end up in the threshing of a lot of old straw, and would do very little good to anyone.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dr. Sands feels that he has been unfairly treated by the City Council, and has decided to ask for a vindication from the electorate. While there was some doubt as to there being any valid reason for disqualifying Dr. Sands as a candidate for the mayoralty, before the judge's decision was handed down, it has definitely cleared the air. The ex-city clerk has announced that he will be officially nominated on nomination day, and will be in the fight to the finish. It looks as if the municipal elections in Kingston this year will not be lacking in interest.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND THE LORD GOD called unto Adam, and said unto him, Where are thou? And he said, I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself.

And he said, Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat? And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat. And the Lord God said unto the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

And the Lord God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life: and I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.—Gen. iii, 9-15.

MANY PERSONS will be glad to know that the seeds of grapes can be swallowed at gala social events, when folk are putting on their best manners, instead of being secreted in the hand, pushed behind the ear, thrown under the sofa or dropped into the sand around the palm tree or geranium. Sometimes these seeds have presented as much trouble as a chew of tobacco in the jaw of a member of a church choir at Friday night practice.

Be Extra Careful about

STUBBORN COLDS

Relieve Their Misery this PROVED Way

TOO often, the cold that "hangs on" is a result of neglect . . . and neglect is always risky. Be extra careful of a stubborn cold, of course. But the safest course is to be careful of all colds. Don't experiment. Relieve their misery this doubly proved way.

Here's What To Do: It's best to stay in bed and get lots of rest. Eat lightly, drink plenty of water, and keep elimination regular. And use Vicks VapoRub without delay.

VapoRub has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin...

VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no stomach upsets. Just massage it on throat, chest, and back. Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

Relief starts almost at once. You begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by body warmth, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm, eases irritation and coughing, helps break local congestion. And long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working.

NOTE: If there is much irritation and coughing, or the air-passages feel clogged with heavy mucus or phlegm, even stronger vapor action is helpful. Pour boiling water in a bowl, melt a teaspoonful of VapoRub in it, and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes.

School Chairman Four Years Doctor Resigns

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Nov. 8.—Dr. C. H. Gardner, chairman of the Havelock Public School Board for the past two years, presented his resignation at the regular November meeting of Board. Chairman Gardner, who will leave Havelock shortly to practice dentistry in South Porcupine, in addressing the members of the Board expressed the pleasure of having served on the Public School Board as both trustee and chairman for the past several years. Later in the meeting Trustee Bernard Smith an ex-chairman and veteran member of the Board was appointed to the chairmanship for the remainder of the term. Present at the meeting also were Trustees Mrs. W. Nobes, Mrs. Brisbin, and Geo. Iles.

Principal Duncan reported the average attendance down to 161 last month, mostly due to the epidemic of chicken pox, and asked if health certificates should be accepted from doctors other than the local M.O.H. Mr. Duncan also reported that a meeting of public school teachers was being held in Lakefield on November 8th, and the Board on the recommendation of Inspector Copp approved that the local staff attend.

Caretaker Buchanan reported that the sand table had been cut in two as decided upon, and that the chimney had been repaired. The Board authorized him to order half a set of grates for the furnace.

On motion of Trustess Mrs. Brisbin and Iles, Mrs. Clare Price and John Bannon were appointed to the vacancies on the Board caused by the resignation of Chairman Gardner and the unseating of Trustee Pirie due to non-attendance.

The secretary was instructed to secure six copies of the 1938 Consolidated Public School Act and the 1938 amendment.

The following accounts with the exception of Denikes, which was returned for further details, were passed and ordered paid on motion of Trustees Iles and Mrs. Brisbin.

Teachers' and caretaker's salaries, $554.55; E. Fennell, secretary-treasurer, salary, postage and excise, $4 05; A. C. Denike, account, $6 27; Robt. McCutcheon account 75c.

Reward of One Afternoon's Work

Treat yourself to a lovely procession of flowering bulbs this winter. Oxalis with its rosy blossoms, the fragrant white narcissus, brave gay tulips, sunny daffodils—start them all now, in one short afternoon's work.

For wall or window brackets, the trailing oxalis is charming. Put three bulbs in a five-inch pot, cover with an inch of soil, keep in cool dark closet a week while roots form. Then bring out gradually into full November sunshine.

Plan for fragile narcissus amid your Christmas greenery. Put bulbs in a dish with pebbles and water, keep in dark until roots are an inch long.

Single tulips for January forcing and daffodils for February bloom you plant in pots. Both need cool dark surroundings until their blooming periods are near.

Turn to our 32-page booklet for sound advice about all kinds of house plants and flowers. Tips on soil, light, temperature, pests. How to get gorgeous bloom, rich foliage.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of MAKING PLANTS AND FLOWERS GROW INDOORS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, November 9.

Very lively and interesting conditions are foreseen from the predominant planetary influences. These are forecast not only in business relations, but in social domestic, and affectional matters. All forms of enterprise and initiative are under vivid if not hectic impetus, and great things in the way of attaining objectives are to be expected.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of excellent promise, with all the forces and faculties keyed up to great pitch for initiative and accomplishment. Similar exciting, lucrative, and happy conditions prevail in social, domestic artistic, romantic and sports affairs, with the young, ardent and progressive assured of high achievements. Travel, news, and fast tempo mark the year.

A child born on this day may be versatile, resourceful, energetic, and aggressive, excelling in anything it attempts. It should be very popular with the young.

WRITES TO SELF

CANBERRA—(CP).—Prime Minister Joseph Lyons has occupied so many ministerial jobs in his political career, sometimes he has had to write letters to himself. Recently, as Minister of Defence, he had to address a request to the Prime Minister. Mr. Lyons thinks the request will be granted.

40 Million Are Expected To Vote In U.S.

By H. M. Peters
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (CP). — United States voters went to the polls today to choose officeholders and indirectly to indicate whether they believe the six-year-old New Deal has been a working success.

Bad weather in some states threatened to cut down the vote expected to total 40,000,000. Although the weatherman's predictions generally favored the electors, Illinois and Michigan looked for rain or snow in several sections. From Texas up through the plains and on to the Canadian border conditions were inclined to be spotty.

"Very good weather" was forecast for the Pacific and Rocky Mountain states the south and much of the east.

At stake were a complete 432 House of Representative seats, 35 Senate seats, 32 governorships, many state legislature posts and a host of minor offices.

Over the election towered the personality of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in the middle of his second term which ends in 1940.

From today's votes may emerge the 1940 presidential candidates.

Democrats To Control Congress.

It was agreed on all sides there was no possibility of Mr. Roosevelt's Democratic party losing control of the Congress. Seventy-four Democrats return to the House of Representatives from the "solid south" unopposed. Even the most optimistic Republican forecasts did not anticipate more than 75 to 80 gains in the House where the Democrats held 328 of the 435 seats. In the Senate of 96 members there are 45 Democrats who did not have to seek election this year.

But the Congressional election was closely watched for indications whether there is a swing toward the Republicans from the smashing Democratic success in 1936. Large Republican inroads into the administration majorities would be seen as offering hope for Republican victory two years from now.

Some Republicans looked for six to eight gains in the Senate and up to 80 in the House. Democratic observers, on the other hand, predicted perhaps 25 losses in the House and two or three in the Senate.

Should there be loosening of new deal grip on the country it was expected to be revealed especially in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and California, and in the farm belt, Kansas, Iowa and other midwest states.

First was the New York State contest between Governor Lehman, whom President Roosevelt has heartily endorsed, and Thomas E. Dewey, possible Republican presidential timber. Straw polls indicated a slight victory for Dewey, Republican district attorney of New York State, a result that would be a direct rebuff to the president in his own state.

The clash between Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan and his Republican opponent, former Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald, stood out as another close race. Mr. Roosevelt endorsed Murphy for his handling of the sit-down strike crisis in the automotive industry last year and the governor, stalwart New Dealer, was regarded as definitely a candidate for Democratic nomination to the White House if he succeeded today.

Seeking Fifth Term

In Wisconsin Philip La Follette faced the most vigorous fight of his career and his re-election to a fifth term as governor was in considerable doubt. If La Follette were defeated in the three-way battle between Progressives, Republicans and Democrats it would be a severe setback to his Progressive party which many think he hopes to launch on a nation-wide scale in the 1940 presidential elections.

Pennsylvania, where the campaign has been particularly bitter and Massachusetts, where the veteran James M. Curley, Democrat, attempted a comeback against Leverett Saltonstall, Republican, were other high spots in the race for governors.

James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in a last minute address said the result must be "so decisive as to leave no doubt in anybody's mind that the country's faith in Franklin D. Roosevelt is as great as ever."

The president would be endorsed again, he predicted, adding the senate and house would be as overwhelmingly Democratic as before.

Banned From Shopping

IPSWICH, Eng.—(CP)—Notorious for shiplifting, a woman here was told when she appeared in court charged with theft of soap from a store never to enter "a shop known as a store" again.

It's No Surprise That You're Constipated!

If constipation has you bogged down so you feel tired, sunk, all played out—it's time you asked yourself some questions!

What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and take a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Ontario. Sold by every grocer.

German Steamer Wrecked By Mysterious Blast

A mysterious blast in a cargo-laden hold of the German steamer Vancouver, injured three crew members and endangered the lives of 60 passengers and members of the crew as the vessel prepared to sail from Oakland, Calif., to Europe. The Vancouver quickly began to settle after the explosion and was run aground to prevent it sinking.

AFRAID TO MARRY

By HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 42

JUDY EXPLAINED, as the cab bumped along the road that paralleled the wharves and fish markets, just how the mysterious, slight man in the green fedora and plaid overcoat had reappeared at Coralee Myers' residence in New Jersey to buy letters of the alphabet.

He had given no name and address, she added. Mr. Myers could not check on the generous buyer of the printed letters.

Ronald glanced at the initials carefully.

"I've had no messages in writing," he said, "concerning anything. Afraid there's nothing to compare. But it might be that the police department has specimens related to these. Of course, there's a chance, since that pen expert of yours sells these things to the general market, that the police could have them from some other party. It needn't relate to our man in any way."

"Mr. Myers knows the purposes to which the other people put the letters. They want notes, or names for certificates, or mottoes. This man is his only mysterious customer. I asked him."

Ronald leaned forward, slipped down the glass, gave a curt direction to the driver.

"Central Police Headquarters!"

Ronald was a favorite at police headquarters. It was instantly apparent to Judy that sympathy was with him in the attack made against him.

Another lawyer, a mean-mouthed, beady-eyed creature, was standing near the door of the office to which Ronald went. The lawyer looked at him and laughed with a crackling accent:

"Well, Birrell, maybe it won't be long until you'll be entering through another door!"

For a moment Judy thought the red-headed attorney was going to swing out with a strong fist and land the cocky little representative of his profession a neatly timed wallop. The gray eyes flashed, the lean jaw stiffened, but Ronald passed on.

The taunting laugh of the cruel attorney followed them down the hall.

Judy was having difficulty keeping up with Ronald. He seemed to have forgotten her. She glanced down ruefully at the high-heeled patent leather pumps she wore and decided she would wear low-heeled brogues tomorrow. You couldn't run after Ronald in silly spikes. You couldn't run after him in anything.

They entered the office of the offical whom they wished to see—whom Ronald wished to see, Judy corrected her thoughts. She had no knowledge of the mechanism of the law, except that G-men were heroes in the movies and generally got their man on the front page of the newspapers, too. Also, if you speeded up Westchester way, you got a police tag and paid a fine.

"Coming all right, Judy?" Ronald asked with one of his swift, flashing smiles as he held the door for her.

The next hour was a hodge podge of curt commands, explanations, conferences. More detectives were summoned. Ronald's red hair stood up, crisp and glistening. Judy tossed her hat on a table, forgot that her tilted nose was shining, plunged into the melee, glorying in it.

The head of the handwriting department took the disassorted alphabet. He sent for some information which presently arrived There were consultations and examinations and eventually he returned to say:

"These letters are identical with those in two notes we have on hand in connection with a blackmail case. If this suspect of yours didn't send the notes then another client of Myers' did. We are sending for the handwriter immediately."

"Blackmail?" Ronald repeated. His hands clenched the table until the knuckles turned white. Only Judy caught the recognition and acceptance of some unseen agent which was in Ronald's tones.

"Received any blackmail letters, Birrell?" an officer asked.

"Not one." Ronald had recovered quickly.

Judy was taken into another department and hundreds, thousands of pictures were placed before her. She was asked to identify the man she had seen. Face after face—young, old, firm, savage, weak, treacherous. They swam before her eyes, they grined and leered and wept.

"No," she said.

"Not this one," she commented.

"None of these," she began to judge them in groups.

Then a picture was placed in front of her, one which came from another group.

Judy nodded her head slowly. "Yes, that's the man. I mean I think it is. Here he has a cap and black suit. And his head doesn't precede his body. If I could see him walk—"

The two officers exchanged knowing looks. Judy intercepted the glance.

"Who is he?" she asked.

"A guy who's been earning a pretty penny at blackmail. Been up three times and indicted once and served a sentence. He's out now and we've been working on the idea that he's the brains in a blackmail racket we're after now. Been wanting to hold him under suspicion."

"You know where to get him," Judy asked.

"The boys will pick him up," the answer came.

There was nothing more for Ronald and Judy to do until the police gathered some information, so they came from the police station into the cold winter air. Spring had receded, winter was definitely reinstated. Snow blew in eddies around the corners.

Judy did not want Ronald to send her home. She wanted to stay with him. They could go to a movie together and sit some place where they needn't watch the picture very much. Or they could get something to eat. Maybe he would explain why the word "blackmail" had startled him.

Besides, she must present her gift or loan.

When Ronald said, "Judy, I must go to the office and clean out my desk. Want to come?" She was so glad she could only nod mutely. Ronald went into a restaurant in the law building and came out with his arms filled with bundles.

"Food," he said. "Mind eating in my office?"

"I'd adore it."

She cleared the wide sweep of polished oak, spread the paper tablecloth that came with the containers of food, placed the silver and plates. There were two cartons of hot chicken soup; lamb chops with their legs neatly wrapped in white frills and their browned surfaces decked with parsley; potato salad and cheese and pickles; two big pieces of huckleberry pie and two cartons of coffee.

It was the kind of a meal that a man would assemble, Judy mused, but a tender mist clouded her eyes. Ronald walked to the window and stood, hands in his pockets, looking down into the snowy recesses of the cleared street.

When the food was ready, Judy went to stand by him. All around them was a blanket of silence, silence so vast that it reached up and up to the few stars shining in the open space where the buildings did not hide the sky. Ah, there was the moon, too.

What was it scientists said, Judy pondered. Then she remembered and told Ronald.

"Did you know that people must go 20 miles away from the electrical illuminations at Times Square to get the full effect of moonglow and starlight? The Neon signs and the glittering bulbs dim them."

Ronald took her hand in his, quietly this time, and he, too, looked up to the stars.

"Farther away than that, Judy," he said. "Much farther."

Looking Back On This Date

It ie not given to many men to die on the same date of the year as that upon which they were born. That was, however, the luck of Hon. John M. Johnson, the New Brunswick statesman who did so much to bring his province into the Dominion of Canada.

Born in Liverpool, England Nov. 8, 1818, he died at Ottawa Nov. 8, 1868. During his brief life he had been speaker of the assembly, solicitor and attorney-general, and delegate to both the Quebec and London conferences which drew up the terms of Confederation. In person he was remarkable for a very swarthy complexion, and exuberance of glossy black hair, moustache and eyebrows, and when he presided as speaker of the assembly of New Brunswick was noted for his fine personal appearance. He was also postmaster-general of New Brunswick for a time.

After Confederation Mr. Johnson was elected to parliament for his old constituency of Northumberland, but his health had broken down and he did not, during the two parts of the first session—the only session before his death—apply himself strenuously to the business, or deliver any sustained argument. But his quickness of repartee and inimitable talent for apt jeu de mot, or vulgarly speaking, for an effective pun, soon made him one of the most conspicuous, if not one of the most popular men in the house. Mr. A. G. Jones of Halifax was arraigning the government with great severity for not having in respect to their proposed duty on sugar fulfilled the promises they had made during the electoral canvass, but Mr. Johnson brought down the house by interposing the remark: "That was the duty canvass!"

He was a strong advocate for the proposed Baie Verte canal, and disposed to make light of the Nova Scotian agitation for repeal; and so the force was taken out of a fervid secession speech, by Mr. Johnson coolly getting up at its close and saying:

"Mr. Speaker, I can suggest a ready method of settling this question: cut the Baie Verte canal and let Nova Scotia drift away as an island, and then Newfoundland and new lost land will be side by side."

When Hon. John Rose was putting through his estimates one evening,the dapper but rather portly little man, Hon. J. H. Gray, chairman of the committee of supply, became somewhat impatient of Mr. Johnson and called him to order.

"How am I out of order, Mr. Chairman?" asked Mr. Johnson.

"The hon. minister of finance rose," said Gray (without meaning any pun).

"Well, I rose, too, so there are two roses in the house," replied Johnston.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"Yes," said Mr. Punch to Hanid and Knarf, the shadow-children with the turned-about names, "when I was younger I thought nothing of getting up early in the morning and climbing a mountain before breakfast."

"A real mountain, Mr. Punch?"

"Well, not a terribly high one. I'd just pick one that touched the clouds."

Some Climber!

Knarf gazed at Mr. Punch with great admiration. "You certainly must have been a wonderful mountain-climber, Mr. Punch."

"I certainly was. I climbed them all, and when there weren't any mountains left for me to climb, do you know what I finally had to do?"

"What?" asked Knarf.

Mr. Punch chuckled. "I had to build my own mountain."

"You did!"

"Oh, yes! And I decided to build it good and high, too. So I collected all sorts of rocks and stones and boulders, and cliffs and precipices. Up, up, up they went. You couldn't see the top at all. Then, when it was all finished, I packed a little picnic lunch and said good-bye to all my friends and started up."

"I climbed them all."

"And did you reach the top?" Hanid and Knarf asked excitedly.

"No," said Mr. Punch sadly, shaking his head. "I never got to the top. It wasn't that I couldn't climb it. You see, I suddenly said to myself: 'Punch, if you climb that mountain, it will be the last mountain you'll ever climb. You'll never be able to build another one higher. You'll just have to give up mountain climbing.'"

"And so you didn't claimb it?"

"I came right down again, ate my picnic lunch, and then went home. And I never did climb that mountain I'm still saving it for another day."

Can't Remember.

"Where is it, Mr. Punch?" Knarf cried. "Let's climb it now!"

"Where is it?" Mr. Punch repeated. "Dear me! I've got the address down in my little book. It's somewhere or other. "Yes," he added, as he got up and started for bed, "I'm quite sure it's somewhere or other. But it's late and we all have to go to bed now. It's really a wonderful mountain. Remind me about it and we'll climb it one of these days. Good-night."

And off he went, leaving the two shadows wondering if what he had told them wasn't all just make-believe.

Charged With Murder

FONDA, N.Y., Nov. 8—(AP).—Vernon Egner, 22, quoted as saying he had "determined" to kill his school girl sweetheart "if he could not have her" today was charged with first degree murder in connection with the shotgun slaying of Laura Hazzard, 14. The shooting occurred in Amsterdam as the girl was walking to school. Officials said the girl's father, Arthur Hazzard, had objected to Egner "keeping company" with his daughter and after an argument between the pair Sunday, had ordered the youth to "keep away from her."

Peace Education World's Need, Institute Told

HAVELOCK, Nov. 8.—The Havelock branch Women's Institute met yesterday afternoon in the council chamber with a very good attendance and the president, Mrs. John Armstrong in the chair. Roll call for the day was well responded to with suggestions on "How to promote peace."

During the business period, conducted by the president, a donation of $5 was voted to the Red Cross Society for the Northern Ontario fire relief fund. It was announced that the needlecraft course would be held in the town hall commencing on the twenty-first of this month.

Report on the Hallowe'en dance showed great success, with total proceeds amounting to over $125.

Current event topics were interestingly described by Mrs. H. W. Roche.

Miss E. Wright gave her report on the recent officers' rally held in Lakefield.

Miss Seeney, convener of the afternoon's programme which was appropriately based upon the subject "Peace," began by calling upon the members to observe two minutes" silence, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Guest speaker for the day was Rev. A. McLaughlin, who gave a very inspiring talk on "peace education," enlarging on the statement that "co-operation, not conflict, is the key to the solution of the problems of to-day." "The world is now in a mood for peace, and one of the first steps towards this is to take away the profits from munition makers."

The demonstration to have been given by Mrs. Clare Price on "Care of Clothing" was postponed until the December meeting.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting under the convenership of Mrs. Geo. Iles, and a social half-hour much enjoyed.

New Queen Elizabeth School On Barnardo Avenue Is Opened By Inspector Greer

The Ontario Department of Education has two ideals, first that every child should have an equal opportunity for an education, and secondly, education costs should be equally distributed in a country, V. K. Greer, Chief Inspector of the Public and Separate Schools for the Department of Education, told a gathering attending the formal opening of Queen Elizabeth School on Monday night.

Inspector Greer was introduced by Allan Brown, chairman and one of the three trustees for the new school located at the north end of Barnardo Avenue in Smith Township. Mr. Brown welcomed the parent, ratepayers, and members of the Smith Township Council, and many others who had been associated with the venture. He referred to Inspector Greer as one who had given the school builders every encouragement and support.

Reviewed Problems.

Inspector Greer reviewed the problems which had to be met before the school became a reality. He explained that no municipal council under new laws was able to pass an issue of debentures without the approval of the Municipal Board of Ontario. He landed the members of the Smith Township Council for the fair way in which they had viewed the proposal and the despatch with which they handled their part of the work, and at the same time he paid tribute to the members of Milburn's School Board.

"Ratepayers in a section like this have none of the banks, service stations, or factories to produce assessment revenue the same as a city school, and all of your revenue must come from taxation of homes." Continuing on this thought he said the Department feels that every child should have an equal opportunity for an education and the burden of the cost should be equally borne. "We haven't as yet solved the problem of distributing the cost equally. This school should have been taken into the city to form a larger metropolitan area, but this was found to be impossible."

The next best solution, said the Inspector, was for the Government to give more liberal grants to school boards in areas which have such a problem.

Grants Increased.

"This year there has been a 16 per cent. increase in such grants, and this section may expect a fairly generous grant because you do not share in the neutral assessment such as comes to Boards of Education in large cities, and in this way the Government makes it up to ease the burden of taxation."

He made reference to the fact that there may be some doubting Thomases in the township who would criticize the major expenditure for such a modern school, and for the benefit of those he stressed the point that the ratepayers and board had shown wisdom in their work. He added, too, that the building showed beyond doubt that there was some person always on the job to see that the numerous details were properly carried out.

Inspector Greer spoke briefly on the new curriculum which he explained aims at having each pupil help the other for the great benefit of all rather than having one or two brilliant pupils and the balance of the class just mediocre.

He voiced the appreciation of the Department of Education for the splendid manner in which the people had solved their own problems.

Criticised Teaching Methods

Dr. J. B. MacDougall, assistant inspector of the Department of Education was also called on to make a few remarks and he said he had attended merely to show his appreciation for the fruit of their efforts. He explained that in the past one great weakness had been the inclination to speed up everything in schools and he urged in its stead careful thinking and planning such as had been put into the building of the school. "It is the finest school of its kind I have ever visited, there is not even one thing which I might criticise."

"It is not the itemized things in school text books which make education. Rather it is the building of sensible upright citizens who will practice common decency in their daily lives." He said that in the past the schools have been too academic. They have attempted to teach the theory at the same time neglecting the actual practice, and as a result the pupils have not been fitted for life.

"We haven't been teaching the pupils to think, we have been making automatons out of them. We have been driving from the back seat."

Allan Brown called on several in the audience to say a few words among them being Allan B. Mann, reeve of Smith Township. Reeve Mann praised the chairman and Mr. Frise the secretary of the Board for their perseverence and good work, and said the council would continue to give the best co-operation possible. Alex Edmison, chairman of the Milburn School Board extended best wishes and congratulations on the successful completion of the school and lauded the fine spirit of harmony and teamwork which had prevailed since the campaign for the new school started almost two years ago.

Lauded Co-operative Spirit

J. E. R. Munro, principal of Queen Alexandra School said many of the mothers in the township were the finest workers in the Home and School Association and last year, a township pupil had headed the school in his work. He expressed the hope that the neighborly spirit which had existed in the past when the pupils attended Queen Alexandra School would continue. "We may be two separate schools but we are all northenders, and in my humble opinion our pupils are academically far superior to all others." He promised any help that was within his power for the new school and its pupils.

Teachers Introduced

William Rome, principal of the school spoke briefly and his assistant Miss Mabel Jackson who was also introduced promised the parents they would strive to turn out pupils who would bring honor to the school and to their parents.

Dr. Bannister, principal of the Normal School said he still had a fatherly interest in the school because of the fact that the pupils had been using two rooms at the Normal School while the new school was being built, and he extended to the Board of Trustees and the teachers his continued support and co-operation.

A lovely bouquet of chrysanthemums were on the teacher's desk and were a gift from the Home and School Council of Peterborough.

All of the speakers in the course of their remarks thanked Allan Brown, W. H. Frise and A. E. Johnston for their untiring efforts in pushing the school to completion, but Mr. Brown at the close of the meeting disclaimed all credit and stated Mr. Frise, the secretary-treasurer of the Board had worked unceasingly on the plans, preparations and during the time the school was being built to make certain everything was correct.

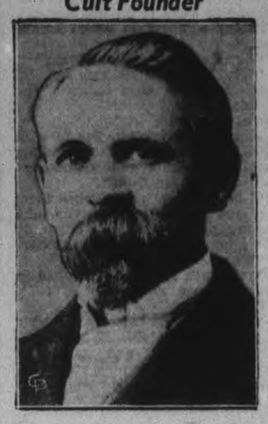
The Building.

The school building is modern in design and construction and presents a picture of rugged beauty. It is built on a piece of property that was formerly part of the Schneider estate and the land by its location is well drained, and will be dry during the greater part of the year. The general contract for the building was let to the F. R. Wilford Construction Company of Lindsay, and John T. Hornsby of this city was the architect. P. G. Wallace had the plumbing subcontract; Lt.-Col. Gordon Hall, the wiring, and Regan and Shaughnessy the heating.

The school has the most modern lighting system available and has all other features which are designed to not only facilitate the work of the teachers but maintain the health of the pupils. Windows are equipped with draft shields, and the blackboards are of the finest slate obtainable.

The building is 76 by 34 and has two classrooms with a capacity of forty pupils each, while at the present time there are 65 pupils attending daily. It is one storey and basement, brick and tile construction with flat roof and the windows are proportionately large. Provision has been made for a library and a teachers' room.

Cult Founder



In this old photograph Rev. Frank Weston Sandford, founder of the "Holy Ghost and Us" cult, is shown. His society, which existed for years almost unnoticed, suddenly—and recently—"made" the sport pages throughout the continent as Harrington "Heavenly" Gates. Dartmouth's star back and possible all-American, forsook the gridiron to do some "soul searching" with other members of the cult on a lonely hill farm in Massachusetts.

dreams in the sky. It stood for work for the willing, opportunity for youth and security for the aged.

To the association meeting, Leopold Macaulay, Conservative leader in the Legislature, announced that while he was retiring from the leadership contest, he would not yield his Legislature seat without a fight.

Hon. Earl Rowe, retiring Ontario Conservative leader, said the present Federal Liberal administration had no policy other than drifting. It was waiting "as would a hitchhiker for a glorified ride on the crest of a world prosperity similar to that before 1929."

Aberhart Wins By-Election

EDMONTON, Nov. 8.—(CP)—Athabasca provincial constituency, far-flung riding in far northern Alberta, remained within Social Credit columnstoday after a closely-fought by-election. The seat was won for the second time by C. H. Tade of Colinton in a straight fight yesterday with C. J. R. Whiteley, Liberal, also a farmer of Colinton district.

With 39 of the 44 polls reported, Mr. Tade held a majority of 200. With the five missing polls small in voting strength, the vote was: Tade 1,630; Whiteley 1,430.

Although Mr. Tade won the sea for Social Credit forces for the second time, he has yet to take his seat in the Alberta legislature.

Elected in 1935.

He won the seat in the 1934 general election when the Social Credit government of Premier Aberhart was swept into power. He resigned shortly afterward to make way for C. C. Ross of Calgary who became Minister of Lands and Mines. Mr. Ross resigned his portfolio in January, 1937.

Death of Mr. Ross in Vancouver last September necessitated the by-election and Mr. Tade again was called upon to carry the Social Credit standard. Formalities of the final election returns will not be completed in time to permit him to take his seat at the special session of the legislature opening November 15 and expected to last only a week.

Result of the closely-contested by-election left the party standing in the legislature unchanged with 53 Social Credit members; five Liberals; three Independents and two Conservatives in the 63-member House.

Giant Of 5 Years Buried In North

ASTORVILLE, Ont., Nov. 8. — (CP). — Funeral services were held here Sunday for five-year-old Roland Gauthier, the "young giant" of Northern Ontario.

Roland, who weighed 123 pounds when he celebrated his birthday last July, died Friday at his home in nearby Corbeil after a one-day illness. Congestion of the chest which affected the heart developed from a cold.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcellin Gauthier, Roland was the heaviest boy of his age in the district. He was of normal size at birth, but by the time he was five years old was 44 inches tall. Tourists visiting Callander, home of the Dionne quintuplets, saw young Gauthier on exhibition.

Two sisters and two brothers are of normal size.

Mr. Chase and Mr. Wilt of Toronto were week-end guests at "Cedar Isle."

The Ladies' Aid met Wednesday afternoon at the church with an attendance of over forty. Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Thomas Dunham. Mrs. W. W. Redden led in prayer. Correspondence was received from Mr. H. Northrop, A.T.C.M., organist and director of Mark Street Church choir giving a date early in December for the hearing of his choir in the United Church. The members donated $130 to the church board of managers. After the meeting a quilting and ten-cent tea was held by members of Group 3 in the church dining hall.

Town Votes Wet

MORIN HEIGHTS, Que., Nov. 8. —(CP).—By a majority of five votes, residents of this Laurentian Mountain centre yesterday voted to rescind a town by-law which had banned the sale of beer, wine and other alcoholic beverages since 1921.

A total of 110 persons were in favor of abolishing the 17-year-old measure, 105 against.

British Prisoners Arrive Home From Spain

Forty British prisoners of war released by the Spanish insurgents are shown here as they arrived at New Haven, Eng., from war-torn Spain. They were members of the International brigade fighting for the Loyalist government. One hundred British prisoners are being exchanged against Italian legionnaires held by the Loyalists. Further exchange of prisoners and hostages is now being negotiated.

Nussey Is Fined $100 And Costs

Judgment was delivered by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Monday afternoon in the charge against Arnold Nussey of the illegal possession of liquor, His Worship finding the accused guilty and imposing a fine of $100 and $6.50 costs.

In his judgment Magistrate Langley devoted considerable time to the contention of H. R. Rose, defense counsel, that Nussey having been acquitted on one Liquor Control charge he could not be charged with another offense based on the same facts. The judgment declared that Mr. Rose's claim of "autre fois acquit" would have to be dismissed. On the evidence that had been submitted, therefore, he felt that a conviction was justified.

Pleading for a minimum sentence Mr. Rose declared that the breach of the section under which the charge was laid had been a technical one and said that Nussey had been ordered out of the house in which he lived, his car had been seized and he had lost his job. "When he pays his fine," he said, "I can assure you it will be paid with borrowed money."

Fining the accused $100 and costs, with the alternative of three months imprisonment, Magistrate Langley ordered the five cases of beer involved in the case confiscated.

Hold Joint Meet At Cavan Church

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Nov. 8. — The Cavan Women's Association and the Women's missionary Society held their November joint meeting in the church on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. J. R. Trumpour was in charge of the worship period and read Proverbs, chapter 31, as the Scripture lesson. The topic was "Oft Forgotten Things." The secretary's and treasurer's reports of the W.A. were read and discussed. It was carried to have the election of officers in December by means of a nominating committee comprising Mesdames Matchett, Kennedy, and Staples.

The Bazaar Committee, Mrs. Snider, Mrs. Perrin, Miss Tinney and Mrs. Hunter will plan for the afternoon tea to be served at the bazaar on Thursday afternoon, December 1. The president, Mrs. Matchett, closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. J. C. Swain then took the chair for the W.M.S. session. The roll-call was answered with a verse of Scripture. Mrs. Swain gave a short report of the sectional rally held at Fraserville. There were four members present from Cavan W. M. S.

It was reported that the new study book and the leaflet, "How to Use It," had been received. The election of officers for the W.M.S. in December will be made by means of a nominating committee, comprising Mesdames Syer, Snider and Robertson. Mrs. Snider had charge of the study book, and in an interesting manner introduced the new study book, "The World in Canada," written by Rev. J. I. MacKay, superintendent of the Church of All Nations, Toronto, who has spent the past decade in work among new Canadians.

Miss Malone contributed a solo in pleasing manner. Mrs. Swain read an article from "The Living Message." Mrs. Kennedy read an article on Temperance. Mrs. Trumpour dismissed the meeting with prayer.

Efforts Of Laymen Is Lauded At Annual Banquet In Marmora

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Nov. 8.—A high note of enthusiasm for the laymen's work in the church was struck and sustained at the annual banquet and meeting of the Laymen's Association of the Deaneries of Hastings and Prince Edward, held in the Town Hall, Marmora, on Friday evening. C. H. Buskard, Deloro, past-president of St. Paul's Laymen's Association, Marmora, as retiring president of the Deaneries' Association, ably filled the role of toastmaster following an excellent repast, which was served by the members of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild.

Following "The King," cordial addresses of welcome were given by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell and H. B. Smith, president of the Marmora association. The impetus came as Canon W. W. Judd, M.A., D.C.L., general secretary of the Council of Social Service, replied to the toast of "The Laymen's Association," as proposed by Rural Dean A. B. Payne, of Belleville.

President — S. T. Leggott, St. Thomas', Belleville.

Vice-president — R. Strickland, Stirling.

Secretary - treasurer — A. Armstrong, Trenton, re-elected.

C. H. Buskard was added to the new executive as honorary president, and next place of meeting was left to the decision of the executive.

It was ascertained that the large gathering, numbering almost two hundred, was representative of the following parishes: Bancroft, Bannockburn, Tweed and Madoc, Bonarlaw, Stirling and Frankford, Trenton, Christ Church, Belleville; St. Thomas', Belleville; Picton, Roslin, Marysburg, Shannonville and Marmora.

As Rural Dean A. B. Payne proposed the toast, he spoke of the great part the laity plays in the welfare of the church as it realizes it is an active service.

The guest speaker, Dr. Judd, in his address selected as his topic, "Christianity and the Isms of the Day." In a scholarly, forceful manner, the speaker, after paying a tribute to the glories of Eastern Ontario and the virility of Canadians born and bred in the rugged parts of the province, declared that the oncoming two decades are two in which the laymen of the church must make themselves more felt than in the decades that are past. He paid a glowing tribute to women's work in the church in the past half century which had kept the missionary work up to the extent it had been carried out. "There are things which lie before the church to-day which women cannot do," he declared. "There are problems for the men to face, and the state of the world to-day presents a great challenge to the laymen of the church." He could speak indefinitely on the isms, but he would confine himself to four which presented those essential problems which face the thought and action of laymen and demand action on the part of church people. First, there was secularism, which included a movement he would extract for special consideration—the movement known as humanism. The speaker traced it as a philosophy, coming down from the Middle Ages. Man is so described that God is forgotten by its devotees. The high things of life are only explained in the terms of the physical. The answer to that challenge is, "Man is the child of God and the whole human race are children of God. False humanism as in the first century is the most fundamental opposition to the gospel of Christ."

Communism was next dealt with. "This is a movement coming closer and closer to the common life of the Canadian people," warned Dr. Judd. It is a distinct challenge to British institutions, democracy and Christianity. However, it cannot be completely condemned. It has to be evaluated so as to throw out what is wrong. To its devotees, though they may not term it as such, it is a religion. It has the marks to them as our religion has to us. It covers the whole of life. It demands and receives absolute surrender. The things Communists are willing to do would put our Christian laity and clergy to shame. They are out to convert. "I would," said the speaker with emphasis, "that our church life could show more vitality so it could convert in old-fashioned terms." The Communists are out to change circumstances. Christianity starts from within—not that it must ignore circumstances. Our politicians are no better than we are. Until our hearts become clean matters will not be changed. The Communists respect flaming missionary demands. Since 1917 Communism has spread over the whole world. It shows that we should be propagandists for the gospel of Jesus Christ. Communism holds before its adherents a great hope. The hope of the Christian is, "Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven."

We have made of righteousness little more than a theological virtue.

The other toast, "The Church and Clergy," was submitted by Judge E. H. McLean, and in his response the Lord Bishop of Ontario urged a greater support of the work of the Missionary Society of the Canadian church, pointing out in lucid manner that a churchman could not dissociate himself from the position of being a missionary.

Subsequent to the Bishop's address various laymen accepted the invitation to submit any worth-while ideas during this period.

J. F. Baker, Bonarlaw, moved a resolution, seconded by Eben James, Trenton, "that the Hastings and Prince Edward Deaneries' Laymen Association get behind the missionary movement in the diocese, using as slogan, 'Every parish pay its apportionment in full'."

During the program two members of Christ Church, Belleville, Laymen's Association gave songs, with George Maybee as accompanist.

The incoming president and vice-president were named as delegates to the Diocesan Association. The Lord Bishop and the retiring president will bring in a report at the next annual meeting as to the advisability of each deanery forming a separate association to hold a spring meeting and the annual joint meeting each fall as in the past.

Pleaded Guilty To Lesser Count

Pleading guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Monday afternoon to a charge of illegal possession of liquor, Mrs. Max Vincent was fined $100 and $2.50 costs with the alternative three months in jail.

In her behalf H. R. Rose of Toronto informed Magistrate Langley that all the liquor the police had been able to find in or around the property of Mrs. Vincent was three bottles of beer and they were found on the Vincent grounds near a line fence. His client he said was not in good financial circumstances and he urged a minimum penalty, declaring that the authorities would have no more trouble with Mrs. Vincent. This was the first time, he said, she had been convicted on such a charge.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry said he was satisfied to leave the penalty in the hands of the magistrate.

Expressing his intention of imposing the minimum fine of $100, Magistrate Langley said that the name of Vincent was not unknown to him in liquor cases but it had been the husband who had been involved.

The three bottles of beer were ordered confiscated.

THE COSMETICS OF CLEOPATRA

RECORDS PROVE that Cleopatra used Palmolive. Not, of course, as you can use it today. In golden urns her slaves blended the tropical oils of Olive and Palm. A crude blending, to be sure, but it played an important part in Cleopatra's beauty care. For it was upon these soothing oils that she relied to keep her skin smooth and clean . . . always young and lovely.

For more than 3,000 years, these costly, oriental oils have guarded the complexions of countless millions of beautiful women. Nothing since has been found their equal. And today, with Palmolive you can give your skin the healthful, cleansing, soothing benefits of this age-old beauty recipe.

The Palmolive of today owes its safety and purity; its gentle, penetrating lather; its delicate colouring; to these same, natural, soothing oils of Olive and Palm . . . blended as carefully as modern science permits.

So when you choose Palmolive to keep your skin lovely, you are choosing the finest, safest, most soothing beauty treatment known to women for more than 3,000 years.

"Palmolive is the only soap used in the daily baths of the Dionne Quintuplets. Their skin is clear, normal and healthy."

Court Allows Appeal On The Lyceum

Appeal against the assessment of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum at $16,500 was allowed by the Court of Division on Monday afternoon. The Lyceum had been exempt from taxation, but W. J. Henry, city assessor, had placed an assessment on it for taxation in 1939 as a means of obtaining a decision from the court. Rev. P. J. Kelly, D.D., told the Court on Friday that the Lyceum was used as a parish hall for St. Peter's Parish, because the basement at the Cathedral could not be equipped for that purpose and there was no other available accommodation. The assessment was struck off on the ground that the Lyceum is actually used for religious purposes.

Judgment Reserved.

Judgment was reserved on the appeal of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, Limited, whose Auburn mill, recently vacated, is assessed at $95,000 for land and buildings and $57,000 for business. F. D. Kerr, K. C., and D. G. H. Melton, manager of the Bonner-Worth plant, represented the company. Assessment of $500 each on two houses, 210 and 212 Auburn Street, which the company demolished, was rescinded, leaving the assessment of the lots at $200 each.

James Heffernan's appeal for reduction of the assesment on his house at 640 Reid Street was granted in the amount of $200, from $2,700 on the building to $2,500.

Assessment of the house at 564 Bolivar Street, owned by J. F. Strickland, K.C., was reduced from $2,920 to $2,700. Judgment was reserved on his appeal against the assessment of another house at 421 Stewart Street.

Mr. Strickland, representing Kawartha Theatres, Limited, appealed against the assessment of the Regent Theatre. Judgment was reserved.

Small Girl Bitten By Neighbor's Dog

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Nov. 8.—Beverly Ann Gall, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gall of Keene village was attacked yesterday and severely bitten on the throat and chin by a German shepherd dog owned by a neighbor.

The little tot strayed into the yard of Duncan Neish who lives next door, and it is believed she attempted to pet the dog while he was eating a bone. The dog is said to have turned and snapped at her throat inflicting a gash that required eight stitches. She is making good progress towards recovery. It was learned that the dog is not used to children and is ordinarily a mild tempered animal. So far as can be learned the police were not notified and the dog will not be destroyed.

City Council Asks That Peterborough Be Included In Itinerary Of Visit

A request that Peterborough be included in the itineray of King George and Queen Elizabeth in their visit to Canada next Spring was embodied in a resolution by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman McIntyre Monday night as follows:

"That the city clerk write to the under secretary of state of Canada stating that the Mayor and the members, of the council of the corporation of the city of Peterborough request that Peterborough be considered as one of the visiting places of His Majesty King George VI, and Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth when the occasion of their visit to Canada next May, if in arranging their itineray it can be conveniently made possible for them to visit the city of Peterborough."

Seeks $200 Damages

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 8.—(CP).—"A trespass, a steal or a mistake" may cost the town of Lindsay $20 following the receipt of a letter from a citizen, Thomas Madill. Mr. Madill protested that a town employee cut down a tree on his property without permission.

"Call it what you like, a trespass, a steal or a mistake, the fact remains the tree is gone," Mr. Madill wrote. He asked for $20 damages.

Tribute Is Paid To Late Member

An impressive tribute to the memory of John S. Adair marked the Ladies' Night meeting of the Peterborough Lions Club at the Kawartha Club Monday night when the district governor, J. J. Brown, of Bowmanville, paid his official visit to the club.

The members and guest stood for one minute in silence, as they recalled the comrade who had so recently been called away and Miss Rose Puddick sang softly "Lead Kindly Light."

Governor Smith who was introduced by Dr. Stewart Mills of Whitby, deputy chief governor, gave an inspirational address upon the aims and objects of the Lion's movement and upon the necessity of co-operating with International.

Fred Cripps, president of the club was chairman of the dinner and some 75 guests were in attendance, including a number from outside. The visitors included Harry Smith of the North Toronto Lions Club.

After the dinner a very enjoyable dance was held with music supplied by Jack Marshall.

Butter Is Stolen From Keene Factory

Thieves smashed their way through two doors into the Keene branch of the Trent Valley Creameries over the weekend and carried away 130 pounds of butter valued at $35.

The break-in was affected by removal of the lock from the outside door of the factory, which is located at Keene station about a mile north of the village. The thieves then jimmied the lock on the refrigerator room and took the lock off, carrying it away also. They stole the entire stock of butter, and are believed to have used a truck for the purpose of transporting the booty.

Usually the creamery closes for the winter on November 1st but was open a little later this year. Last Friday afternoon, Tom Woodnut, manager of the Keene branch and buttermaker, locked the creamery doors, before leaving for Campbellford. Melville Wood, a trucker for the company, discovered the break-in, and found both doors standing open, and the butter missing. The butter belonged to creamery patrons. Provincial Constable David Silvester has been notified.

Conant Denies Charges Of Monaghan Clerk

A charge that provincial police are powerless to "clean the rackets of North Monaghan" because of political interference, was levelled last night by Bruce Johnston, clerk of the township at a meeting of their Ratepayers' Association in May's School.

"We've done everything we can," he said. "And I don't think they are the fault of the provincial police." He claimed that members of the council had made personal representations to the provincial government, both under premiership of George S. Henry and Mitchell Hepburn, with no result, indeed with lack of cooperation ever increasing, he said.

"A little township like North Monaghan hasn't a chance against the big breweries," he charged. He said that government officials were apparently afraid of losing a few votes at election time if they "bucked" the liquor interests. "I know the provincial policemen and I am sure they are not grafters," he said. "They would help us if it were in their power to do so." He claimed they have received instructions to deal leniently with liquor offenders.

TORONTO, Nov. 8 (C.P.). — Attorney-General Gordon Conant denied to-day the charges of Bruce Johnston, North Manoghan Township clerk, that political interference with Provincial Police officers in that area had resulted in lax law enforcement.

"The clerk is absolutely wrong," he said. "Our police have explicit orders absolutely and directly to the contrary. They are expressly forbidden to accept advice or suggestions from anyone except their superior officer, and I am sure that if any interference had been attempted they would have reported promptly to me," Mr. Conant said. "Furthermore, the township authorities have made no representations or complaints to this Department with regard to law enforcement."

145 Pounds Of Fish Seized By Inspector

A trip to the Peterborough market last Saturday with herring and whitefish cost Edward R. Milford, R.R. 1, Picton, a fine of $10 and $2.50 costs in police court this morning.

Milford was charged before Magistrate Langley with being in possession of fish caught at a time or in a manner prohibited by law, and pleaded guilty.

Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons explained that the fish Milford had for sale on the local market had been seined by Indians in the Bay of Quinte and bought at a low price by the accused.

Milford admitted that he had had 145 pounds of fish which were seized by the authorities.

On Two Charges

There were two other charges under the Fish and Game Act this morning, Guildford Gilliland of Clanricarde who gave his occupation as a trapper being charged with having in the township of Anstruther on November 1 been in illegal possession of the carcas or some part of a beaver and also with having in the same township taken a muskrat out of season.

Gilliland pleaded not guilty to both charges and asked for an adjournment, stating that he had been unable to secure a lawyer.

"That is not a very good reason," Magistrate O. A. Langley declared. "There are twenty lawyers in Peterborough." However, the two cases were adjourned by consent until Thursday of next week.

Cenotaph Service For Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 8.—Armistice Day has been declared a holiday by Mayor F. F. Long, who has already issued an official proclamation to that effect. In order properly to observe the day it was felt generally that all business places should remain closed. Special services will be held at the Cenotaph during the morning and Rev. R. C. Tait of Chesterville will be the guest speaker. According to present plans members of both the town and township council will march with members of the legion and others to the Cenotaph for special memorial services during the morning. Major J. B. Belford will also be on hand to address the gathering and will remain to speak to members of the Legion at their annual banquet which will be held in the parish hall at seven in the evening. Following this members have been invited to attend the Hollywood theatre as guests of the managament.

Proprietors Of Lunch Counters Present Petition To Council Against New Bylaw

Signed by some hundreds of citizens, a petition was presented to the council last night by a numerous deputation from the lunch counter and refreshment parlor proprietors requesting reconsideration of their interests in the proposed amendment of the eating house bylaw which has been drafted for the purpose of restricting sales on Sundays of tobaccos, magazines and other articles that could not be classified under the general heading of food.

The council did not proceed with the reading of the bylaw, but referred it to the Board of Health, and will probably deal with it at the December meeting.

W. Gordon Powell, secretary of the refreshment parlor and lunch counter merchants, supplemented the petition with a statement commenting on Alderman Gordon's activities against some stores and booths which he had repeatedly declared to be selling on Sundays various goods that were not comprehended by the so-called eating house licenses.

Sent to Board of Health.

When Mayor Hamilton informed the deputation that the bylaw was being sent on to the Board of Health for their opinion and approval, Mr. Powell suggested that the lunch counter operators be given an opportunity of submitting their case to the council before the bylaw is enacted. He had complained in his written statement against the indiscriminate reflections upon the lunch counter proprietors in statements made by Alderman Gordon in the committee stage of preparing the bylaw. Later, in addressing Mayor Hamilton, Mr. Powell requested that if there were abuses in regard to sales on Sundays it would be better if they were made known than have the "onus placed on everybody engaged in the business."

Alderman Dutton interposed with the observation that he would like to see Mr. Powell withdraw what he had said about Alderman Gordon in what sounded like too personal a reference.

"I don't mind," Ald. Gordon said. "I think it was made good naturedly. I rather enjoyed it. It didn't hurt my felings."

"There was no personal feeling in so far as Ald. Gordon was concerned," Mr. Powell said. "It was a reference to him in so far as he seemed to be the source of statements about wholesale selling. I am agreeable to withdrawing the statement."

Alderman Gordon Replies.

Alderman Gordon, replying to Mr. Powell, "I am the source, as you say. I sent a man around to buy things at some places on Sundays, and I can give you the names where the goods were bought."

Mayor Hamilton told the deputation he was not sure when the bylaw would come up again, but it would probably be at the next meeting of the council.

The sheaf of petitions were similar in their preambles as follows: "Believing that the proposed change in the bylaw governing sales now covered by eating house licenses is not in the best interests of the city as a whole, we have requested a number of citizens to express their views and submit the following petition endorsed by citizens from all walks of life."

The change in the bylaw would concentrate in the centre of the city a legitimate business now shared by the lunch counters, it was asserted. Refreshment stands would be forced to the city limits, and the treasury would lose various licenses amounting to $86 as paid by many of the men in that business.

"No moral issue is at stake," Mr. Powell contended in his written statement, "as it makes little difference whether a man gets a bottle of soft drink for five cents in a refreshment parlor on Sunday, or pays ten cents for one in the larger restaurants in town."

Lost Hunter Found

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 8.—(CP).— Cecil Watt, 21, Sault, reached here to-day after being lost since yesterday afternoon in the bush near Glendale.

Watt, becoming separated from the rest of the party, wandered aimlessly for several hours in rain and snow until he heard a whistle of a freight train on the Algoma Central Railway.

He was at that time walking away from the track, but reversed his direction to walk toward the sound. He managed to reach a cabin and then came here this morning.

Better Grading Promises Good Marketing

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 8—Grading is not merely an excuse for raising prices, Rotarian Mac Gordon, representative of the Federal Department of Agriculture of Peterborough, said in an address here Monday.

The grading service made possible by the Federal Government has enabled a ground work for better marketing service, he said. It is based largely on consumer demands: Hogs, for instance, are based on the demands of the English market and offer the one notable exception whereby the Canadian consumer gets a product graded by the producer to the standard of the export market, was his contention.

Drawing attention to the superior type of poultry found on a graded market, Mr. Gordon claimed that in paying the cent or two more the purchaser would get 80 per cent of the weight paid for in edible meat value. There is what he termed a "buyer prejudice caused by a lack of knowledge of quality." The man who pays a few cents less for his Sunday fowl simply because it isn't graded need not be surprised to find when he begins his dinner that the bird is very sparingly covered with meat, he said.

Much can be done by Rotarians in fostering the production of better table fowl claimed Mr. Gordon, who proceeded to outline a project by which they could encourage the raising of capons which are much superior to ordinary roosters. The usual charge for this service is five cents a bird and after first interesting farmers of the community in the production of a better grade fowl the channels of marketing should then be cleared. Possibly two thousand capons could be raised in this district and through a marketing pool the way would be cleared from here to the consumer table. Rotarians could further this plan by serving only capons at their annual rural dinner, he sugested.

H. N. Carr voiced the appreciation of the club for Mr. Gordon's interesting address.

President Harold Neal reminded members of the inter-city meeting next Monday at seven o'clock when Mayor J. Bone of Belleville will address the Campbellford, Belleville and Trenton clubs here in the Parish Hall. As this is Rotary's tenth anniversary in Campbellford a committee was formed including the directors and the two first presidents, N. A. McColl and Hr. H. B. Longmore to go into the matter of having some special event to mark the occasion.

RELIEF BILL $7,744.64.

Peterboro's relief account for October was $7,744.64, City Clerk Armstrong reported to the council last night.

PROVISIONAL LICENSES.

Applications for three eating house licenses were granted by the council subject to restrictions of the proposed new bylaw. Alderman Gordon suggested that this condition be attached to the licenses.

197 STOP SIGNS.

City Engineer Parsons informed the Council Monday night that there are 197 stop signs in the city. The information related to Alderman McCannan's idea that these could be painted with the names of the streets as a convenience to persons who may not know them.

TWO MINUTES OF SILENCE.

Manager C. B. Shaver of the Bell Telephone Company announces that, conforming with the general Remembrance Day custom of observing two minutes' silence, the telephone operators will suspend the answering of calls at 11 a.m. on Friday until the two minutes have elapsed.

FIELD TRIALS JUDGE.

Herbert S. Routley returned on Monday from Detroit and the field trials of the English Springer Spaniel Club of Michigan which were held at Farmington. Mr. Routley was assisted by John F. Graham of Detroit in the judging of more than thirty Springer Spaniels in field hunting in which live pheasants were used.

CAR BURNED

A late model car bearing a Toronto license was completely destroyed by fire on the Apsley-Bancroft road, one mile north of Apsley on Monday morning about five o'clock. The car is believed to have been owned by deer hunters. It is still lying in the ditch near an old sawmill.

A LOUD PLEA.

A local man charged with being drunk was fined $10 and $4.50 costs in police court this morning. The only unusual thing about the case was that the accused's plea of guilty rattled some of the new kalsomine off the walls. It was one of the loudest on record and quite spoiled the usual morning nap of some of the regular attendants.

MEMEMBRANCE DAY AT POST OFFICE.

The public lobby will be open from 6.30 a.m. to 8.00 p.m. All wickets will be open from 8.00 a.m. to 7.00 p.m. The regular morning and afternoon deliveries will be given by letter carriers, and the regular delivery by the rural route couriers. The collections will be made from the street boxes as usual, and all mail posted will be despatched as usual.

MINISTERS MEET

The Ministerial Association held the first regular meeting of the Fall season at the Y.M.C.A. on Monday, and the Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, pastor of St. Andrew's United Church gave an address, "The Minister's Personality." Time did not permit discussion of the address as the members all wished to attend the funeral of their late colleague, the Rev. W. Bamforth, who was buried at two o'clock on Monday in Little Lake Cemetery.

DRINKS STOLEN.

Thieves, apparently youngsters, have broken into the warehouse of the O'Keefe Company, several times recently and stolen a case of soft drinks.

Tonsils And Adenoids To Be Removed From Quints By Outstanding Surgeon

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 7.—(CP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, little country doctor who has been medical guardian to the Dionne quintuplets since their birth 4½ years ago, will not actively participate when the famous sisters are operated upon tomorrow.

Keith Munro, business manager of the Quints, announced yesterday that Dr. Dafoe and Dr. Alan Brown, Toronto child specialist, after a conference had decided removal of tonsils and adenoids from each of the little girls was advisable.

"One of the best men in the medical profession," will perform the operation but both Dr. Dafoe and Dr. Brown will remain in the background to supervise. Dr. Dafoe said the Quints will always associate pain with whoever performs the operation and as both Dr. Brown and himself see the children so often he does not want them "to either fear or dislike us."

Given slight chance to live at birth, but nursed to perfect health by Dr. Dafoe and his helpers, the children already are looking forward to their fifth Christmas unaware they will soon undergo the surgeon's knife.

Since their early days, the world's only living quintuplets have enjoyed excellent health. They have suffered from minor colds and attacks of intestinal toxaemia but have avoided many diseases common to children.

"There is no consideration of danger to the children," said Mr. Munro as he termed the operation as "minor." The operations will be performed in the home of the Quints, situated 100 yards from the humble frame dwelling in which they were born.

In that dwelling, Mr. and Mrs. Olive Dionne, French-Canadian parents of the Quints, will anxiously await condition reports on their daughters. They made no immediate comment when it was announced the children would undergo operations.

Civic Luncheon For Minister Here On Friday

Hon. Norman McLeod Rogers, federal Minister of Labor, guest speaker at the Canadian Legion's Remembrance Day public celebration in the Capitol Theatre, will be guest of the city at luncheon in the Empress Hotel on Friday. Alderman Gordon, chairman of the reception committee, said Monday night he would not be able to be present, because it was his custom to spend that day with his father in Toronto.

Mayor Hamilton requested all the members of the council to attend the luncheon to meet the Minister, and also to be present at the public observance of Remembrance Day. The council endorsed a notice which His Worship read to them, which is to be published in the Examiner, urging the citizens to join with the Legion in their Remembrance of November 11, 1918, and al lits signifies.

Alderman Dutton said merchants of Peterborough were closing their stores during the morning, but the factories would be working.

A resolution by Aldermen Cotton and Bradburn granted $100 to pay for gifts to the champion Peterborough Lacross Club which is contributing $85. It is understood that windbreakers will be purchased for the members of the team, to be presented to them at the complimentary dinner the city is giving them at a date not yet arranged.

The snow plow contracts bylaw was passed last night. Alderman Glover asked the council whether they would consider the request of James Collins of Ashburnham who explained that he did not submit a tender because he did not see the advertisement. The members declined to alter the recommendation of the Board of Works.

A motion by Alderman McCannan, seconded by Alderman Glover, urged the federal government to make the provisions of section three of the National Housing Act applicable to houses that are built for sale, providing all the other conditions of the Act are fulfilled. Ald. Glover said that some citizens might prefer to buy a house already built rather than undertake construction themselves. In that case the purchasers should share in the advantage of the assisted tax payments granted by the government.

Another Glover-McCannan resolution instructed City Engineer Parsons to have a warning light placed at the north end of Haggart street, approaching Little Lake, as a precaution to drivers unaware of the approach to the lake near the Little Lake Cemetery main gate. Both Alderman Glover and Dutton advocated from their experience in the eastern States more traffic signs especially for the benefit of visiting motorists. These aids were needed at all approaches to the city. Ald. McCannan went further and recommended that the stop signs in the city should also bear street names. Their advantage would be particularly realized during the winter when snow lay on the sidewalks in which street names were imprinted.

With only $1,000 of the $2,500 appropriation for improvement of the Memorial Park in Ashburnham spent this year, Alderman Glover suggested that efforts should be made to advance during the fall and winter work already done. Visitors have been unanimous, he said, that the Memorial Park on Armour Hill, was an asset that appealed greatly to tourists.

Mayor Hamilton said that W. H. Moore of the Department of Agriculture, had proposed a design of the park. "I'll go in and see Mr. Moore the next time I am in Toronto," he said. And in the meantime the project is likely to be considered further in committee.

Belgium has established a committee to co-ordinate executive departments.

Control Loud Speakers

FORT ERIE, Ont., Nov. 8.—(CP).—Complaints of the Rev. Captain Henry Cotton, United church minister of the presence in Fort Erie streets of a sound-truck, bearing large signs, "Religion is a snare and a racket," will have further reverbrations Monday when Fort Erie Council will consider a motion giving the police here authority to issue permits to all speakers desiring to utilize public thoroughfares hereafter.

Selling Charge Is Dismissed

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., today delivered judgment in the charge against Mrs. Mary Hayton, of illegally keeping liquor for sale, dismissing the charge.

In doing so, in a lengthy judgment, Magistrate Langley said that he did not feel that he was justified in drawing an inference from the amount of beer that had been purchased by Mrs. Hayton on orders signed by other persons. She had sworn, he pointed out, that these were bonafide orders, that she had purchased the beer at the brewers' warehouse here for these persons and had delivered it to them.

"I cannot say I disbelieve this evidence," the Magistrate declared.

He added that while the quantity of beer purchased might lead to the inference that Mrs. Hayton was connected with some brewery to advance the sale of their product she had denied that to be the case.

Another charge against Mrs. Hayton of illegally possessing liquor was adjourned until Wednesday of next week despite a protest from W. J. Arthur Fair, Mrs. Hayton's counsel, who said that it was unfair to his client.

The adjournment was granted by Magistrate Langley but he stated to Crown Attorney McElderry that if the crown were relying on the same evidence to secure a conviction in this second charge it could not be obtained from him. "I am willing to give you another magistrate," he said.

Order Engineer To Give Permit To A. Belleghem

Approval of Arthur Belleghem's project of converting the house at 611 George street into a funeral home was expressed by many residents in that section of the city who signed a petition read at Monday night's meeting of the council. E. M. Turner, Fred Hooper, Bert Graham, Dr. A. J. Madill and many others were signatories.

Restrictions in the building bylaw have delayed Mr. Belleghem's plan of proceeding at once with the work. The restricted stretch of George street from Murray street to Park Hill Road, Mr. Belleghem said, was virtually a business street with six grocey stores, meat shop, shoe repair shop, barber shop, radio store and so on.

"There has been no objection whatever from the residents along George street between Dublin and Edinburgh streets. The petition is signed one hundred per cent, but I can't go ahead while the bylaw is holding me up."

It was decided on a motion by Alderman Glover and McCannan to amend the present bylaw, and in the meantime City Engineer Parsons may issue a permit for the alterations.

October Fire Report

Chief Gimblett reported 31 fire alarms last month, and the fire loss $1,326. There were 517 inspections made during fire prevention week. Fire drill tests resulted as follows:— Collegiate Institute, 40 rooms, 1,120 students, building vacated in 2 mins. 18 seconds.

St. Peter's School, 10 rooms, 390 students, 1 min. 25 secs.

PRODUCE NEW WHEAT

MELBOURNE, Victoria—(CP). — Experiments at the Weribee government research farm, Victoria, have produced a new wheat which is said to be more prolific and draught-resisting than other varieties grown in Australia. The same farm several years ago produced the Ghurka variety, estimated to have increased farm incomes in Victoria by $4,000,000 a year.

Remembrance Day Observance

Friday, Novembr 11th

Is Rembrance Day

On that day the world gives itself over to recalling the sacrifices made in the Great War, and pledges itself anew to the cause of peace.

I desire to draw to the attention of the citizens that Remembrance Day is a statutory holiday in Canada.

A fitting program for Remembrance Day has been arranged by the local branch of the Canadian Legion and as Mayor I ask every citizen to join in the service so far as possible, and observe the true solemnity of the occasion.

JAMES HAMILTON,
Mayor.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

COMES A LETTER from Jack Condon in Hespeler, and he wants The Examiner sent to him so as to follow local sports. Jack is former ball club treasurer of the Petes, and a right good officer he was. We'll never forget the hitch-hiking trip he, Fred Collins and this writer took to a game in Napanee two years ago—with Jack bouncing up and down on a crate of chickens in the back of a truck! He says he took quite a ride when the Petes lost to Stratford, after boosting the locals highly. Hespeler is near Guelph, Galt, Preston and Kitchener, so Mr. Condon will see lots of ball games and puck tilts. Machinery from the Auburn here is arriving daily in Hespeler, writes Jack, who adds: "This town is still so ancient in parts that if one were a protege of Chic Sale, he could write a rather interesting story of observations made on one's way to work!"

OUR O.H.A. junior "C" club—called Peterborough Monarchs Club—has been organized with these officers: President, Jim Guiry; vice-prexy, Wm. Clarke; secretary-treasurer, Gord Beavis; coach, Pete Vitarelli; executive members, Ken Graham and Art Cauley. The team will be known as the Monarchs and will seek a district grouping. The club will run a raffle to get equipment (besides being assured of donations) for three prizes of $25 and some merchandise. The Petes' junior "B" club will get first call on local puckists, but will then guarantee not to raid the "C" squad during the season. We wish the young Monarchs well.

Comes a Quinte Rumor

QUINTE SCRIBE SAYS: "Doug Brennan, former N.Y. Rangers defenceman who settled the Peterborough team away last winter and turned them into a group winning squad, has been a visitor at the Trenton Airport during the past month. Brennan was seeking the position of playing coach with the Fliers. However, the Fliers' management and Brennan apparently could not come to terms as it was rumored the former Ranger desired something better than a laborer's job. It looks as though the Brennan incident is a closed matter, insofar as the R.C.A.F. are concerned, though he would have been just about as valuable to the Airmen as he was to the Petes last spring. In the meantime we would not be at all surprised to see Doug Brennan back with the Petes again this hockey season, possibly as coach."

* * * * * *

THIS TIMMINS SCRIVENER has something when he writes: "Petes have a footbal lstar in their own town who would have made Box, Isbister and Stirling sit up and take notice if he hadn't been injured. His name is Toby Loucks and, if everything local Peterborough residents say is true, he's some Westbye punkins." Ah, if we but had a gridiron Luther Burbank who could cross football athletes and produce something super-scrumptious! A Toby Loucks Westbye would be a beaut in an Orfuns' sweater, taking the best in Loucks and mixing with the cream ofWestbye. Or a Gil Crowe Putnam. Or a Curly Marsh Irwin. Boy, ya got something!

That's What He Thinks

A POTENT PARAGRAPH from the Sarnia Observer: "The only thing that will keep Imperials out of the playoff will be a Peterborough win here and that, taking one thing with another, is one of the world's unlikeliest things. Saturday afternoon, the Sarnians rode into the playdowns on the booming boots of Bummer Stirling, the ancient war horse of the Sarnia team. The Bummer had plenty of support. His teammates put up a human fence around him that gave him the afternoon to get his star-scraping drives away. And when the ball finally drilled its way to earth there was usually a crowd waiting for it—one Balmy Beach receiver to make the catch and from three to five Sarnia tacklers to make him wish he were somewhere else!" And he adds: "The porous kick formation that squirted orange waves of Peterborough players all over Stirling in the Liftlock City has gone with the snows of yesteryear." Let us hope 'tis literary exuberance.

WHILE the P.C.I. senior school gridders are in group playoffs with Bowmanville—return joust here next Saturday — the Lindsay laddybucks feel the Scugog squad should have taken sectional honors. A slow start this season is all that held 'em out. At home Saturday, they turned a 43-2 trick on Oshawa in most convincing style, and Lindsay fans even roughed up the visitors in a near riot at the finish—to add injury to insult. Wilf Ferguson—who may go to Queen's—again led the Lindsay attack, ably abetted by Sharpe and the rest. An adding machine broke down before the end but the Oshawa contingent agreed to settle with the scorer for a 43-2 total, with no questions asked! Looks like Orfuns, Oshawa and Belleville rugby teams have all swallowed a few bitter pills this fine autumn. The junior school fray o'er the week-end saw the group champs, Oshawa, take the Lindsay lads over the jumps with an 18-4 whipping.

Peace On Armistice Day

SINCE FRIDAY is Armistice Day, and a holiday in Sarnia, the Orfuns will go to the Tunnel Town on Friday to wind up their senior O.R.F.U. schedule against the Imps. Locals will leave by train Thursday afternoon, play Friday aft, and return at their leisure—probably stopping to see a grid game in Toronto on Saturday. Sarnia's "orange scourge" may not be in the best of shape as Loucks is not expected to be playing, Hendrie's ribs still throb like Grandpa's leg before a thunder storm, Crowe is nursing a swelled knee yet, and Mick Magee—who saw no action Saturday—has a pretty painful chest. But a few days may make a difference in these injuries, and Orfuns will at least have Balmy Beach praying for 'em to defeat Sarnia!

THERE was no juicy melon to slice up at the meeting of the Petes' ball players and executive last p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce. While the club handled some $5,400, it was shown in black and white where the oughday went, what with a putrid grouping, lengthy layoff, long O.B.A. trips, operating expenses, et al. Most of the players attended and they voted the executive a motion of thanks for their season's work, saying they expected no gifts under the circs which prevailed during the '38 season. Some of those on hand included Eddie Starr, Russ Kitchen, Joe Jakafby, Gunner Whitehill, Cliff Cadd, Bun Kingdon, Eddie Murphy, Cy Whatley, Les Burton, Leo Deadey and Chuck Kearns. After the business meeting, some plans for next season were informally discussed.

Once Members Of Famous "Three-S" Forward Line

Siebert, Smith And Stewart Are Among Oldest N.H.L. Players

By Central Press Canadian

There are few hockey fans who don't recall the famous "Three-S" line of Montreal Maroons, not so many years ago. That dynamic trio is part and parcel of hockey lore. But how many know that the three members of that line are among the oldest players now playing an active role in the National league?

Oldest player, in point of service, taking the ice in the just-opened 1938-39 campaign is Hooley Smith, right-winger on the famous Maroon line. Hooley entered the big time back in 1924-25 and is the only player in that campaign still patrolling the ice lanes.

Next to R. J. Smith, as they register him in the records, are Nels Stewart, Babe Siebert and Hec Kilrea. These three got their N.H.L. baptism in 1925-26 and have been going strong since. Thus it can be seen that of the four oldest players in the National league, three of them are members of the high-scoring Maroon line of another day!

The Years Bring Changes

There have been many changes since this quartet took to major league ice. Even their original teams have vanished. Smith and Kilrea broke in with Ottawa Senators, then the power of the league, but long since vanished. Stewart and Siebert started as Maroons, a team of varied fortunes until last year, when it finally folded to leave the Montreal field to a single N.H.L. entry.

And the players have had their own vicissitudes. Smith and Stewart, right-winger and centre with the "Three-S" unit, are together in the line-up of New York Americans. In between, both of them saw service for Boston Bruins, playmaker Hooley for one season, 1936-37, and big Nels from the fall of 1932 to the spring of '35. Kilrea is finishing out a grand hockey string in a utility role with Detroit Red Wings, while Albert (Babe) Siebert has proved the most durable of the three and now, starting his 13th season, is the backbone of Canadien's defence. The Babe, like Smith and Stewart, served a term in Boston, so the men of Ross, at some time or other, had all three members of the former Maroon line.

Enter Stewart!

Greatest record of the veterans is that of Stewart, the Toronto boy who broke in with such a loud bang back in 1925. All Nelson did to ease his name into the headlines was lead the league in scoring and make himself the spearhead of a Maroon attack that was good enough to wind up with the Stanley cup.

Big, strong, and with a deceptive appearance on the ice that belies the dynamite in his stick, Stewart last year passed the 300 mark in goals scored, the first player in history to ring up a triple century in the N.H.L. Not as spry as he used to be, he should add to his robust total when he throws a leg over the boards for Red Dutton's Amerks this season.

Albert the Babe, rugged defenceman with Cecil Hart's strengthened Canadien's and for the past three seasons chosen on the Canadian Press all-star team, started his career with Maroons as a forward, as part of the "Three-S" line. From there he went to Rangers to be converted into a defenceman, with none too successful results. Then came a shift to Boston and there, still playing back of the blueline, the Babe hit his old stride. Paired with scintillating Eddie Shore, he was half of one of the best defences seen in the league.

Two years ago he returned to Montreal, but not to his first love. Canadien's fallen on evil days since their double Stanley Cup triumph of 1930-31, secured the Babe in their rebuilding campaign and right there they got about half the necessary reinforcements. When the scribes start tossing all-star ratings around, come spring, it's a pretty safe bet that this one-third of the "Three-S" line will be well up in the list.

The beginning of the decline that led to the extinction of Montreal's English team has generally been placed back in 1932, when the club directorate, without any apparent reason, and certainly none that would satisfy the fans, traded Stewart and Siebert. That broke up the famous line and was the first nail in the Maroon coffin.

The hard-riding, fighting Maroons have gone, but their most famous trio lingers on, three of the four oldest players in point of service in the league.

Next Move Up To Shore Calder Declares On Arriving In Montreal

Montreal, Nov. 8 (CP)

THE NEXT MOVE in Eddie Shore's holdout wrangle with Boston Bruins is up to the big defenceman himself, President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League said last night.

Seeking more money, the burly Albertan has refused to turn out with the Bruins under terms of the contract offered him, and the Boston Club has turned his case over to the league head. President Calder, just back from seeing Sunday night's N.H.L. game at Detroit, said Monday he had not had time to go into Shore's case fully.

"I have reached no decision," he said, "but in any case the decision is up to Shore. If he doesn't want to play, he just doesn't play."

Asked if he planned calling Shore before him, Calder replied: "That's up to him. If he wants to see me, he's perfectly free to do so."

Modernized Circus

ATLANTA, Nov. 8 (AP). — A modernized circus, air-conditioned, color conscious and geared to swing time is the plan of John Ringling North, president of Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey. Labor troubles which closed the big show last June 22 have been ironed out, North said, and already plans are in operation for next year's return to the road.

Plan To Build School

SARNIA, Ont., Nov. 8—(CP).—Sarnia ratepayers will register their opinions Dec. 5 on a by-law to provide $100,000 for erection and equipment of a new 12-room intermediate school. City council has given the measure two readings and final approval will depend on the outcome of the vote.

TORONTO, Nov. 8—(CP).—Wes Cutler, brilliant outside wing of Toronto Argonauts, has been awarded the Jeff Russell Memorial trophy as the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union's player best combining sportsmanship and ability, Secretary Jimmy Dolan of the Union announced today.

Cutler, a member of the Canadian champions since 1933, has been recognized for several seasons as one of the best down-field tacklers in Eastern football. Teddy Morris, also of Argos, won the Jeff Russell trophy last year.

Cutler broke into senior football with Argos and in his first season, he was selected on The Canadian Press All-Eastern all-star team. He has not missed a place on the mythical club since.

Marks 80th Birthday

OTTAWA, Nov. 8.—(CP).— Most Rev. John Charles Roper, Anglican Archbishop of Ottawa and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of Ontario, to-day celebrated his 80th birthday. He was born in Brant, Sussex, England, and came to Canada in 1885. He was made Archbishop of Ottawa in 1915 and Metropolitan in 1933.

On Saturday and Monday nights the following leagues ran off their wekly schedules. Fourteen teams of A.Y.P.A., 10 teams of Westclox men, 4 teams of Post Office men, 5 teams of De Laval office and 6 teams of Quaker Oats girls. High scores in the A.Y.P.A. included Miss O. Cookman's 587 (290); Miss E. Biddle's 591 (211); Miss C. Long 560 (200); Miss E. Kingsbury 523, and Miss Downes, 509. Tom Maudsley nailed 699 and Ken Gibson 622.

The Westclox factory gave out 11 sharpshooters: Watson, 661; McNeeley, 651; Moore, 649; Sharpe, 633; Curry, 632; Thirnbeck, 616; Brady, 613; Goodson, 607; Woods, 605; Thompson, 604, and O'Leary, 610.

The Post Office men had R. Bennett with 685; M. Smith, 671; A. Carpenter, 627, and Miller, 603.

The high three for both nights was chalked up by F. Vivash of the De Laval office group. He put down 702 pins, while Miss T. Pearson of the same league had 537 (255), and Miss F. Laurence, 434.

Two games satisfied the Quaker girls. Good singles noticed were Miss A. Dixon's 244; Miss H. Fee's 193, and Miss E. Kirn's 192.

Thank Girl Guides Poppy Day Success

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 8. — Returns from the annual poppy day held here under auspices of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. 103 on Saturday were stated by the committee in charge to have been most satisfactory. Although complete returns were not available it was stated that they practically equal those of last year. Special thanks was offered the twenty-three members of Campbellford's Girl Guide Troop who spent the day in selling poppies throughout the town.

ELHAM, Eng.—(CP)—This little Kentish village celebrated with fireworks the first birth of a son to a Vicar of Elham since 1915. Old age pensioners received a gift to mark the event.

JOHNNY GAUDES CAPTURES CANADIAN BANTAMWEIGHT CROWN

Toronto Boxer Is Dethroned By Western Kid

TORONTO, Nov. 8 (CP). — The curly head of St. Boniface's Johnny Gaudes, Manitoba's mauling midget, held proudly today the Canadian bantamweight boxing crown. And Jumping Johnny had shown beyond all doubt that the crown was where it should be.

Gaudes, specializing in sweeping hooks and uppercuts, took a unanimous decision over Norman (Baby) Yack of Toronto, defending champion, in a 10-round title bout here last night. Twice before the Western kid had won overweight decisions from the Baby to conclusively earn a championship match.

The Western lad, weighing 117¾ to 118 for Yack, waged a heady battle and landed the harder punches. He was more adept, too, at dodging the rushes of his Jewish opponent.

Knockdown In First.

Gaudes scored a nine-count knockdown to take the first round by a wide margin. Thereafter, Yack, who won the title 18 months ago from Frankie Martin of Montreal, never was able to draw up on even terms. Gaudes slipped to the floor during the opening canto but bobbed up without a count.

Judges awarded the new champion five rounds, gave Yack three and called two even. Two of Yack's rounds were the final two, when he made a courageous rally that brought him the plaudits of the crowd. Both Yack's eyes were cut at the finish.

Yack made the fifth his best round of the battle with a ceaseless two-handed offensive. Gaudes outpunched him in the sixth and two rights in succession caused Yack to back away for the first time in the bout.

Bill Taylor Is Out With Oshawa Team

OSHAWA, Nov. 8. — Oshawa's hockey team swung into the second week of their pre-season training last night as Coach Tracy Shaw speeded up play and allowed body-checking for the first time. Billy Taylor, standout centre of last year's Memorial Cup finalists, despite a late start, owing to tonsil trouble, paced the juniors in their workout. Only 15 players took part in the junior workout last night, the balance being relegated to the junior "B" squad, who start training tomorrow.

It is not expected that the junior "A" team will be pared again until possibly just before the S.P.A. series.

The seniors were augmented last night by Jack McEwen in goal, who showed plenty of class despite a late start. Glenn Salter, blond custodian of the senior nets for the past few years, was a spectator, and will be out as soon as Balmy Beach finish their football season.

Manager Bill Tribble announced last night that an exhibition game will probably be arranged for the seniors here this week. The seniors showed speed last night, while the defensemen livened up the session by handing out a few hard checks. Cliff Maundrell, former Oshawa junior star, who played in England last season, showed flashes of his real form last night.

Miss Toronto Has Already Become Mrs. West, Wife Of Argo Player

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—(CP).— The story-book romance of the husky gridiron hero and the pretty model closed its final chapter to-day with a happy ending, and Vancouver's Dianne Perkin, "Miss Toronto of 1938," was Mrs. Arthur West, wife of the Toronto Argonaut backfield star.

A romance that began on the Varsity stadium gridiron six weeks ago when Miss Perkin consented to be drum majorette of the Argo Alumni Band, was climaxed Friday night when the two motored to suburban Cooksville and were married. Saturday—the day after the wedding—they "admitted" to persistent newspapermen that they were "engaged."

The secret wedding became known last night after the bridegroom's father, out of town on a business trip, had been informed of the marriage. West said he hadn't made the announcement sooner because he wanted to let his father know before the newspapers.

The young couple—she is 20, he 21—decided 12 days ago to get married. Tuesday they obtained the license and Friday night journeyed to a Cooksville manse where the ceremony was performed. West laughed as he recounted how he "skipped" practice with the Big Four Rugby League team so he could run away and be married.

Husky Aggies Play To Rhythm And Also To Put On Show; Won Group 5 Times In 8 Years

GUELPH, Ont., Nov. 8—(CP).—If there is a boy in the family, preferably one weighing about 175 pounds who likes football and music, send him to Ontario Agricultural College where they mix the two with the greatest success in their football teams.

The latest thing at O.A.C. is to base football plays on popular, and some not-so-popular, songs. This is what Coach Fred Baldwin has done with the 1938 edition of the Aggies, crowned champions of the western group of the Intermediate Intercollegiate Football Union for the fifth time in eight years Saturday.

Sing to Opposition

The husky, red-sweatered Aggies sing to the opposition and, so far, the opposition has been devastated. A lot of natural football ability goes with the crooners and that's a help too. Win or lose, these Baldwin Aggies are a great show.

"They play to rhythm," says Baldwin, "and they play to put on a show. To my mind at least 20 per cent of the people watching football don't know the finer points of the game and I think it's up to us—the coaches—to give them a show."

Beat U. of T. 51-3

If you want to know how successful Aggies are at this, ask any of the 5,000 fans who watched them lick University of Toronto 51-3 at Toronto last Saturday to win the group championship. What they didn't do wasn't worth watching.

The fans were amazed when Aggies wheeled out of huddles in merry-go-round formation. What they can't hear is the team singing "The Merry-go-round Broke Down—oompah, oompah, oompah—and it made the darndest sound."

Or the Aggies may kneel in what ordinarily would be kick formation, only they'll break into the chant of Moslems professing their faith and they'll bend their heads to the ground with great rapidity.

Move on Words

Baldwin doesn't mind admitting that besides serving as a good show, it helps distract the opposition's attention from the ball and before they come to they're liable to find a speedy Aggie back behind their secondary and off for a touchdown. On both plays Aggies are trained to move on certain words.

Then they have a group of hipper-dippers and razzle-dazzles that astound even experts by the precision and speed with which they are carried out.

Baldwin, who thinks this is the best team he has coached in eight years, likes to "fiddle around" with odd plays and the players like working on them. "It makes it more a game and less a business," according to the coach.

Likely as not, Baldwin will work out a play to the swing version of Loch Lomond to go with the "merry-go-round" and the "Oh, Allah" when playoff time against Loyola College of Montreal rolls around in two weeks.

Canadian Bantamweight Champion.

Johnny Gaudes, chunky little native of St. Boniface, Manitoba, became Canadian bantamweight champion last night when he outpointed Baby Yack of Toronto in a ten-round bout at Maple Leaf Gardens. It was Gaudes' third straight win over Yack, but the other meetings of the pair were non-titular affairs. The judges were unanimous in their decision.

Sarnia's Hugh Stirling Still Tops Eastern Canada Rugby Scorers

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—One week from the end of the regular schedule, Hugh (Bummer) Stirling of Sarnia Imperials, holds a three-point lead in the race for the eastern football scoring championship.

Stirling, the defending champion, increased his lead from a single point to three by scoring eight of Sarnia's 10 points against Balmy Beach. The fourth Canadian Press summary shows the leaders of the east's three senior unions unchanged from last week.

Scoring six points against Montreal Cubs, Annis Stukus of Toronto Argonauts easily held second place behind Stirling and the leadership of the Interprovincial Union with 28 points. The best gain in Saturday's play was made by Red Storey of Argos, who scored three touchdowns for a 20-point total and a second-place tie in the union with teammate Art West and Ottawa's Andy Tommy. Tiny Herman of Ottawa was alone in fifth place with 18.

Young Ray Mullins of Montreal Nationals, booting a field goal, two converts and a single, moved behind Stirling in the O.R.F.U. Mullins has 22 points to 16 for Balmy Beach's Sam Sward, who was given a touchdown credite the week before to Bob Reid. Ab Box of Beaches held fourth place with 14 points.

Long Herb Westman, McGill's fine kicker, increased his lead in the Intercollegiate Union by denting University of Toronto defenses for six points, a touchdown and single that boosted his total to 23.

Flies Are Driving Deer Into Open Veteran Trapper Says

Lindsay, Ont., Nov. 8 (CP)

A RECORD NUMBER of deer hunters invaded Haliburton county bushlands during the week-end and preliminary reports indicate the season will be good despite unseasonal mild weather.

Tom Roberts, veteran hunter and trapper, said many deer will be killed because flies are driving them into clearings. A Moose Lake camp reported three bagged the first day while another was killed at North Lake.

Senior Players Are Giving Clubs Trouble

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 8.—For the first time in history of the O.H.A. the executive of the governing hockey body of Ontario met in St. Catharines last night in deference to the Garden City's initial entry in Senior "A" ice circles.

President Alvin Schlagel presided, assisted by Secretary W. A. Hewitt, Brantford; Ross Clemens, Hamilton; J. A. McFadyen, Galt; F. W. Moore, Port Colborne, in attendance. The amateur magnates adopted the Senior 'A" schedule with unusual amity after a minimum of discussion by the rival team managers, all of whom were present. Representing Toronto Goodyears were Bob Ecclestone; J. D. McTavish, Oshawa; Murray Cinnamon. Brantford; Frank Farrell, Niagara Falls; Harry Holmes, Port Colborne; Marty Cahill, St. Catharines.

Referees Named

On the question of appointment of senior officials, President Schlagel announced that the executive had vested powers in the subcommittee to name referees without regard to respective clubs, one to be appointed for each game during the regular schedule and two for the playoffs. Referees on the senior roster are Fred Radke, Gordon McKay, Jack Worthy, Hamilton; Dinty Moore, Max Peart, Port Colborne; George Massecar, Bill Hunter, Bill Prestia, Niagara Falls; Army Armstrong, Oshawa; Ritchie (Pop) McVicar, Grimsby; Frank (King) Clancy, Clarence (Happy) Day, Dutch Cain, Norm Lamport, Bert Hedges, Bert McCaffrey, Jim Primeau, Toronto.

St. Catharines Chiefs introduced the "canvass" of residence established senior players by clubs of the M.-O. loop, citing the case of Chuck Millman of Stratford, who tried out with Canadiens of the N.H.L. and returned to his home city after location here.

President Schlagel and Secretary Hewitt advised the senior club and spoke for the O.H.A. executive in stating that the affiliation of the O.H.A. through their parent C.A.H.A. and the same situation of the M.-O. loop and their parent, U.S. A.H.A., was binding 100 per cent in affiliation, and that Secretary Hewitt had notified the Stratford Majors of the M.-O. loop that Millman was the property of St. Catharines Chiefs and if he did not play with them, would not be permitted to play at all. Chiefs also complained that London was enticing a player whom they had given employment and who had established residence here, while Brantford named the case of Henry (Mush) Higgins by M.-O. clubs. President Schlagel advised all clubs that they would be protected fully and stated that the "deadline" of Jan. 15 for player residence in the M.-O. loop had caused them to overlook the Oct. 15 migratory date rule of the O.H.A.

No. 16 Coming Up

Second only to the venerable Connie Mack in point of continuous major league service is Bucky Harris, ABOVE, pilot of Washington Senators. Bucky was recently signed to manage the Nats for 1939, and it will be his 16th consecutive year of leading an American League team, starting with Washington in 1924, and in between having a fling in Detroit and Boston, before returning to his first love.

Ontario 'Spiel Sets Limit On Rinks Playing

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—At the annual meeting of the Ontario bonspiel committee of the Ontario Curling Association, held at the Victoria Club, two important changes were made in the arrangements for conducting the big event of the curling season in the province. The twelfth annual spiel will be held from Monday, Feb. 13, to Friday, Feb. 17, but this year only the ice of the local curling clubs will be used and the discontinuance of the use of Varsity Arena means that the maximum number of rinks which can be accommodated will be 124, four less than last year, as only twenty-five sheets of ice will be available.

The reports of the various officers and committees were received and adopted, that of the treasurer showing that the 1938 bonspiel was operated without a loss. The budget for the 1939 spiel was struck, officers and committee elected and plans for the 1939 bonspiel outlined.

The golf tournament, conducted by the bonspiel committee last summer, was such a decided success that it was decided to hold another next summer, the date being set as Friday, June 9, on a caurse to be selected. Walter Reesor, of Lindsay, president of the O.C.A., spoke at the meeting, which was presided over by Fred J. Lucas in the absence of W. R. Macdonald, the 1938 chairman, who was out of the city.

MONUMENT TO SCHOOLBOYS

A monument erected by Hitler Youth on Mount Schauisland in memory of five London schoolboys who died in a blizzard in the Black Forest in April, 1936, will be unveiled on October 12.

Campbellford Council Decides Against Taking Over Armouries

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 8.—Converting the Armouries into municipal offices was shelved for the 1939 council on motion of N. A. McColl when the matter was brought before the council at their meeting held on Monday. The proposition was fostered by an offer made to the town by the Water and Light Commission to purchase the building now occupied by them for the sum of $3,000 and to lease the remainder of the property known as the Market Square and situated on the north side of Market Street under the terms of a ninety-nine year lease at one dollar a year.

Following the statement that the Commission paid the town an annual rental of $180 a year for the property they now occupy, Councillor P. H. MacMillan stated that in his opinion it was a good investment for the town to keep the building since it yielded nearly six per cent.

"This property known as the Ogilvie estate could not be put into condition for less than six thousand dollars and I feel that the matter should be left until we get some of our debentures paid off," contributed Mayor Long.

Councillor McColl felt that the proposition was well worth considering but claimed that it was too late in the year to take any definite action on the matter moving that the proposition submitted by the Water and Light Commission be left over for the 1939 council to consider in conjunction with making alterations to the building to convert it into a municipal building. Reeve Calder seconded the motion which was carried.

"For twelve years I've been wading through slush and water every spring and for twelve years I've been asking the council to put a sidewalk on Garry street," stated J. Potts, who addressed the council. The matter was left with the road and bridge committee which was given power to act on the matter at once.

Campbellford's storm sewers and catch basins are serving more than the purpose for which they were rightly intended it was revealed from a tour of inspection following their annual cleaning. One citizen it was found had complete lavatory and toilet facilities conveniently attached to a catch basin and another had "hooked on" with his kitchen sink to one of the town's convenient drains. These matters were referred to the attention of the Board of Health.

All of the town's "junk yards" will be cleaned up this week reported Reeve Calder who made a tour of the offending places with the police and gave notice that prosecutions would result if something were not done about removing them. The owners of the establishments all expressed their willingness to co-operate. As a result of the agreement reached with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission the town will be enriched by $4,500.00 during the next five years. Councillor McColl, who waited on the Commission, with Mayor Long and Reeve C. H. Calver, last week, told the Council that the Commission had agreed not to press for a complete revision of the assessment on the Quinte power house located within the corporation of the town, and which had been taken over by the Hydro recently. According to the Assessment Act, Hydro property can be assessed only on the same levels as adjoining property and with the recent transfer the corporation stood to lose an income of $1,350.00 when the revised assessment was effected.

Mr. McColl stated that the Commission had agreed to have the present assessment lowered by a sliding scale of $300 a year for the next five years, which would enable the town to budget for this small additional amount each year. If the amount were wiped out in one year it would amount to an increase of one mill in the tax rate, he stated. By this arrangement the town will receive $1,500 in 1939 and three hundred dollars less each year for five years, or a total of $4,500, the property then to be assessed equitably.

Relief Officer J. J. Lewis Hay told the Council there had been no relief up to the present time except in four cases where there was sickness in the family.

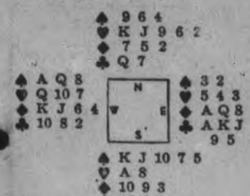
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

SEEK ANOTHER PATH

IF THE DECLARER bid no trump over your partner's suit, it is wise to look for some other means of setting the hand. If you hold a five-card suit with one of the two top honors, you may find your partner with the other top. In this case leading it may annihilate the queen which declarer counted on as a probable stopper.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East began the auction on this deal with a bid of 1-Club. South overcalled with 1-Spade. After 1-No Trump by West, East jumped to 3-Clubs and West bid 3-No Trump.

North's problem was what to lead against the bidding that had taken place. He felt that West's overcall of No Trump after South's spade bid no doubt indicated that West held at least two spade stoppers. These with East's solid clubs would probably produce game, as his own club Q would no doubt be picked up.

Instead of opening up the spade suit, North reasoned that hearts would furnish a better line of attack. If South held the heart A, which he might in view of his overcall, and West held the Q, that card might be trapped and five tricks taken in that suit before the opponents gained control. His reasoning paid big dividends, for his side defeated East-West, whereas the spade opening would have netted them eleven tricks.

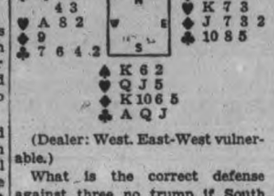
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the correct defense against three no trump if South takes the second spade lead in dummy and then leads a heart?

Poor Man Is Bearing Brunt Of Taxation In Monaghan Faulty Assessment Is Blamed

North Monaghan's method of assessment came under attack by Bruce Johnston, township clerk, at a meeting of the Ratepayers' Association in May's School last night.

He contended that the poor man is bearing the brunt of taxation in the township. "It's no wonder the farmer is complaining and you should be too," he declared. He charged that some $12,000 homes along the highway are assessed as low as $1,200 and asked asked members present, "who is paying the taxes here with that condition going on?"

He charged that recently developed sections of the township are not assessed for one-tenth of their value, that homes recently erected are not paying nearly their share of the township's taxation. He cited instances of homes throughout the auburban area of the township that he claimed were only taxed a pittance.

He attacked the townships custom of cahnging assessors from year to year, claimed the municipality will never achieve any permanent good in such fashion. Each person seems to think he can get a little bit sliced from his assessment each year, claimed. "Some of you think you are getting off easily, but if you could see some of the others you would not be so satisfied," he told them. He advised the appointment of a permanent assessor, one who would do his work in summer months and be able to evaluate property more fairly.

Suggests Permanent Assessor

"The property of North Monaghan is not assessed for fifty per cent. of its value," he claimed. He suggested that a permanent assessor go over the assessment rolls of other townships with a view to forming an intelligent idea of the plan followed in other municipalities. His plan was not to put into effect a sudden jump in North Monaghan's assessed value, but rather to equalize them, he said. But he warned that the township would have to be prepared to pay more for their assessor in future than they had been in the custom of paying.

"If we could get our assessments on an equalized basis we would not need to worry about police or fire protection costs, he stated. "The money would be on hand for all that."

Police Protection

Inadequacy of North Monaghan's police protection came up for discussion at the meeting several times. Reeve James Milby answerel a protest by R. Orr, who charged insufficient protection, when he said that at present the council is paying for part time services only of one constable. He admitted the constable is not receiving enough salary, said he is doing a good job.

To receive adequate police protection, the township would have to support the cost of three police officers, he maintained. Such expenditure would cost taxpayers an increase of three and a half mills in their rate, he said.

Orr maintained it is impossible to get the services of a provincial policeman in the township and Mr. Milby agreed. "We've been trying to find a solution to that, but we haven't been able to yet," he said.

Residents of the township should make up their minds whether they want to pay for police protection or not, was the opinion of Township Clerk Johnston. Some people want no police, some want two or three officers, the farmers don't want to be taxed at all for police costs, he said. Chairman H. B. Rye maintained farmers in the township should be charged. "If one of them gets a chicken stolen he would be only too glad to call in the police," he said. He warned, however, that such protection was going to cost money. "The council raises the tax rate to cover these things and it's all right with the voters until they get their tax bills," he said. "A lot of people think that all the council has to do when they want money is to go out to the old hogshead and dig it out with a shovel. If you are on the council you'll soon learn the hogshead is ofter pretty empty."

Farmers' protests against road paving in the suburban area of the township was criticised by Reeve Milby. "If we pave a few streets without materially raising our road rate I don't think anyone has a real kick," he said. He claimed the entire township is now benefitting by more road work from county funds than for some time past.

Britain Must Prepare Duff Cooper Warns League of Nations Union

London, Nov. 7.

BRITONS must decide "whether there is a thing which is even more shameful than war itself," Alfred Duff Cooper today told a meeting of the League of Nations Union.

Mr. Duff Cooper, who resigned from the cabinet because the Munich agreement "stuck in my throat," said a country which entered negotiations determined in no case to fight was at a helpless disadvantage compared with a country which was prepared to fight under certain eventualities.

The former First Lord of the Admiralty said that in negotiation "we should be quite sure that what we will yield to reason we will never yield to fear."

Attendance Good At Craft Classes

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Nov. 8.—The needlecraft classes held in the town hall this week have proved a great success. Miss Fiske, the leader, has taken a great interest in her pupils and the classes have been greatly enjoyed by all the girls and ladies who attended. On Friday noon the classes closed and a pot luck donner was served in the hall by the ladies as a farewell to Miss Fiske. The class was under the auspices of the Apsley Women's Institute.

On Wednesday evening a number of the young people of Apsley called on Miss Mary Whitmore whose marriage took place Saturday, and presented her with a shower and address. She was taken completely by surprise, but thanked her friends in a few well chosen words. A social evening was enjoyed by the young people. Miss Mary Whitmore is to become the bride of Mr. Ronald McDonald of Warsaw.

DOCTORS CHECK KIDNEYS FIRST

Because they know that healthy Kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter—the excess acids and poisons, formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. But if the Kidneys fail, illness surely follows. Backache, Rheumatism, Impure Blood, Lack of Energy, Too Frequent Urination, Sleeplessness, Headaches—all may result from faulty kidneys. As a health safeguard—as a wise precaution—regulate your kidneys frequently with Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over fifty years the favorite Kidney remedy—non-habit forming—safe. 105

HAD BAD STOMACH, DIZZY SPELLS AND HEADACHES; PRAISES SYNTONA

Now Eats Food That Used To Cause Gas Pains, Nausea and Heartburn, Sleeps Better and Feels Good All Day.

Folks, if you suffer from stomach disorders, kidney weakness, sluggish liver, constipation or nervousness; benefit from the experiences of other local men and women and start using Syntona Herbal Compound today. You'll know then what a really fine medicine this is. You'll know what it is to be free from headaches, and tired, irritable feelings again and you'll be ready to go into the colder weather with renewed energy and vigor. Read here the statement of Mr. Richard Goodwin, London:

"My stomach had got so bad that I hated the sight of food. When I forced myself to eat, I would feel nauseated and would belch sour liquids. I would feel bloated and have gas pains in my stomach and chest and heartburn. Often I felt lightheaded and dizzy. Spots floated before my eyes and I was subject to headaches. My tongue was always coated and my complexion was sallow.

"But all that has changed since I have taken a treatment of Syntona. Now I enjoy my meals and my food digests well. The gas pains, headaches, and dizzy spells have left me. My bowels are regular now and I feel so much better in every way I am happy to recommend Syntona to others who suffer as I did."

MR. RICHARD GOODWIN

Local men and women can get Syntona in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Ask about the special introductory offer.

Council To Buy New Woodlot For Unemployed In Hastings

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 8. — The regular monthly session of Town Council was held on Friday night in the Council Chambers with a full attendance present. Five members of the Trent Valley Cemetery Board were present to make arrangements for the sale of a portion of standing timber on the cemetery property for relief purposes to the town.

At a meeting of the board a few minutes previous, it was decided to offer the timber to the Council for $3.50 per cord standing. At the Council meeting, however, the price was reduced to $3 per cord standing. Council decided to view the wood, and if it was satisfactry the deal would go through. "Work on this wood-lot will be for the local unemployed this winter," Reeve L. E Kelly stated. "We kept four families off relief last winter with a similar project. We are not figuring on making money on the deal."

Samuel Hatherly interviewed the Council with a view to having $5 rebated on his property. "The property is assessed for $150 more than it is worth, and I do not intend to pay my taxes unless I get a $5 rebate," he declared. It was explained that it would be unlawful for the Council to make any rebate in taxes outside the Court of Revision, except in the case of an error. He said that it had been done while he was in Council, and that he had secured advice from a source which led him to believe such a procedure was within the law and at the discretion of the Council.

Thomas French interviewed the Council regarding purchase of a lot, but the request was laid aside due to the property having to pass through a period of time before it would become property of the town.

Some time ago the clerk wrote the Montreal office of the Canadian National Railways advising them that the Department of Highways had taken over the street on which their wig-wag had been placed, and that they should forward the power accounts to the Department for payment in place of this municipality as previously. The communication was acknowledged and Council were advised to write the Toronto office on the matter.

On a motion of C. Lynch and I. Bonds, the Bell Telephone Company was granted permission to eerct two poles on Wellington Street.

The Village of Lakefield requested copy of a local by-law governing the sale of meats in order to settle a dispute among merchants in that municipality.

The clerk was authorized to draw up an agreement with Carl Oliver for the sale of a lot to him and adjoining his property for $50, and was also authorized to accept as down payment the amount of $5 or $10.

James Calberry, Jr., was appointed special constable to act during the absence of W. Wellman, who is deer hunting.

Council will issue a proclamation for two minutes' silence to be observed on Remembrance Day, November 11, at 11 o'clock in the morning. Only a few residents attended services in the hall that date last year and Council seemed under the impression that little interest was taken. As a result there will be no Remembrance Day services here in the Town Hall.

Relief accounts for the month of October totalled $112.18.

25 Fathers Are Ordered To Appear Before Town Council

Richmond Hill, Ont., Nov. 8.

TO ANSWER for pranks allegedly committed by their sons on Hallowe'en, 25 fathers are scheduled to appear before town council here tonight.

"We issued the notices to appear because of complaints I have received from people unable to pay for damage done to their property," Reeve J. A. Greene said. "There was some real damage done around Richmond Hill and I think council is offering the easiest way of settlement."

Opinion among the parents of the boys concerned is divided over the council's move. Richmond Hill is 15 miles north of Toronto.

Successful Supper Held At Janetville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

London, Nov. 8.

400 people were served at the annual fowl supper which was held in connection with the anniversary activities of the United Church on Wednesday evening.

The supper was served in the large C.O.F. Hall, and the four long tables were most attractive with white linen cloths and floral centres of marigolds.

The ladies of the congregation attended to the serving of the supper under the capable direction of Mrs. E. A. Bradburn, president of the W.A.

Later Rev. M. A. Bury, pastor of the church, welcomed all and introduced Rev. Mr. Bushel of Bethesda, who in turn introduced the concert company, some twenty-five young people of his church, who presented the evening's program.

During the evening Rev. W. H. Waker, pastor of the Presbyterian Church; Mr. Frank Richard, M.P., of Bowmanville, and Mr. Cecil Mercer, M.P.P., of Elizabethville, were heard in short addresses

PANSIES BLOOMING

Warsaw United Church W.M.S. Plans To Send Bale To Aid Needy In West

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Nov. 8.—The Warsaw United Chudch Women's Missionary Society met in the S. S. room on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Alian Taylor presided. After the opening devotions Mrs. Wilkinson gave a report of the rally. The wool for the quilt was brought prepared for use. Mrs. James Hawthorne and Mrs. Harold Payne donated the pretty covering and lining.

A call for clothing for the west was received.

The Thanksgiving services outlined in Missionary Monthly was used.

Sidney Watley moved the machinery in the old shop to his new building last week.

Rev. J. W. Wilkinson was in Belleville on Teusday and Wednesday when he attended the annual alumni gathering of Albert College. Mr. Wilkinson thoroughly enjoyed the meeting and especially a lecture on China and Japan.

Delegates from Dummer to the convention in Marmora on Wednesday were Mrs. Richard Tedford, Mrs. Clarence Watts, Mrs. Gordon Sharpe, Mr. Earl Ivey, Jack Parker, Ernest Batten and David Miller. Among others were George Parsons, Richard Tedford, Mrs. D. Miller, Mr. John Rose, Alec Rose, David Rose, Fred Miles and Matthew Elliott.

Mrs. Harold Payne attended the United church W.M.S. meeting in Norwood on Wednesday, Nov. 2.

Those of the Rock Lake gang who left on Friday morning for the hunt were William Darling, Stuart Clysdale, David Little, Joe Crowe and Allan Sharpe. Reg. Bolton will join them later but plans returning home at night. The men will live in a tent as their camp was burned, evidently by an incendiary, since the last season.

Mrs. Norman Payne and Mrs. William Payne are in Nicholls Hospital.

Teachers Cheap In Lakefield At Beginning Of This Century

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 8—"Wanted, by the Lakefield Public School Board, a second class professional teacher with considerable experience. Salary $275.00 per year". This ad was reproduced from the files of the Lakefield News of the year 1900 and formed only one of a number of interesting excerpts presented by Mrs. V. W. Ridpath at the "Grandmother's meeting" of the Lakefield Women's Institute which was held in the council chamber of the Memorial Hall here on Wednesday afternoon last, Nov. 2. "The tax rate for the year 1900 has been struck and the rate will be 8 mills on the dollar," a second excerpt stated. Mrs. J. M. Simpson presented a fine paper on the settlement of the section of the country around Lakefield under the guidance of Col. Samuel Strickland and Messrs. Rawlinson and Copping, Lakefield's first settlers.

Mrs. S. Higgins presided at the meeting. Over 40 people attended the meeting, a number of grandmothers in the community being present as guests of the Institute.

An unusual response to the roll call was the exhibition by each person present, of an article from her own, or her mother's trousseau. A variety of quaint apparel ranging from the complete wedding dress to as little as a bracelet or a brooch worn on the wedding day, was exhibited. A particularly interesting article and probably the oldest exhibited was a shawl shown by Mrs. O. E. Kingdon. It was part of her grandmother's trousseau when she was married in Scotland three generations ago and had been brought to this country by Mrs. Kingdon when she came out to make her home here.

Mrs. S. E. White, treasurer, presented the treasurer's report, which showed a balance on hand of $31.30. The correspondence was received and included a note of thanks from Miss Young of the Children's Aid Society, Peterborough, expressing appreciation for the assistance of the Institute on Children's Aid Tag Day when the amount of $33.55 was realized. Miss Young invited all Institute members interested to visit the Children's Shelter to get a better idea of that phase of the society's work.

An appeal for help for fire sufferers in Northern Ontario was laid over as it was understood that help was being given by the churches of the village.

Mrs. S. E. White was appointed a delegate to the Central Area convention in Toronto which is to be held in November. It was decided that the Institute would not ask for a grant from the Institute Branch of the Dept. of Agriculture but would leave the amount in the general fund for expenses.

An invitation was received from the Warsaw branch to attend their November meeting on Tuesday. The invitation was accepted, the ladies to leave from the Memorial Hall. Hall's Bridge Branch is also invited, Lakefield and Hall's Bridge to provide a program on "Peace Education".

The Junior Institute are arranging a dance to be held during November. It was decided that the senior Institute would cater on this occasion. The date has not been definitely decided upon, but will be announced in the near future.

Mrs. Stan Higgins then called on Mrs. Albert Darling to take the chair. Mrs. Darling called on Mrs. O. E. Kingdon who welcomed the grandmothers expressing pleasure that so many could be out and stating that she hoped they would enjoy the meeting. Mrs. Darling gave a short account of her grandfather and grandmother's arrival in Canada as a bride and groom. She told how they settled first in Port Perry; that wild animals came around and took their food and that they were finally forced by the ague to leave Port Perry and make for points farther north.

Mrs. J. W. Ridpath read an interesting paper composed of items culled from the files of the Lakefield News for 1900. The items included a record of the first annual meeting of St. John the Baptist Church, which was held in February 1900, and a part of the minutes of the Peterborough County Council when $26 was offered to each boy who enlisted with the Second Battalion for the South African War. Gerald Hayward was the first Lakefield volunteer, the item stated.

Reports from the different Cheese Boards showed they were receiving 10½c per lb. for cheese.

The Public School Board advertised for a second class professional teacher with considerable experience at a salary of $275 per year, and the tax rate for Lakefield for 1900 was reported at 8 mills. Further articles state that "In 1900 the agreement between the Canada Cement Co. and the village of Lakefield was drawn up, and in that year the track from Lakefield to Buckley's Lake was built. The corner stone of the Canada Cement Company's building was laid the same year," Mrs. Ridpath continued.

Adsof the men in business and write-ups concerning fashions, most particularly about the elaborate hats—provoked considerable amusement and brought Mrs. Ridpath's paper to a conclusion on a humorous note.

Mrs. J. M. Simpson told of the settlement of the section of country about Lakefield under the influence of Col. Samuel Strickland and Messrs Rawlinson and Copping who accompanied him. Mrs. Simpson told how each acquired a piece of land on their arrival in 1831; in 1856 the first post office was established, with Robert Casement as first postmaster. He was also a member of parliament, justice of the peace, township clerk and treasurer and a general dealer.

About that time John Sherin opened up his general store and the Rev. P. S. Warren was rector of the Church of England.

In 1875 Lakefield was incorporated as a village with Major Boulton the first reeve. It was then known as North Douro. There were four hotels in Lakefield at that time and the public school boasted 200 pupils but only three teachers. There were five churches. J. Sherin edited the Lakefield News in 1875 and in that year W. H. Casement was appointed postmaster, a position he held until a few weeks ago. In 1876 the village became known as Lakefield, Mrs. Simpson said in conclusion.

Following the program grapes and candy were served and a social hour was enjoyed viewing the exhibits from the trousseaus represented. There was many a laugh over the quaintness of the articles displayed.

Gives Up Cave For Matrimony

Alfred Staples, 65-year-old back-to-nature advocate of Collingwood, Ont., who in the coldest days of winter disports himself in the cold waters of Georgian Bay, is going to forsake his cave for a third venture in matrimony. Until a short time ago he lived in a cave feeding on berries, rabbits and vegetables. According to Mrs. Anne Thabis, 64, RIGHT, who will soon become Mrs. Alfred Staples, "Alfie is going to give up that cave business for good."

Man Charged With Drunk Driving After Boy Topples From Car

GARSON, Ont., Nov. 7—(CP).—William Pritchard of Falconbridge faced today a drunken driving charge, laid yesterday after five-year-old Danny Carr of Garson was found lying cut and bleeding on the Falconbridge-Garson road. Garson is 10 miles northeast of Sudbury.

The youngster was picked up by a motorist in front of the nearby home of J. Lachapelle. Dr. D. S. Pugh of Garson attended the child who said he had fallen from an automobile.

Police were notified of the accident. Police chief O. G. Miron arrested Pritchard shortly afterward in a house near here. Just before the accident was reported Miron had seen a sedan speed by with the rear left door swinging open.

He traced Pritchard to the house and seated in his car outside were William Carr, the boy's father, and his three-year-old daughter. Both Carr and Pritchard said they were unaware of the boy's disappearance.

Abandon Idea Dividing Up Palestine

Britain Will Continue To Be Responsible For Entire Government

LONDON, Nov. 9 (CP). — Abandonment of the plan to partition Palestine into three separate states was announced in a statement of policy issued today by the British Government. Proposals of the Peel Commission, which envisaged creation of a Jewish, and Arab and a mandated state as a solution to Palestine's difficulties, have been discarded.

The government announced it would continue being responsible "for the government of the whole of Palestine." At the same time it was given out that a conference would be held with representatives of Palestinian Arabs, the Jewish agency and Arabs of states contiguous to Palestine, in an effort to iron out the problem.

The government made it clear that those who have been responsible for the terrorism in Palestine might not be invited to participate.

The government's statement of policy follows:

1. The Royal Commission, presided over by the late Earl Peel, published its report in July, 1937, and proposed a solution of the Palestine problem by means of a scheme of partition under which independent Arab and Jewish states would be established while other areas would be retained under mandatory administration. In their statement of policy following upon the publication of the report, His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom announced their general agreement with the arguments and the conclusions of the Royal Commission, and expressed the view that a scheme of partition on the general lines recommended by the commission represented the best and most hopeful solution of the deadlock.

Examination Necessary.

2. The proposal of the commission was framed in the light of the information available at the time, and it was generally recognized that further detailed examination would be necessary before it could be decided whether such a solution would prove practicable. This proposal was subsequently discussed in parliament

Hubbell Appears In Oshawa Court

OSHAWA, Ont., Nov. 9 (CP).—J. J. Hubbell, arrested at Portland, Ore., last week, appeared in court here today and pleaded guilty to a charge of false pretences. He was remanded a week for sentence.

Hubbell had been sought by police for six weeks. It was charged he posed here as Dr. Hubbell of Timmins, Ont., and by means of fraud obtained a new automobile from a motor sales company.

Sentenced 3 Years In Kingston Pen

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 9.—(CP) — Elmer Partride, Murray Township farmer, was sentenced to three years in Kingston penitentiary when he was convicted of five counts of breaking, entering and theft by Magistrate E. J. Butler today. The man was apprehended at his home last week following extensive investigation of a series of break-ins. A large quantity of loot was recovered from a garage on the man's premises.

England Beats Norway

NEWCASTLE England, Nov. 9.—(CP Cable).—Scoring all its goals in the first half, England triumphed 4-0 over a sturdy Norwegian soccer team before a crowd of 30,000 spectators on Newcastle United's ground today. Last year at Oslo the Englishmen won 6-0.

Campbellford Men Shoot 5 Times, Down Three Bears

Campbellford, Nov. 9.

FIVE SHOTS and three bears was the record of a party of hunters from Deer Lake who landed in town late yesterday afternoon.

C. Cole, Deer Lake and K. Waters, Hastings were walking through a swamp not far from their camp when they bumped into Mrs. Bear and two cubs, who fled at their approach. It was a few minutes later that the animals came in sight again and in the words of the hunters "We let them have it." Not seeing any deer the party broke up camp this morning and came to Campbellford where they disposed of the carcasses.

King's U.S. Visit Will Bring Friendly Feeling

LONDON, Nov. 9—(CP-Havas).—The British press today viewed the King's announcement of his plans to visit the United States as an augury for closer Anglo-American friendship.

"The visit will take place in early summer next year," said the Yorkshire Post. "It's historic importance needs no emphasis—it will be the first visit of a British reigning monarch to the new world.

"But most people will regard it as significant, primarily for the community of interests between the two great democracies which it symbolizes.

"President Roosevelt has shown himself keenly alive to the issues that divide the world today and the threat to the democratic way of life presented by the spectre of racialism and state worship."

A Mutual Sympathy

"His desire to keep clear of political entanglements is in full accordance with American public opinion, but he has left no room for doubt of his firm conviction that the destiny of America must ultimately be determined by the vitality with which the cause of human freedom is defended in every part of the world.

"That the president is prepared to translate his beliefs into action was demonstrated by his recent effective contribution to the cause of European peace.

"The mutual sympathy between America and Canada is that resulting from the contact of two freedom-loving peoples and through geographical remoteness may prevent the forging of such close ties with other Empire countries, distance does not obscure the common aims that inspire the life and labor of the English-speaking nations."

Historic Occasion

Said the Manchester Guardian:

"The visits of the King and Queen to Canada and the United States are historic occasions. It would be a mistake to labor their political significance.

"The King and Queen do not go as ambassadors with strategic designs. The good isolationist in Canada or the United States will welcome them with the same sincerity as his opposite.

"But nonetheless, the visits will have immense importance as the symbol of common friendship and ties of liberal idealism that in spite of their divergences unite the three countries. In a world as dark as ours, these pleasant courtesies are not to be despised."

Quintuplets' Tonsils Are Removed

Tonsils Are Found Badly Diseased Surgeons Report

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 9—(CP)—The Dionne quintuplets came through "in fine condition" a series of operations that wrote medical history to-day.

Dr. Alan Brown, Toronto specialist, said after tonsils and adenoids had been removed from the last of the five children, Cecile, that "all the tonsils were found to be in a very diseased state."

Cecile was removed from the operating table at 12.25 and was reported resting comfortably under anaesthesia with her sisters.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the country doctor who brought the children into the world May 28, 1934—4½ years ago—issued the following statement after the operations:

Given Nerve Sedative.

"The children were given a nerve sedative at 7.30 and carried to the operating room, where the anaesthetic was administered. The total operating time was 49 minutes, averaging nine minutes per child, and an average of nine minutes to induce anaesthesia. After the operation each child was given a second nerve sedative. Those left in living quarters while the operations were in progress were not in the least worried by the absence of their sisters. This was probably due to the nerve sedative."

Marie's operation, the first undertaken by Dr. Wishart (Dr. G. D. S. Wishart, Toronto Sick Children's Hospital nose and throat specialist), was the most difficult. The work was, however, highly successful. No blood transfusions were necessary and blood clotting was normal.

Dr. Brown, who with Dr. Dafoe supervised the operations generally, said after completion of the tonsilectomies, "All the tonsils were found to be as described by Dr. Dafoe, in a very diseased state, showing that his judgment in advising their removal was justified."

Though no transfusions were necessary, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, the children's parents, had been prepared to act as blood donors in case of an emergency.

Dr. D. E. S. Wishart, specialist from Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children, led a group of specialists into the Dafoe nursery shortly after eight o'clock this morning to prepare for the operations. With him were Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, Quint physician, Dr. Alan Brown, Toronto child specialist, Dr. C. H. Robson of Toronto, who will give the anaesthetics, Dr J. C. McCreary, resident physician at the Hospital for Sick Children, and Jean Batten and Sigfrid Ulrichsen, Toronto nurses.

Much Excitement.

Reporters eager for a "snip-by-snip" account of the operations were barred from the hospital and stood by in a group at the locked gate of the nursery grounds. From within Yvonne, Annette, Marie, Cecile and Emilie, seemingly excited over the unusual activity in their home, could be heard yelling and laughing. They missed breakfast this morning and probably will not have anything to eat until this evening when they may be given liquids.

Family Trapped In Upper Story Forced To Jump From Window

Hunter Shot In Arm In First Mishap Of Venison Season

Lindsay, Ont., Nov. 9 (CP)

THE FIRST hunting accident in the deer hunting areas of Haliburton county was brought to light today when word was received that Frank Horton, 17, Mount Irwin, Haliburton county, was brought to the Ross Memorial Hospital last night suffering from a gunshot wound in his left arm near the shoulder.

LINWOOD, Ont., Nov. 9—(CP).—Five members of a Linwood family, three of them young children, escaped death early to-day by leaping from a second-storey window when they were trapped in their sleeping quarters by fire. All were slightly injured in the jump.

An unoccupied store was gutted, a dwelling and all its furniture destroyed, and a bank office partly burned in the $7,000 blaze.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCormick and their three children: Jack, 11; Frank, 9, and Mary, 7, were asleep on the second floor of their home at the rear of the vacant store.

Mr. McCormick was aroused by the smell of smoke. Leaping from bed, he discovered the stairs were a mass of flames, and escape was impossible that way.

He roused other members of the family, and at the windows, they raised a concerted shout for help. The streets of the tiny village were deserted, but Arthur Voll of Crosshill was passing in a car, and he heard the cries.

As soon as he discovered the plight of the family, he roused other villagers. Before a ladder could be located, Mr. McCormick decided to make his own bid for the safety of his family.

The empty store, dwelling and branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia were all in one building, owned by John Seip of Toronto. Cause of the outbreak is a mystery.

The Wellesley fire brigade responded to the call for help. They prevented the fire from spreading to other nearby buildings.

Fearing Disorders In Northern Ontario Premier Orders Refresher Course

TORONTO, Nov. 9 (CP)—Premier Hepburn said today police reports indicating a possibility of disorders in several sections of Northern Ontario this winter led him to advise a "refresher course" for a special squad of 50 provincial police reserve constables.

The squad was recruited during the General Motors strike at Oshawa in the spring of 1937 and Attorney-General Conant announced last night 50 of the special constables had been ordered to report for special training. Under the men's contracts, they are subject to call for training at any time.

"We will be prepared for any emergency with trained men available," said Mr. Hepburn in disclosing he himself had suggested mustering of an "emergency squad." He added: "We won't be dependent again on help from the federal government as we were in the 1937 emergency."

The premier did not elaborate on his remark that disturbances were feared in Northern Ontario but he disclosed that last week, when a number of unemployed men invaded the city hall at Port Arthur, he had been prepared to fly there if his presence had been required. He said he had had an airplane "standing by" near his St. Thomas farm last week-end.

Deremo Socks "Super" In The Eye And Hattie Williams Is Returned To House Of Refuge

A pathetic caricature of the spirit of romance spun publicly by John Deremo and the license he got at the city hall Monday afternoon to marry Hattie Williams, was the utterly disillusioning and somewhat sordid scene at the Court House about six o'clock Tuesday evening as Miss Williams set out again over the hill to the county home after several friends of hers had obtained a written undertaking from Deputy-reeve Harry Read of Otonabee, chairman of the board of management of the House of Refuge, to discharge her to-day on their presentation of bonds satisfactory to the board and the county solicitor as a guarantee of her future private maintenance.

Old and gray and enfeebled, Miss Williams, who is said to be 77, was almost carried into the main corridor at the Court House and then into the office of the county clerk. She leaned heavily on supporting arms, and at a first shocking glance it seemed that she should have been borne into a hospital; but that impression was modified by information that her shrill objections to leaving the Lake street house, where she had stayed since Sunday, reflected an inner fire that could still flare and flame.

Hit-and-Run Driver Kills Cyclist

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 9. — (CP).—Edward Pautler, 19-year-old Rostock youth, was killed last night when struck by an alleged hit-and-run motorist on the Milverton road north of here. Police are holding a man, but nature of the charge against him was not disclosed.

The youth was cycling toward Rostock when the automobile struck him and sped on. A passing motorist picked him up and he died an hour and a half later at home. His skull was fractured.

Coroner Dr. Maxwell Fraser said an inquest will be held.

Tobacco Ads Pay? Then Advertise The United Church

Toronto, Nov. 9 (CP)

"JOIN the United Church and get a lift on the road of life" is a slogan suggested for daily newspaper advertising by Rev. William G. Berry of Martintown, in The New Outlook. "Go to church and see life in a new life" is another suggestion.

"I should like to see our daily papers containing such captions," he says. "If it pays to advertise tobacco and liquor, it pays to advertise the church."

He said money spent on printed reports of church committees and on "various pamphlets and leaflets which never reach the masses" could be more profitably used in a nationwide press advertising campaign.

19-Year-Old Wife Is Brutally Assaulted

COLBORNE, Ont., Nov. 9.—(CP).—Police said to-day they had been informed by a young husband that his 19-year-old wife, under threat of death to herself and her 18-month-old baby, had been forced to submit twice to criminal assaults by two masked men who forced their way into a Halimand township farm home.

The reported assaults occurred Monday. Police said they were told the woman was alone in the house when the men forced an entry. Authorities were notified when the husband returned from his work.

Roosevelt's New Deal Suffers Major Defeat As States Oust Democrats; Republicans Are Again A Main Factor

Control Of The House, Senate Retained By President's Party

Decisive Republican gains in the agricultural midwest and such industrial sectors as New England, Michigan and Pennsylvania today indicated a waning of popularity for President Roosevelt's new deal.

Militant Republicans who waged a vigorous fight in the campaign leading up to yesterday's nation-wide elections in the United States scored so many "key state" victories that reversal of the national trend against the new deal could not be doubted.

Retain New York

The Democrats retained New York after a nip-and-tuck struggle, thus holding a major prize. But in addition to dropping such Roosevelt-favored candidates as George Earle in Pennsylvania and Frank Murphy in Michigan, they lost heavily in Ohio, Kansas, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

While the Republicans, in voter disfavor for a decade, lost the Maryland governorship and seemed likely to surrender the California governship for the first time in 40 years, they had scored a major victory.

Running throughout the flood-tide of ballots was clear indication that the Republicans had confronted Roosevelt with the most serious challenge he has encountered since his election in 1932.

The President and his Democratic Party retained control of the Federal Senate and House of Representatives — few ever doubted they would—but steadily mounting returns showed the Republicans were cutting sharply into their huge majorities.

The President's native New York, most populous state in the Union, re-elected three - times - Governor Herbert Lehman and most of the Democratic ticket. But even there the majority was sharply reduced, despite the fact Roosevelt and his administration backed the slate 100 per cent. However, Lehman's re-election was significant in that it spelled defeat for Thomas Dewey, young racket-busting prosecutor of Manhattan who ranked high among Republican possibilities for the Presidency in 1940.

In Pennsylvania, ranked second to New York in national importance, Republicans were returned to power by the rip-tide. Governor George Earle, apostle of the New Deal who won the state for the Democrats in 1932 after 40 years of Republican rule, was swept into the discard. He was beaten for the Senatorship by James Davis, the Republican incumbent, and the Democratic nominee for the Governorship, Charles Jones, went down before Arthur James, Republican, whose flaming oratory matches his red hair.

South Still Democratic.

As usual the "solid South" reported Democratic victories. Yet even there the victory was tinged with doubt as to the attitude Southern senators and house members will take in the next Congress toward the social planning of the New Deal. Bitterness left by the unsuccessful

16-Year-Old Takes Writer's Cramp Completing Sentence

Smith's Falls, Ont., Nov. 9 (CP)

SIXTEEN - YEAR - OLD Roger Sarault of Eastview, Ont., developed a sudden attack of writer's cramp and wanderlust and wound up at the police station here last night.

He was picked up by police with a 14-year-old companion and told officers he ran away from home because of a sentence imposed on him by Magistrate Lester Clayton of Ottawa last Oct. 21.

The youth said he "wrote" part of the sentence but it was so onerous he decided to run away. The sentence was to write 1,000 times: "I must not ride my bicycle on the sidewalk."

County Unable To Hold Woman At Home

The Hattie Williams case involving her continued detention at the House of Refuge exploded with a bang in the collective face of the county council this morning, and her formal discharge was immediately ordered by the only members of the board of management who were present at the institution, Deputy-reeve Harry Read of Otonabee, chairman, and Reeve C. S. Tanner of Lakefield.

A telephone enquiry to the Department of Public Welfare in Toronto brought the information that the by-law under which this county had ordered Miss Williams to be returned to the institution had been nullified by a court decision within the last few months.

Woman Free To Go.

"When we learned that, there was nothing more we could do," Reeve Tanner told the Examiner. "It meant that Miss Williams was free to go whenever she liked, and apparently it means, too, that she can go back there any time she takes the notion. In fact, this case raises again the whole question of the authority of the county council over the management of its own institution."

When the Examiner asked at the Court House Tuesday afternoon for the authority of its procedure in directing Louis Fry, superintendent of the House of Refuge, to find Miss Williams and take her back to the county home, the reply was to the effect that in revising its bylaws the council had included a clause empowering the superintendent to take that action. It was further explained that the bylaws had been referred to the Ontario Department of Public Welfare and had received its approval.

On those grounds the Council itself had ordered the return of Miss

Dewey Is Defeated By Small Margin For N.Y. Governor

By Sam Robertson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.— (AP). — President Roosevelt's native New York—which will be of the greatest strategic importance in the 1940 election of a President—remained Democratic in yesterday's election.

Substantially complete returns showed Governor Herbert Lehman re-elected over his Republican opponent, Thomas Dewey, but with a majority so small that during much of the night nobody could predict the outcome.

With only nine of the 9,051 election districts in the State unreported, the Governor had a lead of less than 70,000 votes in a total of nearly 4,700,000. The figures were Lehman 2,382,140, Dewey 2,313,582.

Senators Are Safe.

Senator Robert Wagner, author of the Labor Act bearing his name, appeared safe, as was Representative James Mead for the other New York senatorial seat—made vacant by the death of Senator Royal Copeland.

Wagner was opposed by John Lord O'Brian, who sharply criticized some phases of the Roosevelt administration, and Mead by Edward Corsi, generally regarded as in the Lieral Republican camp.

President Roosevelt had strongly and publicly appealed for Lehman, for Wagner and for Mead, and his prestige was directly involved.

The Republicans took control of the State Senate, a circumstance which made complete their domination of the Legislature since they already controlled the State Assembly.

See-Saw Affair.

Dewey gave Lehman a stronger run than he had known in his three previous campaigns. During the night it was a see-saw affair, with the lead alternating frequently. Upstate, normally Republican, returned Dewey majorities; New York city, historically Democratic, rolled up a Lehman majority of some 680,000.

Dewey, who will carry on his present office as Manhattan district attorney, ran ahead of the rest of the Republican ticket. A victory would have placed him in the list of Republican Presidential possibilities.

Republicans in Saddle Again.

Republicans won back Pennsylvania to-day as a rising tide of votes toppled from power the "Little New Deal"—the state's first Democratic administration in 40 years.

Down the line for United States Senator, Governor, Lieutenant Governor and so on, Republicans heaped up leads of 250,000 to 300,000, Republicans also cut sharply into the Democratic majority in the Pennsylvania Congressional delegation and picked up strength in the State Legislature.

Governor George Earle, whose election four years ago shook Pennsylvania from the Republican camp for the first time since 1885, conceded defeat shortly after midnight in a telegram to his opponent, James Davis, in their race for the United States Senate. Earle also conceded the defeat of his running mate, Charles Jones, by Judge Arthur James, for Governor.

The mounting returns gave: For Governor: (6,878 of 8,079 election districts), Judge James, 1,776,267; Jones, 1,526,765. For United States Senator: (6,889 of 8,079 election districts), Senator Davis, 1,816,611; Earle, 1,473,404.

President Roosevelt, in the closing days of the campaign, wrote a letter commending the Earle administration.

James, former "breaker boy" in the hard coal fields, hailed the vote as an indication "The trend toward dictatorship in this state has been definitely halted."

Like Senator Davis, James is the son of Welsh immigrants. He was unable to speak English until he was seven, worked around the anthracite mines to help finance his

Toronto Mother Had Premonition Something Tragic To Happen

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov 9.—(CP) —Believed to have fallen from a moving freight in the Canadian National Railways yards at the Belleville terminal a youth who gave his name as James C. Cole, 19, Toronto, lost his left leg below the knee and had the right foot amputated after being taken to hospital today.

William Minkin, a companion, is being held as a material witness. Police said the youths were attempting to board the train when Cole lost his balance and fell beneath the wheels.

TORONTO, Nov. 9—(CP).—In the dark and the wind and the rain late last night Mrs. Cole had a premonition of something tragic. "There is something wrong," she said to her husband as they sat in their little home.

"I feel it, too," said her husband. The thoughts of both were with their eldest son, James Clifford, 19, who had left home last spring to look for work.

News Came Today

Early today the news came. A railway constable brought it. The lad had tried to board a swiftly moving west-bound freight train at Belleville late last night, had slipped and the wheels had taken off his left leg just below the knee. The doctors found it necessary also to amputate the right leg just above the ankle.

"I knew it—I knew it. I felt that there was something happening," said the mother today. "I could hardly sleep all night. Jimmie is the eldest of nine boys. We were a very happy family.

Boy With Thumbtack In Right Lung Is Taken From Newfoundland To Halifax

HALIFAX, Nov. 9 (CP)—Varick Hillyard, seven - year - old schoolboy of Cornerbrook, Nfld., was in Halifax today awaiting an operation for the removal of a thumbtack in his right lung.

The boy swallowed the tack while in school last June. Instead of entering his stomach, the tack went down the windpipe into the left lung.

His parents rushed him to St. John's, Nfld., hospital. Doctors reached the object with surgical instruments but while drawing it out it slipped from the prongs and went back—into the right lung where it rested on an upper air sac.

Newfoundland doctors were unable to reach the tack this time and advised the parents to consult a specialist. X-ray pictures were taken and sent to Halifax.

A faint whistle while breathing was the only noticeable symptom of the trouble, the boy's father said. At first Varick coughed frequently and became tired easily but when the tack reached the right lung he "didn't seem to mind it a bit."

Parliament Will Meet In January

U.S. Trade Agreement Will Not Be Ready Until Late In Month

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—(CP).— Because the new Canada-United States trade treaty probably will not be ready until late this month, the proposal for an early session has been abandoned and parliament will not meet until the first or second week in January.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, after presiding over his first cabinet meeting in a month, told newsmen that when it became apparent the trade pact would not be ready for presentation to Parliament until late in November at best, the government decided that little could be gained by calling parliament before Christmas.

"I think it will suit the convenience of members if we call parliament early in January, either the first or second week. The trade agreement will be presented for ratification immediately after we dispose of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The government does not intend to rush parliament, the Prime Minister continued. If all the work is not completed by the time the King and Queen arrive early next summer adjournment will be taken during the Royal visit.

Appointments Made.

Two appointments were announced. William H. M. Wardrope, a Hamilton barrister, was named assistant chief commissioner of the Board of Transport Commissioners, succeeding Dr. S. J. McLean, who retired recently.

Wilfred Hanbury, Vancouver lumberman and former member of parliament, was appointed member of the commission, filling a vacancy created two years ago by the death of T. C. Norris. The board now has its full complement of six members.

The Prime Minister stated the appointment of new Canadian ministers to France and Japan and to the new joint legation serving Belgium and Holland will be made before Christmas. He did not know when the six senate vacancies would be filled.

A few details of the Royal visit to Canada were disclosed by Mr. Mackenzie King. He said their Majesties will spend three weeks in the Dominion apart from the time devoted to the visit to the United States.

Social functions in connection with the tour will be reduced to a minimum to give their Majesties an opportunity to see and to be seen by as many Canadians as possible. Highlights of the visit will be unveiling of the National War Memorial in downtown Ottawa.

Fox Futurity Being Planned

AMHERST, N.S., Nov. 9—(CP). A fox futurity which would be a feature of the 1939 Fox Show at the Maritime Winter Fair, was announced by C. F. Bailey, president of the Stockbreeders' Association, at the annual banquet of the Maritime Fox Breeders here last night.

Bailey said breeders could nominate a female for the futurity fox sweepstakes by paying $3. At the time of mating they would pay another $2, and an additional $2 when the litter was born. Another dollar would be paid when entering the selected animal at the Maritime Winter Fair.

The money paid into the sweepstakes would be augmented by a purse from the Maritime Stockbreeders' Association.

Dr. A. W. Shaw, Chief of Marketing of the Live Stock Division at Ottawa, said in an address the quality of Maritime fox peltries must be maintained.

Cemetery Owner Faces Charges In Whitby Court

Whitby, Nov. 9.

JUDGMENT was reserved yesterday by Magistrate F. S. Ebbs on three charges against Mrs. Nan Truax, owner of Groveside Cemetery, Whitby Township, concerning condition of the burial ground. Township Board of Health charged Mrs. Truax with failure to keep the grounds in proper repair, extending them without a permit and permitting burials in which the top of the caskets were less than four feet below the ground as stipulated by the Cemetery Act.

Manion Favors Reforming Of Capitalism

GALT, Ont., Nov. 9—(CP)—There are means within the present economic and political order to achieve more security and happiness for all people in Canada, Hon. R. J. Manion, National Conservative leader, said here last night.

Speaking in support of Karl Homuth, National Conservative candidate in the Waterloo South by-election Nov. 14, Dr. Manion emphasized his faith in a reformed capitalism. The economic system under which the modern world progressed was not ready for the scrap heap, he said. It was ripe for reforms.

Reforms were essential to avert its overthrow and these reforms were more certain in the hands of a party that believed in the fundamental system than in the hands of any group that depended in the end on the overthrow of capitalism to give its tenets a chance to work.

"I'm not pretending to any simple panacea or cure-all to blaze for us a way into heaven overnight," Dr. Manion said. "But there are methods that over a reasonable period of time will bring about that betterment for all classes that I advocate.

Good Canadianism

"If I get into power, I'll make the balance of my life an effort to bring about that just condition. My ideas are within the four corners of good Conservatism. I'll say good Liberalism if you like. But they are mainly good Canadianism. I am subservient to no individual, group, clique or class."

J. S. Woodsworth, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation leader, tonight will enter the campaign in support of John Mitchell, with a rally in Galt. Tomorrow night three federal ministers, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and

Eight Are Killed On Election Day

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Kentucky counted eight dead today in election day gun play.

Harlan County, long known for labor and election disorders, reported four dead. National Guardsmen watched over ballot boxes throughout the night.

Harlan's dead: B. P. Hanshell 34, deputy sheriff, Odell Sizemore 35, Willie Wynn 38, and Sherman Howard 38, former deputy sheriff.

Albert McIntosh 42, and Sidney Gabbard 59 were slain in Owsley County. Clarence Cooper, 30, was killed in Bell County. Robert Parrish 27, was slain in Todd County. One other person was reported dying, and two others were shot but not seriously wounded.

Reports were that some of the shootings were due to heated local contests. In Harlan County the people were intensely interested in the Republican and Democratic fight for the offices of sheriff, coroner, jailer and county attorney.

Robert S. Boyes Laid To Rest At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 9.— One of this town's most estimable citizens, Robert S. Boyes, who came to Campbellford nearly fifty years ago, was buried on Tuesday afternoon. In good health up to the past few weeks, he was unable to bear the strain of the great loss he suffered in the passing of his wife on Friday last. It was only four hours after she had been borne to rest on Sunday afternoon that he expired from a heart condition aggravated by his great grief. As school teacher and later as an inspector he was a man of dependable character possessing a fine trained intelligence which in later years he steadily enhanced by companionship with fine books. In his profession his ability brought him success and as a citizen he won for himself the highest respect of all those who knew him.

Born in Waterloo.

Born near Elmira, in Waterloo county he got his early education at Arthur, High school. Following his graduation he entered immediately into the profession which was to be his career. From the Public school at Riverbank in Wellington county he later went to Neepawa, Manitoba for three years and then returned to the east to complete his education at Mount Forrest Grammar School.

Coming to Campbellford in the late '80's he was placed in charge of the mathematics department of the High school, a position which he held until 1911. It was during these early years as assistant that he met Margaret Davidson who was to become his wife. In 1911 he was appointed Public school inspector of No. 3 Inspectorate for Northumberland and Durham counties, carrying on in this capacity until he was superannuated in 1929 to be succeeded by the present incumbent, A. A. Martin. Schools throughout the whole inspectorate closed today and flags from Campbellford

Newlyweds Hold Wedding Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Nov. 9. — A wedding dance and reception was held on Friday evening, November 4, in the St. George's hall, Apsley, by a recent bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall of Chandos, who were married in October. The bride was Miss Violet Rayment.

The dancing started at 8.30 p.m. and a large crowd enjoyed a pleasant evening of old-time and modern dances. Lunch was served at midnight, and afterwards the bride and groom were called upon to make speeches. They thanked their many friends for their presence and for the many lovely gifts they had received. The music was supplied by Mr. Sid McCauly, Mr. Arthur Wilson, Ross Reynolds and Mrs. Herb Tucker.

Marriage Success Rare For Follies

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — (CP).—More than six years after Florenz Ziegfeld's death, the lives of many of the beauties he glorified still bubble with the drama and showmanship that attended their rise to fame in the "Follies."

Ruth Etting, one of the most famous of Ziegfeld's beauties, recently escaped injury in a shooting affray in which her second husband, Myrl Alderman, was seriously wounded. Miss Etting's first husband, Martin Snyder, is charged with attempted murder and kidnapping as a result of the shooting.

Ziegfeld brought Miss Etting out of a Chicago night club to become co-star of Eddie Cantor in the 1927 "Follies." It was her first Broadway appearance but her singing of the hit numbers "Shine on Harvest Moon," "Love Me or Leave Me" and "Ten Cents a Dance," led to almost 10 years of stage, movie and radio stardom.

Down the years a check shows that rarely have the "Follies" beauties succeeded in making a success of marriage. True, there have been successful matrimonial ventures, but of these the principals in most instances have passed into obscurity.

Ziegfeld himself was married twice. First to the star, Anna Held, of "milk bath" fame, and next to the stage and screen star, Billie Burke, still one of the better actresses of the screen. Ziegfeld started the muchly-married Peggy Hopkins-Joyce on her career of four husbands, the last being the Swedish Count Gosta Morner who bowed out in the divorce courts in 1928.

Mae Murray, whose golden beauty Ziegfeld set against a flowing background of ermine, also picked royalty for her fourth husband in 1926. He was Prince David Mdivani of Georgia.

MONTICELLO, N.Y., Nov. 9.—(AP)—For 60 years Dr. Frederick McWilliams, a horse-and-buggy physician of the old school, treated the ailing of Sullivan county, charging only 50 cents a visit. Because he lived in a small apartment, charged so little and prepared his own prescriptions, his neighbors thought him poor. They learned today that Dr. McWilliams, who died last August, left an estate valued in surrogate's court at $250,000.

Blond Co-ed Is Used As "Lure-Girl" To Kidnap Two Toronto "U" Sophs

Toronto, Nov. 9 (CP)

EDGAR BULL, Trinity House sophomore, said today a "beautiful blond co-ed" had been used last night as a "lure girl" by two freshmen who "kidnapped" him and a companion and left them bound and blindfolded at midnight seven miles from the city.

Bull, second year arts student at the University of Toronto, said he was "pretty well messed up" when he attempted to struggle free from his "captors." He labelled it a "very dirty trick, I think it was taking things too far."

Bull related a girl telephoned and asked if he would like her to take him out.

"I said I would, and she told me she would call around for me in a car," Bull said.

When he got into the car with her, he said, she drove around a block and into an alley when "suddenly two men pounced on me from the back seat." He was bundled into another car and saw a fellow sophomore bound in the back seat.

Bull said they were driven into the country and that he was dumped out with his shoes off, his feet and hands bound. He "supposed" his companion, whose name he gave as Archie Whitelaw, was dumped somewhere else.

by time, presumably willing for some motive or other to marry John Deremo with whom she had lived for thirty years, according to the police authorities, the relationship described as housekeeper, and who only now and within recent months became interested in officially establishing that relationship with her as marriage.

So, there is no romance about Hattie Williams and John Deremo: not a glint of it. There may be other motives but they do not appear on the surface. Miss Williams is an old age pensioner, so was Deremo, but for some reason his monthly income from the government was cut off. The Examiner was informed.

For the second time in six months Miss Williams last Sunday escaped from the House of Refuge. "Escaped" is hardly the correct word in the best county council circles they prefer the term "absconded." And, briefly, the Tuesday afternoon episode was the enforced return of Miss Williams to the county home near Lakefield. This duty devolved to Louis Fry, superintendent of the institution, and in its performance at the Lake street house he was struck on the eye, an uppercut by John Deremo.

Meeting of Board

Deputy-reeve Harry Read, chairman of the Board, presided at the emergency meeting at the Court House Tuesday afternoon. The other members present were Reeve C. S. Tanner and Warden E. N. McDonald, E. A. Peck, K.C., county solicitor, Mr. and Mrs. Fry and Miss Jennie Batten, county clerk and treasurer.

The position and attitude of the county council was represented by the Board of Management, and the three members were unanimous.

"The council last June gave orders that Miss Williams was to be returned to the House of Refuge until such times as they could be assured that whoever applied for her discharge was financially able to look after her," said Warden McDonald. "That was done then, and so far as I am concerned it is going to be done now, because I feel certain that is what the county council would want us to do. The regulations of the House of Refuge are clear, and all we can do is to see that they are carried out. Miss Williams is an inmate and is a ward of this county, and the rules say that if an inmate absconds then it shall be the duty of the Superintendent, Mr. Fry, to go after him and bring him, or her, back. Those are the plain and simple facts."

Discipline Necessary

Reeve Tanner said the county did not want Miss Williams at the House of Refuge. "We'd be glad to get rid of her, but we're going to run the House of Refuge in the orderly manner the ratepayers of this county demand and have always been accustomed to. Our regulations were approved by the Department of Public Welfare, and that means our bylaw has the sanction of the government. We are not going to stand for any Tom, Dick or Harry going up there and helping an inmate to leave without a proper form of discharge. That is all they have to do. You'd have no discipline or order at the institution if inmates were allowed to come and go as they like. We didn't start this thing, these other people did, but this county is still running its institution and a few of us happen to be the present representatives of the county."

Maintenance An Issue

Supposing Miss Williams became ill, it was said, and had to go to the hospital, and the persons she was with could not pay for her maintenance, she would become a charge on the county of $1.75 a day. She had gained fifteen pounds while in the House, and had gained in health, the Examiner was informed. But, she was discontented and didn't want to stay there. One night the matron, Mrs. Fry, chanced to discover Miss Williams trying to raise the window of her room, presumably with the intention of jumping out.

After reassuring themselves that their bylaw clearly upheld them, the Board told Mr. Fry it was up to him to go and find Miss Williams and bring her back. So, Mr. and Mrs. Fry accompanied by County Constable Bruce Menzies left for the police station where they got a warrant authorizing them to arrest Miss Williams. They proceeded on down to the home of Mrs. Storms, Lake street, where after a wordy and rather tempestuous session in which "Doc" Deremo went ga-ga or something and poked Mr. Fry on the eye raising a lump that was evidence of the stormy encounter down the south end.

As gently as he could, but also firmly, Constable Menzies carried Miss Williams from the house while press cameras flashed in the dusk and "Doc" Deremo's pocketfull of dreams probably ran out a hole in the pocket.

Miss Batten said Emmett F. Sheehy had been writing to the House of Refuge for certain persons who wanted to get Miss Williams out, telling them they had no right to detain her, and Reeve Tanner remarked: "Maybe Mr. Sheehy would like to come up here and sign the document for her discharge go good for her upkeep."

Politely, but with plenty of firmness mixed with the politeness, the Board reiterated its position—no discharge of an inmate, Miss Williams or anyone else except by the proper procedure with adequate guarantees that the county would not later become liable for Miss Williams' maintenance.

At six o'clock Mrs. Storms realized that it was too late to stall for time while a lawyer could be consulted, so she and her brother fell in with the advice to have Miss Williams go back to the House for the night and they could go up on Wednesday with proof that she would be properly cared for.

Unnecessary Agreement

"Put that in black and white," Mr. Ruttan suggested to Harry Read, although it was entirely unnecessary but it was a signed document, and it heartened Miss Williams, as she read it, in the belief that she was going back "to that den" as she called it only for one night.

Then there was Bruce Menzies' big-hearted philosophy. "There are some things you just have to do; either that or take off the uniform. I hated to have to take her out of the house, but there's the orders, so it is just a case of being as nice about it as you can; try to make it easy for them, be as patient as you can instead of getting rough."

And Warden McDonald said Mr. Fry could "have saved us a lot of trouble if he had got after those people Sunday, she just walked out behind his back and got into the car."

And during all this progress of the case Provincial Constable Silvester was in the background. It was not his immediate concern, and when he asked for a letter by which the county would assume any financial liability that might be incurred if he entered the case the document was withheld, and for that reason he left the job to Superintendent Fry according to the written regulations pertaining to the House of Refuge.

And following the practice of sequel teasers it might be queried at this stage whether Mrs. Storms can produce the guarantees of financial ability to take care of Miss Williams that will be convincing to Deputy-reeve Read and Reeve Tanner some time today?

City Teachers Hold Convention

Two hundred teachers from public and separate schools in the city met in annual convention at the Prince of Wales school to-day, while pupils set loose on a four day holiday revelled in perfect Autumn weather.

First sessions of the convention were devoted mostly to routine work, including the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report which was read by Miss F. D. Walker. Donald Munro, of the Central school staff, led in community singing with Mr. Telford at the piano, and Keith S. Wightman, public school inspector, and Mr. Langan, separate school inspector, both read departmental notes. The convention enjoyed singing of a choir from Queen Alexandra school taught by Miss Ross.

The address of the morning was by Miss Marion Rannie, supervisor of music in rural schools and a member of the Normal school teaching staff, who spoke on "Music Appreciation."

This afternoon Miss Margaret Eastwood presided and Miss Ethel Dix gave a short talk on Reading Readiness which was followed by a discussion period on the subject. Miss Frances Bonnycastle addressed the group on Helps in Health Teaching, and the health subject will be more thoroughly dealt with by R. H. Roberts, M.A., of the Normal school staff and co-author of the Health Manual.

Thursday morning sessions will begin at nine o'clock in the Prince of Wales school when A. Mowat, B.A., will address the convention, and M. H. Park, Normal school master, will talk on Social Studies. On Thursday afternoon the sessions will be held in the Collegiate Assembly Hall, where F. J. A. Morris, noted authority on wild flowers and orchids, will address the teachers on the subject, "Woodland Lures."

Famous Night Club Damaged By Fire

HULL, Que., Nov. 9 (C.P.). — One of the city's best known night clubs and former home of the Eddy lumber family, Standish Hall, was gutted early to-day in a $50,000 fire.

The blaze started in a guest room of the east wing when one of the occupants of the room is believed to have dropped a cigarette on the rug. It spread quickly along the top floor and most of the fire fighting equipment in Hull was sent into action.

Thirty-five guests were forced to move to other rooms in the hall, which was fireproof. No one was injured.

After a two-hour battle the fire was brought under control. The dance floor and cabaret section of the hall in the new west wing were not damaged.

"Of course we are on relief. But we used to say that though we had no money we could still have fun. Jimmy went away last April to look for work. He went from place to place, but work was hard to find. He thought he could get a job on a boat. But he didn't. He kept in touch with us. He was on his way home when this had to happen.

Played Baseball

Right across from the little house on Arnold street is the O'Neill playground where Jimmy and his brothers had played. "He was fond of baseball — so active," said the mother, with pain in her eyes as she fought with her grief.

"Nine boys would make a baseball team," awkwardly suggested a reporter.

"Yes," she replied, "but Jimmy will never play baseball again."

Mrs. Cole is anxious to go to Belleville to be with her boy in the hospital, "but I don't know how to get there," she said. "We are on relief. We have no money. I can't pay my way. I wonder if somebody who is driving to Belleville would take me down?"

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 9 — (CP). — Large-scale Canadian wheat export sales sent Winnipeg wheat futures higher to-day for the second successive session. Trading was the broadest in several weeks, but buyers adopted a waiting attitude near the close, with prices about a cent up. The close was 1 to ¾ higher, November 58½, December 58⅛, May 61 ⅛ to ¼, July 61⅞ to 62.

Export sales were estimated in excess of 1,000,000 bushels, heaviest trade in any daily session this month. Mills were credited with light support.

Higher outside markets, firm stock quotations, improved demand in the United Kingdom for Manitoba wheat and continued frost reports from Argentina were bullish influences.

County Unable

Williams last June, and following her sudden departure Sunday afternoon the Board of Management, representing the Council, felt confidently justified in taking the same course again. Police Constable Silvester expressed a doubt to the Examiner about the soundness of the law the county was invoking, and virtually declined to interfere in the Hattie Williams case unless he was guaranteed against any possible liability for damages that might arise out of her arrest.

Telephoned Department.

Reeve Tanner this afternoon informed the Examiner that on the advice of the county solicitor, E. A. Peck, K.C., he decided to telephone the Department to make sure their procedure was valid.

"They told me that our bylaw had been upset by a court decision, that it no longer had any effect, and that arrangements were being made for a revision of the regulations that would give certainty to a county council's position in exercising authority over its aged wards. That was my understanding of the situation as it is right now. So the two of us passed a resolution directing the discharge of Miss Williams, and she can go whenever she likes."

Following the incidents and demonstrations of Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. L. Storms of 245 Lake street, had planned to assume today responsibility for the care of Miss Williams, saying that she had a good home for her, and that she could convince the Board of Management Miss Williams should be permitted to leave the institution. It is understood that Mrs Storms is only a friend, not a relative, who wished to assist the elderly woman with whom John Deremo anticipated marriage by obtaining a license at the city hall Monday afternoon.

So, the affair flattened out at the House of Refuge this morning, and Emmett Sheehy remarked to the Examiner this afternoon that he had felt all along Miss Williams should not be detained in the county home against her will. He said there had been previously some talk by her friends of taking action against the county authorities, and that in the altered circumstances there might be a renewal for satisfaction in the courts from the same source.

In the meantime the news from Lakefield became the first real break for John Deremo in six months and in a sense, he emerged from "behind the eight ball." Apparently if Hattie is still willing to take him, there is now nothing to prevent their wedding on Thursday or thereafter.

Speaker Reviews European Situation

Mr. A. Mowat was guest speaker at the Queen Alexandra Home and School meeting on Monday evening. In a review of the present European situation, Mr. Mowat traced events leading up to the recent crisis in Europe, and discussed different opinions held as to the outcome of the recent meet of the Big Four at Munich. Though admitting that it was a very gloomy outlook for democracy at present, the speaker stated that democracy must prevail.

Planned with Remembrance Day in mind, the meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. V. R. Henry, with a beautiful and appropriate prayer by St. Francis Assisi.

Fine reports were brought in by conveners and representatives Mrs. H. Tremaine reported briefly the Regional Conference recently held in Belleville, and two piano solos were played by Miss Thelma Zavitz.

A very excellent played entitled "Wooden Soldiers" was clevrly presented on a well-arranged stage, with character parts taken by Mrs. A. W. Nelson and Mrs. V. Currie. The play closed impressively to the strains of "My Rosary," played by Mrs. W. Purdy.

W.M.S. Meeting Is Well Attended

In spite of unfavorable weather on Tuesday afternoon, the George Street W.M.S. meeting was well attended. The president, Mrs. A. R. Brown, was in the chair, and opened the meeting with the call to worship, followed by prayer.

The minutes were read by Mrs. W. McMillan, and the treasurer's report, given by Mrs. J. Spencer, showed that $100.00 had been sent to the Presbyterial treasury for the last quarter, an increase of $2.36 in the givings of the society for 1938 up to the present time. The literature secretary, Mrs. W. H. Morton, reported twenty-two books read for the month. The strangers' committee reported twenty-seven calls made.

The devotional period was then taken charge of by Mrs. J. H. Rowe for group D. Mrs. P. Hetherington read the Bible lesson, and Mrs. Clayton lead in prayer. Two beautiful solos were sung by Mrs. E. V. Morphet, accompanied by Mrs. M. C. Parr.

In an interesting manner, Mrs. S. Latimer, assisted by Mrs. W. MacMillan, Mrs. N. Routley, Mrs. J. H. Rowe, Mrs. F. Mather and Miss Boyd, reviewed the second chapter of the Study Book, which covered the missionary work in the West of Rev. Dr. George McDougall, and his son, Rev. John McDougall, Dr. James Robertson, Rev. James Woodsworth and Rev. Dr. J. C. Cochrane.

Announcement was made that Sunday November 13, would be W. M. S. Sunday, and all the branches of the societies would meet in a body in the church, and the fall thank-offering collection be taken. A hymn and prayer by Mrs. A. R. Brown closed the meeting.

Fine Program Given By Visiting Club

An outstanding social event in inter-church circles was the visit of seventy members of the Plainville Men's Bible Class with their pastor, Rev. H. A. Mellow, of Gore's Landing, to the Brotherhood of St. James United Church here.

The splendid program given by the visitors, with M. J. MacDonald as chairman, was as follows; Community singing led by Major R. E. Drope; duet from Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience," by Glenn Hogg and Rev. H. A. Mellow; reading, "Betsy and I Made Up," Archie Bowman; solo "The Floral Dance," Glenn Cole; comic skit, Lynn MacDonald; solo "Always Chewing Gum," Major R. E. Drope; an address, "This Way Out," by Rev. H. A. Mellow; quartette, "There's Music in the Air," Wilbur Cole, Glenn Cole, Clifford Manley and H. A. Mellow. Mrs. H. A. Mellow was a most able and charming accompanist at the piano.

With Arthur MacLaren at the projector and Rev. F. W. Craik as interpreter, a wonderful series of colored pictures was viewed by the company, entitled "The Voice of the Nation." It was a noble array of royal and national scenes of Empire interest.

The Brotherhood's energetic social committee composed of H. F. Doig, Jack Freeman, Roy Moynes, assisted by Ben Kerr, secretary, served lunch to the happy gathering. The company of well over one hundred men sat down amid cordial fellowship to do justice to the delicious supper.

Rising from the tables the gathering then enjoyed a community singing period to the music of Jack Hodson and his piano accordion.

The visitors were welcomed by Matt Drysdale, the Brotherhood president, and the Plainville Men's appreciation was voiced by M. J. MacDonald. Rev. F. W. Craik accepted on behalf of the St. James' men the cordial invitation extended to visit Plainville on Sunday afternoon, November 27. A most memorable evening was ended with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

Deliberate Hard Dealing With Children Robs Them of the Very Things They Need in Later Life; a Medium Must Be Found to Assure Success.

IN A recent magazine article a father tells how he tried to prepare his daughter for life by treating her with almost inhuman cruelty. He urges other parents to use this same harsh method in bringing up their children so that they may be hardened to meet whatever misfortunes may befall them.

He says that his child was left motherless when quite young, but instead of showing tenderness and pity to the poor little creature, he never caressed her, or petted her, or said any word of affection to her. Instead, he was deliberately neglectful of her and indifferent to her. He never praised her, but was quick to blame. Her only reward for good work was being told that it should have been better.

Although the father was well-to-do, the child was never given a penny that she did not earn. She was never given any of the treats that other children have. She even had to stand by looking on hungrily and wistfully while other youngsters licked their ice cream cones. She was always the shabbiest and most poorly dressed of any little girl in school.

The father's excuse for thus willfully depriving his daughter of everything was that he was "fitting her for life." Life is not soft-padded for any of us after we leave the nursery and there is no one to kiss our bruises and make them well or provide us with lollipops and pink hair ribbons. His idea is that the child who has never known anything but brutality will not mind being kicked about when it is grown. That those who have never known love and tenderness and beauty and softness will be so callous that they will not crave them.

But in this theory he goes against all the laws of God and nature. For if the Great Creator of the universe put ugliness and hardness into the world, He also put gentleness and beauty. If He sends the rain, He sends also the glorious sunshine. Also He put into the heart of man that which makes him desire most of the things that have been withheld from him. No man is so hungry for love as the one who has been starved for affection. No one so avid for pleasures as the one who has been denied them in youth. Any father befools himself who thinks that he can take away a girl's desire for good times and pretty things by never permitting her to have them.

Moreover, in all sober truth, it is doubtful if there is anything that life can ever give us afterward that can compensate us for an unloved and lonely and unhappy childhood. When we are men and women we have the strength to stand alone. We have acquired a philosophy that is an armor against the slings and arrows of fate. But when we are little children we are so helpless, so dependent upon our parents for every good and every happiness that can come to us. If we never know the softness of a mother's breast and the comforting shelter of a father's arms, we are poor indeed, no matter how many times we are millionaires.

To harden a child deliberately and to stamp out all the gentler emotions in it; to make it incapable of pity because no sympathy has been shown it; to dry up the springs of tenderness in it because it has known no tenderness, is to do it not only a cruel spiritual but also a practical wrong. Because it is still true that love makes the world go round; that the men and women who are most human, most considerate of others, most responsive to their fellow creatures are not only the happiest but the most successful in life. Nobody loves a hard-boiled stoic, nor wants to do business with him or push his fortune.

Of course, it is not to be denied that many people unfit their children for life by being too indulgent to them. There are mothers and fathers whose devotion to their children makes them blind to their faults, so they do not correct them. There are mothers and fathers who are so weak that they can deny their children nothing and who pamper and indulge them in even the things that they know will be the youngsters' undoing. There are fathers and mothers who are so possessive that they never let their children grow up, or learn to stand alone.

But between the overfond parent and the Spartan parent there is a medium in dealing with children where they have both love and authority, tenderness and duty, and indulgences and restrictions. Unfortunately, only too few fathers and mothers hit this happy medium. For parenthood seems to be one of the things that is most difficult to do in moderation.

Miss R. Young Speaks To Catholic League

A wider interest and a more thorough knowledge of the activities of the Children's Aid Society was aroused in the hearts of the members of the Catholic Women's League after listening to an address delivered before their meeting on Monday evening by Miss R. Young, Superintendent of the Shelter.

Miss Young explained that the shelter was in reality only a clearing house for homeless and neglected children, and the placement of these children in new homes where they might develop mentally, morally, physically and spiritually was a matter that required deep consideration and foresight. At present there are 64 homes under its jurisdiction.

The speaker explained how present day leaders are studying the reasons why so many children have become wards of a public society — the concensus of opinion was that the cause rested in the home. Young men and young women were sent forth for one of the finest missions on earth, married life, without being properly trained both spiritually and physically. Girls were warned as to the pitfalls that lay along their paths, and mothers were exhorted to train their children for lasting happiness, which means to have a clean body, a clean mind, and a clean soul. In conclusion the speaker deplored the absence of Parent Education Groups, which she understood was due to lack of leadership.

A vote of thanks was extended to Miss Young, and assurance was given that the members of the League would gladly cooperate with all the work of the Shelter.

The meeting was held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum, with the president, Miss E. Deanard, in the chair.

A short but select musical program consisted of an instrumental solo by Miss Josephine Lynch, A.T.C.M.; a vocal solo by Jack Flagler with accompaniment by Dorothy Whatley; and a violin solo by Harry McDonald, with Emmett Kearney at the piano.

The business of the meeting consisted of the reading of the minutes, and reports from the various officers. The president requested that 12 study clubs be formed, and also that means of transportation be provided to take the Girl Guides to Hastings on Armistice Day.

An animated discussion followed concerning the raising of funds. It was finally decided to hold a bridge and euchre party, the date and place to be left in the hands of the committee.

A resolution was passed that a Requiem mass for deceased soldiers be said during the month of November instead of placing a wreath on the Cenotaph on Armistice Day. The meeting then adjourned.

bridge, and Mrs. William Beggs. The attendance banner was won by Miss F. Rahmel's room.

Omemee Society Is Entertained

St. James' Young People's Society entertained the young people from Omemee on Tuesday evening at a Hallowe'en party. Games were in charge of Cyril Davis, and refreshments were served by Frances McMahon and her committee. Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick relief from a distressing cough, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of very efficient remedy, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is splendid. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Appoint Committee To Name Officers St. James' W.M.S.

With Mrs. E. L. Woodley, the vice-president, presiding, there was a splendid attendance and an excellent program at the November W.M.S. meeting of St. James' United Church.

Mrs. Woodley conducted a brief business session which included in the plans for the future, arrangements regarding the study book for 1939, with Mrs. McAdams as leader and Mrs. A. Davis, assistant. A nominating committee was also appointed with Mrs. Geo. H. Rowe, the convener, assisted by Mesdames Rosborough, Craik, Woodley and Miss M. Morton.

Plans to respond to a special plea for clothing for the west were made and will be carried out at the end of the month.

This part of the meeeting closed with silent prayer in remembrance of the late president, Mrs. F. B. Elliott and prayer was offered by Mrs. Woodley.

A most appropriate responsive service led by Mrs. A. Rosborough was heartily entered into by all the members with "Making Canada Christian," as the main theme.

Mrs. E. Kitney sang a pretty French-Canadian folk song "Whence O Shepherd Maiden," with Mrs. H. F. Doig accompanying. Miss M. Deyell read a Canadian poem and Miss Connie Wagar told of some of the beauty brought to Canada by our new Canadians, with reproduction of works by Cornelius Kreighoff and Otto Jacobi.

The service closed with a poem on prayer by Mrs. Rowe after which all united in the Lord's Prayer.

The months' study was introduced in a talk by Mrs. Sloane in which she demonstrated brotherhood in Canada and instead of the story of our work in Trinidad being read by one of the group it was given at first hand by a real daughter of Trinidad, Mrs. Stewart Hanlan.

An honored visitor present was Mrs. W. Stevens, Presbyterial Literature secretary, who urged a greater use of this department which provides so many helps for the individual organizations of the W.M.S.

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

Speaking on the subject of desirable books for children at the Tuesday meeting of the King George Home and School Association, Mr. K. S. Wightman stressed the advantages of encouraging children to do their own reading, and mentioned the privileges which the children of the present day have in the wide selection of excellent books at their disposal.

So that parents might make a note of the author and title, a number of books suggested by Mr. Wightman were on display, and may be purchased in local shops. Books of interest to parents, and published by the Home and School Federation, were briefly discussed by Mrs. E. Wand.

Mrs. T. L. Ashton, vice-president, presided at the meeting. A report of the last Home and School Council meeting was given by a representative, Mrs. M. Seymour, and interesting reports of the Home and School conference held in Belleville on October 21, were read by Mrs. Morgan Cullen and Mrs. William Beggs.

Current events were given in a clear and informative manner by Mr. F. E. Kerr, and the musical part of the program included: Two numbers by a quartette composed of Mrs. Max Pomeroy, Miss Sexsmith, Mr. George Rennie and Mr. V. Boorman; violin selections by Mrs. Percy Hooper, accompanied by Mrs. H. V. Dobson; and solos by Mrs. Hugh Hunter, accompanied by Mr. V. Boorman.

Thanks to those who had taken part in the excellent program was expressed by Mrs. George Groom-

Talked Much But Not Wisely

The improved facilities for reporting events leads to a number of speeches being reported today which would not in past years have received much notice at all. Ernest Bevin, general secretary of the Transport and General Workers Association returned to London after a world tour, and he had much to say.

Mr. Bevin does not know what to make of Canada. People talk about exercising their neutrality in case of war, and the visitor did not believe Canada would join another world war as she did in 1914 unless United States went in. Mr. Bevin reports he was not certain whether Canada wanted to be inside or outside of the British Empire, his conclusion being that we wanted to have one foot in United States and another in the Empire. If we became possessed of a third foot probably we would desire to put that in our own country.

From that beginning Mr. Bevin goes on to state that the visit of the King and Queen has probably been planned for the purpose of setting us right. He concluded by recommending that parliament should appoint a select committee to investigate administration of the "entire colonial empire."

We can see no purpose in making such statements unless Mr. Bevin is possessed of that strange desire which hits some people hard—they do like to say something unusual. How long this gentleman travelled in our country we do not know; whether he had opportunity to find out what many of our people thought is something again on which no information is available.

Possibly Mr. Bevin did not have sufficient common sense to realize that Canada would resent the idea of their Majesties coming here in order to bring the Canadian people into line with Empire thoughts and to impress us with the need for Empire solidarity, and we prefer to believe that such mission is entirely foreign to the purpose of the forthcoming visit.

Nor have we the slightest idea of where this talkative gentleman would find Canada had a desire to slip over into United States. This country is on friendly terms with the people across the border, but we believe it is quite possible for friendly neighbors to live next to each other without one of them deciding to abandon his comfortable home and go and live with the neighbor who probably does not want him in his house.

So in all we believe it would have been much better had Mr. Bevin on his return home been content to say he had a good time and let it go at that. A tourist who hurries from place to place is apt to blunder seriously when he allows himself to believe he has been able to so accurately judge national sentiment that he is qualified to speak as one having authority. Mr. Bevin has placed himself in that class.

A Sensible Young Man

Sydney Errengton Martin, Jr., of Philadelphia, has been missing since September 14, and we learn G-men and police generally have been searching for him ever since. He is one person who would attract considerable attention by disappearing because he is heir to money which runs into several millions.

The method of his disappearance had in it all the ingredients for a good story. On the night of September 14 he was doing what a number of ultra-rich people do—making the rounds of all the fashionable night clubs and having what is called a good time. Folk in that class are easily bored and when they tire of one night club they go to another, but they would always remain long enough to have another drink.

Sydney Martin was apparently fed up. He considered it a silly way to live. He had plenty of money but nothing to do which amounted to anything. Trustees look after his affairs and he had to earn nothing at all.

So he up and left, and after that the search was on. Theory was he had been kidnapped or had eloped with a beautiful blonde. All of which was wrong because when they finally found Sydney Martin in Richmond, Va., he was occupying a decent room in a decent rooming house at nights and during the day he was calling from door-to-door selling vacuum cleaners. His explanation was simple—he had run away to escape from a life of monotonous luxury. He wanted to do something; possibly he desired to be hungry at meal times and tired when it came on night. A rich young man with nothing to do can feel mighty miserable.

A Point To Consider

Premier Hepburn is ready to take a hand in a situation which has developed in Toronto. There are some hundreds of single men in hostels there. There is work to be done on the harbor property of the city, and the suggestion is that the men work seven hours per week for which they will receive food, clothing, medical care and a place to stay. The men object to working that way. They ask that they be allowed to work two days a week at 45 cents an hour, so that with the $7.20 which they receive in cash for their work they can get off the relief list and look after themselves.

At the last meeting of the men there was talk of picketing the city hall, picketing the place where some of the men are working, and it was suggested they might also picket the residence of the Mayor. And all that kind of nonsense is going to do them no good at all, and that is where Premier Hepburn comes in to say he is prepared to stand behind the city to put an end to it.

With that there will be general agreement. But when Premier Hepburn and the officials in Toronto are at it there is another point they should consider because this paper believes it will have to be faced and recognized before we make a real start at getting away from our operation of relief.

It is just this—we must eventually reach the point where we will again regard useful work as something for which the worker should be paid in cash as was formerly done. We cannot go on indefinitely by paying in groceries and lodging and similar services. We know well enough there will be difficulties in the way of getting our old plan of payment in cash for work in operation once more, but we are certain we will have to start making a move in that direction.

Guarding The Secrets

The Bren machine gun inquiry at Ottawa has placed 400 documents and more than 1,000,000 words of spoken evidence on the records. That of course is impressive, but it does not tell the story in its entirety.

It is related that much of the correspondence was considered confidential and secret and never intended for public perusal as it passed between Britain and Canada through their war offices. We learn it was supposed to be a secret matter that at the Enfield plant in England Bren guns were being turned out at the rate of 200 per day. Just why such information should be closely guarded we do not know. There is no secret about the plant being at Enfield and it would be known to a good many people that Bren guns are being made there.

Having in mind the statement made by the British Secretary for War telling of the lamentable condition of London's defences against air raids one is moved to wonder just what sort of information is being kept secret. That official made no secret at all in telling of all the bungling which had been found to exist. He told it so openly that the whole world would know about it. All of which might cause one to ask if there are so many secrets which are being closely guarded.

Certainly there can be no secret that an inquiry which runs to a million or more words of evidence and which lasts for a good two months is going to be followed by a rather formidable bill of expense.

At $275 Per Year

Lakefield Women's Institute held what it was pleased to term a "Grandmothers' Meeting," and naturally the nature of the program had much reference to events of other days. Mrs. J. W. Ridpath presented a number of items culled from the Lakefield News in the days of the gay nineties, among them being one which caused it to be known that the Public School Board desired to engage a teacher with second-class certificate and considerable experience. In those days the salary was mentioned bravely and in the open; the teacher was to receive $275 per year, which would produce an income of about 75 cents for each day of the year.

By today's standards that is low; so low that we are inclined to smile at it. But there are a good many men who in other days used their certificates to teach merely as stepping stones to more education, and out of their small salaries they actually saved the money to pay for it.

There was a gentleman in this office not more than a week ago who has been quite successful in his chosen profession and when he started teaching school he received his first appointment in the township of Biddulph in Middlesex country. His salary was $200 per year and added to that was the stipulation that he would have to light the fire in the morning in the school house. He boarded with a family across from the school, and having come from a farm himself agreed to help with chores night and morning so he got his board for very little. He taught there for two years and had saved sufficient to go on once more with the acquiring of more advanced education. So Lakefield with its $275 was doing fairly well, if not by today's standards then in comparison with what was being pair elsewhere some years ago.

Not On The Tenth

After a good deal of investigating and planning it has been decided that the Dionne quints must have tonsils and adenoids removed. It was stated some time ago it was going to be done, and then it was denied. Few children get their names in the paper nowadays because they have their tonsils out, and it seems to be part of the experience of the modern child.

Just how long it has been going on we cannot at the moment recall. But we know we never heard anything about such a thing on the Tenth Concession. There seemed to be other ways of dealing with afflictions as they visited on Lot Four. When the throat was a trifle sore then the method was to make a piece of paper into a small funnel in which there was deposited a little sulphur or else quite a bit of it. The person to be treated stood with mouth wide open while some person pressed down on the tongue with the handle of a table spoon. A third party held the coal oil lamp at such an angle so the sulphur blower could see how to take a fairly good aim. Then the sulphur was blown by a good sharp heave of the breath and it went all over the ailing part in the throat.

That seemed to do the trick, and if not then before retiring at night there would be a generous sized rag soaked in cold water and that would be wrapped around the neck and a stocking fastened in place with a safety pin would be put on top as a sort of retainer.

There was also quite a lot of confidence in camphor among the folk along the Tenth, and the custom was to make little bags of thin material, stuff them with camphor and then tie them about the necks of the rising generation. No one ever questioned just what it was for, but in a general way we took it for granted that it had something or other to do with maintaining a fair standard of health. Nor do we remember whether the theory of germs was thoroughly understood then. Probably they existed on the tin drinking cup which was chained to the well at the school but no one seemed to know or care. When that bag of camphor was fairly fresh there was safety. If there were germs about then they would probably fold up and die once they got a sniff of the camphor bag. Of course there probably were more advanced parts of the world where they might have been taking tonsils out even at that early date, but we never heard about it on the Tenth.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We are learning more about the habits of the house fly. The bald headed man at least knows now where they go in a warm November.

When a skunk visited a chicken house at Richmond Hill the hens left and roosted in a nearby tree. All but two of them and they didn't move out quickly enough when the raid took place.

Gen. Franco's forces in Spain report they have captured a salient from the government troops. The salient was a word much in use during the days of the World War but seldom has it been referred to in wars that followed.

William Powell of the movies has signed a contract for seven years at $600,000 a year. By the time the taxing officers get through with that salary and Powell pays the cost of living in the film colony what's left over may look quite modest.

It is suggested in Toronto that civic electors who do not exercise their franchise for two years should lose the right to vote. Perhaps the reason is that in some two years periods it is difficult to find any candidates in Toronto worth voting for.

When British flyers can complete a non-stop flight of 7,160 miles at an average speed of 150 miles an hour, it will have to be admitted that the world is getting to be a remarkably small place. And also that Britain understands air traffic.

Princess Baba of Sarawak married Bob Gregory, an English wrestler. They lived in Hollywood but the Princess left saying a wrestler could not make enough money. Now she is on her way back having stated she misses her husband to the point where she can't stand it. Nothing new in that; most women make the same discovery after they have left their husbands for a while.

IMPRESSED

(By A. B. K.)

¶ New preacher to the village came, and he built for himself a name, for he was most profound; the first day out he started in, and there came pouring out from him, a most impressive sound.

¶ The man before him was sincere, his words were simple like and clear, and keen in argument; for every word he said was plain, and no one asked him to explain, just what it was he meant.

¶ But crowds had never flocked in there, and many of the pews were bare, no crowding in the hall; the new man heard of empty pews, it sounded like unpleasant news, and he would change it all.

¶ He played on adjectives and verbs, made use of fearful sounding words, they were indeed impressed; his knowledge was beyond their depth, in fear and ignorance they wept, and some were much distressed.

¶ And when he had some truth to tell, he'd quote in Latin for a spell, oh no, he was not meek; and when he had them stupified, he'd get them further mystified, for he would quote in Greek.

¶ And when the morning hymn was sung, he'd spring on them the Hebrew tongue, they thought that he was grand; no one dared say he was too deep, with all his Latin and his Greek — though none could understand.

Facts About Our Railways

ALTHOUGH THE RATE of increase in Canadian steam railway mileage has been lower since the war than during the period from 1900 to 1917, which was one of the great periods of Canadian railway construction, there has been a fairly steady rise in the number of miles in operation. Total mileage was 17,657 in 1900. This grew to 38,369 in 1917, an increase of 117 per cent. The increase in population for the same period was approximately 51 per cent.

Since 1917 mileage has increased to 42,552 in 1936, or 11 per cent., while population has increased nearly 39 per cent. The net increase in mileage does not represent the total of new railroad construction, as approximately 3,000 miles of line have been abandoned during the period.

Comparison of population and mileage figures for 1900 and 1936 shows that railway mileage has increased by 141 per cent., while population has increased by 107 per cent. According to the Canada Year Book, Canada now ranks fourth in total railway mileage, the United States, Soviet Russia and British India being the only countries with greater total mileages, and in miles per capita only Australia has a greater average. Canada's density being one mile of line for each 263 persons.

✧ ✧ ✧

RAIL COSTS HIGHER

GROSS REVENUES of Canadian railways on a mileage basis are much lower than gross revenues of United States Class I railroads per mile, largely on account of the fact that there are more thin traffic lines in Canada. Comparative figures submitted to the Senate Committee showed earnings of $7,662 per mile in Canada, against $17,149 in the United States.

Number of employees per mile of road in Canada is 2.83, compared with 4.51 in the United States, but the relative labor cost in Canada is higher. In 1936 the operating revenues of United States Class I roads were equivalent to one million dollars for each 263 employees, while all Canadian railroads had 370 employees for every million dollars of operating revenue.

✧ ✧ ✧

PANAMA CANAL COMPETES

FROM 1923 TO 1937 there has been an increasing volume of Canadian freight traffic moving through the Panama Canal in preference to the transcontinental rail routes. The volume of Canadian traffic through the canal was 1,035,278 tons in 1923. It rose to 3,995,949 tons in 1928 and then declined slightly for the next two years. Since then the increase has been resumed and in 1937 total Canadian freight traffic through the canal amounted to 4,333,637 tons.

Not all this traffic represents business lost to the railways. Some of it consists of commodities from British Columbia that could not profitably be sold in the East where it not for low-cost water transportation. But some freight now moved by the water route is of a class formerly moved across the continent by rail.

$25 EVERY TEN SECONDS

ACCORDING TO figures submitted by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics to the special Senate Committee on Railways, the Government railways required assistance from the taxpayer to an average amount of $78,000,000 per year in the ten years ended with December 31, 1936. The rate of loss thus was $150 per minute or about $25 in the ten seconds required to read this paragraph.

To The Editor

HELPING

Editor Examiner:

Sir: At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Boy Scouts Association, October 26, 1938, it was moved and carried unanimously that an expression of thanks be sent to you for your kind co-operation during the past year. In publishing Scout news and otherwise helping the organization, you are rendering valuable aid to Scouting in the district.

Secretary.

CAN'T GET A JOB

Editor Examiner:

Sir: This is just a few lines so as to let the public know why the boys leave home and get discouraged as I am myself.

I am out of work and do not know what to do for it. All everybody tells you is "nothing today," but let a man come in from out of town and most of them get jobs. So what do you think of that! Would you print this please.

CHURCH NOT LOCKED

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Re the article appearing in last nights Examiner, wherein one of our local clergymen, condemns the locking of our church doors during the week.

I wish emphatically to refute this reverend gentleman's statements, which received more than passing publicity, and to state very forcibly, that his remarks do not represent the actual facts, which after being a resident of this city for some time, he should be more than aware of.

I have been associated with St. John's Anglican church for over fifteen years, and can state from my own certain and personal knowledge that this edifice is, and always has been open to the general public at all times during the day, for their private and public devotions, and furthermore, I know it is so utilised by various persons.

Further than this I can point to various churches of the Anglican communion which also keep their churches open for the selfsame purpose throughout the length of this vast Dominion. So in fairness to them I would be grateful if you will give the above as much prominence as the other statement received. Thanking you Mr. Editor.

I am, Yours truly,
FREDERIC B. MANN.

SUGGESTION

Typist: "Your wife wants to kiss you over the telephone."
Boss: "Ssh! Take the message and give it to me later."
—London Opinion

• A Few Sickening Realizations

LONDON, NOW THAT the emergency is over—at any rate, for the next six months, let us hope—the public is beginning to discover, in horrifying hints here, in bits of gossip there, and sometimes in fairly frank admissions by persons in high authority, just how serious that emergency was. And not merely the serious danger of war—the serious danger of London in particular being blown to smithereens, before its defences against aerial attack could be properly organized and equipped!

We now know, writes P. O'D. in Saturday Night, that we had nothing like enough aeroplanes, only about 100 anti-aircraft guns—which is, of course, practically nothing—insufficient fire-fighting apparatus, insufficient A.R.P. supplies, insufficient everything.

A lot of the stuff we actually had was apparently of little or no use. And when the stuff was there and was all right, we hadn't men enough to use it. And when the men were there, they had hardly had any training for their jobs, and spent most of their time getting in one another's way. So, at least, the Jeremiahs insist.

In a good many countries such revelations of unpreparedness, slackness, and muddle-headed optimism on the part of those chiefly responsible for the nation's defences would probably lead to political upheavels of a volcanic sort. There would, at least, be furious demands for investigations, resignations, castigations, and all the rest of it.

But in England they order these things differently—and much better, perhaps. In other and more fiery lands, statesmen who fall down on their jobs are sometimes clapped into jails or concentration camps. In England they are merely clapped into the peerage. It is just as effective and much pleasanter. There ought to be some distinguished political names in next year's Honors Lists. Some nice new viscounts!

Little Comfort Yet

The public is very little interested in the question of who is to blame for the utter inadequacy of the home-defences. It would do no good, even if it could be settled. Besides, there is a general conviction that almost everybody is to blame — the Government for lack of foresight and decision, the Opposition for its persistent attacks on what they described as "militarist" policy, the Trade Unions for their unremitting hostility to anything in the nature of national training, right down to the man in the street, who is even now chucking his gas-mask into the dustbin and refusing to bother about precautions. The dustmen of London are retrieving the things by the thousand.

But what is being done to put matters right — now that everyone realizes, or should realize, the necessity for an immense national effort? Mechanically, everything possible, it seems. Aeroplane production, gun production, tank production, all these are being speeded to the limit. By 1940, we are assured, we shall have caught up—unless the other fellow does a bit of speeding, too, to maintain his advantage. Which, of course, the blighter will—if he can stand the pace.

• Fake Voting In Montreal

(Letter in Montreal Star)

SIR,—Mr. Justice Enright let it be know yesterday, that personation (commonly know as "telegraphing"), at elections, is a serious offence which should not be leniently dealt with by the courts and I think he is perfectly right.

Personation is certainly not a joke judging from the heavy penalty to which is liable any one who thus votes under a false name. It was not assuredly considered as a trifling matter by those who drafted Article 240 of the Charter of Montreal, which reads as follows:

"Every person shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence of personation and shall be punishable accordingly by a penalty of $500 and imprisonment for six months, in default of payment, in addition to an imprisonment not exceeding six months, with or without hard labor, who, during the voting at an election, applies for a ballot-paper or presents himself to vote in the name of some other person, whether such name he that of a living, dead or fictitious persons."

That the law should be so severe in respect of this fraudulent practice is not to be wondered at, since a few personators might secure the election of a candidate whose opponent would otherwise have had a majority of the legitimate votes cast.

As a matter of fact, personation had become such a scourge that the municipal authorities of Montreal did not hesitate to spend a huge sum of money for the issuing of identification cards to all ratepayers for electoral purposes.

I, therefore, unreservedly concur in the statement made by Mr. Justice Enright that "personation is a serious offence, that it is scandalous and that no matter what political plumage personators wear, they should not receive any better treatment than any one else before the courts."

LOUIS ROBERGE.

• Today's Words Too Confusing.

OUR OLD FRIEND, Hi Hinkledam, breaks a long silence to complain about the epidemic of newfangled and hard-to-spell words that has developed during the last few years says "Hank" in the St. Thomas Times-Journal. "It's got so a feller can't get much farther than the birth, marriage and death notices in the newspaper without having the dictionary at his elbow," he peeves. "And some of the words that get you hog-tied to a frazzle half way through a paragraph are even too new to be in the dictionary.

"Whoever heard of Nazilism and Fascism back in the days when dictatorship was confined pretty much to henpecked homes?" Mr. Hinkledam asks. "And that fancy word, totalitarianism—it's enough alone to make a feller auspicious of Hitler and Mussolini."

There's more than a figment of foundation to our old friend's plaint. Here's an excerpt from a press dispatch from Berlin, Germany, published in the newspapers last week:

"In these attacks the national socialist press has been abrogated its own proclaimed principle it invokes to protect Hitler — that heads of states are above attack. Now President Roosevelt is attacked as freely as other public or private men in America who voice antipathy to totalitarianism until it begins to appear as if the ideological struggle between totalitarianism and democracy will be fought between Germany and the United States. The Roosevelt administration is accused of 'sabotaging peace by stabbing Chamberlain's and Daladier's peace policies in the back.'"

How many average, everyday persons know what totalitarianism, ideological and sabotage mean, let alone knowing how to spell those words? As a matter of fact, how many persons know the true meaning the word democracy, which is being about as badly overworked these days as the Nazists' and Fascists' pet words?

The troubled situation in the world, the "ideological struggle between totalitarianism and democracy" is no more confusing to an ordinary human being, who hasn't delved in Socialistic philosophy, than the fancy, tongue-twisting, awe-inspiring words that are associated with it.

"I kind of think that maybe if they were to get back to old-fashioned ways of talking about things, they'd have a better chance of settling the peace problem," Hi Hinkledam suggests. "No wonder we're getting to be a race of jitter bugs with all those high-powered words running at large. They're a menace to the peace of nations."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

BEHOLD, THE DAYS come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah: not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day that I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt; which my covenant they brake, although I was an husband unto them, saith the Lord:

But this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel; After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be my people.

And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.—Jer. xxxi, 31-34.

EDITOR'S CONFESSION.

(Calgary Albertan)

A CORRESPONDENT wants to know if we could write a book. Not that he wants us to, so far as we can make out, but, because of a criticism which seems to have displeased him, he challenges our ability to do so.

Let us get right down to the answer.

Frankly—also emphatically—no.

We are able to say so without hesitation, because we've started lots of times, made some progress, even finished one a long time ago, and always reached the conclusion that such talents as we possess lay in other directions. If by a book he means a novel, the answer is in the negative.

A Bit of Nonsense

RIGHT THING

"I'm going out to buy a book."

"What on earth for?"

"I've had a reading lamp for a birthday present."

FIRST THINGS FIRST

An executor's duties start with applying for probate: they continue through advertising for and paying debts, getting in the assets, realizing them, paying Succession Duties, setting up trusts, making distribution to the beneficiaries, up to the final passing of accounts before the Courts. It is a lengthy process, replete with formalities, full of traps for the inexperienced. ¶ When you entrust your estate to a private executor you entrust it to one who, in a great majority of cases, will act in this capacity for the first time, and who will necessarily find it difficult, having his own business and family, to give your affairs his best attention. ¶ By appointing the Toronto General Trusts your executor, you will be employing a Corporation whose business it has been for fifty-six years to administer estates. Its knowledge, gained from wide experience with every type of estate and estate problem, will be concentrated on the efficient fulfilment of your Will. We invite your inquiries.

Looking Back
On This Date

On Nov. 9, 1906, Sir Charles Tupper definitely announced that he had retired from public life. As a matter of fact he had been out of politics since 1900 when he suffered his first and only defeat in federal elections in Cape Breton. He then withdrew from active politics in Canada, but was for the balance of his life a sort of Father of his Party in absentia, though, as a matter of fact, he had little to say. Robert Borden was the leader, despite inter-party conspiracies.

Sir Charles was the last survivor of the Fathers of Confederation. Many regard him as being the man who made confederation possible by his manipulation of Nova Scotia and its forced acceptance of union with Canada.

His record was really remarkable. Premier of Nova Scotia, 1867; president of council of Canada, 1870-73 minister of inland revenue, 1872-73; minister of customs, 1873; minister of public works, 1878-79; minister of railways, 1879-84; high commissioner, 1883-87; 1888-96; minister of finance, 1887-88; and prime minister, 1896. He lived until 1915, his 94th year, physically weaker but as keen-minded and as sincerely British as ever. In his latter days he was firm in his support of Sir Robert Borden's policy of aid to the empire.

Sir Charles' last visit to Canada from England, where he had been living since 1904, was a sad one. His beloved helpmate for nearly 66 years had been called to her rest and he brought her body to Nova Scotia for burial, thereafter going to Vancouver to visit his son, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper. But, sad to say, the Terminal City, which owed so much to Sir Charles as its creator (with VanHorne), gave him no civic welcome and the old man felt the lack of recognition very keenly. There was at that time a fued in the Conservative party in British Columbia between the Bowser and Hibbert Tupper factions, and Sir Charles was made the victim of the party split. However, that did not dim his fame. The rest of Canada remembered the country doctor at Amherst who became one of the historic figures of the British Empire.

AFRAID TO MARRY

By HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 43

RONALD MADE no explanation of his remark at the office window but Judy understood. There were everlasting hills, far to the south where the moon rose, clean and white and pure, night after night, and men fought, when they fought, with their fists in the open.

They did not use subtle underhanded methods.

They had feuds, yes. They knew how to beat you to the trigger. But you knew when war is on and you were armed.

Very gently Judy said: "Supper is ready, Ronald, and it smells so good!"

While they ate he talked some more of those places that he loved.

"I had a small boy's yearning to grow up and be a lawyer and hang my shingle in one of the county seats. When I was in school, after I ran away from home, I read law books at night in the office of an old man who seldom had any clients but had a fair library. His day was about done.

"I wanted to stay down there. I started out all right even after I finished at Princeton."

"You liked Princeton?" Judy asked. She had been there many times. She had watched the crew practice and had been a guest at many proms and games. Ronald had been there, too, and she must have heard his name mentioned, never dreaming how important that name was to be to her some day. It was during Ronald's last year or two that she had been an occasional guest. Most of her prom going had been confined to Harvard, however, because Craig was there.

She had not thought of him much these days. He was so definite a part of that world that she had left behind the day she moved away from her father's closed penthouse. She had saved no niche for Mary and him in this new life. Some day she would call Mary. She remembered that she had liked her.

Ronald was saying that he had enjoyed Princeton, chatting on as though it eased him to talk on some theme divorced from the present unhappy situation.

Not until the supper was cleared away and the dishes stacked in a basket ready to be returned to the restaurant, did Judy mention the loan. Ronald was beginning to empty the desk drawers.

She stopped him.

"Why not waite until tomorrow, Ronald? Maybe you won't be leaving."

"My resignation's in. I'll be leaving all right."

"But I have an idea." She sat down on the edge of the desk and put her chin on her hands, her elbows on her knees. As well as she could she told him about her small bank account.

When she finished, he looked at her a long time. Then he said:

"Judy, you make me want to cry."

"Why, Ronald?"

"You're so swell. I'll never forget. But I can't accept it, Judy dear."

She was hurt. It showed in her eyes. So Ronald said quickly:

"There are some favors a man can't accept from a woman, Judy. Especially the woman whom he—" He changed his sentence. "It isn't done. Don't think I don't appreciate it. I'm deeply grateful."

"But this is different, Ronald. The money's there, waiting. It might help so much."

He shook his head. "No, Judy. Nothing money can do will help. The police department will do all of that. If we can out-smart a crook, that's fine. If we can't—" He shook his head. "I'd like to know who hates me so much he would want me disbarred, perhaps imprisoned."

Judy put the bankbook away. She could not return it to her father. He would wonder at her change of heart. The money could stay in the bank, draw its 2 per cent, and some day, if his fortunes toppled above his head again, she would hand him the book.

But that time might never come If it did, she would not be caught in its meshes. She was making a good life of her own. Then she brought her thoughts back to Ronald, the easiest thing in the world to do. Since she had admitted proudly and silently that she loved him, day and night her world revolved about him.

Quietly they went on with the work—sorting, arranging, putting things in a big box, several smaller boxes.

They inhabited a world of their own. Tomorrow the tides of time and chance would break over them, but tonight there was no past, no future—no, that was not true. There was only the past, nothing but the future. This hour they separated the two. It would be blotted out in the stronger current of remembered days, and unlived days.

When the telephone in the outer office rang, they did not heed it at first.

Then Ronald said: "The switchboard operator closes the rest of the board at night and leaves only one key open. It's ringing so long maybe I had better see who it is."

Judy followed him down the hall. She was standing at his side when he picked up the telephone which connected with the open line.

She heard his sharp exclamation. "Abbey!"

He sat down in a nearby chair and his face was scowling.

"Where are you?" he said quickly.

He held the mouthpiece nearer as he said: "Abbey, speak slowly and tell me everything again. Slowly this time."

He didn't move as he listened. Once his eyes flickered and he looked at Judy, but she knew that he did not see her, that his mind was far away.

She wondered dully if it was Abbey, after all, who was helping him. Perphaps Abbey had taken her words literally and set out to be of service.

Ronald was speaking again.

"Abbey, don't say one word about this to anyone. Understand? Not to anyone! I've got to see you—"

Abbey must have said something, for Ronald answered:

"No, I'd rather not come out at this hour—it's nearly ten, isn't it, and it takes an hour for the trip. You can't get any kind of a train in, either."

Then a few seconds later he added: "Your car? Fine! I'll meet you—"

But Judy did not hear that. She had turned and gone back to the office. The magic was gone, the spell broken. The room was Ronald's office, being dismantled because he was going away. Forever. Abbey had called and he was meeting her. In some unaccountable way their paths were fastened together. Slowly Judy drew her hat over the tumbled curls and slipped her arms into her coat sleeves. When Ronald came from the telephone she was ready, waiting for him.

He looked at her approvingly. "Good girl! You recognize the need for haste. Thank the Lord you have sense! Some women haven't enough brains to—oh, forget it!"

If he was speaking about Abbey, Judy did not know. In some way she thought he was. That was wonderful! If only he would speak of Abbey always in that tone!

But he wouldn't. He would see her and forgive whatever she had done. In just an hour or so. No, less. If Abbey drove in, she would come flying.

Ronald had put on his coat and he was piling up the boxes to carry away.

"I'll take them home in a cab," he said, "before I meet Abbey."

It was then he remembered Judy did not know the purpose of the call. He crossed to her, put his hands on her shoulders and his steady eyes probed hers.

"Judy, I wish I could tell you why Abbey called. Maybe I can some day. Maybe I never can. Will you believe me when I say I would if I could?"

"Yes, Ronald."

Friendship Belief. Faith. These three Ronald asked from her. No more. She must be content.

In some way, though, she knew now that Abbey was concerned in the trouble.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Father and the two children—and, of course, Knarf and Hanid, too, for they were the shadows of the two children and always followed them wherever they went—had started out right after breakfast. They had taken the little trail through the woods. Then they started climbing up the hill, and soon the children said: "We're getting thirsty. Isn't there any place we can take a drink?"

"Take a drink! Oh! that's silly," Knarf said in a low shadow-voice to Hanid. "We aren't near a house, a brook or anything. They won't be able to take a drink till we all get home again."

But father said: "Why, certaintly! I know where there's a fine spring. Do you see that overhanging rock a little ways up the trail? The spring is there."

Hurry To Spring

So the children started hurrying. They were very, very thirsty. Knarf and Hanid followed right in their foosteps.

"What's a spring?' Knarf asked

"Look, Hanid!" he exclaimed

Hanid. "I always thought spring meant the nice weather that comes right after winter, when the flowers begin to grow and the birds begin to sing."

Hanid laughed. "That's a different kind of spring. That's one of the season. This is a spring of water. Look! We're coming to it now.'

Sure enough, they had just reached the overhanging rock. Father and the children stopped. So did the shadows.

Could Hear Trickle

"There! Do you see the water " father said, pointing to a spot just under the rock. It was dark, but they could hear the trickle of water.

The two children got down on their knees and crawled under the rock. The two shadows crawled after them until they got under the rock where it was dark. Then they stood up. When it is dark enough, shadows don't have to stay close to the children they belong to. They are allowed to go wherever they please. It is a shadow-rule. If you don't think so, just try to find your own shadow the next time you find yourself in a dark room.

Knarf reached the spring before the children did.

"Look, Hanid!" he exclaimed. "The water is coming right out of the rock!"

"Yes. Lots of springs come out of rocks." she replied.

And at that instant they were suprised to hear a strange little voice. It came right from the spring.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, November 10

EXCELLENT opportunities for growth, expansion and attained objectives are shown in this day's astral operations. It is a time for forging ahead for high goals, with every promise of the substantial cooperation of big business and powerful friends. Possibly there will be an undercurrent of politics, diplomacy or other secret alliances. Change may be necessary, with gain being realized from speculation or chance, as well as from very shrewd or crafty maipulation of peculiar situations.

If It Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which opportunity comes to the fulfillment of the heart's desire, and in a most constructive and lucrative way. Large interests are at stake, and a fling at speculation, chance, gambles or "hunches" may be factors in reaching desired goals. Influential friends may assist generously, but alertness, strategem, diplomacy and subtley have a contributory effect. Minor changes may be needed. Be careful with writings and documents.

A child born on this day may be efficient, shrewd and have strong executive and organizing ability, winning popularity with its fellows in both high and low places. Its progressive spirit and prestige may place it in a responsible position in life.

Urban Teachers Launch Venture Suggested At Last Convention

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 9.—The first meeting of the urban teachers of Peterborough County for the purpose of discussing problems in connection with the new course of study, was held at the Public School in Lakefield on Tuesday afternoon.

The venture, which was suggested and highly recommended by Inspector Leo Copp at the October convention in Peterborough, was being tried out for the first time in this locality, and the consensus of opinion was that it was most successful.

There were twenty-six teachers present, including representatives from Norwood and Havelock, and from Confederation and May's Schools, Peterborough. Principal Nelson of Norwood, Principal Duncan of Havelock, Principal W. Wedlock of May's School, Peterborough, and Principal (Mrs.) Jackson of Confederation School were among those in attendance.

Grouped By Grades.

On arriving, the guests assembled in Principal T. W. Chaplin's classroom, where they divided into groups according to grades. Each group then went to a different room, where the members were free to discuss the particular problems of their own grades. The discussions were entered into with enthusiasm, and many helpful points brought out. Each teacher had been asked to bring along one idea for a project, with the result that many were contributed during the afternoon.

Welcomed By Board.

At the conclusion of the discussion the groups assembled again in Principal Chaplin's room, where Chairman F. L. Erskine, representing the Lakefield Public School Board, gave a short address of welcome to the visitors.

Several of the teachers then spoke, stating their favorable impressions of the new venture. They all agreed that they had gained valuable assistance from the meeting.

Mrs. H. B. Jackson, principal of Confederation School, Peterborough, invited the teachers to hold their next meeting at Confederation School.

Refreshments were served by the Lakefield staff, and an enjoyable social hour brought the meeting to a conclusion.

Murphy Beaten

Frank Murphy, Michigan's new deal governor, was unseated in Tuesday's election by Frank Fitzgerald, Republican, who was governor in 1935 and 1936.

Returns from 2,696 out of 3,553 precincts gave Fitzgerald 611,229 votes, Murphy 524,369. Democrats expected missing precincts in Detroit, where murphy served as judge and mayor, would reduce Fitzgerald's margin but not enough to change the result.

"In view of the large and surprising upstate vote, we must concede defeat," Harry Mead, Murphy's campaign manager.

It was the first defeat for Murphy in political life. He resigned as governor general of the Philippines to campaign successfully for governor of Michigan in 1936.

Murphy's conciliatory labor policies during the automobile sitdown strike of 1937 were criticized constantly by Fitzgerald during the campaign. Fitzgerald advocated repudiation of what he called "the new deal in Michigan."

Commerce, and Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, will speak on behalf of R. K. Serviss, Galt's mayor and Liberal candidate in the by-election.

Dr. Manion upheld the capitalist system as one which gives the individual "the opportunity to prosper and to win reward for hard work" but recognized its greatest weakness as unemployment. Just as capitalism had reduced hours and increased wages, it could also progress to remedy other ills.

He pledged his every effort to solution of the unemployment problem, recognizing that resulting discontent leads to radicalism. Consideration of human values had to be placed first, he urged, even though there was an ever-decreasing minority which refused to recognize the need for reform to give the worker security.

"I believe I have the vision to know we must do these things," he said. "The few who will not see it will be the ones who will be proven wrong." At the same time he urged that no group of theorists be allowed to upset Canada, a nation in its beginnings.

To protect Canadian industry and workers against imports from Japan and other low-standard countries, he recommended tariffs. The farmer, too, needed protection to establish his home market. He said he hoped the new Canada-United States trade treaty would not interfere with Canadian preferences in the United Kingdom. The present treaty was creating a large adverse balance of trade for Canada.

Gas Operation Held Up

BARRIE, Ont., Nov. 9—(CP). — Brandishing revolvers, two bandits to-day held up and robbed George Sturman, 22, operator of the Shell service station at Elizabeth and Bradford streets.

"Let's have the change," one of the robbers shouted.

Sturman let them have the money on his person amounting to about $15, and passed over the changer which contained about $10 in silver and coppers.

Of Scottish parentage he was possessed of all the finer qualities of the race. A member of the Presbyterian church and a generous supporter at all times he formed an invaluable alliance with his wife, whose active interest in its societies will long be remembered.

The funeral service was conducted from the residence, Booth street, by the Rev. B Simpson Black, who was assisted by members of the Masonic Order Golden Rule Lodge No. 126, of which he was secretary for a number of years. There survives only one sister, Mrs. C. Cotton of Shelby, Montana. Following the funeral service interment was made in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The pallbearers were George Free, E. C. Roberts, Harold Dunk, G. S. Langdon, A. A. Martin, A. K. Loucks and J. J. Lewis Hay. Flower bearers were Messrs. E. Darling, P. Archer, A. J. Armour, L. Shillinglaw, E. H. Greig and C. W. Palliser.

Among the relatives attending the funeral were Mrs. C. McMorris and Miss Bernice McMorris of Regina, Sask.; Mrs. A. W. Mayberry, Guelph, Mr. Russell Powell, Elmira, Mr. and Mrs. Ben. Elkerton, Elora.

School inspectors and teachers seen at the funeral included Dr. J. B. McDougal, Toronto, Dr. C. E. Strothers, Picton, John O'Dell, Cobourg and others from Cramahe, Brighton, Colborne and all parts of the inspectorate.

efforts of the President to "purge" Southern Democratic Senators he considered "objectionably conservative" posed a factor to be considered.

Three senators who would not be purged — Tydings of Maryland, "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina and George of Georgia—all won re-eelction.

One politician who would not stay purged was finally defeated, John O'Connor, Democratic leader of the powerful house rules committee, ran as a republican in New York city when the Democrats disowned him and lost to James Fay, a "thorough new dealer."

Two of the country's best known third party figures went overboard. Governor Philip La Follette of Wisconsin, champion of progressivism who sought to launch his creed on a national basis, was defeated and so was "the farmer-labor governor of Minnesota, Elmer Benson. Both were toppled by republicans in fights against candidates of both major parties.

La Follette's overthrow was surprising and significant. Son of "Fighting Bob" La Follette who long ruled the western state, young Phil was considered a likely third party candidate in the 1940 presidential race. The La Follette dynasty had held Wisconsin for half a century and Philip was governor for three terms.

Prominent Senators Beaten

The Republican sweep that sent many prominent Democratic senators into the discard caught McGill of Kansas, co-author of the crop control act, Bulkley of Ohio, regarded as presidential timber, Duffy of Wisconsin, who had Roosevelt backing, and Brown of New Hampshire.

Republican gains also erased many well known names from the house of representative rolls. Among those who went in with the Roosevelt floodtide and out in the ebb were Brooks Fletcher of Ohio, Haines of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Nan Honeyman of Oregon.

While Dewey's loss to Governor Lehman in New York was a severe blow to the "Grand Old Party," Republicans scored victories that enhanced the stature of potentional presidental nominees two years hence.

Prominent among these dark horses were Robert Taft, son of the late President and Chief Justice, William Howard Taft, who was named Senator in Ohio; Leverett Saltonstall, socially prominent campaigner who submerged Democratic James Curley in the race for the Massachusetts' Governorship; Bruce Barton, New York advertising man, re-elected to the House of Representatives, and former Governor Frank Fitzgerald, who accomplished the defeat of Governor Frank Murphy, New Deal favorite, in Michigan.

Besides Massachusetts, the Democrats lost two other New England Governorships. In Connecticut, a surprising Socialist vote helped defeat scholarly Governor Wilbur Cross, who will be succeeded by Raymond Baldwin, former Republican leader of the State House. Wealthy William Vanderbilt, descendant of the famous Commodore, unseated Democratic Robert Quinn in Rhode Island.

Democratic successes included the re-election of Senator Robert Wagner, author of much New Deal social and Labor legislation, and his running mate in New York, Representative James Mead who won the seat of the late Democratic Senator Royal Copeland.

Six Governors in South.

In the True Blue South the Democrates elected six Governors and eight Senators, among them Alben Barkley of Kentucky, Senate majority leader. Two other Congressional leaders, House Speaker Bankhead of Alabama, father of Actress Tallulah Bankhead, and Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas, were returned.

Most Democratic candidates in the Rocky Mountain states were successful, but further West the rule did not hold true uniformly. In Oregon, Charles Sprague (Rep.), was elected Governor over Henry Hess, who had won the Democratic primary with New Deal support.

The indicated defeat of the $30-Every-Thursday plan in California stopped the list of state votes on referenda. In Colorado, however, the voters decided to retain their $45-a-month Old Age Pension plan, most liberal in the country.

To the day's excitement Kentucky made its usual contribution—a series of gun fights in which eight persons were killed—four of them in "Bloody Harlan" County. The National Guard was summoned and vote-counting halted there. It was the state's bloodiest election since 1933, when 18 persons were slain.

Marriage Trade Ended

BALTIMORE. — Baltimore voters apparently ended Elkton's lucrative marriage trade today, supporting by 60,795 to 15,891 a law requiring a 48-hour lapse in Maryland between license and wedding. The measure was directed at the 'marrying ministers' of the famous Gretna Green where more than 2,000 couples are married monthly.

Weekend Jaunts In 5 Year.

NEW YORK. — Weekend jaunts from New York to Paris, London, Berlin, or Moscow will be commonplace within five years, says Eddie Rickenbacker, Great War flier. He said craft flying 300 miles an hour at altitudes of 20,000 to 30,000 feet would make such excursions possible.

Canadian Minister Of Labor Is Scheduled To Give Remembrance Day Address Here

All arrangements have been completed for the solemn observance of Remembrance Day here on Friday. Fire Chief George Gimblett, President of the Canadian Legion announced today.

At ten o'clock Friday morning a parade will form in front of the Canadian Legion Hall and the exservicemen from the C.G.E. Company will swing up Aylmer street and join the ranks in divisions. Robert Gracie, Standard Bearer, will lead and the Prince of Wales Rangers Band will be next in the line of march. Following the band will be high officials of the Government, City and officers of the militia, and legion. Wreath bearers are next then the members of the Fire Department in uniform. The exservicemen will form ranks according to divisions and the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and fraternal organizations will bring up the rear.

Route Of Parade

They will proceed west on Murray to Aylmer, north on Aylmer to McDonnel, east on McDonnel to George, south on George to the War Memorial, and following the service there, the parade will reform and march to the Capitol theatre to hear an address by the Hon. Norman Rogers, Federal Minister of Labor.

A new plan will be followed at the War Memorial this year in so much as no person will be placed behind, that is to the west of the Memorial. On the south will be the 1st and 2nd divisions and Boy Scouts and on north 3rd and 4th divisions and Girl Guides with the band will be placed. Directly in front of the Memorial and to the east of it will be Hon. Norman Rogers, J. J. Duffus, M.P., members of the City Council, officers of the Legion, members of the Women's Auxiliary and directly behind this group will be the wreath bearers.

The general public will form a block between the Memorial and the street in the centre.

Program At Memorial

After a hymn by the band, President Gimblett will introduce Capt. the Rev. George S. Easton, and Capt. the Rev. Dr. Kelly, both padres of the Legion who will speak briefly. Another hymn will be played while the wreaths are being placed, then Last Post and Reveille and the parade will reform.

At the theatre, President Gimblett will speak briefly, then Mayor James Hamilton and the speaker of the day, Hon. Norman Rogers will be introduced by Mr. Duffus. A civic luncheon will be tendered the Minister of Labor at the Empress Hotel starting at 12.15.

No cars will be allowed on George street between Murray and McDonnel while the service is going on in the morning, and Murray street between George and Aylmer will also be kept clear.

Three Banquets

An elaborate program of entertainment has been arranged for the Ex-servicemen's dinner to be held on Friday night in the Legion Hall at 6.30 sharp. All returned men are welcome and tickets are 35 cents each. There will be music and songs by the Dixie Minstrels, and Ross Hood will show some motion pictures. Major Gregg, V.C. of Ottawa will speak and his talk must start at 7.15 as he is also slated as the chief speaker at the banquet being held the same night in the Armouries by the Ex-officers Associations in the Officers' Mess. Sergeants of the Prince of Wales Rangers will hold a banquet in the Sergeant's Mess in the Armouries.

Bacchus' Devotees Return To Raid For Second Spree

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Hastings, Nov. 9.

YOUNG MEN with a liking for wine are alleged to have stolen nine bottles from the residence of an elderly lady, south of the river, here, Saturday night.

Apparently having disposed of that in a day, they again visited the residence late Sunday night and entered the cellar. The lady heard them and they seemed to have heard her because when she got to the bottom of the stairs one of the culprits was watching her through a window. The others were out in her yard hidden behind trees.

She finally succeeded in scaring them off and claims to have seen four young men run. The lady lives alone. A second Sunday evening report was that men had tried to enter the residence of another lady whose husband was away. They were unsuccessful.

Reckless Driver Is Fined $25.00

J. W. Neelands of Toronto pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley in traffic court this morning to a charge of reckless driving on Charlotte street and was fined $25 and $2.50 costs.

T. J. Carley, K.C., who appeared for the accused told the court that his client had passed the traffic lights at Charlotte and Park streets, "not a very difficult thing for a stranger to do" and that as he was driving along Charlotte street looking for a hotel might have got over slightly on the wrong side of the street.

Crown Attorney McElderry said there had been some evidences of drinking in the case but not enough to justify a drunken driving charge being pressed. "There was recklessness," he said "and I do not consider this a case for the minimum penalty."

Magistrate Langley suggested that the accused's driving license might be suspended for a time but Mr. Carley demurred, stating that his client needed his car in his business.

"It might be better to increase the fine than to deprive this man of his means of livelihood," suggested the Crown Attorney.

Magistrate Langley set the fine at $25 and costs.

A second charge against Neelands of drunken driving was dismissed when the crown offered no evidence.

NEURITIS

Is an inflammation of the nerves. It frequently results from irritation due to construction of nerves along the spine, which may have been produced by overstrain or chilling of the tissues.

These conditions respond nicely to spinal manipulation, so if you are suffering with neuritis do not hesitate to investigate our treatments.

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE BAD BREATH

Millions Suffer Without Knowing!

You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—but others can! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.

Ordinary brushing can't get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." but just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.

Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities, Good Housekeeping and tens of thousands of delighted users. Long-lasting can costs only 40¢ at any drug store.

Big Black Bear Bowls Two Hunters Over When They Intrude Into His Lair

Johnny Ferraro, 220 pound Montreal rugby player is a cream-puff at hitting the line when compared to the 250 pound black bear which is hanging up at Ashmore's service station on George street south, and three well known hunters will vouch for this statement.

The three, Fred Pepe, Harold Legros and Jack Ashmore went hunting Monday with Jack Hartwick in the bush country north of Havelock. As the early morning mists were slowly clearing away, the hunters with Hartwick as rear guard were poking along through the woods intent on bagging at least three deer before noon. Suddenly Pepe spied a large opening beneath an upturned tree stump, and he whispered to Legros, the next in line who was carrying a flashlight." Flash some light down that hole, I think we've struck a gold mine."

Silently and a little fearfully the three peered down into the gloomy hole, when suddenly there was a blackout and a shaggy black projectile came hurtling from the depths straight at the trio of astonished hunters. Pepe yelled "Gangway" but he was too late, the animal angry at having its early morning nap disturbed, hit the line low and hard with all the power of a 200 pound rugby player, and the three hunters were tossed by the wayside. With head down and shoulders out-thrust the animal continued his charge while the three bewildered hunters picked themselves up from the bushes. Hartwick who was coming along the path heard the commotion and then saw the lumbering bear. He stepped aside and his gun went into action with disastrous results for Mr. Bruin.

For a while there was a chance that no person would ever know who fired the fatal shot, because it is reported the frightened hunters discharged their guns as they sought cover, but now it is fairly well established that Hartwick downed the bear, and he was not killed by the accidental discharge of a rifle.

Breeches Bible Published In 1606 Is Owned By Mrs. Roy H. Parsons

A few days ago The Examiner had a story in regard to a copy of the "Breeches" Bible, owned by C. Ernest Tatham, minister at Gospel Hall in Lakefield, and published in 1599.

Now another "Breeches" Bible has turned up, an edition which, as the frontispiece shows, was "imprinted at London by Robert Barker, printer to the King's Most Excellent Majestie" in 1606, and like the earlier edition using the word "breeches" where later versions the word employed is "aprons."

This Bible, in most excellent state of preservation, has been in the family of Mrs. Roy H. Parsons, wife of Peterborough's city engineer, for a very long period, how long Mrs. Parsons does not know.

Prayer Book of 1679.

It is not the only interesting and ancient religious work owned by Mr. and Mrs. Parsons. Another is a book of Common Prayer published in London in the year 1679 by John Bill, Thomas Newcomb and Henry Hills, and that book has been in the hands of members of Mrs. Parsons' family from the year after it was published. In 1680 it was presented to one of Mrs. Parsons' ancestors, Robert Bell, living at Thirsk, England, the donor being Charles Capelle, an intimate friend of Bell's, and a member of the English Foreign Office. In 1740 the prayer book was handed on to Edward Bell, and in 1785 it became the property of Ralph Bell. When he died it was given to William Bell in 1815, and in 1874 had passed into the hands of Dr. William Ralph Bell. During all those years the Bell family had continued to live at Thirsk but finally the prayer book found its way out to Canada and was owned by Mrs. Parsons' brother, William D. M. Bell of Ottawa, and eventually came into Mrs. Parsons' hands.

No Change in Order of Services.

The order of morning and evening service in this most interesting little volume is practically word for word with that now used, but there are some interesting differences in the special prayers published at the back of the book. One is a prayer for King Charles "the Martyr," and another is a "Form of prayer with thanksgiving" to be used yearly upon the Fifth day of November for the happy deliverance of the King and the Three Estates of the Realm from the most traiterous and bloudy intended massacre by gunpowder."

Another religious publication with an unusual history is owned by Mrs. Parsons. It is a "finger" prayer book, a vest pocket edition that gains its interest not because it is old but because of the circumstances under which it was found. It came into the possession of Mrs. Parsons through a friend who served in South Africa with Lord Strathcona's Horse, and who found the little volume on the body of a renegade Englishman shot down while fighting for the Boers. There is a Dover address at the front of the book and also is written "Zanzibar, East Coast Africa, 30th June, 1891," and at the back appear these words: "Transvaal, December, 1891, my beloved brother, my only brother Charlie, died on the 1st September. He was only 27 years of age. He died quite suddenly and painlessly, thank God."

Hold Wedding Dance

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Nov. 9. — The second dance in a series sponsored by the L.O.L. No. 64, was held in the C.O.F. Hall on Friday evening, and was a most enjoyable event. Excellent music was provided by Galloway's Orchestra of Bethany, and a cafeteria luch was served. During the evening the draw for the turkey was made, and S. Oland of Millbrook held the lucky ticket.

Grant Adjournment In Restivo Case

In traffic court before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning a charge of reckless driving against Emmanuel Restivo of Fenelon Falls was adjourned for a week at the request of Rev. J. Chandler, defense counsel.

This charge arose out of an accident last week at the intersection of Aylmer and McDonnel street in which an elderly woman, Mrs. Cooper of Toronto was slightly injured.

Paul J. Dawson of Smith township pleaded guilty to driving an automobile while his license was suspended and judgment was reserved until Monday.

Elmer Aldred, Apsley, entered a written plea of guilty to a charge of speeding on Charlotte street and contributed $5 and $2.50 costs. And Austin Sullivan, R.R. 1, Downeyville paid $3 and $2.50 costs for not stopping before entering a through street.

It cost Harold Bradburn $10 and costs for driving in North Monaghan without a license and Jack Sackville $5 and $2.50 costs for speeding on Lock street.

Parents' Night Is Slated For November 21

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 9. — St. John's Y.P.U. will hold a parents' night on November 21, according to a report of their meeting held on Monday evening. Dr. Bert Howard, of Albert College, Belleville, will be the guest speaker and special invitations are being extended the parents of all members of the organization to attend.

It is thought that a musical program will also be arranged for that evening. During the business portion of the meeting members discussed the possibility of a joint meeting with the young people from Norham. Although no definite arrangements were made, it was deemed likely the affair would take place early in December.

The program, which was in charge of Miss Mae Stotts, opened with current events by Miss Dorothy Henson. Miss Ruth Palliser contributed a humorous reading, "Jackknives From Heaven," following which Mrs. J. D. Mills offered a portion of Henry VanDyke's "The Mansion." Misses Clara and Marian Lucy gave a vocal duet, "I Love a Little Churchyard." Members were then divided into a number of groups and contests held. The opening devotional period, also in charge of Miss Stotts, was begun with a scripture reading by Miss Helen Nicholson. Mrs. Harold B. Neal gave a talk, entitled "The Friendship of Jesus," and Mr. Thomas Brooks lead the group in prayer.

St. Andrew's Y.P.S.

Members of St. Andrew's Young People's Society held a short business meeting on Monday. Arrangements for their crokinole party being held the following evening were completed. Following the hearing of reports from the various committees, the meeting was closed with the benediction.

A.Y.P.A.

The Anglican Young People's Association will send a delegation to attend the general meeting of the District Council being held at All Saints' Church in Peterborough on Nov. 14, it was decided on Monday. President Earl Wood presided at the meeting which was devoted largely to discussion of general business. Plans to hold a new type of entertainment in the near future were made and a committee, including Mrs. A. Tripp, Mrs' R. Ferrill and Donald Russell, were appointed to study the matter. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing peanut euchre and other games.

Guide Killed Hunting

DENBIGH, Ont., Nov. 9—(CP)—Police today investigated the death of Gus Barnett, Denbigh guide killed yesterday in a hunting accident near here.

Barnett, guiding a party of hunters from Napanee, left his companions for a time, saying he would return later. During the afternoon a rustle was heard in the bushes and one of the hunters fired. Barnett was found wounded. He died within three minutes. Denbigh is 100 miles north of Kingston.

Nine-Year-Old Boy Admits Placing Iron On Railway—Given Suspended Sentence

According to statements made in juvenile court Tuesday afternoon there might have been a terrible accident caused by the action of a small boy in placing a heavy piece of iron on the C.P.R. tracks a few miles east of Peterborough some weeks ago. It was the opinion of railway men that had the obstruction been put across the rails on a curve rather than on a straight piece of road the train which struck it soon after would have been de-railed.

The boy, a nine-year-old lad, and his elder brother, 12, were arraigned before Magistrate Langley Tuesday afternoon and the younger brother pleaded guilty to the charge of placing an obstruction on the track and was allowed to go on suspended sentence for one-year. The other boy pleaded not guilty and as no evidence was offered against him the charge was dismissed.

Magistrate Langley, addressing the boys and their parents pointed out the seriousness of the affair by reminding them that a horrible train wreck with the loss of many lives might have resulted.

Lie Helpless Day And Half After Eating Poison By Error

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 9. — A near tragedy at the week-end which almost cost the lives of Henry Carson and his son Herbert, who live alone in the farm homestead just over Allen's Hill, east of the village, was the result of using what they thought was flour for thickening gravy to be eaten with the chicken which had been roasted for Saturday's dinner.

In the summer, arsenate of lime had been purchased for the destruction of potato bugs, and put in an empty flour bag. Somehow this bag was taken into the pantry, and from it, by mistake, the supposed "flour" was used for the purpose mentioned.

The two men ate their dinner, and afterward fed the dog, putting some of the gravy on the latter's meal, also. The dog first became violently ill, and later the two men sickened likewise, and were so sick they could not summon help, lying jest where they had collapsed for a day and a half, when they were able at last to secure aid. There is no telephone in the house, which probably delayed the appeal for help. A normal state of health has not yet been reached, but recovery is assured.

Santa Claus Parade Is Set December 2

Santa Claus will pay a pre-Christmas visit to Peterborough on Friday evening, December 2. This announcement, coming from official sources, was made to the executive of the Peterborough Business Men's Association on Tuesday evening and a committee, to be convened by Vern Selkirk, was immediately appointed to take care of the details of a suitable welcome for the distinguished visitor. This committee will make its suggestions to a general meeting of the association which will be held in the Chamber of Commerce at 7.45 p.m. Tuesday evening, November 15.

The executive was particularly gratified with the reception of their Midnite Frolic last week. The proceeds of this endeavour enables them to plan with confidence a Santa Claus Parade which is expected to excell the splendid one of last year. Resolutions moving a special vote of thanks to all nonmembers and manufacturers who co-operated so enthusiastically were carried unanimously.

Before closing, the business men were reminded that stores would remain closed until 1 p.m. on Armistice Day, November 11. Instructions were given for the purchase of a wreath from the Veterans to be placed on the War Memorial by President J. W. Watson on behalf of the association.

True Bill Returned

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Nov. 9. — (CP).—A true bill for murder was returned to-day against Lafayette "Harry" Dales by the grand jury at the Grey County Fall Assizes. He is charged with the shotgun slaying of William Waterton on May 17, 1938. As the jury returned the bill to Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, the prisoner was brought in.

A short, thick-set man, wearing glasses and dressed in blue jail garb, overall jacket and trousers, Dales pleaded "not guilty" and said he was ready for trial. Selection of a jury proceeded at once.

Dales is charged with killing Waterton in the latter's waterfront cabin.

OBITUARY

JOHN BROWN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Nov. 9. — The entire community was shocked at the sudden death of John Brown, which occurred Saturday.

Mr. Brown, who was seventy-five years of age, came from England at the age of eighteen and since that time has lived in Percy township. He was a highly respected, honorable citizen and a kind friend.

Besides his sorrowing wife he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Arthur Raycroft, of Warkworth, and two brothers, Charles of Lindsay and William of Coldsprings.

The funeral was held in St. Paul's United church Monday afternoon.

Coe Hill Man Is Given One Month

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Nov. 9. — Joseph Stevens, 59, of Coe Hill, appeared before Magistrate Lloyd of Northbrook in police court here Tuesday afternoon on a charge of attempted murder in an alleged attack with an axe on William McCormack, 23, of Coe Hill. The charge was reduced to assault, causing bodily harm, and Stevens was found guilty. He was sentenced to one month in the county jail at Belleville. It was reported that McCormack was passing through a road allowance that had been open for forty-five years on the Stevens' place. McCormack protected his head with his hand and suffered a wound that required five stitches to close.

Scotland Takes Lead

EDINBURGH, Nov. 9 (CP Cable). Scotland took the lead in tthe international soccer tournament today by defeating Wales 3-2 before a crowd of 40,000 spectators. In a thrilling contests the Scots were held to a 1-1 tie at halftime.

Obscure Writer Silenced World For Two Minutes

Few who will observe two minutes of silent prayer and tribute on Friday to the memory of those who gave their lives in the Great War, know where the idea originated.

It was a gift to the world of Edward George Honey, obscure Australian journalist who got the idea in London, one inspired day in 1919, then begged and argued the authorities into trying it. Then for the three remaining years of his life he watched the whole world stand still and knew in his quiet way that he had done it, that he was the only man ever to live who made the whole world stand still for two minutes.

Honey soon afterwards lost his job and contracted tuberculosis. He died penniless and unknown in London in 1922 and lies buried now, silent forever, underneath the bare mound that marks his grave in Northwood Middlesex, England, 12,000 miles from his home in Australia.

Committeee Named To Study Request

The council's application to the City Trust Commission for a grant from its funds to be used for general municipal purposes was considered by the Commission Monday afternoon, and three of the members were appointed a committee to discuss the proposal in detail with their solicitor, E. H. D. Hall. The committee is composed of Vincent Eastwood, E. A. Peck, K.C., and W. R. Morris. It is understood that if necessary other advice may be obtained as an aid to reaching a decision on the council's request.

At a recent conference with the council, Commissioners expressed a unanimous opinion that their policy of adhering to the special legislation by which the Commission was established had been fully and positively endorsed by the private bills committee of the Legislature, and that they had little latitude trustees of the monies to be used in meeting interest and sinking fund payments for the retirement of the city's debenture debt. However, the issue will be carefully considered by the committee, and a report will be submitted to the Commission.

Announcer Has Tough Job But Likes It

Clicking turnstiles — crowded stands and bleachers—upwards of a hundred thousand men and women each Saturday braving all kinds of weather, from sweltering heat to below-zero temperatures—all for the privilege of watching 24 helmeted and padded figures struggling for the possession of a wind-filled piece of pigskin. That's football. The game that has such a fascination for its devotees that they will watch it under conditions such as would kill all enthusiasm for any other sport. Modern hockey fans demand—and get—a roof over their heads, comfortable seats, steam heat. Even a touch of chill in the air will cause baseball attendances to drop sharply. But your dyed-in-the-wool football fans laugh at the weather. They're bound to see their favorite sport even if it half kills them.

But in addition to those who see the games in person, there are countless thousands—millions perhaps—who enjoy the spot at long distance. Unable to be at a game themselves, they sit by their radios and follow the fortunes of their favorite teams through the eyes of the football broadcasters — men trained to bring to their listeners a vivid picture of all that happens on the gridiron, following the play with such split-second accuracy that often the radio audience knows how a particular play has turned out before the fans who are present have been able to figure it out.

A Tough Job

"Sometimes it's a tough job—especially now that the season stretches well into December—but we get a big kick out of it." That, briefly, is the reaction of the average football broadcaster to their job. "Sometimes we are working from an exposed position, with so little protection from the icy blasts that it's a wonder the sound of our knees, rattling doesn't get into the 'mike.' But if it's a good game—one where either team has a chance right to the finish—we don't mind small things like a frost-bitten nose or frozen eartips."

Asked what he considered the most difficult part of football broadcasting, Harry "Red" Foster thought that it was keeping right up with the play, and still making the description accurate. "The boys over in the press box have time to check on a play before putting their stories on the wire, but on the air we have to 'shoot from the hip.' Once there was a broadcaster who had the bright idea of not describing any play until it had been completed. That is to say, he would wait till the ball was dead, and then give the play as if it was just starting. The only trouble with that was that the very sensitive microphones we use pick up not only the announcer's voice—but the crowd noises as well; and the people sitting by their radios would hear the folks cheering for some brilliant play, or going wild over a score—and then, when the broadcaster started to tell about it, they would know that he was away behind."

Have to Know Players

Muddy fields and poor visibility are two banes of the football broadcaster's life. Half a dozen plays on a muddy field will often make the numbers on the uniforms impossible to read—and as the season draws to a close darkness falls very early, so that it is often hard to tell just what is taking place on the far side of the field. Then it is that a broadcaster's intimate knowledge of players and their idiosyncracies is badly needed. "We watch as many practices and workouts as possible," said one microphone maestro, "and get to know that one man 'gallops' as he runs—or that another has a peculiar bulge in his shoulder padding—all sorts of little things like that, which enable us to spot a player even when his number is completely invisible. Take a player like Fritz 'Twinkle-toes" Hanson—the great western backfield ace—for instance. He has a style all his own—and you've only to see him take a couple of steps to recognize him even in a blinding snowstorm."

Crew of Experts Necessary

While only one, or possibly two voices may be heard by radio listeners on a broadcast, it takes quite a crew of experts, all working in close harmony, to put one over properly. A typical set-up would look something like this. The broadcasting booth is on the roof of the grandstand—a fine play to see, and also a fine play to catch the full benefit of wintry winds. At one end of the booth are two station engineers, with all the equipment necessary to control the broadcast. Next, a special microphone, behind which sits the guest commentator—sometimes a local sports writer, sometimes some well-known sports figure from the home town of the visiting team. Then the broadcaster's own microphone, on the upright of which rests a special rack to which are attached the line-ups of the opposing teams —each man's name and number being on a separate card. As substitutes go in, the names in the line-ups are immediately changed so that at all times, the broadcaster has in front of him an exact picture of every man of the 24 on the field—each in his proper position. On the other side of the broadcaster-in-chief sits the 'spotter,' who helps to check on substitutions, and gives his version of any play on which the announcer may be in doubt.

As a further check the broadcaster wears earphones which lead down to a special microphone at the penalty bench. An observer there gives his version of what is going on, paying special attention to the official reason for any penalties being given. Thus, the broadcaster, while telling his own story over the air, is at the same time listening to comments coming from below.

Several "Mikes" Used

On the opposite side of the field, near the bleachers, will be planted other microphones. These can be opened or closed as necessary, enabling listeners to hear the organized cheering and the playing of the rival bands. These are especially valuable in keeping up interest at such times as play is stopped because of injuries, or for any other reason. Then, underneath the bleachers, is still another microphone, used mostly at half time when some of the press-box writers come and comment on what has taken place during the first half. Time would not permit them to do this if they had to come all the way across the field and then climb up to the broadcasting booth. While the actual play of a game is only sixty minutes, the broadcast is generally on the air for close to three hours—and the whole broadcast crew must be constantly on the alert so that there will be no dull moments for those who take their football by "remote control."

Roughrider Star Is Injured

With one of their quarterbacks, Arnie Morrison, already out of the line-up with minor injuries, Ottawa Rough Riders, joint leaders with Toronto Argos of the Big Four, lost the services of their other ace signal-barker, Orville Burke, ABOVE, when he suffered a concussion in the "breather" game against Hamilton Tigers. Burke was hurt when tackled hard, but the extent of the injuries was not known immediately.

Sarnia Imps Awaiting Orfuns With Hearts Full Of Malice

(Sarnia Observer.)

Bill Irwin's Peterboro Orfuns, the club that blew the bottom out of the Canadian fotoball dope bucket on October 22 when they outfought Art Massucci's Imperials, 3-2, will pay their initial respects to Sarnians Friday afternoon.

When the bright orange horde from near the Rice Lake hunting grounds trot out on the field here Friday they should have the same soothing effect on Sarnia's footballers that a bright red bandana has on an Andalusian bull in a Spanish arena on a Sunday afternoon.

The memory of that October 22 kicking around on the rolling Liftlock City sward is still fresh in the minds of the Sarnia team. Friends, neighbors and countrymen of our Imperials have used that 3-2 count as a barb to prod them with ever since.

Petes Weakened.

Peterboro's big difficulty has been hurdling the last half. In all their games this year they have been travelling neck and neck with the opposition until the third quarter. After that defences have fallen away and lack of capable reserve material tripped them up.

The only time they managed to struggle through with an open throttle and the horns blowing at the end Sarnia had to be in town. And it has taken the locals the rest of the season to dig themselves out of the hole the Petes dumped them into that day.

What has happened once, Peterboro reasons, can happen again. Sarnia denies any possibility of it and if they can do it nothing would please the Imperials more than to hand the Petes a licking of even more generous proportions than the Big Four team tacked on them in the 1907 Canadian Union playdowns.

Such a thing is impossible against a gang that fight like Peterboro, but it makes the Sarnia players feel good to think about it.

Want Loucks Back.

Liftlock City officials are hoping for the return of Mike Loucks for the Friday game. If the husky home brew who kicked the field goal that beat Sarnia before is in uniform the stock of the Peters will go up fifty per cent. Loucks was injured in Toronto the week after he beat Sarnia.

Don Crowe, the quiet, soft-spoken backfielder of the Petes, is one of the most under-rated footballers in the senior division. How the experts pass him up is hard to understand. He outpunted Stirling soundly in Peterobro one of the drives doing a 70-yard hike. His catching was flawless and his runbacks tricky and effective.

Reports that the Petes are looking for new material cloud the fact that the team includes senior stalwarts like Bill Irwin, Leo Deadey, Herb Hendrie and Joe McNulty, all former Toronto players who provide the club with a background of experience, spirit and aggressiveness.

Yesterday was a holiday for the Imperials but the old grind begins again to-day. No one came out of Saturday's Balmy Beach clash here with anything that time would not heal. Dr. Ken Bell, club physician, holds out hopes that Bernie Moroz, senior football's hard luck guy, will be ready for action soon. He may not play against Peterboro Friday but there is a chance he will see action in the Montreal series.

Faced with a booter who can kick like Crowe did in Peterboro the punting angle will probably be stressed. Stirling's new booting boots will be shined regularly and the kick formation that has shown no weaknesses in two weeks will be further stream lined.

American Hunters Bag Six Deer, Go Back For More

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Hastings, Nov. 9.

A NEW IDEA for preserving deer, during mild weather of the hunt, was introduced by a party of United States hunters, in the Stoney Lake district about twenty-five miles north of here. The party of seventeen have been successful in bringing down six fine bucks to date.

Arrangements were made with a packing house in Peterborough to freeze the meat in order to keep it fresh. They have made two trips so far, and unless the weatner turns considerably cooler, one of the party said that all the meat would be taken to Peterborough as it was brought down.

Arrive In China

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—(CP)—Officials of the Foreign Mission Office of the United Church of Canada here received word today that a party of Canadian missionaries and their families had arrived safely in China.

The party included Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Morgan, Omemee, Ont.; Rev. F. U. Reid, Lindsay, Ont.; Dr. and Mrs. Irwin Hilliard, Morrisburg, Ont.; Mrs. E. W. Edmonds, Napanee, Ont., and Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Willford, Blyth, Ont.

Woman Was Murdered

YORKTON, Sask., Nov. 9—(CP).—A coroner's jury found yesterday that Mrs. Mary Wagera, 68-year-old widow whose body was found in a shallow grave in the Beaver Hills Forest reserve last July 17, was slain by person or persons unknown. She had been missing since Nov. 13, 1937. An autopsy showed death was caused by a fractured skull.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

LIKE the last rose of summer in an autumn setting, an O.B.A. bulletin stood out yesterday in a sport page packed with grid and puck news. It warned Ontario puckists to avoid playing hockey in the independent Florida loop or face baseball suspension—the various athletic bodies in Canada and the U.S. having an understanding. But the U.S. loop which includes Baltimore—where Calladine and Vitarelli play—is okay. The Ontario Baseball Association reinstated Bert Noakes of Belleville, who was suspended last summer for playing for House of David 'gainst the Petes. No extension of times will be granted clubs in '39 in declaring winners—but that doesn't help the Petes in '38, does it? O.B.A. will work with the new N.O.B.A. and also may do away intermediate "A", having a senior "B" instead, to playoff with senior "A" winners. The 1938 O.B.A. champs are: Senior—Stratford ;intermediate "A"—Galt; intermediate "B"—Aylmer; and "C"—Bothwell; junior "A"—Niagara Falls; junior "B"—Tilbury; juvenile—Chatham; bantam—Toronto; midget—St. Catharines.

IT IS SAID that Coach Alex Ponton of Balmy Beach stated he would retire as coach and give someone else a chance if his team lost in Sarnia Saturday, as he felt it was the best club he had ever coached. Well, the Bam-Bam-Balmies lost quite decisively, their eight successive reverse in the Tunnel Town, and no doubt Ponton is ready to retire. Whether the club will let him go or not remains to be seen. After all, he is rated a pretty fair mentor and no coach can do much master-minding against 80-yard punts by the Bummer. And where will Beaches get a guy to work for less money than Alex?

Most Exalted High Kicker!

FIGURES FROM SARNIA show that huge Hugh (Bummer) Stirling, in that memorable melee which practically ousted the cocky Torontos from the senior O.R.F.U. race—unless our Orfuns can take Sarnia on Friday, as the Nats are losing—punted 21 times. Barring one blocked kick, he bumped the ball 1,339 yards, his 20 drives averaging a shade less than 67 yards. Yeah, 67 yards per kick! That is amazing kicking anywhere on this continent. As the Sarnia scribe puts it: "That is punting you will not likely be privileged to witness until some glad future day when they instal auxiliary engines inside the pigskin to speed the ball along the silent stratosphere." Right.

• • • • • • •

ORFUNS will leave here tomorrow aft at 4.55 via C.P.R. for Sarnia. They eat supper in Toronto and then board a sleeper for the Imps' own region. Tentative plans call for the locals to play at 2.30 Friday afternoon—it's an Armistice Day holiday there—and then pull out that eve at 6.25. They'll it Toronto in time to get the midnight home. All the Orfuns will make the trip, their last one of the season, but it is doubtful if all will play, a couple still being on the injury list. While it appears as if the Imperials have changed to winter oil now and are really rolling, the scrappy Orfuns—who outgamed 'em here for Sarnia's lone loss this year—might fish another miracle out of the duffle bag just by way of making it a real honest-to-gosh Remembrance Day for the Massuccimen!

• • • • • • •

Leo Is a Game Guy, Huh?

WITHIN THREE WEEKS, Leo Deadey will be teaming up in a Matrimonial play and we wish the classy outside wing of the Orfuns best o' luck. He played ball for the Petes this summer, but found it tough to hit C.O.B.L. pitching in his first year in this district. However, he really clicked in senior football—having played formerly for Argos—and has been a mighty important cog with the locals all autumn. He is a noted jockey and fine tackler. His smart play paved the way for Loucks' field goal to beat Sarnia and he bumped Ferraro loose from the ball last Saturday when the Orfuns dribbled a disputed touchdown. The light but battling Leo is a grand grid performer.

• • • • • • •

JUST TO CHECK the actual length of time the ball is in motion during a football fray, Bill Walshe of Kingston says the Western-Queen's game recently was timed. And 'twas found the oval was in play but 13 minutes and 20 seconds, though the game lasted 100 minutes. There were 145 plays from scrimmage by both teams, meaning the ball was snapped that often, and the plays lasted an average of five seconds, forward passes taking up most of the time. A kick, catch and runback takes about 15 seconds. And yet football provides a lot of action during a tussle. Even a game of practically continuous action, like hockey, sees a flock of stoppages for goals scored, penalties, faceoffs, etc. But a bird afflicted with one-way pockets might well feel gypped in plunking out a buck or so to see less than 14 minutes of play!

P.C.I.-ers Gotta Be Hot

RETURN JOUST of the Lakeshore senior C.O.S.S.A. playoff series between Bowmanville High and the P.C.I.-ers will be at 2.30 Saturday afternoon in the Exhibition Grounds. Bowmanville took the first of the two-game serial by a 24-5 score and, as points count on the round, the locals must take up that 19 points here this week-end. P.C.I. players claim they were off form, Bowmanvile were lucky, and that the field made a difference of 12 or 15 points to their play. They feel they can defeat the Rubbertown huskies handily here, but it'll take some tall hustling to overcome that lead. Simply means, the Garnet and Gray gridders must take to the air and flip forwards all over the southend of town in a desperate gamble to wipe out that previous deficit. It ought to be a real interesting contest.

PUCK PLAYERS AND OFFICERS hold a joint meeting tomorrow (Thursday) p.m. at 7.30 in Duffus' and all prospective hockey players with the senior "B" and junior "B" teams are invited. Especially the previous O.H.A.-ers, as it is in the nature of a business meeting with a change in the executive—one officer being transferred out of town—and possible selection of a senior coach. Several matters of interest to come up at this time as the ossifers clear the deck for wintry action. With Calladine, Vitarelli, Barnes and possibly a couple of others absent this season, after playing for the Petes last winter, the club requires a lot of rebuilding—though this is well under control, we believe. Stew Williamson, now in Lindsay, may line up with Omemee next cold spell.

Horse Sends Auto To Cleaners After Foxboro Highway Crash

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Ont., Nov. 9.—Usually it is "Dobbin" that comes out second best when he fails to get out of the way of a speeding auto, but there are times as was the case at Foxboro last evening, when the horse has the big laugh and the auto goes to the cleaners.

When the headlights failed to show up a mixed drove of cows and horses as they were being driven up from the pasture field at about six o'clock, an auto driven by Mr. Leland Gough, of Foxboro, collided into a pair of horses owned by Mr. John Longwell of the fifth concession of Sidney township, with dire results to the car.

After narrowly missing a number of cows the Gough auto careened sideways and broadsided two horses, knocking them down before it eventually came to rest in the ditch. Aside from a few minor cuts and general stiffness of their limbs, Mr. Longwell's horses had but little effect, of the night's experience, but Mr. Gough gazes ruefully at the sad condition of his new car.

Ontario Provincial Police Constable McBrien investigated the accident and stated that although Mr. Gough was apparently travelling too fast considering visibility, Mr. Longwell had neglected to carry a lantern.

A second accident occurred in Sidney at an intersection one mile south of Wallbridge, on the fourth concession when a car driven by Mr. Frank Phillips and another driven by Mr. Harold Kingston, both of Sidney, collided, almost completely wrecking one car. Aside from a general shaking up occupants of neither car were badly hurt.

"Always a Bridesmaid—"

The 1938-39 hockey season is No. 3 in the National League for Syl Apps, ABOVE, centre ice star with Toronto Maple Leafs, and the only way he can improve on his previous scoring records is by leading the league! In his first season he garnered 45 points to finish second to New York Americans' Sweeney Schriner in the race for scoring honors. Then last year he moved up to 50 points, only to finish second again, this time to teammate Gordon Drillon. Syl is no individualist and won't be out for goals of his own, but should he end up on top of the heap no one could say he didn't deserve to.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

The hardest hitting in last night's 5-pin bowling was chalked up by the eight-team Merchants' league. W. Burford headed the evening's 700 hitters with 731 (319); B. McMahon and J. Russell tumbled off 725 each; McMahon's count included a 300 single; Jack Trowbridge had 710 and Harold Freeman 708; W. Wright 675 (305); "Shock" Mein 631 (301); M. Hartley 625; D. Coughlin 617; L. Reid 604; B. Williams 604 and J. Anthony 603. For the Merchants' ladies, Miss A. DeCarlo tipped off 494 (234) and Miss Constable 445.

Tough going dogged the big 16-team C.G.E. league. Only six of them succeeded in beating 600. Melhern crashed down 727; Cooper 646; Wade 636; Connors 635; McIntosh 628 and Stinson 603.

In the ten teams of the Mercantile mixed group, Miss Wyllie had 601 (276); Mrs. Muirhead 520 (225); Miss B. O'Toole 514 and Mrs. R. Penrose 500. For the men, Roy Penrose counted 649; J. Lynch 644; L. Raper 637; W. Clark 618; W. Callen 618 and B. Muirhead 610.

Play Badminton Then Drink Tea

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 9. — The monthly social evening, following the regular scheduled games, took place at the Garrison Badminton club on Monday about 11.30 p.m., the hostesses for the occasion being Mrs. H. D. Bigelow and Miss Vanita Ingram.

Supper was served in the attractive lounge upstairs, the table being lovely with lace cloth, centred with a cut glass bowl of bitter sweet, and with orange candles burning in cut glas holders at the four corners of the reflector.

Assisting with the service of the many guests were Misses Muriel Ball and Betty Montgomery, and with Messrs. Keith Chiles, Henry Raper and Robert Cathcart completing the committee responsible for the pleasant occasion.

Given Wrong Medicine

ORANGEBURG, N.Y., Nov. 9—(CP).—Two Rockland state hospital patients were dead today and three others critically ill as the result of accidental administration Monday of wrong medicine by a nurse of 20 years experience. Dr. Hall Kline, Rockland county coroner, said the nurse gave doses of salvarsan to five patients in error for neolsalvarsan.

Cricket Notes

It will be remembered that after the successful tour of the M.C.C. team in Canada last year, the authorities at headquarters evidently thought that the standard now reached in Canadian cricket justified an official invitation for a Canadian team to visit England in 1939 or 1941.

Our correspondent has received direct information from the secretary of the Dominion Cricket Advisory Board that, after a great deal of correspondence it was only at the end of last week finally decided that it would be impossible for Canada to send a representative team to the Old Country in 1939. It will, however, be of great interest to cricketers to know that there is a strong possibility of Australia sending a team to Canada next summer.

The tickets for the local club's Christmas contest are going over strong and the first winter social is scheduled for the coming Saturday.

"Curly" Krug One Gridder Needing Play

Many athletes have their ups and downs, going brilliantly for a period and then hitting a slump. Most sports permit an athlete to slump temporarily and still remain in the game, but not the gridiron sport. There are too many substitutes in football, and the season is too short to permit a player—who is not going right—to see much action. As Red Taylor, Woodstock sports columnist, says on the subject:

Consider the strange case of "Curly" Krug and ponder on another of those athletes who has to get plenty of work. Krug hasn't had a good football season since he left Queen's. Last year his efforts with Argos were limited to brief appearances and for the most part he was used at the wrong position.. Krug's play consequently, was unusually poor, and he wound up the season by quitting the team.

No Soft Spot.

When the former Woodstock star was moved to Peterborough this season it was anticipated that he would get a better chance with a new team, but it seems that "Curly" had to break in and take a job away from real stars like Loucks and Crowe, and the result was that he again warmed the bench and played very ordinarily in brief appearances. Against Sarnia he played for three minutes, for instance.

Then came an injury that has removed Loucks from the lineup, and on Saturday Krug got his first starting chance against Montreal Nationals.

He responded by turning in an old-time effort. He ran, plunged, passed and tackled in a manner that stamped him as the best man on the field. Peterborough Examiner says of the performance:

"(Curly) Krug sparked the Orfuns' attack with a grand all-round performance. His knifing drives at the line, hard tackling and shifty running was a big feature of the game."

When he can take the plaudits away from Ferraro, Atcheson, Mullins and all the rest of them, Krug must be far from washed up. After all, why should he be? He's only about 25 years of age, and should have three or four years of first flight football left at least.

Boston Fans Are Sure To Ask For Eddie Shore

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Nov. 9 (CP)—Only three playing nights old, the National Hockey League campaign already has produced enough agruments, injuries and surprises for half an ordinary winter.

New York Rangers, who are expected to be among the liveliest things around, haven't started their schedule yet, but the other six clubs have knocked the cork from a sparkling schedule that bids fair to have the watchers giddy before the hangover of the last one wears off.

Even before opening night last Thursday, Eddie Shore threw a young bombshell into Boston Bruins' camp by announcing a strike for more money. Since then, there has arisen again the debate about how valuable one man can be to a club.

Young Johnny Crawford has answered that partly by stepping into Shore's shoes on the defence and doing a whale of a job while Bruins have won their first two starts. But you can't forget old Eddie's color—that charge from the blue line, with head down and shoulders hunched, or that teeth-rattling bodycheck. Boston fans eat those things up and Manager Art Ross knows it.

Shore's holdout, though, was supplanted in prominence by the swift rise of Chicago Black Hawks and the beating taken by the fortunes of Toronto Maple Leafs. Hawks snatched victory in their first three games and Toronto skidded to the league bottom on two defeats that brought injuries to two star right wingmen.

Hawks Strong Team

There isn't any question about the strength of the Hawks, who had everyone calling them fortunate when they won the Stanley Cup over Toronto last spring. This time they have capable reserves, new spirit and confidence—all lacking during most of the 1937-38 schedule. From the doubtful class, they have become a force to be feared.

The hard times which have hit Leafs find them a little shaky. Buzz Boll went out with a charley-horse in the first game and Gordon Drillon, the league's leading scorer last season, suffered a broken thumb in the second. Now Manager Conny Smythe has ordered special thumb-guards, stretching well up over the last joint, and the Leafs are crossing the rest of their fingers.

It's too early yet to pass judgment upon Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings, who have played only one game each and lost that. No one has ever doubted that the Canadiens will be powerful when they get going as a unit. Charlie Conacher has only to reach mid-season condition to make the Wings a threat.

Amerks Weak Team

But, whether they have licence to or not, some of the lookers-on are taking pot-shots at New York Americans after a single start. Chicago beat the Americans 6-1 in that one and the boys said Red Dutton's club was showing signs of age and the consequences of having no major-league farm club.

Dutton can come back at them by pointing to the very club that beat the Americans the other night. For the Black Hawks were supposed to be doddering last year and they weren't supposed to be able to compete with the extensive chain-store systems of Rangers, Boston and Toronto. They just won the Stanley Cup.

The prize debate has come out of that Chicago-Toronto game last Saturday night, a wild affair in which the Hawks lost Jack Shill for three months with a back injury and the Leafs lost Drillon for a month.

Arguments had been popping right along until Syl Apps of the Leafs broke his stick and was given another one from some place other than the Toronto bench. The Hawks shouted that there was a new rule in the book saying the player had to replace his broken stick at the bench. Someone swung a fist and there was a general pushing match.

When Referee Clarence Campbell had stopped the quarrelling, he informed the teams quietly that there was a new rule to govern the case all right, but that there was no penalty for breaking it. The Hawks hollered some more but there was nothing they could do about it—the rulemakers had just forgotten to put a penalty in the book.

Most Valuable

Big, jovial Ernie Lombardi, ABOVE, slugging catcher with Cincinnati Reds, surprise team of the 1938 National League race, was voted the league's most valuable player by the Baseball Writers' Association. With the decline of Gabby Hartnett, Schnozz, as Ernesto is familiarly known, has been recognized as the best backstop in the league and last year took the batting crown with a mark of .340. Bill Lee, Chicago Cubs' pitcher, was second in the voting.

Dufferin Draws Strong Fields Opening Days

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—The curtain is to ring up on Friday and Saturday at Dufferin Park for the inaugural fall and winter harness horse racing meet with the finest entry of pacers and trotters that any Canadian track has had this year.

Attacks United States

BERLIN, Nov. 9 — (AP). — An organ of the German foreign office today sharply attacked the United States, charging official and unofficial attempts to incite South American countries against Germany and to convince South Americans of "the evil intentions of the Fascist states."

"It is known that the United States will neglect nothing, especially in connection with the colonial question, to stir up a fear of Germany complex in South America," a newspaper report stated.

Racing Tipsters To Be Outlawed

SYDNEY, Nov. 9.—(CP-Reuters)—Professoinal racing tipsters have been officially abolished in New South Wales under Gaming and Betting Bill which has just become law. Drastic penalties are provided for broadcasting and publishing betting odds before the running of the last race at any meeting.

In the war on starting price bookmakers, it now is an offence for any person to frequent hotels, billiard-rooms, theatres, public halls and vessels (including ferries) for the purpose of making bets. It also is an offence for any bookmaker or his agent to make a bet in any of these places.

Penalties for most of the new offences are a maximum of £100 ($383) for the first time and from £100 rising to a maximum of £250 (957.50) for the second.

Sydney bookmakers say the new laws will result in more extensive use of telephones for placing bets. Racing men believe that while the new act will not stop starting price transactions, it will hamper them.

Safety Committee Makes Two Awards

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Nov. 9. — The regular monthly meeting of the Deloro Safety Committee was held in the electric shop on Monday afternoon, R. A. Elliott presiding over a good attendance. The Suggestions Committee read out five suggestions as having been received in October. Two of these were given awards. The star was awarded to the General Division. W. L. Rigg brought in the report of the Inspection Committee. J. H. Hemphill was appointed floating member for the ensuing month. J. A. Rice gave the report of the Health and Investigation Committee. C. H. Buskard presented the monthly statement of the benevolent relief funds, after which J. H. Hemphill spoke on routine work of the Publicity Committee, and the meeting adjourned.

Camden, N.J.—Bronko Magurski, 230, Minneapolis, threw Chief Little Wolf, 218, Denver, two straight falls.

Messenger Boy K.O.'d

TORONTO, Nov. 9—(CP).—Police today investigated injury to Jene Denike, 15, admitted unconscious to the Toronto General Hospital late last night.

The boy is employed as messenger by a drug store at Yonge and Gloucester streets. He left the store at 11 p.m. on his bicycle and arrived home half an hour later. When he entered the house he collapsed. Police learned the boy had a serious head injury. His bicycle was not damaged and there was no report of any accident in which he might have been involved.

SPORT SPICE

(By SID FEDER)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.— (AP). — Don't let anybody kid you about the report (not carried here) that George Marshall, the pro football boss, is thinking of buying Brooklyn Baseball Dodgers....The big washing and ironing man from Washington wires he's not only not interested, but thinks it's about time folks stopped getting cheap publicity at the expense of the daffiness boys ....And now there's the whisper that Minnesota's Bernier Bierman is getting offers from a couple of coast colleges....Sounds screwey to this corner....Hosses are pouring into Santa Anita, which means winter is on the way....You'd never know it from the heat wave around here.

Backfire Dept. Plenty of the West Virginia fans were carrying a peeve because the Mountaineers' coaches let Bill Dutton, all-state High school end last year at Weston, W. Va., slip out of their fingers.... Seems the kid enrolled at West Virginia, came out for football, but the coaches turned thumbs down... So he quit and went to Pitt, where he's doing a neat job of half-backing Jock Sutherland's freshmen... And when the Panther Plebes walloped the Moutaineer youngsters, young Mr. Weston only came through with two long touchdown gallops....Talk of a return middleweight 'title' go between Solly Krieger and Al Hostak in Seattle next summer....But Solly is back here now....And so's the heavy pickin's.

CLOSE SOCCER

SOUTHEND, England—(CP). — Two seconds before Benbarek had scored for Olympique de Marseilles against Southend United, the referee blew his whistle for time and the French team was held to a 2-2 draw.

Wake Up with ENO'S 'Fruit Salt'

Famous Organist In City On Friday

One night in Kansas there was a hurricane, at the time Gatty Sellars, the famous organist, who plays at George Street United Church on Friday, November 11, was due for his recital. Trees were uplifted, accompanied by much thunder and lightning. Mr. Sellars telephoned the church, saying, "Of course, no one has arrived." To his surprise came the reply, "Yes, there are four people here, one a newspaper reporter who says that nothing but an earthquake would prevent his coming to hear you." Mr. Sellars immediately went and played his program to them, concluding with an extemporization of the them, "Then, You'll Remember Me." Afterwards shaking hands with what he described as his smallest, but most appreciative audience.

When trains have been held up for snow, he has been known to keep his engagements by sleigh and relays of sleighs.

AGED GUERILLA LEADER

Known as "Old Man Fang," a man of 72 with long white beard, is making a name for himself as a guerilla leader in Onhwei Province, China, where he leads 4,000 soldiers.

Olympic Athletes To Get Acclimated

HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 9.—(CP-Reuters)—To get themselves accustomed to local climatic conditions, the stadium track and environment for the 1940 Olympic Games, athletes of many European nations are eager to compete in Helsinki next summer.

There has been such a demand that the Finnish athletic authorities are unable to accommodate everyone. Italy was anxious to send a representative team next year but owing to previous arrangements their request had to be refused.

Arrangements have been made for a German team to compete against Finland at Helsinki Stadium.

DIED

COLLINS, Mary Lorna.—On Wednesday, in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, Mary Lorna Collins, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Collins, R.R. No. 1, Kinmount. Funeral on Friday, November 11, from the family residence to St. Patrick's Church, Kinmount, for Requiem Mass at nine o'clock; interment in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Kinmount.

IN MEMORIAM

HENRY.—In loving memory of Mrs. N. Henry, who departed this life one year ago to-day, November 9, 1937.

Oh, what would I give to clasp your hand;
Your dear kind face to see;
Your loving smile, your welcome voice,
That meant so much to me.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have such can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one I loved so well.

—Ever remembered by her Husband.

Women's Institute Sponsors Spooks

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Nov. 9.—The Havelock Junior Women's Institute at their regular November meeting on Wednesday evening, held a very enjoyable "Hallowe'en Party" for the members and their friends. Everybody attended in costume, representing everything from clowns and little red riding hood, to goblins and frogs. Ghosts welcomed the guests as they entered the hall.

A short business period was held during which the new executive, Miss Irene McKay, president, Miss Margaret Voyer, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Alma Hagerman, vice-president, presided.

The Institute made a donation to the Western Ontario Fire Relief fund. Application for the government grant was also decided upon.

Group games, contests and bingo provided much entertainment during the evening with everyone present sharing the prizes.

A piano duet was contributed by Miss Lois Wilson and Dora Ketchen.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

Fulford To Seek Liberal Nomination

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 9. — (CP).—Announcement was made to-day by George T. Fulford, former Liberal member of the Legislature for Leeds, that he would be a candidate for the nomination at the Liberal convention for the Federal riding to be held here on Nov. 14. Donald E. Lewis, K.C., unsuccessful candidate against Hon. H. A. Stewart, former Minister of Public Works, at the general election of 1935, also announced he would contest the convention.

Does YOUR System Make Excess Acid?

Acid Indigestion, Colds, Headaches, Bilious Attacks, Constipation OFTEN START THIS WAY

Some people are what are known as acid-makers. They can't help it—and often they don't know it. The results of an excess of acid may seem just like ordinary stomach trouble — but they can't be put right by ordinary stomach remedies! Excess acid may be the reason why you wake up flat, sour, bleary-eyed, bilious — and the reason why fierce purgatives only leave you in the grip of a weakening habit and the same old symptoms.

But there's one thing that acid can't face. That's the neutralizing power of Vange Salts, the alkaline remedy with the natural mineral spa action. A teaspoonful in warm water surges through your system just like the medicinal spring water far away in England where Vange Salts come from. Excess acid is neutralized quickly, painlessly. Your blood is purified of poisons. Your sore stomach walls are soothed. And that mass of hard, poisonous waste matter lying in your intestines is softened gently, naturally, and passed out of your body. Then do you feel good! It's marvellous! But the most marvellous thing is that Vange Salts are only 60 cents a tin! At your druggist now—but if you're wise, on your bathroom shelf tonight! (Advt.)

Nurse Killed, Four Hurt

ITHACA, N.Y., Nov. 8—(AP).—Hazel Wilson, 27, of Creelman, Sask., a nurse employed in Ithaca Memorial Hospital, was killed today when the automobile in which she was riding overturned near here.

Four companions, Miss Mary Hall, Miss Jane Wiggins, Miss Helen Reed and Miss Dorothy Goodrich, all Ithaca nurses, were seriously injured. Police said Miss Hall was driving the car.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

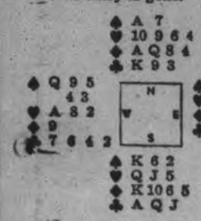
"The Authority on Authorities"

HELP YOUR PARTNER

PROTECTING YOUR partner's entries, after he has led his suit against no trump, is usually part of your job. When your side is able to take two tricks then in some suit led by declarer, you should try to take the first. This enables you to lead your partner's suit again before his entry is gone.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

Here West passed as dealer and North bid 1-Diamond. East passed and South called 2-No Trump, which North took to 3-No Trump.

West led the spade 4 against this contract, dummy played the 7 and East the 10, which was allowed to hold the trick. The spade J was returned and won with dummy's A. Declarer counted three diamond tricks, three clubs and two spades, so decided to immediately try to procure the ninth trick in the heart suit. He led the heart 4, East played the 3, South the J and West won with the A. With no other entry for his spades, there seemed no point to West in setting them up, so he switched to a club. South won and led another heart to East's K. That was the last trick for East-West.

East should have played his heart K when the 4 was led from dummy. The K offered the only hope of defeating the contract. South obviously needed one heart trick and East should have protected West's A until the spades were cleared.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

How should South play for 6-Spades after the lead of the club K?

TO OPEN TIMBER AREA

CANBERRA—(CP).—First step to get some of Australia's timber requirements by establishing a lumber industry in New Guinea will be taken shortly when a large area of forest country in the Bulolo district is thrown open to milling. It is estimated the district contains 50,000,000 feet of hopy and klinkii pine, and a small quantity of cedar and secondary timber.

Hamilton Mayor Scorns Idea Of City Manager

TORONTO, Nov. 9—(CP)—Mayor William Morrison of Hamilton, guest speaker at a meeting of the Property Owners' Association of Toronto last night, said he did not think the idea of a business manager for the city was "worth a dime."

"The only system we can have is a democracy and not a dictatorship, which would be the result of the appointment of a city manager," he declared.

"The blame for extravagance by the city council is entirely on the shoulders of the property owners themselves, because they have not exercised their franchise, but have permitted matters to drift," he said. "The only way to get out of it is not to blame council, but to accept your own responsibility in the matter and start to clean up your own backyard. The present system of civic government you now have is good enough and you have it in your power if you all voted to elect men who would carry out your policies of retrenchment." He advocated giving the mayor the power of veto.

Queen City Raid Nets "Reefers"

TORONTO, November 9—(CP).—Charges of illegal possession of drugs face a youth and his pretty 19-year-old wife following a raid early to-day on a Jarvis Street rooming house. Almost two pounds of what police allege is marijuana seed and 45 cigarettes allegedly made from maijuana were confiscated.

Patrol Sergt. George Crawford charged in a report to Inspector Charles Scott that the arrested pair Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Vandreuil, Windsor, were distributors of marijuana cigarettes to addicts in Toronto.

During a visit to the rooming house last week in the course of his orders to raid bootlegging places, Crawford detected the smell of what he thought was marijuana burning.

Early to-day police raided the house.

Spectators Bring Lunches To Court

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 9 (CP) — Hours before William Gunning, Kitley Township farm-hand, was slated to go on trial before Mr. Justice A. W. Greene on a charge of having murdered Miss Irene Mott, daughter of his employer, last July, farmers from that section of Leeds County appeared at the court-house here this morning, some of them carrying their lunches, in order to obtain seats in the court-room, Gunning is slated to be tried this afternoon.

Police alleged that while Frank Mott, his employer, was milking cows and his wife, an invalid, was asleep in her room, Gunning, who lived with them, attacked Mrs. Mott and her daughter, inflicting injuries upon the latter with a hammer which brought about her death in hospital here a few days later.

Gunning was found frequenting a deserted farm house in the same vicinity after police had spent four days and nights scouring the district.

Chamberlain Replies To Peterboro' Wire

Peterborough's cablegram of sympathy and congratulation to the Hon. Neville Chamberlain was acknowledged by the British Prime Minister in the following letter read at Monday night's meeting of the council:

10 Downing Street,
Whitehall.

Dear Sir,

Please accept my very warm thanks for your kind message. During these difficult and anxious times through which we have been passing the expression of sympathy and goodwill which I have received from all quarters have been a source of great strength to me.

Yours very truly,
Neville Chamberlain.

RENEW OLD BRIDGE

Another Bad Night Could Get No Rest

To the thousands who toss, night after night, on sleepless beds and to whose eyes slumber will not come.

To those who sleep in a kind of way, but whose rest is broken by bad dreams and nightmares.

To those who wake up in the morning as tired as on going to bed, we offer in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a remedy to help soothe and calm the nerves and bring them back to a perfect condition, and when this is done there should be no more sleepless nights due to shattered nerves.

The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

With The Boy Scouts

Attention, all Packs and Troops: A general parade is called for all groups in full uniform, carrying colors. So take part in the Remembrance Day program. The meeting place will be at the parade grounds in front of the Armouries, at 10 a.m. All are respectfully requested to attend.

On Thursday evening the Scouters' Club will hold its monthly chin wag in the local association headquarters, corner of George and Brock streets over the tire shop. Members of all general committees connected with the scouters' conference are also requested to attend.

This is also the annual meeting and election of officers, so please give club your support by your personal attendance.

It was pleasing to note that various groups gave the All Saints boys a hand on Friday.

We noticed among the guests: Messrs. Paterson and Brown of the 11th; J. Collis and Mesdames Cridland, Collis and Kelsey of the 1st; Hank Nokes, 2nd; Mrs. Langhorne, 3rd; Pete Dominic, Gerry Grady and Mr. and Mrs. Legrow, 4th; Miss Bull, 7th; Miss Whelan, 8th; C. O'Donaghue and O. Dette, 9th; Rev. Mr. Craik and Miss Palmer, 10th; Mr. Sturrock, 12th; Messrs. Hope, English, Lyburn and Sootheran of the local association, and all assistant district officers.

In case of misunderstanding, the flags and books given to the troop and the rope and den screens given to the pack were from the Ladies' Auxiliary and were only given through those who made the presentations.

Sacred Heart cub pack has seen several promotions during the last few weeks. Gerald O'Dette has been promoted from second of the White to sixer of the Black.

George Clark, second of the Black six, Vincent Keebeca second of the White six, Oscar Chenier second of the Red six, Clifton Hartwick, second of the Gray six.

Good hunting, boys.

St. George's Church was the scene of a pretty ceremony when the cubs presented their flags for dedication to the Rev. Mr. Gault, who was responsible for the obtaining of same some time ago. The pack felt their would like Mr. Gault to do this service before he left the parish and a full turnout was on hand at the ceremony.

St. Andrew's pack have accepted four new chums to their midst in the persons of George McKay, Ken Nichols, Jack Braund, and Bruce Pinnie. May their stay be long in the jungle trail.

Thirty-five cubs attended the pack meeting at St. John's Friday last. The following proficiency badges were presented:

First year's stars were presented to Murray Paterson, Bill Browne, Douglas Dobson, James Park, Garry Braund, Pat Harte-Maxwell.

Second-year stars to Donald Craig, Stewart Sage, and Leith Kelsey.

Guide badges were presented to George Gray, Donald Craig and Glenn Grierson. James Collis received the swimmer's badge and Geoffrey Cridland was awarded swimmer's contest and horse orderly badges.

The evening was made complete with Virgil Ralph and Keith Boorman being invested into the world-wide botherhood of scouts.

Each cub was given three tickets to sell on the afghan made by the mothers' auxiliary.

The pack meeting will be held as usual next Friday at 6.30 p.m., and all cubs are reminded to bring in their progress charts signed by their parents, as well as the money on the afghan tickets.

All cubs and scouts of St. John's group will meet in the Sunday school at 9.30 sharp on Friday morning to take part in the Remembrance Day program.—The Skipper.

Art Rowe Heads High School Lit.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMBPELLFORD, Nov. 9. — At the annual freshmen's dance held in the High School auditorium officers for the school literary society were elected.

The affair began in the afternoon following regular classes and lasted until nine in the evening. A delightful lunch was served and in conclusion the cheer leader was called upon to lead the group over the school yells.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Presidnt, Art Rowe; secretary, Ross Richardson; cheer leader, Joe Kelly; press reporter, James Farrell, pianist, June Burgiss.

Woman Entrant Bids Fair To Cop Ribbons

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—(AP).—Mrs. James B. Johnson, Jr., the former Frances Dodge, is back in New York once again discouraging the blue ribbon hopes of other exhibitors in the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden.

The Rochester, Mich., sportswoman, sister of Mrs. Dodge Sloan, whose famous Brookmeade stable has scored many successes on the turf, has stabled in the Garden basement a string of 16 saddle and harness horses that bid well to carry her again to the top among the blue ribbon winners. She was No. 1 in 1936, but did not send her horses to the show last year.

In the military competition Chile went into the second of the three-day low score trophy with a four-point lead over the United States. Canada, Eire, Mexico and Cuba were far behind.

Sheep Worried In Manvers Twp.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Nov. 9—The Manvers municipal council held its monthly session on Friday with members all present and the reeve in the chair. The following communications were received and read:

From Anglo-Canadian Underwriters as to claim for damages for going through bridge north of Janetville.

From A. H. Monk with report of school attendance officer.

From several sheep valuators showing many sheep being worried by dogs.

From W. E. Stewart, solicitor to agricultural loan board as to exemptions from taxes on lands in their possession.

There was much discussion as to liability of this township in regard to relief for one family and the clerk was instructed to take legal advice on the matter.

Recall Old Times At Apsley Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Nov. 9.—The November meeting of the Apsley Women's Institute was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Chas. Smith, with 15 members present. This meeting was a grandmothers' meeting. The opening ode was sung and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. The roll call was responded to by all. Members were asked to name an historical event in the history of Burleigh and Anstruther or a notable landmark. This brought to light some very interesting facts, among them being: That the Stoney Indians used the waters of Stoney Lake for medicinal purposes. A landmark was the natural cross in granite on the shores of Loon Lake. Jack's Lake was named after an Indian named Handsome Jack.

Miss Kidd then recited a poem by the Rev. W. M. Young, a former Apsley boy, entitled "A Homeward Journey to Apsley." The minutes of the October meeting were read and approved. The business session was conducted by the president. Committees were appointed for the library, wedding reception which the Institute is to cater for next week, and final plans were made for the trip to Toronto, which some of the members hope to take to the convention. Prizes were given to the oldest grandmother, won by Mrs. W. G. Smith. Youngest grandmother, won by Mrs. Norman James. The most recent grandmother, won by Mrs. Fred Bullied. Current events were given by Mrs. Wellington Lean. A cafeteria lunch was then served and social hour spent.

Welcoming Italian Colonists To Africa

Marshal Italo Balbo, Governor-General of Italian Lybia, is shown chatting to some of the women colonists aboard the ship that brought them from Italy. 1,800 families selected by Premier Mussolini were shipped to Italy's North African possessions, where homes and farms awaited them. First entertainment for them was the unveiling of a heroic statue of Il Duce mounted on a charger and brandishing the sword of Islam.

Abandon Plan

and at meetings of the permanent mandates commission and the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations, when His Majesty's Government received authority to explore the practical application of the principle of partition. A despatch of December 23, 1937, from the Secretary of State for the Colonies to the High Commissioner for Palestine, announced the intention of His Majesty's Government to undertake the further investigation required for the drawing up of a more precise and detailed scheme.

It was pointed out that a final decision could not be taken in merely general terms and that a further inquiry would provide the necessary material on which to judge, when the best possible partition scheme had been formulated, its equity and practicability. The despatch also defined the functions and the terms of reference of the technical commission who were appointed to visit Palestine for the purpose of submitting in due course to His Majesty's Government proposals for such a detailed scheme.

3. His Majesty's Government have now received the report of the Palestine partition commission who have carried out their investigations with great thoroughness and efficiency, and have collected material which will be very valuable in the further consideration of policy. Their report is not published, together with a summary of their conclusions. It will be noted that four members of the commission advise unanimously against the adoption of the scheme of partition outlined by the Royal Commission. In addition to the Royal Commission's scheme, two other schemes described as plans B and C are examined in the report. One member prefers plan B. Two other members, including the chairman, consider that plan C is the best scheme of partition which, under the terms of reference, can be devised.

Plans Impracticable.

A fourth member, while agreeing that plan C is the best that can be devised under the terms of reference, regards both plans as impracticable. Roughly the report points out that under either plan, while the budget of the Jewish state is likely to show a substantial surplus, the budgets of the Arab state (including Transjordan) and of the mandated territories are likely to show substantial deficits.

The commission reject as impracticable the Royal Commission's recommendation for a subvention from the Jewish state to the Arab state. They think that on economic grounds a Customs union between states and mandated territories is essential and they examine the possibility of finding a solution for the financial and economic problems of partition by means of a scheme based upon such a union. They consider that any such scheme would be inconsistent with the grant of fiscal independence to the Arab and Jewish states. Their conclusion is that on a strict interpretation of the terms of reference, they have no alternative but to report that they are unable to recommend boundaries for the proposed areas which will afford a reasonable prospect of eventual establishment of self-supporting Arab and Jewish states.

Solution Is Impracticable.

4. His Majesty's Government, after careful study of the partition commission's report, have reached the conclusion that this further examination has shown that the political, administrative and financial difficulties involved to create independent Arab and Jewish states inside Palestine are so great that this solution of the problem is impracticable.

5. His Majesty's Government will therefore continue their responsibility for the government of the whole of Palestine. They are now faced with the problem of the method of meeting the needs of the difficult situation described by the Royal Commission which will be consistent with their obligations to the Arabs and the Jews. His Majesty's Government believe that it is possible to find these alternative means. They have already given much thought to the problem in the light of the reports of the Royal Commission and of the partition commission.

Understanding Necessary

It is clear that the surest foundation for peace and progress in Palestine would be an understanding between Arabs and Jews, and His Majesty's government are prepared in the first instance to make a determined effort to promote such an understanding. With this end in view, they propose immediately to invite representatives of the Palestine Arabs and of neighboring states on the one hand and of the Jewish agency on the other, to confer with them as soon as possible in London regarding future policy, including the question of immigration into Palestine. As regards the presentation of the Palestine Arabs His Majesty's government must reserve the right to refuse to receive those leaders whom they regard as responsible for the campaign of assassination and violence.

6. His Majesty's government hope that these discussions in London may help to promote agreement as to future policy regarding Palestine. They attach great importance however to decision being reached at an early date. Therefore, if the London discussions should not produce agreement within a reasonable period of time, they will take their own decision in the light of their examination of the problem and of the discussions in London, and announce the policy which they propose to pursue.

7. In considering and settling their policy His Majesty's government will keep constantly in mind the international character of the mandate with which they have been entrusted and their obligations in that respect.

Trade Balance Is In Favor Of U.S.

OTTAWA, Nov. 9—(CP)—A trade balance favoring the United States was indicated here last night in Canada-U.S. trade figures prepared by the External Trade Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Imports from the United States for the nine-month period ending last September were valued at $319,414,000 compared with exports to the U.S. valued at $243,589,000. This compared with imports of $361,452,000 and exports of $369,709,000 for the same period the previous year —a trade balance favorable to Canada.

For the 12-month period ending last September, imports were valued at $448,466,000 and exports at $344,060,000 compared with imports of $465,290,000 and exports of $500,501,000 for the same period the previous year.

Will Hold Parties In Winter Months

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Robert Tighe gave her home on Thursday afternoon, November 3, for the Anglican Ladies' Guild. All members were present. A warm welcome was given Mrs. Cuffe, who journeyed from Peterborough to be present.

The meeting opened with prayer. The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. Mrs. Vivian Jackson read the Scripture lesson. Quilt blocks to be made up were handed to each one present.

It was decided to hold euchre parties at the home of the members during the winter, the first to be held on Tuesday evening, November 8, at Mrs. Vivian Jackson's home.

Mrs. William Davis won the lucky cent jar. When all business was settled the meeting closed with singing "Blest Be the Tide that Binds."

Mrs. Tighe and Mrs. Donald Davis served a dainty lunch which was enjoyed by all and a happy half hour was spent over the tea cups.

Threaten Death In Two Notes Sent Union Agent At Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 9—(CP).—Buffalo police disclosed to-day they were investigating the receipt of two notes, threatening death, by Philip Collier, business agent for the Buffalo local of the Waiters' Alliance, an American Federation of Labor union.

The investigation, revealed by Police eDtective Sergeant John J. Crotty, followed the arrest of two men by Federal agents in connection with a bizarre $20,000 extortion plot directed against a Silver Creek, N.Y., manufacturer.

Crotty said the notes were placed in a mailbox at Collier's home within the last two weeks and demanded $5,000 on pain of "cutting your throat from ear-to-ear and killing your wife."

The detective sergeant said a toy typewriter was used to write the missives. The case does not come under Federal jurisdiction, he explained, because the notes were not sent through the mail.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c

Order Probe Of Charges In Monaghan

Attorney-General Has Instructed Head Of Police To Investigate

Constable Jarvis of the Criminal Investigation Department of the Ontario Provincial Police arrived in town yesterday afternoon to investigate charges made by Bruce Johnston, North Monaghan township clerk, that there was political interference with Provincial Police law enforcement in that area.

Constable Jarvis spent yesterday and to-day interviewing persons who had heard remarks of Mr. Johnston, but he would make no statement for publication.

His arrival in Peterborough followed on the heels of an announcement by Attorney-General Gordon Conant that he had ordered a thorough investigation. Mr. Conant said that Major-General Victor Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Police, will conduct an inquiry under the powers vested in him by the Constables Act. He will be assisted by L. R. McTavish, solicitor in the Attorney-General's Department.

"So far as I am aware," the Attorney-General said, in regard to the charges, "the statements and imputations are absolutely false. I would be very much surprisd to find that there is any truth whatsoever in these statement." However, Mr. Conant said the charges were sufficiently serious and so reflected on law enforcement that General Williams had been instructed to make the fullest possible investigation.

Pearl Buck Wins Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 10 (CP) — The 1938 Nobel prize for literature today was awarded to Pearl Buck, American author of "The Good Earth" and other novels dealing with China.

Mrs. Buck, formerly Pearly Sydenstrycker and now Mrs. Richard Walsh of Great Neck, New York, was born in Hillsboro, West Virginia, in 1892 and has spent much of her life in China.

Pearl Buck was the third American to win the Nobel award in literature, an honor she shares in this country only with Sinclair Lewis, who was awarded it in 1930, and Eugene O'Neill, who received it in 1936.

She joined the company of such literary greats as Maurice Maeterlinck, Rudyard Kipling, Anatole France, William Yeats and Bernard Shaw.

She was the second woman of the decade to win Nobel recognition for her literature. The first, in 1928, was Sigrid Undset.

"The Good Earth," probably the best known of Mrs. Buck's works, won the Pulitzer award for the best American novel of 1932. She also won second prize in the 1933 O. Henry memorial awards for her story, "The Frill."

(Mrs. Buck's parents were missionaries in China and her first husband, J. Lossing Buck, was a member of the faculty of Nanking University. They were divorced.)

The Nobel award was understood to have been based particularly on "The Good Earth," which also won the 1932 Pulitzer prize for an American novel.

The Nobel literature prize amounts to 155,000 kroner, about $37,975.

H. G. Wells Confesses He "Stole" Hat He Intended To Keep

London, Nov. 10.

H. G. WELLS, the author, confessed today he "stole" a hat he intended to keep and wrote the owner "I take off your hat to you."

The hat belonged to the retiring mayor of Cambridge, E. S. Peck, who wrote Mr. Wells after a visit by the historian: "Have we not exchanged hats? If you are satisfied with your bargain should we cry quits?"

The author wrote back: "I stole your hat. I like your hat. I shall keep your hat. Whenever I look inside it I shall think of you and your excellent sherry, excellent, dry, and of the town of Cambridge which is older than the university. I take off your hat to you."

Dales Was Seen In Owen Sound Night Of Slaying

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 10 (CP)—The Crown closed its case against Lafayette (Harry) Dales, charged with the murder of William Waterton, 85, last May 11, shortly after noon today as Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the attorney-general's department, testified Waterton was shot at a distance of 11 feet.

Dr. Frankish testified the cause of Waterton's death was "gunshot wounds." The shotgun used in the slaying could not have been fired at a distance of less than 11 feet, he said, adding that after making tests he concluded the weapon could not be discharged accidentally by it being bumped against an object.

Previous witnesses today testified to seeing Dales in Owen Sound, 15 miles from the scene of the shooting, on the day of the alleged murder.

Russell Boddy, Owen Sound butcher, testified he had seen Dales on 2nd Avenue East here at 6:30 p m., May 11. "I spoke to him at the time," Boddy told Mr. Justice W. D. Roach and the jury.

The body of Waterton, a one-armed man, was found in his cabin in the Balaclava district last May 12. Shotgun wounds were in the chest, head and left wrist. A 12-gauge shotgun was found near the body and shell pellets were found strewn on the bed and floor. The body was sprawled across the bed.

Seen Outside Cabin

Mrs. Annie Fanning, neighbor of Waterton, testified yesterday she saw Dales outside the cabin the night Waterton was shot. She said she saw him pick up some wood and enter the shack. Mrs. Fanning's husband, Thomas (Shanny) Fanning, disappeared a few days after the body was found and has not since been seen.

Boddy testified he saw Dales twice on May 11. About 11:30 a.m., he came into the butcher shop "and offered his watch for 50 cents." The butcher declined and Dales replied "no harm done" and walked out. Boddy said it was "fairly dark" when he met Dales for the second time.

Asked For Loan of $40

Leo Joseph, former Owen Sound resident, said he met Dales the night before his arrest, two days after the body of Waterton was found. "He came into our store and asked for the loan of $40," Joseph testified. "He told me he had money with Douglas the jeweller and could repay us in the morning. He said he wanted it to go away with." The request was refused.

Crown Prosecutor C. M. Magone then proposed to read evidence of the late John J. Douglas, Owen Sound jeweller, given at Dales' preliminary hearing. A point of law arose and the jury was excluded while it was debated. Mr. Justice Roach decided to allow the transcript of Douglas' evidence to be read.

The transcript showed that on May 12 Dales came into Douglas' store and gave him $65 which he put into an envelope and placed in the safe. That same afternoon Dales returned and asked for $10 of his money. This was given to him.

On May 13, Dales came in for another $10 and that night he telephoned Douglas at his home asking him to open up his store to get the remainder of the money. Douglas refused to do so. The transcript said Dales told Douglas he wanted

Air Grant Is Increased $400 Million

Vast Air Program To Be Accelerated 6,000 Planes Ordered

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(CP Cable.)—The British government will increase the air estimates next year from £120,000,000 to £200,000,000 ($600,000,000 to $1,000,000,000), Sir ($600,000,000 to $1,000,000,000), Sir for Air, announced in the House of Commons to-day.

The vast program for building up Britain's air armament will be ac-Kingsley Wood, Secretary of State fast fighting planes to combat invading bombers either have been ordered or will be ordered, Sir Kingsley disclosed.

The minister said that in succeeding years the air estimates will be increasingly large.

The number of first-line planes will be increased by 30 per cent.

Working Out Canadian Scheme.

Sir Kingsley expressed gratification at the increasing number of Royal Air Force volunteers coming from the Dominions and said, in reference to Canada:—

"So far as Canada is concerned, we have recently been discussing this matter with the Canadian Government and the recent visit of one of our officers was valuable in elucidating the training facilities available in Canada and the extent of her capacity to assist.

"We are now working out a scheme which we hope will be acceptable to the Canadian Government in this important connection."

Sir Kingsley said 13,670 aviators of all categories had been recruited in the campaign which started last June.

Nearly 40 civil and military schools for pilots are now functioning, he said, and 1,200 pilots and 23,000 aviators of various categories are now being trained; as compared with an average of 300 pilots and 3,100 assorted aviators during "the pre-expansion years."

Speaking for the Labor opposition, H. B. Lees-Smith said that in case of war Britain should think mainly of protection against air raids.

"It is unfortunate that the air force for years has been the Cinderella of the services," he declared in continuing debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Attributing a large part of the responsibility to Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for Co-ordination of Defence, Mr. Lees-Smith argued a Ministry of Supply would have made impossible such deficiencies as were revealed during the European crisis in September.

The Labor member took the view that only the creation of such a ministry would make it possible to utilize the industrial potentialities of the country to the extent made necessary by the rhythm of production in German aircraft factories.

Wed At Last

County authorities vowed they never would, but John Deremo and Hattie Williams were married this morning. To the last minute the spectre of the County Council hovered over the aged wedding couple, but they answered Rev. F. W. Craik's queries in firm tones, standing a little shakily before him. Only hitch came when Hattie, attempting to sign the register, became so nervous she couldn't remember how to spell out her name. In this picture the minister is endeavoring to assist Hattie, while proud husband John looks on. It was no use, though, Hattie just couldn't do it, and the signing was postponed until a later date. Delivery Clerk Slugged By Armed Thug

TORONTO, Nov. 10 (CP)—Forced to drive his delivery truck to a lonely spot on Lyons avenue, York township, by a gunman last night, Alfred Whittelsea, 28, was beaten over the head with the butt of a revolver and robbed of $18.

Lying on the truck runningboard in a semi-conscious condition, he dimly saw his assailant running to join another thug seated in a parked car on Lyons avenue, Whittelsea told police. Then everything went blank. When the fog cleared from his head he discovered himself alone on the dark dirt road. His truck had been put out of commission with its ignition wires ripped and the distributor cap missing.

Walking more than a mile to the nearest service station, Mr. Whittelsea had the truck towed to the Simpson Radio Company, his employers, and then notified township police. He was then removed to a nearby physician for treatment for a bruise at the side of his head and an injured nose.

Gang Of Thieves Seek Revenge Pull Off Raid On Former Mayor

Simcoe, Ont., Nov. 10.

A GANG of petty thieves who have been active of late stealing from cars, may have been seeking quick revenge last night when they entered ex-Mayor Percy R. The ex-mayor was a signatory to a petition from a number of the merchants asking the town council to increase the police force in view of the growing frequency of robberies.

The council after hearing the representations on behalf of the merchants authorized the police commission to add another constable to the town force.

Founder Of Modern Turkey Dies After Long Illness Aged 58

ISTANBUL, Nov. 10 (A.P.). — President Kamal Ataturk, founder of modern Turkey, died to-day after a long illness. He was 58. He had suffered long from a liver ailment. It was announced officially death occurred at 9.05 a.m. (2.05 a.m. EST).

A huge silent crowd stood in mourning outside the beautiful Dolma Bagtche Palace where the President breathed his last.

The throng sadly watched the flag outside being lowered to half staff.

Uncertainty existed as to the successor of the man who took command of the shrunken Ottoman Empire after the Great War and built a new, strong nation according to the western pattern.

Among those prominently mentioned were General Ismet Ineunu, a soldier and politician, and Field-Marshal Fevni Pehakaj, Chief of the Turkish General Staff.

The President of the National Assembly, Abdul Halik Renda, automatically assumed the Presidency of the Republic, pending the election of the soldier-hero's successor. An urgent convocation of the National Assembly was ordered to hold the election.

Also mentioned for the Presidency was the Turkish Ambassador to London, Fethi Okyar, an old friend of Ataturk.

Just a week ago the President sent from his sickbed a message to the National Assembly announcing a big Turkish naval reorganization program.

Ataturk lived hard. He often worked or listened to musicians all night. For many years he was a chain cigarette smoker, a marathon coffee drinker and celebrated often with champagne and raki liquor, banned for British troops in Palestine during the Great War.

Iron-Fisted Ruler.

He ruled hard as the iron-fisted "Grey Wolf" who forged a strong new Westernized state out of the war-crushed ruins of the Ottoman Empire.

Ataturk's body will lie in state in the beautiful white Dolma Bagtche Palace, where he died, and then will be taken by Premier Djelal Bayar to Ankara, the capital, for burial in an imposing mausoleum the government will erect to perpetuate his momery.

Man Wins $1 Bet But He Must Spend Next 60 Days In Jail

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 10 (AP)

IT COST Harry Goodhead, Toronto, just 60 days in jail to win a $1 bet. Arraigned in federal court on charges of entering the United States illegally, Goodhead pleaded guilty and told Justice John Knight he made the trip because he bet Canadian immigration officials "a buck" he could cross the border. "You seem to have won your bet," Judge Knight said. "Sixty days in the county penitentiary."

Police Jail Son After Father Seriously Hurt

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 10.—(CP)—William Lambourn, 19, was held by police today on a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm, while his father, victim of the alleged assault, is in the Victoria Hospital, London, suffering serious head injuries and possible skull fracture. The father, George Lambourn, is said by police to be over 50 years of age and his condition was considered serious.

The younger Lambourn was arrested Wednesday by Provincial Officer Charles Anderson and City Constable Norman Dunn. His friend Lorne Buggs is being held as a material witness and was granted freedom on bail last night after he was brought to Stratford with Lambourn. Lambourn today was removed to jail until Nov. 18. He was not asked to plead.

The Lambourns live in Biddulph Township in Middlesex County near the Blanshard Township border line.

According to a story told police by members of the family the younger Lambourn was driving the family car on Monday night when a rear axle broke. He left the car and went home in Buggs' car.

Next morning at home it was said that the father and son entered into an altercation over the broken automobile and the boy decided to leave home.

He started out to where he had left the car but his father reached the place before him to prevent him from taking the car. In the argument which followed, William is said to have struck his father.

Masquerade Costume Set Afire Doctor Suffered Fatal Burns

KENORA, Ont., Nov. 10 (CP). — Thomas Semple testified before Magistrate T. H. Wolfe last night that John Melnick, charged with manslaughter, touched a match to Dr. Dennis Smith's masquerade costume at a dance at Madsen Red Lake Mine October 29 when the mine doctor suffered fatal burns.

Preliminary hearing of the charge against Melnick will be continued Monday.

Semple, operator at the mine 90 miles north of Kenora, testified he had seen Melnick walk up to a group including the doctor, thumb a match and apply the light to Smith's costume. Then Melnick had assisted in trying to exteinguish the fire before Dr. Smith ran for the door, apparently seeking to remove the fire danger from others wearing inflammable costumes.

"I believe it was done as a joke seeing the dress had caught on fire earlier and had caused a laugh then," Semple said. On the first occasion Dr. Smith had beaten out the flame quickly.

Greatly Disturbed.

C. L. Donaghy testified Melnick had seemed greatly perturbed as others at the dance sought to extinguish Dr. Smith's flaming costume. "I lit it just as a joke but I didn't expect that to happen." Donaghy said Melnick told him. Donaghy was confident the fire could have been extinguished had the doctor remained in the hall.

Miss Jean Smart, nurse at the mine, said Dr. Smith's costume was similar to a Hawaiian costume with skirt made of unravelled rope strands tied to a heavier rope around his waist. He had worn trousers cut short at the knees, a sleeveless shirt and a miner's helmet. She testified the first fire had been caused by Dr. Smith's own lighter and the doctor had treated the incident as a joke.

The doctor had been enveloped in flames as soon as he left the hall and some men finally extinguished the fire. Miss Smart said. Dr. Smith gave his wife instructions for treating his burns.

U.S. Tennis Wizard Don Budge To Join Pro Ranks

New York, Nov. 10 (AP)

WALTER L. PATE, captain of the United States Davis Cup team, today announced Don Budge would turn professional and go on tour for Promoter Jack Harris.

Budge accepted Harris' offer of a flat guarantee of $75,000, $25,000 of which he received yesterday. He will be paid another $25,000 on March 1, and the remaining third when his tour ends.

Jewish Shops Plundered, Synagogues Burned By German Mobs In Berlin

Violent Demonstrators Take Revenge Upon Jews For Slaying In Paris Of The Secretary To German Embassy

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP). — Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels today issued a brief appeal to the German populace to desist from further anti-Jewish demonstrations after synagogues in many cities had been burned, wrecked or badly damaged.

"The justifiable and understandable indignation of the German people over the cowardly Jewish murder of a German diplomat in Paris has resulted during the past night in extensive demonstrations," said Goebbels.

He referred to the killing of Ernst von Rath, secretary of the Paris Embassy, by a 17-year-old Polish Jew who had lived in Germany.

Violence Started Early.

Telephoned reports from many parts of Germany showed that anti-Jewish violence, beginning early today, was nation-wide.

Seven of Berlin's 20 synagogues were burned. All Vienna's 21 synagogues were reported burned, wrecked or badly damaged. In Munich all Jews were told by angry Nazis that they must leave the country within 48 hours.

"In numerous cities and communities of the Reich," said Goebbels' appeal, "acts of violence were committed against Jewish buildings and businesses.

"The entire population is now, however, strictly requested to desist immediately from all further demonstrations and actions of whatever nature against Jewdom.

"The final answer to Jewry will be given in the form of laws or decrees."

Responsible Jews hearing this closing sentence expressed fears that a general order would be issued compelling all Jews to leave the country. Goebbels' appeal was issued at 4 p.m. (10 a.m. E.S.T.), some 14 hours after the violence began in Berlin

Crowds, angry and plunder-bent, pushed police aside in Friedrichstrasse, in downtown Berlin, and surged into the arcade between that important avenue and famed Unter den Linden. The arcade houses many Jewish shops.

Gangs moved through Berlin streets with precision and smashed every Jewish store front they could identify by the white letters required by police. Crowds in Munich broke windows and doors of about a dozen Jewish shops but firemen and police dispersed them.

Arabs And Jews Disappointed Over New Policy

JERUSALEM, Nov. 10—(AP).—disappointment was expressed today by Arab and Jewish leaders over Great Britain's declaration of policy on Palestine. Some Jews called it "fantastically ridiculous" and Arabs said it was a "complete misnomer because it is no policy at all."

They referred to a project announced yesterday of calling a London conference of Jewish and Arab leaders to compromise the dispute over Jewish immigration to the Holy land and discarding as unworkable a plan to divide Palestine into Arab, Jewish and British-corridor sections.

Must Continue the Fight

A prominent Arab said: "We must continue the fight until we obtain justice. The proposed conference definitely excludes our recognized leaders, members of the Arab higher committee who are no languishing in the sickly heat islands in the Indian ocean."

An Arab spokesman said the Arabs would not attend "any conference where Jews insist on numerical parity," and added, "Britain offers us nothing after Arabs fought, suffered and died, which was the only way we could make the world hear our case."

Welcomed Suggestion

An exception to the general criticism was a statement by Dr. Judah Magnes, president of the Hebrew university. He welcomed the suggestion for a conference and suggested the establishment of a binational state comprising 60 per cent Arabs and 40 per cent Jews for 10 years, after which Palestine would become a part of a federation of Arab states embracing Trans-Jordan, Syria, Lebanon, Iraq and Saudi Arabia, with an increased Jewish population within the federation.

Arabs declared the apparent refusal to sit with the exiled Grand Mufti killed the conference idea at the outset and said, "no Arab leader would dare attend the proposed conference in the absence of the Grand Mufti, who is the strongest Arab leader." The Mufti is in refuge in Syria.

Seven Convicts Are Seriously Wounded

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 10 (AP) — Seven convicts who escaped from the state penitentiary after tying up three guards and taking two others along as hostages in a prison truck were recaptured an hour later after all had been seriously wounded.

The two officials taken with the prisoners also were wounded in a gun battle with state, county and city officers in the heart of Nashville. One of the guards left tied at the prison was found to be suffering from serious stab wounds.

M. A. Warren, assistant chief of the state highway patrol, said about 20 officers discovered the prison truck about a mile from the penitentiary and opened fire when the convicts kept going.

"We shot it out with them," he said. "They stopped only when we shot them all down. I think their guns were emptied by that time."

Mexico To Buy Canadian Planes

MONTREAL, Nov. 10 (CP)—The Mexican government probably will place orders for fast fighting planes in Canada, according to first Lieut. Roberto De La Barreda of the Mexican air force's engineering staff in the Dominion as a one-man air mission for his country.

"Up to last year we bought planes from the United States, but now it looks as if we are turning to Canada," he said last night after his arrival here from Fort William, Ont., where he inspected the Canadian Car and Foundry's airplane plant. He described himself as "greatly impressed" with the planes being constructed at Fort William.

"Before anything is done, I will have to report to the war department in Mexico City," the officer said. "But I think contracts will be let later on. Our government is paying more and more attention to relations with Canada."

Lieut. De La Barreda declared any airplane purchases in Canada would be of completed aircraft. It was not planned to buy any assembled craft in the United States.

Retired Montreal Business Man Is Suing Homewood Sanitarium For $1,500,000

TORONTO, Nov. 10 (CP)—Angus McIntosh, retired Montreal businessman, has been given 10 days in which to amend his statement of claim in an action for $1,500,000 damages which he has brought against Homewood Sanitarium of Guelph, Ont., and Dr. Harvey Clare, sanitarium superintendent.

Mr. McIntosh claims he suffered loss of business and impairment of health and other financial loss due to having been detained in Homewood against his will. It was this charge which directly resulted in a royal commission investigation into the affairs of the sanitarium last spring.

Delay in the present action was granted in a judgment delivered by O. E. Lennox, assistant master of the Ontario Supreme Court, here today. The defendants also are given 10 days in which to deliver defence to the statement of claim when it is amended.

"In an action for damages for conspiracy," Mr. Lennox said in his judgment, "damages of a general nature cannot be given. It must be alleged and proved that the plaintiff did sustain damages."

Jewish Family Rights Are Limited In Degree Of Italian Government–Business Restricted

ROME, Nov. 10 (AP) — The Italian cabinet today approved sweeping decree laws excluding Jews from government positions of any kind, restricting their businesses and professions, forbidding their marriage to Aryan Italians and limiting their family rights.

The cabinet decrees adopted at a meeting presided over by Premier Mussolini put into effect the racial policy outlined by the Fascist Grand Council Oct. 7. The decrees defined a member of the Jewish race as any person:

First, both of whose parents were Jewish in race even though the offspring did not practise the Jewish religion.

Second, with one parent of the foreign nationality.

Third, whose mother was Jewish and whose father was unknown.

Fourth, born of parents of Italian nationality either of whom is of the Jewish race, belongs to the Jewish religion, is a member of an Israelite community or otherwise has manifested Hebrewism.

The decrees exempted as non-Jewish those born of parents of Italian nationality only one of whom belongs to the Jewish race, if, as of Oct. 1, 1938, they practiced a religion other than Jewish.

Quints Doing Splendidly Dr. Dafoe Says

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 10.—(CP).—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, famous for bringing the Dionne quintuplets into the world, to-day looked forward to hearing his little charges relate the most interesting experience of their lives—removal of tonsils and adenoids.

"We didn't tell them what was going to happen and now I'm looking forward to hearing them tell me about it," said the pudgy physician, known only as a good "country doc" before one sunny morning in May, 1934, when he rushed along a bumpy, twisting trail to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, 2½ miles from here.

It was along a smooth, government graded highway that Dr. Dafoe drove to-day to supervise in supplying light foods to the Quints who went hungry yesterday after the operation to correct a condition which might have threatened their lives. They yelled for food last night but their pleas went unheeded.

Feared For Life of Emilie.

Need of the operation was stressed by Dr. Dafoe when he said that during the period last summer when the five sisters were ill with colds "there was a time we feared Emilie might not be able to remain with us."

The doctor was happier to-day as he reported the children were doing "splendidly, splendidly." He said he was sure they would come through all right, "but the way they are recovering so nicely is a delight.

Jap Cabinet Is Split On Campaign

TOKYO, Nov. 10—(CP-Havas).—The Japanese Cabinet was reported split today as a result of a conflict between business and army leaders over application of the finance control features of the national mobilization bill.

The army brought the fight into the open with a declaration issued through the War Ministry's press bureau warning business and finance leaders not to oppose Article XI. of the mobilization bill, which empowers the government to direct financing operations and to tax superprofits.

"In the interest of the state and national policy," said Colonel Kenryo Satoh, director of the army's bureau of information, "it is necessary that business and finance bow—or else be forced to bow—to control and to the directions which will be given them."

Les Allen Sings Before Royalty

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(CP Cable.)—The King and Queen, with the Duchess of Kent, spent a cheerful evening last night watching a "variety" show at the Coliseum.

A Canadian was among the performers who entertained their Majesties and a capacity house of 3,000 in the annual Royal command show for the benefit of the Variety Artist Benevolent Fund.

Les. Allen, a native of Toronto, brought sentimental memories by singing popular songs in a solo number. Allen also had a minor part in a Royal command performance of 1934.

Their Majesties smiled, laughed and clapped with the rest of the audience at the various turns of the show which wound up with the ever-popular cockey number, "The Lambeth Walk."

Bowling Club Hold Opening Euchre

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 10. — The Hastings Bowling Club held a successful euchre Wednesday evening in the Clarendon Hotel, when more than fifty attended. They plan to hold euchres the second Wednesday of each month and award a grand prize to the person winning most games during the season.

Mrs. R. T. Stephenson won the ladies' prize and Mr. Bert Lemoire won the gentlemen's prize. The lucky door prize was taken by Mrs. F. Daly. Following the games, members of the ladies' bowling club served a refreshing lunch to bring the evening to a close.

Nationally Owned Arms Industry Is Urged By C.C.F. Leader

GALT, Ont., Nov. 10.—(CP).—If Canada is to have armaments, its arms industry should be nationally-owned and controlled—"Not turned over to profiteers"—J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., national head of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, said here last night.

Nationolization of such industries was urged by the C.C.F. leader during a campaign address for John Mitchell, C.C.F. candidate in the Nov. 14 Waterloo South federal by-election.

Mr. Woodsworth denied a statement made the previous night by Hon. R. J. Manion, national Conservative leader, that socialism meant the abolition of religion and private property. The C.C.F. stood for neither of those things and Dr. Manion should know it, he said.

Safeguarding Property

The C.C.F. stood for the safeguarding of private property, such as homes and personal possessions. But when private property developed into huge monopolistic corporations, dangerous to the state because of their power and influence, then they should be made either publicly

Turkey's Founder

Most Turkish leaders, whether approving of Ataturk's dictatorial methods or not, joined with the majority in acclaiming him for bringing Turkey into world politics as one of the most important of the smaller powers and making her a key country connecting Middle Europe and the Near East.

Ataturk's supporters want to continue unabated the march back from the low point of Turkish national vitality after defeat in the Great War. Official quarters indicated that there would be no change in Turkey's foreign policy.

Ataturk was generally believed to be pro-British, and both the British and German Foreign Offices have been known to have keen interest in the choice of his successor, whole policies might influence strongly the European political balance.

Kamal Ataturk rebuilt in a few months a Turkey which had been steadily declining for nearly 350 years. He revivified it, westernized it, modernized it—made it important in world politics as one of the leading smaller powers, a key country connecting Middle Europe and the Near East.

Methods Were Ruthless.

His methods were ruthless, unique, dictatorial. First and only President of the Republic, he founded in 1923, he was nominally an elected executive, but actually, with the electing assembly composed of hand-picked delegates, he was a dictator.

Ataturk ended the age-old unity of church and state, banned polygamy, freeing women from the harem, substituted western dress for the flowing, all-covering garb of the Near East, established the family as a social unit, abolished the Caliphate and the Sultanate, reduced illiteracy—created, in short, the personal "dream state" he had envisioned years before as a radical, social-minded youth.

After winning promotions in the Italian-Turkish war of 1911 and the second Balkan war, he was a colonel when Turkey entered the Great War on the side of Germany, whose leaders rated him one of the ablest Turkish officers. He was commander of a sector of the Gallipoli Peninsula which successfully resisted the attacks of the Allies in 1915.

After the war he rose fast. The Allies were further reducing the erstwhile Ottoman empire. The Greeks landed an army in Smyrna and took control of it and the surrounding area, and the Turkish people seethed with indignation.

Meanwhile Ataturk had been sent by Sultan Mohammed VI to demobilize troops in Anatolia. But instead of demobilizing them, he used them as a nucleus for a Nationalist army, waging, as an outlaw, three years of guerilla warfare. In 1921 the Greeks invaded Anatolia, and after desperate fighting, the Turks won, re-entering Smyrna on Sept. 9, 1922.

Ataturk then abolished the dual government of Turkey and deposed the Sultan, although he named the ruler's heir, Abdul Mejid, as Caliph, or head of the Islamic faith. On Nov. 20 there was a peace conference with the Allies at Lausanne, Switzerland, which resulted in a fixing of the boundaries of present-day Turkey.

Became 'Fed Up' So Burned Home

CORNWALL, Ont., Nov. 10 (CP)—Mrs. Exilda Lariviere, 38, appeared before Magistrate Raoul Labrosse here yesterday on a charge of arson and was remanded without pleading. Her husband Joseph Lariviere pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to keep the peace and was remanded a week for sentence.

When Mrs. Lariviere surrendered to police here last Thursday after placing her five children in care of Children's Aid Society she admitted she set fire to her house in Bonville, 10 miles north of here, because she was "fed up" and had "domestic troubles."

Joseph Lariviere threatened to burn some pieces of furniture saved from the blazing frame house and he was charged with failing to keep the peace.

Jewish Shops

Berlin police established guards in some streets against looting in the wrecked shops. In others black-uniformed elite guards took command.

Some Jews said the slept in a different place each night in fear that other measures might be taken against them to avenge the slaying in Paris of Ernst Von Rath, legation secretary, by a Polish Jew.

Dread Hearing Door Bell

Others said they dreaded to hear the door bell ring, because they were afraid they might soon be taken to a concentration camp.

Nazis said officials disapproved of the gang action and that, "although public excitement is justified," action "must be taken on a strictly legal basis and not as spontaneous individual outbursts."

The gangs moved systematically up and down each street, and in the main avenues not one shop window of a Jewish-owned business remained intact.

The shattering of glass in the shops scratched furniture, soiled articles on display and broke porcelain and fixtures.

A typical band had four members. They travelled slowly in an automobile. Seeing a white-lettered store, they would jump from the car and with sticks smash the front windows.

In the fashionable Tauentzienstrasse, those who left night clubs at a late hour treated the wrecking as a lark. They picked up pieces of broken glass from ground floor windows and hurled them into windows of the floors above.

Looting started almost at once in the unguarded streets, one of which was the Frankfrhsr Allee. No object of value was left in the show windows of many of the shops.

In one leather goods store everything was taken except one briefcase as soon as the window was broken. A little later a man walked by. He noted the briefcase, picked it up and calmly proceeded down the street.

One gang halted an Associated Press reporter trying to telephone his office from a pay booth, and shouted at him, "You atrocity monger!" They permitted him to go unharmed.

Vienna dispatches reported the total or partial destruction of all the 21 synagogues in the city. Vienna Jews said 22 of their number had committed suicide in despair. One synagogue in the Austrian capital was blown up, three others wrecked while storm troopers compelled Jews to begin tearing down another.

Police Are Helpers

In Berlin a mob had jammed Friedrichtrasse since rioting began early in the morning. Police were helpless against a looting crowd, angered by the killing of Ernst Von Rath, secretary of the paris embassy, by Herschel Grynszpan. Von Rath, shot Monday, died yesterday.

Police said no extra officers were available to handle the Friedrichstrasse mob, as all had been sent to other trouble spots, especially to the burning synagogues.

Hourly, new reports of destruction and violence came from different sections of Germany. Dozens of synagogues were reported raided, desecrated or burned in Cologne, Hamburg, Dresden and Vienna.

One of Berlin's newest synagogues on Prinz Regenten Strasse was still ablaze at 1:30 p.m. The cupola was burning although the front still was standing. Officials would not say whether they considered the fires incendiary.

The official German news agency in a short bulletin said of the violence that "the grossly enraged German people vented their ire in manifold strong anti-Jewish actions."

Weapons Foribdden

Henrich Himmler, chief of the secret police, issued a decree forbidding Jews to carry weapons. Twenty years in concentration camp is the penalty for violation.

Brown-shirted storm troopers, black uniformed SS guards and police stopped all Jewish pedestrians and searched them for weapons.

Most heavily damaged of the Berlin synagogues was one in Franzesbaderstrasse in the exclusive suburban—Grunewald. The interior was destroyed and the roof collapsed after the fire spread into the three domes.

Inspector A. Ward of the Ontario Provincial Police told of obtaining the remainder of the money left with Douglas. He said he got $45—two $10 Bank of Canada bills; two $5 bills; three $2 bills; eight $1 bills and $1 United States bill. The inspector also testified to receiving a number of court exhibits from investigating constables on May 14 and turning them over to Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the attorney-general's department.

Dr. Frankish was the final witness for the crown. He told of examining the body and testing the shotgun found beside it. Cause of death was "gunshot wounds," he said. Tests showed that Waterton was shot at a distance of not less than 11 feet.

There were no powder burns on the body, Dr. Frankish testified. Black specks found on the left wrist were nitrates, unburned powder always found in gunpowder. He said he doubted whether a jar would discharge the cartridge in the shotgun and described tests he made with the trigger cocked. The gun "would not explode for me," he said.

Germany Colony Question

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons that Germany's demand for return of her colonies "could not be considered in isolation" and that they required "extended study."

The Prime Minister, however, refused to add anything to his "clear statement" on the colonial question to the House of Commons Nov. 30, 1937.

He said then that it was recognized that the colonial question was not "one that could be considered in isolation and, moreover, would involve a number of other countries."

This, informed sources believed, meant that Mr. Chamberlain intended to use the colonial issue as a means for gaining a general European settlement.

The Prime Minister declined to give details on the questions to be discussed during his forthcoming visit to Paris.

He told the House that foreign secretary Halifax and he "have accepted with great pleasure the very kind invitation of the French government to visit Paris from Nov. 23 to 25."

"We hope to take advantage of the opportunities thus offered to review the international situation in the light of recent events with members of the French government," the Prime Minister added.

Replying to a question from Arthur Henderson, Labor, Mr. Chamberlain said it would not be in the public interest to give a general resume of the questions to be discussed. He also declined to answer a question from Geoffrey Mander, Liberal, who asked whether Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the government, would accompany him.

Donald, Secretary for the Dominions and Colonies, announced to-day.

In a written reply to a question in the House of Commons he said: "The disturbed conditions in Palestine during the last year have caused both serious shrinkage in revenue and heavy and increasing expenditures on public security. It has become clear that the Palestine Government is unable to meet these liabilities by recourse to the depleted civil budget. Certain measures of financial relief are therefore necessary and proposals will be laid before Parliament in due course in the form of a supplementary estimate."

Great Britain yesterday discarded as unworkable a plan for setting up independent Arab and Jewish states in Palestine, and began a new course for bringing peace to the Holy Land through a London conference of Arab and Jewish leaders.

Warning Issued.

Disturbed by general Arab unrest in the Near East and the growing Jewish refugee problem in Europe, the British Government warned it would impose its own solution unless the Arabs and Jews find common ground soon for burying their differences.

Britain's position was outlined in a statement of policy issued with the Royal Commission's report on Palestine. Headed by Sir John Woodhead, the commission found impracticable a plan to divide Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish states with Jerusalem and Nazareth remaining with a strip of coast under British mandate.

TO WOMEN

concerned with money matters

IN MANY A FAMILY circle the woman of the house is the executive head as well as the heart of the home.

To conserve family funds; to spend wisely; to safeguard the present and future welfare of the family . . . these, as well as purely domestic responsibilities, are hers today.

So she uses her bank . . . not merely as a safe place to keep her money, but also for friendly talks with the manager when financial problems arise.

Neighbourhood branches of The Royal Bank welcome women's accounts. The personal attention of the manager is available to women clients at any time. Ask him for these useful booklets —

- Family Budget Book.
- Financial Training for your Son and Daughter.

Announce Award To Eighteen For Brave Acts

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 10—(CP).—The bronze medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Association has been awarded to Royston Sanger of Kingsville, Ont., in recognition of his rescue of two girls from drowning in Kingsville Harbor, August 3, 1937.

Sanger's attention was called to the perilous condition of the girls, Marie Scott and Marion Curtis, who were attempting to swim in water approximately 20 feet deep. One of them suddenly became panicky and clutched the other round the neck, pulling both down. Sanger dove off the pier and was fortunate enough to effect their rescue.

Parchment Certificates.

Eight Quebec and 18 Ontario people, as follow, are cited for the parchment certificates of the association, in recognition of heroism and presence of mind:

Quebec.

Woman Confesses To Shooting Prince

MILAN, Italy, Nov. 10 — (AP). — Police said to-day a 40-year-old woman confessed she shot dead the wealthy PrinceLuigi Albercio Trivulzio last night shortly after he left a restaurant on the Avenue Corso Vittorio Emanuele.

The woman gave as her reason, police announced, that the Prince abruptly ended a love affair with her after 15 years. His friends insisted she must have been afflicted with a delusion.

She gave as her name Maria Antonietta Lazzarini.

The widow of the 69-year-old is a lady-in-waiting to Queen Elena. The Count of Brivio, his son-in-law, is a gentleman in waiting to Crown Princess Maria Jose.

Hunters Seek Cow Moose At Janetville

LINDSAY, November 10 —Provincial Constable Adair has issued a warning to business men to be on their guard against the operations of cheque artists who have passed bogus cheques in the neigborhood of Peterboro, Lindsay, Rosedale and Haliburton. In connection with the cheque passed at Rosedale, the police have been given a description of the two alleged operators and the car in which they were travelling.

Residents of Janetville and district are on the warpath for the cow moose which was seen by a Peterboro resident a few days ago. Some people were a little dubious about the visit of a moose in this section, but Oscar and Harry Armstrong also saw the animal. They were ploughing in an open field when they heard a commotion among a couple of colts. Looking up they saw a moose scamper across the field to where the colts were grazing. The moose, which was large and bulky, was devoid of horns. School children in the village also saw the moose hop a fence.

On Wednesday night the barn on the farm of Alex. McNelly, near Tory Hill was totally destroyed by fire. The cause of the fire is a mystery. Besides the barn, the winter feed for stock was also burned. There was no insurance on barn and contents.

Toronto Applicant Wins Over Local

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Nov. 10. — Out of forty applicants, many of them local men, John Nesbitt of Toronto was appointed a member of the Lindsay Police Force last night by the Town Council. A resolution recommending a local man was defeated. Alderman R. Butler informed the Council that the members would come in for considerable criticism for appointing an outside man on the force.

Provincial Constable Adair is investigating a break in at Dessilett's service station and refreshment booth near Oakwood last night. The thieves gained entrance by breaking a window. The loot consisted of cigarettes, candies and oil.

The relief situation in Lindsay at present was described at last night's Council meeting as acute. There are 305 persons on relief. Mayor Claxton stated that the town would have to try and get an adjustment from the Provincial Government.

LAKEFIELD

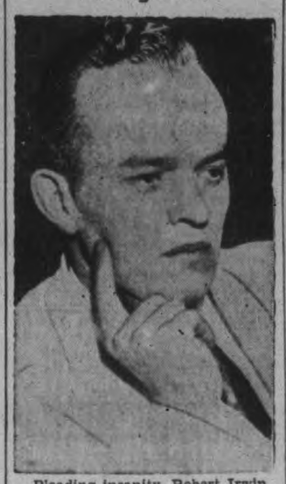
Miss Margaret Sanderson and Miss Bernice Carveth of Lakefield spent a couple of days last week visiting Uxbridge, Barrie and Orillia.

A number of members of the Lakefield branch of the Women's Institute motored to Warsaw on Tuesday afternoon, where they attended the November meeting of the Warsaw branch. The ladies of Lakefield who attended, included Mrs. W. E. Gillman, Mrs. Albert Darling, Mrs. Touchburn, Mrs. S. E. White, Mrs. Ab. Windsor, Mrs. Charles Frankish, Mrs. Robert Charlton, Miss Minnie Charlton, Mrs. T. W. Chaplin, Mrs. M. Hopkins, Mrs. O. E. Kingdon, Mrs. Stan. Higgins, Mrs. Rooke, Mrs. Reil, and Miss Margaret Sanderson. Mrs. Chaplin presented a paper on "Peace Education," and Miss Minnie Charlton rendered a piano solo.

Misses Zelma and Irene Darling, Muriel Bullock, and Margaret Tanner, and Messrs. Robert Spence, Clayton Bullock, Reg. Barton, and Rev. G. F. Kelly, all of Lakefield, were in Peterborough on Monday, where they attended the Officers' Congress for Peterborough Presbytery, which was held in George Street Church. Rev. Mr. Bury of Janetville was the special speaker.

Miss Pearl Peacock, who is confined to Isolation Hospital, Peterborough, suffering from an attack of scarlet fever, is reported to be much improved in health, and hopes to return home before long.

Facing Trial



Pleading insanity, Robert Irwin, sculptor, is facing trial in New York for the triple slaying of beautiful Veronica Gedeon, professional model; her mother, Mrs. Mary Gedeon; and their boarder, Frank Byrnes. The trio were slain in the Gedeons' New York apartment on Easter Sunday, 1937. Samuel Leibowitz, noted American criminal lawyer, is defending Irwin.

Marriage Revealed

That he has been a happy husband for months was revealed by Henry Huddleston Rogers, Jr., ABOVE, son of the late Standard Oil millionaire, who was in the national spotlight when Showgirl Evelyn Hoey was shot to death in his Pennsylvania home three years ago.

Nova Scotia Coal Grants Increased

OTTAWA, Nov. 10—(CP).—Maximum subventions payable on Nova Scotia coal were increased by an order-in-Council passed yesterday, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of National Revenue, announced to-day.

The order-in-council provides the maximum subvention payable on Nova Scotia coal shipped to the Ontario market be increased from $1.50 to $2.00 per ton, and the maximum payable on coal for railway use be increased from $2.00 to $2.50 per ton.

In a telegram to D. J. Hartigan, Liberal member for Cape Breton South, Mr. Ilsley said it was hoped the conditions which necessitated the increase would prove to be temporary.

Dominion Government subventions are paid on coal produced both in the Maritime Provinces and in Western Canada to encourage its use in the markets of Central Canada. Their purpose is to meet part of the freight charges on hauling the coal to the markets.

YOUNG'S POINT

A NEW CAR JOINS THE FORD QUALITY GROUP

THE MERCURY V-TYPE Eight

A PRODUCT OF THE FORD ORGANIZATION

THE MERCURY V-8 TOWN SEDAN

For 1939 the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, presents an entirely new car—The Mercury 8. Outstanding features are streamlined beauty—rich upholstery and appointments—95-horsepower V-type engine—hydraulic brakes—remarkable quiet and comfort—116-inch wheelbase, 195 inches over-all length—wide bodies—exceptional room for passengers and luggage.

THOUSANDS of motorists, noting the extra value provided by the Ford and the Lincoln-Zephyr in their price fields, have had a desire for an equally outstanding value in the lower medium-price field.

The new Mercury 8 is the answer to that desire. It provides the added size and luxury that extra dollars buy, plus something this price class has never known before . . . Ford quality and dependability, with the performance and economy of a Ford-built V-type 8-cylinder engine.

It is made possible by the modern, progressive policies of the Ford organization and its constant effort to give greater value to a widening circle of motorists.

The clean, flowing lines of the new Mercury reflect the distinction of the Lincoln-Zephyr—accepted style leader and an example of Ford pioneering in original design.

The Mercury is a big car—long and unusually wide—with exceptional space for passengers and luggage. Three people can ride comfortably (we emphasize the word comfortably) in both the front and back seats. Head room and leg room are equal to that of many cars selling at considerably higher prices.

Because the Mercury is a big car, it is powered by a big 95-horsepower engine, of the eight-cylinder V-type that has made such an unusual record of performance. Motorists who now own cars in this price field will be amazed at the economy of the Mercury 8.

It is a remarkably quiet car. Scientific research by Ford engineers has minimized noise and vibration. Microphones and stethoscopes have been used to locate the sources of disturbing noises and new sound-deadening materials developed.

Bodies are all-steel, of course, welded into a single one-piece unit for your greater protection. The new hydraulic brakes are built to strict Ford standards of safety and dependability.

We invite you to see the new Mercury 8.

Bad Day For Roosevelt

The voting which took place in United States on Tuesday was not a presidential election, but it was regarded very much as a test of President Roosevelt and his New Deal policies. He had injected the issue personally by his many appeals to electors on behalf of candidates on whom he laid hands of approval.

The actual contest was for 432 House of Representative seats, 35 seats in the Senate, 32 state governorships and a host of minor offices.

President Roosevelt, heading the Democrats, has been much to the front since 1932. He has dominated Congress, and the term Congress is one which includes both the House of Representatives and the Senate. There has been power of action given to him which has probably never before been the property of a president in United States. His authority to spend money has been stupendously large and he has exercised that right in such a way that in many states it was said he could not be defeated because it would be "unprofitable to shoot Santa Claus." His policy has been one of seeking to restore prosperity by spending money on public works, and undoubtedly he has antagonized business by the extent of his spending for relief purposes because business has found that the resulting taxation has been handed back to it in the way of increased levies.

The Republicans who have appeared as a dwarfed party since the ascendancy of Roosevelt began made a formidable showing in the election. They won in states where Roosevelt spendings had been the greatest; they took seats in the farming district where people had been paid bonuses for non-production on their land. In all the Republicans gave a demonstration which shows plainly they will be formidable contenders when the time for the presidential election again arrives.

The result indicates that President Roosevelt has lost his grip on the situation. Personal popularity has been his great asset, but the constant assertion that he had become a one-man government has been effective. Business undoubtedly has felt it wanted a chance to work out its own plans rather than having it all done for them by Washington. Nor do we believe it wrong to state that a good many people must have come to the conclusion that it is not possible to bring prosperity to a country by the mere spending of public money.

Paying For Geography

In Canada we have to use our dollars to correct our geography. We have a long east-to-west stretch and when we ship material of any kind it is a case where long miles make long shipping charges.

There is for example, plenty of soft coal in the East, particularly in Nova Scotia, and there is also a great deal of soft coal in United States, a much shorter haul as far as industrial sections in Ontario and Quebec are concerned. If the full charges for shipping our coal had to be paid by the consumer then the trade would likely go to United States mines because the distance is shorter.

A despatch from Ottawa mentions that since 1924 the Dominion government has been spending $2,000,000 a year at a mileage bonus to reduce the shipping charges. Maritime members have argued a good many times that the amount of the bonus should be even greater. In fourteen years it has amounted to $28,000,000 so the mines of the Maritimes might be able to sell their coal in Ontario and Quebec. It is another way of adding to the protection which may be offered by a tariff.

Possibly it is as good an arrangement as can be made to try and make it possible for Nova Scotia to sell its coal and keep its miners at work, but our geography is actually the reason why we have had to pay our $28,000,000 in this way in the last fourteen years.

Where You Can Play Safe

No person has yet lost a five-cent piece through dealing with a Canadian life insurance company. And that claim applies to all Canadian insurance companies in the last sixty years.

What's more, there is not another record equal to that in the world.

We gather those rather formidable statements from announcements made by G. D. Finlayson, Superintendent of Insurance for the Dominion.

That record has been made in spite of the fact that through the entire period since we had life insurance companies in this country there have been fourteen companies which went out of business. But there was no loss to those who were depending on their policies, and the official records show that against each failure there is written "Reinsured with——" and the name of some other existing company fills in the blank.

In the paper a few days ago there was announcement of the extent of an estate which was probated. It was placed at $43,000, and $35,000 of that was in life insurance. The estate was that of a professional man who had been working for 38 years in a community in Western Ontario. He had made a number of investments and there was a time a few years ago when he was reputedly worth a good deal of money. Advice which we consider reliable was to the effect that he had eleven stock certificates showing fairly large holdings on which virtually nothing would ever be realized. It is not unusual to find such estates where the one thing which pays 100 cents on the dollar is the life insurance.

This of course may be regarded as free advertising for Canadian life insurance companies. If the companies care to regard it as such they are welcome to it. It is also sound advice to the readers of this paper and it is of them we are thinking at the moment. No person has ever lost a five-cent piece by dealing with a Canadian life insurance company.

Gunning For Chamberlain

Premier Chamberlain is pretty much out in the open just now, and there does not appear to be a sheltering doorway into which he can duck until the wind dies down. When he was conducting his eleventh hour sessions with Hitler the critics were not saying a great deal. Many of them were busy digging trenches in their own back yards and making plans generally for safety and shelter in case war started and air raids came suddenly.

Today it is different and Neville Chamberlain is being denounced as a man who lowered British prestige, who made it possible for power and might to over-rule justice. In short it seems to be somewhat of an open season for those who desire to go gunning for Premier Chamberlain.

There are a few stubborn facts which are now conveniently ignored.

Chiefest of which is just this—those who thoroughly understood what modern warfare means knew well enough that before an army could ever be placed in any field in any country the cities of at least five or six nations would be bombed; the slaughter of non-combatants would be impressively terrible.

The whole world knows now that London was not in any way ready to fight an air raid, and if that was true of London it was probably equally true of every other city in the United Kingdom. That pitiful lack of preparedness has been candidly admitted on the floor of the British House of Commons, so it is a substantial and well-founded fact.

Is there any good reason to believe that Premier Chamberlain knew nothing of these conditions? It is asking a great deal of one to believe that he knew nothing at all about the weakness of the home defences. And knowing what he must have known, who is there to suggest that he did not have all the reasons which could be enumerated or thought of to desire negotiation rather than an open break?

Admittedly that is putting his mission on the rather low plane of self-preservation, but it makes one shudder to think what would have happened to London and other British cities had not Chamberlain's negotiations been successful. Any hot-head can bring about a war, but the world still has place and room and cause to respect a man who averted war.

One Way Of Collecting Taxes

The city of Brantford had a tax sale, but it was—to use an easy word—somewhat of a flop. There were a large number of building lots which could have been bought up for the taxes standing against them. The city treasurer says there had been no previous tax sale for a number of years and on that account taxes against much of the offered property had been allowed to mount. It may have been such an accumulation of back taxes was sufficient in itself to scare a prospective buyer. Whatever the reason there was just one lone purchaser at the sale.

It is interesting to note at the moment what will happen now. As individuals the people in Brantford apparently did not want these vacant lots, but the chances are that collectively as taxpayers of Brantford they will ultimately have to pay up all these back taxes and then present the lots to the city.

It generally works the same way. There will be a deferred sale at which the chairman of the Property Committee will bid these properties in for the taxes against them. The city treasurer will then be required to issue his cheque for the total amount. It is not a matter of making a cross-entry in the books because the amount needed will be a charge against the tax rate, and the ratepayers who have been keeping their own taxes paid in full will be asked—or forced—to provide the money to pay up the back taxes of those who have neglected to attend to their own paying.

The city as such does not actually want these lots; it would be better off without them. They are a dead weight until some person comes along to purchase a lot from the city on which to build a house, after which the lot and the house become active assets as far as the city taxing office is concerned. It is not entirely comfortable to think that the man who pays his taxes has also to help pay arrears in taxes on seized property, but so far we have not got around to the serious business of finding a better way.

They Keep On Doing It

In one day's news two people got themselves into trouble by the stories they told to police officers. Norman Mason was in court at Ingersoll after having given police a busy time looking for bandits whom he alleged had taken $165 from him. He even made certain that the bandits were well armed and there was going to be nothing lacking in his experience with bold men. Truth turned out to be there had been no robbery and the man had not lost a dollar. He was charged with publishing false news, a charge which is being more frequently lodged now than for some time, and it cost him $19.

On the same day A. A. Vaughan of Detroit had his car seized by a finance corporation, after which Vaughan went to police headquarters and reported there was $75,000 worth of radium in the car and it had been stolen while the car was in possession of the finance corporation. He was certain the person who stole it would be fearfully burned. Police made a frantic search and finally Vaughan admitted his story was a hoax. He was charged with making a false report to an officer and it cost him $100 with costs added.

Children have been known to display a fondness for impossible yarns, but with age they generally snap out of it. When an adult has a wild yarn to spring it is not good custom to tell it to a policeman because the policeman will investigate and find out about it; that is all in his day's work. And then the rebound is there because it is against the law to publish or circulate false news and in other places it is an offence to make a false report to an officer. And yet there are adults who keep on doing it. Whether there is an unsatisfied craving for notoriety or a couple of screws loose in the head is something we do not know.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It isn't that Japan merely closed the open door for eastern trade but we don't like the way she banged it.

Vienna reports that a slight earthquake was felt in the district. But there was a great one the day Hitler moved in.

One way to have your car well appraised is to loan it to some bank robber for a getaway. Then the papers are sure to speak of it as having been high-powered.

Russia says that country is preparing for an attack by Germany in 1941. One would think there was enough trouble now without reaching ahead a couple of years for an added supply.

Russian official refers to Col. Charles Lindbergh as a "ruffian spy." But that is a little tame after having read that Pravda, Communist organ of Moscow, referred to the Colonel as "a stupid liar."

Attempts to raise gold from an old vessel sunk in the English channel have been abandoned because it was decided there was no gold there. After doing a little heavy thinking we concluded that was a fairly good reason for calling it a day and quitting.

While politicians delight to make speeches about the varying and unreconciled attitudes of various parts of the Dominion, the Women's Missionary Society of the Warsaw United Church prepare to send a bale of goods to needy people in the West. There is really no need to make any comment about that.

The town council of Hastings is considering purchasing wood from a nearby lot. They have the wood cut by local people who would otherwise be unemployed. By this method it is said they kept four families off relief last year. No profit is made from the undertaking but keeping people off relief is quite as important as profit. It looks like a sensible and proper thing to do.

ADVICE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When I am feeling rather low, and moving painful like and slow, and weak in spine and feet; 'tis then each block I'm stopped up twice, and listen to some more advice, on things I ought to eat.

¶ My Neighbor A., a goodly soul, who tips with joy the flowing bowl, looks on my case with dread; I should be somewhat of a sport, and pour myself a goodly snort, before I go to bed.

¶ And Billy B who's fat and round, and laughs with such a cheerful sound, looks at my wobbly legs; I'd never be run down or sick, if I ate steak two inches thick, and lots of ham and eggs.

¶ 'Tis then I meet with Baldy C, he stops and takes a look at me, he talks about his feed; I should cut out all pie and cake, nor yet devour great slabs of steak, it's spinach that I need.

¶ And Neighbor D he knows for sure, the quickest path to make a cure, good health's his greatest wish; he'd cut out eggs and butter too, and then he'd make me all like new, by filling me with fish.

¶ Augustus E is eighty-five, as sharp as any man alive, he stops to illustrate; "I pay no heed to what folks say, I find by far the safest way—just eat what's on my plate."

Some More Facts On Our Railways

CASH INVESTED by the Dominion Government in railways is estimated at $1,693,300,000 by the railway auditor of the Department of Transport. The items making up the total are:

Subsidies	$162,700,000
Capital expenditures	421,400,000
Operating and capital losses	701,000,000
Loans	58,600,000
Securities purchased	288,000,000
Miscellaneous grants, etc.	61,600,000
Total Dominion	$1,693,300,000

Provincial Governments in years past also incurred investments in railways, to a total of $106,300,000, of which amount $33,400,000 was in subsidies and $72,900,000 in loans. Subsidies to railways from municipalities have totalled $13,300,000.

✧ ✧ ✧

C.N.R. FINANCES

THE RAILWAY DEBT to the public as at December 31, 1936, was $1,184,612,249, and a year later it was $1,221,997,399. The situation as revealed to the special Senate Committee may be summarized as follows:

When the Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific were taken over by the Government, the Government guaranteed bonds to the extent of $331,309,904. Between 1917, the date of the first acquisition, and December 1, 1922, this Government obligation had increased to $447,872,904.

The Canadian National Railway came into existence on January 1, 1923, and between that date and December 31, 1936, the Government had unconditionally guaranteed obligations of the railway to the extent of $599,105,686.

Provincial guarantees, which were $93,000,000 on the dates the railways were taken over, have been reduced by $20 000,000 to $73,777,953.

Railway debts not guaranteed by any government have rapidly declined, presumably due to the refunding of matured unguaranteed debts with bonds carrying the guarantee of the Dominion Government. The total unguaranteed debts at the dates of acquisition were $385,198,151 and were $177,522,256 as at December 31, 1937.

Dominion Government loans to railways were $115,607,457 at the dates of acquisition. These had grown to $506,945,969 by December 31, 1922, and were $721,064,025 at December 31, 1936. However, an Act of Parliament in 1937 revised the Canadian National capital structure so that Government loans to the railway were shown at only $79,252,547 at the end of the latest year. The $627,088,577 of taxpayers' money was abandoned as uncollectable.

GRANTS EXCEED 26,000,000 ACRES

RAILWAYS of Canada have received grants from Dominion and Provincial Governments a total of 47,639,866 acres of land. Land grants to the Canadian Pacific and acquired companies have been 26,109,043 acres from the Dominion and 10,847,291 acres from Provincial Governments.

The Canadian National received 5,763,741 acres from the Dominion Government and 1,841,061 acres from Provincial Governments, or a total of 7,604,802 acres. Other railways in Canada have received 8,859 acres from the Dominion Government and 83,069,871 acres from Provincial Governments.

Total Dominion grants have been 31,881,043 acres and Provincial grants have been 15,758,223 acres.

TWO ROADS

IN THE TEN-YEAR period 1927 to 1936, inclusive, the net income before fixed charges of the Canadian National Railways aggregated $164,793,673, contrasted with the Canadian Pacific's net income of $404,799,917 in the same period.

After paying interest of $538,826,700 (which did not include interest on Government advances) the Canadian National deficit for the ten-year period was $374,033,027. On the other hand, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company had a credit balance of $188,893,154 after paying interest on all its funded obligations.

The source of the above figures is the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

$75,000,000 EACH.

(Niagara Falls Review)

SOMEONE SAID the other day "Why don't the great powers build more and bigger battleships?" One can understand the reluctance when, across the line, it is estimated a new battleship will cost around $75,000,000 on the basis of tenders submitted to Washington. With such figures in mind, one can understand even the richest of nations hesitating. One tender submitted to the United States government figured $49,640,000 for the hull alone, while another tender amounted to $54,794,00 for hull and machinery and that is just the beginning of a warship.

With such figures in mind, one gains some idea of the heavy investment in the largest navy in the world, the British navy, and its terrific capital and maintenance cost. When one thinks of what might be done in other directions with the price of one $75,000,000 warship, it makes one wonder at human folly which has not yet evolved a saner method of settling international disputes than by building bigger and grimmer ships with which to overawe possible enemies. Yet, under present conditions armaments seem to be not only logical, but essential for the security of the nations.

A Bit of Nonsense

THAT KIND

Two charwomen met. "Hello, dearie!" said Mrs. Harris, "ain't seen you out with your 'ubby lately. Where's he got to?"

"He's had a seizure."

"As he, now?" said Mrs. Harris sympathetically. "They're terrible things them 'heart seizures."

Mrs. Brown sniffed contemptuously. "It wasn't 'is 'eart," she replied, "it was the police."

—London Opinion

• Need the Old-Time Religion

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—On the editorial page of your issue of Oct. 31st, I noticed an article entitled "Why churches are not filled." Your article quotes Rev. Edward Jeffries, prominent Old Country revivalist, at present visiting Toronto, as saying—the reason so many of our churches are empty today is, "that many preachers have given way to modernism." I agree with him on that point, and go one step farther, by saying that the majority of our modern preachers are not themselves aware of the nature of the spiritual disease that has attacked them, and being unwilling to have it diagnosed, are not only being destroyed by it themselves, but are leading their congregations headlong to destruction.

Your article goes on to quote J. W. Oakes of Guelph, as saying—"I believe it is correct to say that the great multitude who do not go to church, are no more interested in modernism, or what the clergy profess to believe, or do not believe, than they are in the old controversy, as to whether the earth is round, or flat. Again I agree with the writer quoted, and I ask, do you blame the nonchurchgoers for their apathetic attitude towards spiritual things. If the salesman who come to our doors, representing many of our local merchants, and demonstrating their goods, and their merits were as half-hearted, as the majority of our ministers are, with regard to the Lord they are supposed to represent, they would be fired inside of a week, as unworthy representatives of their firms.

Strong language you say—yes! But a critical situation sometimes calls for drastic action, and regardless of what the general public may think of me, for speaking the unvarnished truth, I would say to one and all, "Awake thou that sleepest, arise from the dead and Christ shall give thee light." (Eph. 5, 14).

I praise God that like Paul, I am not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ, for is is the power of God unto salvation, to very one that believeth."

The successful salesman is able to demonstrate to you the value of his goods, and is so sold on it himself, that he'll make you want to buy whether you really need to or not. "He makes you interested." The present day clergy are preaching the power of nobody, unto nothing, instead of the power of God, unto salvation, hence the fact that the world is no longer interested in what they have to offer. They advertise the Bible as their text book, but when asked to deliver the goods according to its promises, Mark 16 15-20, they cannot even give a "demonstration" as they don't even have the goods to demonstrate with.

What Jesus said of the religious leaders of His day in Matt. 15-8, is true of the "scribes" and "pharisees" of our day. This people draweth right unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. The apostasy of the modern church is a sure indication that we are living in the end of time referred to in 2 Tim. 3-1, and in 2nd Peter, 2nd chapter and Matt. 24 8-14 and 27-31. "Jesus is coming soon, to receive unto Himself His bride," His true church, called out from the visible, nominal, Christian church, composed of believers from every kindred nation and church, who have been saved through the shed blood of Calvary's Lamb, baptized in the Holy Ghost as at the inauguration of the church at Pentecost (Acts 2-4). They are conspicuously separate from the world, watching and longing for the coming of the heavenly bridegroom, meanwhile occupying till He come.

It's not a new Gospel we read, but the convicting power of the Holy Ghost, accompanying the preaching of the same old Gospel with signs following as when Peter preached and 3,000 souls were saved, as when John Wesley and Whitfield preached and those signs followed. Nearer our own day was the great Welsh revival when people even quit work to come and worship, praise and pray, all day and all night, sometimes on their knees and on their faces before God. Even today there is a moving among the dry bones and here and there God is pouring out His spirit as of old. Read Jeremiah 6:16, "Stand ye in the ways and see, and ask for the old paths: Where is the good way? and walk therein, and ye shall find rest unto your souls."

Yours for the old time religion,

M. HARVEY.

• He Does Not Care For Them

SIR,—Although not given to rushing into print, says a correspondent in the Montreal Star, I cannot resist writing today to express my disgust with the bungling mess that the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. are making of our radio programs—those emanating from the Montreal stations at any rate.

As an example I have only to call your attention to Saturday afternoon's broadcast. On both stations CBM and CBF, which you, and I, and everybody else in the country are taxed to maintain, we were treated to scratchy recordings from two o'clock to five,—the only week-day afternoon on which thousands of workers have an opportunity to enjoy (?) their radios. On CKAC, which after all is a privately owned station, we were privileged to listen to an English-French hodgepodge of fifteen minute programs. CFCF which is also, I understand, a privately owned station, for some reason or other, saw fit to tie up their airways from 1.45 until 4.30 with a broadcast of the Harvard-Chicago football game, in spite of the fact that a football classic was going on right under their very noses in the Varsity-McGill game which was played at the Molson Stadium.

While the Harvard-Chicago game was probably of considerable interest to our Southern neighbors, it is doubtful if it appealed very much to any of the Canadian holders of $2.50 radio licences, whereas the Varsity-McGill game would have been listened to with a great deal of pleasure by thousands of persons right across Canada, particularly relatives of students of the two colleges, graduates and friends of these two outstanding Canadian Universities.

There have been numerous protests during the last year or so, or practically ever since the CBC came into existence, over the type of programs which they have been sending out. These have done no good of course; as a matter of fact, the CBC programs appear to be becoming more and more of a headache, and I for one am becoming rather disgusted with a political party that sees fit to sponsor such an unsatisfactory and one might almost say useless organization.

• The Cold Nights Out West

(From the Regina Leader-Post)

WE SEE BY THE LATEST packet that owing to a shortage of relief nightshirts and pyjamas in Saskatoon, citizens of the old Temperance colony on the banks of the south Saskatchewan have been going to bed in the raw. This for about eight years.

Without trying to minimize the troubles of those who have to get along on relief we can hardly refrain from saying that if such things are going on in Saskatoon, it is a big change from the earlier years of the pioneers—the days of the bootjack, the handle-bar moustache, the whisker-growing northeast quarter section, the ready tied necktie, and the hairlined Saskatoon shirt.

We have it on the authority of the editor of the Star-Phoenix that it was the custom of Saskatoon folks to sleep in their underwear. Which is also an old Alberta custom. On cold nights they sometimes pulled on an extra fleece-lined shirt or even a pair of overalls, a pair of felt socks and red-striped mittens, put out the cat, threw the clock out of gear, and settled down to wait for Spring. Many of the earlier citizens wore hair-lined shirts, with the hair next the skin. These were put on over the head and fastened with a throat-lash. Wearing one of these shirts and snuggled under a couple of horse blankets many a citizen passed a restful night—or Winter.

Well, it's a long jump from those other days in Saskatoon—days which we have been told were common up to the time of the Great War, to the present situation when citizens are going to bed on the hoof, as it were. It is difficult to believe that there has been this extreme swing from the night blooming hair-lined shirt and festive red underwear to the present situation that seems to amount to practically nothing. Not a thing.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

BEHOLD, now are we the sons of God and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.—I John iii, 2.

There was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews: the same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him.

Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Nicodemus said unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?

Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh: and that which is born of the spirit is spirit.—John iii, 1-6.

To The Editor

HE PROTESTS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The greatest shock I ever experienced was in reading the statement by Ald. G. N. Gordon that I am an avowed Communist and the city should not sell me a lot to build a home for my family. Had Mr. Gordon been an alderman in Munich, Germany, I would not have been surprised at his attitude, but Mr. Gordon is a member of the Peterborough City Council, a man for whom both my wife and myself voted.

Now, Mr. Gordon, I am a Canadian citizen. I have resided in Canada since 1907, and I, together with two older brothers were pioneer homesteaders in western Canada. I have been a resident and business man in Peterborough since 1923; my children were born here and are getting their education here. I am a property owner and therefore a taxpayer, and have as much right to build a home here as anyone else.

Where is your pride in British fair play, Mr. Gordon? Since when has one Canadian denied the right to another Canadian to build a home for himself and his family because of difference of political opinion?

Alright Mr. Gordon, you can do your best to try and stop the city from selling me one of the four vacant lots near the Chemong highway, but surely you don't think that you can stop me from building a home in Peterborough.

I take this opportunity of thanking the mayor and Mr. Dutton for showing Mr. Gordon his un-British and unjust attitude.

Thanking you for this valuable space, I am

Sincerely yours,

R. H. RUSKIN.

Pioneer Church Near Roseneath Celebrates 50th Anniversary

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Nov. 10—On Sunday Bethany (Macklin's) United Church celebratetd its golden jubilee anniversary with morning and evening services The church is situated in the Macklin Settlement, in the north of Haldimand Township approximately four miles south-west of the village of Roseneath.

Like innumerable other stories of pioneer days, the story of this settlement is bound up in the history of its church. As in the days of old when the people found a goodly land, they took counsel together and builded an altar unto Almighty God. On down through eight decades the names of the same families are written on the pages of the record of this church. Previous to building the first church, the settlers gathered in the log school house which stood in the north-west corner of the adjoining cemetery which at that time was a field. Here they worshipped.

There are no records showing who conducted the services, but they helped to lay the foundation on which the spiritual life of this church was built. Of the company attending those services two attended the services on Sunday. They were Mrs. John McDonald, formerly Miss Jane Couch, and Mrs. S. Down, formerly Miss Mary George.

In 1850 a deed was given by Joseph George to Edward Macklin for three-quarters of an acre of land, part of the south half of Lot 15, Concession 9, of Haldimand Township. The deed was not registered until ten years later, in 1860. On this land the first church was built. The trustees in 1850 at the time of building were:

Edward Macklin, James Macklin, William Staples, John Allawell, and Joseph George.

The ministers from 1850 down to 1888 were:

Rev. Messrs. Perrin, Short, Ivison, Thompson, Peake, Dowler, Buchanan, Bell, Talyor, and R. L. Edwards.

At this period there was no instrument and no choir, but Robert Macklin started the tune. In 1871 William Nill was appointed choir leader. He formed a choir and continued in this office until 1918, when he moved from the locality. The first organ was installed about 1880.

In 1888 the present building was erected during the first pastorate of Rev. R. L. Edwards. At the opening of the new church Rev. Dr. Reynar of Cobourg was guest speaker at morning and evening services, and Rev. J. S. I. Wilson of Cobourg gave an address at the afternoon service. Miss Lillian Macklin was the organ ist and included among those singing in the choir under the direction of Mr. Nill were: C. D. Harper, W. A. Macklin, C. W. Macklin, and the Misses Dilla and Laura Teney. Of that choir Mr. Macklin, Mr. Harper and Mrs. George Montgomery (nee Dilla Teney) atetnded service on Sunday. C. W. Macklin is at present living in California; Miss Laura Teney, afterward Mrs. Charles Mitchell, William Nill, the leader, and the organist, who later became Mrs. William Nill, have passed on to higher service. Mrs. Nill's body was laid to rest in the adioining cemetery on October 19, 1938.

The namese of the ministers serving in the new church dating from 1888 to the present time are:

Rev. Messrs. R. L. Edwards, William Tucker, William Tembin, Ferguson, W. Elliott, Moran, Young, M. E. Sexsmith, H. A. Chapman, S. A. Dupreau, R. L. Edwards.

S. Rorke, C. C. Washington, H. A. Bunt, W. R. Walsh, J. C. Lovelace, M. R. Brown, R. W. Paton, F. Holly and Rev. L. W. Scott, the present pastor.

The trustees this present year, 1938, are: C. D. Harper, secretary treasurer, George Macklin, George Tucker, F. J. Slade, W. A. Macklin, H. E. Macklin, H. A. Harper, Bruce Macklin, B. McDonald, W. R. Macklin, Percy Macklin and Elvin Tucker.

Two members of the visiting choir in the morning, Mrs. A. Nill, leader, and Mrs. Ella Brown, received their first training in choir work under the leadership of Mr. William Nill.

This is a story of more than a building, more too, than a story of a church. On Sunday there worshipped descendants of five generations. Woven in and out through the story, is a pattern traced in gold, of a people faithful in life, faithful unto death, to the God of their fathers.

Rev. James E. Beckel of Stirling, secretary of Bay of Quinte Conference, assistant of Rev. S. A. Dupreau some thirty-two years ago, was guest speaker at morning and evening services. Mr. Beckel stressed evangelism, singling out Andrew as the New Testament character who was constantly introducing people to Jesus. Mr. Beckel urged that advantage be taken of the ample opportunities we are afforded today of introducing people to Jesus.

Roseneath United church choir led in the singing, also rendering three special number; two anthem, "I Will Extol Thee," by M. L. McFall, and "We Will Rejoice in the Lord," by Charles Edward Pollock, the third number "Make Some other Heart Rejoice," was sung by Messrs. Lewis Roberts, Alvin Kelly, Willis Dowler, Melville Macklin and Renslow Joice.

Mr. Beckel's subject for the evening service was "The Conversion of Jacceus". Plainville United Church choir led in the service of song, rendering appropriate numbers.

The church was packed to capacity at both services. Potted plants adorned the chancel.

CENTRETON

The King's Own Mission Band met on Sunday morning. Audrey Prettie gave a reading, "Be Brave, Smile"; Clara Coffey and Ona Stewart sang a duet, "Sunbeams"; Yvonne Walton gave a reading, and Mrs. Birney the chapter in the study book. The program committee for December was named: Bruce Curtis, Glen McBride, and Lloyd Merriam.

Several donations of toys, candy, and comic papers were brought in for the Christmas box to be sent to Moose Mountain, Sask., to the Indian children there. Several of the boys and girls are also corresponding with Band members there.

Several of our villagers attended the anniversary services at Macklin's Church on Sunday.

Centreton residents were in Cobourg on Saturday afternoon and evening.

The girl members of the Mission Band and leader, Mrs. F. Birney, met at the home of Mrs. Johnson McKenzie on Saturday afternoon to make toys and clothes for the doll for the Christmas box.

The members of the Sunday School are meeting on Thursday night to make plans for the Christmas entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beatty, Port Hope, called on Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brewster on Sunday.

Mrs. Claud Richardson and family lately of Grafton, have moved to the village into the house lately occupied by the late John Jones.

Rev. Dr. J. S. McKay, 35 years a missionary in India, was the guest speaker at the United Church on Sunday evening. Mrs. A. Nichol and Mrs. R. Stewart sang a duet.

Voters Want Men Elections Show

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)—Women lawmakers probably will be less numerous in the next United States congress as a result of yesterday's elections — despite the fact that for the next two months there will be not one, but two, women senators.

The only woman senator last session, Mrs. Hattie Caraway, Arkansas Democrat, won re-election easily. Her real battle was fought four weeks ago in the primaries.

Successful in another senate race was Miss Gladys Pyle of South Dakota. She ran as Republican nominee against J. T. McCullen for a short term which will end when the next congress begins Jan. 5. She will not be seated unless there is a special session before 1938 ends, but she will draw her pay just the same.

In the lower house of representatives Mary Norton, Democrat, chairman of the house labor committee, readily won re-election in New Jersey. She piloted the wages and hours bill through the house last spring and is dean of the small contingent of women members.

Receives Large Majority

Representative Edith Rogers of Massachusetts received the largest majority since she was elected in 1925. Success also crowned the campaign efforts of representative Caroline O'Day, running as a democratic at-large candidate in New York. Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, her close friend, campaigned for her in 1934 and contributed $100 to her expenses this year.

But elsewhere the political paths of women house members were not so smooth. Representative Virginia Jenckes, Democrat, was in a close race in Indiana with Noble Johnson, Republican whom she defeated in 1936. Another friend of Mrs. Roosevelt's, representative Nan Honeyman, Democrat, failed of re-election in Oregon.

WARSAW

There will be an Armistice Day service in the United Church on Friday, following the school parade to the Cenotaph.

Classes for Sunday School teachers and others interested in Bible study are being held every Wednesday evening in the United Church Sunday School room until the end of November. They will be discontinued during December as there are so many Christmas practices and other calls.

Rev. Mr. Walker is taking the Old Testament studies, Rev. J. W. Wilkinson the New Testament studies, and Dr. Munro studies on the life of St. Paul. So far the classes have been fairly well attended, but they are very worth-while, and the committee would like to see more. It is absolutely non-denominational.

Roads from Warsaw, especially the road to Peterborough, and the Scotch Line, are getting great benefit from the new gravel.

Mrs. Couch and two daughters from Bowmanville and Miss Baker, Solina, visited at the United Church Parsonage on Saturday. Mrs. Couch is Mrs. Wilkinson's sister-in-law.

Mrs. Adamson, Keene, and two children spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Crowe, returning on Sunday. Little Marie remained for a few more days with her grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Batten.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yale, Miss Lois Yale and Miss Chiddick, also Donald Yale, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Miller.

Mrs. E. Robeson (nee Ella Garlick), of Toronto, called on several friends in the village on Saturday.

Wilbert Wright made his last trip with milk for the season on Monday.

Member Of Canadian Team Goes Up and Over

Lieutenant Douglas Cleland, of the Canadian military jumping team, is pictured "going over the top" at the cannon jump, the newest hurdle for the military jumpers at the National Horse Show in New York. Lt. Cleland will also be on the team representing Canada at the Royal Winter Fair, which opens in Toronto on November 15.

Two Nations Plan Canton Air Base

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (A.P.). — Pan-American Airways officials said yesterday plans were shaping for the establishment of an air base early next year on the disputed mid-Pacific island of Canton, claimed by both Great Britain and the United States.

Officials said the plan would probably mature following the delivery of six new 42½-ton "super clippers" now nearing completion in Seattle, Wash.

Four of the ships will be delivered to San Francisco for use on the trans-Pacific routes, reinforcing the China service, and renewing the New Zealand service which was interrupted last December by the loss of the Samoan Clipper. The other two will be used in the Atlantic service.

BETHANY

Miss Sylvia Whitcombe of Lindsay is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kennedy over the week-end.

Mrs. Lloyd Kennedy has returned home from a pleasant visit with friends at Whitby and Oshawa.

Mr. R. Casement of Lakefield is visiting relatives in Bethany and vicinity, Mr. John Nesbitt and Miss Winnie and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, South Line.

The many friends of Mrs. Earl McGill will be sorry to learn of her sudden removal to Nicholls Hospital Saturday evening from her home.

Members of the Bethany hunt club left on Saturday afternoon for their annual outing of the autumn sport. The party included, Messrs. A. B. Ryley, Tom Staples, Joe Braithwaite, L. Bradburn, Mat Todd, Jack Cairns, Fred Fallis and Ernest Cavano. The party will motor to Owen Sound and then entrain for the woods in the far north.

Mrs. Preston Carscadden of Toronto spent last week the guest of her aunt, Miss Emily Preston and Mrs. Ida Carscadden.

Staff Is Blameless In Hospital Death

NEW TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 10—(CP).—John McCann, 36, died of a dislocation of the neck caused accidentally at the Ontario Hospital, New Toronto, last Saturday night, a coroner's jury decided last night. The verdict absolved the hospital staff of blame.

McCann made a flying tackle and landed head first against the chest of Samuel Williamson, an attendant, testified John Wade, another attendant.

"I went to his aid and we all went down on the floor struggling together," said Wade. "McCann seemed to give up and go limp."

Five Charges Laid To Kitchener Man

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 10 (C. P.). — Five charges were read in Police Court to I .E. Bates, Kitchener, formerly of Stratford. He pleaded not guilty and the case was laid over until November 16.

Three of the charges were that he did convert money, given to him to deliver to James Hill of Mitchell, to his own use, and the other two charges were that he did obtain goods and cash by false pretences and with intent to defraud.

In both of the latter charges cheques were said to have been drawn on a Mitchell bank. Defence Counsel John Murray told the court he had the cash to pay Mr. Hill and Crown Attorney W. E. Goodwin, K.C., said if the defence wanted to deal with Mr. Hill outside the court he had no objection.

Kenneth Wright and his wife, who gave their addresses as Thamesford, pleaded not guilty to a charge of theft of $24, the property of Duncan McDermid, Stratford. The pair were arrested in Listowel on Tuesday. They were remanded to jail for a week. George Dubuque, Chatham, understood to have been with them, was charged with vagrancy and also pleaded not guilty. He was remanded to jail for a week.

CAMPAIGN GOES OVER TOP

MONTREAL.—Financial federation's campaign for $752,000 for charitable work went over the top, John Bassett, chairman of the drive announced last night. The campaign netted $752,897.

TAKE THE LEAD OUT OF YOUR LEGS

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Pep that Sends You Bounding Up the Stairs

People who smother to death die because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery — you tire quickly — feel depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Grove School Beats Pickering To Continue Winning Streak

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 10.—The Lakefield Preparatory School senior team completed an unbroken string of victories with a win over Pickering College juniors here yesterday by the score of 22-1.

The game was a fast exhibition of interesting football. In a first period series of end runs and passes, Pickering brought the ball to Grove's twenty-five yard line. Their attempt at a placement failed. On runs by Dobbin and Rose the Grove forced their opponents back and Rose kicked for a single. Crickmore plunged for twenty yards and on the following play kicked a placement for the Grove.

7-0 End of First.

Another placement by Crickmore brought the score to 7-0 at the end of the first canto.

The second period opened with Rose recovering his own kick. MacLaren went around the right end for twenty yards and Frewer took a twenty-five yard forward pass. Pease plunged for five and Rose went over for a touch which Crickmore converted. Hendershot, for Pickering, intercepted a pass and ran for forty yards. Score at end of 2nd quarter, Grove 13, Pickering 0.

Rose Kicks Point.

In the third quarter a kick by Rose went into touch for a point. Laurin plunged well for Pickering. Potts took a short kick on the run and raced for a try which was not converted. On the kick-off, the Grove were caught behind the line for one point. Dobbin intercepted a Pickering forward and the end of the period saw the Grove running the ends for large gains. Score 19 to 1.

Play was even in the final quarter until Rose intercepted a pass. Crickmore immediately kicked a long placement to complete the scoring. Grove 22, Pickering 1.

Pickering College Juniors—Bell, snap; Lebrocq, Williamson, insides; Roberts, Dodds, middles; Todd, Cleland, outsides; Phipps, quarter; Hendershot, Bamford and Davis, halves; Laurin, flying wing. Subs, Apple, Mayo, Cornell, Townley, Jay.

Lakefield Preparatory School Seniors— Langmuir, snap; Foster, B. Dobbin, insides; MacLaren, Pease, middles; Roberts, Frewer, outsides; Harris, quarter; R. Dobbin, Crickmore, Rose, halves; Potts, flying wing. Subs, Carson, Tilley, LaNauze, Wilkes and Morris.

Bantams Tied.

The Bantam teams of the Grove and Pickering College played to an eleven-all tie. Pickering opened the scoring when J. Frost went around the end for a touchdown, and they increased their lead in the second period when Beer plunged through the centre for another try which was converted. The Grove replied in the third period by a forward pass for twenty-five yards, Arnold to Tilley.

Wilkes Scores Touch.

Wilkes then carried the ball across the line and Carr-Harris converted. On a Grove end run Tilley broke away for forty yards and scored o try which was not converted. The last period found both teams trying desperately to break the tie, but failing to take advantage of their opportunities.

Pickering — Donaldson, Schols, Harvey, Stuart, Brook, Mills, Cook, Mutch, Frosst, McNeil, Carson, Beer. Subs, Coutu, C. Harvey, Kurata, Meeld.

Scotland Defeats Wales 3 To 2

EDINBURGH, Nov. 10 (C.P.). — Scotland took the lead in the international soccer tournament on Wednesday by defeating Wales 3 to 2 before a crowd of 40,000 spectators. In a thrilling contest the Scots were held to a 1-1 tie at half-time.

Earlier in the season Scotland triumphed 2 to 0 against Ireland, while Wales took England's measure 4 to 2 a few weeks ago. Last year at Cardiff the Welshmen edged out a 2-1 decision over Scotland.

Scotland's experimental eleven played high-class football yesterday and deserevd its success. No fewer than six changes were made from the team that defeated Ireland.

After T. Gillick, speedy Everton winger, had opened the scoring for his team a few minutes before half-time, Tommy Walker, Heart of Midlothian star, netted two quick goals near the end of the match.

D. J. Astley, Derby County's centre, netted the first goal after 20 minutes' play with the Scottish defence out of position. England's second came with only a minute left for play, Leslie Jones, Arsenal inside right, scoring after a fine individual effort.

The Scottish team had the best of matters in the opening 45 minutes, and throughout the second half pressed incessantly. But for the spectacular work of W. R. John the score would have been heavier. In the second half the Swansea Town goalkeeper was kept busy saving shots and headers from all angles.

Western Teams Meet In Finals

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10—(CP)—Football's fundamentals—hard running, stiff tackling and good kicking—will be the keynote when Young Men's Hebrew Association of Winnipeg meets Regina Dales in a sudden-death game here tomorrow for Western Canada's junior football championship.

Never an exponent of "razzle-dazzle" tactics, Bert Warwick, Y.M. H.A.'s veteran coach, said his boys will stick to straight football when they meet the defending western champion Dales for the second time in two years.

Last Fall at Regina Dales scored 26 points in the second half to rout the Manitoba champions 34-6 at Regina in a game never completed. Players and spectators swarmed to the field in a wild demonstration near the end of the game and play was abandoned. Dales lost to Hamilton Italo-Canadians in the Dominion final at Hamilton.

At Outside Wing

You have to be good to play at outside wing for Sarnia Imperials in the O.R.F.U. When Bummer Stirling, the country's outstanding kicker, sends those towering punts down the field it takes a good man to get down and make the tackle. One of Sarnia's good men is Ike Norris, ABOVE, a Sarnia product on his home town team.

Kicking Duel Is Slated For Sarnians

(Sarnia Observer)

Don Crowe, the studious backfielder of Bill Irwin's Peterborough Orfuns, will match punts with Bummer Stirling for the second time this season when the Petes from No. 28 Highway and the Imps from here wind up the 1938 senior O.R.F.U. schedule here Friday afternoon.

The best Stirling could get out of it on the season will be a draw; and to do that he will have to outkick the kid from Peterborough.

The first time the David and Goliath of the gridiron met, Davy made something of a show of Goliath at Golly's own punting game.

Such well known swackers as Ab Box, Huck Welsh, Frank Turville, Rocky Rocanno, Jim Riddell, Ray Mullins and Bob Isbister have vainly tried to do what Crowe accomplished. So Friday's game will be Stirling's last chance of the year to put the presumptuous fellow, who dared dispute him, in his place.

War of Retribution.

Stirling isn't the only Sarnian likely to make Friday's battle a war of retribution. Sarnia's linemen, who were made to look very bad by the charging Petes and the ends who were bottled up by their checks and made to look about the same by Crowe and Loucks on runbacks, have set Armistice Day aside as a fitting time to show the Rice Lakers what a championship team looks like when it clicks.

Mike Loucks may not play here Friday but his injury by this time may be something in the nature of smoke screen to lull the Sarnians into another sense of false security. For if Loucks is back there with Crowe this Peterborough team is going to be very hard for any team to take. Until the Beachers finally cracked Mike down for keeps the Petes were trading punch for punch with the Queen City squad right in Toronto.

Outrushed Montreal

Montreal's burly Nationals defeated the Petes last Saturday 23-1. But the losers slashed through for 14 first downs against the Montreals. The winners moved the sticks seven times. Sarnia, in two games against the Nationals, has not been able to crack the defence like that. That gives some idea of the plunging power of the Petes and the really clever end running. The Petes get their end runs away faster than any team in senior football. The halfback takes the ball from the snap, Herb Hendrie, on the dead run and thereby gains at least two steps on the defence. They run a plunge off the same formation to keep the defence from spreading after the run too rapidly.

Friday's visitors will be the only team that has turned back Sarnia's perennial champions this year. Ottawa's Rough Riders and Hamilton's luckless Tigers bowed before the Massucci machine before the season opened. Balmy Beach has succumbed twice before the battering drives of the locals and Montreal's hand picked galaxy of stars, with victories over both Beaches and Peterborough, has been unable to lower the Sarnia colors in two tries.

Petes Did It

But Peterborough, the team that was awarded six setbacks in a row, kicked over the apple cart and cured a lot of people of prognosticating—accomplished something no other club in Canada had done. It will be worth while just looking at the squad that accomplished it.

Football fans will see one of the most dazzingly equipped teams in the game when the Petes hit the gridiron looking like several summer sunsets. The color motif of the Liftlockers is bright orange. Everything about them is that brilliant color but their shoes, the figures on their sweaters and some black stripes on their helmets. They make even Sarnia's splashy color combination look subdued.

SPORTS -DAY BY DAY-

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AND THE ORFUNS pull out today for their long trek to Sarnia, which'll be trail's end for them this semester. They wind up the schedule tomorrow, and can bust training while the Nats and Imps playoff. The best we can predict for the Orfuns is the worst of it, but we know the local lads will go down fighting. The improved Imperials will not take Bill Irwin's outfit lightly this time, and should soar to victory on the hefty hoofs of Bummer Stirling. Mike Loucks will hardly play, his bad knee still creaking like a rusty gate. Remembrance Day is no holiday for us—and why couldn't they play Saturday?—so we can't spare the two-day jaunt for one story. We'll have to miss it, but would love to see the orange-hued Orfuns battling it out again with the Sarnia Imps. We still can't get the thrills of their last clash out of the old think-tank. Our very best, gang!

* * * * * * *

BIG FOUR CLUBS would like to get a six-team setup for next autumn, including Argos, Beaches, Ottawa, Sarnia, Hamilton and one club from Montreal. But there seems little likelihood of this coming about. The senior O.R.F.U. is quite satisfied with its four-team group of Beaches, Imps, Nationals and Orfuns. Both the newcomers, Montreal and Peterborough, are pleased with their first senior season and want to return in '39, and officers of the Sarnia and Balmy clubs claim they are quite content with the present arrangements. And the O.R.F.U. officials are emphatic in claiming they plan no changes for next year, but expect the same four clubs back. So we imagine the Big Four will have to continue as is, but insisting that the Montreal Cubs strengthen up. Hamilton Tigers will be strong again in a season or two.

* * * * * * *

But Times Do Change

FOR MANY YEARS, the Big Four circuit stole all the thunder from the Senior O.R.F.U. grouping. It had four strong squads in, a lot of color, and most of the press and radio publicity. But this year, the DeGruchy-Bailey bunch dropped Hamilton Panthers and added Montreal Nationals and the local Orfuns, besides arranging a pooled-gate idea to aid the smaller cities of Peterborough and Sarnia. It turned out to be a swell group with three strong clubs in and a fair squad here—one which upset all the dope by beating the Imperials in midseason. Gates have been good and many of the best gridders in the east were seen in this league. So papers had to play the group up, while Argos and Ottawa made a runaway in the other circuit. Maybe the latter two clubs now would like to join in with the senior O.R.F.U.

* * * * * * *

ERE LEAVING THE SUBJECT, we trust the local grid officials—if Peterborough is back in senior ranks next year — will do something about officiating at games. With no intention of squawking—as Orfuns were green this year, anyway, and couldn't hope to go anywhere—the refereeing in several of their scraps wasn't any too good. They felt they got a rough deal in Toronto, and in their last home fray. Fans here will agree in the latter case. When rival club officers and players tell the Orfuns that they got the worst of it in refereeing, you know they aren't beefing. Why should three Toronto officials, the referee, umpire and head linesman, be assigned to an Orfuns'-Beaches game in Toronto? With the head linesman an officer in Beaches' club. We'd like to see next season a few local or Central Ontario officials on hand to see Orfuns get an even break—maybe guys like Gil Putnam or Jack Kirkwood of Peterborough, or Bob Elliott of iKngston. Or maybe someone from Belleville or Oshawa.

* * * * * * *

Are They Downhearted? No!

DON'T GET THE IDEA that the P.C.I.-ers are downhearted as they prepare to do or die 'gainst Bowmanville here Saturday afternoon. They may be down 19 points for the return game of the Lakeshore C.O.S.S.A. senior grid playoff serial—at the Exhibition Grounds at 2.30—but they feel they have a fair chance of overcoming it. 'Cause why? Well, they point out they were as off-form as a bunch of cripples in the first fixture, whereas Bowmanville boys admitted they themselves clicked as never before. The Rubbertown grid field is an odd one with a fence rubbing shoulders with one corner of the gridiron, and locals say this cost 'em two touchdowns ere they got it surveyed properly. And then the B.H.S. booter was injured in the first tilt and will not likely see action here this Saturday. But all the P.C.I. huskies are in the well-known pink for their crucial contest.

* * * * * * *

RECALLING the school spirit which swept P.C.I. to an Ontario title last year over Runneymede at the Oval, the student body is swinging in behind its players once more. A parade is planned, a huge rooting section will be on deck and the Bowmanville ear-drums will take a beating when the Garnet and Gray yells bounce across the chalk-lines to help drive P.C.I. players through the enemy ranks. With nothing to lose, but all to gain, Nels Foster will be flinging forward passes till his rivals are dizzy, and the local Collegians ought to win handily—but whether or not they overcome that lead remains to be seen. At least, the locals are plenty confident. It'll be a sweet scrap, wide-open and exciting, and it ought to pack in the customers. Might be the last rugby seen here this season.

* * * * * * *

Got Their Money's Worth

FANS HERE have been taking in the football matches this fall and they've seen some dandies. Not too many braved weather to witness P.C.I. plastering Oshawa school gridders, but a good turnout viewed a neat number when our Collegiates lost by a nose to Lindsay on local terrain lately. Some 3,000 fans watched the Balmy boys take the air route to rout the Orfuns at the Grounds ala Exhibish. The crowd was down a bit, to some 2,500 the day—yeah, Der Tag—when Orfuns rode on Loucks' field goal into the Hall of Fame by beating Sarnia in Peterborough. And about 3,000 cash customers here last Saturday saw a swell struggle with Nats beating the luckless locals to end the senior home series. As Red Wilson points out, the Orfuns slashed through the Nats for 14 first downs—and they had two tries called back on 'em—so you know it was a nifty joust. Yep, football fans here are increasing rapidly and they're getting good games to watch.

* * * * * * *

A LITTLE FROST is creeping into this column daily as another indication that winter is nearly here. And hockey is just around the block. An important joint meeting of officers and prospective players of the Peterborough Hockey Club is being held tonight at 7.30 in Duffus' to clean up some re-organization matters. Within a few weeks, the boys will be starting light exercising drills and waiting for ice to begin practicing. Meantime, definite plans for rebuilding of the senior "B" Petes and lining up a decent grouping for the winter are being made by the executive. Junior "B" club will have Bill Jackson as coach with Herb Hendrie the manager. Tommy Miller will manage the Petes, but the coach has not yet been named. It won't be long folks ere snow, hockey and chilblains are with us again!

* * * * * * *

UP AND DOWN Sports' Rialto: Probably be four guys after the goalie job with the Petes' puckists soon, Ray Harding, Gord Clarke, Earl McNabb and Whitey Dann....Joe McNulty, a forward, may be tried out on defence....Two of the Orfuns, Johnny Shields and Bill Flack, threaten to try for hockey berths....We hope Bill Prindible and Mike O'Brien again look after the Junior City Puck Loop; they're experienced and valuable gents to handle the kid players....Scribe Wilson of Sarnia is doing a fine buildup chore on the Orfuns' game tomorrow—so we quote him again today....Don Crowe's legs are in poor shape for the game, but he is sure needed in the backfield....We wouldn't be too surprised if Beaches beat the Nats in Toronto on Saturday, as the Pontonites claim they "wuz robbed" in Mo'real....But they won't rough up the big Nats like they did our Orfuns, by golly!....Lot of hard bowling last eve at Duffus' with Wallie Edkins' 741 count a feature....Not a whisper lately of the cage game locally....And it looks like the pro rasslin' show here may not materialize for a time....Hempey's bruised beak was the only wound the Nationals carried out of here Sat'day....With the fray in Sarnia switched ahead a day, and our jaunt knocked goofy—no side excursion to Detroit on Sunday—we haven't a laugh left in us!

Paul Thompson, Assistant Mastermind Of Hawks Has Been A Consistent Left-Wing Star

(By Central Press Canadian)

Virtue is its own reward in the case of Paul Thompson, ace left wing of the world champion Chicago hockey club. He always produces a good seasonal goals record. He led the American section in scoring last season; he snared four goals in the playoffs, as the lowly Hawks scurried to Stanley Cup triumph; and this year he is not only playing, but acting as assistant manager and coach, with Bill Stewart, first American-born pilot who ever led a team to hockey's classic trophy.

Thompson continues to play, serving as adviser to Manager Bill Stewart and tutor to rookies and veterans alike.

Thompson has been one of the most honest and consistent players in hockey. The curly haired left wing, perennial star of Chicago sextets, wound up the '37-38 season with 22 goals and as many assists for 44 points, sufficient to give him his best season in N.H.L., and the leadership of the American division. He also was named to every all-star team. This year is his eighth with the Hawks and for the last six consecutive seasons he has paced all his teammates as a point-getter, a remarkable feat in itself. Only in his first season with the Hawks, 1931-32, did he miss leading his club on points. In that year he was second to Gottselig and March.

PAUL THOMPSON
Consistent Black Hawk Star.

Thompson is the last of the original New York Rangers still active in the major loop. He was one of the several stars Conny Smythe, now boss of the Maple Leafs, assembled for the late Tex Rickard to offer opposition to the New York Americans. Lester Patrick, who replaced Smythe as manager of the Rangers, found himself with a dearth of right wingers, and Paul, a left-hand shot, was moved over to the other wing to help out Bill Cook.

For five years Thompson played right wing under the handicap of having to shoot from the wrong side. With the Rangers, Paul was just another good hockey player. Then, he was traded to the Hawks for Art Somers and was immediately sent to the position where he belongs—left wing.

Since then Thompson has risen from the ranks of a good hockey player to stardom.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Some furious pin-spilling was witnessed at Duffus recreation alleys last night when 44 league teams rolled off their weekly schedule. Walter Edkins of the Automobile league mowed down a 741 count to head the list of high scorers.

Eight teams from the Westclox office gave out G. Millen's 667, which included the night's best single, 338; Russ Kitchen 627. J. Watson 617, Miss D. Ackford 530. Miss V. Martin 515, Miss M. Johnston 496 (273), Miss M. Sisson 492 and Miss G. Hardill 462.

In six C.G.E. drafting room teams, Kemp had 699, Wicklund 613, H. Foster 605, B. Shaughnessy 604, and F. Allin 603.

Bitter battles were waked among 16 Quaker Oats teams. L. Galley's 701 was high with W. Pallant counting 680, A. Guerin 664, J. Ferguson 647, M. Leonard 647, H. Fisher 631, W. Howes 620, E. Dixon 616, L. Thomas 610, A. Barrett 606, S. Agnew 607, and A. Delpellaro 600.

In the oMtor league Edkins' 741

In the Motor league Edkins' 741 M. J. Duffus 706, Eric Nickson 668, Fitzgerald 638, O'Neill 637, Harrison 633, Inch 621 and White 601.

Bowmanville Here To Battle P.C.I.

Bowmanville High School plays P.C.I. gridders here this Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in the Exhibition Grounds. It is the return tilt of the two-game playoffs for the Lakeshore senior C.O.S.S.A. championship and the right to enter provincial playdowns. P.C.I. won its section of this group while Bowmanville cleaned up on the other division. The first game of the group finals was in the Rubbertown and saw the homesters cop a surprise 24-5 victory over the Bamforth boys. This leaves P.C.I. facing a 19-point lead in the return fray, as points count in the series.

Despite the big lead against them, the Peterborough senior school rugbyists feel they have a good chance of overcoming that. They played a poor brand while claiming Bowmanville boys played over their head. And the field, with a fence cutting in, made considerable difference to the visitors, who claim it was responsible for two touchdowns before they understood the layout. As the Bowmanville kicker is out of action with an injury, the P.C.I. chances look fairly bright, and the young Petes will gamble everything this Saturday here in an effort to stave off elimination. It will be a wide-open exciting playoff tussle and deserves a big crowd.

Three Of Orfuns Out Of Contest

Coach Bill Irwin of the Peterborough Orfuns announced at noon today that Harry Marsh, captain and starry secondary defenceman, who play flying wing with the gridders, would not be with the team in its last game of the season tomorrow in Sarnia. Marsh could not get off work for the trip. Ford Loucks will not play either while another main halfback, Mick Magee, was a doubtful starter—injuries still bothering these players. Irwin said if possible he would take young Haig Kelly—who shone with the P.C.I. school champions here last season—along and have him play part of the game. The crippled Orfuns felt confident they would give Sarnia Imperials a real battle.

France's cycling craze is booming.

Walter Johnson Enters Politics

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP).—Baseball's immortal Walter Johnson—who won more games than any pitcher in the history of the American League—has chalked up his first victory in the United States' political league.

Running as a Republican for commissioner in nearby Montgomery County, Md., the one-time big train on the diamond defeated his Democratic opponent, Clay Plummer.

It was Johnson's first time at bat in a try for public office, so that makes his average 1.000—the sweet dream of every baseballer.

"I'm mighty glad," drawled the gangling fellow who's generally at a loss for words. "Mighty glad."

Ailing Team Is Not Built Up Just Over Night

(By The Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—It's a wise hockey manager who knows he can't build up an ailing team or an ailing player overnight. The game moves fast, but its sheer speed is all the more reason for insisting on sound ,carefully-processed machinery.

So Jack Adams, who had Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League's front row two seasons ago and must long for a winner again, may get better results in the end for his current attitude of caution. Genial Jawn says he will be satisfied if the Wings manage to gain the fourth play-off position this winter. And he's willing to let Charlie Conacher take his time in regaining his old-time form.

There are spots, though, where the wings will have to tread on the loud pedal to make sure they're contenders when the time comes to apply the pressure in every game. To-night's game with New York Americans at Detroit looks like one of those spots.

Not Set League On Fire.

No one has intimated that the Americans are going to set the League afire. They lost six straight pre-season games to New York Rangers, then dropped their schedule opener to Chicago 6-1. Red Dutton will have the Americans punching before long, but right now they can still be used as a stepping stone.

There should be a few indications to-night, then, about what the Wings, and principally Conacher, can do when the time comes. The winner will have recorded its first victory of the season.

Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs will be in the same boat at Montreal. The Leafs have dropped their first two games and Canadiens lost in the opener against Chicago Sunday.

For the meeting, Toronto has called on Normie Mann to replace Gordon Drillon in the line-up. Mann was obtained on option from New York Rangers' Philadelphia farm club to fill in when Drillon suffered a broken thumb Saturday night against Chicago. Canadiens probably will play without Polly Drouin, diminutive centre, who suffered a wrenched knee against the Black Hawks Sunday.

No Sale Sign Is Put On Phillies

(By Central Press Canadian.)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.— Traditional "stepping stone" for other National League teams, Philadelphia Phillies may be different next season under the "no sale" policy of J. Thompson "Doc" Prothro, their new manager.

"I didn't come here from Little Rock to manage a last-place club," asserted Prothro, a chunky, affable dentist from Memphis, "and I intend to get out of the cellar next year."

The Phils, Prothro emphasized, no longer will serve as a training camp for the other big league teams. No longer will stars be developed and sold to other clubs to stave off bill collectors.

"Before I agreed to sign," said Doc, "I was assured by President Gerry Nugent that our best players would not be sold as has been the case in other years. This doesn't mean, however, that if I can trade a good man for four or five others to bolster my club I won't do it."

Prothro only shakes his head when he's asked what he thinks of the Phillies of 1938. He did make the all-embracing criticism that they lacked "power and speed," but he preferred to forget about the past.

From a brief glimpse he had of the Phils in action last season, Prothro had the following report:

"I believe we have four fine pitchers in Mulcahy, Passeau, Hollingsworth, and Butcher. The catching staff needs strengthening; the infield can stand rebuilding, and we need more power in the outfield."

Ramblers Skate As Young Fiends

(By the Canadian Press.)

Lester Patrick, the cagey leader of New York's National Hockey League Rangers, should take a "busman's holiday" some night and see a hockey game. To be more explicit, the game should be one in which Philadelphia Ramblers, a Rangers' farm club, are taking part.

Not that Patrick hasn't seen the Ramblers often, for most Ranger material is drafted through the International-American League club, but it is the manner in which the Ramblers are performing now that would cause even a seasoned campaigner like Patrick to sit up and take notice.

The league's season is less than a week old, but the Ramblers with three straight victories are the only undefeated team in the league.

Third in Row.

Ramblers made it their third victory in a row when they trounced Springfield Indians 9-2 last night, as the Hershey Bears dropped from the undefeated lists after two straight wins by losing to Cleveland Barons 4-3. In the night's only other contest Pittsburgh Hornets sent Syracuse Stars down to a third straight defeat by defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs farm club 4-1.

Defenceman Joe Cooper, with the Rangers last year, and Kilby MacDonald each scored twice for Ramblers. The other Ramblers' goals were tallied by High Gustafson, Babe Tapin, Bobby Kirk, Bill Carse, and George Allen. The two Springfield scores, both of which came in the first period, went to Max Kaminsky and Bert Connolly.

Overtime Win.

The Barons needed overtime to defeat the Bears on Earl Bartholome's goal. Lorne Duguid, Cunningham, and B. Blake were the other Cleveland scorers, while Steele, Orville Roulston, and Drouillard scored for the Bears. The game was played at Cleveland where the Barons dropped only one game in the whole of last season although tied several times.

Two first period goals within 47 seconds by Sid Abel, recruit centre, were enough for Hornets to top the Stars. The Stars went into the lead on Murray Armstrong's goal in the first period, but only a short while later Abel tallied twice and Jack Keating added another for the Hornets near the end of the session. Pete Kelly scored the last Pittsburgh marker shortly after the start of the last period.

Vic Fleming Plans Hard Winter For Champion Pacer Billy Direct

By Central Press Canadian

NEW YORK, November 10. — Billy Direct, 1.55, the new pacing champ of champions, goes into winter quarters at Syracuse with nothing to do during the off season but jog four miles every day except Sunday whether it's freezing or thawing; clear and dry or blowing a blizzard.

After 33 years, Billy Direct provides the harness racing sport with another champion to supplant the immortal Dan Patch. Ever since 1905, when H. C. Hersey, at Lexington, Ky., drove the Patch in 1.55¼, the sulky sport had been looking, in vain, for some pacer to beat that time. None, except Greyhound, ever came even close to it, until Billy turned the trick this fall.

Only Four

Since this handsome son of Napoleon Direct, the only horse, incidentally, which the late Edward F. "Pop" Geers ever drove in two minutes, is now only four years old and Dan Patch was nine when he paced in 1.55¼, Vic Fleming, trainer-driver of the new champ, believes he will knock another full second off the world mark in 1939.

But Fleming, Canadian horseman, who hails from Dundas, Ont., isn't taking any chances. None of this softening, so-called, training in the balmy southlands this winter. And no laying about a comfortable stall with nothing to do, as trotting horsemen indicate thoroughbred runners do in the off season. No siree! Billy Direct is going to be worked this winter, over the state fairgrounds mile track at Syracuse, and when 1939 arrives, Vic believes he will have even a faster horse than 1938 acclaimed as the new champion of 'em all.

Dan McConville, Ogdensburg, N.Y. and Pat Downey, Worchester, Mass., who share ownership of Billy Direct, are frequent visitors to Syracuse and their champion's domicile, kept in order by a black cat, of all things, named Nigger. For it is something of a novelty to own the world's champion harness horse after seeing Dan Patch hold that distinction for three decades.

Match Race Discouraged

Greyhound, at six, two years older than Billy Direct, could not do better than 1.55¼ this summer and fall, but he did equal Dan Patch's mark. Talk of a match between Billy Direct, a pacer, and Greyhound, a trotter, in 1939 is being discouraged, since such events never seem to work satisfactorily for the public.

KING OF PACERS

Billy Direct, greatest since Dan Patch, looks out from the stall of his winter quarters at Syracuse.

It is interesting to note that Dan Patch's record, while considered by the public to be official, was never actually so. When he set that record of 1.55¼ at Lexington in 1905, H. C. Hersey, his driver, had a thoroughbred runner to go directly ahead of Dan Patch. This broke the wind and provided enough assistance for the officials never formally to recognize the record. Directum I, instead, with a mark of 1.56¾, was regarded officially as the pacing champ.

Middleweight Bout World Championship

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP). — The Nov. 18 battle between the two Pacific coast middleweights, Young Corbett 3rd and Fred Apostoli, will be for the championship of the world under the ruling of the New York State Athletic Commission.

The commission, at yesterday's meeting, slipped in a joker, however. They ruled Promoter Mike Jacobs must slash $2,000 from the winner's purse as a guarantee that the victor would meet Solly Krieger, the Brooklynite who won a lien on the title by knocking off Al Hostak in Seattle last week. The bout must be held on or before Jan. 30.

The commission then took up the light heavyweight division and designated Al Gainer, of New Haven, Conn., Tiger Jack Fox of Spokane and New York and Melio Bettina, of Beacon, N.Y., southpaw as the leading contenders for the division title it took from John Henry Lewis. Gainer and Fox will fight the first of two elimination bouts. The winner meets Bettina for the championship.

Leading Scorer

Slashed across the hands in a game against Chicago Black Hawks, Gord Drillon, ABOVE, ace right-winger with Toronto Maple Leafs and league-leading scorer last season, will be out of the game for a month or more with a broken finger.

Canadians Present Strong Team At Show

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The military phase of the National Horse Show, which so far has been decidedly Chilean and United States with emphasis on the former, may take on another angle tonight when the Canadian army officers defend another of the many trophies they won last year.

The international military special challenge trophy brings the officers and their picked mounts of six nations into the Madison Square Garden arena with last year's winner, Lieutenant Marshall Cleland of Troy, Ont., in the gallery. Lieutenant Cleland injured his back last summer and probably is through riding over the jumps while Squire, the 23-year-old horse he rode to victory, was killed in Europe several months ago.

The Canadian riders matched the performances of the Chile and United States teams last night in the final test of the three-day competition for the trophy presented by President Arturo Alessandri of Chile but the bad night in the opening competition spoiled their chance of retaining the trophy. As it was the Chileans won with a low score of 20 faults and were trailed in order by the United States, Irish, Mexicans, Canadians and Cubans.

All over Canada people are saying:
I like Marconi
... the radio that has every MODERN improvement

A radio receiver must be outstanding to win the country-wide approval accorded Marconi by people in every walk of life. They all like Marconi; some for one reason and some for another. Put these reasons together — all in one receiver — and you naturally have the finest radio in the world today; peak performance, easy tuning, engineering detail, cabinet beauty, entertainment value. That's the kind of receiver you want — a Marconi — available everywhere in a wide choice of console and mantel models to fit into every budget: See and hear this radio masterpiece and you, too, will say, "I like Marconi!"

Model 141 A.C.
8 Tubes—9-Tube Performance
Marconi Automatic 6-button "Electro-Tune". Broadcast from 538-1720 kc. and short wave from 5.5 to 22.3 mc. $139.00

Model 134 A.C.
6 Tubes—8-Tube Performance
Marconi Automatic 4-button "Electro-Tune". Full range broadcast entertainment from 538-1720 kc. Short wave reception from 5.72 to 19.5 mc.
$69.95
Other models from $32.95 to $334.

BAND SPREADING
It is actually easier to tune in short wave on the new Marconi band spread dial than to tune in your local station on standard broadcast. Here's the reason: by opening out the bands, there is now several times more tuning area than on the old hard-to-read dial. Hair-line tuning has been eliminated, making the dials easier to read and the stations easier to locate than ever before.

AUTOMATIC TUNING
"Electro-Tune" is a Marconi development of automatic tuning that is instantaneous and simple in operation. Any station can be tuned in automatically by pushing the proper button. Instantaneous in operation — Simplicity of setting — No tools required — Highly efficient — Rapid tuning — Individual tuning of all automatic circuits — Ease of operation.

Republicans Captured 77 Seats In House, Eight Senate Seats And Eleven New Governorships

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP).—The Democratic and Republican parties began a two-year struggle for power to-day as the aftermath of political upheavals in Tuesday's United States elections.

Withh 11 new Governorships, 8 new Senate seats and at least 77 more House seats firmly in their grasp, Republicans turned from ballot counting with the avowed intention of trying to take over the presidency in 1940.

Democrats minimized Republican claims of widespread anti-New Deal sentiment. They were equally determined to use all the vast resources at their command to continue national domination beyond the next two years.

Only two major races remained in doubt to-day. In Iowa former Senator Lester Dickinson (Republican), and Senator Guy Gillette were in a neck-and-neck contest. The same was true of the race between Senator Frederick Van Nuys (Democrat), and Raymond Willis (Republican), in Indiana.

Aside from these, the latest returns from the 47 state elections gave this picture of the returns:—

Republicans who went into the compaign with only seven Governorships came out with 18. Of those won Tuesday, nine previously had been held by Democrats, one by a Farmer-Laborite, and one by a Progressive.

The ballot harvest gave the Republicans 11 Senate seats, including eight held by Democrats. In the new Senate, beginning January 3, they will have 23 seats, compared to 15 at present. Only 35 of the 96 Senate seats were at stake this year.

With all but eight House races decided, the Republicans had elected 166 members, compared to 88 in the present House. (There was one Republican vacancy.) Of the seats they picked up, 70 came from the Democrats, five from the Progressives and two from the Farmer-Labor Party.

Strong Oppositions.

These triumphs, more extensive than many Republican leaders had predicted, made certain strong minority opposition in both the House and Senate next session.

Republicans counted most heavily on gubernatorial rather than Congressional gains for advancing their cause toward 1940. Control of state administrations will give them patronage to rebuild party fences in disrepair since 1932.

Political leaders offered contrasting interpretations of the election results, first reversal for the Democrats since 1930. Republican Chairman John Hamilton said the vote showed "a widespread repugnance toward Governmental incompetence, maladminstration, and callous political corruption."

"These Republican gains reflected a determination on the part of millions of our citizens," he added, "to put an end to constant experimental legislation which has held back economic recovery and kept the country in a hub-bub."

Democratic Chairman James Farley pointed out that his party had won substantial majorities in the Senate and the House despite the decline in numbers. "I think the outcome justifies the statement that the country as a whole is still strongly behind the humanitarian policies of President Roosevelt," he said.

Beginning of the End.

Former President Hoover said the strengthened Republican Opposition should mark "the beginning of the end of this waste of public money, these policies of coercion, political corruption, and undermining of representative government."

One name still high on the list of Republican presidential possibilities was that of Thomas Dewey, who, although he lost the New York gubernatorial race, proved himself as a two-fisted vote-getter.

Some persons thought the defeat of Governor Frank Murphy (Democrat), in Michigan, might remove him from the presidential scene, but a high Federal position may still be his lot. There was speculation here that President Roosevelt might appoint him to Supreme Court.

Senatorial and gubernatorial victories placed several men to the fore as potential candidates. On the Republican side these included Robert Taft of Ohio, son of the late Republican President, who defeated Senator Robert Bulkley, a New Deal Democrat; John Bricker, elected Republican Governor of Ohio, and Leverett Saltonstall and Arthur James, elected Governors of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, respectively.

In the Democratic ranks, impressive majorities for Senators Bennett Clark of Missouri and Millard Tydings of Maryland caused friends to advance their names as possible 1940 candidates.

To Head State?

A new central Chinese government, under Japanese auspices and the nominal leadership of a retired Chinese war lord, Wu Pei-Fu, is expected to be announced soon. It was said the new government would absorb the Peiping and Nanking governments. Japan's ace political manipulator, Lieutenant General Kenji Doihara, conferred for two hours with Lieutenant General Sount Junichi Terauchi, commander of Japanese forces in north China, and emerged triumphant, having reached agreement on details of the plan. It was predicted that the new regime would mean elimination of all western economic interests in China.

Japs Near Yochow

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A Japanese vanguard reached the outskirts of Yochow today after an all-night march and started attacking that strategic railway town 122 miles up the Yangtse from Hankow.

The capture of Yochow would put the invaders in a position to carry on their offensive in Hunan province southward by rail against Changsha, Hunan provincial capital 83 miles south of Yochow, and across large Tung Ting Lake against a dozen important cities.

Car Collides With Mill Woman Is Hurt

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Ont., November 10.—Seriously injured in an accident near Plainfield, Mrs. William Douglas, Sulphide, was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday evening. She is suffering from severe head injuries, according to Dr. H. E. Welsh, M.L.A., attending physician. The woman was a passenger in an automobile being driven north on Highway No. 37 by Glenn Patterson, Corbyville, which collided with a threshing mill parked on the side of the highway.

Gets Month in Jail.

Found guilty on a charge of causing actual bodily harm, Joel Stevens, aged 59, Coe Hill, was sentenced to one month in jail on Tuesday afternoon. Magistrate E. J. Lloyd of Northbrook, found Stevens guilty after hearing three witnesses. The charge arose out of an altercation in which William McCormick, Coe Hill, was cut by an axe carried by Stevens. Stevens resented McCormick crossing his property, on an old log trail used by nearly everybody in the district, and ordered him off the property.

REVENUE INCREASED

FREDERICTON—(CP).— During the last year four assistant motor vehicle inspectors have increased the revenue of New Brunswick by many thousands of dollars. They travel about the province checking the weights of trucks and loads. Truck registration fees in New Brunswick now are based on gross weight.

New Mercury 8 Announced by Ford

THIS Mercury 8 town-sedan is one of the four body types of the newest car in motordom. The Mercury 8 fills a place in the Ford-Lincoln line between the deluxe Ford V-8 and the Lincoln-Zephyr. It is a big car, with 116-inch wheelbase and measuring more than 16 feet from bumper to bumper. Its V-8 engine develops 95 horsepower. Hydraulic brakes enable the driver to slow down or stop quickly and smoothly with light pedal pressure. In its distinctive streamlined styling the Mercury 8 bears a family resemblance to the Lincoln-Zephyr. The other body types are a sedan with two doors, a sedan-coupe and a sport convertible. Bodies are exceptionally wide, allowing three to ride comfortably in both front and rear seats. Belt and cowl lines are low giving wide visibility. Interior styling is distinctive. Typical of the originality of design are a tilted instrument panel, a two-spoke steering wheel and a steering column support. Appointments are luxurious. There is an unusually large luggage compartment. Inset shows the Mercury 8 front end, with its low radiator grille and graceful hood design.

Name Committee To Choose Society Officers

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 10.—The regular meeting of the W.M.S. of Lakefield United Church was held Tuesday afternoon, November 8, in the Sunday school room. In spite of unfavorable weather the attendance was very good.

After the opening hymn, the 67th Psalm was read responsively.

The business session, which was unusually long, was precided over by Mrs. Yale. Mrs. E. J. Millage presided at the piano.

Mrs. Porter was asked to take the missionary talk in the Sunday school the last Sunday in November. The visiting committee for the month is Mrs. Wick, Mrs. James Hendren, Mrs. Orr, and Mrs. Bullock. Mrs. Reid's absence through illness was greatly regretted.

Plan Meeting.

Plans were made for the thankoffering meeting to be held Friday night, November 18. It was hoped that a sacred drama would be forthcoming and that the sister societies of the village would attend.

Mrs. W. J. Charlton, financial secretary, spoke on the question of allocation and hoped our full amount would be raised. She kindly offered her home for the "Love Gift" meeting to be held December 9.

Mrs. Yale read a circular issued by the Home Mission Board, asking for bales of clothing and bedding for needy citizens in Northern Ontario and Western Canada. It was decided to co-operate with the W.A. in looking after needy families in Northern Ontario.

Will Elect Officers.

As the next meeting will be election of officers a nominating committee was appointed consisting of Miss Sanderson, Mrs. W. Frankish, Mrs. Renwick and Mrs. Charles Hunter.

The dedicatory prayer was offered by Mrs. E. Milburn, after which the missionary program was resumed. The theme for November: One is our Father and all ye are brethren.

The new Study Book, "The World in Canada," was introduced by Mrs. Orr reading a short article on the life and work of the author, Rev. J. L. MacKay, Superintendent of the Church of All Nations in Toronto. Mrs. Kelly then presented the first chapter in a very interesting manner. One is surprised to read of the wealth of culture in music, art, drama, which new Canadians have brought to our shores, to say nothing of their industry, integrity and patience. This first chapter mentions members of the Wong family in Lakefield as brilliant and painstaking students and a credit to their adopted country. "The World in Canada promises to be a very worthwhile and interesting study.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Pearson, and the Mizpah benediction in unison.

CAMPBELLFORD

Miss Pearl McComb who underwent an operation in the Belleville Hospital on Monday is reported to be making a favorable recovery.

Miss Bessie Giffin, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bennett has returned to her home in North Augusta.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. George White, Queen street on Tuesday, Nov. 8th, a daughter.

Miss Helen Gorman of Warkworth is spending a few days with friends in town.

Mrs. H. T. Scott was hostess at a tea given in honor of Mrs. Cecil McLean, Rear street. Nearly fifty ladies were present and tea was served by members of St. Andrew's Church.

Mrs. McLean has removed with her family to Lindsay where Mr. McLean has been transferred by the Hydro.

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Baker of Orillia were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Baker, Sebastopol street during the week-end.

MOUNT JULIAN

Mr. Arnold Noftall of Peterborough spent Sunday visiting friends at Mount Julian.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hopkins of Guelph visited Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Northey during the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Banes spent the weekend at their cottage on Little Cedar Lake.

Mr. F. Dunford made a business trip through this community on Tuesday.

Miss Hilda Thompson, of Peterborough, spent Sunday visiting her grandmother, Mrs. William Thompson.

He Paid For His Ride

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 10 (CP).—This is the story of a hitch-hiker who paid for his ride. A Stratford man thought he'd save money by 'thumbing' his way instead of taking the bus. He raised his thumb when the first pair of lights approached. The machine stopped and he got in. It was the bus.

Honour Couple At Alderville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ALDERVILLE, Nov. 10. — A miscellaneous shower was tendered a recent bridal couple, Oliver Crowe of Alderville and his bride (nee Mrs. Alice French of Port Hope) by a host of their friends at their new home, the former mission house.

After a delightful evening spent in games and contests Chief Ernest Crowe read an address. Rev. L. W. Scott then gave an address expressing his pleasure at being present, and invited them to the church, its services and different activities.

Short addresses of welcome were also given by Messrs. Albert Crowe, John Smoke, Fred Simpson, and John Loukes.

Oliver Crowe, replying for his wife and himself, thanked the people for their kind thoughtfulness. Everyone then joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows."

Many beautiful and useful presents were received.

A dainty lunch was then served by the ladies of the surprise party.

Sex Instruction Banned

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP).—Sex instruction based on the study of higher animals has been banned in New York City junior high schools. By a five to two vote the Board of Education ruled pupils of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades were not mature enough to explore the problem of reproduction beyond the level of insects, flowers and birds. Dissenting members attacked the ruling as "dishonest."

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

Marmora Loses Good Citizen In Wm. F. Bowen

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Nov. 10.—The death occurred at 11 a.m. on Wednesday at the home of his brother-in-law, H. R. Pearce, of William Fraser Bowen, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bowen and grandson of the late Daniel Grant Bowen, J.P., who was prominent in the life of Marmora in its earliest days.

The deceased, who was sixty-seven years of age, was born in Roslin, Ontario. When a young man he moved to the United States and after residence in Grand Rapids, Mich., entered the employment of the Palmolive Company at Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Eventually he was appointed sales manager of the company for Canada, living successively in Toronto, Kingston and Peterborough. A breakdown in health caused his retirement and his removal to Marmora. Recovering health he started the Marmora Soap Factory in the stone building near Crowe River which had served as Marmora's first school. After operating for a few years, the building was destroyed by fire and the business was wound up.

In later years the deceased had been interested in local mining as well as in the conservation of game and the local fish hatchery project. He was instrumental in the formation of the Longford Game reserve.

Of fine build many judged that he would well exceed life's allotted span but his last illness extended several months and those closest to him knew within the last month that the end of his life was approaching. He will be missed in the village life because of his interest in local affairs. He was large hearted and children and deserving causes often received his kind practical attention.

He was a member of the Anglican church and a Conservative in politics. He was an honorary member of Marmora A.F. and A.M. 222 and was a Shriner of the Grand Rapids, Mich., Shrine.

He is survived by his widow and one son, Llewellyn of Detroit, Another son, Lawrence, who was a member of the Royal Air Force was killed in action in September, 1918. He is further survived by one brother, Maclaren, Cascade Falls, Oregon and one sister, Mrs. H. R. Pearce, Marmora.

The funeral, which will be under Masonic auspices, is expected to take place on Friday afternoon, service at the residence of Mr. H. R. Pearce being followed by interment in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

WHERE POPPIES GROW

LONDON—(CP). — In readiness for Armistice Day, November 11, disabled ex-servicemen have made 43,000,000 poppies and the British Legion hopes to top last year's Poppy Day record of $2,552,603.

New Methods Tried To Salvage $24,100,000 Cargo Of Gold

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Nov. 10—(CP)—An attempt will be made soon to salvage the Grosvenor, one of the ships of the East Indian Company wrecked near Port St. John, on the south-east coast of Africa, in 1872. She carried gold and silver bars and precious stones.

A company with a capital of £75,000 ($361,500) has been formed to salvage the wreck. Its prospectus estimates the value of the cargo, according to present-day prices, at £5,000,000 ($24,100,000).

None of the cargo was saved at the time of the wreck nor was anything subsequently recovered in spite of several attempts.

The company proposes to proceed on entirely different lines from any of the previous ventures. It intends to work on experience gained since then on works of reclamation undertaken on the Zuider Zee, in Holland.

It is planned to build a breakwater 1,300 feet long around the gully in which the wreck lies, says the prospectus. Between 400 and 500 feet of the breakwater will be built into the sea and the remainder on the rocks forming the sides of the gully.

Inside the breakwater there will be a watertight dyke about 400 feet long and similar in construction to the dykes on the Zuider Zee. When those works are complete it is proposed to pump the water out of the gully and then proceed with the actual work of salvaging.

It is estimated the operations will take about 12 months to complete and will cost about £35,000 ($167,700).

Painful Boils
Bad Blood the Cause

When boils start to break out on different parts of the body it is an evidence that the blood is loaded up with impurities.

Just when you think you are rid of one, another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery.

All the lancing and poulticing you may do will not stop more coming.

Why not give that old, reliable, blood purifying medicine Burdock Blood Bitters a chance to banish the boils? Thousands have used it for this purpose during the past 60 years.

Take B.B.B. and get rid of the bad blood and the boils too.

Labor Deplores Attitude To Unemployed

LONDON, Nov. 10 (C.P.).— The House of Comomns, during debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, will be asked to approve a Labor amendment deploring unemployment, it was announced to-day.

William Pethick-Lawrence, Labor, will submit the amendment expressing regret over the "absence of any reference (in the Speech from the Throne) to the serious problem of unemployment as represented by nearly 2,000,000 men and women who cannot find work."

A fiery attack by David Lloyd-George, former Prime Minister, upon the Government for "complete surrender" to the dictatorships, featured a full day of debate yesterday.

Security Threatened.

Through a policy of drift and concession, he said, the Government had permitted Britain's influence and security to be threatened from the Mediterranean to the Far East.

Richard Butler, Foreign Under-Secretary, said Great Br.tain stood with the United States on the question of the open door for trading opportunities in China against Japan's announced policy of an all-Eastern Asia bloc with the co-operation of a defeated China and Manchoukuo.

Viscount Cranborne, Mr. Butler's predecessor, and Sir Stafford Cripps and Arthur Henderson, Labor, entered the debate to assail the Government's foreign policy. Lieut.-Colonel John Colville, Secretary for Scotland, aided Mr. Butler in answering their arguments.

Toward the close of the night session debate swung to trade. Walter F. Higgs, Conservative, said the visit next summer of the King and Queen to Canada and the United States was an "admirable initiative," but would be "absolutely useless" unless manufacturers followed it up.

Britain, he said, had lost her ranking position in overseas markets, particularly in the Americas. He said Britain was 10 years behind in developing air service to South America.

Morgan Price, Labor, called for reorganization of industry and creation of a foreign trade body to represent the United Kingdom in negotiations with Eastern Europe. Declaring all was not lost there, Mr. Price said: "We still have our agreement with Turkey, the results of which ought to be developed."

Open to Trade of World.

"Let us return to our traditional policy and see that the great territories on the threshold of Europe and Asia are still kept open to the trade of the world," he said. "That, however, will not be attained by a policy of submission to the dictator states. It can only be obtained by a policy of conciliation on the one hand and firmness on the other."

Colonel Colville replied that Prime Minister Chamberlain's appeasement efforts had their economic as well as political side.

"We shall make our best endeavor to retain our trade with the Central European countries and use all proper methods to extend it," he said. "But those speaking continually of the value of markets in Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece and Yugoslavia sometimes forget the very great value of the German and Italian marekts themselves."

No Cleaning Fish On Sunday

"No fish on Sundays," say these fisher girls of Lowestoft, Eng.—so out on strike they go. The trouble started when English boats fished on Sunday while Scottish boats stayed in port—keeping the Sabbath. Most of these girls are Scotch, so they went on strike to "see fair play"—and get Sundays off.

Recalls Concert Aboard Ship

Last night, November 9, Les Allen well-known Canadian radio singer, now in England, was honored by being asked to sing before Their Majesties, the King and Queen.

Mr. Allen was a fellow-passenger of Charles Coleman of this city on the Canadian Pacific R.M.S. Montcalm, which left Southampton on August 30, 1934. The usual ship's concert and entertainment was held on September 4, and Mr. Coleman was honored with a place in the program, in which Mr. Allen sang two songs, and Mr. Boris Hambourg, the celebrated 'cellist, who was also a passenger, played two solos. Mr. Coleman gave Harry Lauder's "Roamin' in the Gloamin'," and as an encore "I Love a Lassie."

Les Allen gave his own song, "Little Grey-Haired Lady," and "Smilin' Thro."

Twenty years previously Mr. Coleman had become acquainted with Boris Hambourg when he was president of the then Peterborough Choral Society, and the latter was in the city arranging a concert.

These ship's concerts are a feature of every ocean voyage, presided over by any prominent passenger who is available; in this case Sir Richard W. Livingstone. Very many leading artists in their time have freely given their services, and collections are made on behalf of Seamen's Missions.

Farm Laborer To Be Hanged For Killing Girl

BROCKVILLE, Nov. 10—William Gunning stood stolidly Wednesday as a jury, under Mr. Justice A. W. Greene declared him guilty of the murder of his employer's daughter, Miss Irene Mott. He was sentenced to be hanged Wednesday, Jan. 18, at Leeds' county jail.

Gunning, a 24-year-old Kitley township farmhand, gazed steadfastly at the jurors as they were polled on the verdict. When Mr. Justice Green asked him if he had anything to say, he replied, calmly, "No, sir."

No defense was offered on behalf of Gunning. Crown evidence showed he admitted to Provincial Constable W. J. Franks that he attacked Miss Mott and her mother, Mrs. Frank Mott, with a hammer early in the morning of July 5.

Frank Eaton of Frankville, testified he met Gunning on his farm in the evening of July 8. In the three days after the murder a widespread search had been conducted for the hired hand. Eaton said Gunning told him he attacked the two women and that a criminal assault on the daughter was the reason for the attack.

Eaton met Gunning hiding in a vacant house on the Eaton farm close to the scene of the crime. Gunning agreed to give himself up, Eaton testified, and slept that night in Eaton's barn. When police arrived in the morning, Gunning was shaving himself.

Mr. Justice Greene addressed the jury for forty minutes. He explained the law relating to verdicts of murder under normal and abnormal condition. H. J. F. Stewart, counsel for Gunning, had earlier declined the Crown's offer to have three psychiatrists examine Gunning.

If Gunning is executed it will be the first hanging in Leeds county since Charles S. Luckey, also of Kitley township, went to the gallows Dec. 14, 1893, for the murder of his father, mother and sister.

An afternoon tea was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Tucker in aid of the United Church W.A. A goodly number of ladies from the village attended.

Miss Jean Tanner spent the afternoon on Sunday at her parents' home in Chandos.

Maryland Voters Chase Cupid Away Marriage Mart Goes Into Mourning

ELKTON, Md., Nov. 10.—(CP)—Marrying parsons who were voted out of jobs and merchants who operated Elkton's romance mart under mass-production methods mourned today for the booming business that must end next week.

Warnings of dire happenings to the economic life of Elkton mingled with tones of satisfaction as returns from Tuesday's election showed Maryland voters approved on referendum a measure providing a 48-hour lapse between the issuing of a license and marriage.

For a quarter century residents of adjoining states wanting to marry in haste, have dashed across the state line to be married in Elkton. Elopments became one of the principal businesses and Elkton streets were dotted with signs advertising active and retired preachers available for marriage ceremonies at any hour of the day or night.

Taix Drivers Object

The favorable vote on the 48-hour proposal came after a period of soaring records of marriages. There were 2,308 licenses issued last month in this town of 3,600 persons. But the move was none too popular with many, particularly taxi drivers, barbers and grocers who had profited nicely. They provided the elopers with information on obtaining marriage license and finding a minister. Then they collected a fee.

"The state has done something it's going to be awful sick of," commented Rev. C. M. Cope, who said he worked "for the taxicab people" and who officiated at 668 ceremonies last month.

"The state has taken away $250,000 of revenue from Elkton. It's the only thing that kept Elkton alive. It's just going to ruin this town."

In contrast was the comment of George C. Potts, chief of police for 20 years here until his retirement last year.

"They played the devil with this town," said he. "While they brought business to the town the jitney crowds and the marrying parsons did not conduct themselves in a proper manner. We're not losing much."

Flies By Plane To Face Charge Of Manslaughter

KENORA, Ont., Nov. 10.—(CP)—Brought here by airplane from Red Lake, John Melnick appeared in magistrate's court last night for preliminary hearing on a charge of manslaughter arising from the death of Dr. Dennis Smith of Madsen Oct. 30.

Smith died of burns said to have been suffered when his costume caught fire at a masquerade party.

Provincial Constable W. A. Parfitt brought Smith here with three other witnesses. Fearing a sudden freeze-up might isolate Red Lake, crown officials decided to proceed with the case at once to allow the witnesses to return as soon as possible.

Brought to testify were Miss Jean Smart, nurse at the Madsen Mine; C. L. Donaghy of Red Lake, a lay reader at the Anglican church; and Thomas Semple of Madsen.

Spirit Of Competition Gives Brilliant Pupil False Idea Of Own Ability, Teachers Told

R. H. Roberts, M.A., of the Normal School teaching staff and co-author of the Health Manual, official text book in the new course of studies for public and separate schools rapped the spirit of competition which was fostered under the school curriculum discarded last year, as he addressed two hundred city teachers attending the annual convention in sessions at Prince of Wales School Wednesday.

This spirit of competition in the classes gave the brilliant pupil a false idea of his own ability and on the other hand made the less clever pupils believe they were unable to succeed at anything." We should qualify our pupils to do something, rather than beat somebody in the same class."

"We teach pupils that if they get 90 marks in their subjects they are fine brilliant scholars and the world is waiting for them with open arms. When they leave school they find the world is not waiting at all, and after a few weeks of unsuccessful job hunting the pupil is disillusioned."

Lose Confidence.

"The pupils who fail to make the honor rolls lose that feeling of confidence. They are constantly reminded of the fine showing by the pupils who head the class, and the result is that many of these pupils get the idea they are failures before they start out in the world. They will need someone to hold their hand when they leave school in order that they may regain their self confidence."

"Every child is born different and yet in the face of this we have been trying in the past to standardize in school, and if the pupil failed to measure up to the school standards there was something wrong with him. Many of you know that men holding great positions in the business world today were backward pupils at school. They did not need to get an honor rating to succeed but this is one of the ideas put into children's heads under the old system of competition in the classroom."

"We take for granted that we have proper motivation but in reality we are building up false standards and giving children the wrong ideas about themselves."

Health of Child

Mr. Roberts stressed the need of caring for the health of the child and directing his training and effort so that he may do the best possible at whatever he is adapted to.

"The teacher needs to conserve her own health as well. Recess periods are not for the pupils alone. The teacher should go out of doors during recess and should not play with the pupils either, but enjoy a little fresh air and relaxation."

"Many teachers tell me that they are not out of the classrooms until five o'clock every night. I don't know a single pupil who has ever helped by being kept in after four o'clock. My advice to every one of you is to be on the way out the school gate at five minutes after four and the last pupil out ahead of you."

We can't expect teachers to accomplish anything in health education unless they look after their own health first. You are allowed twenty days sick leave during the year, by virtue of Department of Education regulations. If you are rundown, have a cold or if you are slightly ill and out of sorts, take advantage of sick leave, don't attend classes and make the children suffer for your indisposition. It amuses me when I read in the newspapers that so and so taught school for fifty years and never missed a day. My reaction to such a story is simply one of pity for the poor pupils who had to endure such a person whenever he was out of sorts and should have been in a sickbed instead of teaching."

Serves No Useful Purpose

Mr. Roberts voiced opposition to the existing system of having pupils march into classes and out again at dismissal time and recess periods. This military, straight in a row, discipline served no useful purpose he claimed, and added that statistics showed 25 out of every 400 pupils suffered from heart trouble and this marching aggravated the condition. "It tortures the teachers, ruins their nerves and wastes the time of the pupils and teachers alike," he said.

Continuing on his point he expressed the opinion that children could be taught self responsibility more readily if they were allowed to enter the classroom of their own accord and leave it when the time arrived for dismissal in orderly fashion but not to a series of commands and a lot of bell ringing.

He urged the teachers to give common sense plenty of rein in their daily teaching and advised them not to worry about what the people across the road from the school were thinking.

R. J. Bolton, B.A., headed a group on Social studies during which he dealt with the content of the course, method of teaching, factual knowledge, interest and testing, and a long discussion followed his talk. Don. T. Crawford spoke on Mensuration formulae and J. E. R. Munro, B.A., principal of Queen Alexandra School addressed the group on the "Place of the Formal Lesson in English Grammar."

A group of girls from the senior gym class at the Y.W.C.A. under direction of Miss Caroline Littlefield, physical director, gave a demonstration of Danish fundamentals and the calisthenics were thoroughly enjoyed by the teachers. J. Londerville spoke on the "Enterprise Method" and Miss Rahmel addressed the teachers on choral reading.

OBITUARY

GEORGE WAY.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Nov. 10. — George Way, an old and respected resident of Tweed and district for many years, passed away at his home on Tuesday, November 8, in his seventy-fifth year. While not in the best of health for some time past, the late Mr. Way has been about as usual until suddenly stricken early on Sunday morning. Death followed on Tuesday afternoon. The deceased is survived by his widow and two sons, Edward and Fred of Tweed, and two daughters, Mrs. Stanley Trudeau of Tweed and Mrs. Della Bray of Belleville.

MRS. HERBERT DEYELL.

The death of Mrs. Herbert Deyell occurred on Wednesday morning at her home on Lot 13, Concession 14, Otonabee, and Abner Collins of ing illness. The late Mrs. Deyell was a life-long resident of Otonabee and had reached the age of 68 years.

She leaves to mourn her loss two sons and one daughter, Willam of Otonabee and Ferdinand and Edith at home; also four brothers, Albert, John and Frederick Collins, all of Otonabee, and A9bner Collins of South Monaghan.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 1.30 p.m. from the family residence, Rev. E. W. Rowland of Mark Street United church, officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Old Paddlers Give Up Canoeing For Winter

There may be nothing unusual in the bare fact that two people have sold their canoe and have given up paddling because winter months are coming on, and that they expect to start again next year. But when it is related that the couple have been paddling together steadily for the past sixty years, it becomes news.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Simpson of Lakefield, aged 85 and 83 respectively, don't like to see the winter months approach, because it means they won't be able to paddle about the Trent Canal and Lake Katchewanooka until spring. A couple of weeks ago they sold their boat, only to have good weather continue. But then there was another reason why they should give up the sport, according to Mrs. Simpson. "Dick is bothered by pains in his head and we thought it was about time we gave up paddling," she said. She hopes, however, the pains will be gone by spring and that they will be able to continue the sport.

It was just sixty years ago, immediately after their wedding that they took up paddling for exercise and in quest of fish. "I've never been afraid in a canoe because Dick was always a real good paddler," she said. "We never had any close calls and we are still fond of a canoe." All summer long the aged couple, still in possesion of all their faculties, have paddled up and down the waters about Lakefield, have gone trolling for fish on numerous occasions.

20 Years An Exile From Native Land Is Marked By Former German Kaiser

DOORN, The Netherlands, Nov. 10.—(AP).—Hale and hearty for his 79 years, ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II Wednesday counted off another of the twenty years in exile, which started when he fled his crumbling German Empire to sanctuary in the Netherlands.

Since Nov. 10, 1918, the ex-Kaiser has lived a retired existence, concerned with his family, his books and the quiet routine of existence.

To-day only his second wife, Princess Hermine, was with him to share the anniversary of unpleasant memories when he fled behind his retreating armies and Germany prepared to proclaim a republic. None of his children or grandchildren was at his lonely Doorn manor.

In Germany, where the ex-Kaiser is almost a myth, no one paid any attention to the anniversary.

Wilhelm shows no sign of resentment at his fate. Rather he regards exile as a cross laid upon him by divine will.

Not so in regard to the question of Great War guilt, which his successors admitted in signing the Versailles Treaty. One of his chief labors in the past twenty years has been historical research into the question of who was responsible for the war.

Members of the Hohenzollern family say that his manor contains one of the most complete collections of documents, letters, and historical works that any one has assembled on the war's origins.

Mr. Woodsworth chided Dr. Manion for condemning third parties in general. West of the Great Lakes, the Conservative party was the third party, he said. However, there were no essential differences between the Liberals and Conservatives when it came to maintaining the bulwarks of the present competitive capitalistic system. The battle between the old parties was between the ins and the outs.

The close relationship between the Conservative and Liberal parties was revealed in Prime Minister Mackenzie King's public expression of a wish that Dr. Manion be returned unopposed in the London by-election, Mr. Woodsworth said.

Gentleman's Agreement

"I'd certainly like to choose the leader of the opposition if I were the head of the government" he added. "There must be some sort of gentleman's agreement. I hope Dr. Manion will abide by it and not be too hard on the government."

Dr. Lorna Cotton of Peterborough, Ont., claimed the two old parties were bound to big business monopolies which paid their bills and called the tune.

Dr. Cotton considered Dr. Manion an opponent of old age pension. He had voted against the pension bill in 1926, she said, and had termed it "unfair to those who have already provided for their own old age to contribute to those who have not."

While Dr. Manion the previous night stated Russia was the only country applying socialism today. Mr. Woodsworth noted New Zealand's socialist achievements and the fact the socialist Scandinavian countries had the highest living standards in Europe.

"We don't want a dictatorship in this country. We want democracy and I'm not quite sure that we have that in this country," he said. "Sometimes I think it is government of the people by the party machine for the profiteer. There's no use talking about Russia. That is Dr. Manion's goblin and he can have it."

Unemployed Costs Up

TORONTO, Nov. 10 (C.P.). — A. W. Laver, Welfare Commissioner, reported to the Board of Control Toronto's gross expenditure on direct unemployment relief so far this year totalled $6,190,274. This compared with $5,920,803 during the same period of 1937.

Mr. Laver reported 58,603 persons received relief in the city, 8,072 more than at this time last year.

Threatens With Gun Draws Two Years

KITCHENER, Nov. 10 — (CP) — Arthur Iutzi, of New Hamburg, was found guilty here today of using firearms for threats and was sentenced to two years less a day in the Ontario Reformatory by Magistrate J. R. Blake.

Three weeks ago in New Hamburg he made Jacob Wiens accompany him to a lawyer's office, using a revolver as a threat. Iutzi claimed that the gun was a dummy.

Orville Guthrie pleaded guilty in police court here today to the theft of a motor-cycle belonging to Fred Snider and was sentenced to one year in the Ontario Reformatory.

MADOC

Miss M. Parks and Mrs. J. H. Nickle spent Sunday with friends in Napanee.

Mrs. Hugh Ferguson has been spending a few days in Peterborough with friends.

At the Hallowe'en dance given by the staff and students of Madoc High School in the auditorium, many and colorful masquerade costumes were present. As an old fashioned lady, Miss Elizabeth McCoy was awarded the first prize and Presley Nickle, as a Mexican, won the gentlemen's prize. The principal, Mr. Grant L. Thain, and Mrs. Thain, were presented with a wedding gift of an electric table lamp during the evening by Thomas Hawthorne on behalf of the pupils of Madoc High School. Music was furnished for dancing by Mrs. Vernon Reid and Messrs. Charles Leonard and Jack Kincaid.

Mrs. F. Munro of Ottawa is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Munro in Madoc.

Mrs. Ambrose Smith, who has been the guest of her father, Mr. W. H. Brooks, in Belleville, returned to her home on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Morey Nickle and children of Madoc were recent visitors in Malone.

Mr. Bruce Bristol, who has been spending some time in Sudbury, returned to his home this week.

Madoc friends are expressing sincere sympathy and regret to hear that Mr. Earl Wellman of Peterborough, formerly of Madoc, is seriously ill of pneumonia.

War History Is Neglected Ex-M.P.P. Says

TORONTO, Nov. 10.— Ignorance of the history of the Great War among school children was charged by Wilfrid Heighington, K.C., in an address to the East Danforth Business Men's Association yesterday.

Mr. Heighinton declared there are children in some of the best schools who know nothing of the brilliant records of Sir Julian Byng, French, Allenby, Haig or Sir Arthur Currie.

"It is nothing short of a reflection on our educational authorities that this ignorance of recent and most consequential history and the lack of appreciation of the part Canada played in the Great War should exist among our younger people," he said.

He claimed that every school child should have an accurate knowledge of the issues which brought the British Empire into the war, as well as a ready recollection of the events at Ypres, the Somme, Vimy and other battlefronts where the Canadian Corps triumphed so brilliantly.

Mr. Heighington said his point is substantiated by what has transpired since the Great War in such instances as the occupation by the Germans of the Rhineland, the Anschluss in Austria and the recent turbulence in Czechoslovakia.

The speaker said the dates, unknown to children, mean everything to those who served overseas. He deplored the fact that school children know all about Lindbergh, whose achievements no one can belittle, but whose record cannot be compared with those of Canada's war pilots.

German Diplomat Dies Of Wounds

PARIS, Nov. 10—(CP-Havas). — Ernst von Rath, 32-year-old third secretary of the German Embassy, died today from wounds inflicted by Herschel Grynszpan, 17-year-old Polish Jew, in a revolver attack at the Embassy Monday.

Von Rath, who was a nephew of the late Roland Koester, former German Ambassador to France, suffering from bullet wounds in the chest and groin, lapsed into a coma after a second blood transfusion today.

That he is Britain's unluckiest football player, is the claim of F. E. Stroonbant, one of the cleverest players in Guernsey, who has not been on a winning team for 10 years.

Quints Doing

They are doing much better than I expected."

Dr. D. E. Staunton, noted specialist of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, operated, while Dr. C. H. Robson of the same institution, administered the anaesthetic. Dr. Alan Brown, the hospital's physician in chief, supervised and Dr. Dafoe remained in the background.

"All the tonsils were found to be as described by Dr. Dafoe, in a very deceased state, showing that his judgment in advising their removal was justified," said Dr. Brown, following the operation.

Many Messages Delivered.

The nursery home of the children in which the operation was performed was the centre of much excitement yesterday as telegrams from all parts of Canada and the United States were delivered just prior to the operation. Many of the messages advised against the operation.

Dr. Dafoe and Dr. Brown who also has played an important part in the lives of the Quints, did not allow the children to see them yesterday. They entered the operating room in each case after the child was asleep. On the theory that the Quints might always associate the operation with pain, and they did not want the girls to develop a fear of them.

The operations, performed on an ordinary nursery table, took three hours and 15 minutes but the children were on the table for only 49 minutes. It required an average of less than 10 minutes for each operation.

Knights Of Columbus Honor Archbishop O'Brien At Dinner In The Club Rooms

Very Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D.D., of Kingston was honored by the Knights of Columbus at a dinner in their club rooms last night which was largely attended by members and their wives and by visiting state officers of the order. Among those present were Right Reverend Denis O'Connor, Bishop of Peterborough, Right Rev. Monsignor W. J. McColl of Lindsay, Rev. Dean F. J. O'Sullivan, Rev. J. J. O'Brien and other priests of the diocese, Rev. Father Lamphier of Toronto, State Deputy Phillip Phelan of Ottawa, District Deputy T. J. Scanlon of Belleville, and Past State Deputy Bernard Collins, K.C., Belleville.

At the conclusion of the dinner prayer was offered for the Holy Father by Bishop O'Connor, and the following toasts were given, to "Our King and Country" by Frank Dorris; E. J. Hyland, Grand Knight, on behalf of the Knights and their lady guests, paid a tributary address to Archbishop O'Brien, whose reply was the principal speech of the evening.

V. J. McElderry, K.C., gave a toast to "Our Clergy" which was responded to by His Excellency Bishop O'Connor. "The Ladies" by E. F. Sheehy was responded to by Mrs. F. J. Overend, and "Our Order" by Phillip Phelan was responded to by Bernard Collins.

After the singing of the National Anthem most of the members remained for an hour of dancing. Visiting Knights were present from Toronto, Cobourg, Belleville, Ottawa and Lindsay.

Wedding Bells Ring For "Doc" And Hattie As Film Fades Out

The county council didn't know it was loaded.

Among those who were not invited to the wedding this morning were Mrs. Louis Fry, matron of the House of Refuge, and Miss J. Batten.

The idea that either Charlie Tanner of Lakefield or Harry Read of Otonabee would stand up with John Deremo this morning got around the rural precincts, but it turned out all wrong.

There's nothing mercenary about the "Doc". For instance he could have got married in a church, and given a little sales talk about the merits of his salve before he said "I do" with a last informal plug during the signing of the register.

"The climax to the whole show," Charlie Tanner mused this morning, "would have been for 'Doc' and Hattie to have come back to the House of Refuge and been married in the parlor. That would have been rubbing it in.

Mrs. Laura Storms was buying things this morning with great glee. If the phrase may be applied to a woman she's one of them "when a feller needs a friend" type, get in and fight for you when the going is toughest.

An Examiner reporter asked her how about getting in for the big event. "The preacher says he doesn't want any reporters on hand, but we've got three of them already so I don't see why you shouldn't be the fourth. It's at 10.30."

Seems Emmett Sheehy was the spark plug and pepper-upper of the frontal attack on the House of Refuge. It leaks out that he used to call several of the friends of Hattie "coward" and gentle little names like that; wanted some of the good old Jack Holt stern stuff; but ordinary people feel they have a couple of strikes on them when they run up against a legal situation, especially with the shock troops of the county council on guard. But, he couldn't bluff Mrs. Storms.

They didn't sing "O Love 'Tis Morn" at the Deremo-Williams nuptials this morning, but possibly Loule Fry at the House of Refuge was crooning to the absent Hattie "I Don't Care If You Nebber Comes Back."

In the excitement of the last two days, preoccupied by encounters with the county council's agents, the groom overlooked the sartorial detail of a shave.

"Doc" made a subtle and friendly touch on some of the guests this morning, just a wedding token, seeing there wasn't time to buy presents, but a couple of the reporters had to put it on the cuff.

Many a calculating June bride was cooler about the ceremony than Hattie. She was so excited her hand trembled and she couldn't sign on the dotted line this morning. That bit of official business was postponed until after dinner.

With trials and tribulations left behind, the bride seemed to have shed many years in appearance this morning compared with her seeming condition of collapse at the Court House Tuesday evening on the way back to the House of Refuge. "Ain't" love the great elixir!

Plan Erect Mill For Production Of Alfalfa Meal

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 10. — What may be regarded as a bright outlook for the future prosperity of this town was hinted to members of the Water and Light Commission at their meeting on Wednesday.

The hope of the commission to have new industries locate here may at last become a reality it was revealed following a meeting on Tuesday evening at which farmers of the district contracted to supply one hundred and fifty acres of alfalfa next summer to a mill which it is proposed to erect here for the production of alfalfa meal. It will require 600 acres in order to keep the plant running at capacity and according to a spokesman at the Commission meeting "the biggest part of the territory is yet to be contacted."

A letter to the commission asking that an option for power already given be extended until March 1, 1939, was read and the recommendation made that the request be granted. Although unable to make public the exact nature to which the power would be put it was stated that in all probability a mill would be constructed which would refine one of the natural products of this district.

Chairman J. O. Benor presided at the meeting held in the Board Room of the Water and Light offices.

Thanks For Lights

Among the correspondence received and filed was a letter expressing the appreciation of the congregation and Board of St. John's United Church at the lights which had been placed in the parking lot adjacent to the church property. The financial statement to the end of October was read and indicated gains in all departments. Both Mayor Long and Chairman Benor expressed satisfaction when it was revealed that arrears were $51 less than a year ago. Total collections for Domestic Lights etc. to Oct. 31st were $26,237.45 and for Water $4,302.28. Payments on arrears during October totalled $95.27 and outstanding accounts in both departments were placed at $2,845.77.

To Address Banquet

Major Milton Fowler Gregg, V.C., Sergeant-at-Arms in the House of Commons since 1934 and a distinguished soldier and newspaperman, who will speak at the Ex-servicemen's Remembrance Day banquet and later in the evening to a banquet being held by the Officer's Association of this district, in the Armouries.

Major Gregg To Speak At Armouries

More than 100 officers are expected to attend a dinner in the Officer's Mess in the Armouries on Friday evening when Major Gregg, V. C., M.C., of Ottawa is slated as guest speaker. Gordon S. Matthews will be chairman.

An interesting feature of this Remembrance Day gathering of officers young and old will be the fact that Col. Topp, D.S.O., M.C., Ottawa, who will introduce Major Gregg, is the officer who commanded the unit with which Gregg was serving when his act of bravery prompted Col. Topp to recommend the V.C., the most coveted and highly prized military decoration in the British army.

Major Gregg has had a varied and interesting career. He was born at Mountain Dale, N.B., in 1892, attended the provincial Normal School at Fredericton and graduated from Acadia University, Wolfeville, N.S. obtaining his M.A. in 1920. He was formerly director of the international Diatomite Industries at Digby Neck and president of Gregg Motors in Halifax.

He taught school in New Brunswick from 1910 to 1912 and obtained advertising experience with the Halifax Herald. He covered the Prince of Wales celebration for Empire V.C.'s in London in 1929 for Halifax Herald and N.B. Telegraph-Journal. Dominion Treasurer of the Canadian Legion and a member of the B.E.S.L.

His military career started in 1910 when he became a private in the Princess Louise 8th Hussars, at Sussex, N.B. In 1914 he joined the 13th B.N., R.H.C., C.E.F. He was wounded in 1915. Commissioned 2nd Lieut. in 1916, in the King's Own Royal Lancashire Regiment. Transferred to the R.C.R.'s and wounded twice with them. He was awarded the V.C., M.C. and Bar, then promoted to Adjutant. Since that time he has been in the Canadian Militia. TDGE Major 16th Infantry Brigade and now Major of the Governor-General's Foot Guards at Ottawa. Besides decorations named above he wears the Mons Star, Service Medals and Jubilee Medal, 1935. He has been Sergeant-at-Arms since 1934.

Col. Wurtell, officer commanding the Governor-General's Foot Guards and Major Pritchard, both of Ottawa, will also attend the dinner.

All officers expecting to attend should communicate at once with the committee to facilitate the catering order.

Breckin Man Held For Cobourg Police

A man giving his name as John Smith and his address as Breckin, was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on a charge of vagrancy and the magistrate was obtaining some information from the accused prior to proceeding with the hearing when the charge was withdrawn by Provincial Constable David Silvester who informed the court that the man was wanted by the Provincial police at Cobourg and would be held for them.

His arrest followed a telephone call he sent to a trucker asking him to transport a number of cattle to the Toronto market. The address given was on the Campbellcroft road and the man was so hazy about where he had obtained the cattle he wanted taken to Toronto that it was considered desirable to hold him for investigation.

Provincial Constable Menie will take him to Cobourg where a charge is pending.

FARMERS, ATTENTION!

There will be no shipment of cattle and calves from Lakefield on November 14, by U.F.O. shipper, E. H. Brown.

Object To Cost Of Students Attending P.C.I.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Nov. 10.—The Havelock Municipal Council held their regular November meeting, Monday evening in the council chamber, with Councillors Squire, Forde and Chiles present, and Reeve E. W. Seeney in the chair.

The correspondence was read and a discussion ensued over a letter from the Peterborough Board of Education concerning the account for Havelock students taking the academic course at the Peterborough Collegiate. Principal R. W. Goheen, of the Havelock High School, present at the meeting, said that these students could have obtained the same subjects at the local school over a period of two years. He had been informed also that two of the four students taking the academic course failed to receive a pass in any of the subjects taken.

The following resolution was adopted by the council:

"That in view of the fact that last year and for several years past, Havelock and district pupils attending the Norwood High School and Peterborough Collegiate, have cost the ratepayers of Havelock approximately one mill yearly; that in view of the information from Principal Goheen of the Havelock High School that such attendance is entirely unnecessary in his opinion, and that special subjects can always be arranged to fit the situation in the local school, that this council desires to place itself on record as urgently recommending to all parents in the village and district who are sending their children to either Norwood or Peterborough, or who may be considering that course in the future, that they first consult the Havelock High School principal and discuss the matter with him, in the interest of the pupil and in the interests of all our ratepayers who are forced to assume the outside school costs of such pupils in their tax bills."

Constable William Akins was instructed to obtain the names of those responsible for property damage on Hallowe'en night, and request them to make a settlement, this on motion of Councillors Chiles and Forde.

Wants Salary Fixed.

A notice was received from His Honor Judge Smoke of Peterborough that Dr. Joseph Holdcroft, Medical Officer of Health for Havelock has applied to him to have his salary in that capacity determined by the County Court Judge, as provided for in the Public Health Act, wherever a dispute exists between a medical officer of health and the municipality.

Dr. Holdcroft, in his application to Judge Smoke, claims that the town council paid no attention to his protest in the reduction of his former salary of $150 per annum to $100 and that in fact his services in that official capacity in Havelock this year, if paid for in the regular way would amount to over $700.

Judge Smoke appointed Wednesday, November 16, at 10 a.m. as the day and hour when he would hear the complaint, and Councillor Chiles moved that the matter be left with the village solicitor, D. F. Miller, with instructions to take the necessary proceedings for settement, but received no seconder.

The balance of the correspondence was filed on motion of Councillors Chiles and Squire.

The Reeve and Council will request, by means of an advertisement in The Havelock Standard, all citizens to observe "Remembrance Day" November 11, as a holiday in honor of our veterans.

Clerk H. B. Puffer was instructed to apply through Mr. Sears of the Department of Highways for the 40 per cent. subsidy to finish the cement sidewalk of the east end of No. 7 Highway in the village.

Want Trees Replaced.

The council will ask Mr. Alex. Elliott, M.P.P., of Peterborough, to recommend to the Department of Highways, that the elm trees which are dead along No. 7 Highway in the village be replaced, and that maples be planted on the south side of the highway from the C.P.R. station east. Pines were also recommended to be planted at the eastern outskirts of the village, where the soil is particularly adapted for this type of tree.

Use of the hall from November 28 to December 3 was granted for the purpose of holding the "prospectors' School," when instructions will be given by an expert from the government office, in mining, geology, and minerals.

The reeve was instructed to have the catch basin near the park on George street repaired.

The following accounts, with the exception from John Herring for personal property damage on Hallowe'en night, were passed and ordered paid on motion of Councillors Squire and Chiles: Wm. Akins, salary, phone, selecting jurors, $54.75; Dr. A. S. Thompson, indigent account, $4.87; E. W. Seeney, selecting jurors, $2; Commercial Stationery, copy paper, ribbon, $3.55; Cecil Wilson, repairs to date, $13.65; Edward Fennell, insurance renewal, town hall, $48; Ray Scott, lodging and meal re blind transient, $1.50; Dr. Joseph Holdcroft, medical treatment, re blind transient, $2; County of Peterborough, extra road pavement, $194.52; H. B. Puffer, pay sheet No. 16, postage, phone, affidavits, $16.07; Peterborough Board of Education, student attending Peterborough Collegiate academic course, $221.43; Bank of Toronto, loans paid off, $500; Transferred to School Board, 38 requisition, $300; John Herring, damage to property, $5; Art. Russell, hauling sand, $3; R. A. Buchanan, hauling rocks, $4.50; James McMillan, patrolling streets, October 31, $2; Harold Peters, patrolling streets, October 31, $2.

Raymond Is Believed To Be Slated For Job As Paris Envoy Post–Rinfret To Belgium

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—There were renewed reports on Parliament Hill today that Maxime Raymond, member of the House of Commons for Beauharnois-Laprairie, would be appointed Minister to Paris, to succeed Hon. Phillipe Roy, who is retiring.

Coupled with this report was another mentioning two names for the Belgo-Dutch post created by the last session of Parliament. The government has decided to name only one representative to the two legations and present reports say that either Hon. Fernand Rinfret, present Secretary of the State, or Colonel George Vanier, now in the High Commissioner's office in London, will be appointed. The new minister will divide his time between Belgium and Holland.

During the last session of the House it was persistently reported that either Mr. Raymond or Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon would be appointed to Paris. Mr. Turgeon has now accepted the post of chief justice of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Raymond, prominent in the legal profession in Montreal, was made a K.C., in 1918, and is a graduate of Laval University. He was first elected to the House in 1925, and was successful in the four subsequent general elections. His brother is Senator Donat Raymond, prominently identified with the federal Liberal organization in Quebec.

One of the first major tasks of the first Canadian minister to Brussels is likely to be to aid in concluding the much-delayed trade pact between Belgium and Canada.

P.C. Silvester Is Given Warning

"Some one told my boy that you will have to look out or you will get it if you go deer hunting near Apsley. A revenger around no doubt."

So reads a mysterious warning received by provincial constable David Silvester Wednesday in an anonymous letter left for him at the police station by an unknown woman and giving him information in regard to another matter.

Constable Silvester is not taking the warning very seriously. "It's not the first of its kind I've received during my time as a police officer," he said, "and I'm not worrying about it."

Otonabee Boys Face Charges In Police Court

The aftermath of a Halloween occurrence at Lang was the appearance in police court this morning of ten Otonabee young men and boys, all charged with stealing four ladders, 40 gallons of tar and a gate from Melville Edwards on the night of October 31.

Two of the ten were found to be juveniles and their cases were withdrawn. The other eight accused all pleaded not guilty.

"This affair happened on Hallowe'en night," said Crown Attorney McElderry. "The articles disappeared mysteriously and it might be that if there were an adjournment for a week they would return just as mysteriously."

Magistrate Langley was not impressed with the suggestion, remarking that if the court were being used merely to recover a man's property it was not the proper function of the court which was to deal with guilty offenders.

The eight accused were Wallie Edwards, 29, Timothy Walsh, 29, Lloyd Miller, 19, Jack Knox, 17, Thomas Weir, 16, Harold Wallbridge, 18, and Keith Pimmett, 16, and Neil Edwards, 27.

Edwards Testifies

The first case proceeded with was that against Jack Knox.

Melville Edwards testified that he had been in Toronto on the night of Hallowe'en and on his return at 8 o'clock in the morning, he had found his ladders, a drum of tar and his gate all missing. The gate was found later hung up in a tall tree. He swore that he had spoken to Jack Knox about the matter and the accused had admitted he had helped to take the things away.

That was the Crown's case and as there was no defence put in Magistrate Langley found the accused guilty of the charge and reserved sentence until Monday.

Most of the other accused then asked for an adjournment of their cases until the same date but Wallie Edwards insisted upon having the charge against him proceeded with.

Harold Wallbridge was called as the first crown witness and in his behalf Crown Attorney McElderry asked the protection of the Canada Evidence Act. Wallbridge was very evasive as to what he had seen at Edwards' place on Hallowe'en, refusing to mention any names and the Crown Attorney asked for and received permission to treat him as a hostile witness.

Under cross-examination by Mr. McElderry Wallbridge finally named Wallie Edwards, the accused, as one of the 35 he said were at Melville Edwards' place when the articles were taken away. He said the ladders and tar were thrown into the river.

Court adjourned for luncheon before accused began his cross-examination of the witness.

GETS THREE YEARS

On an information issued by Provincial Constable David Silvester Elmer Partridge was sentenced at Belleville on Tuesday to three years in Kingston Penitentiary for breaking and entering and theft at Westwood where the store of Mrs. Lobb was robbed some time ago. The goods, candles and cigarettes stolen at Westwood were recovered. The sentence is to run concurrently with others imposed on Partridge for other offences.

Aged Bride Is So Nervous At Her Wedding Unable To Sign Register

John Deremo and Hattie Williams, off to many a false start in their marathon to matrimony, were waved across the starting line this morning.

The oft-interrupted wedding was performed by Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James' United Church at the home of Mrs. Laura Storms on Lake street. In comparison with the episodes that had gone before, it was a sensationless affair. Hattie, 76, and John, 78 (official ages given by John), stood more or less firmly in the tiny living room of the Storms' home and answered enthusiastically the questions put by the minister.

When the fateful words that ask if any man can show just cause why the couple should not be joined in holy matrimony were uttered, a dead silence fell in the room, a silence almost of anticipation, and the spectre of the county council hovered over the little gathering. For they it has been who have halted the nuptials before. But the moment passed without untoward incident and a few minutes later the minister was congratulating the couple.

"You've been a long time arriving at this state," he told the old couple, and wished them complete happiness during the rest of their lives.

The wedding struck one small snag at its conclusion when the aged bride became so nervous she could not sign the register. Repeated attempts failed, and the minister called it off, said he would return later in the day.

There will be no wedding trip, John Deremo confided. He is going to keep Hattie as quiet as possible because she has felt the strain of the past few days.

Two Are Charged With Theft Of Dog

A hound dog shipped from Hastings to an address in Prince Edward Island on Tuesday was taken off the train at Belleville at the request of Peterborough police and last evening Provincial Constable David Silvester arrested on warrants Charles Westlake, R.R. 2, Peterborough and Earl Mills, R.R. 1, Peterborough.

The two men appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning, Westlake, charged with stealing the dog on March 24, 1937, from Arthur T. Johnston of Peterborough and Mills with receiving the animal on November 8, knowing it to be stolen.

Both pleaded not guilty to the charge and the cases were adjourned for a week. It is reported that as a result of the charges, counter charges may be made by the two accused.

DEER IN HALIBURTON

Ivan Lillico reports deer plentiful through the Dorset Road section of Haliburton. He and his party got their limit of three bucks, and enjoyed a fine outing with the exception of the motor accident Sunday in which Ralph Boke of Pickering and Mr. Lillico escaped serious injury south of Minden when a tire on their car blew out swerving it into the ditch where it turned over twice. Mr. Boke had two ribs broken, and is resting comfortably in the Ross Memorial hospital in Lindsay. It is expected that he will be able to return home in a few days.

BANK CLEARINGS.

Bank clearings for the week were reported to-day at $663,097.

ONE RECORD ANYWAY

There was not a liquor case of any kind on the docket at police court this morning and that establishes a record of some kind.

CITY'S NEW STANDARD.

Alderman McCannan, chairman of the property committee of the city council, pointed to a new flag pole surmounted with gold-painted ball, and told the Examiner today a new Union Jack would be flown for the first time on Remembrance Day.

COACHING JUDGING TEAM.

Peterborough's junior farmer judging team that will compete at the Royal Winter Fair next week are goin gto Guelph early on Friday for several days' coaching. Jim Moore, home from the Kemptville Agricultural School, H. Donaldson and G. Stalker will be accompanied by Frank C. Paterson, representative of the Department of Agriculture.

VEHICLES DAMAGED.

Both vehicles were damaged when a truck owned by the Coca-Cola Company and driven by James Collins, collided with an automobile driven by Dr. H. V. Dobson, 245 Engleburn Avenue, at the intersection of Charlotte and Aylmer Streets. Dr. Dobson was driving west on Charlotte Street and the Coca-Cola truck was making a turn westerly into Charlotte Street coming from the south, when the machines met.

RECOVERING CAR

A diver and a salvage crew were busy today atempting to recover a car from the bottom of Lake Chemong, which went through the railing and into the lake a few nights ago. Up to 1.30 the workmen had not been successful, and are having difficulty because of the depth of the water at this point. The car is owned by Daniel K. Orough of Ennismore and was being driven across the bridge by his hired man, George Cameron, when the mishap occurred. The driver escaped with a ducking.

THE QUEBEC MUSICAL FESTIVAL

H. C. Sootheran of the Royal Bank, acting as representative of the Quebec Musical Competition Festival, held in Montreal from March 6 to 16, is in receipt of information that Viscountess Rhondda will adjudicate the finals for the English original literary works. She is editor of "Time and Tide" and was active in women's suffrage before the war, and had the unusual experience of having been on the ill-fated Lusitania when it sank on May 7, 1915. Covering every field of music the entry list for the coming festival is certain to be a large one.

Canada Shown Resistance To U.S. Slump

MONTREAL, Nov. 10 (C.P.). — Canada has shown "surprising resistance" in the last year to the depressive influence of recession in the United States and the remarkably stable level of business activity indicates more favorable 1939 conditions, President S. G. Dobson told the Canadian Bankers' Association annual meeting to-day.

"While the future is clouded by many uncertain factors, such as the European situation, conditions in the United States, and to some extent by the trade agreements now being negotiated, I cannot feel otherwise than encouraged by the outlook for Canada," he said.

"The increased buying power resulting from bountiful crops, the development of mining, the improvement in the paper industry, accompanied by a more determined effort on the part of most of our governmental bodies to live within their means, indicates to me more favorable conditions during 1939."

Mr. Dobson said business in Canada naturally had reflected the influence of effects of the U.S. recession and Canadian conditions had not been so favorable as in 1937. Official reports, however, indicated that generally the level of industrial and commercial activity was remarkably stable with business volume well above the long-term, post-war normal.

Referring to conditions in Western Canada, Mr. Dobson felt the Federal Government could not have done otherwise than guarantee a minimum price to wheat growers, particularly in view of world wheat supplies far exceeding requirements. Crop failure had followed crop failure and to follow ordinary marketing practices inevitably would lead to heavy losses for growers.

Mining Big Factor.

Reviewing factors contributing to Canada's stability, Mr. Dobson dealt with mining, agriculture, oil production, manufacturing, construction, and foreign trade. He ranked mining foremost, production exceeding the high 1937 figures and gains being reported in production of gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc and in metals of the platinum group.

He noted an "encouraging" increase in commercial loans, up $58,218,877 at $828,903,218, indicating "business activity was proceeding at a more rapid rate than for some time. He added commercial loans were fairly accurate as a business barometer and "we therefore have reason to feel encouraged by this increase in the need of industry for bank accommodation."

Employment and manufacturing had been fairly well maintained, little improvement was shown in construction though special legislation had been designed to assist the building industry.

"As in the United States, the heavy industries were among the first to be affected, but the reduction in operations has been less severe in Canada."

Recalling the 30 per cent. decline in the 1930 output of Canadian newsprint mills, he pointed to the reduction in the tonnage of newsprint stocks in the hands of the publishers and producers as indicating that by the end of the year production and consumption could be expected to resume their normal relationship.

Mr. Dobson said while a setback in unemployment and relief was experienced during the year, recent reports indicated "a measure of recovery already has taken place and that with the marketing of this year's crop, agricultural relief should be reduced greatly."

Trade Agreement.

Noting a $216,000,000 decline in 1936 exports, largely accounted for by reduced shipments to the United States, Mr. Dobson felt "there is much to be gained by making concessions which will enhance the general trade and welfare of the country."

"But," he added, "it is hoped that those which Canada will be asked to make to ensure the success of this (Canada-United States) agreement as well as the Anglo-American trade treaty will not detract seriously from the advantages now enjoyed under the Ottawa Empire Preferences."

He referred briefly to the activities of the Rowell Commission on Dominion - Provincial Relations. General opinion of organizations like board of trade, he said, "seems to favor strengthening the authority of the Dominion Government in such fields as labor and marketing legislation, unemployment relief, etc., while certain provincial governments appear reluctant to submit these matters to Federal control."

He doubted whether early action could be expected on the report of the commission.

Mr. Dobson mentioned the recent European war crisis and said the Munich pact "is one which we trust will lead to permanent peace, for it is only in times of peace that the peoples of the world can prosper."

In Race Against Death

In a race against death the U.S. Coastguard cutter Alexander Hamilton, piloted by Commander C. G. Roemer, arrived in San Francisco with a civilian passenger, Henry Walther, LEFT, who is rusing to the bedside of his stricken mother in Chicago. Walther was picked up in an Alaskan port after one of hundreds of messages broadcast by amateur short wave radio operators reached him in a remote section of Alaska. The Coastguard cutter, returning from a Bering Sea patrol, skipped its regular stop at Seattle to rush Walther to San Francisco in time to catch a plane for Chicago.

Pleads Guilty To Theft

GUELPH, Ont., Nov. 9.—(CP)—Charles Schneider of Kitchener, arrested at New Hamburg after a wild chase in which Schneider's motor car overturned, faced 11 charges of chicken theft, false pretences and escaping lawful custody when he appeared in police court here today. He was remanded until a week from tomorrow.

A week ago, Schneider pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering and theft of chickens, and to two charges of false pretences.

Police Hold Woman Housebreaking Count

KITCHENER, Ont., Nov. 10.—(CP)—Mrs. Olga Skorey, operator of a restaurant here, was charged with housebreaking and theft in police court and held in custody for a week on remand when she was unable to put up $1,000 bail. Two charges of housebreaking and theft against her son, Alex, failed and since jewelery stolen from the home of Matt Kirkwood, Preston, was recovered by the Kitchener police at Mrs. Skorey's place, the charge was transferred to here. She was not - asked to plead.

No Relief As Yet Seymour Township

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 10—Reeve Robert Innes was quite pleased at the amount of road work that had been done throughout the township this summer, he told Seymour Township councillors at their meeting on Monday afternoon.

Two of the jobs which he regarded as most important in the year's work were the cut made in the hill on the 11th concession near Thomas Fry's farm, and the other was the improvement made to the grade approaching No. 30 highway near Woodland cheese factory. Both of these parts had been meriting attention for some time, and he felt their correction had been among the most important road work done during the summer.

"It would pay to cut a lot of this for fuel," suggested the reeve when it was reported a considerable quantity of brush should be cut throughout the township. When it was revealed that there was no relief as yet, it was decided the matter could be shelved for the present.

Mechanical Sweep

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 10—(CP).—An invention which has gained the approval of the Ontario Fire Marshal and which is calculated to simplify the cleaning of stove pipes has been perfected by Edward Martin, Lindsay. The device is an opening in the "elbow" of the pipes to allow cleaning with a long brush.

Patents have been applied for at Ottawa and Washington.

Suspect Remanded In Armed Robbery

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 10.—(CP)—Robert Young, 22, of Hamilton, today was remanded to jail for a week on charges of armed robbery of a drug store here Oct. 27. He was arrested a week ago and held on suspicion.

Clifford Leblanc, arrested at Cornwall and now on remand in connection with the robbery, was previously believed to have some connection with the affair, and was identified by George Walsh, a clerk in the store. The identification was changed after Young was arrested. Young and Leblanc are said to look alike and were wearing similar clothes when arrested.

Windsor Returned Men Refuse To March With Italians, Germans

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 10 (CP).—The Windsor branch of the Canadian Corps Association announced its members would refuse to march in Friday's Armistice Day parade here if former soldiers of Italy or Germany attempt to march in the parade by groups.

Members said the unit adopted this policy because "Italian and German factions have engaged in subversive activities" throughout Canada.

Capt. S. A. Wallace, president of the unit, said some Italian veterans in Windsor are associated with an Italian school at which he said Fascism has been taught. Wallace said a German group operates a branch of the German bund here.

"We know these people have tried to prevent people arriving in Canada from taking out Canadian citizenship papers," the president added. "If they do not want to be good citizens of Canada, we cannot tolerate them."

It's a Fairy Tale Cadi Scoffs Prisoner's Alibi

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 10 (CP)

REY DeVEIR, 24, awaiting sentence on a charge of automobile theft, was convicted yesterday of theft of a bottle of wine, a rug and a sweater from a second car. He will be sentenced today on both counts.

DeVeir's story that he did not know how the articles got into the stolen car he was driving was branded a "fairy tale" by the magistrate.

Charges of vagrancy and theft against Eleanor Zimmerman, 24, arrested with DeVeir, will not be pressed, Harvey McCullough, assistant crown counsel, said. She said she had had some of the wine but did not see the rug or blanket, identified by Robert Young.

DeVeir was arrested after a 70-mile-an-hour chase in east Flamboro district. The car he was driving crashed into a tree, but neither he nor Miss Zimmerman were injured.

Distinguished Clergymen Attend Funeral Of Rev. Bamforth

Distinguished clergymen from many sections of the province attended the funeral services on Monday in George Street United church for the late Rev. Richard Bamforth, B.A., who died at his home at 33 Dennistoun avenue on Friday afternoon.

George Street church was filled to capacity for the service, a token of the high regard in which the elderly minister was held throughout this entire district. A member of the Bay of Quinte Conference throughout his long service, he was minister at Mark Street United church from 1923 until 1925.

The board of session of George Street church, of which he was a life member, attended the services in a body, as did the Women's Missionary Society, of which Mrs. Bamforth is a member. The entire Peterborough Collegiate Intermediate and Senior football teams, whose coach is a son of the Rev. Mr. Bamforth, were present. Ministers and lay members of the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church were present in full force to honor their fellow worker.

The service was conducted by Rev. M. C. Parr, assisted by two very distinguished clergymen of the United Church, both of whom had journeyed to Peterborough from Toronto to pay last respects to their comrade, and Rev. W. P. Woodger, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church. The Toronto clergymen were Rev. W. B. Tucker and Rev. S. C. Moore. They both spoke feelingly of their departed friend. Rev. Mr. Tucker, who was ordained at the same time, spoke briefly of his friend's great oratorical abilities and his firm belief in the Word he was preaching. He said that only for the terrible handicap that befell Mr. Bamforth a few years after he had entered the clergy—he became deaf—he would have been called to take over the very highest duties of his church. Rev. Mr. Moore paid tribute to his abilities and to his great humanity. He had known the departed man for more than half a century, he said.

Sympathy of Conference.

Rev. Mr. Woodger extended the sympathy of the entire Bay of Quinte Conference to the bereaved family, and told of the high regard in which the departed man was held throughout the entire United Church ministry. Another distinguished visitor who came from Toronto to pay last homage was Dr. J. B. MacDougall, a classmate of Mr. Bamforth, who represented the class of 1896 at Queens University.

Honorary pall-bearers were Dr. MacDougall, Rev. Mr. Tucker, Rev. S. C. Moore, Rev. Mr. Woodger, Fred Kent of Port Perry, Samuel Jeffries of Port Perry, V. Zufelt of Consecon, Ontario; R. J. Kidd and H. G. Walker of Peterborough.

Active pall-bearers were all fellow clergymen. They were Rev. E. W. Rowland of Peterborough, Rev. J. R. Trumpour of Cavan, Rev. Harry Wilkinson of Bridgenorth, Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Warson, Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Peterborough, and Rev. W. J. H. Smythe of Port Perry.

Rev. Mr. Parr spoke briefly at the service in his capacity as Chairman of the Peterborough Presbytery of the United Church, and as the departed minister's own pastor. Mrs. James Goldie rendered a solo selection beautifully.

"Mr. Bamforth will be remembered for his kindliness and genial spirit and for his gift of friendliness, said Mr. Parr. "It was always a great joy to me to see him in the congregation so afflicted and not able to enjoy the service as others. His very presence indicated that to his pastor he was giving his wholehearted and sympathetic support. He was also showing to the very end of his long and useful ministry an example in attendance upon divine service that he loved the House of the Lord. Here he met God and wanted others to do so as well."

MILLBROOK

More than thirty-four dollars was realized from the hot chicken supper, sponsored by the Boneak Bible Class, and held in the basement of St. Andrew's church on Saturday evening, the money to be devoted to the Sunday School funds.

The two long tables were filled more than once and were attractive with runners of smilax down the length of each, and small hollowed-out pumpkins filled with the red pods of the sweet briar were placed at regular intervals.

The president of the class, Mrs. John Rowland, was assisted by the vice-president, Mrs. Jeffrey Powell, and by many of the other officers and members, in serving the steady stream of guests who came from the opening hour until past the hour set as the limit for the supper. Mrs. W. A. O'Brian, with other assistants, looked after the sale of tickets.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wallace, from northern Saskatchewan, are visiting their niece, Miss E. L. Hetherington, and other friends in the village, at present.

Miss May Attwooll left for Copper Cliff on Saturday morning, and is remaining for some time as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Attwooll, Miss Ida Attwooll, and Mr. H. Lancashire accompanied Miss May on the motor trip to the northern town, returning the same evening.

Miss May O'Brian left for Buffalo, N.Y. at the weekend, and will remain for the winter with her cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Lugsdin, and Miss Bessie O'Brian.

J. W Thorndyke, Nelles and Ray Rowland, and Henry Lancashire, of Toronto, were at their respective homes for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hill, and family and Mr. Reiner Hiss of Toronto spent the weekend with Mrs. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Howe, and two daughters, Peggy and June, of Toronto, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Bigelow motored to Toronto for Sunday, also Miss Shirley Buckingham and Mr. Walter Ziegler who spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in the Queen City.

Dr. Edna Eastcott of the Faculty of Applied Science, University of Toronto, was home for the weekend with her mother, Mrs. J. N. Eastcott.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Tinney and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Smith motored to Toronto on Friday, the latter visiting their daughter, Miss Bernice Smith, second year student in Arts at the University.

Reve W. E. and Mrs. Ball were visitors to Toronto on Sunday, motoring up during the afternoon and returning the same evening.

The ex-service men are holding a service at the Cenotaph on Friday, November 11, the veterans meeting at the armouries at 10 a.m., the parade to reach the memorial by 10.30. Lieutenant-Colonel Lloyd of Cobourg will be the chief speaker, and local clergy, with the citizens' band, will assist with the program.

PORT STANLEY, Ont.—A wild bull, running through the streets of this Lake Erie town near St. Thomas and driving residents to shelter, was captured by Chief Constable Herbert Taylor.

MARMORA

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Aikenhead and Miss Lilian Aikenhead of London were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Elliott, Deloro.

Born on Saturday, November 5, to Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, a daughter.

Mrs. Philip Sopha and son Norman visited Mr. and Mrs. C. Clarke in Peterborough on Sunday.

Mr. W. Ferris of Toronto renewed acquaintances here on Tuesday.

Messrs. Tom and Everett Gray secured a deer apiece on Monday and luck seems to be coming the way of other Marmora hunting parties.

Sailing Around World In Ketch

Sherman Woodfall, 22, LEFT, and his brother Earle, 24, are pictured here at the wheel of their home-made 35-foot ketch Volita, in which they will start out from Rockport, Mass., on a 33,000-mile voyage around the world. The boys built the boat in its entirety, even making their own bolts and nuts, melting and pouring the 3-ton lead keel, and making the two masts from two 50-foot spruce trees they cut and hauled from Vermont. The little craft cost them $3,500.

Remembrance Day Havelock Holiday

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Nov. 10. — Plans for a Remembrance Day service have been announced by the local War Veterans' society, and a program arranged. Reeve Ernest Seeney has declared Friday, November 11, a public holiday for Havelock so that everyone may attend this service in revered memory of our Havelock and Belmont heroes who fell in the Great War.

The parade will assemble at the C.P.R. Station square at 10.15 a.m. and march to the Memorial Park Gate in the following order:

Havelock Kiltie Band, veterans, Reeve and Council, High and Public School Boards, students and citizens.

Placing of the wreaths at the gate will be conducted by Reeve Seeney, with prayer by Rev. A. McLauchlin and Rev. D. K. Perrie. Two minutes' silence will be observed and the Last Post and Reveille sounded by Grey Kemp.

The parade will then proceed to the Town Hall, where the remainder of the program and speaking will be held under the chairmanship of T. P. Lancaster.

SAFETY PATROL

CANNING, N.S.—(CP).—A "Safety Patrol" which will supervise traffic in the area around schools when classes are opening or being dismissed has been formed in this King's County village under supervision of the Nova Scotia Highways Department.

OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY

CAMPBELLTON, N.B.—(CP). — The Hotel Dieu Hospital, founded here in 1888 by four sisters of the Hotel Dieu Order from Montreal and two from Chatham, N.B., had its 50th anniversary this Fall. Of the original six nuns the only survivor is Sister Doyle, of Chatham.

Housing Scheme Success In West

OTTAWA, Nov. 10—(CP).—Western Canada has shown considerable interest in building homes with the aid of the National Housing Act, according to J. Clark Reilly, secretary of the Canadian Construction Association, who has just returned from a trip to the West Coast.

"British Columbia is showing quite a bit of activity in housing," said Mr. Reilly in an interview. "The West Coast province was slow to take advantage of the act, but now building is proceeding with ready co-operation from the insurance companies who are making the loans necessary for construction."

Considerable use of the Housing Act was being made on the Prairies, he said. Edmonton would vote shortly, he understood, on a project for construction of a block of low-rent homes by the city. Civic housing projects also had been discussed in Winnipeg.

"Personally, I favor formation of private companies to erect and administer such housing projects," said Mr. Reilly.

Housing will form a main topic of discussion at the 21st annual convention of the Canadian Construction Association in Winnipeg next January 10, 11 and 12, Mr. Reilly said.

Bennett Sails Saturday

LONDON, Nov. 10—(CP Cable).—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Prime Minister of Canada, who has been visiting in the British Isles for the last two months, said to-day he will sail Saturday for Montreal in the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose.

Mr. Bennett declined to comment on reports that he was planning to make his future home in England. He said his visit was private and personal.

YOU GET WHAT YOU LIKE and LIKE WHAT YOU GET

Read how an amazing new ingredient makes New High-Test OXYDOL give whiter washes than ever—yet keeps it safe for washable colors, fabrics, and hands

Here it is—the amazing new kind of laundry soap that's creating such a furor all over America today—new High-Test OXYDOL! The soap that washes white clothes up to 15% whiter than old-fashioned bar and package soaps!

When first you try new High-Test Oxydol, we believe you'll be utterly amazed. For it contains a new ingredient that soap experts have been working on for years.

This remarkable ingredient not only multiplies washing power—but also keeps High-Test Oxydol safe for washable colors—safe for fabrics and hands. You'll find that even gaily colored prints come through wash after wash amazingly brilliant and fresh.

But that's not all. Tests against old-style package soaps show that High-Test Oxydol gives up to TWICE THE SUDS even in hard water. Rich, hard-working suds that stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

In tub washing, these rich suds soak dirt loose in as little as ten minutes. No back-breaking scrubbing to sap your strength and shorten the life of your clothes. In fact, clothes washed this scrubless way last 2 to 3 times longer from the standpoint of washday wear and tear compared with old-style methods.

In washing machines, women say that new High-Test Oxydol is little short of a miracle! Its richer-than-ever suds soak dirt loose while the washer is running—give you DOUBLE-ACTION wash.

New High-Test Oxydol is easy on household budgets, too. Each cup goes up to one-fourth again as far—does up to 25% more work—than the same amount of old-fashioned soap. So it's a grand money-saver, too.

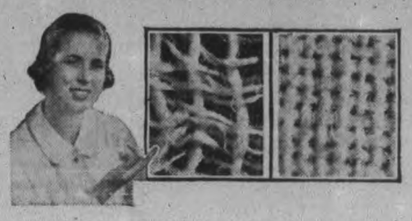
Get a package of new High-Test OXYDOL today. You'll find it for sale at all dealers in the familiar orange and blue bull's-eye package. (No change in the box—the difference is in the soap.) Once you try it, we believe you'll never go back again to less modern soaps! Procter & Gamble.

MADE IN CANADA

GIVES UP TO TWICE THE SUDS

of Less Modern Soaps in Hard Water

Even hardest water can't squelch the amazing suds-making power of new High-Test OXYDOL. Tests show that it gives up to TWICE THE SUDS of old-style bar and package soaps even in hard water—suds that actually stand up 2 to 3 times longer! Unbelievable? Try it and see for yourself!



CLOTHES LAST 2 TO 3 TIMES LONGER

When Washed the High-Test OXYDOL Way

AFRAID TO MARRY

By HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTEA 44

THE NEXT two days were the longest Judy ever spent. They dragged as though iron weights held back the hands of every clock in Manhattan. She would look at the jeweled wrist watch, which her father had given her as a birthday gift once, and start because only ten minutes had passed since she had consulted it.

She would cross to the window of her living room and look across town to a lighted clock, hoping her watch was slow.

Then she would remember that the faster time passed, the more hours would stack up against the last time she had heard from Ronald.

She scanned the newspapers feverishly. There were no stories now. Everything seemed to have ceased. The crisis was coming.

She could do nothing but wait for Ronald to call.

She had gone to bed, on that second night, and was nearly asleep when her telephone rang softly. Instantly she was awake. She reached for the instrument and her voice trembled as she said: "Hello?"

"Judy? Did I waken you?"

"No, Ronald. I wasn't asleep." I wasn't asleep, I was thinking of you. "How are you?"

"Fine, Judy! And you?" She thought he was laughing. If he could laugh, maybe things were better. But, no, Ronald always laughed.

"I'm fine, too," she added, then said: "Now that we've dispensed with the health situation, really how are you?"

He made a gay answer and then grew serious: "Judy, can you get away from your office in the morning for a little while? The police have rounded up your friend of the green and plaid ensemble. He's to be in the lineup at nine in the morning. They want you to identify him—that is, if he is the same man?"

"Yes, I'll get off and be there early."

"Ever seen the lineup, Judy?"

She shook her head, remembered he couldn't see, and said no.

"The prisoners are lined up back of a screen, and the full force of lights brought to bear so they can't see those on the other side of the screen. That way they can't pull any spite work because they don't know who's responsible for the identification. I'll be watching for you at the main entrance."

Judy slept better that night. In the morning the drama would start again.

She had a moment's difficulty adjusting her eyes to the brilliant glare in the morning. She looked carefully to make sure she had the right man. He took a few steps, head preceding his body. Yes, that was the one. She motioned to Ronald, who whispered something to an officer.

The line ended. She accompanied Ronald to a small office where some more men waited. They were cheerful.

"We found the green hat and plaid coat, too, Miss Rogers," one of them explained. "How about taking a place on the force? You are a fine detective."

Judy was eager for an explanation. She wanted to know if the police had been able to determine in what way this mysterious blackmailer had become involved in the jury bribing case.

No one explained, though. When she was alone with Ronald she looked at him, intending to ask. His face was so stern and his brows were so knitted that she hesitated. He was on the trail of an idea.

She drew herself up to her full height, tossed back her curly head. Very well! She would not ask questions. If no one wanted to tell her anything, she wouldn't know, that was all.

Her eyes were straight ahead as they went down the hall, so she did not see Abbey until she heard the other's voice:

"Ronald, is everything all right?"

Abbey was dresser in the green of a holly leaf and her hat was something red and crushable and that matched her bag. Judy was aware of her own brown ensemble and was glad that she had made no bid for special attention. She was smarter than Abbey, that she knew. Better dresser. But Abbey would hold the spotlight.

Then Abbey saw Judy: "Oh, good morning, Miss Rogers. I didn't know you were in on our celebration."

Ronald spoke quietly but there was the ring of authority in his voice. "It was Judy, you know, who traced the blackmail menace for us."

"I would have been better off if she hadn't," Abbey flamed. "Now it will be in all the papers...."

"Steady, Abbey," Ronald went on, not lifting his voice. "Who knows what might have happened?"

"You didn't handle it well—"

"See here, Abbey, you must remember you hadn't taken me into your confidence completely. Don't forget that."

Mystified, Judy had stood by Now she said: "I don't understand. I didn't know Abbey was concerned in any of this. I was trying to help Ronald—"

"Of course, my dear, you spend the best part of your time figuring a way to help Ronald!"

Abbey said the words sharply and turned away.

Ronald did not follow her. He shook his head, and something like amusement was in his eyes.

"A spoiled brat," he remarked. "But a mighty pretty one."

Men were so dumb! The surface view blinded them to the inner resources. There would be time enough to grow philosophical later. Just now she wanted to know what had been discovered.

"Is the matter of the jury bribing clearing up?" she asked.

Ronald looked at her honestly, "Judy, it's more of a mystery than ever before."

"But Abbey—what did she mean?"

"Its time you had an explanation Judy. I'm going to give you one. I hoped Abbey would do it of her own accord, but she seems to have disappeared. There's a coffee shop across the park. Shall we find a table?"

Five minutes later, with a silver pot of coffee for two between them, Ronald said:

"You never knew, Judy, but once, a year or so ago, before Count Phillippe introduced royal romance into Abbey's life, she had a yen for a handsome weakling with a flabby shin. Remember the man in the conservative clothes, the one I said I asked to meet me at your apartment? I explained it to you when that other little runt appeared?"

Judy nodded, still baffled.

"Being a voluble young lady on paper as well as in oral speech, and also being much enamored, I take it, Abbey wrote this tall weakling some letters in which she said she loved him a great deal—enough to make a settlement on his wife it he would send her to Reno."

Judy began to understand. She waited, eyes on Ronald's face.

"The man—his name was Gregg Sterling—didn't take her up on it. Maybe he perferred his own wife. Maybe he just procrastinated. Awful habit, you know, procrastination."

He poured another cup of coffee for Judy, another for himself. He dropped one lump of sugar in her cup, two in his. She smiled because he had noticed how much she used.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, November 11.

Some decidedly arresting circumstances may bring high activities to a standstill on this day, according to the predominant sidereal operations. Illness, bereavement, sorrow, or some other distressing development may temporarily bring about a static situation. There also are signs of enmity, jealousy, contention, and wrangling, with recklessness and impetuosity adding to the unhappy state of affairs.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which their cherished activities and ambitions may come to a standstill, possibly by sickness, grief or the loss of a friend. This has angles of menace through jealousy, enmity, strife and rash and impulsive manifestations to add to the distress and stagnation of the interests. Be cautious, patient, hopeful.

A child born on this day may have a rather cross-grained nature, with much conflict of emotions and behavior. It may be sensitive, fault-finding and contemplative, at the same time having wayward and inflammatory impulses.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—About three-quarters of a century ago my mother and father made their way in the West and settled in Chicago when it was little more than a trading post. They went about making a living and a home. Had children, as all women in those days did. Neighboring women substituted for doctor and nurse and thought it was right and proper. They had done very well when the Chicago fire took everything they had except the clothes they wore even the deed to the little property they had acquired, and all county records too were burned. She started over again. Had some more babies, then came a scourge of scarlet fever and diphtheria that took her two oldest sons, just little fellows, both within two weeks. A third child escaped it by a miracle. Then she took sick. This lasted a year or more.

Back on her feet, she started further West with my father and her two remaining children. They settled in Kansas on the very border of the Indian territory. She helped in the store (or trading post, as it was), ran the farm and had some more children. If a neighbor woman was to have a baby (and neighbors were seldom closer than ten miles) she was called, pulled on her boots, mounted a buckboard or on horseback, regardless of weather, delivered the baby and back again in time to milk the cow at daybreak.

Back in Illinois she had seen Lincoln, both alive and dead. She had heard Stephen A. Douglass debate with him. She knew generals returned from the Civil War whose names adorn history. In the wild frontier she had been besieged all night in a dugout by hungry coyotes; she had seen Sitting Bull and Crazy Snake. She had seen Buffalo Bill, Wild Bill Hickok and Calamity Jane. She had seen General Nelson A. Miles, who took Sitting Bull prisoner. She had seen the Pony Express.

She had pulled the corrugated iron shutters tight, first on the dugout and, later on the little house, and watched the Indians on the warpath trail across her property, stealing everything in sight. She had seen belts decorated with human scalps. She had seen soldiers and Indians fight it out. She had witnessed the hanging of a horse thief after a trial by "Judge Lynch."

Fire caught up with her again; burned the general store and house and, with her children, she barely escaped alive. After the fire she and my father thought that things must be better "back East," so they returned to Chicago which had won their hearts when they were first there and because they thought that the educational and cultural advantages for children were superior to the prairie of the frontier.

Now she is 96 years old. At 84 she could sew without glasses. At 90 she went blind. At 92 she fell down the stairs and broke both arms. Owing to her age the doctor set the breaks without any anaesthetic and she joked with him as he did it. Miraculously the bones knitted and today, although in darkness, she is cheerful and knows what Hitler and Mussolini are doing, what is going on in Congress and has an idea of what she thinks the Administration is trying to do for or to the farmer.

She never had much time to go to church, although she sent her children, but she did have time to read the Bible over and over. She believed that use of alcohol as a beverage was a sin and should be a crime. Profanity and blasphemy and unclean thoughts found no place in her consciousness. She believed that the United States was the greatest Government ever conceived by man.

She seldom saw a newspaper, but up to the time her children were grown and away Harpers Monthly Magazine followed her everywhere and she read it cover to cover, including advertisements, and didn't think anything of going across Indian-infested and coyote-ridden country twenty miles to the nearest post office to get it. She thought sulphur and mollasses were sovereign for most ills. She has descendants on the Atlantic Coast and on the Pacific Coast and in between and they are all good citizens. At 96 she looks forward and considers what is past as merely something that won't come back to her. Her seemingly one regret is that she didn't take a trip in an airplane before she lost her sight so she could see how things look from a mile in the air.

SON OF A LATTER-DAY PIONEER MOTHER.

ANSWER:

I publish this letter in full because it makes good reading for so many of the slack, whining, complaining young women of today who consider themselves martyrs because they have to keep house in a gadget-filled apartment, and who throw up their marriages and quit when their husbands cannot make enough money to give them sable coats and keep them in idleness. Perhaps it will stir the pioneer blood they inherited from such grandmothers into action and make them face their own problems in life with more courage, and a determination to be worthy of the stock from which they sprung.

• • • • • •

DEAR MISS DIX—I am in love with a girl who is a nice girl in the finest sense of the word, but the other night when we were in a confiding mood she confessed to me that one night she went out with a fellow who got her awfully drunk and while she was so drunk she did not know what she was doing she was guilty of an indiscretion that she has remembered ever afterward with shame and remorse. It am not asking you whether I should forgive her. There are too many things she has to forgive me, but what I want to know is this: If we marry, will this thing be constantly between us, making both her life and mine miserable? Will a year or so blot out this thing, leaving it a vague, unpleasant memory? It has been my theory that what counts in marriage is the feeling that the two people concerned hold for each other. Perhaps in time this may bring us closer together. Does it happen that way? B. M. C.

ANSWER:

Sometimes. Often, I think, we can get closer to a fellow sinner than we ever can to an austere saint. There is something in the very act of forgiveness that endears the weakling to us and makes us his or her defender and champion. Besides, it gives us a sense of superiority that is soothing to our vanity.

It is easy to forgive, but it is hard to forget. What has been done has been done, and it rankles in our memories. But, mercifully, Time is the great healer, and as the years go by old wounds cease to ache, the memories of old wrongs are blurred, and so many things that once seemed so important come to mean so little that we cease to think of them and wonder why we ever let them trouble us.

Don't Grope for Words—Use Bright Synonyms

Kit knows what she means but she doesnt know how to say it.

She begins, "I'm enjoying my visit to your town, it's so—." And there Kit sticks. Will "nice" do, she thinks frantically, will "swell" be all right?

A bad spot, Kit, for a visiting lady who'd make a good impression. But such embarrassing moments will come if you're short of crisp, graphic words.

Instead of meaningless "nice," overworked "swell," take your pick of "stimulating," "fascinating," "brisk" — for a gay town; "neighborly," "picturesque," "old - world" —for a quiet one.

Speak, too, of the "amusing" parties, the "stirring" movies you've been to. Your between-dances chat ripples along.

Simple to add bright words to your talk, avoid awkward minutes. Our 32-page booklet gives you 4,725 synonyms for everyday words, keeps the right one on the tip of your tongue.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of SYNONYMS FOR EVERYDAY WORDS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

At that moment, Knarf and Hanid, the shadow-children with the turned-about names, were surprised to hear a strange little voice. It seemed to come from inside the spring, under the dark, overhanging rock.

"Drink me! Drink me!" the voice said.

"Who are you?" Hanid asked, looking about her. Knarf crept forward and peered in the tiny cracks in the rocks where the water came trickling through. But neither of the two shadow-children could see anyone.

"Who are you, please?" Hanid called out in a louder voice.

"I'm the spring. Don't you see me? I'm right in front of you. I'm cool and fresh and clear. I'm good for thirsty mouths. Drink me."

But still the two shadows couldn't

It seemed like a great stream.

see anyone.

Then the voice said: "Can you make yourselves small?"

"Oh, yes! We can make ourselves any size we please," Hanid answered.

"If you make yourselves small, you'll be able to come in and visit us. We'll take you deep, deep into the rock. You'll see how the spring gets its water, and how it comes down through the rock, and why it's cool, and why it's clean."

Hanid turned to Knarf. "Shall we do as it says, Knarf? Do you think it will be all right?"

Knarf Excited.

Knarf was very excited. "Of course Of course! Just think! We'll go all through the spring. Oh! won't the children envy us when they find out where we've been? Yes, let's make ourselves small. Hurry, Hanid!"

With that the shadow-boy drew himself together and — whisht, he was as small and as thin as a blade of grass. The next moment Hanid did the same thing. Then they both looked about in surprise. The little trickle of water suddenly seemed like a great strong stream, tumbling and falling over the rocks.

And all at once, from all the little cracks and hollows in the rocks, they saw little faces, like little drops of water. "Come in," cried the voices. "Come in! All the doors in the rocks are open!"

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By R. J. Scott

Britain Will Use Influence Against War-Not Policing World Chamberlain Declares

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(CP Cable).—Prime Minister Chamberlain, speaking at the Guildhall banquet last night, said he wished to dispel any idea that there was a clash between different systems of government at the Munich conference and the result was a victory for one side or the other.

He said, that instead of delivering a complete review of foreign affairs, he wished to confine himself to the significance of events which culminated at Munich. The occasion of his speech was the traditional banquet that followed yesterday's installation of the new Lord Mayor of London, Sir Frank Bowater.

Mr. Chamberlan said it was still one of the aims of the government to make Britain so strong it should be treated everywhere with respect.

"I wish this government to be a go-getter for peace," he said. "That does not mean we want to undertake the role of policeman-in-ordinary to the world. If we see peace threatened we will use any influence we may possess to save it. If war breaks out we will take any opportunity we can see to stop it."

The Munich agreement demonstrated, the Prime Minister declared, that four great powers under different systems of government were able to agree without quarrelling "upon the main outlines of settlement of one of the most thorny and dangerous international problems of our time."

"That should encourage us to think it must be possible for such powers to agree on other things as well," he continued. "Peace was not saved by words, not even by notes, it was saved by action. And I have no shadow of doubt in my mind that what we did was right."

The Prime Minister summed up the Government's foreign policy under four points—the same four he enunciated when he first took office in 1937.

The first was to maintain peace. The second was to make Britain so strong she would be treated all over the world with respect. The third was to promote the prosperity of industry and thus provide employment for the people. The fourth was to work steadily for the improvement of the conditions of the British people.

Peace Objective.

"If you want peace you have got to do do something more than sit down and hope for it," he said. "I want this Government to be a go-getter for peace."

He reiterated "the piling up of armaments is utterly distasteful to me," but added: "For the time being I regard it as inevitable, but I hope it is only a temporary accompaniment to that other part of the policy to which I am turning all my energies without qualification and without misgiving — a policy of understanding and goodwill, a policy which is desired by all the peoples, a policy to which I invite the cooperation of all nations."

A warning that the aims he had described could not be achieved in a few months but required untiring patience and prolonged effort was sounded by the Prime Minister.

He declared that "after the disturbance in September political conditions in Europe now were settling down to quieter times. In this brightening atmosphere, let us not conjure up troubles that may never arise."

Mr. Chamberlain declared unilateral disarmament would not serve the cause of peace, adding: "We should fail in our duty to our own people if we were to leave them without the means of resisting aggression from any nation less peacefully disposed than our own."

France Supported.

Contending the Anglo-German "no more war" declarations had received insufficient attention, the Prime Minister read it to the gathering.

He added it was a "fatuous proposition" to say the document indicated any loosening of Britain's ties with France and declared he and Lord Halifax, Foreign Secretary, were looking forward with pleasure to their forthcoming visit to Paris.

The Lord Mayor praised Mr. Chamberlain's peace efforts, asserting that the "three visits the Prime Minister made to Germany did more to demonstrate to the German people our desire to share their friendship than anything that had happened since the war."

NO MORE PILES

Get Quick, Pleasant Relief

Probably not one person in ten knows the cause of piles is inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about piles and is the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give more than temporary relief—they do not remove the cause.

Your piles can not be relieved until you have corrected the condition which causes them. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who early in his professional life made many tests to relieve piles by correcting the cause. His medicine succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, eases the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

So if you have failed to get the relief you want from your sore, painful piles, and would like to give HEM-ROID a trial, you have our promise to return your money, if just one bottle of this prescription does not give pleasing results. McDermit and Jury and Bond's Drug stores or any druggist can supply you with the genuine HEM-ROID.

Escapes Luxury

Sydney Errington Martin Jr., 20, missing Philadelphia heir to two huge fortunes, is caught "napping "after eluding photographers for two days. Martin, for whom kidnap alarms had been sounded, was found working as a door-to-door vacuum cleaner salesman in Richmond, Va. He had fled from home, he said, to escape a life of "monotonous luxury." Police throughout the east had been searching for him since Sept. 14, when he disappeared during a midnight round of fashionable night clubs. Martin's father, Sydney, went to Richmond and persuaded the youth to return to Philadelphia.

TRENT RIVER

A number of our summer visitors returned for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. M. MacLellan and daughter, Miss Marion Williamson, of Toronto, were at "Raeden." The many friends of Miss Marion are pleased to know she is improving in health and able to resume her studies.

Mr. Jack Christie and son, Douglas, of Toronto, are at "Osatka" for a few days taking in the duck shooting.

Miss Jeryne Brown won second place at the Seymour final oratorical contest held at Campbellford High School Friday night.

Group 2 of the Ladies' Aid are sponsoring the play, "All in the Family," by a character cast from St. James' Church, Peterborough, on November 15, instead of November 11, as previously reported.

Mr. Clayton Revoir arrived from Noranda Saturday to join a party of deer hunters in the North Country.

Miss Rena Chaplin was a visitor recently with her sister, Violet, at Campbellford.

The boys are holding a dance Friday night at "Cedar Isle," proceeds to go towards financing the wiring the rink for Hydro.

Ciscoe herring fishing season opened last week. A number of our local sportsmen made the trip daily to Crowe River and report a successful catch.

Mr. and Mrs. George Alley and family are moving to Harry Wannamaker's house.

Mrs. Armour and daughter, Mrs. McQuade, and Mr. McQuade, are taking up residence in the former's property vacated by George Alley.

Mrs. Leonard Perry, of Wooler, is a visitor with her cousin, Mrs. M. T. Lean, and family.

Mr. Frank Cope, of Toronto, arrived for the deer hunt, joining the party consisting of Messrs M. T. Lean, Jack Ball, of Baltimore; Gordon Lacey, of Cambourne, and Elmer Lean, of Cobourg.

Messrs. Thomas Wight, Melville Wight and Francis Ruttan spent Saturday in the North Country. The latter secured one deer.

Mr. James Cook has had extensive improvements made at his residence, "Maple Inn"—a screened dining-room and kitchen to further accommodation for the many tourists at this popular resort.

Mrs James Cook picked a bouquet of flowers of three varieties—Delphiniums, Snapdragons and Phlox—from her garden Sunday, November 6. This is a record for this season of the year.

Messrs. W. G. Barrie, Charles Menzie, of North School district, and Lionel Nelson, of Norwood, spent Saturday at the hunt, bringing home one deer.

In a recent report of the oratorical contest held at the church, Tuesday night, November 1, the name of Erlie Wannamaker for fourth place should be given instead of Clifford Brown.

Looking Back
On This Date

The fact that today is the anniversary of the death on Nov. 10, 1802, of Sir Guy Carleton, Baron Dorchester, Governor of the Province of Quebec, 1768-78, and of British America, 1786-96, is a reminder that not only had he a love romance but that, because of a woman's temper, Canada was deprived of a most valuable collection of state papers.

Although the destruction of the papers is my main motive, it may perphaps be well to tell the love story first, Carleton, a handsome man, had gone back to England in 1770 to draw up a scheme of government for the new French colony, which eventuated in the passage of the Quebec Act. While there he went for an English week-end with his friend, the Earl of Effingham, a member of the family which figured in the destruction of the Spanish Armada in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The Earl had two daughters, both very beautiful and both belles of the time. Carleton first paid court to the elder, Lady Anne, but she spurned him "because she loved another."

Thereupon, Sir Guy, with the courage of a soldier, transferred his suit to Lady Mary. He did not want Lady Anne so much as he wanted a bride and when he was told that Lady Mary would accept the suit which her sister had rejected, "he satisfied her and she satisfied him," and so Lady Mary Howard became the wife of Sir Guy Carleton, old enough to be her father. She had been educated in France and was of great help to him both in London, in Paris (whence business called him), and later in Quebec.

After Dorchester's death the baroness developed a hatred for Canada, which she blamed for the "premature" death of her husband at the age of 78; and would have nothing to do with those who desired access to her lord's private papers. She was especially hostile in General Simcoe, whom she regarded as an arch enemy of Dorechester.

One day there came a request from the Records Office in London for some document which was needed to fill out some gap or other. Thereupon the widowed Lady Dorchester sitting in a summer house, summoned her butler and the footmen and ordered them to bring out from the library all the books containing the Carleton-Dorchester papers. Then, a pile was made of them and her ladyship, handed a lighted candle, rose from her seat and set fire to the bonfire of letters, diaries, state and personal letters, and watched until they had been consumed to ashes. Then she retired to her chamber asserting: "No vulgar Simcoe eye shall ever read my Guy's scared papers!"

And so documents which would be priceless today went up in smoke to satisfy a woman's jealous anger!

Vote For City Managers

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(CP)—Election returns last night showed that Yonkers, N.Y., and Greenwood, S.C., had voted to adopt new city charters which would include government by a city manager.

Richard Childs, chairman of the council of the National Municipal League, said the addition of Yonkers and Greenwood brought the total of municipalities with managers to 480 in North America.

Rescue Priest From Rectory Fire

The Rev. Louis Vitali, wearing a dressing gown, is shown being carried from the blazing rectory of the Church of St. Anthony of Padua in New York during the fire in which two persons, Brother John Hiazza and Cook Tappero, lost their lives. Firemen carried priests down ladders from the five-storey building. One priest, Father Luigi, suffered a fractured leg when he leaped from a fifth-floor window; another, Father Richard, was badly burned about the face and hands.

Tom Mooney Has Renewed Hope

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Nov. 10—(AP). — Smiling broadly, Tom Mooney went about his prison routine as a hospital orderly today with new hope of freedom through a pardon by California's Democratic governor-elect, Culbert Olson.

But he has hoped so many times before, in the 22 years he has been in prison since his conviction of the 1916 prepraedness day bombing outrage in San Francisco, he was hesitant about doing any premature rejoicing over the Olson statement promising an early hearing on a new pardon application, and indicating it would be viewed with favor.

The prisoner did not venture to express any plan for a future life if he wins release, but said merely, "I feel that I can take my place again in society."

He contended he was convicted on perjured testimony ,because "privileged interests" wanted to be rid of a labor organizer.

"I have never held any bitterness," said Mooney, "because I believe that by being in prison 22 years I have served the cause (Labor) better than I could have on the outside."

Mooney was first sentenced to death for the bombing, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment at the urging of President Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haig have returned to their home here having spent the summer in New Ontario.

Probing Death Of Hunter Shot For Deer

TWEED, November 10 —An inquest was ordered on Wednesday on Gustave Brendt of Denbigh, 37, guide to a party of hunters, who was accidentally shot in the vicinity of Thirty Island Lake, Township of Ashby, when he was mistaken for a deer in the woods.

Brendt was shot by Dr. R. V. McLaughlin of Napanee and died instantly with a bullet through his heart, according to the report made to Provinical Constable Barrett, who with Coroner Dr. C. M. Straton, also of Napanee, made the trip to the scene of the accident on Tuesday.

The hunting party, which consisted of Charles Giles, Dr. McLaughlin, Donald Roblin, P. U. Laidley of Napanee and Archibald Wright, Conway, and Frank Correll and Everett Smith of Belleville, made their camp in the Thirty Island Lake district at a point called Dunham's Clearing. The guide went ahead to arrange the shoot after making plans to meet the hunters later in the day.

The guide failed to meet the hunters before the hunt began. Because of the heat, Brendt removed his red tunic and was wearing a khaki shirt when fatally shot while moving through the underbrush.

Brendt is survived by his widow and one child.

Plans For Tea Completed

At the monthly business meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club held Wednesday evening, the members completed plans for the tea to be held on the afternoon of Saturday, November 19th. Senator Iva Fallis and Mrs. W. R. Morris have kindly consented to pour tea, and Miss Amy Matthews has very graciously offered to put on an exhibit of her pictures. All members and friends are urged to see this lovely display.

Miss Mabel Stoakley, Provincial Vice-President of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, will be the special speaker at the supper meeting being held on Wednesday, November 23rd.

It was decided that at the December business meeting the members would have a Christmas tree and exchange gifts as in previous years.

We Noticed

. . . That there are three smart lengths in gloves this year. For general wear, the four-button; for sports wear, the one-button or "shorty"; for formal afternoon, the eight to 10-button worn either with short sleeves, or crushed over a tight long sleeve.

◇ ◇ ◇

. . . . Colored gloves are good, particularly "shoe" colors, such as wine, rust, or brown, for contrast to the costume.

◇ ◇ ◇

. . . . With smart women, the bright knitted gloves and angoras are retiring to the country; for warm gloves in town the very soft heavy leathers are preferred, lined if necessary for extra warmth. You can have them in strong dark colors, such as wines and coppers, if you wish.

Milbrook Lodge Entertains Local Rebekahs

Mr. Thornton is the son of Theodore Thornton and the late Mrs. Thornton of Harvey Street.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Heaven forming each on other to depend,
A master, or a servant, or a friend,
Bids each on other for assistance call,
Till one man's weakness grows the strength of all."

—Pope.

Dear Friends:

There is great talk of unions these days, yet what discord these same unions seem to have generated. It seems that, no sooner does a man become, or be chosen, a leader, than he tries to be a dictator.

Yet I have in mind a man in the middle West of Canada, and he got the farmers to co-operate so that they would get decent prices for their grain. (It was grain primarily)

And he did a good job, he was trustworthy, he worked late and early, he was one of themselves, so knew all the questions and most of the answers.

He doubled the price of grain per bushel for them, and went a bit further than that. And in the doing of all these things he had to make numerous journeys, and to pay a man to look after his farm while he worked for the others.

All he asked was what you and I would ask, a small salary and his expenses, yet gave a scrupulous account of all expenditures. And so, as our living depended greatly on the farmers I was much interested.

And he was doing a good job, for the farmers never were so well off before, they were buying cars, and machinery, and building barns and better houses.

They were getting better clothes, and nicer furniture, better living conditions, and putting money in the bank. But, were they satisfied? Oh no, not on your life.

They began to complain because this man had to go these journeys dressed in decent clothes, that he met people in a better station of life, that he had a man work his farm while they had to work their own.

They would not bother to come to the meetings so he had to make special trips to their homes, using money for gasoline which shouldn't have had to be used had they done their part.

So they grumbled amongst themselves. Some tried to defend the man, pointing out that they never were as properous as then, but they would not listen.

No, he was no relation of mine, I had just a nodding acquaintance with him, but I was very interested to see if this union would survive, for I had seen many that hadn't.

He had to fight the stock exchange, and he could do it too. But he could not fight the malice and the jealously and the backbiting within the union of which he was the head.

They claimed the prices would have gone up anyhow. They would at that, but it would have been the speculators who would have reaped the benefit, not the farmers.

And so, they pulled him down. And immediately he gave up the leadership, down went the price of grain. I know the name of the union, but will not tell it here. Not one of these farmers could do what this man had done, for he had studied the subject thoroughly, he had intelligence, and was a fighter for right.

He had worked for them night and day, he had got for them what they wanted, a fair price for their product, but they were not satified. He could fight the enemy from without, but he could not fight the one inside the ranks.

It broke his heart, for he always had the idea that if a man played the game fairly, he would be appreciated. And so he died.

More later

Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Armistice Tea Is Event Of Yesterday

An air of quiet grace and dignity lent charm to yesterday's Armistice Tea, which was held by the 57th Regiment Chapter I.O.D.E. in the Armouries.

Receiving was the regent, Mrs. R. E. Clarke, and Mrs. R. T. Hicks-Lyne. Guests were directed to the Tea room by Mrs. R. G. Cottrell and Miss I. Wesley.

Four ivory tapers in silver holders lit the attractive Tea table, which was laid with a lace cloth, and adorned with a silver basket of bronze Chrysanthemums. Presiding at the silver tea turns were Mrs. H. Keefer, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Mrs. J. Turnbull, and Mrs. G. R. Melton. Tea assistants were Mrs. P. G. Wallace, Mrs. P. Cutmore, Mrs. W. H. Ashby, Mrs. E. T. Lush, Mrs. W. G. Hall, Mrs. J. S. Fanning, Mrs. Moorehead, Mrs. H. Staunton, and Mrs. D. A. Loomis.

Mrs. H. Dodds convened the home-cooking table, assisted by Mrs. C. McWilliams, Mrs. F. Haggart and Mrs. A. A. Fowler

Delightful music, arranged by the program convener, Mrs. W. A. Greenslade, was played throughout the afternoon, and consisted of piano numbers by Lenore Skitch, violin selections by Mrs. Percy Hooper, and solos by Mrs. B. Cutmore and Mrs. L. Groombridge. Flowers for the table arrangement were sent by one of the I.O.D.E. members, Mrs. W. Ashbury.

BROCKVILLE EXTENDS CALL

BROCKVILLE, Ont.—The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church last night extended an unanimous invitation to Rev. Henry Cousens, B.A., B.D., Lachute, Que., to become its minister succeeding Rt. Rev. Donald Macodrum, D.D., who died last summer soon after his election as moderator of the general assembly. Mr. Cousens, who is expected to accept the call, is a graduate of McGill University and the Montreal Presbyterian College.

The world is using 745,000,000 barrels of petroleum this year for automobiles.

Duling Apple Dumplings.

Sift together 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and cut into 2 tablespoons butter and 1 tablespoon lard. Add ¾ cup milk. Roll out lightly on floured board to ½ inch thickness; brush with melted butter, sprinkle with 2 tablespoons brown sugar and 1 teaspon cinnamon, slice 3 large tart apples over surface and roll up like jelly roll. Cut into 6 slices, placing them on the cut side on buttered pan, cover with sauce (see below) and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes. Serve with cream. When in season other fruits may be used such as peaches, blueberries, raspberries, blackberries.

Sauce (for above pudding).

Mix ¾ sup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, then add 1 tablespoon butter, juice ½ lemon and 1 cup hot water. Boil together 3 minutes and pour over dumplings before baking.

Build Resistance to Winter's Ills With Haliborange
Vitamins A, D and C
If you catch cold easily, or get rundown and depressed or have a tendency to anaemia, your body lacks vitamins A, D and C. The best way to restore this vitamin deficiency is to take "Haliborange" which is the perfect combination of Halibut Liver Oil with the juice of fresh oranges. "Haliborange" has double the vitamin A and D strength of Cod Liver Oil. The orange juice provides the vitamin C and makes "Haliborange" so delicious to taste. No fishy taste or odour whatsoever. Take "Haliborange" regularly each day for two or three weeks and see how much better you will feel. It will restore your vitality and pep you up wonderfully.
Try Haliborange Free
Buy a 5-oz. bottle of Haliborange with the free sample attached. Try the sample for tasting. Then, if you are not absolutely satisfied with its taste, return the 5-oz. bottle to your druggist and he will refund the full purchase price of 75c. The 5-oz. bottle contains about two weeks' treatment.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Humble Bean Exalted In Many Dishes

(By MARY MOORE)

The topic of beans sounded flat when I glanced over my program one warm day last week, but today is cool and on the market the farmers' brimming baskets of shelled black and white and brown beans have the subject appeal a bean seldom rates even though it may deserve it.

Besides all that one of our readers wants a bean article—mine to obey—yours to command.

To make it short I have some good bean recipes—would you like them?

Black Bean Soup

One cup black beans, 1 quart cold water, ½ onion, sliced, 1 outer stalk celery, diced, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon celery salt, ⅛ teaspoon dry mustard, dash of cayenne, 2 teaspoons flour, 1 hard cooked egg sliced, 1 lemon, sliced. Soak beans overnight in water to cover; drain and add cold water. Saute onion and celery in 1 tablespoon butter until lightly browned, then add to beans, bring to boiling point and simmer, covered, for 3 hours or until beans are split and soft, adding more water as necessary. Force through strong sieve, and reheat in top of double boiler adding the remaining seasonings which should be well mired together. Melt remaining butter and stir the flour into it, and stir the strained soup into it, stirring until thick. At this point you may want to add more water or some milk to make the soup a little thinner to suit your individual taste, but if it is to be the main course at lunch or supper it could be quite thick.

Keep hot in top of double boiler or it will scorch. Turn into serving dishes and garnish wih thin slices of hard cooked egg and lemon. In France in famous hotels this is served with a tablespoon of sherry for each bowl.

NOTE: With dishes such as Black Bean Soup or French Onion Soup where specific garnishes are mentioned, it is wise to heed them, for they give the soup character that is lost if they are neglected.

Aztec Baked Beans

Three cups partially cooked kidney beans, about 1¾ cups dry beans, 2½ cups canned tomatoes, 1 pimiento minced, ¼ cup smoked ham, 1 medium sized onion, minced, ¼ teaspon salt, dash of pepper, ¾ teaspoon each mustard and curry powder, 1½ tablespoons each molasses and sugar (white or brown) 6 tsirps thinly sliced side bacon. Mix all ingredients except bacon; pour into buttered large casserole, arrange bacon in crosswise strips on top and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1 hour—300 for 1½ hours more. If canned red kidney beans are used the time in oven is only 30 minutes and tomatoes can be reduced to 1½ cups.

Lima Bean Loaf

2 cups cooked lima beans, 1 cup bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup chopped onion, ½ cup chopped nut meats (peanuts, walnuts or almonds are very good), 2 eggs, well beaten, ½ cup thin cream parsley, tomato sauce. Combine all ingredients mixing well. Pour into well buttered loaf pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour, basting frequently with hot water and butter. Turn out on platter, garnish with parsley and pour over:

Tomato Sauce: Two cups canned tomatoes (1 No. 2 can), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 onion sliced 2 tablespoons each butter and flour, one-third cup grated old cheese. Cook the tomatoes with the seasoning for 10 minutes, strain—there should be 1 cup. Melt butter and stir in flour, then stir in the strained tomato, until it thickens, then add cheese, and stir until cheese melts.

The above sauce is good with poached eggs on toast, or fried or baked white fish or fillets.

New England Baked Beans

We have given you a recipe calling for 1 quart beans because this dish requires long cooking and beans are improved in flavor second time they are heated and served.

One quart, either pea, navy, pink or brown beans (same recipe will do for flageolettes), ½ pound fat salt pork, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, ¼ cup dark molasses, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, boiling water. Wash and soak beans in cold water overnight. If they are soaked 4 hours baking time is shorter but they must be kept cool or they might sour. Drain, cover with fresh water and cook slowly until skins crack. Turn beans into bean pot, or if you use a 5-lb. lard pail be sure you have a cover. Pour boiling water over pork, scrape rind until white, score in ½-inch strips, press into top of beans, leaving only rind exposed. Mix together salt, brown sugar, molasses and Worcestershire sauce; add 1 cup boiling water and pour over beans. Add additional water to cover beans, put on cover and bake at 50 deg Fahr. for six hours, adding additional water (or tomato juice if you prefer it) to keep beans covered. Uncover during last hour to brown. If desired 1 whole onion may be buried in centre of beans, and removed when midway through baking.

Variations of Baked Beans

Limas may be substituted for pea beans.

Idaho Baked Beans are made by adding ½ green pepper finely chopped.

St. Johnsbury Baked Beans are made by substituting ½ cup maple syrup for the ¼ cup molasses, and 3 tablespoons maple sugar for the brown sugar.

Casserole of Lima Beans and Sausage is an excellent dish. Arrange parboiled limas and uncooked sausage in alternate layers, substituting 1 can tomato soup or juice for the molasses and part of the water. This requires only about 3 hours baking and is a general favorite.

The subject of Soy Beans is so interesting because of their high calcium content and nourishing qualities that I will publish a short article about them exclusively next week—so watch for it.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have just read the letter sent in by "Discouraged" and her problem seems to be mine alone. That is to find out little things seldom found in an everyday cook book. Until I read your enlightening answer about pastry and the temperature to cook it, I did not know much about it. Please tell me how to measure out ½ cup shortening. I have been measuring mine by the tablespoon, 8 tablespoons to half a cup (level). Also will you tell me why my plain cakes are doughy and thin. They don't seem to rise even though I follow the recipes exactly, never guessing anything.

I was wondering if my oven was wrong. I don't think I read the indicator right. If a recipe calls for the oven to be at 300 degrees does that mean when the needl is exactly in the middle of the 300 or at the beginning of it or the end? This may sound silly to you but I hope you will understand what I mean. I find your page grand and thanks a lot.—M.R.M.

ANSWER: Thanks so much for your detailed letter. Indeed I do not think you are silly.

Three hundred degrees Fahrenheit is too low a temperature at which to bake a plain cake. While you do not say that is the temperature at which you bake yours I surmise that it is since you say your cakes do not rise well.

I think the best way to explain correct procedure for making a cake is to give you a step by step method:

Two-Egg Plain Cake

One-half cup butter or other good shortening (measure this by filling measuring cup ½ full of water, then drop pieces of butter into the water until cup overflows, then pour water off shortening and the amount of butter in cup is exactly one-half cup); 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs separated, 1¾ cups pastry or cake flour, ½ cup milk, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon each salt and vanilla. Cream the butter and gradually sift in the sugar while creaming. Add the beaten egg yolks and beat until all are blended. Sift dry ingredients together. Mix the vanilla with the milk and add these alternately with the sifted dry ingredients to the butter mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff, and fold them in carefully. Pour into buttered and lightly floured layer cake pans and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes. When needle on heat indicator is at centre of line marking 375 deg. Fahr. this is the exact temperature, either above or below is inaccurate. It is quite possible your thermometer is not accurate. You can buy separate oven themometers that stand in the oven on the shelves. This would check your present thermometer for accuracy.

Write whenever you feel you want more details. It is for you that the cookery page functions.

QUESTION: In your newspaper we have noted that in every issue you carry a number of recipes each week, and we are wondering if you have any on hand calling for the use of Hickory nuts and Butternuts.

If you are able to help us out in this matter we shall certainly be glad to hear from you.—F.N.G.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Butternut Fudge

Two cups granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons white corn syrup, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup chopped butternuts. Combine the sugar, salt, milk and corn syrup in a saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Cook gently until temparature is 238 deg. Fahr. (using candy thermometer) or until a little of the mixture forms a soft ball in cold water. Add the butter and cool to 145 deg. Fahr. or until the outside of the saucepan feels lukewarm to the touch. Then beat with a spoon until nearly stiff. Add the butternuts. Then pour the mixture into a greased pan about 8" x 4" and when cool cut into squares.

NOTE: Hickory nuts may be used in place of butternuts in the above recipe if desired.

Hickory Nut Cake

One cup sugar, ½ cup butter, ½ cup milk, 2 cups flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, whites 3 eggs well beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup hickory nuts. Cream butter very well and sift in the sugar creaming. Sift together the flour, baking powder and add them alternately with the milk to which the vanilla has been added. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour batter into buttered and lightly floured loaf pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 40 minutes. Frost with:

Sour Cream Nut Frosting

Boil 2 cups sugar with 1 cup sour cream to soft ball stage. Cool and add ½ teaspoon maple flavoring, ⅛ teaspoon salt and ½ cup chopped hickory nuts, and spread on cake before it becomes too stiff. It should be beaten about 2 minutes with wooden spoon.

Hickory or Butternut Cookies

Beat together 4 eggs and 2 cups sugar, then add 1 cup shelled and broken nuts (hickory or butternut), then sift in 1 cup flour with which has been sifted 2 teaspoons baking powder. Then add enough flour by sifting, to make the dough stiff enough to handle, leaving it as soft as possible. Roll into balls between the floured palms, flatten with palm of hand to make size of silver dollar, press a whole nut in centre of each and bake at 325 deg. Fahr.

Woodland Goodies

Two cups granulated sugar, ¾ cup water, ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar, in a saucepan, stirring constantly until the sugar is dissolved. Cook slowly, without stirring to 310 deg. Fahr. or until a little of the mixture when dropped in cold water is firm and brittle. Add the nuts and stir until they are coated. Pour immediately in thin layer on greased shallow pan; when cool break into pieces.

With The Girl Guides

All Guides are asked to be at Legion Hall, 10 a.m. on Friday for Armistice Parade. Brownies are not parading.

Third Company held an enrolment ceremony on Tuesday, when the following recruits made their promise: Jean Johnson and Olive Hanwell. Service stars were presented to Elsie Jones and Doris Walker. After the meeting Mrs. Whalan addressed the mothers who are anxious to form an auxiliary to help the Guides of St. George's and will have the first meeting on Nov. 22. Please keep this date in mind.

Second Company had their church parade on Sunday last. There was a splendid turnout and the guides took Communion in a body.

Salvation Army Guides church parade Sunday; meet at Sunday school room, sharp at 10.50.—The Scribe.

HAVE YOU Stomach Upsets?

IF you are troubled with gas, sour stomach, heartburn, if you are weak and lack appetite, try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery now. It stimulates the appetite, improves the action of the stomach, makes the food digest better. Read what Mr. Clarence House, 53 Main St., St. Catharines, Ont., said: "I had no pep, had to force myself to eat and after eating I would belch gas and had acid indigestion and heartburn. I had sour stomach quite a bit, too. I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it helped to relieve the stomach upsets and gave me a real appetite and I was able to eat almost anything." Uses Both Hands To Write

Letter From a Man of 90

He asks us to excuse his writing. We do more than that—we congratulate him on being able to write at all at his age, especially as he has been suffering from rheumatism. This is what he says in his letter:—

"Three years ago I was in bed for six weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. Since that time I have been taking Kruschen Salts, and have not had another attack. But the complaint left me with inflamed feet, and it hurt me to walk. My hands were also somewhat stiff. I took Kruschen every morning before breakfast, and shall continue to do so, because I am sure they have kept me in good shape for three years. Excuse this writing, as I am ninety years old, and use both hands to write."—J.R.G.

The pain and stiffness of rheumatism are often caused by uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to dissolve and remove excess uric acid in a gentle way through the natural channels. Renewed health and vigour is the result.—advt.

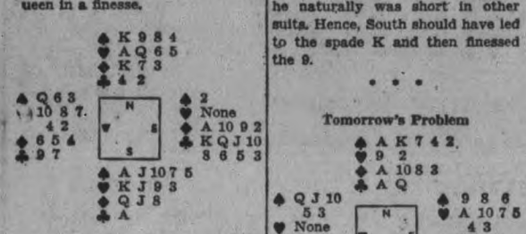
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHO HAS THE QUEEN?

A LENGTH-SHOWING suit bid or bids by one defender indicates more than mere shortness in that suit by his partner. It betokens probable length for the partner in any other suit and therefore serves as a guide to the correct way of playing your own trump suit in order to catch the outstanding queen in a finesse.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South's opening bid on this deal was 1-Spade. West overcalled with 3-Clubs, North bid 3-Spades, South 4-Clubs, West 5-Clubs, North 5-Spades and South 6-Spades.

West led the club K and South won with the A. His only problem then was how to handle the trump suit in order to assure no loss there, as the diamond A had to be given up. Declarer decided to play for the break in trumps, so laid down the A. When he then led to the K, he realized his mistake, as the Q was bound to win.

Declarer had a possible clue to the trump distribution because of West's repeated club bids. If he held as many clubs as his bids indicated, he naturally was short in other suits. Hence, South should have led to the spade K and then finessed the 9.

National Unity Is Shattered Arcand Claims

TORONTO, November 10—(CP)—More than 200 University of Toronto students studied the contrasts in the "social ethics" of Christianity and Fascism to-day following a presentation of the views of Adrien Arcand of Montreal, leader of the Canadian National Unity Party, and Rev. Norman McMurray, pastor of Davenport Road United Church, Toronto.

The National Unity Party was organized in 1929 "because we think something must be done to combat the forces of disintegration at work in Canada," Arcand said yesterday at a forum of the Student Christian Movement.

"National unity is shattered. Cities fight against provinces and provinces against the Dominion. Where 20 years ago there were only two political parties, now there are 15 or 20."

Canada, with its "tremendous natural resources" is well equipped to look after its people, "yet one out of every 11 people in Canada is begging relief from Dominion, Provincial or municipal Governments."

He attacked foreign corporations which exercises control over Canadian business and said a national consciousness must be created "without which we cannot have national unity."

Weakening Moral Fibre.

"Communism, which is trying to devour the country, is trying to weaken the moral fibre of Canada so that it will fall a better prey to its clutches."

He said he believed in law and order and rule of Canada by Canadians. The National Unity Party of Canada has "no affiliation with Fascist parties in other countries," but "merely exchanges papers and literature" with them.

He said that international finance was in the hands of the Jews.

"It is not a question of racial hatred, but of restoring the control of Canada to Canadians of the white race."

Mr. McMurray, chairman of the Canadian Fellowship for Christian Social Order, in answering Arcand, said that a Christian must not allow his love of the state to supersede his love for God.

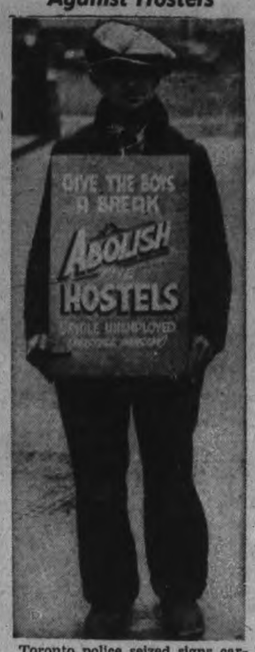
"A Christian's stand will not allow him to subscribe to any philosophy of militarism making the state the highest thing in life. A Christian must also love his fellow men. This will not allow him to hold a dislike of any other race.

"The true Christian must remember that the end never justifies the means. A poor means will pervert an end. War will never bring peace, and force will never bring democracy."

Exchange To Close

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—(CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange will observe Armistice Day by closing on Friday, November 11. The usual two-hour session will be held on Saturday.

Against Hostels



Toronto police seized signs carried by members of the Toronto Single Men's Unemployed association, when they attempted to picket the central relief bureau and the city hall. The signs carried by the men protested the recent ruling of the Toronto board of control that all single unemployed men must work one day a week in return for food, shelter and medical attention.

Pension Plan Is Defeated

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10—(CP)—California appeared to-day to have turned thumbs down on the "$30 every Thursday" scrip pension plan, inspired by the election platform of Premier Aberhart of Alberta promising $25 a month in scrip to all Albertans.

With 6,675 of the 12,472 precincts heard from on the referendum covering the proposed amendment to the state constitution, the plan had amassed 284,282 favorable votes and 349,183 unfavorable.

The "$30 every Thursday" idea excited widespread pre-election interest throughout the state and was the subject of intensive campaigning by radio, in the press and with various means of advertising.

Under the plan, all unemployed persons over 50 years of age in the state would received $30 in scrip every Thursday. A stamp tax of two per cent weekly on the scrip was the basis for providing regular currency necessary to keep the plan in operation.

President Roosevelt had disapproved the scheme, while the successful Democratic candidate for Governor, Sheridan Downey, had supported it.

Robert Noble, Commonwealth candidate for Governor in California, who trailed in yesterday's voting, was the founder of the plan from which the "$30 every Thursday" project developed.

Newspaper Head, H. H. Pickett Dies

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 9 (C.P.). — Harry H. Pickett, former managing editor of the old London Advertiser and connected with newspapers for nearly 40 years, died at his home here to-day. About 70 years of age, he had been in ill-health for some time.

Mr. Pickett began his newspaper career in Montreal, moving to London to join the Advertiser. He successively was reporter, telegraph editor, city editor, and managing editor of that newspaper before leaving about 1920 to join The Canadian Press in Montreal.

He became associated with the Montreal Gazette in 1923. For the last few years he had lived in retirement here. Mr. Pickett frequently contributed editorials to the Advertiser before it ceased publication in 1936.

Workers Docked $1 A Month For Drinking Tea

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 10—One of the oldest and most highly esteemed residents of this village, Henry Hugh Pollock, well known boat builder and fisherman, celebrated his 80th birthday on Monday. Born near Cobourg son of Henry Hugh Pollock, in 1 8, he came to Trent River at 17 years of age, worked for a farmer. At the age of 23 years he married Ann Jane McNeely of Norwood vicinity. To them were born six children, two daughters and four sons. With the exception of Frank, whose death occurred a few years ago, all are living and reside at Havelock. Two sons, Frank and Ross, served in the Great War. His first wife died in 1922, and he married Cynthia Breaw of Belmont, whose death occurred in 1932. In 1933 he married Gertrude E. Madeley of Toronto, formerly of Birmingham, England.

In relating past events of early days, Mr. Pollock's memory is keen and alert.

Prices Were Low.

He remembers his father as a teacher at the English Line School (near Campbellford) receiving a salary of $400. Among the prevailing prices at that time: Hardwood sold for from $2 to $2.50 a cord; 50 cents a day was the going wage; sugar was 22 pounds for a dollar; eggs 10 cents; butter, 10 cents. In the shanty wages were $10 a month, and if they drank tea $1.00 a month was kept out of their wages.

Fifty-two years ago Mr. Pollock bought the store from Mitchell Waller (now owned and occupied by McLaughlin Brothers), and was appointed postmaster. For political reasons the post office was removed in 1899. His son Frank succeeded him in the store. Mr. Pollock has followed the trade as boat builder and boat repairer since 1888. He has ever been a disciple of Izaak Walton, and is still going strong, and can prove himself to be the best fisherman against many younger lovers of the sport.

Lands 480 Herring.

During the past week he made a daily trip to the north country for ciscoe landlocked herring, and in two days landed 480. He has also been in the frog business for 40 years. One year he remembers shipping 8,400 pounds of frogs' legs to New York. Notwithstanding his advanced years he still follows the muskrat trapping after over 56 years at this work. He is a great reader, has been a subscriber to The Peterborough Examiner for a number of years, is well informed along political affairs, and can discuss ably news of world events.

Has Many Friends.

As an old-timer he has many friends who delight to "drop in" and enjoy the hospitality of he and his good wife. A number of relatives and friends were invited for the evening of his birthday, which was spent in games and social intercourse. Super was served, including a lovely birthday cake with the customary candles, made by Mrs. Harry Pollock. Mr. Pollock was the recipient of many gifts, letters and cards and a 'phone message of congratulations was received from his niece and nephews, Mrs. Donald Angus and Mr. Angus, and Mr. Jack Nancarrow of the Far North, Patricia Mines, where there is no access except by airplane. Among the guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ellis, daughter Phyllis and granddaughter Marion Nicholson, Miss Gayle Pollock, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Green, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollock and family of Havelock, Mrs. John Pollock, Mrs. Ira Cook, Mrs. Cora Curtis of Rush Point, Mr. and Mrs. J. McNeely, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garneau.

Protests Summonses

TORONTO, Nov. 10 (CP).—Alderman William Croft, protesting against the number of summonses being distributed for parking offences in the city, said yesterday he believed business would be killed if the practice were continued.

Croft said he had received five summonses in 10 days and paid fines for them all. "A policeman has come to my house so often my dog has become friendly with him," Croft said.

According to a statement by Dr. Alan Brown, eminent Canadian baby specialist submitted to and approved by the guardians of the famous Dionne quints, the removal of the quints' tonsils was necessary so that their lives may not be jeopardized by the spreading of infection. Dr. Brown, physician-in-chief of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, supervised the operation Wednesday. The surgery was performed by Dr. D. E. S. Wishart, chief of the Silk Children's nose and throat department, and the anaesthetics was given by Dr. C. H. Robson. Dr. A. R. Dafoe, personal physician to the five sisters, was present. The operation required two and a half hours, Marie being the first to go under the anaesthetic.

Folsom Man Roamed North America From Canada To The Gulf Of Mexico

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)—Dr. Frank H. Roberts, archeologist of the Smithsonian Institute, declared yesterday he had found evidence that the Folsom man, earliest known inhabitant of North America, had roamed from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Reporting on explorations during the past summer, Dr. Roberts said he found stone implements and arrow heads in Saskatchewan which showed work characteristic of that known to have been done by the Folsom man.

The Folsom man inhabited North America as early as 10,000 years ago, archeologists claim. Prior to his Saskatchewan explorations, Dr. Roberts traced the Folsom man as far south as Texas and has received specimens dug up all the way from Colorado to the Atlantic seaboard.

Finding of the arrow and spear heads in Saskatchewan was particularly interesting, Dr. Roberts said, because they confirmed the belief that the Folsom man, who lived in North America long before the Indians, was a gypsy-like nomad.

Explorations just carried out show the Folsom man lived during the era of the hairy mammoth, the North American camel and an extinct species of bison, the Smithsonian archeologist reported. The Folsom man's stone implements were always discovered in close association with bones of the mammoth and other animals in the same geological strata.

Trapped In Hay Mow Farmer Escapes By Jumping 35 Feet

Owen Sound, Ont., Nov. 10 (CP) TRAPPED in a blazing hay mow today when the lantern he was carrying is believed to have exploded, John McKinnon, Bruce township farmer, tore two boards off the side of the barn and leaped 35 feet and broke both legs. He was found and carried to safety by a hired man.

So rapidly did the flames spread that Mr. McKinnon had no chance to reach the ladder by which he had ascended into the mow. After he leaped to the cement floor, he lay helpless with both bones broken in one leg, the heel bones in the other leg smashed and his back injured. The barn and contents was destroyed.

$250,000 Offer Is Made For Quintuplets

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 10 (CP). —The $250,000 offer by Billy Rose, hustling New York theatrical producer, for an appearance of the Dionne quintuplets at the New York or San Francisco 1939 World Fairs didn't cause much of a stir to-day around the busy homestead of the famous French-Canadian children.

Everyone was too concerned with tonsil and adenoid operations of the five babies. But Keith Munro, Quint business manager, paused long enough to indicate there was little chance the offer would receive serious consideration.

"I have an offer of $1,000,000 in my office," Munro said.

Last year the quint guardians were offered $500,000 for an appearance of the children at the Chicago World's Fair. But it was rejected promptly by Dr. A. R. Dafoe, physician to the babies, who has said frequently such bids will not be considered.

Rose said he was prepared — if the offer is accepted — to duplicate in detail the community of Callander and the home of the quints at whichever fair is chosen. An offer of $25,000 each was made to Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne to appear with the children.

WAR'S SACRIFICES ARE COMMEMORATED

Hushed City Honors Its War Dead

Hon. Norman Rogers Federal Minister Addresses Citizens

Sacrifices made by the Empire's dead in the Great War struggle for freedom's cause were commemorated today throughout the city.

It was a hushed city, as if in mourning as sharp at eleven o'clock the two-minute memory searing lull in the pulsing city started. There was not a sound to shatter the silence. To some it brought clear memories of that moment 20 years ago when the sounds of war on the many fronts were stilled by the order "Cease Fire." To others too young to have known the tragedies of the worst war in the world's history, it brought no memories but a tug at the heartstrings and a resolve to keep sacred the frust handed down by the gallant men who made the supreme sacrifice.

Today with the recent European crisis fresh in the minds of all, and threats to the cause for which the soldiers died growing more oppressive in the international field, there seemed in the services before that start granite monument at Confederation Square, an even deeper note of solemnity than has been sensed on any previous anniversary of the war's end.

Awe Inspiring Scene

It was a colorful and awe inspiring scene as the multitude of citizens with heads bowed and bared stood around the city's Shrine of Remembrance and paid silent and fervent tribute to the men of the city and district now listed among the war dead. The many wreaths and floral tributes lent a variety of color to the setting which was enhanced too by the multi-colored berets of the ex-servicemen from the different divisions.

Honrable Norman Rogers, Federal Minister of Labor, J. J. Duffus, M.P., R. E. Layfield, G. K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls, Captain the Rev. Dr. Kelly and Capt. the Rev. George S. Easton, Mayor James Hamilton, representatives of the City Council, delegates representing many city and county organizations, along with the next of kin of those who laid down their lives on the altar of sacrifice occupied a position of honor directly east of the monument. To the south and the north stood the war veterans, militia, Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, while farther north the band of the Prince of Wales Rangers provided the music appropriate for the occasion.

After the War Veterans had formed a huge semi-circle around the monument on the three sides, and the wreath bearers were directly in front of the huge granite Memorial, which depicts Youth standing in an

Placing Wreaths Dozens of beautiful poppy wreaths were placed on Peterborough's war memorial this morning by people in all walks of life, all bent on paying homage to the fallen. Britain Plans To Purchase Great Airways

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary for Air, announced in the House of Commons to-day the government plans to purchase Imperial Airways and British Airways.

The two firms are the largest British transport lines.

The government, Sir Kingsley told the House, will submit a bill to create a public corporation which will purchase the two companies.

Single Corporation.

Sir Kingsley said the government would fuse them into a single corporation. Such a course he said, would be a "most satisfactory instrument for developing our overseas civil aviation communications."

He added an independent tribunal would determine the price to be paid if an agreement on this point could not be reached with the two companies.

Sir Kingsley's statement was made in response to a question by Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition, who asked the minister to make a statement on the relationship between Imperial Airways and British Airways and between the two companies and the government.

Sir Kingsley replied that for some time the government had been studying the creation of a more effective instrument for the development of Empire air communication. He recalled that at the beginning of the year it had been decided to increase the subsidies accorded the two lines to £3,000,000 ($15,000,000), the greatest part of which had been devoted to this development.

"The rapid expansion of the overseas services, coupled with the great technical advances which are being made in this sphere, moreover, call under the present circumstances for prolonging of our resources and strengthening of our administrative and operating organizations to the fullest possible extent," Sir Kingsley said.

"In these circumstances the government are of the opinion that the most satisfactory instrument for the development of overseas civilian aviation would be provided by an as-

Coast Guard Airplane Rushes Aid To Sailor Badly Scalded At Sea

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)

TWO HUNDRED MILES at sea off the Virginia coast, aboard an American freighter, a scalded man writhed in pai nearly today as a United States coast guard plane, bearing soothing oils, sped to his aid.

A radio message to the New York coast guard base from the freighter Vincent, gave only meagre details of an accident in which the vessel's second engineer was scalded.

The master of the ship, Capt. Pendleton, said the engineer, whose name was not given, was "suffering excruciating pain" despite first aid treatment.

Capt. Pendleton gave his position as approximately 200 miles east of Cape Henry, Va. More than a 400-mile round trip flight faced the crew of three aboard the plane.

Northern Canada May Provide Refugee Haven?

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP).—Possibility that Northern Canada might provide a haven for political and racial refugees from Europe was advanced last night—with reservations—by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Canadian defence minister.

Mr. Mackenzie told interviewers that he could not comment immediately on the likelihood of refugees being admitted to Canada. That whole problem was being discussed by an international committee of which Canada is a member at Geneva, he pointed out.

However, Northern Canada was developing rapidly, aided by commercial aviation, and rich mining, trapping and farming areas were being opened up. And Canada does not suffer from over-population, he said.

Canada Affected.

The minister said the recent European crisis affected Canada as it did the rest of the world. The Dominion already was strengthening its coastal fortification and was doing a thorough job of coordinating artillery, naval and air defences, especially on the Pacific coast. However, Canada would count strongly on the United States assistance—especially from the Pacific fleet—in time of war.

While he personally admired the efforts for peace made by Prime Minister Chamberlain, Mr. Mackenzie was inclined to view the Munich settlement of the Czechoslovakian crisis as "another armistice, which will merely stay the outbreak of another war—and this time not for 20 years, or even half that time."

Marriage Decree Fires Anger Of Roman Church

ROME, Nov. 11 (AP).—Relations between the Holy See and Fascism faced a new period of tension today with an impending protest which Vatican sources said would be made against a new Italian marriage law.

The regulation, decreed yesterday, prohibited "marriage of an Italian citizen of the Aryan race with a person belonging to another race" and provided that a marriage "in violation of this prohibition is null."

A Vatican news service said the restriction would be protested as a violation of the accord between the Italian government and the Vatican. Vatican circles earlier had expressed concern because measures foreshadowed by this policy appeared to conflict with the Church's right to perform marriages, but Fascists insisted the racial program was not religious but political.

Pleads Insanity To Arson Count

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 11—(CP).—Emerson Walters, 27, Manilla, charged with attempted arson, was committed to county jail yesterday, awaiting a warrant to transfer him to a mental institution for observation and treatment. Walters pleaded not guilty.

Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson said the case marked the first time in the history of Victoria County police court that a person had pleaded not guilty to a charge because of insanity. Walters was alleged to have attempted to burn the residence of Doris Powley in Manilla.

Both the Crown and defence counsel agreed Walters was mentally unbalanced at the time of the fire. Evidence was given that Walters had been mentally ill at several periods during the past few years.

King And Queen Will Arrive At Quebec About Middle Of May Premier Announces

OTTAWA, Nov. 11 (CP)—The King and Queen will come to Canada about the middle of May and will land at Quebec. On their departure, after a tour of Canada and a visit to Washington, they will sail from Halifax. These details of their visit were announced today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The prime minister announced the personnel of the committee of the cabinet which will have the final decision on arrangements for visit of Their Majesties.

In addition to Mr. Mackenzie King the committee will be composed of Mines Minister Crerar, Justice Minister Lapointe, Finance Minister Dunning, State Secretary Rinfret, and Defence Minister Mackenzie.

Hon. Raoul Danduran, minister without portfolio, will be on the committee when he returns from France.

A second committee to make detailed arrangements for the tour will be composed of the following deputy ministers: E. H. Coleman, under secretary of state (chairman); Dr. O. D. Skelton, under secretary of state for external affairs; J. B. Hunter, public works; Col. V. I. Smart, transport; and General L. R. LaFleche, defence.

This committee will make recommendations to the cabinet committee on such expenditures as are necessary and other matters which must receive approval of the government which has entire responsibility for Their Majesties visit.

British Jews In Germany Be Protected

British Government Takes Steps To Protect Citizens

LONDON, Nov. 11—(CP).—The British government took steps today to protect British Jews from violence in Germany, swept yesterday by a wave of anti-Jewish destruction.

Officials said Sir George Ogilvie-Forbes, British charge d'affaires in Berlin, had been instructed to take steps to safeguard the persons and property of Jews who are British subjects.

They also said British Jews probably would be permitted to use diplomatic channels to claim compensation from Germany for property damaged yesterday. British subjects were known to be interested in some of the department stores and other commercial property which suffered.

Prayers for the Jewish people "in their trouble" were said by Very Rev. Paul de Labilliere, Dean of Westminster, in a last-minute change in the Abbey's Armistice Day remembrance services.

May Protest Article

Official quarters studied an article which appeared in propaganda minister Paul Goebbel's newspaper Der Angriff. It was believed Great Britain might ask if the article was officially inspired and, if so, might protest to Berlin.

Der Angriff said "it is no coincidence" that the Polish Jew who killed a German official in Paris "took the same line" as Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden and Alfred Duff Cooper.

The Times (Conservative) said Germany had disgraced itself before the entire world and characterized as utterly "intolerable" the allegation that the assassination of Ernst Von Rath in Paris had been instigated by dissident Conservative leaders in Britain.

"No foreign propagandist bent upon blackening Germany before the eyes of the world," said The Times, "could outdo the tale of burning and beating, of blackguardly assault upon a defenceless and innocent people, which disgraced that country yesterday.

Officially Inspired?

"Either the German authorities were party to this outbreak or their powers over public order and the hooligan minority are not what they are proudly claimed to be. Millions of Germans must detest the dishonor done to their name, and the responsibility which they have been made to share.

"The attempt to implicate British politicians in the murder of Von Rath is not the work of an obscure sheet but of a journal controlled by the minister of propaganda, Dr. Goebbels. It is much worse than merely ludicrous. It is wholly intolerable. It demands official notice and should receive it without delay."

The Daily Herald (Labor) branded the riots a "disgrace to the human family."

"Five years of anti-Jewish propaganda and policy, with slow torture and persecution of the Jews,"

Dales Is Acquitted On Murder Count

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Nov. 11 (C. P.). — Lafayette (Harry) Dales, acquitted by an Assize Court jury of a charge of murder, was released from jail here early to-day. The 70-year-old man, held in custody since last May 14 following the fatal shooting of William Waterton, 85, gave no indication as to what he planned to do.

Dales, who came here from the United States about four years ago, was allowed to remain in the jail overnight after his acquittal last night as he said he had no place to go. Jailers said he slept soundly and left the jail quietly after being given breakfast at 7.30 a.m.

It was thought Dales went to the home of friends. He has been unemployed for some time.

Roosevelt Sees No Threat In Tuesday Vote

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP).—President Roosevelt said to-day he did not believe the results of last Tuesday's United States' elections constituted any threat to the continuation of Liberal government.

At his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt declared he thought the election returns were all right.

A questioner, referring to the President's speech on Friday before the elections, asked Mr. Roosevelt whether he believed the outcome of the voting, which resulted in heavy Democratic losses and Republican gains, constituted a threat to the continuation of Liberal government.

The President replied that he certainly did not think so.

New U.S. Treaty To Be Along Broader Lines

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King stated today that "an early announcement may be expected that an agreement, on broader and more comprehensive lines than that announced on this day three years ago, has been reached in our further trade negotiations with United States.'"

Since last April a Canadian mission has been in Washington negotiating for a revised agreement to replace that which expires at the end of December. Their negotiations have paralleled similar negotiations between United States and the United Kingdom and it is expected the two agreements will be signed at the same time.

The Prime Minister issued the following statement:

"It will be recalled that on Nov. 11, 1935, I was able to announce that a trade agreement between the United States and Canada had been negotiated, the terms of which would be made public in due course.

"The agreement was for three years and to be continued thereafter, subject to six months' notice on the part of either country of a desire to terminate its provisions.

"On this third anniversary, I am happy to be able to state that an early announcement may be expected that an agreement, on broader and more comprehensive lines than that announced on this day three years ago, has been reached in our further negotiations with the United States."

Dr. Norwood Accepts Call To Vancouver

LONDON, Nov. 11 (C.P. Cable).—Rev. Frederick Norwood announced to-day he ha daccepted the ministership of St. Andrew's Wesleyan Church of Vancouver. The appointment will be effective as of October, 1939.

Dr. Norwood was minister of the famous City Temple from 1919 to 1936. He was succeeded at the Temple by Rev. Leslie Weatherhead, who introduced prayer healing and whose services are broadcast to the Empire.

Dr. Norwood expects to leave for Vancouver next summer. He is an Australian and before coming to England held several ministerships in the Commonwealth. For the past two years he has been minister evangelist under the National Free Church Council.

King George Leads Empire In Remembrance For Ones Who Died In War

Great, Solemn Crowds Give No Evidence That Time Was Dimming Their Recollections Of Those Who Gave Lives

By Guy Rhoades
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Nov. 11 (CP Cable).—King George led his Empire today in moments of remembrance for its sons and daughters who died in the Great War.

The slim, sun-tanned monarch stood stiffly at attention before the Cenotaph in Whitehall while the bare-headed millions of this vast capital kept the traditional two minutes' silence, signalled by booming cannon.

Beneath the hot sun streaming through a blue haze, the Bishop of London, Rt. Rev. Arthur Winnington-Ingram, led the great congregation of soldiers, sailors, airmen and citizens in a brief religious service before the white stone pylon—emblem of the Empire's sacrifice in the conflict that ended 20 years ago, leaving 10,000,000 of all nations dead on the field.

Great, solemn crowds—the memory of the Czechoslovakian crisis trench digging and days of anxiety fresh in their minds—gave no evidence that time was dimming their recollection of those who gave their lives in the world's greatest conflict.

King Places Wreath.

As the bands of the Brigade of Guards played the Dead March the King placed the first wreath at the foot of the monument and then stood back as Prime Minister Chamberlain, who a few weeks ago brought back peace from Munich, did the same for the government. The Prime Minister was followed by Hon. Vincent Massey, for Canada, and representatives of the other Dominions, India and the colonies.

Behind the King stood his brother, the Duke of Kent, and nearby were representatives of His Majesty's armed services.

The silence that fell over the crowd was so deep that the whirr of the spring motors of miniature movie cameras sounded like small buzz saws. Opposite the Dominions Office a woman fainted near the end of the two minutes and the sound of her collapse was audible half a city block away.

Thousands in the densely-packed throng viewed the scene through periscopes or in mirrors held overhead. Looking down on those upturned faces the observer could note their seriousness. Here and there the sun glistened on tears that coursed down the faces of elderly women.

Crowd Joined Hands.

A second gun ended the silence. Massed buglers sounded the Last Post, and the crowd joined hands in the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." The Bishop of London then offered a prayer and the people followed with the Lord's Prayer. The Bishop blessed the crowd, buglers sounded the Reveille, the band played "God Save the King," and the King and his entour-

Butter Stock Increases

OTTAWA, Nov. 11 (CP).—Stocks of creamery butter in cold storages and dairy factories in Canada on November 1 totalled 62,338,814 pounds, compared with 47,763,203 on November 1, 1937, and 64,494,094 last October 1, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. Dairy stocks amounted to 490,781 pounds compared with 359,066 and 467,333.

New Traffic Hazard

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 11 (C.P.). — Grand Rapids listed today another traffic hazard, wild deers. A deer escaped from the Zoo here and rushed through downtown sections tying up traffic. Police shot the animal when the Zoo keeper said the five-year-old deer was dangerous.

Fire Destroys Stores In Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 11 (C. P.). — Fire of unknown origin early to-day caused damage estimated at $50,000 in the heart of the business section.

Starting in the shoe store owned by S. E. Vermilyea the blaze gutted the shop and also caused $80,000 damage to a clothing store next door, owned by Meagher Brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Vermilyea and their two-year-old daughter were trapped in their apartment above the shoe store when the fire blocked the only exit. Fire chief William Lynch carried the trio to safety. The building containing the two shops is owned by Mrs. E. Fair. It was damaged to the extent of $20,000, firemen estimated. Vermilyea's loss was estimated at $10,000.

Firemen said it was one of the worst blazes occurring here in years and only lack of wind prevented the flames destroying the block.

Packard Motors Close Plant; Have No Doors

DETROIT, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The Packard Motor Car Co. plant was closed and approximately 8,600 employees sent home to-day because of a shortage of doors, usually supplied by the Budd Wheel Company, where a United Automobile Workers strike is in progress.

The Budd plant remained in operation to-day when 400 of the 1,100 employees reported for work, but Packard officials said the supply of doors was not sufficient to maintain their production.

Turkey Elects New President

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 11.—(AP).—General Ismet Inonu was elected by the National Assembly to-day to succeed his friend and long-time comrade, Kamal Ataturk, as president of Turkey.

Ataturk, who died yesterday, once said of Inonu—reformer and strong man in his own right—that "he is my conscience—he is always on the alert and finds out what is wrong and criticizes me."

The new leader, known as the "military bookkeeper," was Premier for 13 of the 15 years that Ataturk was head of the state.

The strong-willed Inonu was chosen at an extraordinary session of parliament sitting in Ankara, Ataturk's capital.

A salute of 101 guns signalled the election, a little more than 26 hours after the "gray wolf" died in Dolma Bagtche palace at Istanbul of cirrhosis of the liver. He was 58.

The cabinet arranged to resign immediately but it was expected to be reconstructed with the same members.

Great War Veteran Offers To Sell His Eye For Enough To Keep Him Out Of Hostels

TORONTO, Nov. 11 (CP) — William Rae, a Great War veteran, offered today to "sell my eye for enough to keep me out of the hostels for a year or so."

Rae walked into a Toronto newspaper office (The Telegram) and said he had forgotten it was Armistice Day. He was thinking about his rent, due Monday.

He said he had read in the newspapers yesterday of the offer of Bernard MacDonald, 26-year-old Holstein, Ont., farmhand, to sell the cornea of an eye for $5,000 to finance a trip to Ireland for treatment for a stomach ailment.

"Five thousand is a lot too much," Rae said. 'Ill sell my eye for enough to keep me out of the hostels for a year or so."

Rae wore an overseas button and said he had served with the 54th Battalion, enlisting as an underage recruit. He saw action at Passchendale, Mons, Arras, Cambrai, Valenciennes and was wounded twice.

His last job was machine operator for a Peterborough milling company, but right now he wants to know of ayone with defective eyesight who wants to buy an eye—cheaply.

Trade Treaty Will Bring Cut In Tariff

GALT, Ont., Nov. 11—(CP).—Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, said here last night there would be tarif freductions in the forthcoming trade treaty with the United States "but it is my considered opinion that no legitimate industry in Canada will be ruined or seriously injured."

Mr. Euler, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, and Hon. C. D. Howe, Transport Minister, spoke to a meeting in support of Mayor R. K. Serviss of Galt, Liberal candidate in the No. 14 federal by-election in Waterloo South.

Trade agreements negotiated by the present government invariably increased exports and provided outlets for Canada's manufactured goods, said Mr. Euler. The government was bent on a long-term policy of trade expansion designed to lift the country out of the depression by aiding industry. This was a better way than prodigal spending by the government to provide employment.

Mr. Howe said it was hoped that next year trans-Canada air lines service would be extended to Western Ontario to connect with air routes from the middle western and southern United States.

End Sectional Strife

A plea for national unity—an end to sectional strife and bickering—was made by Mr. Lapointe. He spoke of the need for constitutional changes to enable the federal government to deal with problems such as unemployment insurance.

Mr. Lapointe said the report of the royal commission on Dominion-Provincial relations would probably provide the basis for a national conference, at which all provinces would be represented, to discuss ways for a transference of jurisdictions over certain problems so that difficulties national in scope might be dealt with by the federal government.

Mr. Lapointe too expressed the opinion that government spending was not a cure-all for depression. People who constantly called for federal expenditures should remember that federal revenues, approximately $510,000,000 annually, were but a fraction of the national income of more than $5,000,000,000.

Capital was not in use because of a lack of confidence, he declared. Sane government policies would restore confidence. The government was able to borrow money on treasury bills at a rate of less than one half of one per cent per annum because of the large amount of capital held from other investments.

County Holsteins Win At Ottawa

Rightaway Creator Pat, entered by N. W. McConkey and Coughlin Bros., won first place in the senior bull calf division, took the championship award of the junior bull class, and was judged reserve grand champion.

King Montrose Lenox, entered by N. W. McConkey and K. W. Esson, came second in the two-year-old bull class, while N. W. McConkey's Dolly Segis Iosco placed second in the two-year-old dry heifer division.

Daisy Posch Rag Apple, entered by J. T. Tully, won third place in the judging of three-year-old cows in calf, dry or in milk, and his Woodland Pabst Johanna came first in the division of cows, four-year-old and over in calf, dry.

Adjourn Inquest A Second Time

TWEED, Ont., Nov. 11 (CP).—Inquest into the death of Kenneth Moore, adjourned from October 21, was again adjourned yesterday to November 17.

After hearing only two witnesses, Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan asked postponement to allow Gerald Wycott a chance to have a lawyer at the inquest. Wycott is facing charges of criminal negligence, reckless driving and drunken driving.

Moore, 21, Trenton, was killed in an automobile accident October 20 while a passenger in a car allegedly driven by Wycott, also of Trenton.

was responsible for assassination of Van Rath, the newspaper charged.

Organized Savagery.

"The savage orgy bears the overwhelming mark of being ordered and organized as a piece of deliberate policy. There is not a single people in the world to-day so ill-provided with sentiments of kindness and brotherhood as not to feel that such events are a disgrace to the human family.

"One saving feature is that it does seem that German public opinion played its part in securing the order from the German government that the pogrom was to stop."

"The onslaught is as contemptible as the pretext was paltry," said the News-Chronicle (Liberal). "The persecution is mean and cowardly. By arson, hooliganism, and mass hysteria, the Nazis have sought to demonstrate their boasted virility and culture.

"Not on the basis of such savagery can there be any hope of understanding between the German leaders and the British people. Britain will be revolted to a man by the sadistic outbreak."

"The German orgy of savagery," The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) declared, "will send a thrill of horror through the civilized world. The pogrom bears every mark of careful organization and also of official condonation. Nazi revenge has been one of the most terrible things of the present century."

Germany Responsible.

The Yorkshire Post (Conservative) said the Paris crime was an inexcusable violation of French hospitality, but that Germany was really responsible for it, since its persecutions had driven thousands of persons to madness or suicide. While not wishing to blame the whole German people for yesterday's wave of organized violence, the newspaper said:

"But unhappily, the scenes enacted throughout the Reich are such as were almost inevitably to be expected under the Nazi regime. They are the outcome of the same officially inspired and encouraged spirit of vindictive intolerance which has also characterized the treatment of non-Jews who have opposed in any way fulfilment of the Hitlerite program.

"It is impossible to understand how anyone who is not either himself needlessly duped or is seeking to dupe others can talk seriously of producing Eurcpean appeasement in confident collaboration with convinced exponents of Nazi methods."

"It might have been thought," said The Manchester Guardian (Liberal), "that the German government, after its recent triumphs, would have at last marked out for itself a manner of behavior more suited to the dignity of a greater sovereign state.

"It might have been thought that a government which proclaims itself qualified to control the destinies of native peoples would have respected the rights of its citizens of another race. Such expectations have been violently disappointed."

BERLIN, Nov. 11 (A.P.).— Nazis predicted to-day a restoration of the ghetto for Jews under new restrictive decrees promised after the Thursday uprising of anti-Jewish violence.

The Jews, said the Nazi informants, would be compelled to live and do business only in the ghetto of their city. Their shops would be tolerated only in sufficient number to supply the needs of the Jewish communities. (Walled and gated ghettos had their origin in Italy in the 16th century. They were known in the Germany of that day as Judengasse.)

The Nazis are confident the new decrees will mark the final liquidation of the Jewish issue in Germany and that there will be no more anti-Jewish outbreaks like those of yesterday in which millions of dollars of damage was done in the smashing of Jewish store windows, the looting of shops, and the burning of synagogues in a dozen cities.

They attributed the present outbreak to a wave of resentment for the slaying of Ernst von Rath, secretary of the German Embassy in Paris, by a Jewish youth.

The new decrees were discussed by Chancellor Hitler and his advisors in conferences until late last night.

Bodies Confer.

Conferring with Hitler were Field-Marshal Goering, chief of the four-year plan for economic independence; Rudolf Hess, Hitler's deputy in party affairs; Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop, Propaganda Minister Goebbels, and officials of the Ministry of the Interior.

Goebbels promised the decrees when he called a halt to the demonstrations.

"The justifiable and understandable indignation of the German people over the cowardly Jewish murder of a German diplomat in Paris has resulted during the past night in extensive demonstrations," he said.

"In numerous cities and communities of the Reich, acts of violence were committed against Jewish buildings and businesses. The entire population is now, however, strictly requested to desist immediately from al further demonstrations and actions of whatever nature against Jews.

"The final answer to Jewry will be given in the form of laws or decrees."

The appeal was issued at 4 p.m. The violence had begun in the early morning. The appeal at first had little effect in the west-end of Berlin.

Three hours later it was repeated by radio. Police appeared on Koenigstrasse, where a number of Jewish shops are located, arrested 21 looters, and cleared the street.

Duke Of Windsor May Be Home For Christmas

PARIS, Nov. 11 (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester arrived in Paris today and were reported to have brought an invitation for the Duke and Duchess of Windsor to spend Christmas with the Royal family at Sandringham.

Homeward bound from an East African holiday, they flew from Marseille to Le Bourget airport in the Royal family's private plane and motored to the Hotel Meurice, temporary home of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The British Ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps, Lady Phipps and other officials were at the airport and an embassy car took the Royal party to the hotel.

The meeting of the Royal brothers was the first since the abdication. Dinner was ordered served in the hotel suite where the Duke and Duchess of Windsor are living pending the redecoration of their new Paris home.

Wing-Commander Edward Fielden, captain of the King's flight, flew to Marseille to meet the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester.

Two Brothers Meet

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor went to the visitors' hotel suite to greet them. The brothers shook hands and smiled with "extreme warmth and affection," a spokesman said.

The Duchesses "were very gracious to each other," the spokesman reported, chatting together while the brothers talked for perhaps 20 minutes. Later the four took lunch together.

The Duchess of Gloucester was described as "tired out" from her trip and as intending to rest most of the afternoon. Plans for the evening depended on how she felt later.

Sir Godfrey Thomas, who came to Paris two days ago to make arrangements for the visit, accompanied the Duke of Gloucester, whose private secretary he is. Sir Godfrey was private secretary to the Duke of Windsor before the abdication.

Ladies Planning For Scotch Dinner

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 11.—The members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Ladies' Aid made plans on Tuesday afternoon to sponsor a Scotch dinner in the basement of the church on St. Andrew's Day, Nov. 30th. Although it has been customary to hold an annual fall bazaar they have decided to hold the Scotch dinner instead and a splendid Scotch program and Scotch menu will be in keeping with the spirit of St. Andrew's Day.

Euchre Is Held.

A most enjoyable euchre was held on November 4th in the Hastings Orange Lodge, sponsored by the members of L.O.L. No. 558. Prizes for euchre were awarded as follows: Ladies' first, Mrs. Earl Clark. Ladies' second, Mrs. John McMillan. Gentleman's first, Mr. Fred McGee and gentlemen's second Mr. Mervin Battle of Norwood. When the series of ten games had been played, lunch was served, followed by an hour of dancing. Music furnished by Mr. Donald Beamish, assisted by Mr. H. Anderson.

Personals.

Miss Mary Pickens, R.N., of Peterborough, and Miss Conroy, R.N., of Brampton, were Sunday guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pickens.

Miss Frances Hoard is visiting relatives in Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker, Glen and Joan of Lakefield were guests on Sunday with Mr. James Dickey and son Gordon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dainard attended the funeral in Picton on Monday of the former's brother, the late Case Dainard.

Mrs. Aaron Leach was a Sunday guest with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown. Mrs. Leach left during the week for her home in Texas after an extended visit with her relatives in Ontario.

Miss Annie Beavis of Cobourg, is spending several days with her mother, Mrs. L. Beavis.

sociation of the two chosen instruments—Imperial Airways and British Airways—in a single corporation.

"The Government, therefore, propose to recommend to Parliament legislation setting up a public corporation which will acquire the existing undertakings of Imperial Airways and British Airways."

To Issue Loan.

Sir Kingsley said capital for the new corporation would be obtained by issuing a loan with fixed interest, guaranteed by the government.

The minister assured James Ede Labor, that the purchase price of the two lines would be based on the value of the companies some time before to-day's announcement and he added that if any difficulties arose over the purchase price they would be submitted to arbitration.

Sir Kingsley's announcement yesterday that expenditure on the Royal Air Force would be increased 40 per cent next year was hailed by the Daily Telegraph (Conservative) as a sign that Britain's aerial deficiencies were at last being remedied.

In presenting an account of his stewardship as Air Minister, Sir Kingsley convinced all who heard him, the paper said, "that new yeast was indeed stirring in the organization of the nation's air defences, that many deficiencies which the debates last spring revealed so disquietingly were in way of being remedied, and that the scale of the nation's productive effort was being made more commensurate with the needs which it was intended to meet.

"Disputable questions of policy and detail may remain, but it is evident that the spirit in which the problems of air defence are being attacked has new vigor and thoroughness."

The Daily Mail (Independent) said: "The public will willingly pay any amount necessary, provided they are assured that security is being maintained as rapidly and efficiently as possible. Obviously there has already been a welcome tightening up in the Air Ministry organization. Five years ago this month the Daily Mail called for 5,000 warplanes. That number to-day should be many times multiplied."

A Warning Note

The Manchester Guardian (Liberal) injected a warning note. "Sir Kingsley Wood's statement on the condition of our air defences would have been more re-assuring," the paper said, "if we had not had so many before of the same kind. Comparison with Germany's achievement in the same time, from a worse start, makes us a little critical of optimism. The question is whether the conception of our future needs is adequate and whether industrial preparations that are being made are on a revolutionary enough scale."

The Liberal opposition announced its intention of submitting an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, expressing regret at the government's failure to consider creation of a ministry of supply.

A similar amendment, presented by the labor opposition, was rejected in the House of Lords last night by a vote of 46 to 17.

The Liberal amendment, to be submitted by Sir Hugh Seely next Thursday, was decided upon late last night after Sir Kingsley Wood's speech.

It regrets that "although deficiencies both in military and civilian defence are admitted by His Majesty's ministers, as well as serious delays in execution of the program of rearmament stated to be necessary by the services departments for national safety, no mention is made in the graceious speech of creation of a ministry of supply both to secure efficiency and prevent waste and profiteering."

The amendment will be submitted in the name of Sir Hugh Seely, Sir Percy Harris, Major Gwilym Lloyd George, Frank Griffith, and David Evans.

Geoffrey Mander, Liberal, is going to ask Prime Minister Chamberlain to say whether Great Britain and France had an understanding with the Spanish government on Mediterranean bases during the September crisis.

Mr. Mander's question filed for presentation Nov. 23 stated the Barcelona government offered "to make the river Ebro (Northeastern Spain) available as a base of operations and the Island of Minorca as a friendly naval base."

Diplomatic quarters have said such an offer was a reason for insurgent General Franco's announcement he would be neutral if war started.

attitude of preparedness, and warning with hand upraised against War and all other enemies of British Democracy, the Rangers band played the hymn Abide With Me. Fire Chief George Gimblett, introduced both padres of the Legion, both of whom spoke briefly.

The Commemoration Observed

Rev. Dr. Kelly said that the greatest commemoration in the world's history was the commemoration of Him who said: "Greater love than this hath no man than he who lays down his life for his friends." This was the type of commemoration being observed today. It is a celebration in memory of those who had given their lives for the peace and happiness of those who were to follow them.

"Throughout the British Empire for years following the War this seems also to be the desire of the nation as a whole and also of every individual to preserve an honorable state of peace, in each member of the Commonwealth of Nations and their neighbors.

"This was exemplified recently in the conduct of England's Premier who sacrificed his personal feelings, and risked his future reputation as a diplomat in history by humiliating himself in the interest of world peace, by interviewing a man whom according to the sporting spirit of the British he must regard as a cad.

"As all things are ruled by a Divine Providence I feel the humility of Premier Chamberlain and the sacrifice of our soldiers in the last Great War will soon bring us into a triumphant peace.

"We must thank God that the British Empire could produce such a man. Czechoslovakia lost by the invasion but she would have lost one hundred times more had war not been averted.

"We must remember today that the boys who died overseas were not able to command us to commemorate their sacrifice, but knowing human nature they knew we would keep fresh in our minds down through the years the immeasurable contribution which they made."

A Turning Point

Rev. Easton in his remarks described the Munich Conference as a turning point in the world's history and said undoubtedly the outlook for world peace today is brighter than in many years, because of England's great statesman, Premier Neville Chamberlain.

"If you were walking down Madison Avenue in New York city and were to raise your eyes above the hurrying throngs you would see carved in bronze many names, names of foreign places. Only to one in every ten thousand who pass that spot do these names mean anything, but to Canadians these names mean much. They speak louder than all the noises of a busy New York street, Ypres, Somme, Hill 60, Festubert, and Vimy. To all of us they are more than just names in a foreign land.

"To us and to those who lived in the years following the war, those names stand for freedom and British ideals. Today we remember the men and women who died heroic deaths on foreign fields and those thousands who returned maimed, and others who went to death, before their time because of war wounds. We must cherish their dreams.

'You know that today there are some wise people who say the dreams and ideals these men had were not worth dying for. If this is so then there is nothing in the world worth dying for, and I know there are thousand ready to-day who would die if it meant that freedom would continue to exist in our fair land, and liberty would not be crushed.

"Let us not only cherish their memory but also their dreams and ideals."

C.G.E. Veterans Parade

The C.G.E. war veterans paraded from the factory to the corner of Charlotte and George streets where they were joined by veterans from the Brinton Carpet, Canada Packers and several other south end factories, then headed by the Band they marched to the Armouries where the men already assembled fell in with the different divisions. Red, first division; green, second division; French grey, third; blue, fourth; blue and white, the navy; and khaki, the Imperials. Robert, Gracie carried the Legion Standard, while Chris Jay from the C.G.E. carried a Union Jack and Walter Winterbottom from the De Laval carried a specially made standard. On this latter flag beneath the Union Jack were many Maple Leafs, each representing an employee who signed up while working at the factory, and in the centre were six gold stars, to show that six were killed in action. Alfred Day, carrying a wreath from the Social and Athletic Club and William Bennett bearing one for the Ex-Servicemen's Association headed the band, and E. G. Hardie, president of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club, led the employees.

John T. Hornsby, District Scout Commissioner led the Boy Scouts and Cubs and Mrs. R. Whalon led the Girl Guides and bore the wreath.

Three motorcycle police, Constable Archie Menzies of the City Force and Provincial Traffic Officers Lloyd McClure and Gordon Broughton headed the parade and Inspector Reid and Sergeant John Thompson with other city officers kept the route and park well policed and the crowd back from the line of marchers.

Ideal weather prevailed and a record crowd jammed the space to the east of the War Memorial and lined both sides of George street following the ceremony when the band struck up the famous war tune, Colenel Bogey, and the veterans swung along in perfect rhythm to the Capitol Theatre where the Hon. Norman Rogers, Federal Minister of Labor, addressed the crowd.

George Street's Silence.

During the two minutes of memorial silence at the official ceremony in Confederation Square, down town George Street was hushed and still. When the Canadian General Electric Company's whistle sounded over the city the beginning of those two minutes pedestrian and vehicular traffic came to a stop. A thoughtless automobile moving alone up the main street served to accentuate by contrast the tribute of remembrance and respect for men dead these twenty years and more that was being expressed in the attitude of the hundreds of citizens who lined the sidewalks.

Mothers with perambulators, little boys in care-free play, stood motionless for those two minutes, and then when the whistle blew again over the city the moment of memory and thought for those years of 1914 to 1918 and the Canadian men who played their splendid part in France and Flanders were ended once more, and the street resumed its wonted sounds of bustling movement along the pavements. During that briefly suspended interval citizens warmed to the benignant sunshine that seem like a day transferred from September, a morning to marvel at, and for old men to search their memories for such another November 11 in their longest years.

And with the warmth of the sun and its pleasant physical reaction, there must have been, too, a warming of the heart in appreciation of the political freedom this Canadian democracy enjoys, secured and sustained for them by the sacrifice of such men whose surviving Peterborough comrades presently come marching down George Street, many of them graying, but with heads erect as the fruits of their victory become more distinctly appreciated, etched and limned against the dark background of millions of other people reduced to-day to conditions that seem virtual enslavement.

Conclusion at Capitol.

The final episode of the morning was the public meeting in the Capitol Theatre, arranged by the Canadian Legion. Many of the ex-service men passed it up as they fell out at the end of the parade south of Charlotte Street. The auditorium was hardly more than two-thirds occupied. George Gimblett, Chief of the Fire Department, president of the Peterborough branch of the Legion, was chairman. With him on the platform were Mayor Hamilton and Warden E. N. McDonald, with other representatives of the city and county's municipal bodies; Colonel John A. Dewart, M.C., and Major R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne of the Prince of Wales Rangers; ladies of associations auxiliary to the Legion and other citizens, with the Hon. Norman McLeod Rogers, Federal Minister of Labor, as the guest speaker for the occasion.

In opening the meeting Chief Gimblett said that although Remembrance Day had been proclaimed a holiday by the government, it was not a holiday because manufacturers, merchants and citizens generally did not observe it as such. He spoke of the recent crisis in Europe which seemed about to result in war, expressed gratitude that peace had been preserved and added, "Our rulers have to be prepared for emergencies when the time comes, and if one comes, no doubt the manhood of Canada will do its part as in the past."

Mayor Hamilton.

Mayor Hamilton extended a cordial welcome to the Hon. Mr. Rogers, and also expressed his gratification at the large number of citizens who observed Remembrance Day with the men who had served in the war. He recalled the Peterborough units as a splendid type of Canadian manhood of whom their fellow citizens had been proud in the days of the war. It was heartening, His Worship said, that the people of to-day still turned out to honor them and to manifest that they revered those who had made the great sacrifice.

J. J. Duffus, M.P., introduced Hon. Mr. Rogers as a distinguished soldier, former professor of Queen's University, scholar, man of letters, and statesman.

Congratulated Veterans.

Mr. Rogers thanked Mayor Hamilton for the welcome he had extended, and promised to return to Peterborough on some other occasion on which he hoped would not be too far in the future. He congratulated the Canadian Legion on their impressive observance of Remembrance Day, especially in the ceremony at the city's memorial in Confederation Square, and said it was a privilege to be associated with them and the citizens generally in their tribute to the Canadian soldiers who had given their lives in the war.

The Minister declared his hope that this anniversary would not become a mere formality in expression of gratitude and sorrow for the men of yesterday and still to-day who had participated in the victory that was sealed twenty years ago. He appealed to the present generation to remember the dark days of the war, and to renew their faith in themselves, in Canada and its future, and to rededicate themselves to the tasks that must yield to national unity and faith and to the strength of a young country like Canada.

Hon. Mr. Rogers

"It is an honor and a privilege to join with you this morning in this service of remembrance and dedication.

On this day, twenty years ago, we gave thanks for our deliverance from war and pledged our utmost effort to the maintenance of peace and goodwill among men. As the years between have come and gone, it has become difficult to recapture the spirit of devotion and thanksgiving in which we celebrated the announcement of the Armistice and its earlier anniversaries. For many of us these passing years have brought a partial healing of grief for lost kin-folk, and comrades and a kind release from the memories of war. A new generation, moreover, has taken its place beside us, a generation to whom the World War is merely an event in history and for whom it has little or no significance as a personal experience. But there are others in our midst to whom war has been a continuing experience. It has left its mark upon them, compelling them to go in company with fear and pain for the remainder of their days. For these disabled veterans and the families of those whose names are written upon our rolls of honor, this day of remembrance has a poignant meaning. And we who have been spared in body or spirit from the wounds and pain which they have suffered are under a special obligation to do honor to their memory and pay tribute to their sacrifice.

Must Strive For Peace

This is a day of remembrance. It is also a day of dedication. Words alone are not enough to discharge our debt to those who died. If these men could speak to us today, they would ask us to honor their memory by giving our thoughts and efforts to the great objects which they held worthy of their sacrifice. They would ask us above all to strive for peace, so long as peace can be maintained on terms of honor and freedom. As the war continued from month to month and year to year, the thought that gave strength and endurance to those who fought was the firm belief that their sacrifice would not be in vain if it brought the assurance of peace in years to come. Within the past few months the issue of peace and war has been brought very close to us. We do not know when we may have to meet it again. If we believe, as Mr. Chamberlain, expressed it, that any power is determined to dominate the world by force or fear of force, we must be ready to resist that power to the uttermost—even at the risk of war. But we must at the same time be ready to explore every possible avenue of peace and resist every temptation to surrender reason and tolerance to hatred and fear. To strive constantly for peace is our first duty to those whose sacrifice we commemorate today.

Unity Is Essential

Our second duty is the maintenance of unity in an attack upon the tasks of peace. In September of 1916, from a hilltop near Poperinghe, I saw a Canadian Division begin its march to the Somme. In that Division there were men from every province, representatives of almost every racial element in our population, yet as they filed past, their regimental bands played Canadian songs, and they marched with a proud consciousness that they belonged to the Canadian Corps. There, in France, under the stimulus of a great emergency, the unity of Canada meant something it had never meant before. And here at home during those anxious years, Canadian unity mean something it never meant before. Without that sense of unity the Canadian Corps could never have won its enviable reputation on the field of battle. Without that unity it could never have received the constant and unfailing support of those who remained at home. In the grave national tasks which confront us today we should remember that unity alone brought us victory in time of war and unity alone can bring us success as we seek solution for the pressing problems of peace.

Renewal Of Our Faith

Finally, if we are true to the memory of our fallen comrades, this service of remembrance and dedication should renew and strengthen our faith in the future of our country. The record of Canada in the World War is a testimony of faith which should inspire us in every hour of peril or difficulty. If those who served abroad had surrendered to discouragement or despair they could never have made their outstanding contribution to the final victory. It was not easy to maintain a spirit of confidence in those early years when the first expectations of quick success gave way to the conviction that the war would be a test of endurance and morale, unequalled in our history. But the soldiers and citizens of Canada refused to admit defeat. We drew upon our reserves of faith and in the fulness of time our task was accompolished.

We need a renewal of that faith today as we meet other national tasks which test our resources, our intelligence and our character. On this day of Remembrance let us dedicate ourselves anew to these tasks of peace and pledge ourselves to bring to their solution a service of united effort and unconquerable faith worthy of those whose sacrifice we commemorate at this time."

Beauties Of The Countryside Are Described To Teachers Final Session Of Convention

The enchanting beauty of English country lanes, and wooded valleys, the wild and rugged stretches of his native Scotland, the peaceful grandeur of the Killarney region and the unsurpassed and truly delightful glory of Central Ontario's wooded hills and lakelands, were described with the rich touch of a master whose heart is in his subject by F. J. A. Morris, B.A., former teacher of the Peterborough Collegiate, and noted authority on wild flowers, at the final session of the annual Teachers' Convention held yesterday afternoon in the Collegiate auditorium.

Mr. Morris took his listeners on a hobby-horse ramble which started with his early life and adventures in Perthshire, Scotland, and then jumped to his boyhood days in England, then in later years to Ireland and later still to Ontario and the States over which he has travelled extensively, always delving into the mysteries of woodland life, always learning, until to-day he is a vast storehouse of information on every subject which comes under the general headings of Birdlife, Botany and the Great Outdoors.

Species of Birds.

During the course of his talk he spoke at length on several species of birds and has this to say about the Canadian birds which are heard at night. "The voices of the night have a strange power over the human mind, as we all know in Canada from listening in the depths of the woods to the Whip-poor-will, the Great Horned Owl, the Screech Owl, and perhaps most of all to our own Great Northern Diver, the Loon.

"Soon after dusk, the loon suffers disembodiment and all night long you may hear from some abode of lost souls its wild cries and shouts of demoniacal laughter. Sound is the strangest of all our bodily sensations; objects of sight have nothing mysterious about them; there they are before us plain to the view and easily verified by touching or handling, but sounds are a thing apart, unsubstantial, the ghosts and wraiths of the ear."

"The cuckoo, the whitethroat and even the nightincale, owe half of their charm to being hidden; to see the singer is to touch the magician and his virtue departs."

The speaker told the teachers that his first teaching was in Smith Falls in 1896 when he first became acquainted with Ontario woods, "and they were and still are as wonderful and as full of surprises as wandering in the Tropics and for the same reason." In Great Britain there are about fifty different kinds of butterflies, but in Ontario alone there are several hundred kinds, and the large area gives great scope to the naturalist, Mr. Morris said.

Mr. Morris related that his first love, the study of wild flowers had been given considerable impetus when he accepted a position on the staff at Trinity College School in Port Hope, when one of its greatest headmasters, a famous naturalist, the late Dr. Bethune, was at the school.

Some Boys Dislike Games.

"There are always quite a number of boys at school who dislike organized games, and an outdoor interest like Natural History serves a useful purpose among such boys by giving them a healthy outlet for their energies."

He said that while at Trinity College three boys had come to his office with three bird's eggs, which was strictly against the rules and had sought his confidence and asked him to identify the eggs. He recognized the eggs as those of the Crested Flycatcher, then asked the boys to examine the nest and describe it to him the next day. The boys found that several waxed paper caramel covers had been cleverly woven into the nest by the bird. "The Crested Flycatcher has a curious instinct—said to be shared by the tropical flycatcher of Mexico and Brazil—of weaving the sloughed skin of the snake into its nest. John Burroughs records having found onion skin and fish scales used by the birds where it couldn't find the slough of a garter-snake handy. And more than once a crested flycatcher has been seen on the lake shore between Port Hope and Cobourg to catch a shad fish for its nest lining.

Mr. Morris said that in later years when his hobby of woodland wild life was in full swing he was asked by the New York State Botanist to help a friend of his to get photos of some rare orchids no longer obtainable in New York State. "This was the beginning of "Our Wild Orchids," he said, the reference being to a book which Mr. Morris wrote and which is regarded as the finest authority on orchids ever published.

Rare Orchids at Hand.

During his search for data on orchids Mr. Morris and his wife travelled all over the North American continent. They also made many trips in the Peterborough district and he explained that three of the most rare species wanted by the New York botanist were found within three miles of Peterborough city.

He described in detail the scenic beauty of England and laid stress on the fact that the English people have a national esteem for their woodland areas and take all steps to protect and preserve them. In direct contrast to this he referred to the wanton destruction of many of Canadas beauty spots.

"We here in Peterborough have hardly less beautiful a woodland home to live in. Many of our personal friends from distant parts have returned again and again to enjoy our woodland scenery; the hill and dale and sylvan glades west of Mount Pleasant and in the Bethany Valley, the old roads through Westwood and Keene, to Hastings and Campbellford, Wooler and Stirling, the road through Norwood and Havelock to Marmora and Madoc, and all the way north through the Kawarthas to Minden and Dorest, Dwight and Algonquin Park, all these have proved a perfect paradist of woodland beauty."

"We have no mountains in Ontario, but we have thousands of lovely woodland valleys, and the beauty of our woods and rivers and lakes has a noble setting, especially here in Central Ontario, with its rolling surface of long drawn glacial ridges and drumlin knolls, flanked with white cedar and crowned with oak and pine. We should treasure it all our days and guard it from what is no les sthan a national tragedy—the deadly menace of fire and axe."

Miss Alexandria Howson, of the Collegiate staff, voiced the appreciation of the teachers for the fine address and Keith S. Wightman, public school inspector, also spoke in tribute to Mr. Morris. Miss Helen Bonnycastle presided.

The report of the nominating committee, presented by Chairman Miss Clara Adams, was accepted unanimously without change.

F. E. Kerr, B.A., principal of King George School, was named president to succeed Miss Bonnycastle and the other officers are as follows:—Miss Margaret Green- vice-president; Miss F. D. Walker, secretary-treasurer; executive committee: J. E. R. Munro, Miss Alexandria Howson, Miss Winifred Batten, Miss Stella Bennett, Sister M. Adele, principal of the Immaculate Conception School; and J. Londerville. Members of the Social Committee are O. M. Steer, Miss Musa Cox, Miss Christina Copus, Miss D. Burgess, Miss E. Eagleson, Miss Jean Buck, and Miss Lilian Bowie.

Archers Kill 4 Deer

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 11 (C.P.).—Michigan archers boasted to-day of a record kill during the bow and arrow season for deers as Don Hootman, president of the Michigan Archers' Association, killed the fourth deer of the season, using only a bow and arrow. Hootman said he shot the animal at 75 yards. In previous years, three was the highest number ever killed.

Havelock Society Visits Norwood

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Nov. 11.—The Parish Guild of St. John's Church, Havelock, were the guests yesterday afternoon of Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Lemon, at the rectory in Norwood. The members assembled at the church at 2 o'clock, travelling to Norwood by car for their regular weekly meeting.

Following the usual opening routine, Rev. R. E. Lemon spoke a few words of welcome to the members of the organization on their first visit to his new home. Various kinds of crochet work and embroidery were done during the afternoon.

After the meeting Mrs. Lemon invited her guests into the dining-room, where very lovely refreshments were served and an enjoyable social period spent. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. Lemon for her kindness during the afternoon, to which she very graciously replied.

Democrats Have 69 Senate Seats

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (CP).—Completion of the count of ballots cast in Tuesday's election today showed Democrats holding 69 seats in the United States Senate, 20 more than a majority in the 96-seat chamber, and Republicans occupying 23. This represents a loss of eight seats for the Democrats and a gain of that number by the revitalized Republicans.

Standing of the Senate in the next or 76th Congress, compared to that after the 1936 election follows:

	1938	1936
Democrats	69	77
Republicans	23	15
Farmer-Labor	2	2
Progressive	1	1
Independent-Republican	1	1
Total	96	95

The last two states to report showed Democratic Senators Fred Van Nuys of Indiana and Guy Gillette of Iowa had withstood the upsurge of the Republican forces and gained re-election.

A Senate term runs six years. One-third of the membership, or 32 members, are elected every two years. Because of deaths and resignations since the 1936 balloting, 37 Senators were named Tuesday. Two of these five additional Senators will sit until 1941 and one until 1943. These terms begin in the 76th Congress, starting January 3, 1939. The other two were elected to the 75th Congress and their terms expire January 3, 1939.

14-Year-Old Boy Completes His Sentence Although It Took Several Scrap Books

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—(CP).— It was a hard task but 14-year-old Roger Sarault of suburban Eastview came to county court to-day with the work done—after all.

Last Oct. 21 the boy pleaded guilty to riding his bicycle on the sidewalk and Magistrate Clayton ordered him to write 1,000 times this sentence: "I must not ride my bicycle on the sidewalk."

Sarault set about the task. But last Tuesday when he had it half done, the boy found it too great and ran away. He was located at Smith's Falls, 60 miles east of here. Returned to his home, he decided to complete the work.

Sarault handed Magistrate Clayton several scrap books to-day in which the sentences were written. The magistrate did not count the lines but took the boy's word for it.

Snowy Egrets Here Jack Miner Says

KINGSVILLE, Ont., Nov. 11.—(CP).—The Snowy Egret, whose plumes once were worth their weight in gold, are migrating to swamps and marshes in southwestern Ontario, Jack Miner reported from his bird sanctuary home to-day. He said one of the egrets was living near the sanctuary. The birds have been protected for years because they were almost wiped out when hunters shot them for their feathers, once popular for women's hats.

NEW FORD V-8 CARS for 1939

GREATER VALUE for every motorist has been built into these two new Ford V-8 cars for 1939. Both bring new meaning to the familiar Ford phrase —"The Quality Car in the Low-price Field!"

For here is real progress in motor-car manufacturing. Here are two new cars that give further expression to the forward-looking policy of the Ford organization . . . traditional Ford dependability and economy combined with notable advances in modern, progressive engineering. The Ford way of doing things is the reason for the greater value in the two new Ford cars for 1939.

Each car has been given its own distinctive appearance, yet each reflects Ford leadership in design. Both bring you something of the fine streamlining of the Lincoln-Zephyr—recognized style leader for the industry. The interior appointments of the 1939 Ford cars are especially rich and are in keeping with their beauty of line and contour. Every detail is styled for good taste and good service.

Both are big, roomy cars, equipped with hydraulic brakes and powered with the 85-horsepower V-8 engine that gives you so much extra power, smoothness and efficiency. This year, the quiet performance of the V-8 engine has been matched by the new quiet built into every part of the car.

The 1939 Ford cars bring you greater riding ease on every road. New seat construction, flexible cantilever transverse springs and double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers give triple-cushioned riding comfort.

Both Ford cars for 1939 are Ford-priced for greater dollar value. From bumper to bumper, inside and out, they are the most outstanding cars in all Ford history.

Our Day Of Remembrance

Yesterday it was that a large line across the front page of a newspaper warned that Japan was encroaching upon British frontiers; the day before it had something to do with a threat made by Russia about what it might yet do to some other nation. It has been going that way for weeks.

There is something in that which makes it a little difficult to give our Remembrance Day the place it should have. We are not allowed to go off by ourselves apart from the rest of the world and quietly consider and honor the memory of the men who fell during the World War. We had high hopes then and we are certain the men who donned the uniform held them also. There was a war; Britain was in and therefore we were in it. It was a long struggle and here and there from coast to coast there were homes which day after day received the little yellow paper saying some brave man would not return. It may be the idea that this great war was to mean the end of other wars helped us along. It was a tremendous sacrifice but there was that great thing to be gained—lasting peace.

Twenty years from the day the war was officially over we find we did not accomplish that for which we hoped and fought. It is quite honest and fair to say candidly we feel as though we had been cheated; that for which we reached in honesty and good faith has been taken from us, and that for which the whole world yearned has been placed where we have not been able to reach it. Peace.

It is not well that we should allow our thoughts to become saturated with such thinking. We can for the moment close the door on the rest of the world and pay humble and devoted tribute to the memory of those who responded when their country called them to arms. Most of them had never worn a uniform before; they had received little or no training at all for we are not a militaristic people. Our men just turned from what they were doing because they knew they were needed. So it is today we think quietly of those who did not come back. We may do that collectively today, although there are thousands of homes in our land where they have been doing it continuously for long years and probably every day in the year.

Might Well Keep Quiet

There is danger that the proposed visit of the King and Queen to Canada and United States is going to be stretched to cover ground which was never anticipated, and it may be even misinterpreted.

A despatch from Washington says the South American nations see in the visit to United States a drawing together of United States and Britain and when that is accomplished it may be that the British navy will be made available in case of emergency to make the Monroe Doctrine more secure. (The Monroe Doctrine was first enunciated by President Monroe in 1823 and stated that United States would not tolerate the invasion of South American nations by European powers for the purpose of acquiring land).

Some of the Latin-American nations are said to have felt that as Britain was so much taken up in recent times with affairs of her own empire in various parts of the world that there was not much to be looked for from that nation in upholding the Monroe Doctrine, but now that there is going to be a royal visit to Washington this condition may be remedied.

We doubt to the point of disbelieving that their Majesties have any such thing in mind, and if the proposed visit is not going to be seriously misconstrued it might be well for the propagandists to hold their peace.

Only a few days ago the suggestion was made that the visit was for the purpose of making certain that Canada was remaining loyal to the British throne, and Canadians have every right to resent any such suggestion. That issue of loyalty is about the cheapest one which can be raised and yet it is being bandied about in connection with the visit of our King and Queen in a way which is as small as it is undesirable.

Paying Off a Loan

The Dominion government has filed the regular notice at Washington of a loan of $40,000,000 thirty-year 3 per cent bonds, the proceeds of which will pay off a similar amount of three-year notes which mature on January 1 next.

The report telling of the transaction says "No sinking fund is provided for the amoritization or retirement of the bonds." It was hardly necessary to add that as governments seldom make provision for repayment when they secure a loan. The present loan is for paying off another and in that way the debt remains the same.

The municipalities are the only governing bodies which are tied down by hard and fast rules. When a municipality decides it needs $20,000 or any other sum for some specific purpose and it is considered advisable to spread the payments over a term of years, then the money is borrowed through the issue of debentures.

At the same time there must be provision made for gathering in sufficient money each year during the life of the debentures to pay for the interest and also provide for paying off the entire debt at the end of a definitely stated time. And it is well that the regulations are firm and fast on that point because it has actually made municipal financing more scientific and secure than the financing of either provincial or federal governments. The knowledge that the floating of a loan means also an obligation to discharge that loan is a wholesome way to do business. All our governments would be better off today if there were some similar restriction to issuing loans.

They Have To Leave Home

A town does not retain its young men and the reason is that unfortunately they have to leave home and go elsewhere to make a living.

That truth is well illustrated in a picture published by the Stratford Beacon-Herald of a lacrosse team in Mitchell of 40 years ago. In the picture there are 14 young men who played lacrosse for their town team and came close enough to winning a Canadian championship. Of the fourteen one is dead, and one only is living in Mitchell now.

Where are the others? The answer is given this way:

H. W. Thompson, Rodney; N. Doerr, Exeter
Dr. F. L. Thompson, Houston, Texas
Fred Brown, Los Angeles, Cal.
Harry Babb and Percy Baker, Toronto
Dr. Giles Collison, Lindsay
Frank Lynde, Winnipeg
Fred Davis, Port Arthur
William Coppin, Moose Jaw
Joe Turnbull, St. Marys
M. Bartlett, address unknown.

No doubt the same thing has been going on in Mitchell and every other village and town in the country for years. The boys are raised in such places, they are given all the education the municipality affords; there they are trained, but seldom can they make any contribution to the old home town because they have to leave it to seek opportunity and a life-work elsewhere. That is how cities grow and new towns become inhabited in the newer sections of our country. It is difficult to depart from the belief that it would be a better thing for the whole country if business and industry were so distributed that there would be more opportunity for villages and towns to retain a greater number of their own young men.

The Evidence Was There

A case which has attracted unusual attention has been concluded in court at Goderich where Mrs. Ruby Magee was charged with the murder of her 10-months-old child. The mother had taken the child in her arms to the watering trough in the farm yard and there drowned it, explaining she tried to give herself the same treatment but failed because she choked. Afterward she went to her husband and explained what she had done.

Evidence showed there were unhappy relationships in the home where the son and his wife were living in part of the place while the husband's mother occupied the rest of the house.

The finding of the jury on instruction was that the mother was insane at the time she disposed of her child. She was carefully questioned and studied by alienists from mental hospitals and that was their decision. In view of that announcement there was virtually no other verdict which could have been returned.

There is substantial reason for believing the woman was mentally unbalanced when she did away with her child because the act was opposed to all the laws of what we call a condition of normalcy. The normal mother responds without suggestion to the instinct of mother love, to the practice of sacrfice no matter how great in the protection of her child. The world is so full of examples of that conduct that it is not necessary to labor the point by argument. The rule is so universal that when one comes upon a case where it has been broken it is virtually safe to conclude that mental derangement has been the cause.

They Were Not Snubbed

We cannot recall when a wedding in the community has been accompanied by so much publicity as that which surrounded the uniting of John Deremo and Hattie Williams. John has been a familiar figure in the city and district for a long time and Hattie Williams has been in his home for a good thirty years as housekeeper.

There have been at times charges laid against John; it seems he kept an unusual number of dogs about his premises, and the authorities considered it would be better if he cleaned the place up somewhat. The day of breaking up the old relationship came when Miss Williams was taken to the County Home at Lakefield and that of course left John Deremo rather stranded. One probably finds it difficult to master the fine art of domestic science as applied to the culinary department at the age of 78 years.

Then it was that John Deremo turned to thoughts of matrimony, something which we suppose might well have occupied his mind in years now spent and gone. But the county authorities believed it was their right and privilege to see that Miss Williams remained where she was. She is in receipt of the old age pension and whether there ever was substantial reason for causing her to remain in the Home when and if she desired to go elsewhere has always been a point around which doubt might gather. We can think at the moment of another individual who would be better in such an institution but he prefers to wander and keeps on doing so.

It has been possible to pick up papers from any part of the province in recent days and see there stories about the pending marriage of John Deremo and Hattie Williams. Pictures too. It is the best solution to their long-standing acquaintance, but they cannot claim they went off quietly and got married. At 76 and 78 they have started wedded life amid a widely distributed burst of publicity and to the accompaniment of many flash bulbs in the cameras of reporters. At least they can never lay the charge that the newspaper reporters snubbed them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One old business rule is that the one sure way to destroy credit is to give too much of it.

In Quebec they were cutting Christmas trees for shipment to United States when the temperature was 72. We believe they call that optimism.

One chap running for office in United States promised homes, income and work. It was the inclusion of that third item which is credited with having defeated him.

When the Dionne children had their tonsils removed the operation was performed on the kitchen table, which is after all about the most useful piece of furniture in any house.

An offer has been made of $250,000 to have the Dionne quints appear at the world's fair in New York next year, and we suspect the answer will be just a nicely spoken—no.

Six persons were dead and three more dying following the election in Kentucky. The shooting voters there are weakening, as they ran the score up to 18 in the election of 1933.

There are some by-elections going on in the Dominion, but after looking at the figures which show the Liberals with 179 seats in a House of 245 members we cannot see where much change is going to take place.

Burlington High School Board turned down a suggestion to give financial assistance to a student in his last year at Hamilton Technical School, fearing it might create a dangerous precedent. And it might also give a youth a hand up just at the time when he most needed it.

Prisoner in Walkerton jail wrecked his cell because he did not approve of the noon-day meal which was brought to him. Possibly he does not like the dark meat of a turkey, prefers his ice cream plain and desires plenty of cream in his coffee.

Two young folk in Saskatchewan who started out to get married at the church were caught in a snowstorm and had to make the trip on foot, which took them 15 hours. The minister waited for them, and now and then hummed a verse of "Hold the Fort For I Am Coming."

Woman in Detroit won a divorce. It was this way—in 12 years of married life the couple had been evicted from 23 houses for non-payment of rent, and the only time they were safe was when they were living with her mother. We don't like divorce; neither would we care for that kind of an existence.

SPECKLED HEN

(By A. R. K.)

A London, Ont., report says the best grade of eggs are selling at from 45 to 48 cents a dozen.

¶ I often wish, I do indeed, that my old speckled hen could read, find what the papers say; if I could make her understand, then it would be just high and grand, she might begin to lay.

¶ I feed her laying mash at noon, I think she cleans it up too soon, she never has enough; perhaps that interferes with her, for she don't jump around or stir, I'm sure she bolts her stuff.

¶ When eggs are eighteen cents I know, that's when she starts to make things go, she cackles and she lays; but when the high-priced season's come, her days of laying eggs are done, and she won't change her ways.

¶ She got her molting through on time, and started looking rather fine, her comb likewise is red; I go each night to lock her in, and see when working hours begin, before I go to bed.

¶ But when she looks to see me come, my speckled hen starts on the run, she's active on her feet; and all she ever wants to know, from coming out to when I go, is what I've got to eat.

¶ If my old speckled hen would lay, at prices eggs will bring today, I'd start and fix the farm; I'd buy another brindle cow, likewise a second fatted sow—put shingles on the barn.

About the First Unknown Soldier

THE touching story of how Britain's Unknown Warrior came to rest in Westminster Abbey is told in an article by Edwin Pye in The Legionary.

Early in 1916 Rev. David Railton, senior chaplain of the 47th Division saw in a garden a single grave marked by a white wooden cross bearing the inscription

An Unknown British Soldier
(Of The Black Watch)

"How that grave caused me to think!" stated the padre. "What can I do to ease the pain of father, mother, wife or sweetheart? Quietly there came out of this mist of thought an answer clear and strong, 'Let this body, this symbol of him be reverently carried over the sea to his native land.'"

But this was not to be. The weary war went on. The dread Somme struggle was fought. Padre Railton won the Military Cross at Bois des Foureaux when he rescued an officer and two men under heavy fire.

Through all the turmoil of battle Padre Railton cherished the idea of sending home, after the war, the body of an unknown comrade. When he returned to England after the war to become vicar of St. John the Baptist Church at Margate, he was in a quandary as to how to bring his project about.

At the suggestion of his wife he wrote to Bishop Ryle, dean of Westminster, in August, 1920, asking him if he would consider the possibility of burying in the Abbey an unknown comrade. The dean was strongly impressed by the suggestion which he communicated to the war office, the prime minister, the Cabinet and Buckingham Palace. As a result special arrangements were made to obtain the body of an unknown soldier from the host of nameless dead. The term "Unknown Warrior" was adopted instead of the suggested "Unknown Comrade."

THEN the process of selecting the body to be honored was begun. The remains of six unidentified victims were taken from the plains of Flanders, the hills of Arkois, from Picardy and the Aisne. After being placed in pine coffins the bodies were brought to a temporary hut-chapel at St. Pol.

No official record tells how the selection was made, but according to tradition an officer of high rank was blindfolded and led into the hut where rested the six unknown warriors. The officer moved about with outstretched hand until he touched a coffin. The one selected was placed in an iron-bound casket of oak and taken to Boulogne in an army ambulance. The next morning, November 10, it was placed on board the British destroyer Verdun while the French destroyer Marne stood by to give honor. The Verdun was escorted to Dover by six British destroyers.

From Dover the body was taken to London and the body remained in the funeral coach over night. On the morning of November 11, 1920, it was placed on a gun carriage drawn by six famous "Old Blacks" of the Royal Horse Artillery and borne slowly in solemn procession to Whitehall where His Majesty King George V unveiled the Cenotaph to "The Glorious Dead." Following this impressive ceremony the body of the Unknown Warrior was borne to Westminster Abbey and there committed to its final resting place, covered with soil brought from the European battlefields.

A year later the Union Jack which Padre Railton had used in many burials on the Western Front and which had served as pall on the coffin of the Unknown Warrior was deposited for safe custody in Westminster Abbey at another Armistice Day service.

ON THE HIGHWAY.

(Ottawa Journal)

A PROMINENT Ottawa lawyer left Ottawa shortly after midnight and arrived in Toronto about daybreak. He has written to the Journal his observations on Highway No. 2.

(1) Met seven cars going east with only one headlight showing.

(2) Passed three cars going west without tail lights.

(3) Met one car travelling east without any light whatever.

(4) Passed one truck parked fully on highway, facing east, without any lights or flares.

(5) Passed one car parked half on highway, facing west, without any lights.

(6) Passed one truck with trailer loaded with lumber, facing west, parked off highway but with trailer at an angle so that the lumber projected approximately two feet over the paved highway. No lights, and as a climax.

(7) Met passenger car on the new four-lane highway, immediately west of Brockville, such car travelling east on the lanes reserved for west-going traffic.

WASTE IN KANSAS.

(Lyons, Kansas, News)

THE RELIEF LOAD for Kansas next year, to be raised by taxation, will be $17,000,000. This amount would build from 750 to 850 miles of paved highway and stop expensive maintenance cost that must be repeated from year to year—money almost frittered away. And the building of that much highway would provide an immense amount of work for many laborers, to say nothing of money for Kansas industries that produce materials and companies that sell them. Under the New Deal we are getting lots of parks, lakes, stadiums, etc., sprinkled over the State, not bad to have we must admit, but millions go for what appears to be nothing at all. Permanent highways would be something tangible, a more concrete evidence of the millions bein gspent and to be spent.

BATHS AND BADMINTON

(Ottawa Journal)

An alderman out in Edmonton says that badminton will die out because too many people are injured by it. Which is first class nonsense. More people get hurt in bathtubs than on badminton courts, yet nobody suggests that we must stop taking baths.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

THE WRONG WAY

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Please allow me a small space in your paper. I am employed in the building trade. The more building the better for myself and other citizens.

I was dismayed at the actions of our city council of discouraging probably one man from building a house this year. I refer to the action of holding up the sale of a lot to Mr. Ruskin. Jew or Gentile, they must pay us in good Canadian coin. It matters not if they are fascists or communists. After all we can't all be Liberal party followers of Mr. G. N. Gordon. I can not see why Mr. Gordon should try to buck our federal government. Many of our aldermen know that December is not such an appropriate month to start a building in Canada.

There was some trouble at the start of this little building boom, in securing loans. That seems now to be rectified. For Mr. Gordon and the council to put any more stumbling blocks in the way just because a man does not happen to be a Liberal or a Conservative is not very good business for our city, and for us who make our livelihood in the building trades. The Federal Government have been a help to start the building trade again. And of course the Examiner has always tried to get business going.

ONE OF THE BUILDING TRADES.
Peterborough, Nov. 10.

CITY MEN WANT WORK

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I noticed in the paper a youth complaining about not being able to get a job, and of out-of towners being able to. I fully agree with him as I myself find the same situation going on. Every day you get the same answer "No help wanted," and of hearing from friends of mine in the various factories telling me they are working with men from outside points. Two cases I know of personally. A youth whose home is on a farm; when he gets laid off at the factory he goes back to the farm, and when the factory gets busy he is called off the farm again. The other case is of a man working in a factory who owns a farm. He comes in the city to work each day, and in the fall he has to hire a man to work the farm while he works in the city. I myself have been out of work for six months and can't get a job. Six months of my life I consider wasted. I think it is up to the city to investigate the local factories and any men they find who have not resided in the city for so long should be discharged and a city man should be taken on. I know every one has to live, but we should think of our own first.

Another thing I notice in the paper is Premier Hepburn getting extra police ready at $25 a week. Already 50 of them have been called up, in case of trouble up north. I think if he and his cabinet would spend this money and their energy into creating work for the unemployed at decent wages he would find he wouldn't need to rush police to all parts of the province.

UNEMPLOYED CITY MAN.
Peterborough, Nov. 10.

THINKS IT WRONG

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Great was my dismay of the anti-Jewish slander of a neighbor of mine that lawyer Gordon has given at the last council meeting. May I say it seems we do not have to have Hitler visit us here in Peterborough, he seems to be here now under a new guise. Is it the business of the city when a person wants to buy a lot that his personal politics have to be drawn into the transaction? I understood that our elected council men were men of good sane business standing, but it seems to me that the city will do very poor business if every person that buys a lot his neighbors will have to be considered right away whether his politics are presentable or not.

My little girl is just through reading the article her comment is "You would think we were barbarians, you wouldn't think this country was civilized."

I thank you Mr. Editor for your valuable space.

FAIR PLAY.

• Swans known To Be Killers

(From the Milwaukee Journal)

THE SWAN, BEST known for its beauty and stateliness, sometimes is a vicious bird and a killer.

Milwaukee police know what it means to stir a swan's wrath. Only last spring Oscar, the larger of two swans at the Mitchell Park Lagoon, twice attacked and drove away a policeman who armed with a stick, tried to chase it from the radiator of a car. Oscar has the powerful wings typical of its family.

Once, in Humboldt Park, a swan attacked a canoe and tipped it over, throwing a woman occupant into the water. She was rescued before any harm befell her. A swan's reputation as a killer is not so widely known.

One day recently a man was fishing in the Thames River near Reading, England, whe nhe heard a cry of terror from downstream. Leaving his fishing tackle, he ran to find four swans pulling a small boy into the middle of the river.

The man jumped in and managed to frighten off the swans and bring the boy, half drowned to shore.

The lad had been feeding the swans when two of the birds suddenly seized his trouser legs and dragged him into the water. The others meanwhile pecked at his head—and a swan's peck is a dangerous blow.

A few years ago a French workman was cycling along a narrow road, when, without warning, a swan rushed at him, throwing him from his bicycle. With two vicious pecks the savage bird put out his right eye and broke his nose.

Even worse was the tragedy in Germany, when 7-year-old Eric Baumer, the son of a manufacturer, went paddling in the River Stever. His nursemaid sat under a tree a few yards away. Suddenly three swans came swimming up.

They formed a semicircle around the child, watching him closely. The nurse sensed danger and started forward. As she did so one of the birds grabbed the child's shirt, while another came out of the water, wings outstretched, and obstructed her as she tried to reach the boy.

The nurse, seeing the boy dragged out of reach into the water, rushed for help. She brought back two men, but neither could swim, and the swans mauled the boy and held him under water until he was dead.

In England a 10-year-old girl was found drowned in a shallow pond near her home recently. There was no trace of an accidental slip. Moreover, the water was only waist deep. A solitary swan lived on the pond. It was blamed for the death. Graceful though the birds are, they are treacherous and tenacious to a degree. Many dogs owe untimely death to them.

There was an old male swan a few years ago, known as Hercules, that lived on the pond at Hampstead Heath, England. Four persons living in the neighborhood lost their dogs mysteriously, and it was not until several witnesses saw Hercules dispatch a fifth victim that the fate of the animals became apparent.

The method of Hercules was that as soon as it saw a dog it came out of the water and advanced to do battle. After stunning its victim it picked it up by the neck and carried it off to the pond to hold it under water.

Of course, most swans are not as vicious as this and would swim away from rather than toward a human being.

MIXING MIXERS

(The New Yorker)

FOUR YEARS AGO a young couple of Irvington-on-Hudson purchased from a department store an electric mixer for their kitchen. A month ago it got out of order, so they sent it back to the store for repairs. In due time there came a letter saying that the mixer had been sent to the factory, that the repair charges would be $4.39, and that it would be returned on the twelfth. It didn't appear on the twelfth, however, and the lady called up to find out what had happened. The store, considerably abashed, reported that they seemed to have mislaid the mixer, but said they'd replace it with a nice model for the $4.39 they had originally quoted. The next day a truck appeared in Irvington-on-Hudson bringing two mixers—the old, lost one and the new one which was to replace it. Being fanatically honest, the lady retained the old one and made the driver take back the other. Two days later the store sent her a letter acknowledging the return of the mixer and enclosing a check for $8.78. She kept the check because she was sure that if she sent it back they would just send her another mixer.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND YOU hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins; wherein in time past ye walk'd according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience: among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind; and were by nature the children of wrath, even as others.

But God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ, (by grace ye are saved;) and hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus....For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God.—Eph. ii, 1-6, 8.

HE PRAYED.

IN A BOOK OF POEMS written by Miss W. M. Letts, published in London, Eng., in 1916. The subject of the following poem, the Examiner was informed, is Mr. Alex. Watson, a Charlotte street business man who was wounded at Loos in 1916:

HE PRAYED

He prayed;
There where he lay,
Blood-sodden and unkempt,
As never in his young carelessness he'd dreamt
That he could pray.

He prayed;
Not that the pain should cease,
Nor yet for water in the parching
heat,
Nor for death's quick release,
Not even for the tardy feet
Of stretcher-bearers bringing aid.

He prayed;
Cast helpless on the bloody sod;
"Don't trouble now, O God, for me,
But keep the boys. Go forward with them, God!
O speed the Camerons to Victory."

The kilts flashed on: "Well played," he sighed, "well played." Just so he prayed.

TAXES AND BUSINESS.

(Chatham News)

LESS TAXES mean more money for business purposes. If businessmen realized this there might be more of their number seeking election to the public bodies who control the tax rate. Interest in public affairs leads to efficient government—and good business. People who find it impossible to seek the vote of electors in a municipal contest can show their interest and help their city by at least expressing their voice at the polls.

Marjorie Bennett Wins Durham Oratory Contest

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 11.—Marjorie Bennett, of Port Hope, won the county elimination public speaking contest, held at Orono on Wednesday evening, seventeen candidates being entered, and the large audience filling the Town Hall to capacity.

The winning pupil, about nine years of age, chose as her subject, "Pick your pet Phobia" and while quite natural in her manner, showed strong personality, and won over her listeners completely with her attractive and brilliant oratory. The prize, a handsome silver shield donated by the Durham Old Boys' Association, of Toronto, was presented by the president of that organization, Dr. W. M. Williams, who was present for the competition.

Five judges, seated in different parts of the audience, awarded the decision, their names being: Messrs. Patterson, Jobb and Wendt, of Oshawa, Farrah, of Toronto, and Miss M. Quinlan of Cobourg. The contestants, winners in their several home sections, were: Ovaline Shea, of Manvers; Gwen Brooks, Providence; Stanley Lott, Clarke; Bernice Hibbard, North Cavan; Jack Greer, South Cavan; Thelma Ferguson, Cartwright; Stanley Hall, Pontypool; Marjorie McLaren, Orono; Margaret Ash, Newcastle; Robert Sheffield, Nestleton; Marian Dickinson, Port Britain; Barbara Tickell, Port Hope; Dorothy Bedford, Bowmanville; Beryl Challice, Pine Grove, Hope; Alma Gibson, Clarke; Jean Crossman, Hayden; Marjorie Bennett, Port Hope; and George Roberts, Bowmanville.

Speaks on Inspections

The chairman for the afternoon and evening sessions was Russell Osborne, of Newcastle, president of the Durham County Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, and the representative from the Department of Health, Toronto, who spoke at the afternoon gathering, was Dr. Kitely, her address being on "Medical Inspection of Schools." As this activity is being strongly mooted in Millbrook and Cavan at present, the information given was of a most timely character.

A lively discussion followed Dr. Kitley's address, the second speaker being M. A. Campbell, of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, who emphasized the advantages of consolidated schools, and the larger area of administration for rural educational centres.

Winnifred Sabine Y.P.S. President

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Nov. 11.—The opening fall meeting of St. Andrew's Young People's Union was held in the church.

After opening prayers by Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth, the program which was in charge of Miriam Nobes and Dorothy Henry, was given.

A contest "A Christmas dinner menu" was put on after which Miss Edith Henry gave a reading "The life of the farmer is a simple one." Another contest 'Things our grandmothers missed" was won by Winnifred Sabine.

After a game the election of officers for the ensuing years was carried out with Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth in the chair. The new officers are: President, Winnifred Sabine; secretary-treasurer, Donald Prentice; pianist, Grace Bonter; executive committee, Margaret Airhart, Teresa Henry and Francis Hollingsworth.

It was decided to hold meetings on each Monday evening. The pastor outlined some of the work he wished the young people to take charge of during the year after which the meeting was brought to a close.

Returns To Canada

Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, and recently retired from the post of Canadian minister at Tokio is shown here as he left the liner Empress of Canada at Victoria, B.C., where he landed from Japan. The elderly diplomat declined to discuss aspects of his activities in the Far East, but said he was "glad to be back in bonnie British Columbia with its peace and prosperity." He left immediately for Montreal where he will visit briefly before going to Ottawa to confer with Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and other officials of the foreign affairs department.

1939 DELUXE FORD V-8 FORDOR SEDAN

THIS big new Fordor sedan illustrates the modern appearance of the 1939 deluxe Ford V-8 cars. Low radiator grille, long hood and streamlined body reflect the influence of Lincoln-Zephyr styling. Upholstery is broadcloth or mohair with mouldings and instrument panel in grained golden mahogany. The cars are equipped with hydraulic brakes, powered with the 85-horsepower engine. Bodies are all-steel with clear vision ventilation, and safety glass all around. Equipment includes twin air electric horns, dual windshield wipers, two sun visors, headlight beam control, battery condition indicator, cigar lighter, ash trays, glove compartment with lock, clock, rear seat arm rests, foot rest and many other features. Spare wheel with tire and lock is mounted vertically in the large luggage compartment in the rear deck. There are five deluxe body types with a choice of five attractive colors.

Splendid Crowds At Chicken Supper

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Nov. 11.—The annual chicken supper of the United church, Springbrook, was held on Tuesday of this week in the Orange Hall and despite the inclement weather there was a splendid attendance.

The supper was excellent as usual and afterwards all repaired to the auditorium of the hall and were entertained for two hours by the famous duo, Macuff Copeland, Scottish entertainer and Kenneth Duff, London violnist.

Their program was a splendidly balanced series of instrumental and vocal music interspersed with comic skits, jokes, readings, etc., which left no dull moments for the audience which packed the hall and heartily applauded their numbers. Both artists were vocalists, pianists and violinists and in the latter part of the program Mr. Copeland appeared in kilts, doing his bit on the bagpipes and getting rounds of applause with his Scotch jokes. Mr. Duff's violin solos included some of the best classical numbers and were extremely well executed.

Rev. A. W. Harding acted as chairman.

Successful Euchre

A very successful euchre and social evening was held by the Argonauts Tuxis Square of St. Mark's on Wednesday. Prizes were won by Mrs. Clayton Burkitt and W. J. Barlow. The selection of the door prize winner proved to be an amazing exhibition of the vagaries of Lady Luck. One of the younger boys was blindfolded. The cards with names on were well shuffled and turned blank side up. The boy drew a card. The name was W. J. Barlow. Mr. Barlow magnanimously refused to accept a second prize and again a card was drawn. The name was Mrs. Clayton Burkitt. Mrs. Burkitt also generously returned the prize, saying she did not wish two prizes. Once more the cards were shuffled and a draw made. This time the name was Roy Neal. Even the last selection was "queer" for Roy was the man who blindfolded the boy.

A bounteous lunch closed a very pleasant evening.

Another party is being held on Friday of this week under the auspices of the Men's Club.

HE LIVES TO PAY

SALFORD, England—(CP). — A young man with only two years to live, according to doctors, was put on probation for one year in court here for stealing $43.20 from a bookmaker. He was ordered to repay the money.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM G. MORTON.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Nov. 11. — Following an illness of many years' duration, the death occurred in Montreal on Wednesday, November 9th, of William George Morton. He had been confined to his bed over a long period, although not until recently was his condition critical.

Sixty years of age, he was born in Prince Edward County, a son of Mr. and Mrs. David Morton. With his family, he came to Tweed where he attended school, afterwards entering the steel busines sas structural inspector. Later, he made his home in Montreal, although he was engaged on several important pieces of engineering across the Dominion, notably the famous Quebec Bridge for five years. Following his illness, he came to Tweed to reside with his brother, Garrett D. C. Morton. Three years ago the family returned to Montreal.

The late William G. Morton was a member of Lachine Lodge, A.F. and A.M., and the I.O.O.F. Lodge at the same place. He was a member of the Anglican Church.

Surviving besides his widow are the fallowing family, Mrs. Earl Cassidy, Miss Ivy Morton, Burton and Dudley of Montreal, and Wray of Noranda, Que.

The eldest member of his family, the following family, Mrs. Earl Casremain: Mrs. F. Rossborough, Toronto, Mrs. Alexander Thompson of Fort Francis, Garrett D. C. Morton, Tweed, Herbert of Akron, Ohio, and Thomas of London, Ont.

Upon arrival of the remains at Tweed via C.P.R. on Friday afternoon, November 11, 1.30 p.m., the funeral was held from the home of his brother, with interment in St. James' Cemetery. Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne was in charge.

NORWOOD

Mrs. Bert Scott and Helen, also Vernon Fuller of Hastings returned home Wednesday night, having spent the last few days with friends in London and Toronto.

A shower of local interest was held in the Town Hall Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stuart of Elgin. There was a large crowd with music furnished by Jack Grant and his Aces. The bride received many useful and beautiful gifts.

A short 1939 Philippine rice crop is predicted.

Hold Mission Meet At Pollock Home

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Wallace Orr, assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Donald Pollock, of Dartford, entertained the members of Trinity United Mission Circle at her home on Tuesday evening.

Fourteen members were present and one new member was added to the roll. Miss Jessie Lamb presided over the meeting which opened by responsive reading of Psalm 72 followed by the singing of a hymn.

Mrs. C. M. Baker led in the reading of the first chapter of the new study book and was assisted by Miss Claudine Hoard. Mrs F. W. Newell, Mrs. T. Crate, Misses Carrie Doxsee, Helen Collins and Ruby Fleming.

The worship period was led by Miss Jessie Lamb, the theme being "Making Canada Christian" She was assisted by Miss Irene Oliver who read the scripture and by Mrs. Grant Sine who gave an interesting talk. Responsive prayer closed the period.

The business centred around a supper meeting to be held the latter part of the month when the guest speaker, Miss Hazel Atkinson of Campbellford will give a talk on her trip to Europe.

Mrs. Orr and Mrs. Pollock served dainty refreshments and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

England Doubts Conference In Near Future

LONDON, Nov. 11.—(CP Cable.)—Doubt was expressed here to-day concerning reports from Australia on the possibility of an Imperial conference early in the new year to discuss international affairs and the defence of the Empire.

It was pointed out that Canada would not likely be in a position to take part in a conference for a year, considering the King's visit and the possibility of an election in the autumn of 1939. Although the King's visit is not scheduled until May it will require months of preparation by the government.

No official comment was immediately available but in quarters usually well informed it was stated there had been no approach to the Canadian government.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Canberra said Australian officials had expressed the opinion Great Britain would probably summon a conference to meet in London early next year to discuss issues of international policy and Imperial defence. It was learned authoritatively, Reuters added, that Stanley Bruce, Australian High Commissioner in London, has cancelled his proposed trip to Australia.)

Shower Is Given For October Bride

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 11.—A miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. Bert Langridge (nee Winnie Payne) of Port Hope, whose marriage took place quietly in October, was held by the members of the congregation of St. John the Baptist church, Lakefield, and a large number of friends of the bride in the Parish Hall here on Tuesday evening.

The gifts were arranged on a table and behind a screen. When all had assembled the screen was removed and the gifts presented to Mr. and Mrs. Langridge. Miss Jean Blewett and Elizabeth Twist assisted the couple in unwrapping their presents. Then Miss Blewett read an address and presented Mrs. Langridge with a linen tablecloth on behalf of St. John's church of which Miss Payne has been for years a valued member.

Mr. and Mrs. Langridge both replied briefly thanking their friends sincerely for the lovely gifts received. The crowd joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Dainty refreshments were served by the members of the congregation.

"Girl Friend"

The deportation of Leeni Reifenstahl, German film actress, and reported to be Chancellor Hitler's "girl friend," was demanded almost as soon as she set foot on U.S. soil, by Democratic Representative Andrew Somers of Brooklyn, who claimed Fraulein Reifenstahl had come to America to disseminate Nazi propaganda.

High School Rent Is Raised To $3,000

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 11. — Action of the Public School Board in raising the rent of the Lakefield High School from $2,000 to $3,000 was the subject of considerable discussion at the recent meeting of the local High School Board which was held in the Memorial Hall here.

The matter was finally laid over with no action being taken by the High School trustees. Chairman J. W. Ridpath and Trustees E. W. Bailey, B. Q. Dench, and F. L. Erskine were present.

Correspondence was received from F. W. Warren regarding additional accommodation for the new courses.

Discussion took place regarding the following motion from the Public School Board: "Moved by Trustees Bullock and Lake that the rent of the High School for the year 1938 be raised to $3,000. Carried." The matter was laid over for further discussion.

Accounts Paid.

The report of the Finance Committee recommended payment of the following accounts: Donald McFadden, raking grass, 75c; Maclean Publishing Company, subscription, $1.50; E. H. Northey, supplies, $2.80; John Sanderson, desk, $78.45; W. J. Charlton, lime, $1.30; D. Gesteiner, balance on machine, $38.00; W. W. Leonard, supplies, $19.00; J. F. Harvey, express examinations, $1.65; F. L. Erskine, supplies, etc., $13.50; total, $157.05.

It was moved by Trustees Dench and Erskine, that the report of the Finance Committee be received and adopted. Carried.

Court Is Working Miracles For Man Who Was Deaf, Dumb After Car Theft

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—(CP)—Thomas Holmes, voiceless on his last previous appearance in court, recovered his voice long enough to plead guilty to receiving a stolen automobile yesterday.

The 25-year-old prisoner from Texas by way of Madoc, Ont., volubly denied the charge at the time of his arrest. Then he "lost" his voice before arraignment and couldn't plead orally.

Dr. Daniel Plouffe, alienist, examined him mentally on the court's orders and was told—in writing—that Holmes expected to be able to speak in two days. By the time he had been committed to trial, he had his hearing (it had been lost, too) restored.

Then yesterday his voice came back.

Judge Amedee Monet deferred sentence to November 16.

Havelock Old Boy Wins High Honor

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Nov. 11. — George Craighead, of Los Angeles, California, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Craighead of town, was recently elected 2nd vice-president of the Mineralogist Society of that city at its annual election of officers.

Mr. Craighead, who spent six weeks this summer at his home here, gave a talk on his field work in minerals in this section, and was applauded vigorously, having to answer a host of questions on his Canadian experiences afterwards.

In addition to the vice-presidency, he was elected chairman of the membership committee.

HALIFAX—(CP). — One of the largest fish cargoes in recent years was landed here by the schooner Margaret B. Tanner. She had 225,000 pounds aboard, bettering her record of 210,000 made earlier in the year.

ELIGIBILITY OF SARNIA'S STELLAR SNAPBACK IS QUESTIONED

Snapback Star Of Sarnia Status Probed

TORONTO, Nov. 11. — Status of a Sarnia player, Henry Living, snap back star of the Imperials, became a matter of importance in football circles last night on the basis of sworn information that the 205-pound centre man did not conform to residence rules of the O.R.F.U. or the C.R.U.

It is alleged in a statement at hand that Living did not enter Sarnia to play football until April 12, 1938, and could not meet the requirements of a residence rule which states that an imported player, and it is further alleged Living is an import, must be a continuous resident of Canada for one year prior to September 1 of the playing year.

O.R.F.U. to Get Information.

No protest has been made of the player by any of the three clubs in the league, but information will be tendered the O.R.F.U. to-day, and the league will likely investigate. President John DeGruchy said last night that "no protest has been entered," but he had heard rumors that one might come before the league.

He said that if the player was found to be ineligible it would likely result in all games Living played in being thrown out or the team itself thrown out. Living, who played with St. Michael's College here in 1934, and who was second only to Bummer Stirling in the point of effectiveness for Sarnia in the game against Balmy Beach last Saturday, was said to have been born in Holly, Michigan, twenty-five years ago. In 1935 and 1936 he played with Michigan State College teams.

Claim Living Canadian.

Jackie Baker, manager of Sarnia team, has denied that Living was an import or an American. Baker claimed Living was a Canadian born in Hafford, Saskatchewan. "The player was at our spring practices in 1937 and underwent an operation for removal of his appendix. He conforms to the residence rule, and there is absolutely no truth to any report that he is not a Canadian," the Sarnian said.

Baker said it was true that Living had returned to Sarnia on April 12 of this year.

The player himself, according to the sworn statement, is reported to have said he was born in Holly, Michigan. If anything should come of the O.R.F.U.'s investigation it might create a different picture in so far as playoff teams are concerned. If Imperials' games were thrown out it would mean that Montreal would meet Balmy Beach for the league championship.

Sarnia wind up the schedule this afternoon at home against Peterborough Orfuns, while Beaches are hosts to Nationals at Maple Leaf Stadium to-morrow.

GONE FOR LONG TIME

PLYMOUTH, England — (CP). — It will be some years before England will be a serious challenger for the Davis Cup, said G. P. Hughes, captain of the English tennis team, on its return from the United States.

Trophy Winner

Winner of this year's Jeff Russell Memorial trophy, awarded annually to the player in the east's Interprovincial Rugby Union judged the most sportsmanlike and most valuable to his team, is Wes Cutler. Above, hard-hitting, sure-tackling outside wing with Toronto's dominion champion Argonauts. West is playing his fifth season with the Scullers and succeeds his teammate, Teddy Morris, as holder of the trophy.

Living Ordered Not To Play Peterboro Game

TORONTO, November 11—(CP)—President John DeGruchy of the Ontario Rugby Football Union said to-da ythe question of Henry Living's eligibility to play with Sarnia Imperials will be settled as soon as possible. In the meantime Living has been ordered not to take part in Imperials' game this afternoon against Peterborough Orfuns.

The question of the burly snapbacks eligibility has been raised in information presented to the O.R.-F.U. executive, claiming that Living did not conform to the residence rules of the union, DeGruchy said.

The information given the executive said that Living was born in Holly, Mich., and that he did not enter Canada until April 12, 1938. Residence rules specify an "import must be a continuous resident of Canada for one year prior to September 1 of the playing year.

"Proof was submitted last night and I notified Sarnia and asked that they give a defence," DeGruchy said. "Living will not play in the meantime. We will give Sarnia every opportunity of making an explanation and no action will be taken until their side of the picture has been presented."

The union president emphasized that the other clubs in the union—Peterborough Orfuns, Montreal Nationals and Toronto Balmy Beach—had not made any protest. But he would not reveal the source of the information place before the union officers.

"This might have the effect of putting Sarnia out altogether," DeGruchy added. "If Living is ineligle it will alter the whole picture materially."

Beaches, in third pace behind Imperials, would benefit most from punitive measures against Imperials if Living's eligibility is not proved. It is likely the executive would throw out Sarnia's victories, and this would place Beaches in the playoffs with Nationals.
